Sawdust Burner, Free Fuel Now Available

A brand new industry, and one calculated to reduce many Peterborough householders' fuel bills to one-half of the amount they have been, has just been introduced to this city It is the Royal Sawdust Burner company, with headquarters at 266 George street, and its manager is John D. Moore.

That a perfected sawdust burner is now available in this city will be good news to all who have visualized the big savings that this type of fuel offers. The first two installations were made a number of weeks ago and have already proved that the saving is at least—and at the very least—30 per cent greater than is possible by use of any other type of fuel on the market.

The Royal Sawdust Burner is amazingly efficient and simple to operate. Practically the only thing a householder has to do is to fill its hopper every eight or ten hours There are practically no ashes—one week's burning will amount to about a quart pail full of light greyish powder. There is no necessity of shaking the grates; there is no dust

The economy and trouble-free heating of a sawdust burner has long been known in British Columbia, where it was developed to utilize a sawmill by-produce that was considered waste. With the burners, whose numbers have increased by leaps and bounds, sawdust is now a useful product.

Cost of installing a sawdust burner is surprisingly low. Whether a person's home is heated by hot air or hot water, he may operate one satisfactorily.

Free Fuel Offered.

To the first ten householders in Peterborough who install a Royal Sawdust Burner, local lumber dealers have guaranteed a free supply of sawdust fuel for the balance of the winter. The only charge will be for delivery from mill to home. Such an offer will practically pay for the entire cost of installation of the burner, it is claimed.

One thing that need not worry users of the burner is a supply of fuel. Lumbermen of this district have given assurance that there is at least 25 years' supply available at the present time. With the sawdust that is being created each and every day, and with the natural growth of timber in this area, an over-supply of sawdust is assured for generations to come.

The simplicity of the burner is amazing. The hopper is filled every eight or ten hours and the rate of burning is controlled by the draft door on the furnace, and the damper in the smoke pipe, which makes the control of heating almost automatic. Full automatic control can be installed on the unit with thermosatic governing of the house temperature at a slightly additional cost.

Here is the way the burner operates: The sawdust rests on the grates after sliding steadily down through the hopper, and a carbonization of the fuel takes place with the heat generated there. This creates a vapor which ignites and is carried along into the interior of the furnace, mixing on its journey with air drawn in through ports on either side of the burner, forming a complete combustion which is readily discernable by the clear purplish flames and absence of smoke, soot, or creosote.

Government tests have proved there is no possibility of fire starting from spontaneous combustion in the sawdust. An addition advantage in many people's minds is the absolute absence of gas being formed.

Quebec Plans

persons including unemployed and their families, debt-burdened farmers and their sons, have been settled in groups of 20 to 50. Described by colonization officials as "communities."

Churches and schools were built immediately a new community was formed and payment of land-clearing and ploughing premiums kept development moving briskly.

As soon as a new colonization village was established, the government built roads to the nearest population centre and marketing was possible as soon as the soil produced.

Under the plan, because of community advantages, the rigors are not as great as they once were, but colonists still must dig right in and get their work done. If they are new to farming and land-clearing, specially-organized schools teach them how it's done.

Half the newly-established colonization villages are in the big northern counties of Temiskaming and Abitibi and the remainder are scattered about 13 others.

Abandoned farm properties in the old parishes also are opened to settlement, particularly for middle-aged colonists who might not be able to face the task of home-building in wild territory.

So far the scheme has been successful, and in time the government hopes that the 20,000 persons already settled and thousands of others will be members of prosperous communities as important to Quebec's stability as the old centres dating back to the province's earliest history.

Players In Lower Classes Can Step Up Providing Teams Have Same Officers

MONTREAL, Dec. 31.—(CP). — Players in lower classes can step up to teams of a higher class during the playing season providing both teams have the same officers, although not necessarily the same name, eastern executive of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association decided Friday.

The move can be made only if information concerning the link between the clubs has been filed with the registrar-treasurer of the C.A.H.A. before Feb. 1, however.

The decision came after Hanson Dowell of Middleton, N.S., brought up the case of Saint John Beavers, a senior team, and Sain John Pontiacs, a junior organization with the same officers. He asked if, supposing the junior team was eliminated in playdowns before the senior, could members of the junior squad continue with the senior outfit.

Ruling of the executive would give Beavers the right to draw on the junior affiliated club, providing notice of the affiliation was made before Feb. 1.

SCOTT'S BAY, N.S., Dec. 31—(CP).—Winter frost means more than just cold weather in this Bay of Fundy village. It may bring pocket money to amethyst hunters next spring.

When the thaw sets in they will pick the purple-hued stones from the shore of amethyst quartz outcrop at the face of the cliffs around the cove.

Cyrus Steele of Scott's Bay described amethyst hunting as a "catch-as-catch-can business," but he said sales of amethysts to tourists have increased ten-fold in the last six or seven years. Some of them find their way into brooches, lockets and rings, but tourists who drive along the North Mountain like to buy the unfinished rocks in which the amethysts nestle.

The only billboards the summer tourists see as they drive through the hill country say "Amethysts For Sale." W. R. Palmeter, a jeweller in nearby Kentville, said the stones meant a $100,000 a year business in Nova Scotia.

Amethysts are found sandwiched between layers of rock. Splitting the rock exposes the purple crystal. Seams run through the trap-rock formations of the mountain. Sometimes a plough turns them up. Often a farmer boring a well strikes an amethyst bed.

These beds are another source of the stones. The amethyst hunters strip off the covering clay and dynamite the rock. Hill people tell stories of fabulous bed of the purple gems in some secret place in the hills.

Amethysts which are turned into jewelery have to be sent to Europe to be cut. There are few jewel cutters on this side of the Atlantic.

Like most gems, amethyst is surrounded by superstition. It gets its name from a Greek word, meaning it will protect its wearer from strong drink. The belief was held that wine drunk from a cup of amethyst would not intoxicate.

They are found in many other parts of the world. One of the chief sources is Uruguay.

Detroit River Traffic Down 40 Per Cent. But Busiest In World

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 31 (CP)

FREIGHT TRAFFIC on the Detroit River this year was 40 per cent lower than last year but the muddy, 28-mile long river linking Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair retained its position as the world's busiest waterway.

Marine reporters here estimated traffic for 1938 at 80,000,000 tons, far below the banner year of 1929 when 110,719,845 tons were transported along the international river, but exceeding substantially the combined tonnage on the Suez Canal, the Panama Canal and the Kiel Canal during normal years.

Wm. G. Bennett Buried In West

WOLSELEY, Sask., Dec. 31.—The funeral of the late William George Bennett, held recently, was largely attended, the United Church auditorium and vestibule being crowded, and many were unable to gain admission. Many came from neighboring towns and districts, among whom were former fellow members of the Saskatchewan Legislature, viz., Hon. M. A. McPherson, Hon. Dr. Munroe, James Grassick of Regina, and J. P. Gordon of Alameda, also Messrs. H. J. Hardy and Rutley of Regina, Dr. Scott of Indian Head, Dr. Argue and Messrs. A. Gowler and H. F. Brooks of Grenfell.

The pallbearers were: T. W. Tiller, W. E. Dunn, E. E. Perley, M.P.; C. K. Thompson, S. Lowe, F. C. Barber, W. L. Burnham and R. S. Fleming.

Rev. L. H. Sanders, pastor of St. James' United Church, spoke very fittingly of the life of Mr. Bennett. He had truly lived; lived so that he could look every man in the eye. His life had been one of love, service, helpfulness and kindness.

Interment took place at the Wolseley Cemetery.

The late Mr. Bennett was born in Otonabee Township, Peterborough County, Ontario, on June 23, 1874, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Bennett.

He came west in 1893 and after residing at Indian Head for nine years, purchased land and took up residence north of Summerberry. He was a very successful farmer, and had one of the best kept and managed farms in the district.

In 1899 he married Annie Maud Smith, who with two sons, J. Earl of Regina and G. Edward of Calgary, survive. One brother, John E. of Summerberry, and two sisters, Mrs. John Mathers of Keene, Ont., and Mrs. Wm. Davidson of Havelock, Ont., also survive.

Mr. Bennett took an active interest in all community affairs. For several years he served on Weldon School Board, was councillor for eight years and reeve for four years of the rural municipality of Wolseley, and four years on the Wolseley Town Council.

He represented Wolseley constituency in the Saskatchewan Legislature, as a Conservative, from 1921-25 and 1929-33.

He was a member and official of the United Church.

Mr. Bennett was one of the most widely known and highly respetced citizens of this district. Wherever he resided his neighbors were his personal friends, and in his own quiet way he acted the true neighbor, often helping in a material way and offering advice, and living up to his conceptions of a Christian.

The sympathy of all will go out to his highly esteemed wife and his two sons.

Prizes Awarded Primary Pupils

The anual Christmas party of the primary department of St. John's Sunday School was held Friday afternoon in the parish house and was a very enjoyable affair, with over 100 children and 24 mothers in attendance. Games and a concert were enjoyed in the main Sunday School, during which part of the program Shirley Garner, a little guest, entertained the children with singing and dancing numbers.

Prizes for good conduct and regular attendance were presented by Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson, the winners being as follows:

Mrs. D. Bickell's class—1, Barbara Luther; 2, Robert Groombridge.

Mrs. Kelsey's class — 1, Jean White; 2, Dorothy Donnelly.

Jean Melton's class — 1, Teddy Chapman; 2, Jimmy Johnson.

Supper was served in the primary Sunday School room, the tables being appropriately decorated with Christmas trees. Afterwards Santa Claus and his reindeer made their appearance and each child was presented with a gift book.

The party was under the direction of Mrs. F. D. Craig, superintendent of the primary department, assisted by Mrs. George Groombridge, the primary teachers and a group of members of the Teen-age branch of St. John's W.A.

Skating Season Opens

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Dec. 31—With a fine sheet of ice at the rink, the skating season was officially opened here Friday night. Many young people of the village donned skates for the first time this year and partook of the healthful exercise.

Miss Olive Kelleher has been appointed to the staff of St. Joseph's hospital in Parry Sound. She recently graduated with high standing and her appointment comes as an honor.

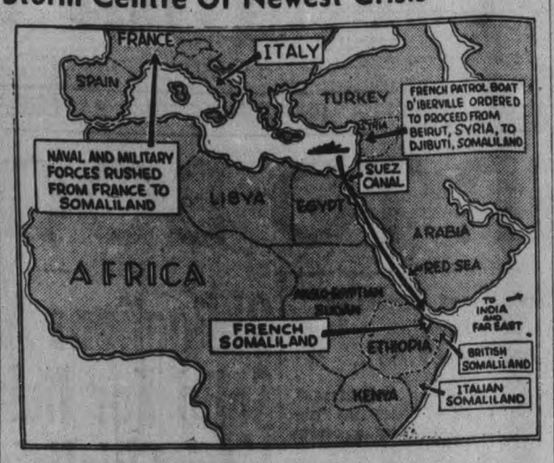
Won't Have To Shave

EDMONTON, Dec. 31 — (CP). — Jack Jones will not have to shave when Miss Sara Tomlinson of Rhosnessey, Wales, arrives at Viking, Alta., to be married to him.

Miss Tomlinson, who has not seen Jones since he left Flintshire in 1927 sails from Wales to-day en route to Viking, 100 miles east of Edmonton. While preparing to leave she said: "I hope he has not grown a beard."

Jones, about 30, could not be reached by telephone at his father's farm eight miles north of Viking but his sister, Mrs. Madge Draper of that town, said he had not grown a beard.

Storm Centre Of Newest Crisis



This map explains the latest moves on the African chess board in the game for which colonies are the prize and in which the players are France and Italy, with Great Britain and Germany playing roles as anxious kibitzers. Among Italy's demands on France are a share in the control of the Suez Canal and surrender of Djibouti, strategic port of French Somaliland on the Gulf of Aden. Djibouti also is the terminus of the French-owned railroad to Addis-Ababa, capital of Italy's newest colonial acquisition — Ethiopia. France is unwilling to accede to these demands. Reports that Italian troops were concentrating on the borders of French Somaliland brought prompt action by France. Naval and military reinforcements were rushed to Djibouti.

S.S. 5 Manvers Re-elects Neals

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LIFFORD LINE, Dec. 31.—The annual meeting of the ratepayers of S.S. No. 5 in the township of Manvers was held in the school house on Wednesday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock with Percy Preston acting as chairman and Charles E. Staples as secretary for the meeting.

The financial statement was read and adopted. The auditors, Cecil Tims and Willis Whiteside audited the books and found them to be correct. By motion of Leslie Lang and George Page the auditors' report was adopted.

Special meetings regarding the drilling of a well on the school property were also reported.

The retiring trustee on the school board was the chairman, Walter Neals. It was moved by George Page and seconded by Willis Whiteside that he be re-appointed for another term of service.

It was moved by Walter Neals and seconded by Cecil Tims that Wilfred Mulligan be re-appointed caretaker for another year at a salary of $80.

An unsual feature was the fact that only two bids were made to supply the winter's wood for next year. The contract of supplying 8 cords at $8.75 per cord fell to Charles E. Staples.

It was agreed to place some new equipment in the school including a flue sweeper, brooms.

By motion of George Page and Willis Whiteside the meeting adjourned.

The School Board stands: Chairman, Walter Neals, 3 year term; Leslie Lang, 2 year term; Chas. E. Staples, 1 year term.

To Vote On Bylaw

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 31.—A keen interest is being taken in Monday's election despite the fact that all town officials were returned to office by acclamation. "We want to be sure that this bylaw is passed," declared Mayor Long referring to the fixed assessment bylaw which two-thirds of citizens voting must vote in favor of bylaw. On Friday evening councillors met with members of the Water and Light Commission to formally organize a campaign to get voters to the polls on Monday.

Return F. Savigny As School Trustee

(Examiner Correspondence.)

STEWART HALL, Dec. 31—The annual school meeting was held Wednesday, H. Dawson was chairman for the meeting and J. Sheehan was treasurer. F. Savigny was returned for another 3-year term as trustee.

On Sunday evening the Stewart Hall Y.P.S. held a service at the hall. Rev. Mr. Lavish of Peterborough was the guest speaker. The worship service was lead by the president, Miss Margaret Chamberls. Special music by the choir was enjoyed.

The young people of the community held a dance at Wallace Point on Tuesday evening. A fair crowd was present despit ethe condition of the roads and the bad weather.

Blotto Taxi Plan, To Get Car Home Even Tuck Drunk In Bed

In scores of cities, hotelmen, police, taxi-drivers and traffic men have come up with a half-dozen solutions to insure that the dawn voyage home tomorow is as safe as a ride in a rocking chair.

Cleveland taxi companies, anticipating many calls for what they call "blotto service," will send two drivers. One will take the party home, the other his car. With a few local variations similar arrangements will guard the unstable in Boston, and Buffalo, along with many other places.

Buffalo cabbies will go so far as to tuck the roisterous passenger in his bed, if need be.

Detroit and Toledo motor buses will stop directly in front of the domiciles of the highly charged. In the Michigan metropolis police have posted 30,000 placards reading "Santa suggests safety," to discourage drunken driving.

The San Francisco plan is a little more rigorous. There all 1,278 policemen will be on duty tonight supplying one way transport to jail for alcoholics and side walk sleepers.

In Virginia, and other states, the Women's Christian Temperance Union has advised its members to toast the advent of 1939 in a brimming flagon of milk, water or grape juice.

Skiers Flocking To Manvers' Hills

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LIFFORD LINE, Dec. 31—Manvers has long been famed for its picturesque scenery in summer and winter. Among the most notable landscape features are its many hills and dales.

One of the longest, steepest and bumpiest hills situated on the eastern extremity of Lifford Line on the property of Mr. Harry O'Brien, well-known pure-bred Jersey cattle fancier, has been discovered by a large number of city dwellers to be an ideal skiing grounds and every day that snow is favorable happy groups of skiers from Toronto, Peterborough and other centres motor to this particular spot often arriving in the early forenoon with noon lunch and remaining till 4 p.m.

WEEKLY GRAIN REVIEW.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 31— (C.P.). — Bullish news dominated price trend on the Winnipeg grain market during the last week with seasonal highs for Liverpool "new" contract futures and best Chicago levels in three months figuring prominently in the slight upturn.

Quotations were unchanged to ¾ cent higher when the market closed on Friday, December at 60¾c, May 62¾c, and July 63⅛c.

A prolonged cold wave covering the entire United States winter wheat belt, continued drought in India, and European political news combined to boost wheat values. Absence of Southern Hemisphere selling pressure and renewed interest from India for foreign wheats were also contributing factors.

In the United States winter wheat belt more than 20 degrees of frost were recorded in some sections. Soil was without snow covering and crop experts feared winter wheat would be damaged by the severe cold and lack of protection.

Although pit-trading in coarse grains at Winnipeg put in a comparatively inactive week, all grades advanced in price except barley, which closed on Friday ⅝-¾ cent lower. Flax recorded the greatest rise; at the end of five sessions was 10 cents to 4¾ cents higher. Oats finished 11⅛-11¾ cents higher, and rye 1⅛ cents up.

Trading in cash wheat was practically void.

Bride-Elect Is Much Entertained

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FAIRVIEW, Jan. 3.—Miss Anne Franks, a popular bride-elect, has been much entertained prior to her approaching marriage. Delightful afternoon teas were given in her honor by Mrs. Harold Lewis, assisted by Miss Ferne Armstrong, at the home of Mrs. Lewis. Mrs. Clarance Mann also entertained about twenty friends at tea on Friday afternoon in Miss Franks' honor. Guests present were Mesdames A. Armstrong, A. Franks, W. Bell, (Rev.) R. T. F. Brain, Stewart Hall, Reg. McMullen, Geo. Benton, Harold Lewis and Misses Anne Franks, Flossie Brown, Ferne Armstrong, Eleanor Rosborough, Greta Reynolds, Olive Bell and Opal Rosborough. Another tea was given by Miss Greta Reynolds at her home in honour of Miss Franks.

Personals

MOUNT JULIAN

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Blackburn of Long Island, N.Y., are spending the Christmas-New Year holidays at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. William Thompson.

Miss Tillie Church of Hamilton is spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lean of Toronto were Christmas visitors at Mrs. George Lean's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thompson and family of Peterborough were Christmas visitors at Mount Julian.

Mrs. E. C. Moore was presented with a gift from the congregation of Holy Trinity Anglican Church at the Christmas service, in appreciation of her work as organist.

MARMORA

The annual New Year's ball under the auspices of Deloro Social and Dramatic Society was held in Deloro Hall on Friday evening with a fine attendance. The hall was artistically decorated for the occasion Jack Grant and his Aces furnishing the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dorie and daughter Nita spent a few days in Hamilton this week.

HIGHLIGHTS IN PICTURE NEWS OF 1938 IN PETERBOROUGH AREA

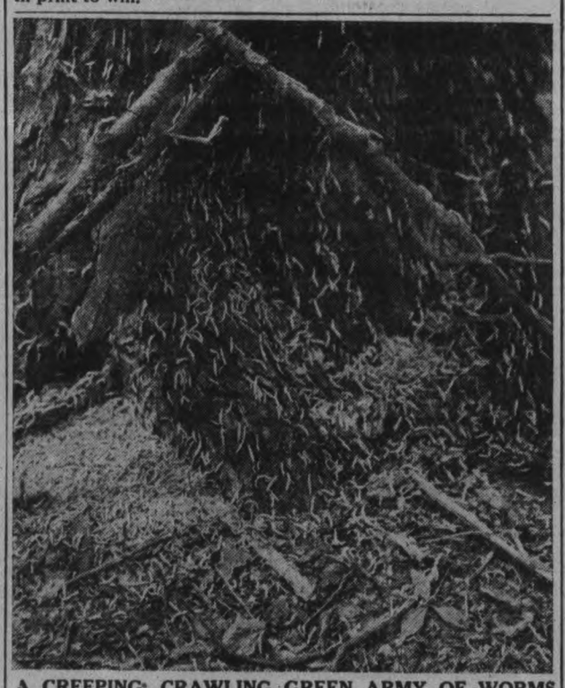
QUEEN OF THE SNOWS at the Ski Championship meet early in the year was Miss Patricia McCarrell. Another and bigger meet is planned for this winter and ski club members have worked long hours getting the courses in proper condition.

75-YEAR-OLD INDIAN WOMAN, Mrs. Mary Ann Black of Alderville, still teaches piano, has instructed more than a thousand pupils in her 56 years of teaching. She was taught by her father, probably the only member of his race to become a professor of music.

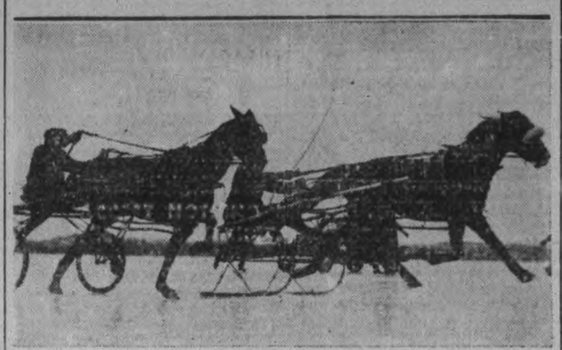
WALLS OF CANNING FACTORY at Port Hope burst open at the height of the canning season, burying one man and sending thousands of cans of preserves flying into the roadway. The worker's body was recovered next day.

MOST PUBLICISED WEDDING IN ALL THE COUNTRY this year was that of John "Doc" Deremo and Hatty Williams, both over 70 years of age, who defied a county council that had parental notions. It was early in November that Hattie eloped from the House of Refuge and married her John.

COACH OF THE PETERBOROUGH ORFUNS, Bill Irwin proved his ability in every game. The first time the Orfuns had played in Senior O.R.F.U. company in three decades, they amazed the entire Dominion when they defeated the Sarnia Imperials. Sports writers spluttered for weeks in explanation—all except the Examiner's Cec Perdue, who had called the Orfuns in print to win.



A CREEPING, CRAWLING GREEN ARMY OF WORMS advanced on a destructive path over 100 acres in Cavan in July. They massed thousands upon thousands on every tree in the area and stripped them bare of all foliage.



HORSE RACES ON ICE AT BEWDLEY proved an exciting affair in the middle of last winter. The course was laid on frozen Rice Lake and the races were run off on a bitterly cold day.

MOST DISTINGUISHED VISITOR to Peterborough district this year was Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada. He is shown with Principal Kenneth Mackenzie of Grove school atop the Bessie Butler as he made a tour of the Kawartha lakes.

LOST IN BUSH 5 DAYS, Elwood Anderson of Chandos township is returned to his weeping mother by an Examiner reporter. Rescue crews searched in vain for him while he fought his way out of dense bush after five days of foodless wandering.

Regulating City Traffic

Apparently we have had a number of bylaws dealing with traffic in Peterborough, and the move now to consolidate them all into one set of regulations, have this approved by the Department of Highways and then place the whole thing in the hands of the city police department for enforcement.

A fairly comprehensive resume of the clauses has been published in this paper, together with the remark that there are a number of other clauses with which motorists are supposed to familiarize themselves. That is fine but only partially so, as there should be some means available by which the motoring public could be made intelligently aware of all the regulations which they are expected to observe.

When the police department accepts responsibility for traffic on city streets and highways then we look for enforcement, and for better enforcement than we have been experiencing.

By that we mean it will become the duty of the police to make it plain that a stop sign means "Stop." At present it does not, and it is possible to see evidence of that every day in the week.

There is another bad habit at traffic light intersections, and that is where so many drivers take their cars too far before coming to a stop. They are often enough in the path which is taken by the pedestrian.

There should also be a stop put to the frequent and bad habit of making "U" turns at street intersections in the down-town section.

Whether anything could be put in a bylaw to force drivers to give a signal when starting out from the curb we are not certain, but if possible it should be done. It is one of the worst habits and hazards with which traffic has to contend.

The provision which keeps cars from parking close to a street intersection is wise enough as the clear space increases the amount of visibility.

Now that the council has decided on regulations which will actually decrease the available parking space in the business section, it should be recognized that only half the work has been done. The whole trend has been to tell people where not to park, and this indicates that the next reasonable step must be to tell them where they can park. If there are available spaces which can be secured for the purpose they should be made known because one help to having people come in here from outside points is to make it easy for them to park their car in safety.

Something Fine In This

Sir James Wood, a man of 84 himself who goes to business every day in Toronto, is concerned about men between forty and fifty years of age who find themselves out of work—and in need of it. That is why he has brought into existence a "Forty-to-Fifty" Club in Toronto, and every morning with the exception of Sunday it is in session at the rooms of the Central Y.M.C.A. There ten unemployed men gather and they seek employment, but first they give an accurate idea of the kind of work to which they have been accustomed and explain just what they are able to do. After that there is a careful examination of all positions offered through advertising columns and elsewhere.

The unusual part of the plan is that these ten agree on the man who is best suited for the position vacant but that man does not go personally to make application. It is the belief of the Club that another person applying on his behalf can present a better case; there would be little chance of "stage fright" if an individual went to seek employment on behalf of another man, and also it appears to be less selfish.

When a member finds employment then his membership in the "Forty-to-Fifty" Club ceases right there, and there is room for another to enter, so the membership cannot at any time exceed ten. The plan, we believe, was tried first in Boston, where it operated with considerable success. And still does. It does much to take away the feeling of being alone when a man is seeking for employment; it helps him retain a spirit of hopefulness and at the same time gives him the feeling that he has accomplished something when he finds a place of employment for some person else.

Sir James Wood at 84 years is apparently not content to sit back and watch the rest of the world go by. In his own way he gives notice that the problems of other men are very much his concern, and we dare say every time he sees a man drop out of the "Forty-to-Fifty" Club he recives a dividend in terms of satisfaction which any normal man would place among his most prized possessions.

In The Days Of Pioneers

A gentleman who returned a few days ago from a trip which took him as far west at Birtle, Man., took occasion to make a few calls in the country. Referring to some of his experiences he said he saw horses living outside around wheat straw stacks and subsisting on that alone. "I had heard of that before but had hardly believed it could be done. How long a non-working horse could be kept going that way I did not find out."

He had occasion to visit with a farmer whom he refers to as "a real Western pioneer." He went from Ontario in 1880 and took with him a year's supplies. He went as far as the railway would take him and then with a team of oxen proceeded 150 miles farther. There were no roads and although he had to cross several creeks he found but one bridge in the entire trip. He knew in a general way the direction he should take and was going to search for his brother who had gone in that way three months earlier. He wanted to locate near him and the brother's description of the way to come was all he had by way of guidance, but he eventually found him."

The comment of the Ontario visitor was "I wonder if our men have it in them to do similar things today? It must have taken a great amount of faith and vision for a man to start off to locate 150 miles from the nearest railway connection, and knowing as he would that he would probably not come out for a year at least. Never before did I realize what it meant to go homesteading in the Canadian West in 1880. But that pioneer and his brother, old men today, grew to like it and never at any time had any inclination to return to Ontario."

The Newspaper Slate

Toronto papers are indulging in that fine old custom picking out slates for municipal elections. And a good deal of it is based on political preference. They select the Mayor, Board of Control, Board of Education and City Council. There are nine wards in the city and the papers name two for each ward. It is easy to understand why a newspaper should put itself actively into a civic fight where there is some outstanding issue to be settled or where a matter of principle or policy is involved, but otherwise it is not a fair way to do business.

It is very likely that just as good men have been nominated as are on the various newspaper slates. If a man trying for a place in Council or Board of Education failed to attract the attention of a newspaper he is denied an equal chance with those who are favored by being put on the slate.

After all common sense and the power to make a proper selection is something which is rather widely diffused in any community, and if a newspaper presents the facts in connection with the election and does that fairly and without prejudice then the people can be trusted to select their own slates, and it is well that it should be left at that. The newspaper slate idea as followed in Toronto is a sure way to keep new men from coming into public service.

A Good Time To Stop It

When Premier Hepburn returned to his office in Queen's Park after the holiday season he pitched right into the work of writing letters to Hon. Norman Rogers and Hon. C. D. Howe at Ottawa. He demanded to know what reason or proof they had for making the charge that Mr. Hepburn had conspired with Premier Duplessis of Quebec to oust Prime Minister King from Ottawa. Whether Mr. Hepburn desired to have it known that he would attend to that business alone and resented the idea that he needed the assistance of the man from Quebec is something which we do not know.

After getting those letters away Mr. Hepburn held a cabinet meeting and prepared to start for Australia. He will be away for two months, so Mr. Rogers and Mr. Howe will have plenty of time at their disposal for answering the letters unless Mr. Hepburn enclosed a forwarding address in Australia. But there can be little fun or excitement or satisfaction in keeping up a letter controversy between Canada and Australia. One cannot very well write a letter one day and see it published in the papers on the next.

That being the case it might be an opportune occasion to let the matter drop. Even with an emphatic thud. People in general have grown rather weary of the squabble and they have good enough reason to believe there are greater and more serious matters to which our men in high places could well turn their energies and complete attention.

Mr. Croll Was Right

David A. Croll, M.L.A., and mayor of Windsor, was announced as the speaker at a gathering in Oshawa in connection with the municipal election. The gathering was in the interests of candidates sponsored by the United Automobile Workers of America. Mr. Croll did not attend the meeting, and sent word that if he attended such a gathering it would appear as though outsiders were being brought into Oshawa to tell the people how to vote.

That was a sensible decision for Mr. Croll to make. He was right as can be in deciding not to inject himself or allow himself to be injected into a municipal campaign in Oshawa. Nor can we see the wisdom of members of any union seeking to control a municipal organization such as the city council of Oshawa.

A council is supposed to be representative of all classes in the community, and any respectable man who runs is entitled to at least a fair chance of election based on his ability to serve the public and not on his membership in this, that, or any other organization.

Hockey Costs Money

There have been several transfers made in professional hockey players now that the season is fairly well advanced. A team finding itself weak and losing games is apt to bid high for a strong man because it is known the public will soon quit attending games where the home team is going to lose. Some of the transfers have gone as high as $15,000.

Professional hockey has provided a speeded-up game and a remarkable exhibition and a thriller to watch, but is is making it increasingly difficult to finance.

Professional hockey has cost a number of smaller centres in Ontario a lot of bitter experience and a good deal of money. Patrons of the game liked the high-class article, but they could not support it, and then when the brand of hockey had to be dropped back to something not so good there was complaint and much of it. We can produce hockey players in this country, but we have few cities which can finance teams on present-day costs to compete with the larger centres of population in United States.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Toronto candidate advocates lower taxation and a higher relief standard. It sounds like a good trick even if it can't be done.

Hunter who received $15 bounty for a wolf pelt in North Bay said it was worth more than that to go out and get the thing. And we have not the least doubt the hunter spoke the truth.

Perhaps it is just as well the boys did not know about father going down to the store and suggesting that the Christmas necktie might be exchanged for something a little more modest.

RESOLUTIONS

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Now I can write it plain and clear,
I won't be working more this year,
I put it in this line; for now it won't be very long, before the year we know has gone, we'll start on '39.

¶ Some resolutions I should make, and one by one perhaps they'd break, it's been that way before; for days just coming on ahead, will be like those now gone and dead, it's been that way before.

¶ If I myself would analyze, I fear I would not criticize, defects I might not see; I fear that I would shield my fault, and in my resolutions halt, that's how the thing might be.

¶ If some kind friend who lives near me, would write a list of things for me, and bravely pen his words; I'd prize the thing he did I know, no matter how severe he'd grow, in adjectives and verbs.

¶ For he would see in me each day, some thoughts or actions drab and grey, things on my secret shelf; the things not hidden from his sight, which strike him not exactly right, that I don't see myself.

¶ I've tried resolving oft before, and tried to carry out the chore, then made a goodly start; but better if some friend would come, and write down failings one by one—and take me all apart.

THE OLD SPIRIT

WHEN a La Riviere farmer and his wife were robbed of 50 chickens and 21 turkeys recently, their entire flock, neighbors canvassed the town and surrounding farms and collected 111 hens, six turkeys, a bag of flour and $35 in cash for them.

The incident recalls the recent neighborliness of Greater Winnipeg fur ranchers, who restocked the Baldwin fur farm after the results of 10 years' work had been destroyed by an ignorant thief.

In a time of complex and sometimes baffling problems, the two incidents are cheering proof that the old straightforward spirit of mutual help for which Manitoba and the West were famous in the frontier days still lives on.—Winnipeg Tribune.

• Approves Peterborough Plan

WELLINGTON JEFFERS, writing in the Globe and Mail, of which he is Financial Editor, commends the plan followed in Peterborough by which the Mayor and Council present through the columns of their newspaper a survey of the finances of the municipality. Mr. Jeffers writes:

The Mayor, Council and city officials of Peterborough are to be congratulated on the civic common sense which has led them to advertise in the local daily, The Peterborough Examiner, the financial statement for 1938 in a way which is both interesting, educative, and easy for the ratepayers to understand.

It is not a mere table couched in language which is understandable to accountants. It is an attempt to give such a statement as an accountant would want but further amplified and interpreted item by item in terms which any intelligent man can understand. First item in importance is the "Tax Rate," and that is stated, I am glad to see, not only in terms of mills as compared with the rate in 1937, but it is stated also in terms of "per capita" taxation. Stated in both ways it is a good story of declining taxes. It was 35 mills for public school supporters and 37¼ mills for separate school supporters. In 1937 the rate for public school supporters was 36.4 mills and has been steadily reduced since 1930, when it was 39.2 mills. Back in 1931 the per capita taxes of Peterborough were $40.59 and in 1938 were down to $36.66. Surely Mayors and Aldermen generally would find in such statements an irresistible argument for re-election.

Then, under the heading of "Current Taxes," the total amount on the tax roll and the per cent collected for five years back are shown and the special paragraphs under the heading, "Arrears of Taxes," also give particulars as to how well these arrears are being met. Note that Peterborough is setting up a reserve for "loss on taxes." Under the heading of "Banking," citizens are told that loans necessary are being steadily reduced and that a credit balance is maintained during most of the year. It must be encouraging to citizens to have explained to them that increases in "Assessed Valuation" are not due to an increase in the basis of assessment but due to fifty-even new homes being built and to other real improvements.

NO DEBENTURES SINCE 1933

Under the heading, "Net Debenture Debt," it must be also a matter for pride that "no debentures have been issued since 1933," while the net debenture debt has been reduced in the past four years nearly $1 million.

"Unemployment relief" expenditures were ahead appropriations, but how much is not definitely stated. This is the one failure in clear and precise statement. That is not the city's fault; it is because the amount to be received from the Provincial Government for the last quarter is not known. A statement of relief expenditures for five years is given.

The longest part of this statement is under the heading, "Board of Works," and there details are given of every important expenditure through the year, paragraph by paragraph.

The statement is signed by James Hamilton, Mayor. As it is a form which has often been urged on municipalities by Thomas Bradshaw, his views are of wide interest. When brought to his attention he commented very favorably this unusual statement of affairs by Peterborough as being both attractive in presentation and educative for taxpayers. At a glance, he noted, ratepayers could see the progress made in reduction in tax rate, the improvement in tax collections, the reduction in tax arrears, the reduction in bank loans, the reduction in net debenture debt and the trend of expenditure on unemployment relief.

MEET THE RATEPAYERS

Mr. Bradshaw believes that municipalities generally would be well advised to present such a report on their operations.

"I suggest further that each year it would be highly desirable if the mayor and other members of council would have a public meeting, and invite the citizens to it in order that a presentation might be made of what has taken place during the previous year and what the aim of the administration is for the year entered upon."

"Would such a plan be feasible for Toronto?" he was asked.

"I know that such a plan as this would be more easily and satisfactorily carried out in a smaller community than Toronto; yet I am inclined to the view that the meeting could be so well organized, even in a city of this size, that satisfactory results might grow from it. Nevertheless Peterborough's example is very well worth while directing attention to, and it would be an excellent thing if other municipalities took the same course of advertising their statement and their progress in their local newspaper."

DEBTLESS COUNTIES

AS A RESULT of a pay-as-you-go policy inaugurated some years back, the County of Brant will be completely clear of all debt early in 1940. It will join the counties of Elgin, Kent, Lambton, Perth, Simcoe and Wellington which have no debenture payments to meet, and no interest bills to pay.

It is a happy situation, one upon which Brant is to be congratulated. It will ease the load of the taxpayers of the country, and they will be able to face the future without financial worries.

It all goes to show what can be done with a proper will and management.

Elgin, Kent, Lambton, Simcoe, Wellington and Brant counties are among the finest in Ontario. They are not backward. Their people have not suffered because debts were not undertaken to pay for some improvements. They have benefited by a pay-as-you-go policy. The position in which they now find themselves is something at which other counties should aim. Once a cash basis of management is reached, it can be retained advantageously. — Windsor Star.

JIMMY ROOSEVELT.

JIMMY ROOSEVELT did not get his job as vice-president of Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., on account of his good looks. That was decided six years ago when the son of the then President-elect took a paramount screen test in New York.

Paramount home - office execs thought well of Jimmy's cultural ambition, the report discloses, but the studio boys, far from Washington, did not grasp the idea. Here is the Par studio report of Jimmy's adventure into the cinematic art, written on Nov. 22, 1932:

"Jimmy Roosevelt: Production staff today saw test of above, who is son of Franklin D. Roosevelt, President-elect. James is about 6 feet tall; about 25 years of age, and has a good speaking voice, although he is not good looking. He has a peculiar way of twisting his mouth when he speaks. Because of his appearance he would not be available for leads, and could only be dragged into pictures, such as Westerns, for the purpose of exploiting the same because of his name value."

NOT SO CRUEL?

THE DISTINCTION of being rated as Germany's number one Jew-baiter belongs to Julius Streicher. But if he finds this convenient in his own country, he appears to be grieved about the sort of name he is getting abroad. He gathered a group of foreign newspaper correspondents to himself the other day and complained about the almost universal impression of him as an ogre of first rank.

It was true, he admitted, that he had always fought the Jews, but at heart he was a gentle fellow, given to humane deeds. For instance, he explained to the reporters he had two pet canaries, and when he came in at night he would stumble about in the dark rather than turn on the lights and wake them.

This touching reminder is not original. Hitler is widely publicized with photographs showing him beaming over children and Goering has been viewed in the same role, with the added attraction of his pet tiger cub. The practice is spreading, and as it spreads the propaganda may at least give assurance that the benignity of totalitarianism will never countenance the shooting down of dogs like men.—Hamilton Spectator.

NIGHT SCHOOL IN NORTH.

THE PRESS had the pleasure of attending Night School in Kirkland Lake this week, when some amazing and highly gratifying facts were uncovered about these busy sessions attended by some four hundred and fifty people of all ages, nationalities and occupations.

Czechs and Germans, Poles and Jugo-Slavs, sons of Latvia and the Ukraine, Russians and Italians, natives of Sweden, Denmark and Finland, Frenchmen and Swiss, Hungarians and Syrians, leave the school, with their notebooks and textbooks under their arms, walking side by side with the children of England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales and the Canadian of several generations.

Housewives, stenographers, teachers, girls in domestic service, grocery and department store clerks and cashiers are to be found in the various classes for women such as the busy sewing and cooking classes. — Timmins Press.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

BUT AS it is written, Eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God. For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the spirit of God. Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God.—I Cor. ii; 9-12.

MARCH OF THE SUN.

THE MARCH of the sun from its low point at the end of the year, to the high noon of Summer, is a thrilling spectacle. It is a comforting thought that every day this centre of all our life is now coming nearer.

Before science began to explain the mysteries of the universe, the movements of the sun must have caused deep anxiety. The ancients must have trembled to see the sun sinking deeper every day. Would this light of all life disappear forever and leave them to perish in frozen horror? This must have been a question often asked.

How they must have celebrated in ancient times when finally the sun turned homeward again. We today know there is no danger of the sun's disappearing. But the beginning of his return is a preliminary note for the joyful symphony of Spring.—Sarnia Canadian Observer.

HITLER AND THE HEN.

GERMANY is short of hens and chicken feed, and consequently of eggs, and the Reich Association of Breeders of Hens has given its official attention to the situation. Whereas the average German hen has been laying only 80 to 90 eggs a year, President Vetter, of the association, announces through the Berliner Tageblatt that "Every Hen Must Lay 140 Eggs Yearly."

We wait with great interest for further news. The American hen, in our experience, is one of the most individualistic of birds. Possibly the German hen is more amenable to regimentation, but we have our doubts whether Herr Hitler himself can persuade a hungry hen to goose-step to her nest and lay 140 eggs for the greater glory of the German Reich.—New York World-Telegram.

THE NEW YEAR

Ring out the old, ring in the new,
—Tennyson.

Gone the past year with its failures
Its struggles, its sorrows, its fears,
Its battles which ended in victory,
Its defeats which ended in tears.

Gone are some hopes that we cherished,
Gone some of the friends that we knew,
Hidden away from our vision
Till in heaven we greet them anew.

Still it has taught us some wisdom
That worldly ambitions are vain,
But treasures laid up in heaven
Will bring us eternal gain.

The new year now lies before us,
Each new day a path that's untrod,
Oh that each pathway may lead us
A little bit closer to God.

Each day a little bit kinder,
Every day show a little more love,
Each day grow a little more tender,
More fit for the mansions above.
—GEORGE LEADER.

LINDSAY MIDGETS AND LOCAL MONARCHS BATTLE TO 4-4 DRAW

Hockey Season Opens Up Here With Lively Junior Scrap Before Slim Crowd Of Fans

An overtime tie opened the O.H.A. season here last night before barely 400 fans in the Brock St. rink, Lindsay Midgets and the local Monarchs battling to a 4-4 junior draw in an extra period. It was a speedy, lively and even scrap played on a good sheet of ice with two well-matched squads fighting themselves to the point of exhaustion without either crew gaining the nod. Mayor Jas. Hamilton faced off the puck to open the season.

Both teams were husky, speedy and looked quite promising, and there was nothing on the night's play to give either side a margin. Monarchs surprised the small crowd of home followers by holding the classy Midgets to a tie and earning it all the way. They spotted Lindsay a two-goal lead and then had them beaten with hardly two minutes of overtime left when a deflected puck tied up the count.

The game was quite fast and fairly good for so early in the season. At times, each outfit looked ragged from lack of practise but both indicated on their showing here last night that there were a number of good juniors in the lineups, and they will be tough to take in the "C" competition before the schedule is over. It was a clean game with only a few minor penalties handed out by Referee Sabatino, who took Dutch Harwood's place when the latter couldn't make it.

Lindsay Leads.

The score was 1-0 for the Midgets in the first frame but it was tied at 2-all before the end of the second, two quick local goals putting the young Petes back in the running. Each side tallied once in the third and, after Monarchs counted in four minutes of the 10-minute overtime heat, Lindsay banged home the equalizer with scarcely two minutes before the final gong sent the fans home.

Both goalies looked good for so early in the season, the local guardian especially booting aside some hot thrusts. The Lindsay defence was a shade superior to the Monarchs with a fast bodychecking guard that made it tough to go around. There was little to choose between the rival front lines. Brennan, Cook, Jackson and Ferguson starred for the Midgets; while there were no individual stars for the homesters over the whole route. A number of them shone in spurts and the whole crew looked promising.

It was fast, speedy shinny throughout the first period, few of the passes clicking and players going out of position frequently through lack of practise, but they kept up a hot pace. Jackson was robbed by Morrison after he beat the defence halfway through the initial inning. Lots of bodychecks marked the slambang performance to keep the fans yelling. There were 15 minutes gone when the green-shirted visitors tallied after a face-off inside the home blue line, Brennan's hot angle shot on a pass from Cook hitting the upper corner of the twine. Rochetti and Cook were gated for roughing it and it was hard, even and ragged at the finish.

Three Goals.

Action came fast early in the middle chapter with three quick goals scored. Lindsay made it 2-0 on McDonald's quick stab on Brennan's pass but the red-sweatered Monarchs notched two in a row right afterward. Nicholls took Cauley's close-in pass for one, and then the hard-working Connelly scored on assists from Cauley and Nicholls on a play that swept around the Scugog cage. Brennan and Giardino mixed it a bit and got the finger and play was fast and furious, but quite even the rest of the way. Parnall was chased for holding in a sitting posture, and a four-man Lindsay attack netted a goose egg.

About four minutes had elapsed in the third chukker when Jackson scored a fast one at point-blank range on Anglers' assist, the goalie not having a chance. It was speedy and pretty even, with the teams showing a little better hockey at this stage. McDonald tore down the boards and beat Turner to tie the score halfway through the session and both sides were fairly flying from then on in an attempt to get the deciding counter. Morrison booted aside two dangerous tries and Rochetti went off with a sore knee. Parnall and Fairburn were penalized for roughing it near the Lindsay blue line just before the bell sounded.

It was fairly fast and even in the overtime spasm, but the players looked tired. Jackson went off for tripping and the Monarchs ganged up, poorly at first but eventually scoring a goal, Parnall racing up the boards to blast the rubber into the hemp at four minutes. Lindsay turned it on them and had five forwards pressing till Jackson finally tallied from the side, the disc apparently going in off a local stick. They battled on even terms the last two minutes and skated off with a draw.

The teams:

Lindsay: Goal, Turner; defence, Elliot and Ferguson; centre, Cook; wings, Brennan and McDonald; alternates, Jackson, Owen, Angiers. Leahy and Fairburn.

Monarchs: Goal, Morrison; defence, Beggs and McDonald; centre, Parnall; wings, Stewart and Rochetti; alternates, Giardino, Nicholls, Connelly and Cauley.

Referee—Jack Sabatino of Lakefield.

Didn't the year go fast?....And what a year. . . . a lot of laughs, a lot of times when your throat went tight, a lot of gags, a lot of guys ....The things to remember besides the final score. . . . More than anything else the steaming hot night in Yankee stadium and the way the crowd started to roar as Louis walked into Schmeling....Louis hitting so fast you could tell when his punches landed only by watching his shoulders....And the awful change in Schmeling from a superbly-conditioned, confident fighter to a broken, battered bloody one—in a little over two minutes.

On The Griddle

Since the first scoring records of the season were issued some weeks ago by the National League the constant leader has been the veteran Chicago Black Hawk stickhandling ace, Johnny Gottselig, (ABOVE). Johnny still heads the circuit's marksmen, but he may be in for a bit of trouble with the league governors after pushing around Referee Campbell in the Christmas night game against the Americans in New York. Campbell is reported to be taking the case up with league president Frank Calder.

Norwood Team Is Defeated In Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 31.—In their opeing Trent Valley League encounter Friday night Campbellford team swamped Norwood 10 to 2. Although for most of the visitors the game was their first taste of T.V.L. hockey there were several, such as Ibey of Hastings, Voyer of Havelock and two Puffer boys, who gave the locals plenty of trouble.

During the opening period the visitors had the edge of the play but as the homesters gradually got organized they were unabel to compete.

Despite the loso sf Bugs Reddick, who was the leading goal getter of last year's team, and who assisted "Skinny" Innes of Norwood handle the whistle, the locals seem to have recovered completely with Phillips, Blake, Don Free and Don Couch forming a formidable attacking line which will no doubt prove to be a serious threat to all contenders for league honors. Each of these players is capable of carrying the puck through alone as well as working together in an attack. Two new players wearing the Campbellford colors for the first time were Robinson, an outstanding wing man on the Sterling team last year, and Charlie Bush, who is husky enough to take the place formerly occupied by Art Lambert on defence. The visitors got the opening counter five minutes after the starting bell when Richardson picked up a loose puck following a scramble in front of the net.

Robinson figured in both goals scored by the winners during the first period, taking the pass from C. Couch half way through for the first and passing to Don Free on a nice combination play which completely baffled the Norwood defence for the second. As Norwood pressed the play into Campbellford territory in an attempt to overcome the one-goal lead Donald was called upon half a dozen times to clear.

The play was being pressed more into Norwood territory when the second period opened, with Voyer in the penalty box. The visitors went scoreless during the period, while Blake counted during the early minutes with a lovely shot which McMaster had little chance to save.

The visitors were completely outplayed in the final frame, during which the winners scored six times. Puffer scored from close in for Norwood's second goal. Fifty-five seconds after Norwood had put the score at 4-2, C. Couch took a long shot from the blue line which found its way into the net. Free went down with Phillips and Blake in a rush which netted another for the winners. Bush made the score 7-2 on a pass from Robinson and Blake added another after beating the Norwood defence and shooting a hard one into the corner of the net. With only four and a half minutes to go Blake repeated his performance, making the score 9 to 2. Robinson led another attack as the game continued wide open and Charlie Couch brought the final score to 10-2 when he succeeded in drawing McMaster out of the net and slipping one past him at 17.47. There was only one penalty during the period.

Norwood.—Master, goal; T. Ibey, R. Webb, defence; B. Rogers, G. Puffer, wings; Bert Hagerman, centre; M. Macmillan, W. Rothwell, C. Puffer, N. Rogers, Roy Richardson, Paul Voyer, subs.

Campbellford.—Stu. Donald, goal; E. Wilkes, C. Couch, defence; M. Atkinson, D. Blake, wings; J. Phillips, centre; D. Couch, C. Bush, Robinson, D. Free, W. Rutherford, C. Nicholos, subs.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, soaks—we mean, folks, and may all your troubles be little ones in the coming year of 1938. No, is it? Let's see now: 30 days hath September, and Chris pushed off in 1492, and the Orfuns won a game in '38. Ha, so this is 1939 coming up. Well, a merry 1939. We kiss '38 goodbye with a slobber and greet '39 with a snort —if we can get one or two anywhere at this late hour? Alouette, lovely Alouette—to say nothing of Auld Lang Acquaintance or even Groanin' in the Gloamin' as jolly good numbers to lisp in an off-key tenor as we mark the turn of the year with enough noise to wake a night-watchman up! Just to be different we won't review sports here for 1938, even if we could —nor will we say aught of thutty-nine, except grittinx and hail. So Happy New Year, peoples!

We will speak for a space about a charity exhibition puck tilt here next Wednesday night. When St. Mike's Buzzers of Toronto tangle with our junior Colts, receipts going to the German Refugee Fund. Fair-minded people throughout the civilized world realize the atrocities perpetrated upon German Jews and others in Hitlerland in recent months. Der Fuehrer and his hypnotized masses of youthful Nazis have aroused the indignation of countries like England, Canada, France and the States. This German Refugee Fund is being raised in these countries—and it won't find its way into the rapacious hands of the swastika brethren. It is being used to rehabilitate the persecuted persons fortunate enough to get out of Germany—give 'em a chance to make a living in peaceful surroundings. It's a worthy cause.

For A Fine Cause

Now the local Jewish population plans to raise a goodly sum toward this fund, and they're promoting — with the aid of rink officials — this game. They're putting up 10 prizes, worth $100 (so ya know they're good) strictly as door prizes. To be drawn for between periods, your ticket stub bearing a number. And the game is at ordinary popular prices. It'll be a first-rate setto, also, with the scrappy Irish of St. Mike's mixing with the husky local lads. We look for a packed arena that e'en. By the way, Rev. Lynch is coach of the Gaels, but will be accompanied here by Rev. Austin O'Brien, a Peterborough boy, who was a former smart goalie in O.H.A. competition. Get your ducats at once—ya can't fan on this one.

Another fray ala exhibish is billed for here when the Tely team of Toronto tackles the senior Petes on Tuesday and the locals will have to hustle plenty that p.m. We've mentioned Bob Porter and Art Upper and Coach George (Shirt) Ewens of the Torontos before, but there are other aces aboard the visiting outfit. Goalie Corbett was with Newmarket Reds and Kirkland Lake previously; Cranston once played for Regina Pats; Jarrott is an ex-London star; Shorty Miller is on Canadiens' reserve list, hailing originally from Lindsay—he leads the T.H.L. now in scoring; Art Lamport was with British Consols a few years ago; Gostlin comes from the Royal York club; McPherson is Shrimp's brother and led the loop last year in sniping; while Gord Shill is a brother to Jack of Chicago, playing with the Memorial Cup champs three years ago. So you see they're not tramps! But the Petes look smart now and may cop a nod to open their home season. It rates a good crowd of customers Wednesday.

Blood On The Moon

Four teams are in the district puck loop which replaces the old Blood and Thunder Circuit of recent winters. They are Millbrook, Lindsay, local Southenders and Omemee, all games being in Omemee. The schedule is listed in tonight's tabloid. We can imagine that there'll be blood on the moon ere this schedule is completed, knowing the robust ability and inclination of many of the chaps on the four squads. Lou LeBarr may be referee, though this isn't definite yet, and the games begin on Jan. 5th when Lindsay and the Peterborough pack mix it in Omemee. Top two outfits playoff at the end of the semester—if they have enough guys off the crippled list to tangle for the silverware. We'll try to list the dope on these melees, having a weakness for the daredevil type of hockey—or what is it?—they dish up!

* * * * * *

A slim crowd at the Brock yester twilight viewed a lively O.H.A. junior puck debut, Lindsay Midgets and our Monarchs battling to a 4-all overtime tie. 'Twas a moral victory for Coach Vitarelli's crew, as the big Midgets were expected to throw the switch on 'em and slip them some volts. But Monarchs had oodles of gimp, plus a flock of lads who can really dangle—and they earned the draw, in fact should have won in the extra heat. Two well-matched squads of husky boys, playing clean hockey but threatening to mix it most of the way. The bright-hued Monarchs will improve and prove a real factor in group playoffs, we'll bet a moderate hunk of lucre. But, of course, the large Lindsay lads will be tougher than old steaks, too, ere the water is running in the gutters again.

* * * * * *

The Fans Liked It

Fans whooped it up and seemed to enjoy the fray. Not good hockey but fast, exciting and even most of the route. Ragged passing will improve in time and the boys will learn to lean the blades in their own lanes instead of rambling around like a lady at a department store sale. We liked Morrison in goal a bit better than the rival guardian, but had to give the bumping Scugog defence a slight nod on our own. Not much to choose in the forwards. Our second front line was as good as the first, and both showed plenty of promise. Ferguson, Cook, Brennan and Jackson were Lindsay standouts. The attendance was disappointing for the opening fixture, a good one.

Some talk here and there of the Petes stepping up to senior "A" lacrosse next season, joining that one big Ontario grouping of some eight clubs or so. The local senior "B" champs of 1938 are seeking more worlds to conquer, but we'd advise 'em to make haste slowly. 'Cause why? Well, there is considerable difference between senior "A" and senior "B" lacrosse, and also the "A" type is plenty expensive. Didn't the Petes do oke in a good "B" grouping last summer? Furthermore, there will be at least half a dozen good players of the Petes' titular team of last season absent from the lineup when spring workouts are called. It is doubtful if Doug Miller, Pete King or Ira Dundas will return to the wars. Ditto with Red Dallin. And Norm Worthy has left here. While Mick Magee and Don Crowe don't believe they'll be in lacrosse again. It's worth a thought.

No Meddling

Canadiens' camp in the N.H.L. has looked at times this season like a clearing house for transient hockey players as shifts were made almost daily in an effort to bring some measure of won-and-lost prosperity to the team. The shifting is over now, according to Ernest Savard (ABOVE), president of the Montreal team. There will be no more executive meddling as far as player deals go and the team will attempt to go places with a fairly consistent line-up.

Inside Sportin' Dope

by A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, the hockey season so far as us birds is concerned has about arrove. This is being wrote before the 1st game of the season billed for tonite when Lindsay and our Junior C's is scheduled to battle and next week they is a whole flock of games so we should soon begin to know what's what and who's who in local hockeydom.

Looking All Right.

They was a time when we was beginning to think our sr. squad might be regarded as pretty well all washed up owing to the departure of so many of the troops for foreign shores but the reinforcements what has arrived has been looking pretty good out there and mebbe Mister Buckland's Buckaroos will surprise all and sundry when they swing into action. If they can afford to move a outstanding defence man like this here now Mister Joe McNulty up on the attacking division then the rearguard can't be presenting the problem some of us was worrying about, and they should still be plenty of scoring punch up front despite the loss of such poison to goalies as Mister Calladine and Mister Ned Vitarelli which is doing a great job for themselves and for Mister Pick Hines down Baltimore way.

They oughta be a lotta local hockey dope, come a week from now.

Funny Angle.

In the big show Mac, they has been some funny angles to the recent games. The fast-travelling Boston Bruins for instance stepped into the Leafs just when Mister DeGeer and Mister Lytle and Mister Hewittson was trying to see which could use the most 4-bit words telling in the Tironto papers how good the Smythemen was, and totally wrecked the Queen City outfit 8 goals to 2. And then 2 nites after the Amerks which look like some of the counters in the 5 and 10 on the morning after Christmas trim the Bruins 4 goals to 2 and make the trick look easy. Mister Keep-Punching Dutton seems to have found a way to instil the secret of youth into his aged veterans and with bargains picked up here and there from the hockey shelves he has built up quite a team. The way in which they are hanging up there near the top of the ladder and the way in which the Canadiens is remaining down in the cellar is 2 of the biggest surprises of the current season.

Not A Bad Year.

Well it ain't been a bad year in sport circles locally, we might chuck in here seeing this is the last epistle for 1938. We copped a lacrosse championship, come within a nose of grabbing off the senior baseball title and our footballers give the town a lotta advertising by their debut into senior company, especially when they pulled the upset of the year by beating the famous Sarnia Imps, and making Mister Bummer Stirling look so ordinary that a lotta local folk-still are wondering why anybody should vote him Canada's outstanding athlete of the year.

And now its about time to hit out for the 1st hockey of season so we'll drift, after pausing momentarily to wish anybody who has had the patience to read down this far, the happiest of years in 1939.

Sportfully Yours
A. Wise Cracker.

TORONTO, Dec. 31 — (CP). — Probably the world's most rabid hockey fan lives down in Tulsa, Okla. She is 17-year-old Virginia Lee Morris and she owns what possibly is the largest and most complete hockey scrapbook in existence.

Started in 1929 when Miss Morris, then eight, began attending American Association professional games at Tulsa, the scrapbook has grown to such proportions that she trundles it around on a special little cart made by her grandfather. It weighs more than 35 pounds and is still growing.

Chief hero in the huge book, which contains information and data on all professional leagues and all available pictures of players who starred during the last nine seasons, is Gus Marker, right winger of Toronto Maple Leafs in the National league. Marker, at present on the injured list with a bad knee, began his professional career at Tulsa with the Oilers just about the time little Miss Morris started her collection.

Marker's career with Tulsa, then with Detroit in both the N.H.L. and the International league, with Montreal Maroons and now with Leafs is closely traced in the book. While interested in all developments and phases of the game, the Tulsa girl has become a Leaf rooter, just as she was a rabid supporter of Maroons and Red Wings when the right wing star from Camrose, Alta., was doing his puck juggling for those teams.

His pictures, in various uniforms, are plastered all over the walls of her bedroom. Only tough part of the entire set-up, from Miss Norris' viewpoint, is that she has not seen Gus play since his Tulsa days. She never has seen a major league game.

Hockey, her scrapbook and the Leafs were given chief consideration this season when the pretty high school graduate selected the motif for her Christmas cards. On them she had a picture of herself, sitting beside the book and its little wagon upon which was propped a cover from one of Maple Leaf Gardens' hockey program

Ski Notes

Attention: All skiers and "Would-be's, Peterborough Ski club's 2nd official snow train to Bethany will be Monday, January 2nd, leaving C.P.R. station at 9.50 a.m.; return, leaving Bethany at 4 p.m.—return fare 65 cents; chiltren under 12, 35 cents.

All ski club members, non-members, skiers, non-skiers and anybody else interested are invited to join this party and have an enjoyable outing on Monday. The skiing at Bethany is practically perfect now and everybody interested should take advantage of this opportunity to ski on this marvellous terrain opened up by the ski club during the past two years.

The first official snow train was run on Monday, December 26. However, it was not adveritsed nor regarded as official until it had been pronounced a huge success by all the passengers. It proved to be a very swanky excursion as Engine No. 2052 used to haul the train, which was made up of Coach No. 3352, was formerly Sir Edward Beatty's private "jalopy." A most congenial crew consisting of conductor L. Hagerman, Engineer J. Watson, fireman C. Bunker and brakemen A. Graham and F. Hall, looked after the welfare of the following distinguished (?) skiers, Otto Laderach, Bun Graham, Neil Mackenzie, Bob White, Jack Holland and Jerry Duffus.

Tentative Schedule Is Drawn For Allan Cup Playdowns

MONTREAL, Dec. 31—(CP).—Allan Cup finals will come east this season providing either an Ottawa district or Quebec club takes the eastern title, and will go to the West again should a Maritime or Ontario Hockey Association squad emerge as victors in the East.

Venue of Memorial cup finals will depend on final decision as to the seniors finals, it was decided yesterday at a meeting between the eastern executive of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and C.A.H.A. president Dr. W. C. Hardy of Edmonton, representing the West.

Should the Allan Cup finals come east, Memorial cup playdowns will be in the west, but if the senior classic is in the West, the juniors will perform in the East. Indications were the Allan cup games would be played in either Montreal or Calgary, and the Memorial cup games in Edmonton, Winnipeg, or Toronto or Ottawa.

A tentative schedule for eastern playoffs was approved. Allan Cup playdowns start with the Quebec champions playing in the Maritimes March 18 and 20, and laying hosts to the Maritime winners in Montreal March 23, 25, and 27 if necessary in a three-of-five series.

Meet O.H.A. Finalists

Meanwhile, Ottawa district and O.H.A. finalists will meet in a best-of-five series starting at Ottawa March 22, and continuing on the O.H.A. home ice March 24 and 27. Eastern finals were tentatively set to be a best-of-three series, opening on the Ottawa or O.H.A. home ice March 29 and continuing on Quebec ice, probably Montreal, April 1 and 3.

Provision was made however, that heads of the districts involved could make the eastern finals a three-of-five series providing the semi-finals failed to go their full limit. Definite decision on openng date of the Dominion finals was deferred pending outcome of playoffs.

In the Memorial Cup competition, Ottawa Valley champions will play in the Martmes March 21, 23 and 25 if necessary, the winners to play Quebec champions March 28 in Montreal, and March 30 and April 1 on Ottawa ice, or all on Quebec ice should a Maritime team be entered.

Winners of this series will meet th O.H.A. champions April 3, 5 and 7 if necessary, definite venue of games to be decided later depending on the teams competing.

Decision on playdowns highlighted the final business session of the two-day meeting that were brought to a close by a banquet last night. Two referees will be used in all inter-regional playdowns rather than a refree and a linesman, but each section was given the right to choose its own system for its regional championships.

A play for insuring all players taking part in Allan or Memorial Cup playdowns against injury was left over for the general spring meeting of the association. Arrangements were made, however, to have a doctor appointed by the C.A.H.A. at all playoff games.

Support was given the Canadian Olympic Committee in their attempt to bring the 1944 winter Olympic games to Canada.

Moments In The Year Of Sport

. . . Little Aurel Joliat sitting forlornly in the Canadiens' dressing room at Montreal and musing: "You're good when you've got it; and when you haven't got it the time has come to quit. I've had 16 good seasons." . . .

. . . Don Penniston doing one of the year's prize coaching jobs with Cornwall Flyers, a hockey team that reached the Dominion finals without an outstanding player . . .

. . . Bespectacled Gordon Robinson of Stamford, Ont., almost upsetting the eventual titlist, Frankie Parker of Hollywood, by taking 11 straight games from him in the Canadian tennis championships . . .

. . . And the greatest of all . . . Slamin' Sam Snead whacking a towering wood shot over a tall elm and over the creek at Mississauga's long 12th hole, for an eagle three that turned the tide his way in the playoff with lighthorse Harry Cooper for the Canadian open golf championship.

New High Is Hit Money Wagered On Horse Races

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—(AP)—Horse racing in the United States reached a new high in money wagered and profits to the states in 1938, a survey by the Associated Press revealed today.

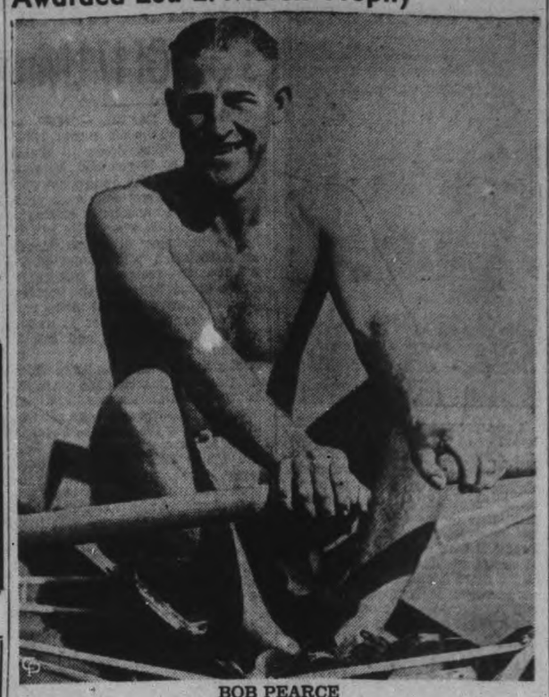
With California showing the way with $2,645,694.62 received from four per cent of the pari-mutuel handle and track licence fees, a total of $9,657,070.23 poured into the treasuries of 16 states as compared to $9,021,504.10 in 1937. The figures do not include Louisiana, where the state has no control over the sport.

With California also topping the list, the pari-mutuel handle jumped from $268,500,821 in 1937 to $282,984,700. These figures do not include Louisiana or New York, where there is oral wagering.

During 258 days of racing at major tracks and country fairs, California fans sent $66,142,358 through the mutuels for an increase of more than $18,000,000 over last year, when there were 212 days of the sport.

Illinois, although showing a decrease, held to second place in money wagered with $39,280,998 but ranked no better than seventh in the states' shares with $557,718.80 because the state's only revenue is from daily license fees, ranging from $500 to $2,500 and tax on admissions.

Awarded Lou E. Marsh Trophy



BOB PEARCE

Who was awarded the Lou E. Marsh Memorial Trophy as the outstanding Canadian athlete, pro or amateur, for 1938. The trophy was first donated two years ago by Charles Ring, Toronto sportsman and chairman of the selection committee in memory of the former sports writer. Pearce, an Australian by birth but a naturalized Canadian, won over a score of other athletes, representing the entire Dominion.

Orfuns' Win Over Sarnia Imps And Lacrosse Title Feature Big Athletic Season

By CEC. PERDUE

Peterborough's 1938 sports program was marked by two highlights, one an Ontario senior "B" lacrosse championship, and the other the local Orfuns' entry into senior football. Following the athletic trail here for the past 12 months, one saw and heard many notable things in the field of sports but those two facts stand out as athletic achievements of the year.

Probably the biggest thrill of 1938 to Peterborough fandom — and some 2,500 fans were on hand for the spectacle—was the Orfuns' upset grid victory here over the vaunted Sarnia Imperials, perennial O. R. F. U. champions. That result shocked football followers throughout Eastern Canada and had the home populace wildly sold on senior football from then on. It was Orfuns' only win of the season, but they were not expected to cop a victory in their first year up—and the team will be mueh stronger in the second part of its three-year plan to make the playoffs.

Following a fine schedule in a large interlocking O.L.A. senior "B" group—with Brooklin games memorable to the big gutted-stick followings in this centre—the Petes emerged victorious to gain a title, Wallaceburg defaulting to them in Provincial finals, owing to an accident to members of that club just before the proposed series. The Petes challenged St. Catharines of the "A" series to an all-Ontario playoff, but St. Kitts declined. The locals were feted by the City Council and presented with windbreakers as a token of appreciation for their showing the past summer. The club expects a strong squad in another good grouping next year.

A Disappointment

Baseball was somewhat disappointing here the past summer, even though fans were privileged to see some grand games and one of the best Peterborough amateur clubs in history. The Petes imported and built up a powerful club which won handily the C.O.B.L. title—but Kingston were tossed out halfway through the schedule by the O.H.A. for using ineligible players After the Murphyites walloped Oshawa GM-men, they had several long delays in playdowns, finally meeting and defeating Niagara Falls in two straight in O.B.A. semi-finals, but losing the deciding final fracas to Stratford. They should have beaten Stratford easily. Minor ball here showed a tendency to return and a number of boys will be developed next season. The senior league organization will require considerable building.

In softball circles, Westclox teams copped the O.S.A. and the P.W.S.U. honors here, both teams using the Ashburnham Bowl for a stamping ground. Lindsay dropped out of the four-team girls' circuit halfway through, while the men's loop staged several exhibition games with southend teams to round out their schedule. Both winners drew big crowds and put up good games in Provincial playdowns before bowing out, the girls to an Ottawa team and the men to an Oshawa outfit. The Southend League had a good season and proved popular with fans while Keene, which played in this loop, entered 'B' playdowns and went through to a title. Havelock of this district also copped an Ontario junior pennant. The School League here operated in conjunction with a new School Baseball Circuit. Softball should continue to hold its own in the sports spotlight of this district next summer.

Good Hockey

Peterborough enjoyed a good season of hockey last winter, all kinds of minor and independent teams operating in and around the city, while a flock of O.H.A. squads played at the Brock before big crowds. Our junior Colts were defeated in playdowns by Kingston, which team won the "B" title. And the senior "B" Petes, after a torrid series with Trenton Fliers, won the grouping and went into Ontario semi-finals. They were defeated by Niagara Falls one goal on the round after winning by two counters here. It was a tough series with plenty of rough stuff shown, and plenty of fans unable to purchase playoff tickets for the final fray. The Petes lost a flock of good players of last year's squad, but have brought in several and appear to have as good a senior club this winter. Two junior teams, Colts and Monarchs, are operating here this season and the usual big bunch of minor loops to keep hockey to the fore in the athletic picture of this district.

Boxing and wrestling staged periodic programs around town and both outdoor and indoor cards, for the most part, drew well and dished up plenty of noisy entertainment. These will continue next year. P.C.I. junior gridders lost in group games but the seniors made a fine showing in intergroup playoffs before bowing to Bowmanville—packing in a record school crowd at the Exhibition Grounds in the final. A big ski meet here last winter was a partial failure owing to mild weather, not as many outsiders attending as usual, but big plans are afoot for this ski-ing season—and a Provincial meet will be held in February here.

Many Players

Badminton, bowling, curling and carpetball continued to prove fine entertainment for players in the winter months, and are hard at it once more these cold months. Tennis, soccer, cricket, golf, water sports and so on hold their own in the summer time locally. There are also gym sports, shop athletics, lawn bowling, fencing, running and others to keep girls and boys, women and men occupied as competitors or in the role of spectators. All over the city and district in every month of the year were hundreds and hundreds of people engaged in healthy, enjoyable and social sports—some strenuous and some more in the nature of pastimes. All added to the local athletic picture, all having their own addicts, and all helping to keep Peterborough's reputation as "the biggest small town in Ontario sports."

Niagara Falls Holds Goodyears Scoreless Draw

(By the Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Dec. 31 — The rampage of Toronto Goodyears, bane of all Ontario Hockey Association Senior A teams until now, has been halted. Niagara Falls Brights, trounced badly by Goodyears in Toronto 10 days ago, have the formula.

The fourth-place Brights, on their own ice, waded into the league leaders last night and, backed up by Goalie Johnny Mowers, held them to 70 minutes of scoreless hockey. The overtime battle was a moral victory for the Falls and marked the first time this season Goodyears have been held to no score.

Meanwhile, at Port Colborne, the home-town Sailors walloped the tail-end Brantford Red Birds 6-1, while Oshawa invaded St. Catharines for a 6-4 victory.

The results left Goodyears, undefeated this season, five points ahead of the second-place Oshawans. St. Catharines and Port Colborne are tied for third place, each with 10 points. Niagara Falls has seven points, and Brantford two.

Much credit for the fighting Falls' display went to Mowers, who kicked out 60 shots. Herbie Mortimer in the Toronto cage handled only 29. The rough game took nearly three hours to play because of frequent stops.

Players Injured.

Two players were injured, but continued after treatment. Mowers blocked a hard drive with an eyebrow, and a 20-minute halt was called while he waddled to the dressing room for stitching. Defenceman Bobby Laurent, playing on the wing, needed similar attention when caught across the forehead by a stick.

Manager Moose Ecclestone of Goodyears delayed the tilt at least five minutes when he dashed on the ice to argue with Referee Dinty Moore against a penalty imposed on Laorent for domping Allan, Falls defenceman, after he received his injury.

Both Port Colborne and Brantford officials said they would protest the refereeing of Babe Bogardis of Fort Erie as unsatisfactory. A total of 22 penalties, including a major and a misconduct, were issued.

Earl Laroche and Al Thompson each scored twice for the Ports. Captain Vince Upper and Rutsy Waldriff made up the total. Ray Krieger counted the lone Brant tally as the final period opened.

Goalie Peg Hurst was a big factor in the Oshawa win. Since he took over the janitor duties five games ago, Oshawa have won four games and tied one. Before the game, the City Corporation turned the newly-built Arena over to the management of the City Parks Commission.

Lex Chisholm, crafty Oshawa centre, took over the league scoring lead with three goals and two assists for a total of 25 points this season. Carl Maundrell and Winkie Smith were the other scorers for the winners.

Rudolph Pilous, a thorn in the Oshawa side, nabbed three goals for St. Catharines. The other was scored by Billie Cooper. Three of the losers' goals came in the third period after Oshawa scorers had been leashed.

Toronto Squad To Play Petes

An exhibition senior hockey game is listed for here next Tuesday evening at 8.30 in the Brock St. rink when the Toronto Telegram team plays the senior "B" Petes. It will be the first home fray of the season for the locals and considerable interest will doubtlessly be evinced by home fans, to see if the 1939 Petes compare favorably with the good 1938 club. Coach Frank Buckland is rounding his squad into shape now and will announce his starting lineup the first of the week. He believes his team will be every bit as good as that of a year ago and should make a real good showing here Tuesday against the classy Toy outfit.

Playing coach George (Shirt) Ewens of the Torontos will lead a powerful crew onto the ice. The team is leading the senior T.H.L. now by four full games, having lost but two in 11 league starts so far. Bobby Porter and Art Upper form a powerful defence, with Ewens, Shill, McPherson and other cassy players sparking the front lines. Though in better condition than the locals, the visitors may run into plenty of stiff opposition as the senior "B" brand of hockey is easily as good as that shown in T.H.L. play. It will be a fine exhibition tilt to watch and will draw a good crowd.

Many factories are being built in connection with Italy's self-sufficiency program.

SKIING IN LONDON

Kidnappers are active in India. Ireland will have air raid sirens.

Shirley Again Tops Film List At Box Office

For the fourth successive season, Shirley Temple outdraws all other film players at the box office. This is disclosed by the rankings of more than 200 players, made by the publication Motion Picture Herald and Fame from a poll of exhibitors. Others in order are Clark Gable, Sonja Henie, Mickey Rooney, Spencer Tracy, Robert Taylor, Myrna Loy, Jane Withers, Alice Faye and Tyrone Power.

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD — According to Hollywood's last word, Kay Franc's has been touring the West Indies on a tramp steamer . . . . which is going to cause more speculation about the wedding plans of the star and of the Baron Erik Barnekow. Their idea was for them to be married at his ancestral home in Europe, then to visit South America. Instead, Kay is doing the West Indies alone except for her secretary.

That impersonator of Bernard Punsley, of the "Dead End" kids, finally went too far. The police arrested him as he was awarding prizes at a local rollerdrome. Posing, of course, as Punsley. Later he was released, but with a stern warning.

It was bound to happen—R-K-O has grounded Corrigan for the length of the picture, except when he is performing for the movie cameras. Studio executives almost collapsed when they heard that the Irish flyer was experimenting with other old planes at a Culver City airport. He's been told he mustn't do it again; in fact, that he mustn't even fly his own plane unless the director tells him to.

On the "Idiot's Delight" set, G-Man Edward Tamm shook Clark Gable's hand and said "Thank you." Tamm was one of the federal operatives who wrote finish to Dillinger's career in Chicago. He was thanking Gable because one of Clark's early pictures, "Manhattan Melodrama," was so interesting that Dillinger stayed to see it twice, thus giving the G-Men time to carefully lay their trap.

Riding in the place of a dead man, Spencer Tracy made four goals for Director Frank Borzage's polo team the other day. Due to his showing, he'll be made a permanent member of the team, succeeding the late Cecil Christian, who was killed in a recent motor crash.

Phyllis Brooks and Cary Grant can thank the cast of "Charlie Chan in Honolulu" for the fact that they were able to keep their Thanksgiving date in New York. The picture ran over schedule and Sidney Toler and the rest of the troupe worked long hours so that Phyllis could finish in time to grab a plane and greet Cary as he came down the gang-plank of the Normandie

Talked with Joan Blondell and she says she definitely won't sign again with Warner's unless it is for one picture a year or some deal of the sort. Joan's seven-year contract expires early in 1939. She really will have been with the studio almost eight years, the extra time resulting from a couple of suspensions and from the enforced layoffs when she had the two babies.

There's a chance that Powell will wind up at Warners at about the same time. He has an option coming up, calling for two straight years at a big jump in salary. If Warners won't pay it and if Dick won't stay at the same money, he and Joan may find themselves free to try out their idea of touring the country in a play.

Dick Arlen, of all people, may be the next Hollywood star to make a personal appearance tour at the head of a band. He'll confine himself to waving a baton and to m. c.-ing. . . . Local theaters have given George Bancroft a great break. He's in "Submarine Patrol," and in "Angels With Dirty Faces." . . . Eli Culbertson, with Elaine Barrie for a partner, was trimmed at bridge on the "Midnight" set by Claudette Colbert and Don Ameche. . . . Charlie Chaplin's two sons will be water boys for the Black-Foxe eleven. . . . Alice Faye's brother Bill and Sugar Geise were in the Tropics telling friends that they'll be married much sooner than anyone expects. . . . The three newlyweds in the "Idiot's Delight" company are hoping that Tennessee gets the bid to the Rose Bowl. If it does, Director Clarence Brown has promised them all four tickets. . . . New York's Governor Lehman and his wife took in a show at the Troc. . . . Rosalind Russell and Billy Sellwyn a twosome there. . . . And Virginia Garner at the Club 17 with Harold Lieberman. . . . Al Siegel is so impressed by the generosity of the waiters at Maxie Rosenbloom's — contributing to send Virginia Matthews to Siegel's coaching school—that he is offering to give free instructions to another nightclub singer. Let the clubs send their prospects and he'll choose the most promising one

HOLLYWOOD.— Added scenes for "Tail Spin" will postpone Constance Bennett's European departure for 10 days—and thus willl delay the conferences with the Marquis de la Falaise in Paris. The star won't admit it but Hollywood believes the subject for discussion is the filing of the long expected divorce action.

When I put the question directly to her recently, Connie said: "I have no plans." But you hear differently from others.

Ken Murray really can take it. Although Jimmy Bryant has ousted him as Andrea Leeds' favorite escort, Murray is starting to build a home next door to the Goldwyn star.

You can call Bob Burns "His Honor" from now on. The Arkansas comedian, whose next picture will be called "I'm From Missouri", has been declared mayor of Canoga Park, Cal. Bob's in the farming business there with eight small ranches. Farther out in the San Fernando valley, he also has bought 195 acres which he will plant in alfalfa, winter oats and lima beans. A foreman and 12 other men have been employed to run the place. In addition to these holdings, Burns also has a 50-acre walnut orchard. He's putting his money in land.

Tough break for Lana Turner. Doctors say she'll be four weeks at Hollywood hospital recovering from a serious operation. This means the loss of one of her best roles to date—with Hedy Lamarr and Spencer Tracy in "I take This Woman".

COMMENCE THE NEW YEAR BY ATTENDING CHURCH

Biblical Thoughts For the Shut-Ins

By Rev. E. R. James Toronto

AN OLD YEAR MEDITATION.

THE PROPHET said unto the King:— As thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone. 1 King 20: 40

The prophet spake in a parable to the king who had failed in his duty. What do you understand by a prophet? The popular idea of a prophet is one who foretells the future-a seer. Such a man makes a great appeal. It is interesting; it is thrilling. Undoubtedly some of the prophets foretold the future. This was but a portion of their commission. The greatest work, the primary duty of the prophet was and is to forth-tell the mind of God to his generation. The Jewish Church owed the prophets a tremendous debt for they were men who fearlessly, plainly spoke out the truth. "Thus saith the Lord" was their claim. They generally paid the price of their devotion to God's revelation by being persecuted and even martyred. They were men of whom the Church was not worthy. This is true in every generation.

This unknown man, one of the sons of the prophets, speaks to us across the centuries in words which are very modern. "While I was busy here and there, he was gone". He had accepted the responsibity; he had not slept; but he had been too busy with things he thought more important and the prisoner had escaped.

As you look back upon the year that is closing you know how true these words are. "Too busy". You confess you have not put first things first.

There are two great political forces at work to-day; the democratic and the dictator state. Perhaps never since the close of the war have democratic people felt the horror of the awful desolation that might come upon them and their loved ones as in these past months. Our Empire is built upon liberty of thought and action within reasonable bounds. The strength of a chain is the strength of its weakest link. Can you blame the dictator who laughs at our democracy. He knows that the most important elements in democracy, the educated and the cultured classes, are too busy making money or having a good time, to bother about voting. You are rulers of the Empire and your responsibility to think and vote wisely is your duty. It is the debt you owe to your country. But if you are too busy your children may one day wake up and find that the liberty, purchased at a great price by your fathers, is gone; gone perhaps for generations. Remember no dictator believes in the free expression of opinion. If you openly differ from him your place is the concentration camp or before the firing squad.

There are two great spiritual forces at work to-day; the spirit of good and the spirit of evil. The prophet's duty in every generation is to go before the face of the Lord and to cry:— "This is the way, walk ye in it".

But the world and the flesh and the devil calls also and the way is apparently broad and easy but the end is desolation and death. As you walk in this way you will find you are too busy to pray, to read your Bible, or to go to Church. The hardening of your spiritual nature is taking place. You have lost your moral sensitiveness to the things of God and of His Spirit.

Atrophy is a law not only of the physical but also of the spiritual world. Non use of a physical organ means its death. Non use of spiritual faculties produces the same effect. The King told the prophet he condemned himself. In the Day of Judgement, when the books are opened, you will condemn yourself. Your conscience awakened to the light will acknowledge that the judgement is true and righteous altogether. You go to the place you have prepared for yourselves.

But the New year calls you to fresh endeavour; to repentance and confession. You are bidden to rise in the strength of the Risen Lord, Who whispers:— "My grace is sufficient for you. My strength is made perfect is weakness". In the strength of that spiritual meat and drink you will arise and walk and in the days to come your friends will exclaim:— "We never saw it in this fashion".

"THANKS BE UNTO THEE, O LORD".

A National Message

So today, while all the "company of nations" share equally in the benefits of Redemption provided for in the Bill, but one party holds possession of the document, legally and by right.

Which of the divisions into which Israel has been organized is now the holder of the bill? Doubtless that division, the "motherland" and all her immediate commonwealth over whom the House of David rules.

We have then the bill of divorcement held by the motherland of Britain . . . in trust for the family.

The logical mind will see that the dialogue began with the daughter nation in the isles, while the mother nation was still in the Assyrian captivity. But now we are presenting the motherland as being in the Isles and the daughter nations "overseas." Some will ask, is there not confusion here?

There is no confusion, simply the logical movement of national history. The mother nation was in captivity in Assyria, and the daughter nation was in the Isles.

Then through the lips of this same prophet Isaiah came the marching orders to mother Israel, to leave the land of the Assyrians, and to take up the long march to the Isles. Here is the order of the day giving command to march forth: "Go ye forth of Babylon, flee ye from the Chaldeans, with a voice of singing declare ye, tell this, utter it even to the ends of the earth, say ye, The Lord hath redeemed his servant, Jacob . . .

There is no peace, sayeth the Lord, unto the wicked. (Isaiah xlviii 20-22.)

Now we turn to the very next paragraph, and we find that the commanded movement has been carried out, and that the "Isles" contain the original daughter nation, and also the "comers from afar." These comers from afar are manifestly those who in the paragraph immediately preceding were ordered out from Assyria. So daughter and mother were both found in the Isles, although yet so estranged as to be mentioned separately and to be unconscious of relationship. They were the ancient Britons, and the more recent Saxons and other kindred people.

So we have no confusion. We have the logical movement of history; and of the people who made it.

Britain, with her commonwealth of nations, over whom the House of David rules, is the holder of the bill of divorcement. She holds it primarily on her own behalf; and also for the whole household of Israel.

We shall proceed to consider, "What are the provisions of the Bill?" and how they affect Israel and the world at the present time.

The Golden Text

"Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men." Mark 1:17.

Week Of Prayer Schedule Drawn

At no time in the year are Christian peoples, in spite of their "unhappy divisions" more closely brought together than during the annual "Week of Prayer." The response to this universal call to worship is perhaps the most overt demonstration of the church's Catholicity. Denominational differences are no barrier where hearts sincerely converse with their God, and these are surely times when thoughtful people really will to place the world's ills before the Throne of Grace. "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of"; who knows, but that through this medium we may have not only a wider fellowship of saints, but further, the awful calamity that seems always to threaten us may be warded off. Certainly God cannot, or at least does not, bestow His richest blessings until the world has prepared itself by prayer. With faith in these things, we recall that the Pentecost experience came when "they were all with one accord in one place." When these early Christians prayed "The place was shaken where they were assembled together; they were filled with the Holy Ghost, and they spake the word of God with boldness, and the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and of one soul . . . and great grace was upon them all." Surely the Week of Prayer offers to every Christian both a great privilege and a pressing duty.

The Peterborough Ministerial Association has made arrangements to carry out the international program both in spirit and letter. From Monday to Friday two city churches will be open each day for the convenience of any who may wish to stop in for a quiet period of meditation and prayer. These churches will be open from 2 to 4 p.m., and the minister of the church will be present from 3 to 4 p.m. to assist in devotional worship. You are invited to keep this list of churches which will be open for afternoon meditation.

Monday—George Street United; Park Street Baptist.

Tuesday—Murray Street Baptist; All Saints' Anglican.

Wednesday—St. James' United; St. Andrew's United.

Thursday—St. Paul's Presbyterian; Mark Street United.

Friday—Salvation Army Temple; Trinity United.

In the evening at 8 p.m. services of worship will be held at which the International programs and subjects for prayer will be followed. At each service a speaker is being brought in by the association to give an address. On Monday evening at St. Andrew's United Church the speaker will be the Rev. B. S. Black, B.A., B.D., of Campbellford Presbyterian Church. On Tuesday evening at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, the Rev. J. M. Young, B.A., of Omemee Presbyterian Church will preach. Rev. Sutcliffe has secured the services of Rev. L. F. Kidd, B.A., of Toronto, editor of "The Canadian Baptist" for the Wednesday evening service at Knox United Church, while Rev. R. H. Rickard, B.A., of Colborne United Church will preach on Thursday evening at Murray Street Baptist Church. On Friday evening at All Saints' the prayer theme of "Home Life and Education" will be observed. Col. John Southall of Toronto will bring the week of prayer services to a close with his address at the Salvation Army Temple on Satudary evening.

"O come let us worship and bow down."

Minister Plans To Review 1938

Rev. E. W. Young will review the year 1938 in his address in St. Andrew's church on next Sunday night. The year that has gone from us has been one of upheaval and conflict. The politician looks back upon it to see what evidence it has to offer of the value of political theories, the economist assesses it by its contribution to the dismal science which he represents. The militarist sees the year in the light of the march of armies, and the evolution of navies. Surely there is a place for the religious man in the company of those who look back upon the year that is gone. What contributions has it made to human brotherhood. What about the values which Christ put upon human life, and personality; are we nearer to His standard?

How do we assess the treaty between Ireland and England? the Munich treaty? What does Jesus think of the continued conflict between Jew and Arab in Palestine, of the French labour troubles?

Has the soul of humanity developed in value or has it degenerated during the year?

What are the unsolved problems which 1938 hands on to 1939? Have we really made any advance during this year of grace, 1938?

How far have we any personal responsibility in the social wrongs of to-day?

Tin factories in the Netherlands are expanding to care for defence contracts.

PETER CALLED TO SERVE

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 1 is John 1: 35-42; Luke 5: 1-11; the Golden Text being Mark 1:17, "Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.")

BY NEWMAN CAMPBELL

LAST SUNDAY we told the story of Jesus' birth. Today we find Him a grown man, preaching to multitudes of people, and calling men to give up their work and follow Him.

Two charming stories are told in the Gospel of Luke of the time in between, when He was a child. The first tells of the Baby Jesus being taken to Jerusalem to the temple, to be "presented to the Lord," and a sacrifice made for Him, according to Jewish law. Now there lived in Jerusalem an old man whose name was Simeon, whose days were nearly done. But the Holy Ghost came to him and told him that he should not die until he had seen the Christ Child. So Simeon went to the temple, and when he saw Joseph and Mary with the Holy Babe, he took Him up in his arms and blessed God and then said: "Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace, according to Thy word, for mine eyes have seen Thy salvation."

Then there is the story which we told some weeks ago, about Jesus and His parents again in Jerusalem, and Joseph and Mary starting for home and missing their Son. You remember how they found Him in the temple talking with the priests and how he couldn't understand why they were worried about Him, for He "was about His father's business." These were some of the things that Mary, His Mother, "kept in her heart."

Now when Jesus was a grown man and began preaching, He had at first no followers. But Jesus had been baptized by John the Baptist, who really was his cousin, and was sent to prophesy Jesus' coming. While Jesus was being baptized by John, the Holy Ghost had descended upon Him, and the heavens had opened and a voice was heard to say, "This is my Dearly Beloved Son in whom I am well pleased."

Now two men had seen this and they followed Jesus and lived with Him. Andrew was still another who had witnessed the baptism, and he called the brother of Simon. He sought his brother and took him to Jesus. When He saw Simon, he called him Cephas, or Peter, which means a rock or a stone, meaning that he was strong and reliable.

Now Simon Peter and his brothers were fishermen, and a year after this meeting, they met Jesus again at Galilee. They had fished all night and were weary and discouraged. Jesus came to the beach where their boats were anchored, and He got into one of the boats and told Peter to row a little way out into the sea. Then He talked to the people on the shore who had come to hear Him.

He knew that fishermen, His friends, were tired and disheartened and He told them to row out further and to cast their nets into the water. They didn't think it would do much good, but they did as He said because they believed in Him. And behold, when they drew the nets in again they were so full of fish that they almost swamped the boats and they had to call someone to help them.

Peter was so overcome by this that he fell on his knees before Jesus and said: "Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, Oh Lord." He felt so unworthy to be a companion to the One who could do such wonders. But Jesus said: "Fear not; from henceforth thou shalt catch men."

When these fishermen had brought their ships to land, the story tells, they "forsook all, and followed Him."

Jesus knew that these men, poor and uneducated as they were, would understand and be true to Him, and do the work He wanted them to do in the world. They obeyed Him unquestioningly. Do you remember the story of the rich young man who also wanted to live a Christian life? He came to Jesus and asked what he must do to inherit eternal life. Jesus told him to keep the commandments. "These things have I done since my youth," said the rich man.

"Then," said Jesus, "sell all thou hast and give to the poor." But unlike Peter, John, Luke and all the other disciples, this man was not willing to "leave all and follow Him." He was not willing to give up his riches. So he "went sorrowfully away."

Propose Teachers Serve On Councils

TORONTO, Dec. 31. — (C.P.). — The Ontario Department of Education and the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs will be asked by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation to take immediate steps to make it possible for teachers to serve on municipal councils if elected by the people.

In annual meeting yesterday, the Federation endorsed a recommendation of the Legislation Committee headed by Aileen Noonan, Windsor, to press these departments to take steps to clarify that section of the Municipal Act which at present disbars school teachers from holding municipal office.

Federation members contended teachers were entitled to full citizenship and the right to serve on municipal councils if elected. They claimed the section of the Act in need of clarification was not intended originally to affect teachers, but was designed to curb contractors and others who might benefit directly from sitting on a municipal council.

The Federation decided to ask principals of schools throughout Ontario to assist in obtaining signatures of teachers and pupils for a petition in support of national scholarships for worthy and needy students, to be presented to the Federal Government.

Unanimous endorsation was given the resolution presented to Parliament by Paul Martin, Liberal M.P. for Essex East, which asked for establishment of national scholarships for carefully selected students who were financially unable to obtain higher education on completing secondary school.

Cathedral Musings

Few people realize that all speculation as to the nature of God is absolutely futile. We do not even understand ourselves, still less do we enter into the hearts of our fellowmen, how then can we even approach the Divine mystery that we recognize as the Supreme. Suffice it to say that God is everything that man, qua man, is not. Only by seeking the Christ-consciousness within ourselves can we approach the merest fringe of the Divine mystery.

Every thinking man at some time or other realizes the mystery of his own being, that is, he feels the difficulty of his whence, why, and whither. It is only in moments of rare spiritual exaltation that he can look up to the splendour of the heavens and triumphantly affirm that should all the glory of the stars be done away with, yet he, in himself, is ageless and eternal. So it is only in moments of supreme insight that he can really look into the heart of his brother, and understanding all, find pity for his weaknesses and not condemnation. And yet, it would follow in the footsteps of the Master, we must have at least, a measure of this insight. We must, at least, have made some attempt to understand ourselves as that we may better understand others. We must, at least, have made some attempt to seek the Kingdom of Heaven within ourselves, for if we have no spiritual values within ourselves, how can we see the spiritual worth of others? How can we apprehend the Glory of God in all that surrounds us, if we sense not His splendour within us? Of what value is it to speak of peace on earth, goodwill to men, if we have not peace and goodwill in our hearts?

A blind man knows nothing of light, and he who stifles his spiritual nature becomes blind to spiritual things. It cannot be otherwise, for faculties that are not used dwindle away and perish. Life is eternal and the soul goes on, but are our personalities valuable when considered in terms of spiritual value? Are we laying up treasure in heaven to be added unto us when the illusion of this material life vanishes away and we stand and know ourselves for what we really are? When all illusion, all pretence is stripped away and the White Light of the Truth of God beats upon us so that we stand revealed in spiritual nakedness.

Peter Called to Serve — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Bueschер

Scripture—John 1:35-42; Luke 5:1-11.

Andrew had heard John the Baptist speak and believed Jesus was the Messiah. He sought his brother, Simon, and took him to Jesus.

On the shore of Galilee Jesus found a boat, and having it pushed out away from shore, Jesus stood in it and preached.

The fishermen had caught no fish, but Jesus told them to throw their nets into the water, and they were returned full of fish.

When Simon Peter saw this miracle, he fell on his knees at Jesus' feet, for he was astonished. (GOLDEN TEXT—Mark 1:17.)

WHERE DID YOU SPEND NEW YEAR'S DAY IN 1919?

Main Street Topics

By Examiner Reporters

BANK CLEARINGS

Clearings passing through the Peterborough Clearing House in 1938 amounted to $30,946,954 a decrease of $1,713,628 from 1937. Clearings for the month of December totalled $2,759,476.

STORES OPEN TONIGHT

New Year's eve falling on Saturday night the stores are remaining open this year. Under the city's by-law stores are called upon to close on New Year's eve except when it falls on a Saturday. All stores will close tonight at the usual Saturday night closing time.

POLLING HOURS

Polls open on Monday in Peterborough at nine o'clock and close at five. In past years a very small vote has always been cast in the morning and early afternoon and has rushed in during the last hour causing considerable congestion around the polling booths.

ADJOURNED TWO WEEKS

Charged Friday as a third offender under the Liquor Control Act an Ashburnham man who had been remanded until this morning had his case adjourned for two weeks when he appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

NO EVIDENCE OFFERED

The painter whose explanation of his apparent drunkenness was that he had been overcome by the fumes of the turpentine he had been using earned him a week's adjournment this morning when Chief Newhall offered no evidence against him.

PRACTICE ON TUESDAY.

The Peterborough Male Chorus will resume practices following the holiday season, on Tuesday evening, January 3, in the Y.M.C.A. at 8 p.m. A full attendance is urgently requested by the directors of the organization.

CALLED OUT OF CITY

Alderman Herb McCannan, who is seeking re-election on Monday, has been asked to be pall-bearer at the funeral of Rev. Dr. J. A. Mackenzie, former member of Knox church, in Toronto on Monday, and will not be in the city. Rev. MacKenzie was a very dear friend of Alderman McCannan

CAR DAMAGED

A car belonging to Percy D. Drain Dummer was damaged Friday when it skidded on the icy road into the rea rof a truck driven by Evans White at the corner of George and Westcott streets. White had stopped to let a passenger off his truck when Drain's car came along. The lighter vehicle had two windows broken and sustained other damage.

SMALL MARKET

The holiday spirit and color had nearly all faded out of the market this morning, and the outdoor area was reduced to the average winter proportions. Chickens at 10 o'clock were 20c, geese 25c, eggs 28 to 30c, butter 23c, and turkeys were from 25 to 30 cents with a light offering of birds that looked exactly like those of last week, and probably would taste just as turkeyish, but lacking the subtle flavor of Christmas.

ALL READY

The civic machinery is all ready for Monday's election. This week notices were sent out to all the voters telling them where their ballots are to be cast, the election officials are all ready for work and nothing remains but the actual voting. The polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. It should be remembered that it is necessary to vote for at least four candidates and not more than five.

A TRIPLE CRASH

Three automobiles were involved in a traffic accident at McDonnel and Aylmer streets Friday. Dr. Arthur T. Johnston was driving west on McDonnel street when his car came into collision with a southbound car driven by Jeremiah Mahoney, R. R. No. 10, Peterborough. The impact sent the Johnston car into an automobile parked on the north side of McDonnel street and owned by H. C. Pullyblank, 904 Dundas street, Woodstock. The Johnston and Pullyblank automobiles were damaged. No one was hurt.

MAROONED ON BRIDGE

Carl Duffus and Bob Juby spent four hours on Friday at Bridgenorth while a service crew rescued their car from a low spot on the floating bridge. The boys claim there was no barricade to indicate the bridge was impassable but the bridge tender claims the barrier was removed by farmers. At the present time it is impossible to drive across the bridge and the ice on the lake is not safe.

NEW YEAR'S DAY AT POST OFFICE

On Monday the public lobby will be open from 6.30 a.m. to 6.00 p.m All wickets will be open from 8.00 a.m. to 12.00 noon. The regular morning delivery will be given by the letter carriers. There will be no delivery by the Rural Route couriers. The collections will be made from the street letter boxes as usual, and all mail posted will be despatched as usual.

WISHES FOR NEW YEAR.

And so Main Street comes to the end of another year. Festive sights and sounds will be stored away in its memory during the week end, and then the Street swings into the New Year of 1939. Let's do the swinging with the bands playing, and start down the street called the New Year with hearts high even if some of them are not so buoyant. Main Street probably desires to wish its own folks, the daily regulars, a Happy New Year, increasing business, and larger crowds. Also, good wishes to the neighbors and to that colorful summer crowd who may be considered to be represented by Peterborough's fine friend, Morris Ackerman of Cleveland, O., publisher of Ackerman's Sportsman's Guide, promoter of the tourist business into the Kawarthas, and typical of the summer crowds.

Canadian Forces Were Forming Army Of Occupation In Germany Twenty Years Ago

Dies In Toronto

Rev. Dr. J. A. MacKenzie, who for nine years was the beloved pastor of Knox Presbyterian church (now United) who is dead in Toronto. Dr. MacKenzie some months ago was forced to resign his charge in Saskatoon through ill health.

Where were you on New Year's Day, January 1st, 1919, the first New Year after the Armistice had been signed and peace restored to a sad and weary world. That was just 20 years ago tomorrow.

On December 13th, 1918 the Canadians had marched into Germany across the Cologne bridge as part of the army of occupation in the Rhineland. Old soldiers will remember the day, will recall too the heavy rainstorm and Sir Arthur Currie, standing at the German side of the bridge with his coat collar up around his neck taking the salute as the Canadians filed by. They will remember the long faces of the Germans who lined the streets and will grin as they are reminded that there were no women on the street because German civilians had been told as part of the war propaganda that the Canadians were ferocious Indians and thought nothing of scalping women and children.

With a view to ascertaining where Peterborough residents were on that New Year's Day 20 years ago a reporter made enquiries not only among ex-servicemen but others and the following are their answers to the question: "Where were you 20 years ago New Year's Day".

Constable Gordon Puffer—I was in Cologne, Germany and I was one of the first four soldiers to cross the Cologne bridge. We walked four abreast and followed the headquarters staff. I remember when the column marched up the streets in Cologne a Sgt.-major would walk alongside and knock the hats off any German who did not doff his hat as the colors passed. I was with the 14th Royal Montreal Rifles.

Fire Chief George Gimblett — I was on leave in London on New Year's Day and attached to the 31st Battery.

George Smith, assistant fire chief —New Year's Day 1919 was a pleasant day for me. I had just left Moore Barrack's Hospital, Shorncliffe, England after spending three months getting over a shrapnel wound. The Boche popped me in October 1918 less than three weeks before the Armistice was signed.

Alf White, 271 Simcoe Street —At that time I was a chief petty officer in the Royal Navy. I ate dinner on H.M.S. Lancaster, a British cruiser at Esquimault on the British Columbia coast. Later we went to South America and the Lancaster was the second British warship to pass through the Panama Canal.

Neil Driscoll, Stanley Avenue now a buttermaker with the Canada Packers here—Our outfit the 44th Battery was billetted in an unfinished convent at Overish, Belgium. We had a turkey dinner and I remember well that a small pond near the convent did not freeze all through the winter and two swans could be seen swimming around every day.

Dick Raine, Tobacconist—I was still living at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England. I did not come to Canada until 1924.

Dave Tucker, 634 Downie street—I was with the 21st Battalion occupying the line of control at Siegburg in Germany. One of our jobs was to see that no Germans were on the streets after 9 o'clock at night. I don't remember what we had for dinner but we made out you can rely on that.

J. H. Jamieson, Manager Canadian Department Stores—In 1919 I was living at 14 India street in Belfast, Ireland and working in a clothing store owned by Robonsin, Ledlie, Ferguson Company.

Harold Freeman, barber—I was at Valenciennes, Frances and as luck would have it on New Year's Day I had the job of acting quarter master sergeant. It was a swell job, fact is the best I ever had and none of my friends suffered from the cold.

Constable Jack Naples—I was a stoker on the mine sweeper, Armentieres, and on New Year's Day if I remember correctly we were lying in Halifax harbor being fitted for a southern cruise.

H. K. Clifton—I was with the second division at Cologne in Germany. On New Year's Day in 1919 we had dinner in a little German restaurant with German music. There was a scarcity of butter but the food was good otherwise.

Bill Gracie, caretaker Legion Hall —I was with the 9th Royal Scots and we were quartered in a small place near Brussels, Belgium. Everything was quiet and we have a swell time.

Red Wade—I was in Bonn Germany where the Canadian Corps headquarters were. On New Year's Day a fellow named Fitzgibbons from Brockville, Bulldog Hudson from Oshawa and myself hunted around until we found a farmhouse. We got a turkey at a bargain and had a lovely dinner. Bonn is called the Oxford of Germany. I was with the 2nd Battalion.

Frank (Paddy) Burke, Armature department, C.G.E.—I was with the 2nd Division Trench Mortars and we were part of the Army of Occupation and on New Year's Day we were at Sieglar, 6 miles from Bonn in Germany. We were billetted with the citizens in their homes and they treated us right. The food was good and there was plenty of it.

Morley Plunkett, Insurance Agent —I was with the Dumbells at Mons in Belgium. We were quarted in a Belgian chateau and on New Year's Day had dinner with the owner and his wife, a cavalry general in the Belgian army. It was the first meal he had in his own home in four years. My brother had a theatrical school in the chateau for the Canadian corps.

Dan Maconomy, Park street— At that time I was with the 21st Battalion which was part of the army of occupation in Germany. Pete Wallace and myself were on leave at Leeds in England on New Year's Day. I can remember well when the Canadians marched into Germany an officer ordered a small patrol to flank the column and walk along with the handles of trench tools in their hands. Any German who failed to take his hat off as the flag passed, had his hat knocked off and some caught a bump on the head along with it. They certainly had faces a mile long.

Bruce Clark, Armour Road—I was invalided home in 1917 and spent New Year's with my family in Peterborough.

Maurice Dunkley, 525 Romaine street—I was with the Canadian Record Office in London, England. We recorded the dead, wounded, missing and discharged men and it was not a pleasant task. On New Year's Day I had turkey dinner with all the trimmings.

DECLINE INVITATION

LONDON—(CP).—Noted British runners, S. C. Wooderson and A. G. K. Brown, have declined invitations to compete in United States in February. Wooderson also turned down an invitation to run in Berlin in the same month.

Two Young Airmen Were Feared Lost

Fears for the safety of two young Peterboorugh fliers were put at rest late Friday afternoon when a telegram was received from Ottawa notifying anxious friends and relatives of their safe arrival in the Capital city. The two men were Frank Montgomery and Wilfred Lee, both of this city.

The notification came some four hours late and for that length of time officials at the Peterborough Air Service base at Chemong Lake, and relatives and friends of the two men were waiting anxiously, hopes fading that they were safe. At about 11.30 o'clock in the morning Montgomery and Lee took off from Lake Chemong for Ottawa, telling airport officials they would send a telegram to them immediately on arrival. They should have arrived in Ottawa shortly after two in the afternnoon, and as a matter of fact they did, but no telegram was received here. Shortly before six o'clock the Examiner called the Ottawa Flying club to ask if the plane had landed at the Uplands airport. It had not. The men there said they would check with Rockcliff airport. A few minutes later the long awaited telegram was received here. The men had landed at Rockcliff.

Montgomery is a licensed pilot who received his training at the Air Service base at Chemong. With Lee as passenger, he was making his way in a direct line from Peterborough to Ottawa, a distance by air of close to 150 miles.

It was feared he might have been forced down in the rocky bush land that he would have to pass over in making such a trip. A direct line from Peterborough to Ottawa necessitates flying over extremely rough country, and had they gone down they might have been miles and miles from the nearest farms or communities.

Canadian Legion Notes

The entertainment committee has decided to run a series of weekly social games during the winter and the first party will be held on Wednesday next. There will be good prizes and comrades and friends are asked to read the ads which appear in the Examiner on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

The Legion minstrel troupe is coming along well and the indications are for a well balanced cast that will be able to give the public a first class entertainment. All members are urged to attend the rehearsal that will take place on Friday evening next at 8 p.m. in the Armouries. It is a great pleasure to report that the Legion carnival and draw was a thumping success and shows what can be done with a little team work judicially mixed with a dash of enthusiasm.

On the carpet ball front we have to report that Legion teams No. 11 and 12 met in a local derby or dogfight (take your choice) on Thursday. Each team won a game but the roars of the combatants could be heard for blocks. We have now reached the end of another year, a year full of alarms and excursions and the best wish we can give is that during the coming year the Facists and the Communists and all the other ists will give us a rest.

The lady who lost her bracelet some time ago has not yet called for it. If this meets her eye will she kindly call and get her property.

Helped Play Santa Claus

Fire Chief George Gimblett has compiled a list of persons and companies who helped the firemen play Santa Claus last week, by lending trucks and cars for delivering parcels. T. Doughty, F. Rowan. B. Deck, F. Goodfellow, Johnston Motors, N. H. Bradley, the Maple Leaf Milling Company, the Scott Coal and Lumber Company, the Peterborough Lumber Company, Jack Seels, are all mentioned. V. Whittington gave the use of a truck to gather toys all week long. Chief Gimblett said the department had received cigars and cigarettes from the Western Clock Company, the Quaker Oats, Woolworth's, Zeller's, G. N. Gordon, Metropolitan Stores and from Walter Belleghem.

Hopwood Re-elected

At the annual meeting of the Commercial Travellers' Association of Canada held in Toronto on Tuesday, W. J. Hopwood was re-elected by acclamation to the post of director for Peterborough. While the secretary's report showed only a small increase in membership, the treasurer's and secretary's reports show satisfactory progress. After paying all current expenses and mortuary claims of $152,000, they were able to add $105,000 to the mortuary reserve, which enabled the actuary to place it on a three per cent. basis, making an additional security for all mortuary commitments. As a concession to older members, those of more than 35 years' standing will be placed, after this year, on practically a paid-up policy basis.

Trustees Elected For United Section

Otonabee farmers in the Keene area broke the fetters of an old convention in the election of the first board of trustees for the five schools that are merging into one school area.

The trustees were elected by acclamation at the municipal nominations held at Keene. They ar: Ambrose Doris of Keene school, Fred Nelson of Lang, R. R. Dixon of Mather's, Frank Graystock of Zion, and Roy Porter of Providence school, otherwise section fourteen.

J. J. Mcore, township clerk, has the duty of designating the three trustees who are to act for two years, and the remaining two trustees for one year. At the elections for 1940 two members will be elected for two years, and in the following year there will be three elected for two years and so on. The new board will meet at the call of the clerk, and immediately assumes the administration of the five schools. They appoint their treasurer and generally organize for the future.

Farmers in the Lang-Keene-Mather's Corners area of Otonabee are virtually pioneering in this form of school administration in Peterborough county, and their enterprise will be followed with interest by other areas.

No Fuel, Deserted Wife Found Huddled In Bed With Baby

Guelph, Ont., Dec. 31 (CP). EVIDENCE to the effect that Alfred Dennis, Nichol township, left his wife and 14-months-old baby in their farm home without fire, and with a piece of frozen goat meat and three cans of condensed milk for food was given in police court here today when Dennis was charged with non support.

He was found guilty and sentenced to six to nine months in the Ontario Reformatory.

The mother and child were in bed, fully clad, trying to keep warm, when Provincial Constable P. P. Seibert reached the farm on Sunday, Dec. 18, the officer told the court.

Six Charges Net Coe Hill Man Year Term

TWEED, Dec. 31.—George Boyd, Coe Hill, was sentenced to one year and one month in the Ontario Reformatory, in Madoc police court on Tuesday afternoon, on six charges. Boyd appeared on a charge of corrupting the morals of children, with James Minzie and Minerva Minzie, and all three were given a determinate period of eleven months and an additional indeterminate period of one month, the maximum under the section.

In addition, Boyd was sentenced to two months to run concurrently to the other term, when it was learned he was at present on a year's suspended sentence for breaking and entering cottages in North Hastings. He was given two months on each of five charges. James Minzie received a similar sentence.

Loses License For Year.

Convicted of reckless driving, Wellington Munro, 19, of Madoc, was fined $50.00 and costs amounting to $32.75 on Thursday by Magistrate J. L. Lloyd. Accused was found not guilty on a charge of criminal negligence arising from an accident in Madoc on Nov. 23, when Mrs. Arthur Parks, Madoc, suffered a fractured left leg. In addition, the court cancelled Munro's license to drive for one year.

Plunges Off Truck.

Hurled from the top of the truck on which he was working, by the force of the gale that swept this district, William Hudgin, Mountain View resident, was rushed to the office of a Bloomfield physician in a semi-conscious state, suffering from head injuries.

Hudgin was spreading sand on the icy highways and had partially turned around when a particularly heavy gust of wind caught him, tossing him on his head on the pavement.

Pea Viners Wrecked.

Whirling and twisting in almost cyclonic fury, the terrific gale that swept Prince Edward county this week left in its wake a mass of tangled wreckage and ruins of what was formerly a pea-vining station, property of the Canadian Canners Ltd., at Bethel.

The building withstood the onslaught of the elements for three hours, then gradually crumpled beneath the relentless attack and crashed to the ground. The station housed two pea-vining machines and was in a fair state of repair, it is stated.

Police Ordered To Exhume Barber's Body

Acting on a warrant issued by the Attorney-General's Department Provincial Constable David Silvester had the body of William Lorne Barber who died in Nicholls Hospital here on July 9, exhumed in Little Lake Cemetery Friday morning and in the afternoon, Dr. Frankish, medical advisor to the Attorney-General's department, removed some of the organs and took them to Toronto for analysis.

No reason for this action has so far been given out.

Barber, who was 58 years of age and who was born in Shannonville, Ontario, had long been a resident of Akron, O., where he was employed for a long time by the Goodrich Company. He had visited Peterborough on a number of occasions and came back early last summer. He was not in good health when he arrived here and soon after his condition became worse and was removed to Nicholls Hospital where he died on the morning of Saturday, July 9.

Four brothers and a sister survive. They are George of Syracuse, N.Y.; Frank of Watertown; Robert, Deseronto and Sam Shannonville and Mrs. Esther Chose, Toronto.

It is understood that the burial certificate signed by Dr. W. J. Gordon gave the cause of death as cerebral thrombosis and arterio celerosis.

Rev. Dr. Mackenzie Dies In Toronto

Rev. Dr. J. A. MacKenzie, former pastor of Knox United church, died in Toronto at his residence at 15 Folkes street, Toronto, on Friday. He was 51 years old.

Dr. MacKenzie is well remembered in this city, where he was widely known during his service here as a kindly, sincere man. He came to Knox church in the fall of 1914, leaving in 1923. "He was a man much beloved by the people of his church," said Secretary of the Board, John Byers.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Margaret Hay, and three children, Ronald, Cameron and Margaret. The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon from Runnymede United church at 2 o'clock, with interment in La Chute, Quebec.

CHAPTER 39

NOW THERE are two or three ways to get rid of your rival if you are a woman in love and without compassion.

You can take the rival out in a boat, for instance, and maneuver to drown her. It has been done. It is quite effective in that it removes the competition from the scene forever. It is as effective and not nearly as messy as shooting or stabbing or poisoning.

But none of these is entirely perfect as a modus operandi. The law doesn't approve. And, even though the law could be circumvented (as it frequently can be), the man himself wouldn't necessarily erase the departed one from his heart. A much better, safer way would be to contrive some plan whereby the rival is discredited in the eyes of the man himself.

This latter thought had occupied the best attention that Peaches Pomeroy could give it. Peaches had some powerful weapons at her command. Among them was money.

Could she hire some woman to lure Bob Towne away from Sara Sue Davis? Possibly, but that still wouldn't leave Bob's heart free; he would be just shifting his attention to another woman, not herself.

Could she hire some man to lure the Davis person away from Bob? No, because that would only stimulate Bob's own energies, make him woo Sara Sue all the more ardently. Bob already had competition, and hadn't quit.

What, then, could Peaches do?

If Sara Sue Davis could just be compromised—

If she could be suddenly exposed in an embarrassing situation with some man, then Bob Towne would discover that she was unfaithful and so—

But it is difficult to compromise anybody. It means hiring someone to do it. It means that the plot can backfire on you, revealing your part in it to your complete embarrassment and detriment. And besides that, Peaches had to admit to herself that the Davis woman was clever. Sara Sue enjoyed a most wholesome and clean reputation; she wouldn't likely be caught napping.

Peaches had been giving bitter thought to these details. Even to the possibility of destroying Sara Sue in an "accident". She shied promptly off the latter, however, for she was inherently a coward. But she was a shrewd, scheming one, and when she sat alone at the dance, idly twisting her diamond bracelet, she had her sudden inspiration.

She felt at once that her idea was sound.

It could be worked easily. It would involve no accomplices. It would discredit Sara Sue in a most logical way, publicly, scandalously.

Sara Sue was known to be a widow. Widows are traditionally destitute. In fact, Sara Sue herself had set out to earn a living with her so-called Counsel in Romance. (Peaches referred to it contemptuously, even in her thoughts.) It should be easy for people to believe that Sara Sue was in dire need of money. Yes, it seemed like an excellent plan.

"I wish I had a drink first," Peaches murmured.

But she got up from the divan in the women's lounge, and went immediately to set her plan in operation.

It would seem that a married man could enjoy a modicum of respect from his associates. Married life is supposed to entail a certain dignity. A married man is supposed to be mature. But—ho hum. Not if you are a freshman. Not if your whirlwind romance and elopement has been a fillip of pleasure for everybody on a college campus. Not if you are rather popular, and you and your pretty bride are just 18 years old.

Mister Worthington Gurley, married man, had suffered interminably (but not unpleasantly) from sophomores. These latter tyrants had felt duty bound to give him extra attention when he stole away the sweetest girl in the freshman class. When he returned to the campus after his elopement, for instance, he was forced to wear old shoes strung around his neck for three more—symbols of his new state.

Most of the Rice folk, therefore, came to know Worthington and Marcia Gurley. But Peaches Pomeroy did not. Peaches knew Marcia by sight, but she had never been conscious of Worthington. The latter was a mere freshman, a slime, beneath her notice socially; one of the noisy crowd that clutter up the campus. She might have met him somewhere, but she had no impression of his looks. He was just one of the 300-odd freshmen who had registered at Rice in September.

Accordingly, Peaches did not recognize the lad when she went to the hat-and-coat check room of the University club.

She saw a "bell hop" there in charge, a "buttons", a youngster in a tight red monkey suit such as any bell boy might wear. But she did not know him. She naturally assumed that he was what he appeared to be—a club servant. She came up to him, glancing around to be sure they were momentarily alone.

"Oh, boy," she purred, smiling, "would you please run out and get me a 10-cent packet of aspirin? I have a terrible headache. Here—here's 50 cents. Just keep the change."

"Hello, Miss Pomeroy," Worthington spoke heartily. "Having a good time?"

But then, she had her plan. It wouldn't do to let personal feelings interfere now. She forced a becoming smile again, such a condescending smile as one might give a faithful old gardener, if one were in a balmy mood.

"Oh, quite," she declared. "A very gay group, isn't it? Is—is everything running smoothly with the staff?"

"Hunh? Oh. I see what you mean. Yeah. Say, gosh, you look nice in your Spanish costume. Who'd you come with?"

Peaches glared at him. Such effrontery! She wanted to slap his impudent face. It took genuine will power to control her feelings, but she did.

"Will you get my aspirin, or not?" She spoke ominously.

"Oh, all right, all right." The lad thought he was merely being hazed some more—by a senior girl, by another upperclassman who was acting a part. "You'll have to watch the checking counter while I go, though. They'll kill me if I leave it unguarded."

"I'll stay right here by it for you," she assured him. That was, indeed, exactly a part of her plan.

Worthington took the 50-cent piece, and came around the corner. He grinned again at Peaches, assuming the friendship he had a right to feel even from a senior girl, but holding to tradition and not speaking any more.

Worthington was a conformist. He had come to love Rice and its traditions, even those that worked so-called hardships on freshmen. He realized that next year he would be a sophomore—then HIS sun would shine! It is the great and powerful hope of every freshman everywhere.

The sophs had picked on Worthington this night for two excellent reasons. First, he was a likeable, tractable freshman known to be a good sport and known to enjoy a good time. Second, he "had it coming to him" because he had dared to make love to and marry a Rice girl, in spite of the sophomores. He was very young of face and form. In short, he was the perfect slime to play bell hop.

Now the sophomores had some definite plans for this dance, this big international ball. For one thing, they expected to bring a genuine bull up the elevator of the University club about midnight, and so honor Mexico with a bull fight somewhat more real than the impromptu one that Don Romero and Bob Towne had staged. Even now they had the yearling bull tied in the club garage downstairs.

But the sophs also wanted some fun at the finale of the night's whoopee. Wherefore, they "took over" the hat-and-coat checkroom by placing Slime Gurley in charge, in a buttons uniform. When they got around to it, they would go in and exchange the checks, switching them every conceivable way. At closing, Slime Gurley would get the brunt of the trouble. And the sophs would sit back for some academic laughter — having first claimed their own hats and coats properly, of course.

Worthington knew these things. He hadn't been stupid. He had even agreed—with boyish zest—to act the part as best he could, for he could see the possibilities of fun. He had been out dancing earlier in the evening, then had slipped into his buttons suit on command. He had only the last dance with Marcia anyway, now, and he might have to give that up. Oh, well, he had her for keeps; she would understand, for she was a freshman, too.

He came around the counter, therefore, grinning knowingly at Peaches Pomeroy.

"One packet of aspirin," he spoke very correctly then, acting. "Yes, madam, I'll get it at once."

Then he disappeared, leaving Peaches alone. At once the hard look came back to Peaches' face. Anyone, seeing it, would surely have been frightened.

Teach Yourself to Ski—Find Jolly New Pals

What a thrill! The gay group makes you one of them—cheers as you test your brand new skis.

Get set for a happy landing! Keep skis close together, bend forward so that chin, knees, and toes are in a straight line. This is the correct position to take for average downhill speed. It's known as the Medium Crouch.

Going uphill, use the Side Step. This is like climbing stairs sideways, except you make your own steps. Raise uphill ski and edge it into the snow. Do the same with downhill ski, bringing it up parallel to the other.

Take a veteran's tips on costume. Choose smooth-faced materials snow won't stick to. Wear layers of lightweight clothing you can shed when you're too warm.

It's exciting as flying, graceful as dancing. Anyone can learn to ski. Have fun from the start by following diagrams, directions in our 32-page booklet. Downhill running. Stems and turns. Climbing. Jumping. Pointers on inexpensive equipment. Ice carnivals, skating.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of SELF-INSTRUCTION IN SKIING AND OTHER WINTER SPORTS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Double Liquor Tax

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Dec. 31. —(CP).—Increase of two per cent in the "luxury tax" on liquor, the proceeds to be devoted to educational purposes, was advocated at the final session of the annual convention of the Saskatchewan Committee on School Administration and Organization here yesterday. The present education tax on liquor is two per cent.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl of 18, going with a young man who wants me to marry him. He is out of a job and he also drinks. So do his brothers, who quarrel with their wives. His father and mother think a lot of me and want me to marry him because they think I will have a good influence over him. My parents object to this boy and tell me I would never be able to reform him. They want me to go with different boys and learn more about men before I get married. What would you say for me to do?

BETTY.

ANSWER:

I would urge you to take your parents' advice. No girl at 18 is qualified to make a choice of a husband, because she is too young to really know what she wants in a life mate, and she hasn't seen enough of men to be able to differentiate between them.

She doesn't know a good bargain from a bad bargain any more than she knows rayon from real silk. She is just as liable to pick out a man because he has curly hair or a "way" with him as she is to choose one with intelligence and stability and a strong character.

Every girl thinks she is in love with her first sweetheart, so don't be misled by thinking you have the grand passion for this boy because you like him better than any of the other boys you know. Give yourself time to really find out whether what you feel is a passing fancy, or an affection that will stand the wear and tear of years.

Don't delude yourself into the thought that there is some conjure in the marriage ceremony that will change him from what he is into what he should be. There isn't. And there is no other such myth on earth as that about a wife's sacred influence lifting a sot out of the gutter, or turning a lazy loafer into a go-getter.

If a man doesn't act like a man for the sake of his own self-respect and manhood, he is not going to do it for any woman. So don't paint any fancy picture of yourself as a miracle-worker who has reformed a drunkard and turned him into an exemplary citizen. Just see yourself as you will be five years from now—worn and old before your time, working to support a man who is too shiftless to support you, watching at night for the drag of drunken footsteps, perhaps cowering under his blows.

Nice picture, isn't it? And you will be a clever girl, won't you, to let yourself in for that at 18 when you didn't have enough sense to realize what you are doing? Think it over, Betty, and if you are determined to commit hari-kari do it in some easier and quicker way than by marrying a drunkard. The drunkard's wife has such a long drawn-out misery to endure.

• • • • • • •

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am working for a married man. Is it wrong for me to caress him and pat his head when we are alone in the office? I am very much in love with him. He is nice and kind to me, but has never shown me any affection. He has a fine wife and two sons. What would you advise one in my position to do? T.

ANSWER:

I would certainly advise you to behave yourself and to act with a little self-restraint and discretion, even if you do think you are in love with your employer. An office is no place for a petting party, nor is it any part of the duty of a working girl to caress and pet the bald head of the man who hires her.

Your letter rates you as a home-wrecker. Apparently this is your first job at it, but you set about it with the technique used by every woman who has seduced a man since the beginning of time. It is the old, tried and true, seldom-fail method of appealing to a man's baser instincts.

You find a man, middle-aged, domestic, happy with his wife and children, leading a decent life and with no thought of philandering. Let alone, he would jog along contentedly in his Darby and Joan role. He regards you as just a part of the office equipment, but you want him and you begin trying to win him by caressing and petting him and showing him that you have fallen in love with him. In spite of his moralities he is flattered and pleased, and evidently he is going the way of all flesh, or else he would fire you out of the door before you got in another kiss or pat on the head.

You think it is fun, or you think it shows your powers of fascination to have an affair with this man. Perhaps you are a gold-digger and think it is easier to work a man than it is to work a typewriter. But before you go any further count the cost, not only to this man and family, but to yourself. A sister woman whose happiness you have destroyed.

Children whose father has been taken from them. A broken home. A man who has lost the respect of his neighbors and is looked upon by them as a chump who let a little fool flapper wreck his life. Isn't that a pretty high price to pay for your pleasure?

And for yourself. Maybe the man's wife will divorce him. Maybe she won't. But whether she does or not you will always know that you have committed a crime worse than murder. And if the man never marries you, what will you be? Always a woman with a tarnished reputation whom other men are likely to pass up for a girl with clean skirts. Or maybe that most pathetic of all women, the one who loves a man she cannot marry and who waits and waits and waits for him until she sees his love for her die and knows that he wouldn't marry her if he could.

So my advice to you is to resign from the home-wrecking crew. Get another job in another office and keep your hands busy with your work instead of patting your boss' head.

• • • • • • •

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a little girl of 12 and wear ruby nail polish. My mother says I shouldn't do it. Please help me by giving me some advice. BLONDIE.

ANSWER:

Well, Blondie, nail polish isn't a moral issue. It is a matter of taste. Certainly little girls of 12 look a lot better if their nails are just like God made them, and pink with youth and health.

DOROTHY DIX.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, January 1.

Sunday's horoscope betokens the fruition of high hopes and aspirations, with much major activity in employment, professional life and industry. There may be a reward of merit from superiors and those in power. There also is a definite sign of adventure and romance with change and thrills. These are jeopardized by impetuous and rash indulgences.

Those whose birthday it is are assured an eventful and colorful year, with the promise of high hopes and dramatic adventures fulfilled. Promotion, preferment, stability of the fortunes (although these at times may fluctuate) are indicated. There may be definite change, new contacts and enlarged fields of operation, all tinged by the thrills of romance, travel, and the unusual or even spectacular. Such fine prospects would be imperiled by erratic, reckless and passionate indulgences.

A child born on this day is likely to be excitable, impulsive, and perhaps erratic, but at the same time it will be energetic and productive.

For Monday, January 2.

Monday's astrological forecast is a peculiar and perplexing one, judging by the lunar aspects. There may be many singular and intriguing situations which may be dramatically and drastically dragged into the limelight. The young and romantic should be peculiarly affected, with elders interfering with beneficient but ill-advised intrusions. With tact, diplomacy, and finesse, much might be accomplished to placate opposition.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of surprising and high adventure, with dramatic episodes and possible romantic intrigue. However, such may be accompanied by interference and caustic opposition of elders and the well intentioned. This situation may be turned to solid benefit by tact, ingenuity, or clever compromise, rather than quarrels and underhand methods.

A child borngn this day may be active, self-indulgent, and extremely resourceful in intrigue, shrewdness, and subtleties.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELA

"Well, well!" said Mr. Punch cheerfully to Ernest and Harold, the two shadow-children. "So to-morrow is New Year's Day! I suppose you're all going visiting!"

"Visiting, Mr. Punch?" said Ernest. "What do you mean?"

"It's an old custom," he replied. "On New Year's Day everyone pays visits to his friends. I've always done it. You put on your best clothes and you go from one friend to the other and say, 'Happy New Year.' Then he says, 'Happy New Year to you.'"

"It's a very nice custom," Harold said.

But Ernest looked puzzled.

"I was just wondering," Ernest said, "if everyone goes visiting everyone else, how is anyone home to be visited?"

Slipped His Mind.

"Hmm! a very nice question. It slipped my mind," said Mr. Punch. He remained deep in thought for a moment or two, with his finger to the side of his nose. Finally, he smiled and said: "I've just thought of how you go about it. You get up early on New Year's Day. Then you say to yourself: 'Shall I go visiting or shall I stay at home and be visited?' It doesn't matter which you decide. But you do have to decide. You see, it's all very simple."

The boy shadows were quite happy again. "And are you going to go visiting or are you going to be visited on New Year's Day?" they asked Mr. Punch.

"I think," he answered slowly, "that I'll go visiting this New Year's Day."

"Whom are you going to visit?"

"Everyone. First, I'm going to visit Judy because she's my wife. I'll visit her and have breakfast at the same time. Then I'll visit the Tin Soldier who stands right outside my door with his musket over his shoulder. Then I'll visit Miss China Doll. She always sits at the window of her little doll-house. I'll wave to her and she'll know it's a visit. Then I'll visit Mr. Jack-in-the-Box. I'll shout to him and perhaps he'll come popping out of his box and shake hands with me. And, finally, I'll visit the children."

"But how can you visit them, Mr. Punch? You can't walk unless they come and pull the strings attached to your legs. You're a puppet, you know."

Mr. Punch was silent for just one moment. "Why," he said, "of course I'll visit them. They'll come and pull the strings and then I'll walk as well as can be. And I'll walk all around them and say, 'Happy New Year—Happy New Year to you!' And we'll all visit together. Yes, that's exactly what we'll do," and he looked so happy that even his eyes smiled.

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

"Then I'll visit Miss China Doll."

Looking Back On This Date

Many years ago, during Sir John Macdonald's time, it used to be a custom of some of the sons of the Celts from Ontario to make a fuss about the travelling expenses of the governor-general. But this was just political pin-pricking, designed to catch votes of "Lime" farmers of Scottish descent in western Ontario. Nobody else ever paid much attention and the money was voted.

All through the story of Canada there has been complaint about the expense of the vice-regal office. Lord Dufferin, for example once told Sir John Macdonald that he had been compelled to pay out for travelling and entertainment at least $1,000 more than he had received. In course of time a compromise was reached by which the treasury paid a reasonable share of official tours by the governor-general. Yet the personal expenses of a viceroy are heavy and sometimes a man who would have suited the job had to decline because he could not afford it.

Yet it was much worse in the olden days. Lord Elgin, writing from government house, Toronto, on Dec. 31, 1851, complained of the high cost of travel. Like Lord Tweedsmuir he was convinced that it was the duty of a governor-general to visit as much of Canada as possible; but he found it decidedly hard on his purse. For instance, he made a journey from Montreal to Quebec and return and had to pay £150 each way for the steamer and then £400 for hotel bills for five days in all. Was it any wonder that he asked Lord Grey to increase his travelling allowance and so permit him to save a little of his personal income?

No explanation is given why Elgin was not transported in a government vessel, nor why he should have had to stay at a hotel in Quebec when there was the Citadel and Spencerwood. Perhaps the answer is that nine cts on the outside wanted the money and "making" the governor-general was an easy way to get it.

And so I come to the end of another 12 months. May I thank my readers and my correspondents for their kindness and extend to one and all for 1939 the annual greeting:

A HAPPY AND A PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR.

. . . That skating and skiing parties are rivaling each other in popularity these nights when the weather is crisp and cool and there are fluffy drifts of white sno weverywhere.

✧ ✧ ✧

. . . Brighter and prettier skating outfits and ski suits are fashions around town for these gay parties, too, and among the smartest was noticed an all-black ski-suit, worn with white angora mitts and cap.

✧ ✧ ✧

. . . Another outfit of bright red had a flaring skirt with a Red Riding Hood edged with white and angora gloves to match. Two little girls tugging behind them a very large toboggan were dressed alike in scarlet ski suits with white furry caps and red and white mittens—their cheeks matched the color scheme, too, and from the merry chatter we gathered that they were bound for the hill in Victoria Park.

W. A. President
Returned By Acclamation

The president of All Saints' Evening Branch W.A., Miss Gwendoline Dobbin, presided at the annual meeting. Following the devotional and business periods, the meeting was addressed by the rector, Canon J. D. Paterson, who conducted the election of officers for the year 1939 as follows: Miss Gwendoline Dobbin returned by acclamation to the president's chair; Hon. Pres., Mrs. J. D. Paterson; Hon. Vice-pres., Miss Grace Tucker; Vice-Pres., Miss E. Allen; Secretary, Mrs. James Howard; Treasurer, Miss Emily Parsons; Living Message Secretary Treasurer, Mrs. J. Cooper; Prayer Partner Secretary, Miss Myrtle Dark; E.C.D. Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Laura Powell; pianist, Mrs. V. Chandler; Convener for Socials, Miss E. Allen.

A summary of the year's work was given by the president, who also expressed thanks to the officers and members for their fine co-operation throughout the year. The meeting was closed with the W.A. Litany for December and prayers for Missions. Rev. Canon Paterson pronounced the Benediction. Refreshments were served by Miss Dobbin and her committee.

Poolman—Elliott

At a quiet wedding ceremony which will take place at ten o'clock Monday morning, January 2nd, Miss Audrey May Elliott, youngest daughter of Mrs. Jennie Elliott and the late Frederick Elliott of 532 Sherbrooke street, will be united in marriage to Mr. Albert Joseph Poolman, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Charles Poolman. The ceremony will be performed in Knox United Church Manse by the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt.

The bride will wear her travelling dress of grey trimmed with burgundy, a matching turban, and burgundy shoes and gloves. She will be attended by her sister, Miss Maxine Elliott, who will wear a frock of navy trimmed with red. Mr. Gordon Poolman will be his brother's attendant.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Poolman will leave by motor for Ottawa. On their return they will live at 262 Rubidge street.

Westington—Little

A wedding of interest in this district took place in North Bay on Thursday, December 29, when Miss Janet Elliott Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Little, North Bay, was united in marriage to Mr. Douglas McClelland Westington, of the Glebe Collegiate staff, Ottawa, and formerly of Port Hope, son of T. P. Westington, Cambourne, Ont., and the late Mrs. Westington. The ceremony took place in the afternoon in St. Andrew's United Church, with Rev. M. N. Ormond officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of midnight blue velvet, coronet of blue and wine velvet with blue shoulder-length veil, and carried red roses. Miss Greta Finlay, her bridesmaid, was wearing wine velvet with matching turban and carried Talisman roses.

The best man was Mr. Ernest Adie, Toronto. Mrs. Mais Westington, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Hanover, Ohio, was soloist.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Little. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Westington left for a motor trip south. They will reside in Ottawa on their return.

Two rosettes are better, particularly if one serves the purpose of decorating your hat strap, as above.

Forward, tilt! That's the formula for southern hats.

The rainbow pillbox, left, centre, is in pink, lilac and wine straw braid, veiled prettily in wine. Skip rouge but use purple lipstick when wearing this hat.

The odd little white silk belting number, lower right, is a Javanese interpretation, with navy veil and piping.

Celebrate Fiftieth Year of Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. John Jeffrie of Toronto, who were married on December 26, 1888, in Beamsville, and since their marriage have resided one year in Port Perry, seventeen years in Peterborough, and thirty-two years in Toronto, have this week been celebrating their fiftieth anniversary.

On Christmas Day they were entertained at the home of their son, Harold C. Jeffries, and the same day they held a long-distance conversation with their third son, Wilbur C. Jeffries, Los Angeles, Cal., who is ill. On Thursday they held a family party at the Alexandra Palace.

For seven years Mr. Jeffries was head of the department of English in Jarvis Collegiate Institute. For twenty years he was principal of that historical school. Mr. and Mrs. Jeffries are in good health. They spend their summers at Grimsby Beach and their winters in Southern California or Florida. On January 4 they leave for St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mine Mappings Her Specialty

MONTREAL, Dec. 31 (CP)—Kathleen Denison, young Montreal commerical artist, is staking out a new claim among careers for women as a maker of mining maps.

At the suggestion of a mining man two years ago she tried making a map. She has been making them since. Because she likes to know everything she can about any job she is doing, Miss Denison has been studying geology and other subjects related to mining in her spare time. She is in her second year at the Prospectors' School—not that she has any notion of prospecting, except possibly "on a holiday, just for fun."

Slum Children In Rural Life

LONDON, Dec. 31—(CP).—Hurried exodus of slum children from the big cities to the country at the time of the crisis before the agreement of Munich has developed a new phase of an old problem. The question has been the subject of frequent letters to the papers.

Billetted in private homes, churches and barns in the country, many of them had never been out of town before and did not want to come home. The country people, horrified by their evidence of malnutrition, did not want to let them go, and now a discussion is being waged on how schools can be taken off to the country for months at a time and of course, at government expense.

Main government expense with regard to schools this year was the dealing with establishments on the "black list." Altogether 2,827 schools were listed some time ago as being hopelessly outdated. Of these but 877 are still unsatisfactory and within the next couple of months they also will have to be reconditioned.

Next year Britain's school-leaving age is to be extended from 14 to 15 and thousands of young students will have another year before they venture out into the world, but must be accommodated in class rooms and at desks. Finding a place for the younger generation has occupied not only the employment bureau of the department of labor, but also the ministry of education and it still remains to be seen if they can be fitted in.

Lightkeeper Retires

VICTORIA, Dec. 31.— (CP). — Gordon Halkett, superintendent of lighthouses on the Canadian Pacific coast for the past 29 years, retired on superannuation yesterday. Born in Ottawa, he entered the ligthhouse there before coming here in 1904.

Wife Preservers

A husband says his wife likes to have him cut notches in the clothes closet poles. He makes them two inches apart, and the hangers are kept from slipping when hung over the notches. For bulky clothing the notches may be cut further apart.

Not Only Girls Collect Dolls

CHICAGO, Dec. 31—(CP)—Dolls are the collectors' No. 1 fad this year. Not all the collectors are women, for John Conover of Ossining, N. Y., has two dolls made in 1840, but men tend to like dolls more on the scale of the cigar store American Indian.

That's the word from the annual Chicago Antique Exposition and Hobby Show with dealers and collectors here from New York to California to sell, swap, show—and brag.

Collectors are favoring dolls in native foreign costume, and in the collection of Yvonne Sohn of Chicago, there's a little French aristocrat in the dress of a marchioness who managed to keep her bisque head during the French Revolution.

Indian relics of all kinds have their devotees. Early American china and glass continue as popular collectors' items. Add to this colorful glass paper weights, old sheet music, harness buttons, as newcomers in fads.

Started Young As Collector

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 31 (CP). It's been proved again and again that, from the psychological point of veiw, it isn't what you collect, but the collecting itself, that is important.

Betty Jane Palmer, daughter of Mrs. Ella S. Palmer of Rocky Hill, Hartford, is not yet 10 years old. But she has a tiny cabinet in which are arranged more than 80 tiny objects of many kinds. Some of them are of real value. Some are important merely because of their alluring minuteness, or for their associations for the young owner.

The most valuable item in Betty Jane's collection is a pair of china boots, probably Staffordshire, about three inches high. Tradition has it they were once the property of the unfortunate Anne Boleyn, wife of Henry VIII who lost her head on the scaffold in 1536.

An inch-long American Newspaper Directory, published in 1776, has 16 pages and is printed in the smallest type one has ever seen.

To Relieve Bad Cough Quickly, Mix This at Home

Does the Work in a Hurry. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used, and, for real results, it is still a very dependable thing for distressing coughs. Try it once, and you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really superior cough remedy—more than you could buy for four times the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

This splendid home mixture has a three-fold action. You can feel it take hold at once. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. This explains why it gives such prompt, pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

WHO'S WHO IN PETERBOROUGH'S ALDERMANIC ELECTION

E. R. WILSON.

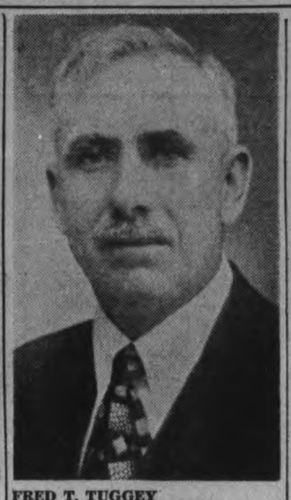
Proprietor of the Peterborough Machine and Lubrication company, Ald. Wilson was a member of the Board of Education for four years and chairman of the Vocational school committee when the large addition was built to the Collegiate Institute for the new vocational department. He was elected to the council four years ago,the first two years was chairman of the Fire, Water, and Light committee, supervising the administration of the fire department with little fuss and much efficiency. For the past two years he has been the efficient head of the Board of Works, giving to that post the same care and thoroughness that has marked all his enterprise. Close attention to the city's business is a marked characteristic of Ald. Wilson.

JAMES F. MATTHEWS

A native son who is making his first bid for a seat on the City Council. He is a grandson of the late George Matthews who founded the George Matthews Packing Company on the property now occupied by Canada Packers in this city. He is a brother of Gordon S. Matthews, and is owner and manager of the Sunshine Dairy in Ashburnham. He is married, has one child and lives at 526 Hunter street west. He favors a program of sound civic administration with economy as the keynote, and will support any move to secure an artificial ice arena at the Exhibition park, a foot bridge over the London street dam, and public works program to keep relief recipients employed.

HERBERT J. McCANNAN

Was born in Otonabee township. When quite young he moved to Springville and worked on a farm for a number of years. One of his early employers was Thomas Brown, president of the Exhibition board. As a youth he entered on an apprenticeship as a machinist and worked at his trade for about seven years. Later as a carpenter and contractor he built 25 houses among which were two for Dr. Malcolm McCullough and the late Joseph Stewart. He was secretary-treasurer during the building of Knox church. He served on the board of that church for 30 years and was chairman for a number of years. In recent years he has held membership in the Chamber of Commerce, the Kiwanis club, the Nicholls hospital board, the Red Patch club, the Peterborough Curling club. He has been engaged in real estate and insurance business for the past 27 years. He was elected last year for a one year term and was chairman of the Property Committee.



FRED T. TUGGEY

No stranger either to municipal elections or to the city council is Fred T. Tuggey who is again candidate for a position on the aldermanic board. Mr. Tuggey who was born in England came to Canada in 1904 and has been a resident of Peterborough ever since. He was first a candidate for council in 1919 and although not successful then or on a number of other occasions, continued to offer his services until he was finally given a chance to prove his capacity for doing good work in the public service. Once in council Mr. Tuggey proved his willingness and zeal and he was re-elected at a number of elections, the last time in 1935. As chairman of the property committee and as first chairman of the relief committee Mr. Tuggey gave a good account of himself. The Waterford street candidate for council is a bricklayer-contractor and has played a prominent part in the building up of the district where he lives.

W. GORDON POWELL

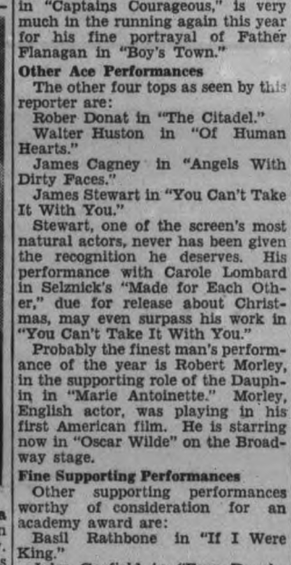
One of the younger candidates for the council and one of the few who is a native of this city is W. Gordon Powell who is making his second attempt to reach the charmed circle. Mr. Powell was born in Peterborough and educated in the local schools. Trained as a bookkeeper and stenographer, he is at present the proprietor of a refreshment store on Charlotte street. He has always taken a deep interest in economic problems, particularly as they affect labour and that explains, he says, his desire to become a member of council. Mr. Powell's theory is that a democratic administration can only come from a representative group. Mr. Powell has been connected with the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation for some time, serving as secretary of the local C.C.F. club. He was one of the most active in trying to keep going a relief fund for the strikers and their families during the textile strike here in 1937.

WILLIAM F. JOHNSON

A resident of Ashburnham and a master mechanic by trade. He is employed at the Peterborough Machine and Lubrication Company operated by Alderman A. R. Wilson, and is machinist foreman. He was born at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, and has been a resident of Peterborough for the past quarter of a century. He was standard bearer for the C.C.F. party in the last provincial election. "I am opposed to dictatorships of any kind, either communist or fascist," he said today. Johnson has always taken a firm stand in defence of the working man, particularly with a view to improving working conditions.

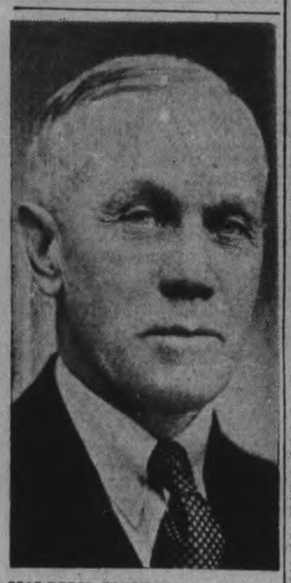
FRANK KEARNEY

A newcomer to the municipal ring and the representative of Ashburnham. He was born in Prince Edward County and came to Peterborough when a small boy. His first job was with the Review under the late Frank Dobbin. For 35 years he has been employed with the Canadian General Electric Company on the office staff. His parents were pioneers in Prince Edward county. He is 60 years of age, lives at 700 Ross street in Ashburnham and has seven children. He is primarily interested in Ashburnham but also pledges his full support to any project or plan which will make Peterborough a better place in which to live. His aim is to keep real estate taxation at a minimum.



HERBERT I. BRADBURN

Is of the third generation of a family that has been resident in Peterborough for nearly a century. His father, W. H. Bradburn, was an alderman and Mayor of Peterborough, and a member of the Legislature for West Peterborough. Born and educated here, Mr. Bradburn is now associated with Bradburn's Limited, is married and a property owner, residing on Gilmour street. His interests are entirely in Peterborough. Both in his studies and experience he is especially qualified to deal with financial questions that come before the council. Last year he was elected to the council for a one-year term of office, is now seeking a two-year term.

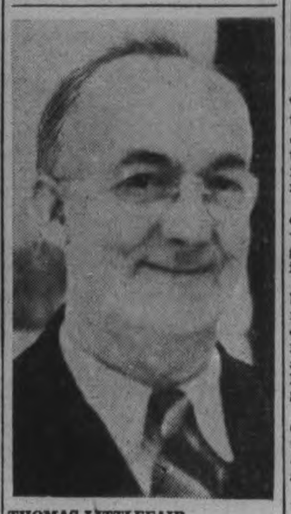


MALCOLM McINTYRE

Senior member of the city council, Ald. Malcolm McIntyre was first elected in 1915 and has been returned from time to time for a total of nearly 17 years. He has been chairman of various committees, including the Property, Fire, Water and Light, and Manufactures' committees. He is the "unofficial watchdog of the treasury," has opposed the issuing of debentures for small amounts especially in the more prosperous years, believing in the policy of paying as you go and avoiding debt. "I have always tried to serve the city as a whole, being as much interested in one section as another," is his motto. He retired from the council at the end of 1937, although he had still one year to serve. Half way through the term he was appointed to the council for the remainder of the year to take the place of Ald. W. F. Huycke, who became city solicitor.

JAMES DUTTON

One of the busiest of all the candidates for aldermanic positions is James Dutton who has been and is active in many fields of public service. Born in England, Mr. Dutton came to Peterborough some 27 years ago and is now manager of Stock's Bread here after climbing from the bottom of the ladder. His public record includes four years as a member of the Board of Education and five years as chairman of the Advisory Vocational Committee of that body. He has had three years experience as a member of the city council and after acting as chairman of the former relief committee from 1929 to 1933 was made chairman of the relief committee of the city council, a position that has made big demands upon his time, patience and business ability. Mr. Dutton is a former president of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and of the Bread and Cake Bakers' association of Canada and is at the present time president of the Peterborough Rotary Club and of the Central Ontario Highway Association. In the latter capacity his work on behalf of the Peterborough-Port Perry highway has been outstanding. As chairman of the Budget Committee of General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada he achieved notable success in a most difficult post during a trying period. His municipal chores include membership on the Board of Health.



THOMAS LITTLEFAIR

Born in Rochdale, England, Thomas Littlefair, South ward candidate for a position on the 1939 council, has lived in Canada for the past thirty years, the greater part of that time in Peterborough. For the past eighteen years he has carried on a shoemaking business at 55 George street. Mr. Littlefair is a veteran of the Great War. He enlisted in Toronto with the Canadian Engineers and afterwards was transferred to the Canadian Corps troops, serving in France from March, 1915 on. During his residence here he has taken a prominent part in church and social service work and formerly was president of the St. James' Church Brotherhood. At present he is vice-president of the Men's Forum at George Street United Church. His presence in the aldermanic campaign at this time, Mr. Littlefair states, is because he has yielded to the pressure of numbers of residents of the south ward who feel that that district should have direct representation in the council.

Bette Davis Looms As Choice For Motion Picture Award

By MILTON HARKER
Central Press Canadian Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 31.—Five-foot-three Bette Davis, fragile 106 pounds of sheer genius, stands head and shoulders over the entire motion picture industry for 1938 as no other player ever has done before her.

Bette is a 10 to 1 choice of the town to win her second motion picture academy award when they are parcelled out for the eleventh time next March.

Already she has two roles for possible citation, in "Jezebel" and "The Sisters." Her third and greatest will be in "Dark Victory," which she is just completing at Warner Brothers' studio with George Brent.

Bette won the 1935 award for "Dangerous," which screenland voted almost unanimously because everyone felt she had been unfairly denied the industry's highest honor the year before in "Of Human Bondage."

Luise Rainer Out of Running

Luise Rainer, M-G-M star and the only player ever to win two top awards, will be skipped over this year, according to all advance indications. Her performances in "Toy Wife," "The Great Waltz" and "Dramatic School" do not come up to "The Great Ziegfeld" and "The Good Earth," which brought her the prizes.

As viewed by this correspondent, with Miss Davis far in front of the field, the other four best performances by actresses are:

Fay Bainter in "White Banners."

Rosalind Russell in "The Citadel."

Danielle Darrieux in "The Rage of Paris."

Margaret Sullavan in "Shopworn Angel."

Spencer Tracy, who won the last top actor's award for his Manuel in "Captains Courageous," is very much in the running again this year for his fine portrayal of Father Flanagan in "Boy's Town."

Other Ace Performances

The other four tops as seen by this reporter are:

Rober Donat in "The Citadel."

Walter Huston in "Of Human Hearts."

James Cagney in "Angels With Dirty Faces."

James Stewart in "You Can't Take It With You."

Stewart, one of the screen's most natural actors, never has been given the recognition he deserves. His performance with Carole Lombard in Selznick's "Made for Each Other," due for release about Christmas, may even surpass his work in "You Can't Take It With You."

Probably the finest man's performance of the year is Robert Morley, in the supporting role of the Dauphin in "Marie Antoinette." Morley, English actor, was playing in his first American film. He is starring now in "Oscar Wilde" on the Broadway stage.

Fine Supporting Performances

Other supporting performances worthy of consideration for an academy award are:

Basil Rathbone in "If I Were King."

Jules Garfield in "Four Daughters."

Eddie Albert in "Brother Rat."

Other top supporting performances of the year were:

Minnie Dupree in "The Young in Heart."

Sigrid Gurie in "Algiers."

Barbara O'Neill in "The Toy Wife."

Binnie Barnes in "Three Blind Mice"

Ellen Drew in "If I Were King."

Top Notch Directional Efforts

For academy awards to directors, this reporter nominates Michael Curitz, who directed three of the year's best pictures, "Angels With Dirty Faces," "Four Daughters" and "The Adventures of Robin Hood"; Frank Capra for "You Can't Take It With You," one of the certain contenders for the year's best picture; Henry King, for 20th Century-Fox's "Alexander's Ragtime Band," the best musical in screen history; William Wyler for "Jezebel," the picture this reporter liked the best, and King Vidor for "The Citadel."

The other top pictures of the year are "Test Pilot," "Men With Wings," "If I Were King," "White Banners," "Carefree," "The Sisters," "Algiers," "The Rage of Paris," "Love Finds Andy Hardy," "Lord Jeff," "Yellow-jack" and "Of Human Hearts."

Juvenile actors get little consideration from an artistic viewpoint when awards are handed out, but there is a growing feeling there should be some high honor for Mickey Rooney, only 17, rapidly developing into one of the screen's finest actors.

Suspect 4 Japs In Cremation

VANCOUVER, Dec. 31—(C.P.)—Clothing of four Japanese was given to a police criminologist to-day for examination as detectives pressed their investigation into the mysterious furnace-death of Emiko Yamada.

The clothing, that of the 16-year-old girl's father and three roomers, was taken from the house where the girl's charred body was discovered in the furnace last Tuesday.

A quantity of rapeseed oil, found beside a Buddhist shrine in the Yamada home, furnace ashes and bits of oil-soaked paper and matches found pinned to the girl's clothing, also were given to Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance of the Police Bureau of Science of microscopic study.

Detectives said they were still uncertain how the girl met death although Dr. John Whitbread, coroner, expressed a belief she was slain.

OBITUARY

GILBERT BLONDIN.

The death of Gilbert Blondin, for nearly half a century a resident of this city, occurred at his residence at 184 George street, on Friday evening after an illness that lasted since last May. He was in his 78th year.

A sawyer for years with Rathburns of Saginaw, Mich., and for 28 years with the McDonald Lumber Company here, he was a capable, hard working men. He was a member of All Saints' Anglican church.

Born in Plantaganet, Ontario, he came to Peterborough from Lindsay 44 years ago. Surviving are his wife, formerly Ida Menzies; three sons, Bruce of Flint, Mich.; Alex of Flint, Mich.; and Fred of Peterborough; also one daughter, Mrs. Leonard Hayward, of Kenosha, Wisconsin.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock from the Funeral Home of D. Belleghem and Sons, 190 Hunter street west, Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson of All Saints' Anglican church, officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. PATRICK FITZGERALD.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

DOURO, Dec. 31.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Patrick Fitzgerald was held on Wednesday morning from her late residence to St. Joseph's church and cemetery. A solemn requiem mass was sung by her brother, Rev. Joseph Leahy, S.J., of Guelph, with Rev. J. J. McCarthy as deacon and Rev. P. Lynch, (a cousin), of Kearney, as sub-deacon. Also present in the sanctuary was Rev. J. J. Garvey of Lakefield, also a relative of the family. The sermon was preached by Rev. J. McCarthy.

Pallbearers were Richard Sheehan, Harry Ayotte, P. G. Towns, William Forsythe, James Sweeney and William O'Leary.

The sympathy of the community goes out to the family in the double bereavement. Some of those from a distance who visited the home or attended the funeral were: Charles and Neil McNulty of Norwood, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clancy and family of Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whibbs and family of Peterborough, Miss Katie Leahy of Peterborough, Mrs. Thomas Lynch, Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lynch, Otonabee, Mr. Edward Corkery and Mrs. Frank Corkery, Ennismore and others. Bad roads and weather cut down attendance. Deceased is deeply mourned, being of a particularly lovable disposition.

CHARLES G. KELLER.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 31.— In failing health for the past few months, Charles G. Keller died at his home near Healey Falls early Friday. The deceased, who was in his seventieth year, had spent all his life on the farm and as a result of living by the river chose fishing and hunting as an hobby for his spare time. Born himself at Healey Falls, his parents were among the early settlers of this district in which he resided all his life. His wife, the former Albretta Hoard, came from Trout Lake, north of Havelock.

Surviving besides his wife, are three daughters, Mrs. Harry Abernethy and Miss Grace Keller of town, and Mrs. Olive Loucks of Sterling and two sons, Sanford at home and Augustus of Ottawa. Two sisters, Mrs. L. Hubble and Mrs. James Hubble, both of Havelock, also survive.

The funeral service will be held from the family residence at Healey Falls on Monday and will be conducted by the Rev. A. B. Moffatt of the Free Methodist church at Campbellford. Interment will be at Healey Falls cemetery. Messrs. William Chase, Stanley Keller, Norris Loucks, Sanford Keller, Augustus Keller and Harry Abernethy will be the pallbearers.

QUEBEC, Dec. 31.—(CP)—Old age pensioners have drawn on public funds to the tune of $22,258,564, since the inception of the Pensions Act in Aug. 1936. Since the pensions for blind persons was passed in October 1937, $341,515 has been paid out to those eligible.

Joseph O'Connor Elected Trustee

DOURO, Dec. 31.—The ratepayers' annual meeting was held in the school house of S.S. No. 7 on Wednesday. A fair attendance was on hand. A small balance was reported on hand after rather heavy expenditures. A long-felt want was filled early in the year when a good well was drilled on the school grounds. For many years water has been carried by the pupils from a farm some distance away, entailing hardship and very often warm water when pupils craved cold water. The school has also been supplied with the complete equipment needed for Grades IX and X work. Harry Ayotte's term had expired, and as he resigned, Joseph O'Connor was elected as his successor. The board for 1939 will be: Joseph O'Connor, William O'Brien and Thomas Sheehan, the latter being also secretary. Miss Evelyn O'Brien is the teacher.

John Collins Re-elected.

At the ratepayers' meeting in S. S. No. 1, John Collins was re-elected trustee, the other members of the board being James Foley and Joseph Sheehan. A new secretary, William O'Brien, was appointed. Miss Marion Foley is the teacher.

S.S. No. 5, Douro.

A quiet session featured the ratepayers' meeting in S.S. No. 5. Jeremiah Mahoney was re-elected trustee. Other members of the board are Wilfred Kennedy and John Sullivan. Miss Madeline Sullivan is teacher.

Trustee Re-elected.

At S. S. No. 8 ratepayers' meeting, Joseph Maloney was re-elected trustee. Other members of the board are John Towns and Albert Moher, the latter being also secretary. Mr. James Maloney is teacher.

S.S. No. 9, Douro.

In S.S. No. 9, Stephen O'Connor was re-elected trustee. Other members of the board being John Allen and John Ryan. Mr. O'Connor is also secretary. Miss Mary O'Leary is teacher.

Dog Killer Fined

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 31.—(AP)—A magistrate fined Edward Spiegel $28.50 on a charge of "hit-and-run" driving in an automobile accident in which "Buddy," a Spitz dog, was injured. Wires Chum's Death Heads Back To Pole

REPULSE BAY, N.W.T., Dec. 31.—(CP—Vial Transport Department Radio)—Patrick Baird, companion of R J. O. Bray who disappeared when blown out to sea last September, headed back towards Igloolik from here today after trekking 250 miles to bring out word of Bray's disappearance. Repulse Bay is the northwestern point of Hudson Bay, 600 miles north of Churchill.

Baird said he would proceed from Igloolik, on the northern tip of Melville Peninsula, to Baffin Island to carry out as much as possible of the exploratory program of the British scientific expedition of which he and young Bray were members.

He said he would return from the Arctic on the S.S. Nascopie, Hudson's Bay company supply boat, next September, joining the ship either at Pond's Inlet, at the top of Baffin Island, or at Clyde, on the east coast of the island.

Baird and Bray had planed to stay in the Arctic until next autumn studying geological formations, bird and Eskimo life for the Royal Geographical Society and British Museum.

Newspapers are to carry the major share of this advertising. In an interview today, Mr. Vint struck an exceedingly optimistic note in forecasting 1939 business. "We expect," he said, "in the year 1939 to have a larger volume of sales than in any previous year."

King And Queen To Attend Limited Number Of Public Functions On Canadian Tour

OTTAWA, Dec. 31 (CP)—The King and Queen will be able to attend only a limited number of public functions during their tour of Canada late next spring and will not be able to accept the hundreds of private invitations which have deluged the government here.

In making this announcement last night, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said requests, invitations and suggestions from individuals and organizations in all parts of the country with respect to Their Majesties' visit had been received by members of the government and the committees arranging for the tour.

"While not wishing to discourage any display of interest and enthusiasm, the government feel that it should be understood that Their Majesties are going to be in Canada only a little over three weeks and that, consequently, with all the will in the world, it will be quite impossible for them to appear at more than a limited number of public functions, or to begin to visit many of the localities and districts which would naturally desire to be so honored," he said.

Their Majesties will follow the same rule with respect to gifts during the Canadian visit as applies in the United Kingdom, namely, they shall not be expected to accept gifts from individuals, organizations or public bodies.

Hitler's Pawn?

Considerable speculation is rife White Russian circles in Paris to the reason for the Christmas it of Grand Duke Vladimir, BOVE, pretender to the throne of the Russians, to Berlin. The and duke announced that his it has no political significance that he is merely visiting his ter, Grand Duchess Kyra, who arried Prince Louis Ferdinand Germany early this year. But tute observers believe it within e bound of possibility that Vlamir may be offered the throne a new Ukrainian nation. Such independent (?) nation, hacked rtly from Poland and partly m Russia, is said to be a part an important part—of Reichsr Hitler's plans for "drang ch oster" (drive to the east).

The Human Side of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL

They have changed the name of old Ireland to "Eire", the ancient Gaelic, but they can't change the nature of the Irish people—their romantic love for old legends and old beliefs. The Irish Press of Dublin, a newspaper of consequence, says that "the little people"—the elfs and gnomes, the good fairies and the strange leprechauns — are coming back and have revealed themselves in the green fields and along the hedges of the countryside of western Ireland.

Maybe it's because the rest of the world is in such a mess over war, all snarling and quarrelling, that the little people, as they have been called for time out of mind, are returning to their old haunts and holding hands with the children. Anyway, many eye-witnesses have said so, good God-fearing people they are represented to be.

The Irish Press says that crowds of people gather in the fields and crossroads in the vicinity of Knockfierna, a hill rooted in every ancient tradition, hoping for a glimpse of the strange little people from another world, some good, some impish. Serious as you please, the Irish Press says this:

"John Keeley, a schoolboy, was walking alongside a road the other day when he saw a leprechaun a little lone leprechaun, Johnny Keeley ran in haste and told his friends about it, and they advised him to go back and question the little man about whence he came and why. Johnny did so, but the leprechaun seemed to take offence and reminded the boy that it was none of his business. 'It's all equal to you,' says he,'what my business is,' which certainly wasn't any too polite even for a little lone leprechaun."

When Johnny tried to catch the rascal he took to his heels and ran like a rabbit over hedges and through dirty ditches yet never scratching himself or soiling himself in the least. The very next day Johnny and the two Mulqueen boys saw two more of the little people skipping rope, jumping near the height of a man.

The leprechauns were dressed all in red, according to what many eyewitnesses told the Irish Press. One wore a white cape. All wore knee breeches and dancing pumps instead of shoes. They had hard, hairy faces, like men, short fingers and no ears that one could make out. They were about two feet tall and clean and neat all the time.

So crowds gather these evenings at the Ballingarry crossroads in the hope of a glimpse of the little people and the dancing leprechauns, and there is talk of little else, not even of war. The old people shake their heads and talk of bad omens, but the children are gay about it all. Many persons are actually afraid to go out of the house after dark. And I ask you, plain, from where else could such a tale come, where else save old Ireland, or Eire as they call her now?

Millbrook Girls Study Bedrooms

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Dec. 31. — Mrs. Harry Armstrong kindly extended the hospitality of her home, Union street, for the second meeting of the girls' club since its recent organization, the gathering being on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m., with 13 members present, and the new president, Margaret Smith, in the chair.

The roll was answered with "One accessory my bedroom needs," and the various names suggested for the club for the current year, were considered, the choice finally falling on "The Stitch Class Club." After discussion, it was decided to have a 'country store' in the new community waiting room on January 14, candy, vegetables, baking, etc., to constitute the 'wares,' the committee in charge being: Luella Kennedy, Martha Belch, Francis Gardiner, Wilma Armstrong, and the president.

Donations will be solicited from Women's Institute members, and others. Proceeds to be used to send delegates from the club to the annual Girls' Conference at the O.A.C., Guelph.

The leader, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, read an interesting letter from the Department secretary, Miss Florence Eadie, giving much helpful information regarding accessories for girls' bedrooms, the project for this year, and also on the keeping of individual record books, which each member is under obligation to do.

The roll at the next meeting will be answered by "The colors I am going to use in my bedroom," and the girls were asked, as their home work, to bring ideas on improving their bedrooms, after they had analyzed the contents, and made plans for new accessories.

Mrs. Armstrong gave a talk on suitable colors for use in a girl's room, and the invitation of Mrs. E. J. Powell to hold the next meeting, on January 7, at her home, was gratefully accepted. The hostess served home-made candy at the close of the meeting, the vote of thanks being sponsored by Ruby Fallis and Lola Gardiner.

France Rushes Reinforcements To Borders

These French Zouaves, part of the Republic's colonial forces, were photographed during celebration of Bastille Day in Paris last July as they were reviewed by President Albert Lebrun. Today they are manning the border between French Somaliland and Italy's newest colonial acquisition —Ethiopia—as a result of the crisis that developed through Italy's claim for Djibouti, strategic French port on the Gulf of Aden and terminus of the French-owned Djibouti-Addis Ababa Railroad. Reports that Italian troops were concentrating on the border resulted in rushing reinforcements to the French colony.

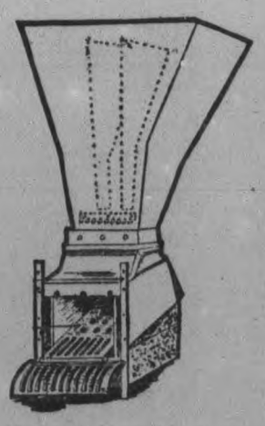
Perfected ROYAL Sawdust Burner Now Made In Peterborough

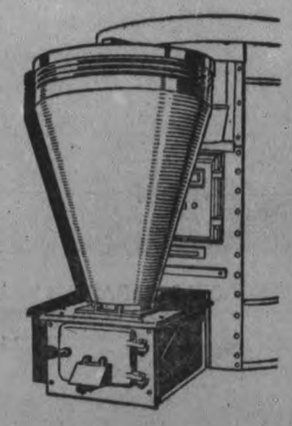


This view shows the grates on which the sawdust drops. Carbonization takes place here, creating a vapor which ignites and is carried to the interior of the furnace, mixing on its way with air. That combustion is complete is discernible by the clear, purplish flames and the absence of smoke, soot or creosote.

That a perfected sawdust burner is now available in this city will be good news to all who have visualized the big savings that this type of fuel offers. The first two installations, made some weeks ago, have already proved that the saving is at least 30% over any type of fuel now on the market.

The Royal Sawdust Burner is amazingly efficient and simple to operate. Pratically all there is to do is to fill the hopper every 8 to 10 hours. There is practically no ashes. One week's burning amounts to about a quart pail of light greyish powder. You will also be free of the necessity of shaking the grates and the resulting dust.

The economy and trouble-free heating of a sawdust burner has long been known in British Columbia. Whether your furnace is hot air or hot water you can now have a burner in your home at a cost that you will agree is surprisingly low.



This is a general view of the hopper which holds sufficient sawdust to last from eight to ten hours. The rate of burning is controlled by the draft door on the furnace and the damper in the smoke pipe, thereby making it almost automatic. A thermostat installation will make it fully automatic.

FREE FUEL FOR PETERBOROUGH RESIDENTS

Read This Sensational Offer

ABSOLUTE SAFETY

Government tests have definitely proved that there is absolutely no possibility of fire from internal combustion. From a health point of view, the freedom of gas is another feature.

To the first ten householders who install a Royal Sawdust Burner, local lumber dealers have guaranteed a FREE supply of sawdust fuel for the balance of the winter. The only charge will be for the delivery to your home. This free fuel offer will practically pay for the complete cost of installation.

CONSTANT SAWDUST SUPPLY

Lumbermen of this district have given assurance that there is at least 25 years' supply available at the present time, and that the natural growth of timber in this area will supply sufficient sawdust for generations to come.

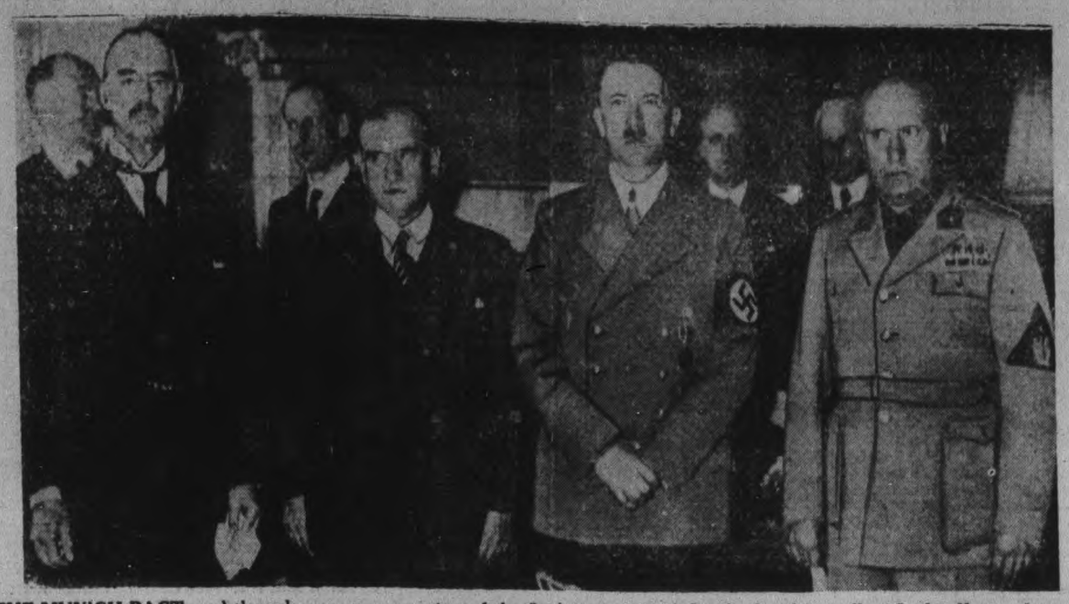
MUNICH PACT HEADS LIST OF GREATEST NEWS STORIES IN 193



THE MUNICH PACT, and the subsequent annexation of the Sudeten areas of Czechoslovakia, will undoubtedly go down in history as the most important event of 1938. The full results of this pact may not be seen for many months and it is still a subject of controversy as to whether Prime Minister Chamberlain gained or lost by the signing of the pact.

THE ANNEXATION OF AUSTRIA by Germany marked the first important victory for Chancellor Hitler in his bid to gain control of Central Europe and also proved that Germany and Italy had agreed, temporarily at least, not to interfere with each other's expansion plans.

THE JEWISH POGROMS in Germany, and their subseque flood of refugees, had world-wide repercussions and caus the United States to partially forsake their "isolation" policy a to enter European affairs by strongly condemning the actions the German government.

THE FAILURE OF THE FRENCH STRIKE gave Premier Edouard Daladier the power of a virtual dictator and was a serious blow to Communism in France. As a result of Premier Daladier's victory it is expected that France's rearmament program will go ahead with increasing speed.

THE ARAB REVOLT in Palestine was a serious set-back to Britain's plans for the resettlement of Jews in the Holy Land. The revolt also showed that Germany and Italy were actively engaged in fomenting anti-British sentiment among the Arabs.

THE ROYAL VISIT TO FRANCE undoubtedly strengthened the bonds of friendship betwee France and England and gave assurance to France that England still considers her as its close ally.

THE ANGLO-U.S.-CANADIAN TRADE TREATY, signed in Washington, was a serious blow to the trade aspirations of the totalitarian countries and cemented closer relationships between Great Britain and the United States.

THE HURRICANE which swept the New England states taking a toll of 500 lives and inflic ing property damage which mounted in the millions was the worst disaster to hit the Nort American continent in the past year

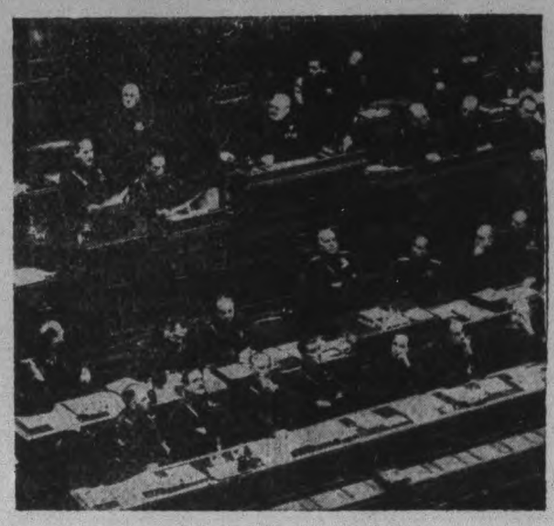
THE RESIGNATION of Anthony Eden as British foreign secretary marked the first open disagreement with Prime Minister Chamberlain's foreign policy



CRIES FOR THE ANNEXATION of Tunisia, Corsica and Nice by members of the Italian House of Deputies, in the presence of French Ambassador Francois-Poncet, put a severe strain on diplomatic relationships between Italy and France.

JAPANESE VICTORIES, marked by the fall of Canton and Hankow, were a severe setba to the forces of Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek and gave Japan control of on the most industrially important sections of China.

Seven Sheep Buried

PICTON, Ont., Dec. 31—(CP). — John Hiller, of nearby Taylor township, had a flock of seven sheep. The animals had the run of his farm, but last Friday they disappeared. Yesterday Taylor decided he'd better start a search for them. He found them buried beneath a straw stack that blew down that day —two dead, but the others alive and fairly well.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

A RESOLUTION

Among the players met next year,
If you would be a leader,
Resolve at once that you will learn
To be a rea' card-reader.

	♠ A J 5 4 ♥ 9 4 ♦ 8 6 3 2 ♣ K J 6
♠ K 8 7 6 ♥ A J 10 6 3 ♦ 7 5 ♣ 8 4	N W E S	♠ 9 2 ♥ K 8 2 ♦ K Q J 10 4 ♣ 10 5 2
	♠ Q 10 3 ♥ Q 7 5 ♦ A 9 ♣ A Q 9 7 3

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Here is a case which illustrates the accuracy of a thorough player's card reading, the chief difference between fair and fine players. The bidding had been brief but spirited —1-Club by South, 1-Heart by West, 1-Spade by North, 2-Diamonds by East, 2-No trump by South and 3-No trump by North.

When West led the heart J, East had his chance to go wrong or right. In this instance he went wrong. He won with his king, switched to the diamond K, and the declarer promptly ran nine tricks.

Veteran students of the game lead an honor from their long suit only when holding an "honor combination"—at least three of the top six cards, two of them being touching, except that the J also is led from J-10-8. Here the J lead guarantees possession of the 10, denies the Q, which declarer therefore has, and indicates one other "honor combination" card. It can't be the K, 9 or 8, all of which are in sight to East in his own hand or dummy, hence it positively is the ace.

East therefore can see that a lead through the Q to the remaining A-10 would mean a run of the suit, which must almost certainly be of five cards in view of the bid and the lead. He can tell that South was chsheing a doubtful stopper in the hope of running nine fast tricks when he got into the lead. But a return of the heart suit would have set the contract at once.

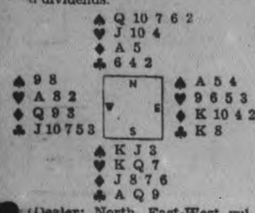
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

A SAFETY RULE

EVEN WHEN you are able to win two early tricks in the suit led against your no trump game, it is well to hold up and be prepared to win the next two, rather than winning the first and holding up on the second, in those situations where you are likely to lose the lead twice before you have the game, if it is possible that the holder of the long suit may gain the lead on one of those two times. That may sound involved, but figure out the reason for it and you will find that it can pay real dividends.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

There was nothing much to the bidding of this deal—1-No trump by South, 2-Spades by North, 2-No trump by South, 3-Spades by North and 3-No trump by South. But the play furnished a perfect illustration of a nice point.

West led his club 5, on which East put the K and South took with the A. In a few moments he wished he had ducked it. His return of the spade K was won by East, whose club 8 then drew the 9 and 10, West firing back a club which knocked out South's Q. Then, after four spade tricks, South had to lose a heart to West, who cashed the last two clubs to beat the contract.

Had South ducked the first trick, East would have returned his club 8 to South, who would then still have had another club stopper left. After losing to the spade A, South would have been in no danger, as East could not have returned another club. Declarer would have won anything offered, then would have lost a heart to West, who could not have run his club suit because a stopper was standing guard there to make up a ninth trick for South before the opponents could get five.

Tomorrow's Problem

After West leads the diamond K, A and 4 against South's 3-No Trump, how should declarer play to get the maximum number of tricks?

Daladier Risking Overthrow On Tunisia Trip

PARIS, Dec. 31.—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier raced to get his 1939 budget through parliament today under a midnight deadline before leaving for a tour of France's Western Mediterranean possessions.

The budget, on which Daladier twice has staked his cabinet's life and won only by narrow margins, went before the Chamber of Deputies for the second time, after its adoption by the Senate last night with alterations of the original bill.

Its passage became more complicated as the chamber finance committee in a night session tacked on 50 new amendments. It is expected to be shuttled back and forth several times before the two houses reach an agreement.

If the budget has not been enacted when the old year ends, parliament will resort to the time-honored practice of turning back its clock and remaining in constant session until action is completed.

Government supporters, however, were urging deputies in the Chamber lobbies to hasten their debate so Daladier could leave for North Africa tomorrow with parliament in adjournment and domestic political dangers at least temporarily surmounted.

The premier, whose trip to Corsica and Tunisia was announced after sudden Italian clamor for territorial concessions from France, plans to entrain for Toulon Sunday morning even if the budget debate is not concluded and board the cruiser Foch that night for Corsica.

May Bring On Crisis.

By leaving before budget adoption Daladier would run the risk of being overthrown and being called back to face a ministerial crisis at a moment when he is going before France's subjects to show the nation's firm grip on her empire.

Major stumbling block to agreement was an article obliging banks to report the names and addresses of account-holders to the government for facilitating tax collection. The Senate postponed application of this provision until 1940.

The ordinary budget as passed by the Senate provided expenses of 66,136,000,000 francs ($1,719,536,000) and receipts of 66,203,000,000 francs with an extraordinary budget in addition, mostly to be spent on armaments, of 27,000,000,000 francs ($702,000,000.)

John Clark Retires.

In Galway-Cavendish the veteran of Peterborough county council, Reeve John Clark has retired with a record of nearly thirty years of municipal service to his ratepayers. Mr. Clark has been a Warden in the county twice, has always been respected by his colleagues who placed a high regard on his opinion and advice, and his friends of the council and others in Peterborough are going to miss him.

His place is being sought by David Curtin of this year's council and James Allen who has also had previous experience in the administration of Galway-Cavendish affairs, but the four members of the 1939 council have been elected as follows: William Dudman, Peter Pearson, Frank Flaherty and Ellsworth Jackson, the latter a younger brother of Austin Jackson of Kinmount, who was reeve for a few years.

Contest in Otonabee.

Otonabee taxpayers have retained Reeve William A. Anderson and Deputy-Reeve Harry Reed for another year, but an election is required to determine the three other members of the Council. The candidates are David McIntyre, Robin Thorn, and Peter Mather of this year's Council, Percy Davidson, a former Deputy-Reeve, and James C. Petrie.

Belmont and Norwood.

In Belmont-Methuen, Reeve William Griffith is being opposed by Isaac Anderson, and eight candidates have lined up in the race for the four positions in the Council. They are: Donald Plunkett, Frank Sopha, and Joseph McNeeley of this year's Council, and Thomas Bannon, Floyd Steenburgh, Eugene McLaughlin, Roy McArthur, and Carl Purdy.

The contestants in Norwood are: Reeve J. R. Thompson and Charles Brown for the Reeveship, and T. P. Rork, Bert Scott, Earl Cuthbertson, and B. S. Lockhead of the 1938 Council, and G. A. Barton, Rev. J. U. MacIntosh, and William Mildenhall.

Contest in Havelock.

Elections in Havelock will be confined to the Council with seven candidates for the four seats. They are: James Wilde, D. Forde, and Everard Chiles of this year's Council, and E. J. Leeson, Kenneth Green, Fred Pollock, and James Ketchen.

Reeves by Acclamation.

In Chandos, Reeve Allan Caldwell was returned a month ago, the municipal elections being held in the north-eastern township at the beginning of December.

Opinions of some members of the retiring County Council indicate that the honors for 1939 will likely go to the Reeve of North Monaghan, Smith or Harvey. That has been the gossip for whatever it is worth. Two of the aspirants have already made the preliminary grade in the election by acclamation of Reeve James Milby in North Monaghan and Reeve Wallace Shearer in Harvey. Definitely linked with their names has been that of Reeve Allan B. Mann in Smith Township, but he has a fight on his hands with George Mullen, whose previous term in the Township and County Councils will no doubt give him all the necessary experience and background to enter the field, if the choice of Smith ratepayers should fall to him, against Reeve Shearer and Reeve Milby.

The incidental prospect in the Smith fight lends additional zest to the balloting on Monday. Several reports from the township suggest that a large vote will be polled, and it is likely that the outcome will be awaited with a great deal of interest throughout the county and city.

special roads commission this year. Northumberland and Durham roads had been starved for three or four years while the twin counties were recovering from their paving spree, and with the Reeve Robert Innes of Seymour and Warden J. Frank George this year, Chairman Cummiskey turned in a fine record of road improvement.

Political Factor

Politics are a dominant factor in the Little Parliament that meets at Cobourg, and especially in the election of each year's warden. According to scraps of opinion in the corridors down there, Reeve Cummiskey has personally a leaning to the Liberal side, but as the representative of a township that is reputedly Conservative he has always considered the political color of his constituents, has returned year after year of late and was given an acclamaion a week ago.

Manvers township has a claim on the Wardenship on the basis of rotation of the honor, that is its distribution among the municipalities, certainly for the last twenty years. That applies also to Reeve Creighton Devitt of Cartwright, whose township has been overlooked for a long time; and a memory of a glance over the annals of the Wardenship recalls that about 1899 J. H. Devitt was the counties council's choice.

Strong Contenders

Reeve Devitt and Reeve T. A. Reid of Clarke township are sure to be strong contenders. The last Warden from Clarke was Fred W. Bowen who went on to the House of Commons as the Conservative member from Durham.

In all probability there will have to be a caucus before the counties council meets to determine more or less who is likey to carry the party's chips in that final furlong of the new year's race. That does not necessarily happen, but the party caucus has been resorted to on so many occasions before the councillors take their seats on the opening night that it is likely to be employed again.

"Grit' aD'rington

That notion arises out of the fact that Darlington township, the municipality with the largest equalized assessment in Northumberland-Durham has never had a Warden, according to information gleaned by the Examiner. The township was splendidly represented for some years by George Annis, but Darlington is a Grit stronghold, and its reeve has to count on a Liberal majority in the council to succeed to the wardenship. W. F. Rickard, M.P., of Newcastle did it in 1933 with the help of a majority, and W. T. Wood of Millbrook was Warden in 1929, but at that time political differences vanished before the council's recognition of the excellent service and the sheer ability and all round worthiness of the Liberal reeve of Millbrook. Incidentally the plea of C. H. Davidson, the retiring Conservative Warden from the Northumberland section, in behalf of Mr. Wood probably was a strong factor in his election.

And still Darlington sends down to Cobourg men like George Annis, A. L. Pascoe and others, but the big Liberal township, so it is said, has never yet welcomed home its reeve as Warden. Whether Mr. Carruthers has a chance in January is doubtful at this distance. The odds seem against him, and at any rate will have to wait until after Monday. However, some of those who know their united counties could probably predict right now how the Wardenship of 1939 is going to go on the political basis, and who is likely to be accorded the honor. That is just one of the customs of both Northumberland and Durham.

just as the larger governments have had, and the municipal scope for securing revenue is not nearly so wide as that of Toronto or Ottawa. So in 1939 we must tell our governments by every method of indication we possess that they must quit spending more money than they are receiving and cease from adding to our debt.

* * * * * *

ANOTHER PLAIN question for the individual: What did you do during 1938 to put a man at work? Or were you chiefly concerned looking out for yourself? Perhaps you are content to believe that the government will do the whole thing, failing to realize that after all the business of providing employment is something which private initiative and personal courage can handle if those qualities are present and are touched into being assertive.

1—Quit believing that the dictators are running the world.

2—Be constantly and persistently assertive that our governments must bring their spendings down to the point where they more nearly approach to our ability to pay.

3—Consider the placing of a man at work in 1939 as a personal contribution to the welfare of that man and to your community and country.

McGee Family Holds Most Happy Reunion

HASTINGS, Dec. 31. — A real Christmas family re-union was held on Monday at the home of Mrs. S. McGee, of Asphodel, when she was surrounded with all the members of her family including her six daughters, five sons, her sons-in-law, daughters-in-law, and grandchildren. Mrs. McGee, whose sweet and charming personality has made her a favorite of her neighborhood, is a true mother and one whose sacrifice and love is held in affectionate regard by those she has served. Christmas in this home is a jolly time. A Christmas tree is well laden with gifts and a wonderful dinner is provided.

Of the five sons, three are doctors, Dr. Andrew and Dr. Barclay in the medical profession, the former in the East General Hospital, Toronto and the late practising in Orangeville. Dr. George is a dentist in Detroit. Theodore and D'Arcy are prominent farmers in Asphodel; the latter resides with his mother on the homestead. Of the six daughters three are married. Laura is now Mrs. Stephen Elmhirst of Indian River, Clarice is Mrs. Matthew Knox of Indian River and Josephine is Mrs. (Dr.) J. S. Sykes of Lansing, Michigan. The two latter were formerly school teachers. Marguerite is a registered nurse in Toronto, Helen teaches at Fife's school in Asphodel and Doris is attending the Toronto University.

Alderman

His first year in the Council and Chairman of the Property Committee warrants your support.

VOTE TO RE-ELECT

HERBERT I. BRADBURN

Alderman

Ladies and Gentlemen:

As a candidate for Alderman, I submit for your consideration several points for which I stand:

1. A lower tax rate.
2. Securing more industries for Peterborough.
3. Development of Peterborough as a tourist centre.
4. A footbridge at or near the Quaker Oats Dam.
5. Continuation of the resurfacing of the city streets.
6. Efficient and sane administration of city business.

Wishing the Citizens of Peterborough the Season's Greetings.

Herbert I. Bradburn

HAVING completed the term for which I was appointed by the Council, I have decided to seek re-election. In so doing I feel that the experience gained during the past three years has the better fitted me to serve my fellow-citizens in the capacity of Alderman.

I cannot claim credit for any major achievements but I have supported every measure which I felt would benefit the greatest number.

I have endeavored to bring to the work my very best and have discharged all the duties assigned to me in the most conscientious way I knew how. I feel that on my past record I can confidently appeal to the electors for their support in giving me a place on the Council of 1939.

Every elector is respectively urged to exercise their franchise. Vote Early. For cars on election day Tel. 630 of 684.

Wishing all a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Sincerely,

JAMES DUTTON.

VOL. LXXXI, No. 1 — PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1939 — PRICE THREE CENTS

ELECTORS RE-ELECT FIVE 1938 ALDERMEN

Day, Board Go Back, Buck Loses

Three Men, 3 Women Are Arrested For Impersonation

TORONTO, Jan. 3.— (CP).—Almost unchanged from 1938, the civic government of Ontario's capital entered another year to-day after an election campaign that came to a noisy finish on the cry of Communism and brought out the largest vote in the city's history.

Toronto voters, flocking to the polls over snow-covered streets yesterday, re-elected Mayor Ralph C. Day and the 1938 Board of Control, and rejected the bid for election of Tim Buck and four of five other Communists. Candidates agreed the Communism issue was responsible for the big total of 146,424 ballots, larger by 20,000 than the previous record.

Buck, secretary of the Communists party of Canada, ran sixth for the four-man control board, more than 4,000 votes from election after missing by 500 in the last election. At the same time he polled 500 more votes than in his previous attempt.

Stewart Smith, a 1938 alderman, was the only one of six Communists elected. His chief standby on the old council, Alderman J. B. Salsberg, met defeat in Ward Four at the hands of D. A. Balfour, a veteran business man, and Alderman Nathan Phillips, K.C.

John Weir, Communist member of the 1938 Board of Education, was beaten along with the two other Communist aspirants, Fred Collins and Rae Luckok.

Big Vote For Day

Day, standing on his one-year record as mayor, defeated Lewis Duncan, K.C., prominent Liberal party worker, by 93,060 to 53,364, polling the largest total ever given a candidate in Toronto.

Controller Dr. Fred J. Conboy led the voting for board of control with a total of 80,720 in the 851 subdivisions. In order behind him were controller J. D. McNish, with 73,252; controller Fred Hamilton, 54,516; controller W. J. Wadsworth, 49,446; alderman William Croft, 48,798; Tim Buck, 45,112; R. H. Saunders, 40,973; W. D. Robbins, 24,745; and Harry Bradley, 3,489.

Controller Hamilton, who last year led a successful fight for opening Toronto parks and playgrounds for Sunday pastimes, called the results a repulse to "these agents of Moscow."

"The tremendous vote I attribute to the fact the city was alarmed, and rightly so, by these agents of Moscow," Hamilton said. "I had much to do in the fight against them within council and in the campaign, and I am more than pleased that the people have thrown off this cancerous growth. I hope never again will we be threatened by communism creeping into the city council."

In early returns, Buck was running fourth. With half the vote in, he was 500 ahead of Wadsworth and 1,000 ahead of Croft. Then Wadsworth and finally Croft, who as an alderman last year said Riverdale zoo's bear-pit was fit only for Chancellor Hitler of Germany, pulled ahead of Buck.

Police said late last week all constables had been warned of complaints after the last election that a "gang from Montreal" had impersonated scores of voters at the polls. Yesterday six persons, including three women, were arrested on charges of impersonating voters.

Corpse In Bar Icebox Says Police Tip, 30 Raiders Hoaxed

Detroit, Jan. 3.

THE barman was sorry, but he had no corpse on ice.

Nearly 30 policemen, in small groups, invaded a Michigan Avenue saloon here yesterday, demanding the bartender, Steeve Mikel, produce the body.

Each group explained they had received information the barman had shot a man and put him in the ice box. Then doctors and a coroner arrived. Newpapermen followed.

Mikel thought the calls must have come from some customer whose jokes were tinged by a New Year hangover.

Youth Charged Attempting Store Robbery

Judgment was reserved until tomorrow by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., in police court this morning after hearing the evidence in two charges against Thomas Madill, 19, the first of attempting to break and enter the Ashburnham store of Fitzpatrick and Geraghty and the second of breaking and entering the shoe store of P. J. Hickey, 169 Hunter street, West.

On a third charge of stealing an overcoat and hat from James Hickey in North Monaghan township Madill was also remanded until tomorrow without plea or election when the crown was not ready to proceed.

He was defended by W. J. Arthur Fair while the prosecution was conducted by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K. C.

Joseph Fontaine, also charged with attempting to break and enter the F. and G. Store was remanded until tomorrow at the request of the crown.

George Rennie who said that he lived on Hunter street, east, just west of the F. and G. Store, was the first witness in the first charge against Madill. He said that he had gone to bed on the night of Dec. 13 and had heard a noise of pounding from the F. and G. Store. He looked out and saw someone at the side window of the store. He had telephoned the police and then he and Ray Parnell, who was visiting at his house, went outside and on going around to the rear of the store saw Detective Meagher. They had proceded out the east side of the store and saw two men near the west laneway who started off westward as soon as witness appeared. Rennie and Parnell had followed them and finnal grabbed the two men and held them until the police car arrived. Madill was one of the two they caught but he could not be sure he was the one he had seen at the window of the store.

Identifies Madill.

Ray Parnell corroborated some features of this eviednce, but fixed the date as November 13 instead of December 13, the date of the alleged defence. He was positive that it was Madill he had seen at the window of the store and said that he

Duke To Attend Reunion

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (AP). — The Royal Family is planning a re-union in March, it was reliably reported to-day, for which the Duke of Windsor, but not the Duchess, will return from France.

Reports that the Duke plans an early visit to England because of a heart atttack suffered by Queen Mary were denied authoritatively. Officials both at Buckingham Palace and at Sandringham House, where the Royal Family is in residence, said the Queen-Mother is in the best of health and continues her daily round of activities.

Allan B. Mann Is Returned Smith Township

Smith township re-elected Reeve Allan B. Mann and Deputy-reeve Harry Fowler, Jr., at the polls Monday, but recruited two new members of the council in Gordon Hancock and Ernest A. Scott, with Councillor Gilbert McIlmoyle heading the group of five candidates.

The returns for council were Gilbert McIlmoyle 551, Gordon A. Hancock 539, E. A. Scott 417, W. J. Tedford 393 and Milton Clark 326.

The totol vote for the reeveship yesterday was 978 as compared with 1507 a year ago when Reeve Mann was elected by 551 to Mr. Mullen's 539 and Charles Westlake's 417.

Reeve Mann carried five of the six polling subdivisions Monday and Deputy-reeve Fowler four of the six. Presumably the heavy fall of snow Sunday night cut down this year's response by the ratepayers.

The results from the six polls were as follows:

	Bridgenorth	Selwyn	Higgin's	16th Line	Young's Point	3rd Line	Total
Reeve:
Mullen	70	28	64	28	28	132	356
Deputy-reeve:
Fowler	198	58	46	33	36	204	575
Rosborough	88	37	67	18	49	72	331
Hancock	176	47	64	39	18	195	539
McIlmoyle	156	87	72	51	66	119	551
Clark	135	17	42	2	15	115	326

Orillia Stays Dry

ORILLIA, Ont., Jan. 3 (CP)—Orillia voted yesterday to remain dry. A by-law which would have authorized opening of beverage rooms in the town was rejected by a vote of 804 to 450.

Powassan's 'Youngster' Mayor, 23, Wins Over Veteran By One Vote

POWASSAN, Ont., Jan. 3.— (CP). — George Trenouth, 23-year-old Mayor-elect of Powassan, said to-day he was "lucky enough" to have one more friend turn out and vote for him than did his veteran opponent in yesterday's municipal election, Mayor J. B. Lake.

Trenouth, who when he takes office probably will be the youngest mayor in Ontario, was elected by a one-vote margin over Lake. Editor and publisher of the Powassan News and mayor of the town in 1933, 1934, 1935 and 1938. The vote was 117 to 116 and Lake, in saying he would not apply for a recount, termed his defeat "my own fault."

The youthful mayor-elect's first move when he takes office will be to obtain for this farming town 18 miles south of North Bay a larger share of Northern Ontario's tourist revenue than it receives at present. He plans to put up at each end of the town large signboard maps of the district "big enough to read from passing cars."

"But the idea is to have the cars stop here and not pass through," Trenough added. "The maps will show tourists just what attractions the district has for holiday seekers and maybe some of them will stop over here. We're right on the road to Callander, the Quints, and there is no reason why we can't get a larger share of the tourist business."

Not Enough Experience.

Lake was philosophical about his defeat. "It was my own fault," he said. "You see, I didn't conduct anything of a campaign while Mr. Trenough was quite active. The only reason I opposed Mr. Trenouth was that I considered his one year on council perhaps not sufficient experience to head the town's administration. However, the youngster did well and I wish him nothing but success."

But Trenouth, who with his father operates a general store here, declared he did not conduct an active campaign.

"I conducted no campaign," he said. "You know these small town campaigns — no public meetings — no active drive for votes.

Roads In Country Are Very Heavy With Snow In Some Cases Almost Completely Blocked

PROBABLY the lads with the Scandinavian complex that finds expression on skiis and snow-clad hills are happy today, but they've got the spirit of elation all to themselves, sharing it with the children who revel in the winter scene that altered the whole aspect of the countryside over the holiday.

Winter greeted New Year's eve with a blasty storm that called out plows on all the highways and left the side roads to shift for themselves. Monday brought more of the snow and this morning the accumulation was continuing.

Rural mail couriers started out on their routes around the noon hour expecting trouble and at least a late arrival home. It was reported the roads in Ennismore are deeply drifted and delivery of mail was proceeding by car to Bridgenorth and thence by horses and sleighs through the township across Chemong Lake. And that was said to be typical of traffic conditions. The Examiner was arranging to have the Duffus snowmobile groomed for use this afternoon on some of the routes in the district.

The snowfall has been heavy and the wind was strong enough to blow it across the fields and into the roadways, tieing up the concession lines to begin the new year with all the appearance of an old time winter.

Two New Men Elected Year Ago Returned At Head Of The Polls

Alderman Herbert J. McCannan Tops The List In Comparatively Light Vote Cast 355 Votes Separates Fifth And Sixth Men

Peterborough electors on Monday put the seal of their approval on the work of last year's Council by electing all the five members of the old aldermanic board who offered themselves for re-election.

In a comparatively light vote the two freshmen of the 1938 Council led the parade back into office, Ald. Herb. McCannan topping the list with a total of 2,606, while Ald. Herb. I. Bradburn, the other baby member of last year's Council was in second place with 2,342. Ald. Malcolm McIntyre, veteran of municipal politics, was third, Ald. E. R. Wilson fourth, and Ald. James Dutton, chairman of the Relief Committee, was the last of the elected members.

Topping the defeated candidates was another well-known figure in civic circles, former Alderman Fred T. Tuggey, who finished in sixth place with 1,404, 375 votes behind Ald. Dutton. Francis H. Kearney made by far the best showing of all the new candidates. He wound up seventh in the race, well ahead of James Matthews, who was in eighth position. Mr. Kearney's fellow-citizens across the river did nobly by him, and he headed the list in Ashburnham, topping the two north end polls.

The three candidates who were in the field with C.C.F. backing, if not with official C.C.F. endorsation, William S. Johnson, W. Gordon Powell ,and Thomas Littlefair, brought up the rear, with Mr. Littlefair in the last place. Even his claim that he was in the race because many South Ward electors wanted direct representation in the Council failed to save the day for him although some of the South Ward polls gave him the largest vote he polled.

The Complete Results.

Here is the complete list, the first five being the successful candidates:

Herbert J. McCannan	2606
Herbert I. Bradburn	2342
Malcolm McIntyre	2292
E. Rowland Wilson	1993
James Dutton	1779
Fred T. Tuggey	1404
Francis H. Kearney	1223
James H. Matthews	870
William S. Johnson	829
W. Gordon Powell	720
Thomas Littlefair	559

The returns came in quickly. The first bulletin was received by Assistant City Clerk E. A. Outram, who

The long New Year's week-end left an accident death toll of 17 in Canada, but none of the fatalities was attributed directly to the holiday festivities.

Twelve of the deaths were in Eastern Canada. Six were reported in Ontario, five in Quebec and one in New Brunswick. There were two deaths reported in Saskatchewan and one each in the provinces of British Columbia, Alberta and Manitoba. No fatalities were reported in Nova Scotia or Prince Edward Island.

Most of the deaths occurred yesterday, after the celebrations of New Year's Eve and New Year's Day had left the Dominion with its cleanest accident slate in years. The weather generally was favorable and police in many centres had taken extra precautions to prevent automobile mishaps.

Fires claimed four lives. There were three drownings and three deaths in automobile accidents, and two men were frozen to death. Other fatalities included two railway mishaps, a suicide, and an electrocution.

Deaths in Ontario included those of Vern Holder, 34, and his brother Elmer, 23, drowned when the ice of

4 Youths Nabbed In Taxi Holdup

TORONTO, Jan. 3—(CP).—Four young men were arrested early today on charges of armed robbery following a hold-up of a taxi driver in suburban East York which netted gunmen 75 cents. They also took the automobile but it was later found abandoned by the police.

Those charged with the hold-up which took place shortly after midnight, gave their names as Earl Shepherd, 22, Thomas E. Griffiths, 21, Jack McGillivary, 22, and Edward Allen, 19.

Arthur Jones, the cab driver, said the hold-up men pulled a gun while he was driving them to their destination. They forced him out of the automobile, took the 75 cents, his wallet containing personal papers, made him start the car which was stalled, and then drove away. Police later picked up a man acting suspiciously in the area near the abandoned car and the remaining arrests were made shortly after.

Saves His Son

TEESWATER, Ont., Jan. 3.—(CP) —Herb Pettipiece's New Year's Day rescue of his son Albert from an eight-foot soft water tank while a near blizzard raged through this town, was the talk of Bruce county to-day.

Father and son were bucking the blizzard when Albert slid into the low tank, beside the street in front of Strome's garage. Pettipiece did not see his son vanish as he ploughed along blinded by the snow; he heard a shriek, however.

Guessing what happened he dived into eight feet of water. The garage owner rushed out, turned on strong lights and helped them to safety.

Fire Bell Rope Breaks Ending Fun For Young Revellers

(Examiner Correspondence.)
Hastings, Jan. 3.

A group of boys who sought to cause excitement here New Year's eve by ringing the fire bell had their fun cut short when the rope broke and they found themselves with other means of creating noise which could be heard all over the village.

Fire Chief, Fred Dodd had a cold job yesterday when he scaled the steel framework of the bridge to attach a new bell rope.

Gordon Scriver Is Elected Lakefield Reeve

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 6.—Polling 209 votes in the municipal elections Monday, Gordon Scriver defeated Chas. S. Tanner for the reeveship by a majority of 40. Reeve Tanner was supported by 169 of the ratepayers in a contest that brings three new members into the council: George Graham, G. A. Charlton and Earl Edwards.

The total for the two polls in the village were as follows: For Reeve—G. Scriver 209; C. S. Tanner 169.

Councillors, four elected—George Graham 274, D. B. Millar 263, G. A. Charlton 251, Earl Edwards 187. Also W. J. Hendren 153 and C. R. Armstrong 99.

The vote for the School Board was: E. H. Northey 222, E. J. Millage 192, M. O. Kingdon 155, elected, and Chas. Lake 120. S. E. White 104 and R. J. Knox 46.

W. J. Charlton was elected by acclamataion for another two year term as Hydro Commissioner.

HARVEY TOWNSHIP.

Ernest Irwin headed the polls in Harvey township with a very light vote being cast. The other three councillors elected were Hartman Brock, Gale Elliott and Arthur Haines. The result of the poll was Irwin 265, Brock 253, Elliott 229, Haines 149. Nelson Windover 136 and John Hill 116.

GALWAY AND CAVENDISH.

David Curtain, a member of the 1938 council, was elected reeve of Galway and Cavendish when he defeated James Allen, a former councillor. John Clark, veteran reeve of the township, did not seek re-election.

With one poll, that at Peacock's House, to hear from, Curtin was leading Allen by 28 votes and there are not any more than ten votes at the missing poll. The vote was:

	Allen's House	Bacon's House
For Reeve:
Allen	44	21

All B.C. Drivers Face Written Exam And Special Emergency Tests

VANCOUUVER, Jan. 3.—(CP)— British Columbia motorists face the possibility of having to learn to drive all over again if they fail in examinations being launched this week by the Provincial Motor Vehicles Department.

Applicants for operators' licences, whether they are beginners or have been driving cars for years, will be required to take a written examination on provisions of the Motor Vehicles Act and to undergo tests for hearing, eyesight and reaction to various emergencies. Persons failing to meet minimum standards will be refused their permits.

Officials say the new plan is in reality an experiment in accident prevention. It follows inauguration last year of a 30-mile-an-hour speed limit in cities and municipalities and a compulsory automobile testing policy.

Success of last year's measures was demonstrated in statistics for the first 11 months of 1937 and 1938. The number of motor vehicle licences issued in that period increased from 111,669 to 114,420, but the numberof accidents dropped from 4,506 to 4,369. Fatalities fell from 109 to 92 and the number of persons suffering injuries decreased from 2,414 to 2,153. The destructive nature of some accidents, however, increased property damage from $422,748 to $444,036.

The Reactometer.

One of the novel testing machines that will be used in the new examinations is called a "reactomaster." It is like a standard automobile front seat in which a motorist sits behind a driving wheel and goes through the motions of operating a car. It tests the driver's speed of reaction to various difficulties.

The system is new in Canada but is in its early stages in a few of the American States.

Lewis Only 'Just Fair' Say Critics In Pro Actor Debut

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 3 (AP).

THE THEATRE CLAN agreed today that Sinclair Lewis might become in time a good actor, but none would say he was more than fair in his professional debut last night.

The audience called the cast back 10 times after the final curtain.

"A novelist works in loneliness," he said. "An actor works with such charming people as these, I have contributed my small bit, as well as ability will allow."

Spain Sparing France Duce's Fury

Action Expected Likely Before Hitler Starts After Ukraine

By Jean Allary
(Copyright, 1939, The Havas News Agency.)

PARIS, Jan. 3—(CP-Havas). — French diplomatic quarters to-day expressed the view that the big Spanish insurgent offensive in Catalonia is closely linked with Italian claims on French Mediterranean territory.

Premier Mussolini cannot transform the present press campaign for cession of Tunis and Djibouti into action—with all the risks such a move entails—before the Spanish war has been brought to a close, it was said.

These sources declared Chancellor Hitler is expected to start his march toward the east within a few months and once he starts he will have no time to aid his axis partner in the south.

Consequently the belief is prevalent here that eventual Italian action in its anti-French campaign will take place some time between the end of the Spanish affair and the start of the German drive on the Ukraine.

Thus a speedy insurgent victory is of great importance to Mussolini. On the other hand, the stout resistance of the Spanish Government to the Catalan offensive is viewed with satisfaction in France, not only by sympathizers with Barcelona but by the general public as well.

All political leaders realize that this resistance is serving as a brake on Italian ambitions which are to be slaked at the expense of the French Empire. The increasingly moderate political course adopted by the Barcelona Government has drawn wider sympathy for the Spanish Government cause among Frenchmen.

A parliamentary delegation consisting of several former undersecretaries and Roman Catholic notables left for Government Spain today. Although the delegation is not travelling in an official capacity the fact that its members represent the parliamentary majority gives the visit a certain significance.

Highways Drift Badly In Gale

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—(CP).— Icy and rutted roads that made highway travel hazardous were left today in the wake of light snow storms throughout Ontario. Temperatures dipped sharply as a chill easterly wind swept the province, in some places to below zero. The forecast was for continued moderately cold weather.

Kingston reported the coldest weather of the winter when a during-the-night low temperature of four below zero was recorded. Snow accompanied eight-above-zero weather in Toronto, while scattered snowfalls and temperatures were reported from Western Ontario points. Among chilly Northern Ontario centres, North Bay registered nine degrees below zero.

Reports of roads rapidly being blocged came from Eastern Ontario where a stiff blizzard appeared to be in the making. Peterborough had 5½ inches of snow during the night. At Kingston, heavy snow that began to fall early to-day threatened to block side roads.

Slippery highways were reported from Kitchener, Brantford and many other Western Ontario points. More than five inches of snow fell during the week-end at Stratford. A coating of ice made London streets and district highways dangerous for motorists.

A party of 50 skiers was marooned by blocked roads for 10 hours near Caledon, where nearly 1,500 sports enthusiasts spent the week-end skiiing and skating. The marooned party spent 10 hours in the home of Charles Cook. Harry Beer hitched a home-made snowplough to a tractor and cleared an outlet to the main highway.

Essex County in England will spend $2,500 in preserving windmills.

Drys Carry In Burleigh And Anstruther By Six Over Required Two-Third Vote

VOTERS of the United townships of Burleigh and Anstruther turned thumbs down on the continuance of the beverage rooms in the northern townships yesterday when the drys obtained six votes more than the required three-fifths majority of the total vote.

There were 320 votes cast in the plebiscite and of these 122 favored retaining beverage rooms while 198 voted against. The drys needed 192 votes to oust the beverage rooms and were over that figure.

Apsley village polled a decisive dry vote, 136 marking their ballots against continuance of the existing system with just 46 in favor. Mount Julian voted wet 62 to 51 while Clanricarde favored abolishing the sale of beer by 16 to 9.

France Stands By Tunisia Bey Assured

African Colony Gives Premier Tremendous Ovation

(By the Canadian Press.)

TUNIS, Tunisia, Jan. 3.—(AP).—Premier Edouard Daladier brought assurances to the Bey of Tunis today that all France's military forces are ready to defend Tunisia, if necessary, against any Italian threat to the French protectorate.

The Premier, who arrived at Bizerte this morning on a tour of French North African colonies, conferred with the Bey at his 15th century palace outside Tunis shortly before noon. He told the ruler that France is determined to keep her protectorate over Tunisia even if it means war with Italy. The Bey assured Daladier of his loyalty to France.

A small but noisy demonstration against France threw a discordant note into an otherwise triumphant reception at Bizerte. A crowd of Neo Destours—Tunisian Nationalists, whose organization had been banned by French authorities—took to fishing boats to demonstrate While Daladier was crossing the Bizerte canal a small boat filled with Neo Destours pulled alongside. Beating drums, they held aloft banners inscribed "Down With France," "Down With Privilege" and "Independence For Tunisia."

Sun Taken as Good Omen.

BIZERTE, Tunisia, Jan. 3—(AP)—Premier Daladier was given a tremendous ovation to-day when he arrived on the cruiser Fosch to begin a tour of France's North American colonies in the face of Italian expansion threats.

The Premier's small squadron of French gunboats swung into this seaport and naval base at 8 a.m. with seaplanes roaring overhead and cheering crowds lining the docks.

Brilliant morning sunlight accompanied by warm winds brought joy to the superstitious Arabs who predicted yesterday that the Premier's visit would be considered a good omen if the weather was favorable.

In many respects Daladier's reception was a repetition of that given him in Corscia yesterday. Ships in the harbor tied down their sirens and church bells clanged while batteries fired salutes.

Daladier was welcomed by a group of Tunisian officials and immediately turned his attention of the first demonstration of military strength—a review of Colonial Marines, who marched by smartly to music of a naval band.

Heading the welcoming delegation was Erik Labonne, Resident-General; delegations of native chieftains, and civil and military authorities. Italian merchants decorated their store fronts with flags and bunting.

Signs proclaiming Tunisia's desire to remain under the jurisdiction of the French Government were carried by the crowds which followed Daladier through the streets. (Tunisia is a French protectorate).

Royal Party Unlikely To Stop Over At Newfoundland

SPOKESMEN at both Buckingham Palace and the office of the Dominions Secretary said last night that they had heard nothing of a reported extension of the North American visit of the King and Queen next Spring to include Newfoundland.

The report was described as "hardly likely."

The Ottawa correspondent of the Sunday Sxpress said the royal party would visit Newfoundland June 13, passing a day in St. John's, then making a brief tour of the island. The correspondent said the King made the decision after receiving appeals not to slight the oldest colony by passing it by without a visit.

King Honors 4 Who Helped Pilot Britain Through War Crisis

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (C.P.). — Honors to Sir James Jeans for his contributions to science and to Sir Maurice Hankey, confidante of Prime Ministers, headed the King's honors list for the New Year in which His Majesty recognized the work of a group of men in the dangerous European crisis of last September.

Sir James, author of "The Mysterious Universe," astronomer and mathematician, received the rare Order of Merit, a distinction that is restricted to 24 persons and carries with it the letters O.M. after his name.

The Order of Merit was also conferred upon Admiral of the Fleet Lord Chatfield, who recently retired as First Sea Lord of the Admiralty. It was a recognition of his work in bringing the Royal Navy to its present peak of efficiency.

Sir Maurice goes to the House of Lords as a Baron. For 25 years he was Secretary to the Cabinet and to the Committee of Imperial Defence. He retired last year. His successor in the important posts, Edward Bridges, was knighted.

had seen him remove the outside window. The man had looked toward the street several times and witness had seen his face clearly in the light.

Constable Archie Menzies swore that he and Detective Meagher were driivng along Hunter Street East when they heard dogs barking at the rear of the F. and G. store and decided to investigate. They had driven around the corner to Mark Street, left the car there and made their way through back yards to the rear of the F. and G. place. As they drew near they heard the crash of a window. Officer Menzies said that when he went out the laneway to Hunter Street he saw Thomas Madill and oJe Fontaine near the west laneway.

Cross-examined by Mr. Fair, the witness said that he and Officer Meagher had made no move for several minutes after they heard the noise ot the window.

"You had reason to suspect a crime was being committed and you made no move," commented Mr. Fair.

No evidence was called for the defence and judgment was reserved until Wednesday.

Break-in Charged.

In the charge of breaking and entering the Hickey shoe store Constable John Rogers told of discovering a man in the store on the night of November 27 when he turned the beam of his flashlight inside. The man who had a pair of shoes in his hand resembled Madill.

By the time the officer got to the rear door the man had disappeared but the offcer found an overcoat near the back door with a jemmy in one pocket and the articles were put in as exhibits.

William Chard of Cavendish identified the coat as his. He said that he had left it on August 2 in a bunk house in Apsley in charge of Ira Outwaters.

Outwaters, the next witness, could not identify the coat produced, but declared that he had brought the coat left with him by Chard into town about the first of November and left it at the home of Thomas Madill, Senior.

Cyril Huard testified that he had seen the accused wearing the coat and he identified the jemmy as one Joe Fontaine had shown him two days before the Hickey break-in in the presence of Madill. At that time he told Mr. McElderry in re-examination that the two had wanted him to crack a safe for them."

That finished the Crown case and Mr. Fair offered no defenec testimony, judgment being reserved in that case also until to-morrow.

Archie Achison Is Returned As Trustee

The annual meeting of S.S. No. 1, Smith (Lily Lake) was held on Wednesday morning at ten o'clock in the school room, Gordon Hancock acted as chairman for the meeting. The books were audited by Arthur Hancock and F. Rowland, and found satisfactory. Archie Ackison was returned for a three-year term for trustee, along with Clarence Ferguson and William Steinkrauss. Bert S. Tully was re-appointed as secretary.

During the business they decided to purchase a new flag and repair the flag-pole.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Jan. 3—(CP).—Renewed export buying and strength on outside markets to-day combined to boost futures about one cent in the New Year's first session on Winnipeg wheat market. Closing quotations were 1¼ to 1½ higher, October at 64⅛, May 64⅝, and July 64⅝ cents.

Canadian wheat export business was placed close to 1,000,000 bushels, worked chiefly from Vancouver

Buying in the pit was attributed mainly to export and seaport houses, supplemented by purchases for mills, Southern interests and locals.

Country marketing for Saturday totalled 128,000 bushels against 92,000 bushels for the last day of 1937.

Holiday Party Given For S. S. Members

At a Christmas party for the beginners and Primary Class members of St. Paul's Sunday School, held in the Sunday School rooms, Yuletide colors of red and green decked the supper tables, and the head table where mothers of the children were honored guests.

A brief musical program after the supper included a delightful Christmas story told by Miss Elizabeth Walker; piano duets by Barbara Craig and Marjorie Pearse, and a piano solo by Nancy Leith. Santa's arrival at the conclusion of the program was cause for much eager excitement among the young folk, and gifts for everyone were handed down from a gaily decked tree.

Members of the Junior Department of the Sunday School were entertained at a similar party prior to the Christmas week-end.

Hogmanay Night Celebrated By Scots

Members of the Caledonian Club and their Scottish friends met in the Paragon Hall on New Year's Eve for the annual Hogmanay dance, which was the usual jolly affair. W. Petrie was master of ceremonies and J. Wyllie attended the door. A good string orchestra — the Otonabee Ramblers—played for both old-tyme and modern dances, while Alec Milne enlivened proceedings with stirring bagpipe tunes played for the reels. The hall presented a gay appearance with its seasonable decorations. The guests were lavishly supplied with paper hats and other decorations, which gave a still further festive note.

Two spot dances were won by Mrs. K. Shadgett and C. Garside, and by Mr. and Mrs. G. Siddall. A draw for a door prize was won by Mrs. A. Milne.

At ten o'clock delicious refreshments, which included tea, sandwiches, mince pies and Scotch shortbread, were served by the executive under the convenership of Mrs. O. Sugden and Mrs. K. Shadgett.

The whole company rose and sang "Auld Lang Syne" as the Old Year died, and this was changed to "A Guid New Year tae ane an' a'," to welcome in the New Year. The annual greeting, "A Happy New Year," was then heard in all directions as the guests greeted each other.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. Petrie, Mr. and Mrs. J. Millar, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wyllie, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pirie, Mr. and Mrs. S. Pooley, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. A. We Noticed ....Dancing in a happy New Year—someone in a frock of black taffeta that had white cut velvet butterflies fluttering prettily over a wide swing skirt.

✧ ✧ ✧

Fashions

Purple woolen skirt and bolero jacket makes this spirited little jumper dress with mauve blouse. The dirndl suspender skirt has a slim elastic waistline that snugs your figure. It's such fun to make the elastic waistline. Merely thread your machine bobbin with elastic thread and sew in the usual way. The peasant-minded blouse has soft fullness at the front. . . . most attractive sleeves.

For variety . . . wear an American beauty colored sweater or blouse with this dashing purple costume. Clan plaid woolen, rayon and crepe silk novelties, velvet, etc., are other ideal suggestions.

Style No. 2150 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38-inches bust. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards of 39-inch material for blouse; and 3⅛ yards of 39-inch material for skirt and bolero.

No Wife Can Have The Same Respect For Her Husband After She Learns He Has "Strayed," But Sometimes It Is Best To Go On Living With Him

DEAR MISS DIX—We are three wives who are having husband trouble, so will you please answer these questions: (1) Do you think it possible for a wife to have the same faith, love and respect for her husband after she learns that he has been unfaithful to her and had affairs with other women? (2) Just what do children, especially boys, think when they know their father is a philanderer? (3) Do you think a woman deserves credit for continuing to live with an unfaithful husband for the sake of the children, or is she a fool for doing so? (4) What is the effect of divorce on children? (5) What is your opinion of the man who leaves his wife and children to run around with other women and spend the money on them that his family needs? (6) Is the philanderer ever cured of the habit and domesticated?

WE ARE SAD.

ANSWER:

(1) Faith and respect once destroyed can never be regained. When you have found that your idol has feet of clay you never again believe that it is pure gold. It is possible for a woman to continue to love her husband after he has deceived her, but it is never with the same love she gave him before. What she gives him is a pitying love for a poor, weak creature who had not the strength to resist temptation, and it has in it neither respect nor faith. Only contempt for him and a little contempt for herself that she could still care for so poor a thing.

(2) Children are secretive things and nobody knows just what they think of their parents. Also, they sit in hard judgments on their parents. What a boy would think of his philandering father would depend a good deal on how his mother treated his father. I have known cases in which children sided with their erring fathers because they thought that their mothers nagged too much, or were too quarrelsome, and they didn't blame their fathers for leaving them.

(3) Whether a woman deserves credit for continuing to live with her unfaithful husband for the sake of her children depends on three things, I think. First, on whether she is able to provide for her children adequately if she divorces their father. If a woman has no money of her own and no trade by which she can support and educate her children, I think it is heroic in her to shut her eyes to her husband's affairs with other women and keep her home together for the sake of her children.

The woman who divorces her husband is generally left pretty flat because not many men make enough to support two families, and the second wife and children always get the most of what a man earns. Another consideration is that many a man who is a poor husband is a good father, and if children love their father it is a cruel wrong to them to take them away from him. But unless a woman can make up her mind simply to accept her husband's wanderings and ignore them, it is best for her to leave him, because it wrecks children to be brought up in an atmosphere of quarreling and having their parents hurl insults at each other.

(4) All authorities agree that divorce inflicts a terrible wrong on children and that it warps their minds and characters.

(5) I should have to print on asbestos paper my opinion of the man who leaves his wife and children to run around with other women, and spends his money on them that his family needs.

(6) Oh, yes, the philanderer is virtually always cured after his wandering feet get too old and gouty to chase women any more. Then he always comes back to home and Mother.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a widow 50 years old and have two daughters who are working away from home. A widower of my age wants me to marry him, as both of us have such lonely lives. I have a small income which keeps me nicely, but which will stop if I marry. The man has nothing. Do you think sacrificing one's income for perhaps a happy but poor future is advisable? MAVES.

ANSWER:

I certainly do not. An oldish woman's best friend is her pocketbook, and she should hold on to that until death itself loosens her clasp. If you give up a settled, comfortable income for a little make-believe romance you will spend the balance of your life regretting it.

I am not throwing cold water on a woman of 50 marrying. On the contrary, I think it is a fine thing for her to do if she can make a suitable match, or even if she is able to indulge in the luxury of supporting a husband for the sake of his society. As people get older they do need companionship, somebody to sit by the fire with and talk over old times, somebody to cook for and coddle and nurse, but all of this needs financial backing and, if you haven't it, the whole scheme falls through.

You are comfortable now with your assured little income. Think how miserable you would be if that was gone and you didn't know where the next meal was coming from, nor how you would get the rent money, or pay for a scuttle of coal. And think how your burden would be doubled if you had a helpless husband hanging on to you. Believe me, you would be a lot lonelier then than you are now. If this man you are contemplating marrying had enough money to support you in comfort when your own income is gone, I would say go ahead to the parson and heaven bless you my children. But as he hasn't anything to live on, I say: DON'T DO IT. For if you do the fool-killer will get you sure.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been married two months to a very fine man who is extremely nice in every way but one, and that is that he is ashamed to face his friends with me. You see, before I married him I had an affair with a married man. His friends know this and every once in a while it pops up without any warning. I want his friends to be mine, but when they act so prudish toward me could any girl stand it? BEWILDERED.

ANSWER:

As we sow we reap. You are paying the price of your sin and folly and there is no escaping it. Your consolation is that in time you can pay your debt by right living and win back your place in society. DOROTHY DIX.

Dinner Party Observes Important Date

Marking their fifty-fourth wedding anniversary and Mrs. Garside's birthday, a happy family dinner party was held on Friday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Garside, 199 Reid street, who were married fifty-four years ago in Murray Street Baptist church. Mr. and Mrs. Garside, with their four children, Mr. C. C Garside, Mrs. B. J. Garside, Mrs. Thomas Smith and Miss Bernice Garside, have lived in this city all their lives. Many lovely gifts and messages of good wishes were received by the bridal couple, and included a lovely sheaf of red roses presented to Mrs. Garside by Miss Catherine Martin in recognition of the wedding and birthday celebration.

Poinsettias on mirror reflectors and scarlet tapers in silver holders were used on the attractively arranged T-shaped tables. Occupying a place of honor at the head table with the bride and groom were two very dear friends, Mr. and Mrs. James Goodwin.

Among those present were two sons, Mr. C. C. Garside and Mr. B. J. Garside and their wives; a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Smith and Mr. Smith, and another daughter, Miss Bernice Garside; a nephew, Mr. Charles Garside and Mrs. Garside and their daughter, Carol Suzanne; Mr. Orris Garside, also a nephew; Miss Gwen Davies, Miss Catharine Martin, Mr. J. H. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. James Mabee, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hanscom, Miss Flo German, and Miss Kate German (Hastings), all cousins.

Firemen's Ball Highlight Of Holiday Season

A party that remains the tradition of the holiday season in Peterborough is the annual Ball of the Peterborough Fire Department. This year's party, which opened merrily at 12.05 New Year's night, was gayer and brighter than ever. Red, blue and white garlands arranged about the walls of the Legion Hall where the affair was held lent themselves perfectly to the holiday spirit, and bands of streamers in the same shade draped the lights and behind the orchestra stand, where very special dance music was provided by Del Crary's "Gentlemen of Swing."

Patrons and patronesses were His Worship Mayor Hamilton, His Honor Judge S. L. Smoke, K.C., and Mrs. Smoke, Mr. and Mrs. James Juby, Hon. G. N. Gordon, P.C., K.C., and Mrs. Gordon, Mr. J. J. Duffus, M.P., and Mrs. Duffus, Mr. Alex Elliott, M.P.P., Alderman and Mrs. R. S. Cotton, Alderman and Mrs. R. M. Glover, Mr. and Mrs. R. Denne, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Graham, Mr. J. S. Strickland, K.C., and Mrs. Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jamieson.

Door prizes were won by Miss Thelma Huggins and Mr. J. B. Wood; Mrs. Earl White, Mr. Ken Hoard; gentlemen's balloon, Mr. Robert Creighton; ladies' spot, Mrs. Thomas Doughty; gentlemen's spot, Alderman Cotton; ladies' spot, Leone McGee; ladies' balloon, Thelma Huggins; ladies' spot, Miss Florence Andruss.

Several articles were found following the dance, apparently lost, and may be had on application to Fire Chief George Gimblett.

Among those present were: Miss Sally Kirby, Mrs. E. Wigg, Miss Theresa Torpey, Mr. and Mrs. C. Garside, Miss B. Primeau, Miss L. Bell, Miss Doris Williams, Miss Beatrice Neiman, Mr. and Mrs. M. Mendell, Miss Margaret Courneya, Miss Thelma O'Toole, Mr. and Mrs. Fern Collet, Mr. and Mrs. J. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Whatley, Mr. and Mrs. J. McBride, Mr. and Mrs. O. Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. B. Attendance Awards At St. Luke's S.S.

A merry Christmas party for the Primary Department children of St. Luke's Sunday school was given during the holiday week, when the little folks were given supper at a table gaily decorated with evergreens, balloons, and a tiny house with a miniature Santa descending the chimney.

Pictures of the Christmas story were shown, and a delightful little program given by the children included Yuletide songs and recitations. Presents to the happy children were distributed at the close of the program by Santa himself, who dropped in to wish them the "merriest Christmas ever."

Prizes were also awarded for best attendance to the following children: Beginners' Class—First prize, Jean Manlece, Bobbie Davies, Hewitt Hamilton, Eleanor Davies. Special prizes—Dorothy Sedgewick, Allen Sedgewick. Primary Class—A, First prize, Irene Davies. Special prize—Joyce Beggs. Primary Class—B, First prizes, Anita Mason, Marilyn Hamilton, Adele Gardiner. Primary Class—C, First prize, Edith Miller, Marlyn Patterson, Lavergne Butcher, William King. Second prize—(Beginners' Class), Adele Miller, Rose Marie Allen. Second prize (Primary Class B), George Gough. Second prize (Primary Class C), Amy Curtis.

CHEST COLDS
Here's Quick Relief from Their DISTRESS!
Rub soothing, warming Musterole well into your chest and throat.
Musterole is NOT just a salve. It's a "counter-irritant" containing old-fashioned cold remedies, oil of mustard, and other valuable ingredients, in a clean white ointment.
That's why it gets such fine results—better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Musterole penetrates, stimulates, warms and soothes, helpful in quickly relieving local congestion and pain. Used by millions for 36 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. Made in Canada, in three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong. All druggists, 40¢ each.

Our Council Unchanged

At first glance it looks as though ratepayers in Peterborough were satisfied with the City Council of 1938. On polling day out of 11 candidate who offered their services as aldermen the voters selected the five needed who had been members of the 1938 council. It sounds like expounding a strange theory, but it does look as though the one best way to get into our council is to have been in it.

The six gentlemen who tried unsuccessfully for places in Council have nothing for which to apologize. They offered their services to the people and having done so they have discharged their duty as citizens in good standing.

Some may claim the weather was against the polling of a large vote, but that in itself was not a sufficient reason for so many people failing to mark their ballots. How many people voted we do not at the moment know, but the highest vote was that of Ald. McCannon —2,606. He would hardly claim for himself that all the voters put in an X for him. Perhaps the total number who voted was 3,000, and that may sound fair enough until one comes upon the rather stubborn and unlovely fact that there are 12,549 who could have voted. There were sufficient uncast votes to have defeated every member-elect.

We have the same council as 1938, and we believe it quite correct to state we had a good Council in 1938.

The County Council

There will be few changes in the 1939 County Council. As a rule we believe people in the county are more conversant with what is going on in county and township councils than the people in the city when it comes to a knowledge of their municipal affairs. The county people know about their roads for instance much more intimately and thoroughly than our corresponding knowledge of our pavements and sidewalks. If there is a good road program being carried out and the work is being done well when the people know it by personal contact because they are using the roads continually.

It is also a fact that Peterborough county finances are in sound condition; the debenture debt of some $87,000 will be materially reduced as some of the remaining debentures mature and are retired, and it does look as though our country can quite reasonably anticipate the time when it will have joined the charmed circle of counties—of which there are now seven in Ontario—where there is no debenture debt. The extent to which the 1938 council was returned is evidence enough of approval, and county ratepayers are quick enough to express disapproval when they have reason to believe it is called for.

The Slimy Submarine

There is in existence an agreement between Britain and Germany regarding the relative naval strength of the two countries, but reports says the regulations regarding submarines are not airtight and Germany has served notice that she intends to build up her undersea craft to a strength equal to that of Britain.

So early in the year 1939 there is an old sore into which the salt of ambition is going to be rubbed. Britain has never been keen on the submarine, and if nations were ready today to scrap every submarine in existence Britain would undoubtedly be the first to subscribe and actually participate in the work of elimination.

Britain interprets the German campaign as something which is directed toward the British fleet and the British Isles and British shipping and we believe such interpretation is correct enough. A submarine could leave German waters, cruise around the British Islands and return to its base without refuelling.

A damnable and a slimy and a snake-like thing is the submarine. It will not stand up in a straight fight; it strikes and runs and deals death from the dark where it cannot be seen. It is a cowardly thing. It cannot and does not rescue its victims when it destroys their vessel and the wonder is that an enlightened world will tolerate it.

But Germany is again at the work of stirring up the mud at the bottom of the international pool and counts on her increased number of submarines to do it. It does look as though Chamberlain's policy of appeasement toward Germany is not going to work—because Germany does not want it to work.

Better Think It Over

The Magone Commission appointed by the Ontario government to investigate the workings of Ontario mental hospitals, has issued its report, although there was actually nothing much to report. After making its inquiries and investigations the Commission found that affairs were just about as they ought to be and announced they had discovered nothing to indicate that people were being detained longer than necessary in such institutions.

One of the recommendations is that there shall be a central board of review, directly responsible to the Minister of Health, to consider appeals made by patients or relatives against the continued detention of a patient, and "to have full power to release patients either by way of probation or discharge."

Does that mean an additional organization is to be brought into existence and paid for? The need for such a body may exist although such need was not apparent in the investigation of the Commission which found no evidence of an individual being unduly detained.

Then if the right to discharge a patient is made the property of this board what becomes of the authority of the superintendent of the institution, and the recommendations which may be made to him by members of the staff who are continually in touch with the patients and who know what progress is being made or what adverse symptoms are developing? Would such an outside body be competent to give safe judgment on such matters, and would it be prepared to accept full responsibility for ordering the discharge of a patient?

Much better to sift that section of the report rather thoroughly before any person rises to move that it be adopted and put into effect.

Creating Confusion

In some Ontario centres there was a rush at the first of the year to renew licenses issued to operators of motor cars, and there has been a good deal of confusion about it. J. P. Bickell, issuer of motor licenses, is reported as ruling that the operator's card is good until the 31st of March the same as the markers on the car.

And if the holder of a 1938 operator's license will take the trouble to look at the ticket it will be found right near the top—"Valid until December 31, 1938, and must be presented for renewal annually thereafter."

We have not yet seen a good reason suggested telling why a car marker for 1938 should be recognized in 1939, and we see no reason why an operator's license for 1938 should be good for three months in 1939.

The thing is making confusion and serving no good purpose. A year is a year or 12 months in all other dealings, so why make an exception and a muddle in regard to cars and their licenses?

They Can't Be Heard

Experts are to be asked for reports telling what can be done to improve the acoustics of the Senate and the House of Commons at Ottawa. We apparently have no method whereby it is possible to erect a splendid hall and then guarantee there will be no echoes or dead spaces as far as the carrying of sound is concerned, and it has been that way at Ottawa, particularly in the Commons.

The request that members of the House speak louder has been a frequent one and people who find seats in the public galleries can sit there often enough and have only a vague idea of what is going on in the chamber. When a man is out in his own riding conducting a campaign he speaks at many places; he may even have a few sessions out-of-doors and then his vocalism is of the stern and sonorous variety; he is talking himself on toward victory and he wants people to hear what he has to say.

But when he gets to Ottawa he is apt to turn dignified; he has his hands on the government of the country and is no longer boisterous, and he delivers the considered judgment rather than the fervent appeal. He sits in the midst of men who have been long in public life and he cannot very well holler at them. Therefore he may readily join the ranks of those who cannot be heard many rods from the point of delivery.

They have experimented before and the chamber has been wired for sound and we believe the apparatus would have worked but for the opposition of the senior members. It gave them the impression they were travelling in a sound truck and they liked it not at all. So something else must be done about it before the House opens.

It remained for members of the Press Gallery to indulge in some plain speaking by way of comment. Yes, to be sure it would be a help to have better sound when a real address was being made or when some high-class debating was taking place, but they also recalled there were many hours during the session when they were not much interested in what was being said because there was so much chaff blowing about. And the Press Gallery has sized the situation up accurately. There are occasions when improved sound facilities would be welcome; there are also intervals when it makes little difference because what is being said is actually of no interest to any one except the individual who is saying it.

Not Published In Berlin

There are reports being published in world newspapers now which will never be printed in Germany because they have to do with the private affairs of Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Hitler's right hand man and his Minister of Propaganda. The only announcement circulated in Germany is that Dr. Goebbels has been confined to a clinic in Berlin where he is now recovering from an attack of influenza.

The other report which persistently circulates and which has been carried by the New York Times is that Dr. Goebbles is in the clinic recovering from another kind of attack, one which was made by friends of Gustav Froelich, an actor, because Dr. Goebbels was paying too much attention to his wife, Lida Baarova, screen celebrity.

Froelich was first married to Gitta Alpar, a singer of note, but husband and wife were driven from Germany because Gitta was a Jewess, and the price the husband had to pay for returning to Germany was divorcing his Jewish wife, which he did. Afterward he married Lida Baarova, a Czech movie star. According to the Berlin story Goebbels became infatuated with this lady, although he is supposed to be a happily married man, and Frau Goebbels is official hostess for Hitler on state occasions because Hitler is a bachelor. It is reported the Minister of Propaganda found little trouble in having Gustav Froelich transferred to a concentration camp, and that is where he is at present. When Dr. Goebbels was leaving the apartment of Froelich's wife, the Times story relates, he was met by several men who used horse whips and fists on him, and he is in the clinic now having his teeth placed in shape and his face fixed up. The claim is that he received a severe beating. But all the report officially permitted in Germany is that Dr. Goebbels is in a Berlin clinic recovering from an attack of the flu. It is known that such an affair cannot be mentioned beyond a whisper in Germany, but the report has come from several sources which have a reputation for getting things right. Opinion seems to be that Hitler will have to deal with Dr. Goebbels, and if there is a change made in his standing it will be considered as confirmation of the story.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One report has it that Ontario spent $61,000,000 on its drink bill last year, but it is the relief bill about which we hear the most complaining.

Six hundred young farmers are attending short courses at the Ontario Agricultural College during the holiday period, and that is one way of making pretty good use of what is referred to as a holiday period.

W. J. Reynolds has completed a service of 65 years in the mechanical department of the Brockville Recorder, showing there is at least one industry where a man is not considered too old at 40.

Franklin Fleck of Fort Wayne, Ind., is two years old and weighs 49 pounds, and the family doctor says he would have weighed more had it not been for illness. If the illness was not too severe it might be a kindness to have a little more of it.

The Horlick estate over which relatives have been fighting was said to be worth $4,000,000, but the latest report puts it at $731,000. If the thing would disappear entirely there would be nothing for the loving relatives to squabble over and then they might be happier.

Woman in Ridgetown, now 80 years old and married for 55 years, says there is too much responsibility in being married and concludes that spinsters have the best of it. Her husband is 85 and when he read that view in the paper there would be at least something to talk about at the supper table for one evening.

It may seem strange to read of persons dying from cold in California during the recent severe weather. We are accustomed to associate California with palm trees semi-tropical growth and warmth. Truth is that Northern California is about on a line with the most southerly sections of Ontario.

HARD TO PLEASE

(By A.R.K.)

¶ When it gets cold on days like these, and wind starts beating on my knees, attacking too my spine; 'tis then I try to think of heat, and of my weary cornbound feet, when it was summer time.

¶ And when the furnace fire goes out, and folk begin to groan and shout, and I chop kindling wood; I think of days of last July, when sun was blazing in the sky, far stronger than it should.

¶ I think of how it struck me then, when I toiled on with heated men, and felt all bent and old; I used to long for time to come, when I'd be spared the pelting sun, and when I'd feel real cold.

¶ Of heat I thought I had enough, the winter days would make me tough, for north winds I would cheer; and when it came to victual time, I'd know my appetite was fine, I'd sweep the table clear.

¶ It helped me get my choring done, in days when I toiled in the sun, I used to look ahead; and I'd enjoy the frosty nights, when came the time to douse the lights, three blankets on the bed.

¶ But now that it is cold once more, I keep on thinking like before, I hope for merry spring; when sun will smite me on the head, when I rise early from my bed—and shine like everything.

About Banks.

IN the Capitol Building in Washington, D. C., is the strangest bank in the world. It operates without a charter and has deposits estimated at $12,000,000. Chiefly used as a convenience for cashing the pay-checks of Congressmen, it possesses no name whatsoever. It was the only bank in the United States that did not close during the bank holiday of March, 1933.

SPORT AND CRIME.

JUVENILE crime in Lethbridge has diminished perceptibly. This year there have been only 20 juveniles in court so far as against 58 last year. This, we have no hesitation in saying, is greatly due to the encouragement given boys by the facilities provided by community playgrounds and skating rinks and the interest taken in junior hockey by the Junior Hockey Association, the executive of which is composed of adults. —Lethbridge Herald.

•Do the German People Want War?

ALL those who have been in Germany in recent months are agreed that the German people do not want war. Too many of the generation that went through it are still alive. The German people are about as anxious for war as are the Americans. All who were in Berlin on the night that the war clouds rolled away, after Chamberlain's visit to Hitler, will testify to the wild joy of the people. They sang and danced in the streets as though it were armistice night in Detroit.

Nothing has happened since the guns ceased barking on the Western Front that is any more significant than the attitude of the German people. In '14 they were hysterical with joy because war had been declared. Last summer, says Malcolm Bingay, in Detroit Free Press, they were equally hysterical with happiness—but for the opposite reason, there was to be peace and not war.

Now a dictator who cannot lead his people into a war ceases to be a dictator. Hitler knew that night when the vast throngs greeted him with stony silence that he was in danger. If he had plunged his people into a war against their will his power was gone.

And so the British Government is content to play a waiting game England is old, very old, in the ways of the world and knows that time is the essence of all things in the game of international politics. She has determined the destinies of Europe ever since the days of Pitt when a much smarter man than Hitler—a fellow named Napoleon—sought to conquer the world.

She knows that the Hitler Government cannot last as it is, that it will run its course. Hitlers may come and go but England goes on forever with a flexible government that is always changing but always remains the same—with a tradition in diplomacy that dates back for almost a thousand years.

The Kaiser moaned that he had the best army in the world and the best equipment but he could not give Germany its place in the sun because he could not match the technique of British diplomats.

But, above all, modern wars are won with money. The British Empire has tremendous latent resources that could be drawn upon. Germany is keeping away from bankruptcy right now by strange juggling devices that puzzle all the world's foremost economists. The persecution of the Jews and the robbing them of their wealth is merely a desperate scheme to bolster the country's collapsing financial structure.

And when the cash comes Hitler and his gangsters will have to flee from the wrath of the people they have misled. The attitude of the people on the eve of what looked like certain war is an ominous indication of their real feelings—now smothered for safety's sake.

Nowhere have I found any anti-German feeling nowadays in the United States. That is significant. Everybody places the blame where it belongs, on the Hitler group. And the time is coming when the people of Germany themselves will solve that problem.

• Where Do They Get the Money?

SPAIN'S civil war is entering upon its 30th month—with the fighting heavier than ever. Selecting Christmas week, of all times, for a fresh offensive, General Franco has launched a new drive to reach Barcelona. is apparently making some progress. At the same time, there is no sure indication as yet this Spanish war is closing. Time and again during the past two years what seemed like certain victory for the insurgents ended in futility.

It has been an appalling drama, this Spanish war. The world, its capacity for shock and terror all but exhausted, has perhaps not realized fully what it has meant in tragedy. Yet, says the Ottawa Journal, if the most conservative figures are to be believed, more people have been killed or maimd or ruined in Spain than were killed or wounded or ruined in the American Civil War.

It has been fought with the most modern and deadly weapons. For example, since the fighting began, the insurgents have captured 125 tanks, 193 field guns, 364 minenwerfers, 1,366 machine-guns, 1,475 automatic rifles, 75,000 rifles, 126,000 shells, 105 million cartridges and shot down more than 1,000 'planes. Assuming that the Government forces are still well armed, and that General Franco's forces were and are now even better equipped, the massing of deadly armaments must be taken as colossal.

Where did these armaments come from? And who paid for them? Franco, it is well known has had the backing of Hitler and Mussolini But where did the Spanish Government, with only a few of Spain's provinces left to it, and practically cut off from the world—where did it get its equipment? There was, of course, Russia. But it must be a long time since Russia has been able to get armaments to the Spanish Government on any substantial scale. For a year or more supplies crossed the French fronties, but even that source has been cut off.

The whole thing is puzzling. Armaments cost money, call for all sorts of raw material; yet here is the Government of but a part of a poor country apparently in a position to keep up an expensive war indefinitely. It all makes one wonder why Governments find it so hard to carry on in peace.

WHAT OTHER WORD?

NEXT YEAR'S chief event for the Dominion is not described properly, in the opinion of the Canadian High Commissioner at London, by the word "visit". He points out that His Majesty will come here not as a visitor but as the Sovereign of the country, which is no less home to him than Britain.

Mr. Massey might suggest, however, especially for the benefit of newspaper writers, what word should be used if "visit" is to be debarred. "Tour", "journey", "trip" and some others that come to mind are open to objections. After all we speak of Canadians paying a "visit" to other parts of the Dominion than those in which they live. They are still in their "homeland", in doing so. Why then not employ the familiar term in referring to the stay that the King and Queen are to make among their Canadian subjects?

There is really no reason to worry about what it is called, so long as a hearty welcome is extended and that is a certainty.—Edmonton Journal.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

NOW as he walked by the sea of Galilee, he saw Simon and Andrew his brother casting a net into the sea: for they were fishers. And Jesus said unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.....And they went into Capernaum; and straightway on the sabbath day he entered into the synagogue and taught.

And forthwith, when they were come out of the synagogue, they entered into the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John. But Simon's wife's mother lay sick of a fever, and anon they tell him of her. And he came and took her by the hand, and lifted her up; and immediately the fever left her and she ministered unto them.— Mark 1, 16, 17, 21, 29-31.

200 YEARS GOVERNMENT.

THE Cabinet has been meeting at No. 10 Downing Street for more than 20 years. George II offered the house in 1731 to Sir Robert Walpole who accepted it, not for his private use, but as a permanent official home for the First Lord of the Treasury; in September 1735, he moved in from his house in St. James's Square.

And in 1935, on the second centenary of that event, the Times remarked that to recount what had passed within the Cabinet Room at No. 10 "would be to tell the history of England."

It is a story, the writer added, "that could be told in its own domestic terms only as two centuries of men talking, usually round a table." —London Times.

Barcelona Next In Rebel Drive

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Spanish insurgent commanders established their forces along a 65-mile front today for what may become an intensified drive against Barcelona, provinsional capital of government Spain.

Barcelona is the ultimate objective of the insurgent offensive begun December 23. Late reports reaching the French-Spanish border indicated to military observers that operations during the past several days were preliminary to a large-scale offensive against the government's 20-mile fortified line between Balageur and Borjas Blancas. This first defence line is roughly 75 miles west of Barcelona.

Immediate objective, these informants said, could be: Borjas Blancas, southern end of the government first line of defence; a sector just eastof Balaguer, where insurgent troops already hold a bridgehead and a small segment of the important highway to the French border; Artesa, 15 miles northeast of Balageur which, as the "key to Catalonia," controls a network of highways important for transportation of army supplies.

The northern columns of the insurgent army, by recent victories in the Vilanova de Meya sector, actually have moved east of the Balageur-Borjas Blancas line of fortifications. By marching south they could imperil the government's Catalan militiamen by rearguard assaults.

Painting The Reckless

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 3. —(A. P.). —Mayor Fred Huester hopes to make Scranton safe through "embarrassing" reckless drivers by painting circles on the rear of their cars. A first offense against traffic laws would rate a yellow ring, a second offence red and a third blue. The circles will stay on 30 days— if the city legal department decides the punishment is lawful. The mayor reasoned a marked car would get a wide berth.

WARDEN'S THANKS

In retiring as Reeve of Dummer and Warden of Peterborough County, I wish to express my thanks to the members of our township council for their loyal help, and to wish the new council every success; to the ratepayers of Dummer for their confidence in me and for the opportunity they gave me to try to be of some public service; to the members of the county council for electing me Warden, for their co-operation and kindly relations which I shall always gratefully remember; and also to many other friends in the county and city with whom it has been a pleasure to have been associated in various ways. I wish to thank especially the council of the City of Peterborough for their friendliness to me personally and as the representative of the county in 1938, and to hope that both the county and the city will continue to work together in the best of goodwill and enjoy increased prosperity.

Signed

E. N. McDonald

To all those who assisted in any way in my re-election I am deeply grateful and I trust that I will be worthy of your confidence.

Wishing one and all a Bright and Happy New Year.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, January 3

AN OPPORTUNITY for hard work, with earnest purpose and sound objectives, is shown by this day's astral operations. This industry, steadfastness and responsibility are likely to arrest the attention and substantial support of elders or old-established institutions, with the result of placing matters on a table basis. However, there are subtle complications to be given serious attention, and an urge for change to be suppressed.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year that offers much opportunity for putting the affairs on a sound basis and fortunes on a firm foundation, and a strengthening of the objectives. This opportunity may come through application, good judgment and practical methods, all of which should attract support from elders and solid institutions. But resist a lure to change and be ready for peculiar or crafty predicaments. Patience and perseverance have solid promise for reward.

A child born on this day may be studious, serious, methodical and diligent, thereby winning endorsement and advancement from elders and superiors. Its ideas may be novel and progressive, its aims above average.

For Wednesday, January 4

PROBLEMS and uncertainties beset this day according to the lunar and mutual aspects. There are sinister and subtle entanglements, as well as situations boldly vengeful and vindictive. These may lead to litigation and strife, with disagreeable situations and very doubtful results, unless there be much vigilance and sagacity exerted against fraud, treachery and craftiness. Even friends may fail.

Those whose birthday it is may not find affairs harmonious this year unless they exercise unusual awareness, precaution, keen judgment and shrewd action in tricky, smooth and even fraudulent situations. Resort to law is indicated, but it is a doubtful issue. Both undercover and open treachery menace and demand direct and drastic action, even with alleged friends.

A child born on this day may be active, versatile and possibly too clever for its own good. It may become involved in much trouble, perplexity and difficulty because of its own eccentricities. Early discipline and direction are enjoined

THE BIG International ball was being all the success that Houston's society editors had predicted.

"Everybody was there. Not literally, because the University club could hold less than a thousand people, and many couples had applied for tickets too late. But the elite were there. And the elite had paid $10 per couple, which is enough to insure excellent music, floor show, refreshments and trimmings.

Refreshments started early in the evening, when a picturesque Mexican peon drove a burro cart into the hall and began dispensing drinks and tidbits.

"Aquamiel, dulces Mexicanas, pecan candee-e-e-es!" he chanted. He pretended to beat on his balky burro, which was two boys in clever costume. Dancers crowded around to sample his delicious punch and his candy.

Later some costumed Mexican women came stolidly to the center of the dance floor, spread a great tarpaulin, and from earthen crocks which they had carried took steaming hot tamales. They were dainty tamale of white chicken meat. Tostados — crusty toasted tortillas—were served them. Guests ate with their fingers only, and amid much comment and laughter.

A live pig, once white but dyed green, with a red and yellow ribbon around its neck, darted across the floor during one dance. Shrieks and yells stopped the dance, and a bow-legged Mexican clown dashed in to catch his pig. With much grunting and pantomime, ten minutes of hilarity reigned.

Such surprises as these popped one after the other. Then, to everybody's delight, the president of the United States, and the president of Mexico, addressed the assembly for three minutes each, not in telegrams as first planned, but over long distance telephone, their voices being amplified in the ballroom. "My friends in Texas," Mr. Roosevelt concluded, "when two great nations can play together it is a significant thing. To the two universities who have met in clean sport and clean fellowship today, and especially to the citizens of our sister Republic to the south, greetings and good wishes all."

Mister Worthington Gurley, freshman, had been checking in hats and coats earlier in the evening but he managed to keep tab on some of the ballroom fun, too. He sensed that this was a grand ball, grandest he had ever seen. He liked the surprises, the stunts.

He had quickly concluded, therefore, that whatever Peaches Pomeroy had in mind would be another stunt of some sort, probably a hazing stunt. She had wanted to get rid of him temporarily. But he thought maybe the fun with the coats would start when he was gone, and he didn't want to miss one bit of it.

So he took her 50 cents and pretended to leave—but actually he just ducked around the hall corner and crawled down under the shadow of some potted palms.

He moved silently back to within ten feet of Peaches, where he had a full view of the checking counter and of the hats and wraps within, and he crouched there in the semi-darkness to see what Peaches would do.

Was she going to start switching the checks ahead of the sophomores? He didn't know, but he would dog-gone sure see! Worthington snickered, silently.

Somebody was singing again in the big ballroom.

"Tonight I'm the gay caballero,
Out for much pleasure—Ha ha!"

It was the "Fiesta Song" that Don Romero had introduced. It had a catchy swing. A gay Mexican tune. Don Romera had sung it three times, and the orchestra had picked up the melody. Pretty soon everybody seemed to have the words memorized, of the chorus, at least.

"I'll catch me a girlo,
And give her a whirlo,
Of whoopee a la Espanol—"

When they got to the "Ha-ha, ha-ha, Hey!" part, the crowd all shouted. It was better than "El Rancho Grande". Worthington reflected; better than the cowboy songs where you shriek "Yip-peeeee!" in the choruses.

He peered at Peaches.

She had a wild look in her eyes. Not the twinkle of mischief one would expect, if fun were afoot.

She looked frightened. And mean, actually mean.

"Gosh!" breathed freshman Gurley, curiosity mounting.

Peaches went quietly to each end of the short hall, peered around the corners. Apparently no one was near. Then all at once she hastened back and went around behind the checking counter. She was moving swiftly now.

"She's starting something!" Worthington whispered to himself. He grinned in anticipation and raised up to watch her better.

He thought maybe she might steal a bunch of the coats and hide them somewhere in the building. That would be fun, all right. But then he remembered that Peaches had looked wild, and mean. The thought confused him.

He saw her rummage hastily in the rack where the girl's coats hung.

She seemed to be looking for a specific one—yes, sir, she was—she took down a white coat, one of transparent velvet with a touch of white fur, a nice but not very expensive coat. Why — that was Sara Sue's!

He knew positively. He had chatted with Sara Sue a moment when she came in, and helped her take the coat off while T. J. Sanders was removing his own. Moreover, he had hung up Sara Sue's with especial care. He liked Sara Sue. He would be eternally grateful to her for favors rendered.

Whatever could Peaches Pomeroy be conniving?

Worthington remembered, all in a rush, that Peaches was a heel. She was snobbish. She had been Bob Towne's big moment last year, people said, and now Bob was crazy about Sara Sue Davis. He, himself, had heard Peaches make catty remarks, once or twice, about that. Now she had Sara Sue's coat—gosh!

On the sire, near the hem, she was opening a seam, tearing at it with her fingers and her finger nails, and finally using her teeth to break the threads. And she was working very fast, almost frantically, keeping a sharp lookout. Worthington, highly curious, felt miserable lest she discover him in the shadows. A sense of alarm had suffused him.

Voices passing up the hall suddenly alarmed Peaches. Instantly she dropped the coat on a chair, forced a nice smile, and sauntered to the counter. She leaned over, looked left and right. Seeing no one, she was reassured. Her smile vanished. In a flash she was back at her task, working fast and warily. She reminded Worthington of a bird eating. A bird will spend one, she was reassured. Her smile then spend four seconds glancing cautiously around. In a half minute, though, she had the seam open —it appeared to be a slit three inches or so long—and she dropped the coat.

It, too, offered some difficulty. Being extremely valuable (several thousand dollars, Worthington had heard) it had a positive safety catch on it. Peaches had to take her teeth to that, too. She gnawed, and twisted, and pulled, to get it free.

Then she closed up the slit, making it as unobstrusive as she could. She hung the coat quickly on the rack where she had found it, took a deep breath, smiled again and calmly sauntered back outside to the front of the checking counter. She leaned one elbow indolently on it, as if waiting. Then she seemed to change her mind, for she walked down the hall and disappeared in the big ballroom.

OBITUARY

THOMAS MORGAN

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Jan. 3—The funeral of the late Thomas Morgan, who died in the General Hospital at Belleville on December 27 following an operation for appendicitis, was held on Friday, and was largely attended. The service was held in St. Mark's church, Bonarlaw, under Masonic auspices, Bro. Canon W. G. Swayne taking the service assisted by Rev. A. W. Harding, pastor of Springbrook United Church. The Masonic rites were conducted by Rt. Bro. C. H. Buskard and Bro. A. Sweet. Interment was in Mont Nebo Cemetery. The bearers were Bros. Wm. Linn, H. W. Sabine, E. C. Prentice, Thos. H. Prest, George E. Thomp and George A. Bailey.

The late Thomas James Morgan was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Morgan and was born 58 years ago in Huntingdon township.

In 1911 he married Miss Martha Bird and since that time has resided in Springbrook. He was a first class carpenter and recently has worked at this trade with The Routly Construction Company at Brockville and Gananoque. He was a man of kindly disposition and fine character and greatly esteemed by a large circle of friends.

He was a member of St. Mark's Anglican Church and a member of the executive committee of St. Mark's Laymen's Association. He was also a member of long standing of Marmora Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 222.

Left to mourn his loss are his widow; one son, Reginald Morgan; three brothers; W. Morgan, John Morgan, Burnt River, and German Morgan, Stirling; six sisters, Mrs. C. N. Reid, Belleville; Mrs. J. Murray, Stirling; Mrs. J. Keegan, Toronto; Mrs. A. B. Merrill, Toronto; Mrs. Thos. Cranston, Stirling; and Mrs. W Shane, Belleville.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

Knarf and Hanid, the shadow-children, found their good friend, Ting-a-Ling, still living on his house-boat in the little pond inside the Blue Chinese Plate. He was very busy when they stepped to his front porch from the edge of the bank. He seemed to be packing his trunk.

He looked up with a smile.

"Ah! good morning. You've come just in time."

"Just in time, Ting-a-Ling?" the shadows said. "Why do you say that?"

Going Away

"Because I'm going away."

"Oh! Where are you going?"

Ting-a-Ling stopped packing his trunk for a moment. He smiled. "Well," he answered, "I'm not living on a house-boat for no good reason. Land-houses must always stand on the same spot. That's the trouble with them. But if you live in a house-boat, as I do, you can go wherever you please without even leaving your house. I've decided to sail around the world."

"You're going to Africa and Asia

"Oh! where are you going?"

and—and—and all other far-a-way places?" asked Knarf enviously. "Oh! I wish we could go with you in your house-boat."

"Why! That's a wonderful idea. Of course you can come with me. You're both invited. My trunk is nearly packed. We'll leave at once."

"But—" Hanid started to say as she gazed around the little pond, "But how are you—?"

Ting-a-Ling didn't give her a chance to finish. He quickly untied the rope which held the house-boat to the stake at the edge of the bank. "All aboard!" he shouted joyfully. "We're going to go right across the ocean! The first stop is Africa!"

The house-boat started moving slowly across the pond.

He's Very Happy

"Isn't this marvelous?" Ting-a-Ling said, "Just think? We'll be thousands of miles away from here in no time at all." He felt so happy he did a little dance on his front porch. "Isn't a house-boat the nicest thing in the world? You can go wherever you like."

At that instant there was a sharp jolt. The house-boat stopped. It had come against the bank on the other side of the little pond.

"That's just what I wanted to say," Hanid exclaimed. "A house-boat is a wonderful thing all right. But how can you go around the world in it when it can't get out of a little pond?"

Lovers Suffocate

DETROIT, Jan. 3.—(CP).—Death ended a midnight New Year's eve tryst of two young Detroit lovers in a tourist camp cabin and police to-day investaigated the cause of the couple's death. Police said Mary Nydza, 23, and Joseph Sabo, 21, probably suffocated when a gas burner in the room exhausted all oxygen.

Friends of the two said they believed they had been married secretly, but kept apart by the parents of both.

Upheaval Brews In Jap Cabinet

TOKYO, Jan. 3. — (AP).—Beneath the outward calm of New Year week there are increasing indications of a dispute between so-called Fascist and Liberal elements over policies in China—a dispute of such serious proportions it may force a cabinet re-organization.

It was considered significant that Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, Nationalist leader, returned to Tokyo today from Kanazawa, three days before he was to end a seaside holiday. Informed sources believed he would form a government if Premier Prince Konoye resigned.

There were innumerable conferences between ministers during the holidays.

The clash pivoted upon what "long-term construction" policies should be promulgated inside Japan and how rigidly they should be enforced.

It entailed full enactment of the National Mobilization Act and control of the China Affairs Board.

The government long has recognized the most critical period of the China war would come after positional warfare ended and the nation undertook the enormous task of consolidation on the continent. (Observers in Shanghai took the appointment of Lieut.-General Otozo Yamada to succeed General Shunroku Hata as commander of the Central China armies to indicate this period might now begin.)

The most urgent needs are money and raw materials, hence restrictons upon the national life are expected to become even more stringent.

Dentist Dies At 89

MONROE, Mich., Jan. 3. —(C. P.) —D. Amos M. Long, 89, one of the oldest practicing dentists in the United States, died here during the week-end. Dr. Long was widely known as a pioneering dentist. He had as a patient General George A. Custer, famed Indian fighter, and Custer's father.

TO THE ELECTORS OF OTONABEE

Rural Ontario Votes Low Snow Blamed

Incumbent councillors, including mayors, were popular yesterday as voters in four Ontario cities, many towns, villages and townships went to the polls for the annual New Year's Day elections.

In Toronto Mayor Ralph Day won by more than 37,000 votes over Lewis Duncan, lawyer, making his first bid for elective municipal honors. The mayor had company in victory in the four members of the 1938 Board of Control.

At Port Arthur, Mayor Charles Cox, M.L.A., seeking a sixth term as city head, had an easy victory over J. W. Wolvin, the final count being 4,280 to 1,170.

At Sault Ste. Marie, Mayor W. J. McMeeken defeated F. A. Irwin after a warm campaign, one of the issues in which was tax sale commissions paid the city treasurer. St. Catharines elected Charles Daley, a former alderman, mayor. He defeated Ald. Frank Wherry, making his first bid for top honors.

One tie was reported. In the town of Essex George Buhler and Frank Irwin each had 421 votes for mayor. Town Clerk K. E. Brett, returning officer, has a statutory duty to cast the deciding vote. He said he would consult the town solicitor before he did it.

Woman Wins in Sound

Mrs. Jean Honsinger topped the poll at Owen Sound for the four vacant council places. She had 2,140 votes. Three of four aldermen who sought ree-lection won. Mrs. Hosnsinger displaced Ald. Charles Peacock.

Powassan, in Northern Ontario, popped into the news when it chose a veritable youth for mayor. Mayor-elect Trenout is only 23, believed the youngest person ever a mayor in Ontario.

One tie was reported. In the town of Essex George Buhler and Frank Irwin each had 421 votes for mayor. Town clerk K. E. Brett, returning officer, has a statutory duty to cast the deciding vote. He said he would consult the town solicitor before he did it.

Fixed assessment by-laws were carried by good majorities in Leamington, Port Arthur and Listowe. The last-named also voted to grant $15,000 to the Memoria hospital for a new wing.

In rural municipalities voting generally was considerably down from last time. Snow-blocked roads were chiefly blamed.

Janetville W.A. Raised $664.85

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Jan. 3.—The December meeting of the Women's Association was held in the United church on Thursday afternoon, when the officers were elected for the New Year.

The president, Mrs. E. A. Bradburn, was in the chair and after the opening exercises, the treasurer, Mrs. Albert Heaslip, presented a complete financial report. $664.85 had been raised in various ways during the year, which was an increase over the previous year of $110.00. Out of the balance still on hand $60.00 was voted to the church board.

Tribute was paid to the late Mrs. Peel, who was a faithful and active member of the society.

A short program of Christmas carols was enjoyed with an interesting paper prepared by Mr. Frank Joblin on "The Prophesies of the Old Testament Fulfilled in the New Testament" which was read by Mrs. (Rev.) Bury.

A vocal duet by Mrs. F. Joblin and Mrs. J. Thornton was also very much enjoyed.

The president requested the Rev. Bury to preside for the election of officers and before vacating the chair thanked the members for their whole-heatred co-operation during the past two years and bespoke the same spirit of good will toward the new president.

The officers were elected as follows:

President, Mrs. R. J. Burn; past president, Mrs. E. A. Bradburn; vice-president, Mrs. S. E. Bradburn; secretary, Mrs. P. Hamilton; assistant secretary, Mrs. W. Leslie; treasurer, Mrs. Albert Heaslip (re-elected); pianists, Mrs. Joblin, Mrs. McGee; church committee, Mrs. S. E. Bradburn, Mrs. W. Leslie, Mrs. J. McDowell.

Mrs. Bury and Mrs. Howe moved a vote of thanks to the retiring president for her two years of most capable leadership, and Mrs. M. Armstrong and Mrs. Hyland expressed the appreciation of all to the retiring secretary, Mrs. J. R. McGee for eleven years of faithful and efficient service.

The officers will be installed at the January meeting by the pastor.

Members of the Scotscraig Golf Club in Tayport, Scotland, voted down a proposal to permit Sunday play and drinking.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 103

Chile Hails New President

Pedro Aguirre Cerda, newly installed President of Chile, doffs his silk hat in token of the crowd's cheers after his inauguration. Cheers and salutes met the new chief executive of Chile, in contrast to the reception given the retiring president, Don Arturo Alessandri. The latter, reports say, was booed heartily.

Anderson Beats Griffith In Belmont

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 3. — Isaac Anderson, young candidate for the Reeveship of the united townships of Belmont-Methuen was conceded the election to-day over his opponent, Reeve W. E. Griffith. Anderson was leading by 100 votes, with only three small polls in the northern part of the townships to be heard from.

From the returns received, Councillor Donald Plunkett is assured of re-election, while two newcomers, Carl Purdy and Floyd Steenburgh will be members of the new Council. The fight for fourth position is very close, Councillor Joseph McNeely with 185 votes being threatened by a young newcomer to the municipal field, Roy McArthur, who had polled a total of 182 so far.

Standing of the candidates last evening:

Only Four Votes Against Bylaw In Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 3—Campbellford voters were practically unanimous in their approval of granting a fixed assessment to the Trent Dehydrated Product Company. With all those aspiring to municipal honors being granted an acclamation, enthusiasm for yesterday's voting was at a low ebb. Early in the afternoon less than two hundred of approximately 600 qualified to vote had visited the polls. By their vote ratepayers signified their approval to the proposal to grant a fixed assessment of $1,000.00 for 10 years to the company. Only four of the four hundred and forty-three voters registered their disapproval by voting against the by-law. The voting by wards was as follows:

	For	Against
Ward 1	90	3
Ward 2	88	1
Ward 3	83	0
Ward 4	78	0

Norwood Village Returns Reeve Thompson

NORWOOD, Jan. 3—With only one change of personnel the village council was re-elected at the polls yesterday, Reeve J. R. Thompson turning back the challenge of Chas. C. Brown by 186 to 150 votes, and Rev. J. U. MacIntosh replacing Earl Cuthbertson as councillor. Ratepayers displayed rather keen interest in the elections. The councillors for 1938 are T. P. Rork who emerged with the largest vote, 202, Bert Scott 185, B. S. Lochhead 183, and Rev. Mr. MacIntosh 181.

Norwood Village

Two New Men

received the returns in the office of the tax collector at 5.21 o'clock from Polling Sub-division No. 11 in the City Buildings, where John Edgar was returning officer, and the final report arrived at 6.05 o'clock from Polling Sub-division 16 at the South Central School, 39 sub-divisions sending in their figures in 44 minutes.

There was little doubt of the result from the start. The first few polls showed that the trend was toward the five aldermen and political experts predicted early that there would be no new faces in the 1939 Council. The first four polls, all of them in the Centre Ward, showed the following result: McCannan 187, Bradburn 163, McIntyre 153, Dutton 140, and Wilson 138, with the other candidates strung along thusly: Tuggey 95, Kearney 60, Matthews 60, Powell 42, Johnson 39, and Littlefair 21, and that was regarded as the tip-off to the final result. A summary of the first 13 polls indicated that the early predictions were justified for it revealed McCannan leading with 731, Bradburn second with 620, McIntyre third with 617, Wilson fourth with 553, and Dutton fifth with 498. That was the order in which the five successful aldermen finally finished and incidentally the defeated candidates were also lined up in that 13-poll summary in the same way as they were when the final returns were in.

It Was Soon Over.

Subsequent recapitulations showed little change; in fact, the whole contest was virtually over after the first few polls had reported, the only chance of any change over the results as shown by the early polls was for ex-Alderman Tuggey to gain enough in the north, east and south to offset the Dutton strength in the centre and west, and when a few polls from those wards showed the chairman of the Relief Committee holding his own, any possibility of an upset vanished into thin air.

The situation at the City Hall differed materially from that of most previous election nights. Usually there is a tight race for one or two positions, and the result so far as they are concerned is generally in doubt until most of the polls have reported, but there was nothing of that kind on Monday night. The first few reports told the story, and before any of the successful candidates had put in an appearance the final result could be anticipated beyond the shadow of a doubt.

Only one of the eleven aspirants for aldermanic honors was on the scene when the first return came in. That was Francis H. Kearney, who arrived soon after 5 o'clock and remained until the final summary had been made up. Mr. Kearney was a good loser, taking the results with a smile and obtaining a great deal of satisfaction out of the fact that in his home district, where he was best known, he headed the polls. Ald. Bradburn and Ald. Dutton came in later to receive congratulations upon their success at the polls and Mayor Hamilton and Ald. Robert Cotton were on hand to keep a close watch on the returns.

Vote Smaller.

The vote was smaller than last year when it will be remembered a heavy snowstorm on New Year's Eve made transportation to the polls difficultw, and many voters were unable to get out to register their opinion. On that occasion the list was headed by Ald. R. M. Glover with 3,300, beating Ald. McCannan's total yesterday by 694. Ald. G. N. Gordon was second a year ago with 2,502.

A study of the figures shows that Ald. McCannan topped the polls at eight out of ten sub-divisions in the South Ward and tied another with Ald. Bradburn and McIntyre. The leader was tops in all five Centre Ward polling booths, in six of the nine West Ward polls, tieing two of the others, in four of the nine North Ward sub-divisions, and one of the six Ashburnham polls. In other words, Ald. McCannan headed the polls in 24 out of 39 sub-divisions. Ald. Bradburn, who finished in second place, strangely enough only was on top in only two polls throughout the city, taking Poll No. 8 in the South Ward and Poll No. 20 in the West Ward, but he was a good runner-up in most sections of the city and that earned him second honors.

Ald. McIntyre headed the polls in four North Ward and three Ashburnham polls, while the only other candidate to lead in any sub-division was Mr. Kearney, who was head man at polls 38 and 39 in East City.

Only four candidates succeeded in polling more than 100 votes at any one poll. Ald. McCannan doing the trick twice by grabbing 115 at Poll 18 and 146 at Poll 23, both in the West Ward. Poll 23 gave Bradburn 126, Dutton 131, and McIntyre 113; and incidentally that was the highest poll for all five of the successful candidates, Ald. Wilson getting 96 there. Fred Tuggey's biggest vote was in his own Sub-division 28, in the North Ward, where he polled 60; Kearney's largest was registered in his own area, Poll 38 in Ashburnham contributing 94 to his cause.

James Matthews made his best showing at Poll 39, where he picked up 44 votes. William S. Johnson also scored highest at that same polling sub-division with 43, and W. Gordon Powell got his biggest boost at Poll 6 in the South Ward, which gave him 32.

The most generous sub-division so far as Thomas Littlefair was concerned was No. 5 in the South Ward, which presented him with 41 votes. Incidentally Mr. Littlefair collected the smallest vote given any candidate when he gathered in only two votes at Poll 15 in the Centre Ward. The highest single vote taken by any aspirant was, of course, the 146 which Ald. McCannan garnered at Poll 23.

BEGGAR HAD $250

Arrested for begging, a cripple in Singapore, Malaya, was found to have $250 in a bag tied around his neck, and he was fined $10.

No One Claims Her Title

And in these days of rivalry, that is something. The reason is that Ida May claims the distinction of being Hollywood's homeliest blonde. She is shown here with film producer Cecil B. DeMille to whom she applied for a job. Casting directors concede that Miss May is not bragging, so she'll get a movie role in a forthcoming production.

Peter Mather Heads Polls In Otonabee

Peter Mather headed the polls with a total vote of 419, a plurality of 46 over David McIntyre and Mr. Davidson who were tied with 373 each. Mr. Thorn was 28 votes down the list with 345, and James Petrie finished in fifth place with 241 votes.

Percy Davidson is a former deputy-reeve of the township, and returns to the council service with an experience that should round out a strong township administration for 1939.

Mr. Mather carried his own subdivision and also Villers. Mr. Davidson led the quintette at Keene, Grady's and Lang. Mr. McIntyre at Downer's Corners, Mr. Thorn at Stewart's Hall, and Mr. Petrie at Howson's. The success of Mr. Mather in heading the polls did not surprise those of his friends who have intimated their opinion that it might have been an opportune time for taking a chance on trying to move up.

Mather, McIntyre and Thorn entered the council together four years ago, and Monday's defeat of Robin Thorn made the first break in their association.

The returns in detail were as follows:

	Downer's	Grady's	Howson's	Keene	Lang	Mather's	Stewart's	Villiers	Total
Mather	54	35	20	83	39	106	54	28	419
Davidson	26	100	32	88	40	44	21	22	373
McIntyre	65	40	45	58	30	93	33	9	373
Thorn	50	19	17	73	26	66	81	13	345

Ketchen Heads Havelock Council Poll

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 3. — Heading a field of seven candidates for Council in the Havelock municipal elections here yesterday, James Ketchen, a comparative newcomer in municipal affairs, polled 276 votes, a majority of 15 over his nearest opponent. Several years ago Mr. Ketchen served one term on the local Council.

James Wilde and Everard Chiles, with 261 and 256 votes respectively, were re-elected to the Council, Wilde for his third term and Chiles for his fourth.

Ex-Reeve Ernest J. Leeson with 243 votes to his credit captured the fourth seat in Council. The defeated candidates were D. A. Forde, a councillor last year, and two newcomers, Fred Polock and Kenenth Green.

Reeve Ernest W. Seeney was re-elected by acclamation to his fourth consecutive term in that office, when three other nominees for the Reeveship withdrew in his favor.

Acclamations were also made to the School Board and Hydro Commission as follows: Public School Board, one year term, Mrs. Clare Price; School Board, two year terms, Mrs. M. Brisbin and H. W. Roche; Hydro Commission, Richard Sanderson.

Reeve E. W. Seeney, the newly elected councillor, and several of the defeated candidates addressed a capacity audience in the Town Hall shortly after the election returns were made known.

Standing of the candidates was as follows:

James Ketchen .. (elected.)	139	137	276

Watch Night Service Is Held In Marmora

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 3. — Congregations of St. Paul's Anglican Church and of St. Andrew's United Church joined in a watch night service at the former church at 11.45 p. m. on Saturday. Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell took the prayers. The lesson was read by W. J. Cottrell, diocesan lay reader and Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth delivered an appropriate address on the text "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed".

At 93, Mrs. Phoebe Stanton of Adelaide, Australia, still rides a tricycle.

ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY

Members of Peterborough orchestral society please note—Rehearsal will be held Wednsday, January 4th at usual place. A full attendance is requested by the committee.

RICE LAKE SNOW HEAVY.

One of Stock's Bread men got back this afternoon from the Bailleboro-Bensfort route, reporting the going extremely heavy, and involving considerable tramping.

NO DRUNKS.

Not a New Year's drunk charge was listed in police court this morning. If Peterborough folk got drunk they kept out of the way of police and out of cars—at least they kept out of the hoosegow.

CARS DAMAGED.

A car owned by Percy Harrison and driven by E. Sullivan, 461 McDonnel Street, collided on Saturday afternoon at the corner of King and Reid Streets with another automobile driven by Mrs. Jennie Sugden, 21 Park Street, and both vehicles were damaged considerably.

RAILWAY SIGN DAMAGED.

Driving south on George street on Sunday night, Earl Ephgrave tried to stop at the C.P.R. crossing and his car slid on the icy road into the railway crossing sign, breaking it off at the base. Ephgrave's car had the front bumper bent and the headlights twisted.

TRAFFIC HAZARD.

When one of the steel plates on the new bridge at the Locks was accidentally raised by a passing vehicle and left in that position, a dangerous traffic hazard was created. Sergt. John Thompson reported the condition to Traffic Officer Broughton, who had the plate removed and repaired.

CLASS IS CANCELLED.

Owing to some work in the gym, the Tuesday night gymnasium girls at the Y.W.C.A. cannot be taken tonight for their usual instruction, Miss Caroline Littlefield announces. All evening classes at the Y.W. will commence Thursday evening at eight, while children's dancing classes resume tomorrow afternoon.

FIRST BABY OF YEAR

Proud parents of the first baby to be born in Peterborough in 1939 are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Colwill, 485 Rogers street. A baby girl was born to Mrs. Colwill at St. Joseph's hospital this morning and weighed six pounds and 13 ounces. Both mother and daughter are doing well. No babies were born on New Year's Day, so far as could be learned.

MISSED RECEPTION.

Warden E. N. McDonald began the New Year "behind the eight ball," stalled in a snow drift on a sideroad in Asphodel as he was motoring out to the highway to come to Peterboro to attend the reception at the armouries by the officers of the Prince of Wales Rangers. It was nearly five o'clock when he got into the track of plows.

DISAPPOINTED SKATERS.

Many of the people in the west and north sections of the city who have been happy over the fact that Jackson Park pond has been converted into a skating rink were disappointed yesterday morning. Quite a number went to the park intending to enjoy a spin. They found that the rink had not been cleaned off and it is reliably reported the snow was not removed until near noon.

SEVENTEEN HOMELESS.

Seventeen men, young and old started the New Year in Peterborough by spending the first night of 1939 in the police station where they had been forced to seek shelter. Of the 17 transients 12 were Canadian-born, two each were natives of England and Scotland respectively and the other was a Norwegian. They brought the total number of transients who were given lodgings here during 1938 to 1777—a total much below that of several years ago.

"GOD"

"God" was the subject of the lesson Sermon for First Church of Christ Scientist, Peterborough, on Sunday. The Golden Text was: "Thus saith the Lord the King of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hosts; I am the first, and I am the last; and beside me there is no God." (Isaiah 44:6). Selections from the Bible included the following—"I am the Lord; that is my name; and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images." (Isaiah 42:8). Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following from page 330: "God is infinite, the only Life, substance, Spirit, or Soul, the only intelligence of the universe, including man."

Wet Summer Months, Open Fall With Moderately Mild Winter Highlights Of Past Year's Weather

(By ALFRED O. PHILLIPS)

Chief features in a resume of Peterborough's 1938 weather are: first, large volume of rain in July, August and September with 17.25 inches registered; second, exceptionally mild Fall, with plowing reported as late as December 8; third, moderate temperatures in January, February and March, lowest reading being 15 below zero, compared with readings of 40 to 50 below in Northern Ontario and the West; fourth, a 6½-inch snowfall on April 8; fifth, nine electrical storms in July, with a 3.06-inch rainfall on the 28th day of the month; sixth, four days of fine weather for the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition.

Temperature range of the year was 111 degrees; highest, 96; lowest 15 below zero. In 1937 the range was 99 degrees; in 1936, 116; while 1935 recorded 124, with a high of 96 and low of 28 below zero.

Forty-five inches of snow fell in 1938 compared with 52.8 in 1937, and 103.8 in 1936.

Precipitation, 35.56 Inches.

Total precipitation (rain and melted snow) for last year was 35.56 inches, which is well above the 39-year average of 31.78 inches, and a larger volume than in 1937 and 1936 when 33.34 and 34.08 inches were recorded.

	39-Year Average.	1937	1938
January	2.78	5.22	1.89

Girl Shot In Neck

DETROIT, Jan. 23.—(CP). —Miss Mary Lewanvoski, 22, was reported in fair condition to-day after a police bullet was removed from her neck. She was wounded as she got off a downtown bus when police staged a running gun fight with three fleeing youths.

Three boys were arrested and held for investigation at the conclusion of the chase. Two youths escaped.

New Year Is Welcomed In Royal Way.

With customary gusto, Peterborough welcomed 1939 to her bosom and kept a party going in her honor until the small hours of this morning and many were the heads that beat an off-key anvil chorus today.

Every orchestra that could be found in the city was pressed into service on either Saturday or Monday evening. It was a Roman holiday for the musicians. Private house parties abounded, there were a number of club and private dances in all parts of the city, and all were well attended, starched shirts and evening gowns being worn almost exclusively at the larger affairs.

A din that could be heard even in the sleepiest residential sections resounded at the stoke of 12 o'clock. Whistles blew, automobile horns shrieked, and bells rang for nearly a quarter of an hour after midnight. And the more determined celebrators carried the noise until the early hours of the Sabbath. The more sedate citizenry followed the old year out and the new year in with quiet watch parties, but the noisier variety predominated.

Significant was the absence of drunken drivers. Apparently motorists heeded the warning of the police department for all cars appeared to be in good hands and not a single driver faced the cadi this morning for being drunk at the wheel. Indeed, there were no arrests involving liquor over the weekend.

Two Men Battle Over A Horse

"He hauled off and pasted me," was the way Fred Steinkrauss of Smith township described the assault he alleged Joseph Robertson, 32, of Peterborough, had committed on him in the Steinkrauss stable on Monday, December 26, following a dispute over a horse deal.

Robertson was charged in police court to-day with assault occasioning actual bodily harm and Steinkrauss was the principal witness against him.

Steinkrauss told of Robertson coming to his place on the morning in question in company with Herb Hamlin. He told of the verbal argument that ensued and swore that he made no move to hit Robertson or defend himself. Robertson, he said, had struck him about ten times, blacking his eye, cutting his cheek and injuring his jaw. A dentist had told him he would lose four teeth as the result of his injuries. Witness had told Robertson to get off the place.

To W. J. Arthur Fair, who defended Robertson, Steinkrauss maintained that he had not seized Robertson by the throat.

Arthur Walker, hired man on the Steinkrauss place, said that he overheard the fight but did not see it. He said he heard Steinkrauss order Robertson to leave, and then heard Hamlin tell Robertson: "Don't hit him, Joe." Witness had told Mrs. Steinkrauss and the provincial police were called. He said that after the trouble Steinkrauss was staggering and his face was cut and bloody.

Herbert Hamblin, called for the defence, told of going to Steinkrauss's place about a horse deal and of the words that followed. He declared that Steinkrauss had seized Robertson by the throat with one hand and threatened him with the other and then Robertson had hit the other man, striking him three times, the witness said. The blows did not knock Steinkrauss down but they staggered him, Hamlin testified.

In cross-examination he said that after the second blow Steinkrauss had reached for a neck yoke but witness had prevented him from getting it.

That finished the evidence and after Mr. Fair had submitted his argument for the defence court adjourned for luncheon.

HAWKS FIRE STEWART.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3 — (AP.)—The Black Hawks management to-day announced release of Bill Stewart as manager of the Chicago National Hockey League Club.

Only Newcomer

Too hard at work to get his picture taken was the excuse the Examiner's city editor, G. Wilson Craw offered to dubious reporters when they asked him why his face had not appeared in the paper as the only newcomer to civic administration for 1939. So the Examiner's photographer snapped him unawares. Mr. Craw was elected by acclamation to the Board of Education, taking the place of Charles Shaw. Busy as he seems, it must be remembered that all the "copy" on his desk is the product of his even harder-working staff. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Peterborough's population, showed a natural gain of 409 during 1938 as statistics at the City Hall reveals there were 707 births and 398 deaths. During the previous year there were 651 births and 418 deaths. In 1937, 280 couples decided two could live as cheaply as one while in the year just past, there were 305. December statistics were: Births, 54; deaths, 37, marriages, 14.

Herb Nelson Leads Field In Percy

WARKWORTH, Jan. 3. — The veteran W. Herb Nelson, former Warden of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, led the field of five candidates for council in Monday's voting by the ratepayers of Percy township. Arthur Wartman was second with 376 and Gordon McCubbin third with 270. The two latter councillors are new members. William partridge was fourth with 256 votes and Norma Latta fifth with 218.

Alfred Merrill was re-elected Reeve and Councillor Thomas McMillan, Deputy-reeve, by acclamation M.r. Merrill was promoted from the deputy position, succeeding Reeve Ray Mallory. The details of the voting were:

Cedar Valley Farmer Held On Assault

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 3.— Constable E. C. Richards placed Albert Milton Barnard, Cedar Valley farmer, under arrest on Saturday evening on a charge of assault, and he was placed in Cobourg Jail and will appear before Magistrate Campbell on Thursday.

APPROVE PICTURE

Community leaders who saw a preview of the picture "Damaged Goods" at the Regent theatre on Saturday morning were unanimous in their endorsation of the show. The picture is strictly educational and is not offensive in the least. It has been received and commended in many centres throughout Ontario. The picture was originally intended as part of an educational campaign to rid America of its greatest menace to the heal and happiness of the nation. It will be shown this week.

Garages Busy Towing Cars Out Of Snow

Steaming radiators and stranded cars were a common sight over the week-end as five and a half inches of snow draped the highways starting early Sunday night and continuing until Monday morning.

Garages had many calls for assistance, the most being merely to pull cars back on to the travelled portion of the road after they had slid into deep snowfilled ditches. Many other motorists who attempted to drive out of bog holes under their own power soon found the radiator had turned into a spouting steamer, even on the main streets at least four cars were noticed almost hidden in clouds of steam.

Bus and highway traffic was slowed down but not interfered with by the storm as snowplows were out early. In the city the graders tossed the snow to the centre of the streets and thirty workmen and a fleet of dump trucks had George and Water streets clear of snow by two o'clock in the afternoon. The road to Warsaw was said to be in good shape but side roads throughout the county were in many cases impassable to motor traffic.

Four Below This Morning.

The mercury took a dip overnight and at seven o'clock on Tuesday morning the thermometer read four below according to A. O. Phillips, official weather recorder. On Monday morning a twenty mile wind whipped the snow which had fell Sunday night into deep drifts in many places and further impeded traffic.

Hundreds of children and adults revelled in skiing, snow-shoeing and tobogganning over the week-end and particularly on Monday when conditions were reported to be excellent. On Armour Hill, at Nassau, Chemong, Jackson Park and throughout the city skiers were noticed some even resorting to the hazardous practice of being towed on the streets behind cars.

Thieves Active In Lindsay During Weekend

LINDSAY, January 3. — Petty thieving was carried on in Lindsay during the week-end, and the police were kept busy in trying to round up the guilty parties. William White, traveller, reported to the police that his car radio had been stolen on Saturday night, while Bailiff Wilson reported the loss of a heater from his car. A nervy thief tried to gain entrance into the residence of H. Rogers, William street. He tried the front door and finding it open, walked in, knocking over two children who were in his way. He ran into another part of the house, but quickly retreated when he noticed a relative of the family reading a paper.

David Jewell was picked up by the police on Saturday night and will be charged with drunken driving. The accused, according to the police, crashed into another car, driven by a resident of Valentia, damaging both cars.

Travellers, who are contemplating motoring to points north of Lindsay will have considerable difficulty making their rounds. As a result of Sunday night's storm the roads are reported to be in bad condition. Some of the side roads are impassable.

Death came with startling suddenness to a well known resident of Lindsay on Sunday night, in the person of Hugh Brown, brother-in-law of Edgar Burns, local C.N.R. superintendent. The deceased, who was in excellent health, passed away at the supper hour at the home of Mr. Burns. He was a native of Montreal, and is survived by his wife and one daughter. The late Mr. Brown was a native of Montreal, and has been a resident of Lindsay for the past four years. He was employed in a clerical capacity on highway construction projects.

First Fire Of Year

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 3. — To Frank Beaudoine, Inkerman Street, goes the questionable honor of having the first fire of the New Year. He sent in a call to the Department at one o'clock on Monday afternoon when he found his chimney afire. The fire fighters were soon on the scene and kept the blaze confined to the chimney. No damage was done.

Relatives Are Disputing W. L. Barber Will

There were no further developments locally today following the exhumanation on Friday in Little Lake cemetery of the body of William Lorne Barber of Akron, O., who died in Nicholls Hospital here last July.

From Akron, however, there comes a story of relatives of Barber disputing his will which named as beneficiary Kay Stewart Brinkman, formerly of Peterborough. The story from the Ohio city declares that Judge Dean May on October 20 removed as executor of Barber's estate Carl Brickman, Akron rubber chemist, whose wife, Kay Stewart Brickman, 38, was Barber's principal beneficiary.

Mrs. Brickman testified at the probate court hearing that she accompanied Barber on the trip to Canada.

In his order removing Brickman as executor, Judge May wrote: — "The evidence clearly shows that Kay Stewart Brickman, by her own testimony, was very intimate with and had a great influence over the deceased during the time within which his insurance policy was changed to her, gifts were made to her and the last will and testament was drawn."

The will was contested by a sister, Esther Barber Chase, of Toronto, and three brothers, George Barber, of Syracuse, N. Y., Sam Barber of Shannonville, Ont., and Robert Barber of Deseronto, Ont. Barber had bequeathed amounts ranging from $200 to $500 to each of them and stipulated in his will that any of them who objected to the terms were to be barred from sharing in the estate. A fourth brother, Frank Barber, of Watertown, N.Y., was left $10.

John H. Miller Dies In City

The first day of 1939 brought deep loss to Peterborough in the death of one of this city's most esteemed residents, a George street business man of many years standing. He was John Hepburn Miller, partner in the firm of Millar-Powel, electrical contractor.

Member of a distinguised Peterhorough family, Mr. Miller was a son of the late Lt.-Col. and Mrs. W. J. Miller. He was in his 59th year, and had been ill for some time. Prominent in the fraternal life of the city, he was a thirty-second degree Mason, member of the Scottish Rite and Royal Arthur Lodge, A. F. & A. M., as well as a member of the Woodmen of the World.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Edna May Stanger; one son, Meredith, at home; and one daughter, Beverley, at home; also five brothers William and Norman of Toronto, Frederick C., Gordon, and Burton of Peterborough; and four sisters, Mrs. Scneider, Mrs. Fisk, and Misses Ada and Ethel Miller, all of this city.

The funeral was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from Trinity United Church, of which he was a member, Rev. G. S. Easton officiating. Interment was made at Little Lake cemetery.

R. engineer, passed away at his home here on the week-end. The deceased had only retired from the service a short time ago and his death was a shock to his friends. He was a member of the Masonic Order, and is survived by his wife and one daughter.

Only Two Upsets In County New Year's Day

Only two of the eighteen members of last year's county council were defeated in the municipal elections on Monday. The other three changes were caused by retirement of reeves who decidedd to step down and let some others take up the work in their respective townships.

The Warden is succeeded by Robert Martin, who was given an acclamataion; Norman Lean comes back into the council from Burleigh after pushing aside his opponents Monday. David Tucker and Norman Bolton; and in Galawy-Cavenlish the new member from John Clark's township is David Curtin.

Warden McDonald remarked to the Examiner last night that the county council of 1938 apparently held the confidence of the ratepayers generally as testified by the fact that there are only five changes in the personnel and three of them were by way of rettirements.

Two Anderson.

Ten of the members of this year's council were returned without opposition. They were: W. A. Anderson, Read, Milby, Johnston, Martin, Coughlin, McColl, Shearer, Gifford, Seeney.

The success of Isaac Anderson in Belmont-Methuen brings two reeves of that name into the county council, the other being Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee.

Four Councillors Elected In Lindsay

LINDSAY, Jan. 3—In a listless municipal election yesterday to fill four vacancis on the council H. McLennan, E. Vanstone, H. Daniels and C. Ferguson were elected, M. Dickerson was fifth candidate. A very light vote was polled.

In Ops township Thomas Hutton was elected reeve by a majority of twenty in a four cornered contest. The councillors elected were N. Henry, H. O'Reilly, H. Stewart and H. Currans.

HEAVY GOING FOR BUSES

Snow which has continued to pile up on the city streets during the day has made it difficult for bus drivers on the city lines to maintain the regular schedule. On the Ashburnham run the drivers report it is necessary to travel in second gear from the intersection of Parkhill road and Armour road north to Bell's store.

How Did Hospital By-Law Go; Did East City Get Her New Bridge, Some Of Questions

Telephones worked overtime Monday night as hundreds in the city and the county sought returns from the Examiner, and the flood of calls which started shortly after the polls closed at five o'clock did not subside until close to midnight.

Interest was most keen in the city with Smith township voters running a close second and many calls coming in asking for the returns in Otonabee township. There were also several calls on the results at Lakefield, Belmont, Havelock, Norwood, Cavan, Galway-Cavendish and Burleigh-Anstruther.

"How did the beer vote go in Burleigh" was a favorite question and one man on hearing that the northern townships had discarded the beverage rooms remarked, "That's certainly tough, now I will have to cart my liquor with me when I go fishing.

One woman bewildered a reporter on telephone duty when she said: "How did the hospital by-law go" and seemed quite surprised when she was advised it was a straight aldermanic elections in this city.

Another woman who was evidently not well posted on city affairs asked "Did they give the new market a majority," and again the reporter had to reply that she was a little ahead of the times.

"What aldermen were elected" asked one chap who was apparently a little deaf.

"The same old five" was the answer. "Did you say the same old tribe—that's too bad, and he hung up evidently dissatisfied that none of the veterans had been tumbled from the council.

After being advised that the five old aldermen had been returned one woman asked "Did Ashburnham get the new bridge" and the appropriate answer to that query seemed to be "They probably will, all of the aldermen promised it," an answer which although suitable enough at the time will require time for verification.

"Magician" Causes Quite A Stir At Dance When He Breaks Two Eggs Into Derby Hat

Poise and nonchalance of some of the young bachelors at the Kawartha Club Friday night were strained considerably by a goofy stunt between times that was introduced as a bit of magic. A stooge proposed it, and the "magician" being persuaded to do his stuff called for a hat. Another confederate immediately breezed downstairs from the gentlemen's dressing room with a smart looking Christy.

With a brave flourish the worker of magic breaks first one egg into the "benny" and for good measure tossed in another. There was no mistake about it; they were real eggs, and something certainly had to happen or the hat was ruined; and knowing the lad's limitations as the gang did some of them began to wonder severally and individually if by any chance that hat might be theirs. Next into the hat went a cup of flour, and then with broader flourishes, incantations and so on the "magician" called a couple of rabbits to pop out of the hat. But, not an ear appeared above the rim, and with a pretense of confusion that his power had temporarily deserted him, the performer took a quick look into the hat, and asked an attendant to run it out to the garbage can.

It was a good gag, at that, for the airy enquiries about who lost a good hat were more personal than they sounded, but when it was all over the hat rack was in good order. That only deepened the mystery, since explained by information that the hot once briefly adorned an editorial noggin. Some one greeted it with a bang, leaving a crease in the brim that was beyond repair. Away went six bucks or was it seven, and, with no compensating return, the hat kept surviving the shuffle until it finally suggested the stunt of last Friday night, and ended its day in a bit of comedy for a merry crowd.

30,000 People Turned Away At The Gate

GLASGOW, Jan. 3.—(CP Cable.)—Glasgow Rangers and Celtic made league football history yesterday. Playing in their annual New Year's Day battle, they attracted 120,000 persons — a record in the United Kingdom. Previous high attendance was at their Jan. 1, 1937, contest at Ibrox Park when 84,811 persons saw the watch.

As the Glasgow rivals marched on to the Ibrox Park pitch yesterday they were greeted by thunderous applause from the overflowing crowd. Wild scenes marked pre-game activities as a clamoring mob of 30,000, unable to gain admission, tried to rush the gates. Mounted policemen held them back.

Demand Money Back.

Many collapsed, while three men were rushed to hospital suffering chest injuries caused when they were crushed against terraces. Hundreds of "fortunate" seat-holders demanded their money returned when they claimed they couldn't see the game.

Victorious 3-1 last year on the same date, Rangers again ran off the field on the top side of the score-sheet. Yesterday's game ended in their favor 2-1 after some of the most brilliant football seen this season.

The victory stretched Rangers' lead over the Celts and Hearts to eight points. Hearts, engaged in an Edinburgh derby with Hibernians, bowed 1 to 0 to the surprising Hibs.

A five-team fourth-position tie was smashed when Aberdeen, Queen of South and Kilmarnock won their matches, while Motherwell and Partick Thistle were humbled. Aberdeen blanked Arbroath 4 to 0. Queen of South swamped Ayr United 6 to 1 and the Killies edged out St. Mirren 3 to 2. Motherwell lost 2 to 1 to Hamilton Academicals and Partick Thistle went under 4 to 1 to Clyde.

Highest scoring game was played at Raith where the Rovers were beaten 6 to 5 by St. Johnstone.

Many Entries In Juvenile

The Ontario Juvenile Hockey Association met in Toronto yesterday and appointed group conveners to take care of drafting of schedule for its large number of teams, entered from all parts of the province.

This association has only been in operation for a short four years, and the executive viewed with much satisfaction the rapid growth the association has made. It has increased its entry from 48 teams to the point of where it now embraces 78 teams, with the prospects being bright for 100 entries. Teams now entered are only teams wishing to get into group play against teams from the surrounding towns. From now until Feb. 1, the present entry will be augmented by teams who want to enter the play-offs, in addition to the winners of local leagues in some of the larger centres, such as Hamilton, 4 teams; Waterloo and Kitchener, 12 teams; Oshawa, 4 teams, and Niagara Falls with six teams.

An application for entry was received from Niagara Falls, New York, and this team will be grouped with Niagara Falls, Ont., Fort Erie and Port Colborne.

Ski Notes

Monday's ski train to Bethany proved quite popular with about 60 skiers making the trip. They agreed that the new territory was ideal skiing country—and the trip was made to the accompaniment of song. The hills were in excellent shape with suitable slopes for all types of skier. Further work was done on the new slalom and downhill courses in preparation for the Provincial championships here next month. A warm comfortable shelter was provided in a farm house handy to the train stop with hot coffee dispensed by Mrs. Driver. Some took in a chicken dinner at the O'Brien farm nearby. Activities this week include the instruction classes at Victoria Park Tuesday and Thursday evenings, with other features to be announced.

They Work Fast in the Water

Young Rangers Defeat Lions As Oshawa Win

Young Rangers ran pell-mell into an aroused, greatly improved menagerie of Lions in the Toronto junior curtain-raiser, and were decidedly fortunate to edge out a 5-to-3 decision for their first win of the season last night. It was much the same in the night-cap, with Oshawa just hanging on in the closing minute to shade Marlboros, 5 to 4, for their fourth straight success.

Memories of the bitter feuding that featured Oshawa-Marlboro clashes last year were recalled as these old rivals turned in another killer-diller battle. After each had netted in the initial session, the Dukes got the jump when Rennie fired home Mann's pass, but a penalty to Phil Vitale set the stage for a rip-roaring power play that netted Oshawa two goals before the middle stanza ended.

Oshawa Wins.

Roy Murphy deadlocked the count early in the third, but Oshawa came right back to take the lead on Knott's marker. The "Gens" made it 5-3 when Taylor potted Drummond's pass at the 16-minute mark, but the Dukes fought back determinedly and their plays did everything but click until eighteen seconds from the finish when Harrison netted. Even then the Dukes weren't finished and a terrific pile-up in the Oshawa goal resulted in a penalty going to Knott for smothering the puck, and the Marlies were given a penalty shot. But Phil vitale, taking is second free drive of the game, once again tallied to sink the disc behind hawk-eyed Dinny McManus.

Emerging from the hectec scrapping as the individual star of the piece, Billy Taylor, scoring leader of the Big Eight circuit, boosted his points total for the season to sixteen with a goal and three assists. McManus, in the net, turned in a masterful display, while Drummond, Roy Sawyer, Nick Knott and Jud McAtee were also in rare form. Red Gilbert, the Murphy-Rennie-Harrison line, Billy Mann, Sandy Milne and Phil Vitale were the aces for the Dukes.

The showing of Lions came as a rude shock to Young Rangers, but Ed. Wildey's warriors had more finish around the nets, and proved better opportunists.

3 Canadians To Be Freed

LONDON, Jan. 3 — (CP-Havas).—The Foreign Office to-day said three Canadians are among 24 British subjects soon to be released from Spanish insurgent prisons under an exchange agreement.

The three are Jerry Delaney of Montreal, Steve Harrost of Toronto, and Nils C. H. Madsen of Vancouver.

Negotiations are being conducted for the exchange of nine other British subjects.

Johnny Longden Top Rider, 236 Winners

CALGARY, Jan. 3. — (CP). — Jockey Johnny Longden, who 12 years ago was a "mucker" for $2.50 a day in a mine at Taber, Alta., to-day was hailed by Albertans as the world's champion rider, first Canadian to win the highest honors. Longden earns more than $17,000 a year now.

The little man of less than 105 pounds graduated from the Prairie Thoroughbred Association circuit of Western Canada in 1933.

He had 236 winners, 168 seconds and 171 thirds for a riding percentage of .271 in 1938. Longden beat his nearest U. S. rival, Johnny Adams of Kansas City, by 19 firsts, and was 30 firsts in front of Gordon Richards, champion of the United Kingdom and Europe.

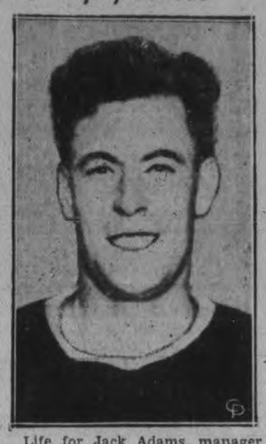
After struggling for a toe-hold in the prairie circuit, in 1928 he skyrocketed to fame as a rider for Alf Tarn of Winnipeg with two stake wins on a horse named Rushaway.

Two years ago the Albertan was made first-string rider for the Wheatley Stable of New York and yesterday started for the Bragg Stable of New York and California with a guaranteed salary of $17,000 plus 10 per cent of stake winnings resulting from his mounts.

BAN TRUNKS In CANBERRA

Men have been banned from wearing trunks in the swimming pool in Canberra, New Zealand, because "the human form ceases to be divine at certain ages," explained Colonel Goodwin, chairman of the Canberra Advisory Committee.

Injury Serious



Life for Jack Adams, manager of Detroit Red Wings, is practically no fun these days, as his team fluctuates between sixth and seventh place in the National League. In addition to which he is getting more than his share of injuries. Modere (Mud) Bruneteau (ABOVE), crashed into the boards in a game in Toronto, and an injury that looked as if it would keep him out for maybe a week, now may keep him out for six weeks, and possibly for the rest of the season. Mud injured the ligaments in his knee and an operation may be necessary.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Senior hockey returns to Peterborough tonight (Tuesday) at 8.30 in the Brock Street winter gardens when the Toronto Telegram team tackles the Petes in an exhibition number. Good ice, two smart squads and a right promising tussle coming up. It should draw a good-sized crowd of cash customers, if the fans here are anywhere within six city blocks of being as hot for the senior puckists now as they were last cold spell. Boy, boy, oh, boy, how the fans went for the Petes' fixtures last winter! Had to drive 'em away with a club in case the old arena collapsed—well, pretty nearly. The Petes have lost some good players of the 1938 team, but they have added some promising newcomers for the '39 edition, and we believe they'll ice as strong a club as the one which bowed to the Falls last semester in the Ontario semi-final serial.

* * * * * *

Frank Buckland will pick his team tonight from this gang—with maybe most of 'em seeing action for a time: McNabb, Clarke, Dann, Weir, Crowe, Gray, Flack, Brady, Gardner, Starr, Tompkins, Kingdon, Nicholls, Coughlin McNulty Creighton, McDougall and perhaps another one or two. We can't be sure till they skate out on the ice. The Tely crew includes these: Coleman, Corbett, Porter, Upper, Ewens, Cranstoun, Jarrott, Miller, Lamport, Gostlin, Simpson, McPherson and Shill. You should see a fast, smart game of hockey with the usual senior bumping and excitement. Don't pass it up.

German Refuge Fund.

And another tilt also exhibish that will be worth aiming the lorgnette at will be the fray tomorrow eve at the Brock at 8.30 betwixt the St. Mike's Buzzers of Toronto and our Junior Colts. It's a benefit joist with the dough going to the German Refugee Fund, a fine cause. Local Jews have donated some fine door prizes— to be drawn for between periods—and have hustled around and sold a raft of ducats. We wouldn't be at all surprised to see a sellout at this game. On account of it's a first-rate fixture, and 10 costly prizes are up at no extra cost, and also the do-re-mi goes for a cause which has the sympathy of all Canadians. What more could ya ask?

* * * * * *

Takes coin to locate refugees from Germany in other climes—and, for instance, we understand it requires about $350 to start a rescued German Jew up in Palestine. Giving him an agricultural training for two years. This money is being raised in many lands and Canadians are doing their part. And tomorrow's local puck tilt gives Peterborough folk a chance to do their part. No increase in prices. Fans who recall St. Mike's games with local teams before know they'll see a flashy band of young puckists whipping the disc around the hardened equa—and they'll also see a powerful bunch of Colts in their 1939 debut. Sounds like a right attractive dish of hockey.

Aces In Omemee Loop.

This city has an entry in the Omemee District Hockey League tis winter, and it will be called the Aces. Sponsored by Bud and George Williams. Opening game will be next Thursday when Lindsay meets the Aces at the Omemee ice emporium. Williams' Aces will be nattily attired in white with red and black trimmings, red trousers and stockings to match the sweaters. Plus a crest on the chest. All games, we believe, on Mondays and Thursdays with the four teams (Omemee, Lindsay, Millbrook and local Aces) staging a double schedule. Top two teams then playoff. We havne't heard the local lineup but should have it Friday in the a.m. after the lid is pried off.

Our Colts are off tonight for Port Hope to open their new schedule, and Bill Jackson has a lot of large lads on his lineup. Cournyea will be in goal, with Al King, Ward, Hoffman and Stabler on defence. Three forward lines have Parnall, Williams, McDonald, Stewart, Craig, Foster, Al King, Lumsden and Wade. Later they'll add Dutch Pammett and drop another. Besides their exhibition match here tomorrow, the Colts will be at home to Bowmanville on Friday in a loop number. Bill Crawford is coaching the Port Hope outfit and he expects to ice a group winner—but with all the clubs calling themselves group champs, it's surer than even doug on a war within two years that someone will have to miss out. The Hopers are wearing colors of blue and white this semester.

Still Likes Midgets.

Speaking of the Monarchs' fine showing in holding Lindsay Midgets to a 4-4 overtime tie, the Scugog scribe says: "They were fortunate in earning a tie with the fast-skating Monarchs of Peterborough. The only part of the team which looked good was the defence and the pair of Ferguson and Elliot shoved their hulk into the path of incoming forwards to the delight of Lindsay fans who made the trip. "He feels the Midgets are much better than the Monarchs and will get clicking shortly to show it. We're not quite so sure about that, and will be looking for another nip-and- tuck scrap when these teams collide again. Monarchs appear faster and with a better goalie, whereas the Midgets may shade 'em a bit on the defence. The Monarchs are taking it easy this week with no scheduled matches on tap.

Coach Mucker Legros of the Lakefield Legionnaires in O. H. A. intermediates "B" company is satisfied with his team's showing in a recent practice session with Bridgenorth, Loyst and Junkin split net-minding duties and held the Chemong Lakers to a lone tally. Meantime the Lakefield boys slapped the bootheel in from all angles with Joe Blewett and Buster Whitton netting the little black Cookie in the cord seven or so times between 'em. Mucker has his eyes on a couple of local gees and thinks the Legionaires will make a good showing in their group, despite the undoubted class of Whitby in this same setup. Lindsay opens the schedule in Lakefield this Friday.

Budge Meets Vines In First Pro Game

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—(AP).—Tonight is the night that Donald Budge comes of tennis age and learns that there is a powerful lot of difference between the amateurs he has been slapping around for the last two years and Ellsworth Vines, who for four seasons has ruled the world's professionals.

They meet in Madison Square Garden before what threatens to be a capacity audience of 17,000 spectators.

For Budge, the match inaugurates a professional career that will pay him a flat $75,000 his first winter on the boards. Vines, whose racquet has made him financially independent at 27, stands to put away another $30,000 before summer as he and Budge play one-night stands.

How to Ski by FRITZ LOOSLI

INSTRUCTOR—TORONTO SKI CLUB

Mr. Loosli demonstrates the Stem Christiana showing the shifting of weight, forcing the outer ski into a Christiana swing.

Emile Allais of France, twice winner of the combined slalom and downhill world championship (F. I. S.), states, that in teaching, he would suppress entirely all turns except the "pure" and "parallel" Christiania, a theory which has created quite a problem among ski instructors.

This statement is perhaps a little drastic and not quite sound principle. Hannes Schneider, world famous ski instructor, has built his reputation by obliging the pupil to familiarize himself with the stem before allowing him to progress to more advanced running technic. Otto Schniebs, for years coach at Dartmouth, has applied the same principle in teaching the Dartmouth boys who have the most advanced running technic on this continent.

Consider Pupil's Physique

I agree that the stiff standard technic in some ski schools does not allow the instructor enough leaway in teaching. In my long teaching experience I have always tried to teach a method suited to the physique of the pupil, taking into consideration age and sex. If 10 per cent. of the skiers may learn to ski by using only the pure and parallel christiania, there is no reason why the 90 per cent. of the pupils should be unable to reach this privilege because of faculty teaching method.

At the 1936 Olympic Games, lifted stem, stem christiania, and stem turns were used by nearly every contestant.

Stem Position Best

When demonstrating weight shifting, the stem position is by far the best method, because the body swinging from one ski to the other may be easily noticed, and better understood by the pupil. The stem also gives the instructor the advantage of demonstrating the tempo at low speed, and by a clever succession of turning exercises derived from the stem, the pupil slowly creeps into the feel of smooth running and turning, then finally into that perfect co-ordination of the muscles which makes downhill running so effortless and delightful.

I admit that most expert skiers never part their ski from the parallel position in descent, but this is no reason why the stem, stepping stone to that stage of running technic should be abolished.

The high speed turn is as closely related to the stem as the christiania, and in teaching the tempo, the aristocrat of all turns, stem teaching is a far greater asset than the christiania.

Telemark Losing Popularity

The telemark has certainly lost its popularity where skiing is done mostly on hard packed snow. The expert skier may be able to ski and turn in any type of snow, but the average skier will certainly find the telemark helpful in deep heavy snow. The telemark was the first turn used by skiers, because, at the beginning inadequate binding did not allow a great strain on the harness which is needed in the christiania, while the telemark may be executed with only a toe strap as binding.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

At exactly 9.50 p.m. last evening the telephone in our club rooms rang and we heard a voice from away up in the hills of the west part of the city say, "How's that contest coming along now?" We replied that it looks as if the vice president would finish about 13 or 15 points up. He said, "Good, but don't hit them too low in tomorrow's paper." So taking a tip from one of the executive members, we won't.

After playing from 9.30 yesterday morning until 10 p.m. last evening the annual President and Vice President Competition finished with only 10 points separating the two sides. Out of the 19 games played 2 games were tied, the President won 6 games and the Vice President 11 games, with the Vices' side finishing on the long end.

This just about changes the order of things for last New Year's play the President won by 11 points.

It was one of the best competitions held in many a year. The members supporting it 100 per cent.

Queen Suffers Cold

SANDRINGHAM, England, Jan. 3 — (CP-Havas). — Queen Elizabeth and Princess Elizabeth are recovering from colds, it was announced at Sandringham House, where the Royal Family passed the New Year holiday. They are expected to be able to leave their rooms in a day or two, it was stated.

MISSING STATES

LONDON—(CP). — An American group at the American Chamber of Commerce's luncheon here noticed 10 stars were missing on the United States flag draping the ceiling. They asked the chairman if "the other 10 states had been turned over to Britain with the Anglo-U.S. trade treaty."

Ace Kid Athlete Richardson Plans Comeback

TORONTO, Jan. 3 — (CP). — RevSammy Richardson of Toronto, the colored kid, who in two years rose from obscurity to national prominence by winning the British Empire Games running broad jumping championship in London in 1934, plans to try and regain the spotlight.

Only 15 years old when he won Empire Games championship he then went on to again startle the athletic world by reaching the broad jump finals in the Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936. Richardson's fame has dimmed considerably since the Olympics but he doesn't believe he is definitely through. He works out twice a week to get back into condition for winter meets he plans to enter.

Possessed with all the natural requirements to become one of Canada's outstanding athletes but lacking the initiative to keep in training and condition, nobody probably will know what Sammy really can do in the sport which he thinks is hard work. He sadly admits now he never put everything he had into his training and conditioning.

At the British Empire Games, which was his first international meet, Richardson captured the broad jumping championship with a jump of 23 feet, 6¼ inches. The victory was an unexpected one for Canada, as Richardson came primarily for the hop-step-and jump in which he placed second. His broad jump mark was a little more than an inch short of the empire record.

Won Hop-Step Jump.

At the Canadian trials in Hamilton Sammy won the hop-step-and-jump, but placed third in the broad jump. His jumping at the trials came as a surprise to officials, as it was thought he was not yet ready for British Empire Games competition. Ray Cooper of Toronto, who won the broad jump at the trials, had to be content with fifth place at the games.

Richardson's trip to London was the beginning of his travels which were climaxed with his trip to the Berlin Olympics. On his return from the British Empire Games he went to Australia and New eZaland as a member of a group of 12 Canadian schoolboy athletes.

After his return from Berlin whatever interest he had in running and jumping disappeared and the little training he used to do, he discontinued. He didn't try to make the 1937 British Empire Games team. The broad jumping championship was retained for Canada by Harold Brown of Meaford.

Richardson still holds the Dominion running broad jumping record of 24 feet, 11 inches which he set in 1935 in Winnipeg.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

The film "Damaged Goods", the preview of which I saw on Saturday, December 31st, 1938, is a film which should do valuable service in checking social diseases and bring a new sense of responsibility to many concerned.

This film should also enlarge the scope of the clinics established by the Provincial Health Department and which are already carrying on a very fine work in curbing social diseases.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA WINS ROSE BOWL GAME 7-3 FROM DUKE

4th String Sub's Last Minute Passes See Trojans Beat Duke 7-3; Christians Wallop Tech By 15-7

(By the Associated Press.)

Texas Christian and Tennessee got throwing holds on the United States national football championship and Duke's dreams of football empire faded as the football season ended yesterday on a note of violence and high hysteria.

Only a bowl game to end all bowl games can settle the mithical title chase now. Texas Christian effectively drubbed Carnegie Tech., 15-7, in New Orleans' Sugar Bowl yesterday while Tennessee rolled steadily to a 17-0 win over Oklahoma, hitherto inviolate, in the Orange Bowl at Miami to preserve the season's two most enviable records.

But if the horned frogs and the volunteers gained the greatest glory, twice-beaten Southern California provided the drama. With a little more than a minute of play and Duke holding a 3-0 lead, Doyle Nave, fourth string quarterback, threw four complete passes to accomplish a 7-3 triumph for the Trojans in the Rose Bowl as 91,000 looked on.

This defeat ended a season in which the Dukes from Durham, N.C. had marched through their schedule undefeated, untied and unscored upon.

Utah Blanks N. M. 26-0.

Elsewhere in the bowl horizon Utah slapped New Mexico, 26-0 in the Sun Bowl game at El Paso with 13,500 in the stands and Texas Tech's passes bounced back and bit the Red Raiders as St. Mary's won, 20-13, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas before 40,000.

In two intersectional all-star games the West drubbed the East by 14-0 and the North punched out a hard-earned touchdown to whip the South, 7-0.

Two of the country's biggest football reputations emerged unscathed in the Bowl games. They belonged to Davey O'Brien and Tennessee.

O'Brien completed 17 out of 28 passes, one for a touchdown and place-kicked a field goal to lead the T.C.U. victory march. Trailing at the half for the first time this season, 3-0, the Frogs scored on O'Brien's touchdown pass and Davey's field goal in the final periods to take solid, wily Carnegie eleven.

Tennessee, like T.C.U., emerged from the season undefeated and untied. These two have no more world's to conquer.

It was life to Southern California, whipped by Alabama and shaded by Washington, to burst the Duke bubble. The men of Troy had the better of it in the statistics all the way. But when Tony Ruffa, the stumpy Duke man of all work, place-kicked a field goal it seemed they were licked. Then Howard Jones lifted Grenville Lansdell and sent Nave in at quarter. He was the business.

Nave drove a pass to Al Druger for 14 yards and then aerialed to the same operative for 10. A short pass with two cooperating lost two yards. Then, with time running out, Nave threw one 18 yards and the Dukes were licked.

Laflamme Finds Real Kick In Coaching Kids

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—(CP).—Despite the fact that Dr. Jerry Laflamme was one of the greatest amateur hockey players in his day, he still gets a "big kick" from coaching the kids, especially his "fighting Irish" team from St. Michael's College.

Laflamme's hockey career is more than extensive, having started his hockey playing 33 years ago for Woodstock in the Ontario Hockey Association. Then he played for St. Michael's College in 1909-1910 when they won the Allan Cup and again in 1917 when he was playing coach on the Toronto Dental team that won the Dominion senior title.

"The greatest moment of my life," said the silver-haired coach, "was when I played for the Toronto Granites in 1924, the year we won the world's championship, and believe me amateur hockey was no cinch in those days. I think the biggest thrill I got from the game was the terrific body-checking duel between our great left wingman, Harry Watson and Taffy Abel, giant defenceman of the United States team, who turned professional afterward with New York Rangers.

Referee In Both Leagues.

Dr. Laflamme also took a turn at refereeing both in the National Hockey League and in the International League. In 1928 he coached the Maroons of the N.H.L.

In 1933-34 Dr. Laflamme coached his "big team" to the Junior O.H.A. title and the Memorial Cup, defeating Edmonton Athletic Club for the coveted junior trophy. In the past five years he has had five junior championship teams, all from the Bay street school. Two of the teams were Junior A. and three were Junior B.

"It's a little early for predictions yet," Laflamme said smilingly, "but I think that this is our year."

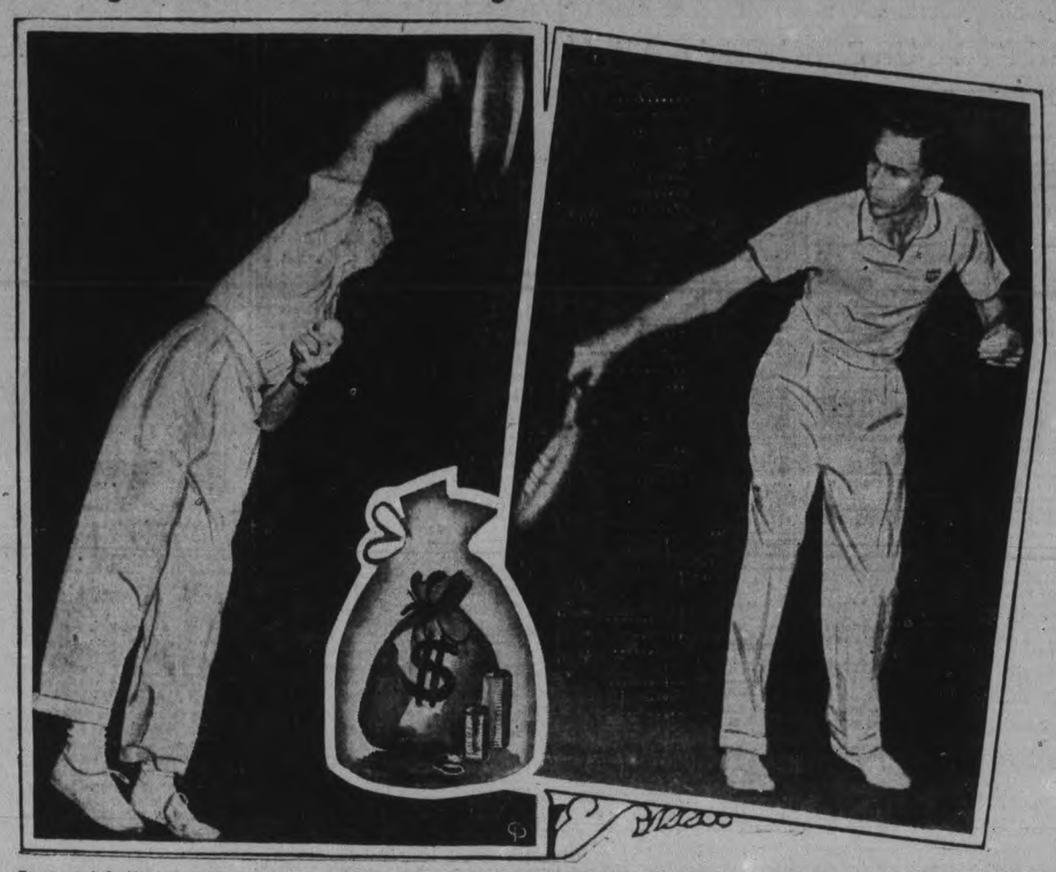
Don Budge Makes Pro Tennis Bow Against Vines



In a match that promises to break all financial and attendance records for pro tennis, Don Budge, all-conquering amateur for the past two years, makes his bow in the pay-as-you-play racquet ranks by meeting Ellsworth Vines, former U.S. amateur king, at Madison Square Garden, N.Y., tonight. It is two years since a similar event took place. Fred Perry and the same Ellsworth Vines hooking up in January, 1937, when the former made his pro debut. That match set the records for pro tennis events that the Budge-Vines tilt is expected to shatter. After the big opening, followed by others on a smaller scale in a few big cities, the whole outfit goes on a continent-wide tour in its accustomed fashion. This year's two big names are shown ABOVE, in two new shots, as they warm up for the opening. Budge is at the LEFT, Vines, RIGHT.

Benefit Game Here Tomorrow

A charity exhibition game for the German Refugee Fund will be staged here tomorrow (Wednesday) evening at 8.30 in the Brock St. rink, St. Mike's Buzzers of Toronto tangling with the local junior Colts. It should be a fine fixture between two classy junior outfits, and deserves a big turnout of city and district fans. The flashy Gaels have always proved popular in Peterborough with their speedy style of hockey, while Coach Bill Jackson of the Colts has lined up a powerful and heavy aggregation for O. H. A. competition this winter. There will be 10 valuable prizes—totalling $100 in value—as door prizes and will be drawn for between periods. One prize, for instance, is a nifty windbreaker. Popular prices will be in effect for this exhibition contest.

The money raised by the local Jews at this tilt will go to the Refugee Fund to help in the work of rehabilitating refugees from Germany in their new homes. Jews in the Nazi country have suffered great persecutions in recent months and are being pushed out of the country stripped of all their belongings. The sympathy of the civilized world is with these unfortunates and efforts are being made to raise money for their assistance. Peterborough will do its part at the game here Wednesday, and a packed rink should be the result.

Magee And Ellis In Florida Game

(Miami Daily News)

Bullet Joe Simpson led his Miami Clippers back to winning ways last night at the Metropolitan Ice Palace and when the smoke of battle had cleared away (or was it fog?) our galloping Miami hockey stalwarts were on the long side of a 6-1 score and Stan Jackson was forced to see his Pirates take another walloping to place them in the Tropical league cellar.

While a large holiday crowd rooted in true hockey style for the Pirates to come through, Hank Coyston and his mates were beset by the same ills that have been their nemesis since the season opened. They set up the plays time and again, only to have the wing fail to follow through.

Even when Bruce Dick had Buzz Cockburn drawn clear of the cage and the puck bobbing crazily around in front but three feet out, the rest of the Clippers ganged up and saved for the diminutive goalie three times in as many minutes.

Hard and Fast.

It was hard, fast hockey, easily one of the best games of the year, with the Clippers sending four and often five men down ice to bombard Morely White from all angles. Morely played a great game in the crease, but as good as he was, Buzz Cockburn put on an exhibition of goal tending that was still more beautiful to see. He completely redeemed himself for the last bad evening with Coral Gables.

Mick Magee scored the first goal of the game on a fast solo from his own defensive zone in jig time. There followed 12 minutes of slashing, body-checking play and Mel Barr took a fast lateral from Ray Wallace, passed to Dint Reilly in front of the Pirates' cage and Dint slammed home a near corner shot for the Clippers' second goal.

Three minutes later Red Kelly took a long pass from Jim Ellis and lofted one over Morely White's shoulder. It took the Clippers another minute and 17 seconds to make it 4-0 on Kent's hot one from five feet out, on an assist from Ellis again.

The second period was only two minutes old when Jim Ellis got his third assist of the game and passed to Barr, who came storming down ice to crash through the Pirate defense, lifting the puck over Morely's other shoulder.

Petes To Play Toronto Tely

The 1939 senior "B" edition of the Petes will be seen in action here tonight (Tuesday) at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. arena when they play the Toronto Telegram squad in an exhibition fixture. It will be the first senior scrap of the season and should draw a big crowd of fans. The Tely team is leading the senior section of the Toronto Hockey League now, and looks like a championship outfit. It has a flock of noted puckists on the lineup, including Eric Coleman, Bob Porter, Art Upper, Jack Cranstoun, Jack Jarrott, "Shirt" Ewens, Shorty Miller, Art Lamport, Len Simpson, "Plum" Shill, Johnny MacPherson and others. They play a fast, rugged brand of hockey and will be tough to beat.

Coach Frank Buckland is lining up a smart squad to represent Peterborough and the gang have been working out hard for some two weeks now. Possibly Earl McNabb will be in goal with Lorne Gray, Don Crowe, Archie Weir, Flack or Brady on defence. Among his forwards are Bun Kingdon, Eddie Starr, Dot Nicholls, Honey Tompkins, Joe McNulty, Shrimp McDougall, Creighton, Coughlin and Gardner. His starting lineup will be selected pretty much from this bunch, and extra players may see action in the exhibition tilt. It promises to be a fine game and rates a huge crowd of fans.

Amerks Take Leafs Twice In Row 3-2 In Toronto, 5-1 In New York; Rangers Whip Wings And Bruins

New York's two National Hockey League entries are ganging up on Boston's first-place Bruins, electrifying the atmosphere over the bewildered Hub in anticipation of to-night's Bruins-Americans battle.

The Americans, invading Boston for the season's most important game thus far, can jam the leadership race to its most exciting point in years by winning. Victory would tie them for second place with their New York mates, the Rangers, and would bring their winning streak level with the Rangers' at five straight games.

Rangers advanced to within two points of the leaders last night by shutting out Detroit Red Wings 3-0 at New York, after closing on the Bruins Saturday by defeating them 2-1 overtime at New York.

Americans were the only other team to win twice during the long holiday week-end. They scored a 3-2 success over the Maple Leafs at Toronto Saturday night and extended Toronto's losing streak to three games with a thorough 5-1 whipping at New York Sunday.

Bruins Defeat Wings

Bruins regained a little balance after the shock of their second loss in a row, trimming the Red Wings 4-1 Sunday at Boston. But the Wings have become pushovers for about everyone and will be only a point out of the cellar if the last-place Montreal Canadiens defeat the Leafs at Toronto tonight. Canadiens climbed to within three points of Detroit by upsetting the Black Hawks 4-3 in overtime Sunday at Chicago.

Dutch Hiller, Rangers' rookie wingman, was the weekend's individual star, scoring the winning goal against Boston Sunday and adding the last one last night in the win over Detroit.

The rivals for the top struggled through a scoreless first period before Bobby Bauer sent Boston ahead. For the next 108 minutes Rangers' goalie, Davy Kerr, Held the opposition scoreless as the blueshirts skated to their double triumph. Alex Shibicky pulled them level with Boston late in the third and Hiller thrilled the 15,808 fans in Madison Square Garden by batting in Phil Watson's rebound with six minutes of overtime gone.

Young George Allen started Rangers on the way last night with a goal in six minutes and Alex Shibicky made the score 2-0 before the first period ended. From then until Hiller scored in the third, goalie Tiny Thompson of Detroit exhibited his greatness by turning back the rampaging New Yorkers repeatedly.

Leafs Lose Lead

Americans had to come from behind early Toronto leads in both meetings, but when they did they were convincing. Gordon Drillon sent the Leafs ahead Saturday but Sweeney Schriner and Joe Jerwa gave New York a 2-1 advantage in the second. Johnny Sorrell scored for Americans and Red Horner for Toronto in the third.

In the return engagement Toronto again held a 1-0 lead through the first chapter after Nick Metz' score. But in the second Eddie Wiseman and Sorrell whipped in goals and in the third Sorrell got his third and fourth counters in two nights, Lorne Carr completing the home team's total.

Detroit fought the Bruins tenaciously after Ray Getliffe gave Boston an early lead, until Doug Young tied the count 11 minutes after the final period began. Then the Wings faded quickly and Mel Hill, Busher Hollett and Bill Sands plunked in Boston goals to make it a runaway.

Wilf Cude returned to Montreal's goal after a month's layoff that followed a nervous crack-up and the little Welshman was an inspirational force in the win over Chicago. Toe Blake, aided by Johnny Gagnon and Haynes, scored the winning goal after seven minutes of extra play, then engaged in a fist fight with Alex Levinsky that earned both minor penalties.

Americans gained a defensive replacement for Al Murray by signing Roger Jenkins after Chicago gave him his unconditional release. Jenkins was moved up to the forward line when he joined the Black Hawks last winter but will play on the defence until Murray returns, which may be a long time unless the operation on the little gamester's shoulder today is a miracle.

Golfers Can Only Win the Cup

Standing beside an extra large golf trophy and generally adding that certain something to the picture is Merle Oberon, and to add the usual Hollywood description, "exotic screen star." The trophy (concentrate now!) is a 44-inch silver affair that goes to the best amateur in the Los Angeles open tournament that gets under way January 6. The pro winner, of course, gets cold cash.

DIED

BAGNALL, Lavina Maude.—At St. Joseph's hospital, on January 2, 1939, Lavina Maude Scates, beloved wife of Thomas F. Bagnall, in her 34th year. Funeral from the residence of her parents, Mr and Mrs. Charles T. Scates, 581 Division street, on Thursday afternoon, January 5, with the Rev Canon W. P. Robertson of St John's Anglican church officiating. Interment at Little Lake cemetery.

BALCH, David Thornton.—At Ross Memorial hospital, Lindsay, Jan. 2, 1939. David Thornton Balch, aged 73, beloved husband of Annie Dobe of Omemee. Funeral from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Omemee, Wednesday, January 4, at 2 p.m. Interment, Emily Presbyterian Cemetery. Pleast omit flowers.

GAHAGAN, Martin—At St. Joseph's Hospital, on Tuesday morning, January 3, 1939, Martin Gahagan, beloved husband of Georgina Raymer, in his 64th year. Funeral announcements later.

MILLER, John Henburn.—On Sunday, January 1, 1939, at his residence at 360 Brock street, John Henburn Miller, beloved husband of Edna May Stanger, in his 56th year. Funeral on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from Trinity United church, Rev. G. S. Easton officiating. Interment at Little Lake cemetery.

RICHARDSON, Mrs. Olga. — Suddenly, on Monday, January 2, 1939, at Nicholls Hospital, Olga Edwards, widow of Robert Richardson. Funeral on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence at Keene; Rev. J. S. Ferguson of Keene United church officiating. Interment at Keene cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

HOWDEN. — In loving memory of our dear sister, Miss Margaret (Dolly) Howden, who entered into rest January 1, 1938.

When evening shadows are falling
And we sit in quiet alone,
To our hearts there come a longing:
If she only could come home.
—Ever remembered by her Sisters and Brothers.

DUVAL.—In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. S. Duval, who died January 3, 1936.

Three years have passed, dear mother,
Since God called you home to rest.
And to-day brings back sad memories
To the ones who loved you best.
How we miss your dear face, mother,
To greet us at the door,
And as the years roll onward
We shall miss you more and more.
And as we grow weary and tired,
And the hills seem hard to climb,
We have only to think of the Master
Who whispers: Peace be thine.
—Mrs. Webb.

Gay Party Held Kawartha Club

The Kawartha Club was crowded with members and guests when the New Year dawned, and 1939 was gaily ushered in to the sound of countless noisemakers and the patter of dancing feet. A shell stand glowing with soft reflected tints of green and red Yuletide streamers formed a background for Hal. MacFarlane's orchestra, and the lovely graceful gowns of the ladies formed a moving rainbow of delightful color.

On the stroke of midnight a siren was sounded, and paper hats and favors were flung high in salute to the New Year. Supper was served in the lounge at twelve-thirty.

Those attending included Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Salmonsen, Mr. and Mrs. I. McCrea, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cameron Mr. and Mrs. S. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Morton (Kingston), Mr. and Mrs. Watts, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ennismore Club Is Entertained

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ENNISMORE, Jan. 3. — One of the most enjoyable social events of the Christmas season was that of Tuesday evening at the home of T. T. Crough when Mr. and Mrs. Crough and family were hosts to the members of their euchre club.

A true Christmas spirit prevailed during the evening both in the gracious manner in which the guests were received, and the hospitable way in which they were entertained.

This old home which has been the scene of many such pleasant gatherings was beautifully decorated for the occasion with evergreens and Christmas bells.

Twelve tables of cards were played the ladies prize being won by Miss Frances Hennessey, and the gents by P. Kearns.

Assisting Mrs. Crough and Miss Margaret to serve lunch were the Misses Reta and Agnes Cavanagh Frances Hennessey and Julia Marie Hickson.

School Meetings.

The annual meetings of the different school boards were held on Wednesday. Newly elected members were:—P. G. Sullivan, to the board of the continuation school; Dan K. Crough to S. S. No. 4 and John Shannon to S. S. No. 2.

Christmas Concert,

Under the capable direction of their teacher, Miss Loretto Gifford, the pupils of school section No. 3, staged a very entertaining and successful Christmas concert.

Tom Swift, a pupil of the school, filled the position of chairman in a very creditable manner.

Opening the programme was a chorus, "The Christmas Bells", which was followed by a "Welcome" by Kathleen Swift.

Pat Curtin and Karl Guthrie gave recitations, while Harry and Thelma Wheeler delighted the audience with vocal numbers. Marcella Curtin's reading "Depression" was followed by a song by six girls of the school. A very catchy number was a "Folk Dance" by four boys and four girls. Two dialogues "A Mouse to the Rescue" and "A Terrible Catastrophe" were the highlights of the humorous side of the entertainment. Short recitations were given at intervals by the smaller pupils including Hilliard Parsons, Agnes Curtin, Kenneth Swift, Agnes Swift, Marion Wheeler, Dorothy Parsons, Jackie Conway and Keith Wheeler. After the closing chorus came the arrival of Santa Claus who distributed gifts to all from the heavily laden Christmas tree. Treats of candies and Christmas "good eats" were passed to the parents and friends of the children.

Mrs. Michael Sullivan is at present with her daughter Mrs. Thos. Slattery of Otonabee and will remain on an extended visit.

Miss Marguerite O'Connel of Downeyville is spending a few holidays the guest of Miss Margaret Sullivan.

The Misses Marie O'Reilly and Nellie Murphy of the training school of St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough spent Christmas eve at their respective homes here.

Try the "Old Romany" Way

"Lucky you!" Betsy cries as Jim's name card, the Jack of Diamonds, turns up in the "magic horseshoe"—the old Romany way of laying out the cards.

That Queen of Clubs right next to the Jack may be a new sweetheart for Jim. A fickle one, perhaps, for the Eight of Spades says rejected proposal. But here's a surprise (Five of Hearts), meaning probably that the wedding (Five of Clubs) will take place after all.

Jim's future after that looks rosy, with travel (Nine of Clubs), money (Seven of Diamond) and a brand new house (Ace of Hearts).

A lot of fun, too, to predict futures by horoscopes. Does your beau's birthday come between Oct. 21 and Nov. 20? His horoscope says he's wise and forceful—may be a famous orator.

And your birthday? If it's between Jan. 21 and Feb. 20 you are generous, have musical talent.

Make a big hit with friends by telling fortunes. Our 32-page booklet gives lots of exciting ways —cards, horoscopes, tea leaves and dominoes. The mystery of crystal gazing. Lively fortune-games for your next party.

MARTIN GAHAGAN

The death of Martin Gahagan, 494 Sherbrooke street, occurred at St. Joseph's hospital this morning. In his 64th year, he had been in failing health for some time, although his last illness came only in December.

A nativeof Liverpool, England, he was a son of the late Andrew Gahagan and Catherine Nolan. He had been a resident of Canada for the past 51 years, and had lived in Peterborough, where he was a laborer, for close to 40 years. He was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral and of the Catholic Order of Foresters and the Holy Name Society.

A veteran of the Great War, he enlisted in 1915 and went overseas with the 93rd Battalion in the summer of 1916, later being transferred to the 52nd Battalion. In 1917 he was wounded by shrapnel and was invalided home.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Georgina Raymer; one daughter, Marie Gahagan, at home; and three sons, Martin, Michael and Patrick, all at home.

Funeral announcements will be made later.

BOYD CLUTE.

The funeral of Boyd Clute, lifelong resident of the Campbellford district, was held from the residence of his son-in-law, Stewart Meiklejohn, at 51 McDonnel Street, on Monday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church officiating. Mr. Clute died on Saturday afternoon.

He was born in Seymour Township, near Campbellford, eighty years ago, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Clute. In his early life he had been a lumberman, became a farmer later and retired about ten years ago. Since that time he has been living, for the most part, at Campbellford, Apsley, Warkworth and Peterborough. He was a member of the Anglican Church. His death followed a long period of failing health, although his last illness came only two weeks ago.

His wife predeceased him about fifteen years ago. Surviving is one daughter, Mrs. Stewart Meiklejohn of Peterborough, and one sister, Mrs. Ross Emlaw of Toronto.

Interment was made at Ch[illegible] Church Cemetery, Campbellford.

SEA LEVEL AFFECTS PORTS

The receding level of the Caspian Sea is causing concern for the future of the ports of Baku and Pekhlevi, in Russia, and engineers are considering a plan for turning certain streams now flowing to the Arctic Ocean into the Volga and Ural Rivers, which flow into the Caspian.

Week Of Prayer Services Open

The week of prayer service was held last night in St. Andrew's United Church. Rev. Dr. E. W. Young conducted the service with the following ministers assisting: Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, R. T. Brain, M. C. Parr. Mrs. Ross Williamson sang a solo. Rev. B. Simpson Black, M.A., B.D., of Campbellford gave the address.

He took the subject appointed for the day, "Thanksgiving, Confession, and Prayer." Thanksgiving, the speaker said, is a good note to begin the New Year with. It may lead to a return to God on the part of the Christian people.

He told that a writer has just published a book entitled "The God Whom We Adore." The problem is that people have no appetite for God. A man who does not know God has no medicine for the sickness of the world. In Russia the denial of God amounts to a set philosophy of life. It will be easy to be thankful when we have a firm hold on God.

Dr. Glover says, the speaker quoted, that we need in every generation to re-think the reality of God. The very look of thankfulness is to be grateful for our Christian religion and its great truths.

Lacks of confession, he said, is a sin that keeps men from spiritual power. Every sin as a trend back to selfishness. Every member of the church ought to be a missionary and witness for the gospel. Our greatest sin is the denial of Christ. Some people are embarrassed when His name comes up in conversation. Can we speak to other people about victory, peace, and power? he asked.

It is a week of prayer, he continued. Prayer has its bristling problems but it means power and is the very essence of our religion. We need not explain the problems of prayer to utilize its power. The prayer life of Jesus is well worthy of study. He quoted J. H. Jowett as saying that stop praying is to seal up one's windows.

TRENT RIVER

A Week of Prayer is being observed this week at the various churches.

The Ladies' Aid meeting was held Wednesday afternoon at the church.

Mrs. Will Wright of Toronto was a New Year's Day visitor with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Brown and family.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

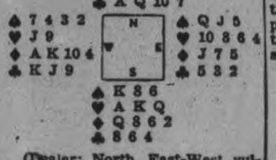
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

AUTOMATIC REWARDS

SOUND PLAY for the number of tricks normally in sight sometimes will bring automatic rewards in the form of an extra trick or so from a squeeze play which develops along the way. This occurs upon occasion even when there has been no particular striving for such extra tricks, as a natural accompaniment of correct tactics.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

Edwin N. Moore, one of the best players of the Union League Club in New York, did a neat job of picking up an unscheduled trick at rubber play of this deal. His partner in the North opened the bidding with a pretty weak not vulnerable 1-Club. Mr. Moore bid 2-No trump in the South and his partner had to raise it to three.

After West took in the diamond K and A, he put Mr. Moore in with the 4 to the J and Q. The club 10 was finessed, a lead to the heart A was followed by the club Q finesse, and then the heart K and Q were raked in to make way for a possible squeeze if the suit didn't divide evenly in the defenders' hands. When it turned out that East held four hearts, there was still a squeeze chance to turn an apparent three no trump, if the clubs didn't break, into a sure four if they did, and again into five-odd if East had to guard the spades as well as the hearts.

So Mr. Moore next led to the club A. Both opponents following suit, he then led the club 7 to the tenth trick. Poor East was done for. He couldn't toss the heart 10 because that would set up dummy's 7. He picked the spade 5 for a discard, so the last three tricks then were the spade A, K and 8, making five-odd.

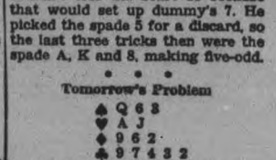
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

With the heart 5 led against South's 3-No trump, what should he play from dummy on the first trick if the opponents had done no bidding, and what if East had opened the bidding with a third-hand psychic of 1-Diamond?

Waste Paper Is Becoming Big Industry

By PHILIP A. NOVIKOFF
Central Press Canadian Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 3. — There's gold in that waste paper!

More than 28,000 men in Toronto alone make a fair living gathering old newspapers, cardboard boxes magazines, packing cases, and, in fact, anything resembling paper that has been thrown away as no longer useful or desirable. For out of this paper, new paper is being made by a host of Canadian manufacturers.

According to a recent survey, approximately 150,000,000 pounds of waste paper is handled by eastern firms annually. The largest portion of this is gathered by individual pickers—usually men past the prime of their youth who, desiring to be self-supporting, ferret about the back alleys, dig into refuse cans, scour the parks after a picnic, or knock at your door seeking old magazines and newspapers.

The average price paid a picker for 100 pounds of paper is 25 cents. Though this seems a very insignificant sum, the daily harvest never suffers a drought, for thousands of newspapers and magazines are discarded each day by the householders together with the immense volume of waste paper emptied every night from countless waste baskets from the city's business firms. Thus, the old men with pointed sticks, with small hand carts, with horse and buggy, are able to make a living wage. One 60-year-old man, who once made $300 a month as a diamond setter for a large jewelry firm, manages to earn as high as $15 weekly in this way.

Price Declines

In 1921 waste paper was difficult to obtain due to the small number of men in the picking business, so paper distributors were forced to pay as much as $25 a ton for their paper. Today, with an increase in the number of pickers due to unemployment, the paper market is flooded with a resultant dive in prices—down to approximately $6 a ton paid by distributors.

Let us see what happens to the paper after the housewife discards it from her back door. Once or twice a week a bent old man with a push cart calls around to collect it. He visits several homes until his load becomes too heavy to push. Laboriously, he wheels his "take" to a neighboring junk dealer who weighs the load carefully before paying the old man off.

The junk dealer disposes of his collection to a wastepaper distributor, where the paper is again weighed, then sent to the sorting room. Here it is sorted into nine different classes: newsprint, miscellaneous scrap, corrugated, magazines, kraft wrapping, ledger (rag paper), white shavings, mixed shavings, and manilla. About 40 per cent. of the paper handled is newsprint.

After it is sorted, the various classes of paper are respectively conveyed to powerful hydraulic presses where they are compressed into large bales. These in turn are hauled to the paperbox factories.

Factory Processes Waste Paper

At the factory the bales are broken and the paper dumped into a number of horseshoe-shaped steel vats—known as beaters—where the paper is mixed with water in proportions of five per cent. paper to 95 per cent. water. The wet paper is then forced against a whirling steel-ribbed drum which defiberizes it. After it is sufficiently processed in the beaters, the pulp is shot down into stock chests which hold the contents of three beaters.

From the stock chest it is pumped up to a headbox where it is distributed through a series of pipes into a "jordan," there receiving a further defiberization treatment. From the jordan it flows into another stock chest from which it is re-pumped into a second headbox capable of handling four varieties of pulp at the same time. From here it goes through a battery of screens to be cleared of bits of metal, wads of hard paper and other "dirt."

After the cleansing process the jelly-like pulp runs into a mixing box where more water is added to it. From here it is forced by fan pumps into vats. It is at this stage that the old paper actually starts experiencing its re-incarnation. From the vats it passes between a copper mesh-covered cylinder mould, 10 feet in length, and a rubber-covered couch mould of the same size, where it goes through series of primary processes between layers of absorbent felt that partially dries each individual sheet of rolled pulp. More rollers, more felt, until the paper is sufficiently dry and strong enough to carry itself without the aid of the felt.

Made Into Cardboard

In the next stage several cold rollers press the various sheets of paper together into a single sheet of cardboard which varies in thickness according to the use it will later be put to. The yet damp cardboard sheet is then given a heating treatment between a triple layer of 115 steam-heated drying drums, which, when in action, resemble a huge printing press.

From the drying drums the paper passes two "callendar stacks"—six steel cylinders arranged one on top of the other. In going through the first callendar stack it is sprinkled lightly with water, like a starched shirt is before ironing, while the second acts as an iron, giving the product a smooth finish. From here the completed cardboard either enters the cutter where it is sliced into desired lengths or rolled into large rolls weighing, on an average about 1,000 pounds.

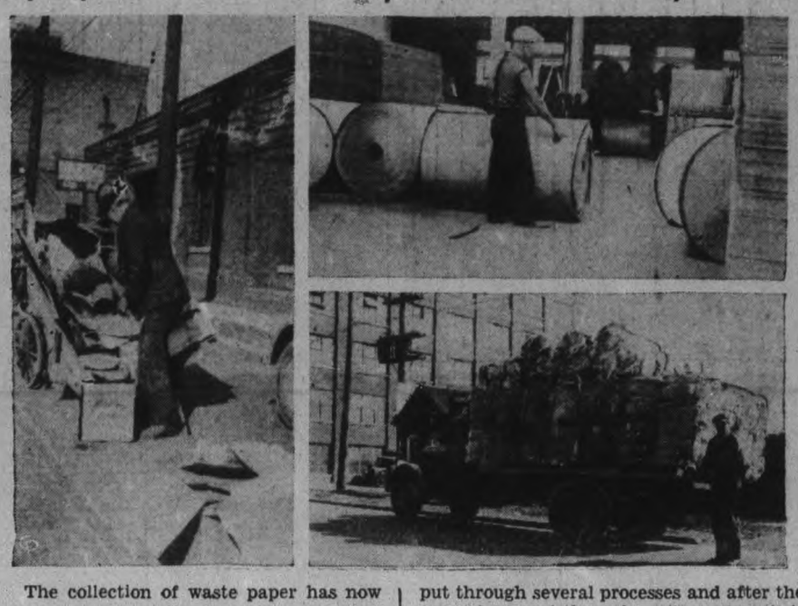
When corrugated paper is desired, another machine is put into use—an "A" flute corrugating machine. This is equipped with a pair of steam-heated corrugated steel rollers between which straw board is passed and pressed into corrugations. As it leaves the rollers the top portion of the corrugation are tipped with silicate of soda so that when the layers of outer paper (the liners) are applied, they are stuck tightly to the sandwiches straw board. This paper "sandwich" passes between another set of rollers which gives a complete and lasting union to the triple layer.

The cutter next receives the composite sheet of pasteboard and slashes it into strips with amazing rapidity. From the cutter the strips are fed into a printing press which not only stamps the name and trade design of the products to be contained by the ultimate case, but at the same time cuts the slot so that the strip will be ready for the girls whose job it is to fold the boxes into shape. The large two-color presses are capable of printing and slotting 7,500 packing cases an hour. More durable cases are bound by wire stitching machines or sticking tape.

Corrugated cases, however, are only a small part of the wastepaper industry. Pasteboard containers for shoes, candy, butter, hats and practically every product on the market sold over the counter in an attractively designed cardboard box, are produced. The designs are created by a staff of experts in the box factory and it is upon their ingenuity that the manufacturers of numerous products depend as to whether or not the outside wrapper of their goods will catch the eye of the buying public.

But the social life of the cardboard box is erratic. After the product is purchased by the consumer, the wrapping is tossed away, and if spotted by some keen-eyed paper picker, it will again go through the same process of re-incarnation, though the second time it may be utilized for wrapping axel grease instead of a delicious box of chocolates for milady.

150,000,000 Tons Of Waste Paper Handled Annually



The collection of waste paper has now become a major business in Canada. This old man, LEFT, once a $70-a-week diamond setter, now makes a living collecting waste paper. After collection the waste paper is put through several processes and after the paper is passed through a steam press it is either rolled into large rolls, UPPER RIGHT, or cut into strips. Several tons of "waste" are shown, LOWER RIGHT, ready to be taken to a box factory.

Reported Arrested

Allegedly implicated in the distribution of "secret leaflets" protesting against the "royal dictatorship" in Roumania, Premier Julius Maniu, ABOVE, leader of the National Peasant party, is reported under arrest. Premier Maniu is noted as an inveterate foe of Mme. Magda Lupescu, titian-haired friend of King Carol, who is credited with wielding powerful influence on the king's policies.

Havelock Lodge Installs New Master

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 3—Walter J. Nobes was installed as Master of Havelock Masonic Lodge A.F. and A.M. No. 435 at a largely attended installation and investitute ceremony in the Masonic temple here last Thursday evening. Visitors were present from several lodges in this district, while two distant guests were Wor. Bro. W. B. Ritchie of Toronto, and Wor. Bro. C. D. Cotterman, of Wauseon, Ohio.

Right Worshipful Brother Robert Anderson was installnig master. He was assisted by R. W. Br. T. P. Lancaster, Wor. Bro. Wm. Anderson, R.W. Bro. Robt. Buchanan, and W. Bro. W. B. Ritchie of Toronto.

A past master jewel was presented to retiring master Austin A. Wilde, the presentation being made by W. B. Ritchie.

Officers installed were: immediate past master, A. A. Wilde; master, Walter J. Nobes; senior warden, G. G. Ames; junior warden, E. D. Chiles, treasurer, Robert Anderson; secretary, A. C. Denike; senior deacon, C. Spencer; junior deacon, Ross Barrons, director of ceremonies, T. P. Lanaster; senior steward, E. J. Leeson; junior steward, Arthur King; tyler, W. D. Hutchinson; organist, W. J. McBurney inner guard, Carman Steenburgh.

Following the lodge ritual a banquet was enjoyed at which the several guests spoke. The banquet was catered by the members of the Eastern Star.

Rt. Wor. Bro. H. W. Roche, P.D. D.G.M., spoke during the evening on the Festival of St. John, comparing the life of St. John and the high ideal which he supported, as being harmonious with the life of a Mason. Using scriptural passages to illustrate the life of St. John demonstrated how it complied with the teachings of Masonry.

Bro. C. D. Cotterman, of Wauseon Masonic Lodge, Wauseon, Ohio, replying to the toast to visiting brethren, spoke of the differences between the Canadian and American masonic orders.

To Make 2,500 Mile Cruise In Outrigger Canoe

In this 32-foot outrigger canoe a crew of three are planning to cruise between the American territory of Hawaii, and Samoa, a 2,500-mile ocean voyage, the first trip of its kind in modern times. Clearance papers for the oceanic adventure have been issued by J. Walter Doyle, U.S. collector of customs at Honolulu. The adventurers plan only one stop, on Fanning Island, in their 2,500-mile cruise. The crew consists of U. A. Woodbury, 2nd, of Burlington, Vt.; Don Hall, of Long Beach, Calif., and Charles Kern, of Pawtucket, R.I. They expect to make the trip in about 20 days.

Cattle Rustling Now Flourishing Beef Prices High

AMARILLO, Tex., Jan. 3. — The price of beef is high and cattle rustlers, hoping to cut in on the rancher-man's profit, are on a rampage in the southwest.

The crude old branding iron, however, still marks the route to the jailhouse. Inspectors for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' association, always busy on the range and in the stockyards, check all brands and keep the motorized rustlers on the run.

Protection.

Authough sheriff's forces and the Texas Rangers are under orders "to get them cattle rustlers," the cow stealing business still goes on. Almost within the city limits of Dallas, a metropolitan centre practically out of the cow country, a cattle protective association has been organized to combat the rustlers.

Says Col. H. H. Carmichael, commander of the Rangers, "There is more livestock theft now than at any time in the last 70 years."

Adds Dayton Moses, attorney for the Cattle Raisers' association, "In the 21 years I have been an attorney for the association there has never been as much cattle rustling as there is today."

The main reason the Cattle Raisers' association, founded 62 years ago to fight rustlers, keeps an attorney is to prosecute livestock thieves. Many are sent to prison in Texas and the southwest each year.

Ever since the first longhorn steer crossed the Rio Grande into Texas there have been cattle rustlers. There also have been branding irons.

Longhorns have changed into beefy white-faced shorthorns. The cowmen's method of handling rustlers with hemp and limb has changed, the rustlers' method of stealing cattle has changed, but the crude old branding iron has remained constant, unchanged.

It marks ownership as it did a century ago. It has sent many men to prison. It is the source of investigation by the association inspectors.

Trucks Used Now

The modern rustler, the gasoline cowboy, uses trucks, sometimes guided from overhead by aeroplanes, to haul off a few head of fat calves or steers at a time. Rustlers have been known to counterfeit bills of sale. Many bury the telltale hides. The beef is sold to law-breaking cafes and meat markets.

Yet, there is the fear of 'the association" in the hearts of all rustlers. Range and stockyards inspectors examine brands, trace ownership, catch rustlers. They follow the scorched tracks of the branding iron—the big "if" between success and failure in the rustling "business."

* * *

Illustrating the seriousness with which the rangelands of western Canada view present-day rustling, was the sentence imposed on Albert Fear, 30-year-old Cochran, Alta., homesteader convicted of stealing three head of cattle from the foothills northwest of Cochran. Although Fear declared he received only nine dollars for the cattle which were slaughtered and sold for fox meat, and pleaded straitened circumstances as the cause of his crime, an appeal court in Calgary upheld a two-year prison term imposed by the trial judge.

C. E. Smith, K.C., crown prosecutor, declared before the appeal court that cases of stealing and butchering were common in Alberta and that evidence sufficient to convict was difficult to obtain.

Some Resolutions Being Made By Movie Actors

Hollywood, Jan. 3.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS overheard here include:—

Clark Gable: "Steal a scene from Spencer Tracy in 1939."

Lewis Stone: "Play Judge Hardy the rest of my life."

Jeanette MacDonald: "To love dogs as always but not have more than eight around the house."

Mickey Rooney: "Study two hours every night for my college course. At least every other night."

Miss Nelson Hostess To Tilicum Class

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, Jan. 3.—Miss Edyth Nelson was hostess to the Tilicum class at her home Thursday night when 20 girls answered the roll call. It opened with devotion service followed by a business discussion and plans for an oyster supper at the end of January. Willina Nelson directed the study book on the "Acts of the Apostles." Gifts were exchanged and refreshments were served by the hostess.

C. G. I. T. Meets.

The senior girls of C.G.I.T., under leadership of Bertha Elmhirst held a meeting in the basement of the United Church. Open devotional services followed by a Christmas reading "No Room in the Inn" by Eleanor Brown. Gifts were distributed after a dainty lunch was served.

To Be Belgians Queen?

A recent photograph of her royal highness, Princess Irene of Greece, sister of King George II. The recent visit of the Greek monarch to Belgium, where he was guest of 37-year-old King Leopold, has given rise to rumors of romance between the Belgian king and the 34-year-old Princess of Greece. Leopold's first queen, Astrid of Sweden, was killed in an automobile accident in 1935.

Miners Dead, Bodies Recovered

Death Instantaneous Crews Find After 8 Days' Work

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., Jan. 4 (CP).—The crushed and broken bodies of John Holubec and Vito Vlaisavgevic were removed today from their rock tomb a half-mile underground in the Lake Shore Mine by rescue crews which had worked unceasingly for eight days.

Investigators said the condition and position of the bodies indicated death was instantaneous. The men were entombed by a rock blast shortly before midnight December 27 in a "raise" at the 2,700-foot level of the mine, Canada's biggest gold producer.

Mine Inspector W. O. Tower started an investigation immediately the miners' bodies were recovered. Tommy Church, Teck Township councillor and international board member for Canada on the congress for industrial organizations, said he would press for a "complete investigation."

Rescuers Never Stop.

Mine officials, refusing to believe the men were killed in the rock slide which sent thousands of tons of rock crashing down on them, pushed rescue workers relentlessly throughout the week.

At 10 o'clock last night, searchers could see one of the bodies but it was not until three o'clock this morning that they could remove it. It was that of John Holubec.

Rescuers redoubled their efforts to locate Vlaisavgevic's body. It was located at seven o'clock, but it was two hours later before they were able to clear away enough rock to remove it.

The bodies of the two men were removed to Kirkland Lake's only undertaking parlor and laid side by side for formal identification by families and friends.

Coroner Dr. R. H. Armstrong said no date has been set for the inquest.

Dies From Fall

SARNIA, Ont., Jan. 4.—(CP).—A coroner's jury last night found that Thomas Salmons, 64, died on Dec. 18 from a blood clot caused by injuries suffered in a fall on the C.N.R. tracks while at work as a car repairman Nov. 26.

Evidence indicated his injuries were not considered serious at first but he failed to respond to treatment.

Fast-Growing Nazi Fleet Takes New Designs With Speed For Raiding Trade Lanes

London, Jan. 4. (C.P.-Havas). GERMANY'S Naval building plans envisage a fast, powerful, fully equipped offensive fleet including aircraft carriers and a new, formidable type of vessel combing the fighting features of a cruiser and an aircraft carrier, according to reports in London diplomatic circles.

In addition to submarine building to achieve parity with Great Britain and two new cruisers—of which details are known here—German shipyards are said to be working on a type of torpedo boat with a radius of action far greater than that of the vessels of the same type used by other powers.

The tonnage of all these new units is as yet unknown, but it has been intimated Germany's plans depart from the orthodox dimensions in these various categories. Her new cruisers may come somewhere between 10,000 and 17,500 tons.

The objectives of this fleet would be less to participate in naval battles than to operate against enemy commerce and to develop the use of the air arm to an extent hitherto not anticipated.

600 Birds Are Entered In Poultry Show

All the sleek and plump turkeys and geese in the neighborhood didn't have their necks wrung to grace Christmas dinners. Some of them that escaped the slaughter have begun the new year winning prizes at the Peterborough Poultry Association's show which opened Tuesday in the market hall and continues until Thursday night. Big white Emden geese, bronze and white Holland turkeys were arrayed in pens along the same rows where their recently departed kin, stripped off their plumage, were laid out on the cold boards on their way to hot ovens.

More than six hundred birds are wondering what it is all about, a bigger show than last year, getting a lot better treatment than the badminton "birds" that are usually banged about most evenings of the week. Classes with the largest entries include single and rose comb white Leghorns, brown Leghorns, Rhode Island Reds, white and Columbia Wyandottes and so on down the aisles. Among the largest exhibitors are R. M. Brown, H. T. Lush, H. Black, E. Simmons, H. L. Van Allen, E. H. White of the city, Allan B. Brown of Bridgenorth, H. M. Foster and W. W. Lord of Campbellcroft, and J. M. Lowes of Otonabee.

Morris Wallace of Iroquois completed the judging early this afternoon, and the show is now open to the public.

Domesticated Mallard ducks shown by R. M. Brown and W. W. Lord comprise an interesting group at the north end of the hall. H. L. VanAllen, one of the directors, told the Examiner the Mallards are the easiest of the wild ducks to raise in captivity. All they demand is plenty of feed to keep them contented in the poultry runs.

Fire Bell Rope Breaks Ending Fun For Young Revellers

(Examiner Correspondence.)

Hastings, Jan. 3.

A group of boys who sought to cause excitement here New Year's eve by ringing the fire bell had their fun cut short when the rope broke and they found themselves with other means of creating noise which could be heard all over the village.

Fire Chief, Fred Dodd had a cold job yesterday when he scaled the steel framework of the bridge to attach a new bell rope.

Struck By Puck In Boys' Game Youth Is Dead

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, Jan. 4.— (Special.)—Clifford Hopkins, 18, died en route to Belleville Hospital Monday night where he was being rushed. Peritonitis had set in from injuries sustained Thursday night when he was struck in the stomach by a puck. He and a group of boys had been practising hockey when the fatal injuries were sustained.

The injury apparently did not seem serious immediately after and he continued to work in Boyce's store until Saturday when he became sick to his stomach. From then on his condition grew worse and doctors seemed unable to diagnose extent of his injury.

He was ordered removed to Belleville hospital, but died before they reached half way. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in Warkworth United church.

The youth was well known in Warkworth and Hastings. He was of a friendly nature, diligent in his studies at school and was a promising young goal tender for the hockey team. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hopkins, Warkworth.

Ship-Saving Just Humdrum Affair After 9 Years On Salvage Tug

HALIFAX, Jan. 4.—(CP).—Nine years as a wireless operator aboard the salvage tug Foundation Franklin have made ship-saving at sea just a humdrum affair for Lindsay A. McManus.

McManus, a Montrealer, is only 29. When first he took over the Foundation's crew, he had his share of thrills—he'll even term some of the powerful tug's jobs "exciting"—but now it is just routine.

Sole wireless operator on the ship's paper, he never knows when he may be called to duty. It might be went he is at home, at a movie or a party. Going without sleep isn't anything new for him, either. Once he did a 42-hour stretch while the Foundation aided a distressed vessel.

Another of his jobs is taking pictures of vessels salvaged by the Founaltion, which are included in a report filed at the end of a salvage operation. At times he has acted as a news photographer and his "shots" of some sagas of the sea have been used widely.

McManus' "exciting" experiences included the towing of the Belgian steamer, Emile Franqui, to Halifax several years ago. The two ships had run into heavy weather off the harbor mouth when McManus picked up an SOS

Call From Own Tow.

Listening closely he discovered the distress call was from the steamer the founation had under tow—the prudent Belgian captain having feared the tow-line would snap in the raging sea, it did snap, too, near the steamer's bow and as the Foundation turned about to "shoot" another line aboard, her stearing gear became disabled and both craft were in difficulties.

Repairs were made to the Foundation as she stood by the anchored steamer all night and in the morning a line was put over and the tow continued.

Meanwhile, all American and Canadian coast wireless stations closed down in an effort to eliminate interference from the air as nearby vessels answered the distress calls of the steamer—already in tow.

The Foundation Franklin, formerly known as the H. M. S. Frisky and built 20 years ago, has figured in almost all the salvage cases around the Eastern Coast of Canada since her time. She has all the modern equipment used for her work and has a crew of 22. Her records do not show a single loss of life or serious injury to a crew member.

79 p.c. Favor Duke's Return To England

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—(CP).—A survey in Great Britain by the British institute of public opinion, released here last night, revealed that "an overwhelming majority" of British voters would welcome home the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

The survey, released by the institute of public opinion, showed an answer was sought to the question: "Would you like the Duke and Duchess of Windsor to make their home in England?"

Replies were given as "yes" 79 per cent, "no" 19 per cent. Approximately one-fifth did not express an opinion.

When the same survey question was put to British voters a year ago, it was stated, approximately 60 per cent wanted the Duke and Duchess to return, against 79 per cent now.

Hospital Insurance

NELSON, B.C., Jan. 4.—(CP). — The Kootenay General Hospital here has opened its list for "family hospitalization insurance." The plan, similar to schemes already operating at Kamloops, Vernon and Kelowna, provides hospitalization, laboratory service, medicines for the insured and family for $1.25 a month.

Priest's Broadcast To Be Investigated

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 — (CP.).—Alleged intervention in the Toronto municipal election by Rev. Charles Lanphier in a radio broadcast on Sunday is the subject of investigation by officials of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Corporation, has sent for copy of Father Lanphier's speech following complaints to the effect it infringed the rules of the Corporation. As the address was delivered over a private station it was not subject to censorship in advance by the Corporation.

Hepburn Sailing Delayed At Port

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4—(CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario arrived here Tuesday with several officials of his government, but their scheduled sailing for Australia was postponed until tomorrow because of a marine dispute.

Mr. Hepburn and his party will sail on the Matson liner Mariposa, now at San Francisco. The ship cancelled Tuesday's sailing for Australia via Los Angeles fearing a marine dispute would tie up the city's harbor.

Instead Matson officials said passengers at Los Angeles would be brought here by rail and the Mariposa would sail Jan. 5.

"We expect to be in Australia as guests of the commonwealth for about two months," said Chester Walters, Ontario deputy minister of finance.

Others in the party which will study economic problems are E. G. Odette, chief of the Ontario Liquor Control Commission; R. H. Elmhrst, secretary to the premier, and John Mansfield, Ontario business man.

Fifty Public Appearances Charted For Spring Visit Of King And Queen

Stop 3 Days Ottawa, 8 Hrs. Kingston, Toronto; No Call On Quints At Callander; May Need 3 Trains For Retinue, Officials

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (CP).—A royal time-table, plotting the course of the King and Queen on their month-long tour across Canada and back next summer, was made public today.

The itinerary provides for almost 50 public appearances, brings them to most of the populous districts on the southern fringe of the country and is described by Prime Minister Mackenzie King as "final."

The royal couple, making the first visit of a reigning king and his queen to Canada, will arrive at Quebec May 15 on H.M.S. Repulse and leave from Halifax June 15 on the same vessel. Three days and a half between June 7 and June 12 will be spent in a United States visit, the details of which were not announced here.

They will visit each provincial capital and all of the large cities except Windsor, Ont. They will go no farther in Southwestern Ontario than London, missing Windsor, Chatham and Sarnia.

Their Majesties will sleep on the royal train except in Ottawa, where they will stay at Rideau Hall, Quebec, where the Citadel, summer home of the Governor-General, will be their headquarters, Victoria, where they will stay at Government House and possibly Jasper and Banff, both of which they will visit for a day of rest.

They will not travel at night so that they may have the maximum possible rest and meet more of their subjects in brief stops during the day. The itinerary does not indicate in many cases where their train will be stopped at night.

Long, Strenuous Trip.

In announcing details of the tour Mr. MacKenzie King indicated he realized many would be disappointed because their cities or districts would not be visited. But he expressed himself as confident that Canadians would appreciate the intricacies of the situation and what was involved in the Royal Couple undertaking so long and ardous a journey in the limited time at their disposal.

The itinerary was drawn up by a committee of cabinet ministers and government officals after careful and detailed study and was approved by Their Majesties. The Prime Minister said they had sought to keep in mind that Their Majesties would not only be travelling in Canada and the United States for a month in addition to their ocean voyages but also would take part in many public processions in different cities, all a tax on their strength.

Public functions will be kept to a minimum, the Prime Minister said. It would be physically impossible for the King and Queen to accept even a small number of the many suggestions and requests for special calls which have come from all parts of the Dominion.

The itinerary indcated they will not visit the Dionne Quintuplets at their home near Callander, Ont. The nearest they come to the Quints' birthplace is Sudbury, eighty miles

60 Of Germany's Latest Bombers And Crews, Swapped To Honduras

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 4. — (CP).—The San Diego Union today says:

"Sixty German bombing planes, with crews, are in Honduras, 600 miles north of the Panama Canal, according to word reaching here from the south.

"While the type of the planes was not reported, it was said that they are large jobs, of the latest design; they were sent to the Central American Republic under what is reported to be a barter arrangement, whereby Honduras was to pay for them in coffee and other products of the Republic. In addition to coffee, the principal exports of Honduras are bananas, gold, silver, cocoanuts, cattle, hides and sugar.

"The Germans who accompanied the planes not only are servicing them, it is said, but also are reported to be instructing Honduran pilots and mechanics."

Three Sales Girls Vanish At Orillia

ORILLIA, Ont., Jan. 4 — (CP).—Police began search to-day for three magazine sales girls who left yesterday by car in the direction of Brechin and have been unreported since.

The girls, Alveta Smith, 24, leader of the group, from New Brunswick, Edna Lehman, 19, and Kay Kelly, 23, failed to return to their hotel here. Two other girls of the group, left behind here, anxiously applied to the police for help.

Police believed the missing girls may have got stuck somewhere in a deep snowbank and were probably compelled to spend the night in a farmhouse.

Agricultural Rally

GUELPH, Ont., Jan. 5.—(CP).—Annual meeting of the Ontario Experimental Union will be held at the Ontario Agricultural College here to-morrow. Hon. P. W. Dewan, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, Dean R. M. Shaw, Ottawa, H. H. Hannam, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, and other prominent agriculturists will address the meeting.

North Bay Protests No Visit By King

NORTH BAY, Ont., Jan. 4 — (C. P.). — Protests were addressed today to Prime Minister Mackenzie King against failure to include North Bay and nearby Callander, home of the Dionne quintuplets, on the itinerary of the King and Queen for their Canadian tour this year.

Mayor-elect Arthur Beattie of North Bay said his communication to the Prime Minister and to Dr. J. R. Hurtubise, Liberal member of Parliament for Nipissing, was a "strong formal protest" against the omitting of North Bay and Callander from the itinerary.

The Board of Trade protest to the Prime Minister read:

"This section of Northern Ontario greatly aroused over published itinerary of Their Majesties. We are convinced that the King and Queen have not been consulted, otherwise they would surely include a stop-over to see their wards, the Dionne quintuplets. Such a visit would also give the mining sections to the north their only opportunity of paying homage to Their Majesties."

Madam X Sits Mum, Toronto Police Sit Pat; Only Right Name To Bail Her Out Of Cell

Toronto, Jan. 4.

POLICE are going to be just as indifferent as the mysterious Madam X who told them her name was Eta Botas, a star approximately 196,000,000 miles away from earth.

Madam X is held on a charge of personation at the polls during Monday's civic elections. Police said they were making no effort to identify her. They say it is entirely up to herself. But she'll stay in jail until she reveals her correct name.

Madam X told them her name was Eta Botas. They investigated and found there was no Eta Botas at the address she gave. Instead, a University Professor came to their rescue and told them the name was that of a star millions of miles away. Madam X is about 25 years of age.

Tunisia Maginot Line Safe Says Daladier

GABES, Tunisia, Jan. 4—(AP).—Premier Daladier inspected Tunisia's "Maginot Line of the desert" today and called it strong enough to resist any attack.

Accompanied by high military and naval officials who are visiting the French North African colonies with him, the premier saw thousands of soldiers pushing additional work on the fortifications.

Deep in the desert 25,000 crack troops paraded across the sands before the bareheaded premier as clouds of dust almost blotted out the sun.

The troops included Europeans, Sengalese and wild Tunisian cavalry irregulars who rode past at a gallop, firing their rifles in the air.

The Mareth line, built of reinforced concrete on the same principle as the Maginot line of France's eastern frontier facing Germany, lies 95 miles from the Libyan frontier and cuts across the main road from Tunis to Libya just below the Mareth oasis.

Land Good as France?

Daladier began the inspection immediately on his arrival from Tunis where he visited the Tunisian potentate, Sidi Ahmed, yesterday.

Speaking at a banquet last night before a gathering of French and Tunisian officials of the French protectorate, the premier said:

"France will never permit your efforts to be turned from the goal, which is to create here on African soil a human community comparable to the French.

"France has the force to assure your security ...Her power is invincible."

While he spoke Italian Fascist leaders in Tunis circulated a demand for equal rights for Italian nationals in Tunisia.

Propose the King Close Session

TORONTO, Jan. 4 — (CP). — Coming session of the Ontario Legislature may be produced by the King as a part of the program of His Majesty's visit to Toronto, it was suggested at Queen's Park today.

Although the Assembly will have completed its sessional work weeks before Their Majesties' visit, it would be possible for the members merely to adjourn and then re-assemble for the traditional prorogation ceremony on May 22.

It has also been suggested that the date of the running of the King's Plate at the Woodbine Meeting should be changed in order that the King could be present for the first time at the running of the classic inaugurated by Queen Victoria.

These two suggestions at least will be placed before the committee headed by the Lieutenant-Governor which will make the arrangements for the Royal visit to Toronto. Before he left Premeir Mitchell Hepburn named Hon. Harry Nixon, Acting Premier, and Col. George A. Drew, Conservative Leader, as members of His Honor's committee, but other members including Mayor Day, may be selected by the Lieutenant-Governor.

The committee will be formed and start its work as soon as official notification is received from Ottawa with regard to Their Majesties' itinerary, Mr. Nixon said.

Higher Fire Loss

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—(CP).— Ontario fire losses in 1938 totalled $8,855,072, increase of $940,576 over 1937, Fire Marshall W. J. Scott reported to-day. Fires last year claimed 77 lives with 190 persons injured.

The Fire Marshal reported also the busiest year in the history of the office for investigation of arson and allied crimes. During the year the office obtained 48 arson convictions. There were eight acquittals and hearing of five charges still is pending.

Cod Swimming Road Give Bus Driver Surprise At Coach

Nanaimo, B. C., Jan. 4.

FISH have taken to the highways on Vancouver Island — and that's no fish story according to an Island bus driver. The driver said he was driving along the island highway where flood waters from the Kokisiah river covered the road. He saw a big cod swimming along the road, fully a mile from its natural habitat in Cowichan Bay.

Old King Winter Plays Full Bag Of Tricks

(By the Canadian Press.)

The weatherman gave Ontario a sample to-day from about every page in his book. There was snow, sleet, rain, fog and sub-zero temperatures.

White River, Peterborough, Kingston, and Ottawa were in the below-zero group. At White River, Ontario's coldest spot generally, the mercury stood at 18 below at eight a.m., and 12 below at noon. It was 14 below at Ottawa during the night and four below at Kingston. Peterborough reported minus seven.

Hamilton Under Ice

Hamilton probably had the strangest weather of all Ontario cities. An icy wind sweeping in from Lake Ontario brought with it a mixture of fine snow, sleet and rain that left houses and trees blanketed under a coating of crystal ice. The temperature varied from 12 to 20 degrees above zero.

Driving conditions around Stratford in southwestern Ontario were reported "miserable" with the district under the heaviest fog in months. Motorists were advised not to leave the city and the few who did were able only to crawl along the highways, with ice forming on the windshields of the cars.

Brant county needed a January thaw to relieve a water shortage that has forced farmers to draw water from rivers and creeks for livestock. Many of the wells in the district are without sufficient water.

At the Ontario agricultural college at Vinemount it was reported the sleet storms would be beneficial to fruit crops. The formation of ice on the buds and twigs tends to destroy the eggs of insect pests.

Highways in many centres were in a dangerous condition. Rural roads around Peterborough were blocked completely and in many cases postmen were unable to complete their rounds.

Calls On U.S. To Boost Her Defences

Nation Must Be Ready To Thwart Threat To Freedom

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(CP).—President Roosevelt told the United States' Congress to-day that while war had been averted last fall world peace was not assured and called for strengthened defences "in the face of storm signals from across the sea."

Addressing a joint session of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the President asserted "undeclared wars," "deadly armaments," and "new aggression" threaten the three indispensable institutions in America—Religion, democracy and International good faith.

And only through a nation united physically and spiritually could these storms be kept from American shores.

While giving notice that he would make recommendations in the course of a few days for "essentials of defence against dangers which we cannot safely assume will not come," Mr. Roosevelt warned of danger from infiltration of philosophies of force into the western hemisphere.

Mr. Roosevelt said that in the western hemisphere "we have under common ideal of democratic government, a rich diversity of resources and of peoples functioning together in mutual respect and peace."

Ready For Anything.

And he warned:

"That hemisphere, that peace, and that ideal we propose to do our share in protecting against storms from any quarter. Our people and our resources are pledged to secure that protection. From that determination no American flinches."

By that he did not mean that the American republics disassociated themselves from nations of other continents and he reasserted "our historic offer to take counsel with all other nations of the world to the end that aggression among them be terminated."

Peace Not Assured

Standing on the Speaker's dais in the House chamber, the assembled members before him, the President said "a war which threatened to envelop the world in flames has been averted but it has become increasingly clear that peace is not assured."

He did not specifically mention the Munich pact or the dismemberment of Czecho-Slovakia. Nor did he name any foreign nation.

But he referred to "events in Europe" where Czecho-Slovakia was dismembered at Germany's insistence, "in Africa" where Italy conquered Ethiopia and "in Asia" where Japan has invaded China.

"All about us rage undeclared wars—military and economic," Mr. Roosevelt said. "All about us grow more deadly armaments—military and economic."

The United States would solve by democratic means problems that dictatorships solve "by main force" any by using force "apparently succeeded at it—for the moment," the President said.

"Dictatorship," he declared, "in-

Only Crime 'They Can't Find Work' Cadi To Report 7 Vags To Conant

TIMMINS, Ont., Jan. 4—(CP).—"I think this situation should be reported to the Attorney General's department," commented his worship Magistrate S. Atkinson in police court yesterday in sentencing seven men charged with vagrancy after the accused men and police admitted that their only wrong was that they "couldn't find work."

"The last few police court sessions have produced a large number of these cases," said Magistrate Atkinson when Ernest Bates, a youth who sid he came from Niagara Falls, led off a list of vagrants yesterday.

"Why don't you get in touch with your parents and let them know of the trouble you're in," the judge asked the young man.

Chief of Police Leo H. Gagnon said that it was the policy of the towns relief department to give married men the preference and that there was nothing in town for unmarried men.

Their Shack Burns

Bates related how he and his friend Lloyd Fulson, also arraigned on a vagrancy charge, had come north from Niagara Falls. They intended to spend the winter in a shack which they built at the outskirts of the town but a fire on Christmas eve had destroyed the building, they said.

"Do you want to go to jail," queried the magistrate.

"Not if I can help it," returned the youth.

"I'll fine you a dollar and costs, see how that works," said the court.

Six other men were given the same fine. Another man accused of begging said he had a job to go to.

"Go to it, you're lucky," said the magistrate. "I think that the attorney general should get a report on these conditions. These unfortunate cases are becoming much to numerous."

Crown Attorney Caldbick agreed that the situation was becoming a serious one. He said that he would file a report with attorney General Conant regarding the cases.

Mayor Day Approves

TORONTO, Jan. 4. — (CU). — Mayor Day to-day expressed approval with the itinerary of Their Majesties which includes a stop in Toronto on May 22 for 8½ hours.

"I think we've been properly dealt with," the Mayor said. "Their Majesties are spending as much time here as anywhere else, with the exception of Ottawa. The amount of time allowed to Toronto does not give an opportunity for any meetings with private organizations."

Jap Fascists Upset Cabinet

Retiring Ministers' Lives In Danger Feeling So Tense

By Relman Morin
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

TOKYO, Jan. 4.— (AP). — The war time government of Prince Fumimaro Konoye fell to-day before an onslaught of Fascist-minded elements who want a single political party for Japan, more rigid control of economic life, and a new administrative policy in China.

Feeling was so intense that in some quarters fear was expressed for the personal safety of some of the retiring ministers, especially the elderly finance minister, Seihin Ikeda.

Ikeda angered extremist groups last November when he blocked army demands for government control of corporation capital, dividends and investments.

Baron Kiichiro Hiranuama, president of the Privy Council and important Nationalist leader, was expected to be designated by the Emperor to form a new cabinet. The Baron headed the Kokuhonsha (Nationalist Japan) party, which had advocated support for the army, the Emperor and "Nipponism, which includes all the advantages of Nationalism, Fascism and Communism."

Now 73, Baron Hiranuma was Minister of Justice in 1923 and frequently before had been mentioned for the Premiership.

Prince Konoye, 47, professing to Liberal views, became Premier June 4, 1937, a month before the China war began.

New Order In East.

He declared upon his resignation today that "the China incident has entered a new state and the time has come when the government must concentrate its efforts on construction of a new order in order to maintain lasting peace in East Asia."

He expressed conviction it was "urgently necessary to enhance the confidence of the nation by formulating new policies under a new cabinet," although the "unshakeable fundamental policy" (to force a China regime favorable to Japan) had been "established and approved by His Majesty, the Emperor."

With the conventional reference to his own "lack of ability," he said he often thought himself unable to cope with the war crisis but "the seriousness of the times did not allow a change of cabinet until now.

The government's overturn came barely five days after the first inner skirmishes occurred.

Chinese Recapture Two Yangtse Towns

SHANGHAI, Jan. 4 — (AP). — Severe fighting on widely separated fronts was reported today after the holiday lull.

The Chinese said they had broken the long stalemate along the Sui river, 50 miles south of the Yanktse port of Kiukiang, by forcing a crossing and recapturing two towns on the north bank.

Farther to the west along the Hupeh-Hunaa border, they said they had recaptured Tawuntsin, 15 miles west of Yochow, Yangtse river town 122 miles upstream from Hangkow.

In the north, the Japanese continued their offensive in Shansi province, where they are attempting to wipe out Chinese guerrilla units. In north Honan, Chinese said the Japanese had trapped 200 guerrillas 30 miles south of Kaifeng, Lunghai railway city, and killed the entire band by machine-gun.

They also reported Chinese forces had ambushed a Japanese column outside Shanhsien, 90 miles east of Kaifeng, killing and wounding 400 and capturing 30 machine-guns.

Meanwhile, a Domei (Japanese news agency) dispatch from Nanking said Lieut. General Otozo Yamada had arrived there to assume his new duties as commander-in-chief of Japanese forces in entral hCina.

The dispatch said Yamada had hinted his job would be to pacify Japanese-occupied areas instead of extending Japanese lines farther into the interior. Talking to Japanese correspondents, the new commander emphasized his previous service in Manchoukuo where "bandits were driven out and peace and order were restored."

volves costs which the American people will never pay."

Mr. Roosevelt enumerated as such costs, spiritual values, free speech, freedom of religion, confiscation of capital, concentration camps, "the costs of having our children brought up not as free and dignified human beings, but as pawns molded and enslaved by a machine."

No Aid for Aggressor

The president said "we can and should avoid any action or any lack of action which will encourage, assist or build up an aggressor." He added:

"We have learned that when we deliberately try to legislate neutrality, our neutrality laws may operate unevenly and unfairly—may actually give aid to an aggressor and deny it to the victim. The instinct of self-preservation should warn us not to let that happen any more."

For "adequate defence"—and the president said "the deadline of danger from within and without is not within our control"—he advocated armed forces and defence sufficient "to ward off sudden attack," and an organization of key facilities for prompt expansion.

He reserved details of this defence program for a message next week, noting that recent world events had taught anew "the old, old lesson that probability of attack is mightily decreased by the assurance of an ever-ready defence."

But he stressed also a third element needed, "a strong and united nation."

"In meeting the troubles of the world we must meet them as one people," he said. "Our nation's program of social and economic reform is therefore a part of defence as basic as armaments themselves."

Some Reorganization.

For this program, Mr. Roosevelt proposed essentially only two enactments, reorganization of the government departments for greater efficiency and aid for the railroads and other transportation problems.

In addition, the President advocated:

Improvement of social security legislation.

Perfecting of labor organization and means "to end factional labor strife and employer-employee disputes."

Perfection of a farm program.

A revision of tax relationships between Federal, State and local governments "and consideration of relatively small tax increases to adjust inequalities without interfering with the aggregate income of the American people."

The President told Congress "it does not seem logical to me, at the moment we seek to increase production and consumption, for the Federal Government to consider a drastic curtailment of its own investments."

Setting an $80,000,000,000 national income as the goal to be achieved so that "present tax laws will yield enough each year to balance each year's expenses," the President said:

"We have learned that it is unsafe to make abrupt reductions at any time in our net expenditure program."

Lop Third of Spending Off.

Should Congress, he said, side with the point of view that spending should be balanced with the government's income, "it will logically have to reduce the present functions of government by one-third."

"The Congress will have to accept the responsibility for such reduction; and the Congress will have to determine which activities are to be reduced."

The address, broadcast in the United States and around the world in seven languages, hinted at possible measures against aggressors.

"We have learned," Mr. Roosevelt said, "that God-fearing democracies of the world which observe the sanctity of treaties and good faith in their dealings with other nations cannot safely be indifferent to international lawlessness anywhere.

"They cannot forever let pass, without effective protest, acts of aggression against sister nations—acts which automatically undermine all of us.

"Obviously they must proceed along practical, peaceful lines. But the mere fact that we rightly decline to intervene with arms to prevent acts of aggression does not mean that we must act as if there were no aggression at all.

"Words may be futile, but war is not the only means of commanding a decent respect for the opinions of mankind.

"There are many methods short of war, but stronger and more effective than mere words, of bringing home to the aggressor governments the aggregate sentiments of our own people.

"At the very least, we can and should avoid any action, or any lack of action, which will encourage, assist or build up an aggressor."

WHY THE TRUCKS?

Residents of Ashburnham who watched employees of the Board of Works shovelling snow from the Hunter Street Bridge into trucks yesterday are wondering why the snow was loaded at all. A few remarked that it would have been just as easy to toss the snow over the edge of the bridge into the river or to the ground below on that portion of the bridge east of the Quaker Oats.

New Abdication-Marriage Game Brings Girl "Slap" By The Archbishop Of Canterbury

New York, Jan. 4.

A girl promoter disclosed last night she had received a rebuke from the Archbishop of Canterbury for including him, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor and the abdication-marriage incident in a parlor game.

The girl is 19-year-old Dottie Davis, who thought up the board-card game called "Love" and is President of the Company which launched it two weeks ago.

In the game, couples try to manoeuvre their "men" around a board to a goal of "marriage" with denominated cars bearing caricatures of the "great lovers" of history—among them Antony and Cleopatra, Romeo and Juliet, and the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

The "Edward" and "Wallis" cards win the game immediately when drawn, unless an opposing couple counters with a cartoon card labelled "Canterbury," which sends the couple into "exile."

"I thought the Archbishop would be interested, so I sent him a game," said Dottie,...but now I'm crushed." She waved a letter from the Archbiship's secretary.

"Dear Madam," It said, "Your letter of December 2nd has been received by the Archbishop of Canterbury. He is bound to say that he regrets that you should have seen fit to go out of your way to revive the memory of an incident relating to the British Crown which most people in this country desire to regard as past and gone.

"That being so, the Archbishop cannot say anything in commendation of the game to which you refer....."

Rebel Columns Take Key City Of Artesa

HENDAYE, France, January 4. — (A. P.). —Two insurgent columns, blasting their way through Government fortifications, were reported today to have captured the textile town of Artesa, known as the "key to Catalonia."

First insurgent field bulletins reaching border stations said the town, only 65 miles from Barcelona, fell sortly after 5 p.m. Tuesday. An hour before, two of the Insurgent Army Corps—the Urgel and Maestrazco—moved into zones on the north-west and west to join forces in the face of withering fire from the Spainish Government defenders.

All mention of Artesa's reported fall were omitted from Government communiques, although bulletins did admit Iusurgent advances in the immediate sector.

Capture of Artesa is important to the Insurgent because of its position as control point for three main highways. It dominates the road from Tremp in the north to Tarragonda.

The reported capture of the town followed a slow but steady advance which brought a half-dozen villages into the Insurgents' hold and reduced the Government pocket directly east of the Segre River.

An advance of almost identical strategic importance was proceeding ,meanwhile, in the Aspa sector just southeast of Lerida.

Mic-Macs Defeat Tweed By 10-3

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 4. — The Mic-Macs, the newly formed Madoc-Marmora combines, won their inithal game in the Trent Valley Hockey League by swamping Tweed at the Madoc Arena on Monday night by the score of 10-3. The winners easily had this margin over the losers.

Tweed held the Mic-Macs in the first period to the close score of 2-1. In the second period the winners notched three more with only one being scored by Tweed. In the last frame the homesters put on the pressure and banged home five goals.

Hollingsworth in the Madoc net turned in a fine game. Akey, Alexander and Keller of Madoc were going at full speed, while Loveless and Leonard turned out as good an exhibition of hockey as has been seen in some time. The winners' defence gave their goalie real protection. For the losers Meraw and Tummon carried the brunt of the game. Only two penalties were handed out, one going to each team.

Referee — Don Wyntock and Vaughan Jack.

Calgary Kiwanians Honor Bennett

CALGARY, Jan. 4 — (CP). — Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, former Conservative prime minister of Canada, was made a life member of the Calgary Kiwanis club as a round of farewell celebrations got underway yesterday.

Club officials announced a bronze statuette of a mounted cowpuncher will be presented before Mr. Bennet leaves for his new home in England later this month.

After the distinguished guest installed the club's 1939 officers he told members his reasons for choosing an old country residence instead of Calgary for his retiring years.

"I have a bothersome heart and doctors have told me I must avoid worry and anxiety," he said. Therefore he had relinquished all political activities.

"I must admit the House of Commons never bothered me much, but the worries of a general election would."

Mr. Bennett said he felt he could not return to his law practise in Calgary, which he began 42 years ago, because already there was not enough business for the practising lawyers.

Christmas Tree Waste

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 — (CP.). — A resolution sugesting legislation be enacted at the coming session of the Ontario Legislature to control the cutting and sole of Christmas trees was passed yesterday by the Gloucester Township Council.

The resolution referred to the "surplus of Christmas trees cut for the Ottawa district during the Christmas season resulting in a wastage of hundreds and probably thousands of eevrgreens." It will be sent to Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculutre.

SHOWS SURPLUS

SAINT JOHN, N.B. — (CP). — At the end of the last fiscal year, "one of the most successful in history," the New Brunswick Power Commission had a surplus of more than $5,000, Premier Dysart announced here. The commission, serving 14,000 customers throughout the province, received revenue of more than $1,000,000 during the year.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Jan. 4. — (CP). — Futures prices moved within a narrow range on Winnipeg Wheat Market to-day, with the October position showing the most strength due to outside support. Closing quotations were ½ to ¼ lower, with May 63¾, July 64¼, and October 64½ cents.

Export business in Canadian wheat was placed around 250,000 bushels, worked chiefly from Vancouver.

Mill support appeared to represent both export and domestic flour sales. Other dealings were confined to intermarket spreading involving purchases at Winnipeg against sales at Chicago.

We Noticed

. . . That everybody is busy making New Year resolutions—or attempting to keep them. Here we are, with a clean slate in front of us—what are we going to write on it? Our actions, our words, even our thoughts and beliefs and inmost attitudes will register on that slate, so the best thing to do is to wipe it clear of the things that might blur and cloud our minds so that this year's writing will be free and flowing as it should be.

✧ ✧ ✧

. . . Some of the things we might wipe off are gloom, defeat, hardship, doubt, distrust, suspicion, resentment, hatred, anxiety, worry, replacing them by a shining certainty that this year we will get all the "breaks," that our ship will come home laden with fruitful argosies ,that our health will be perfect, our friends as the sands of the sea in number, and our pocket-

Life Membership Certificate Presented

The January meeting of the Murray Street Ladies' Mission Circle was held in the Ladies' parlor with the president, Mrs. H. H. Graham, in the chair.

Carrying out the theme of the subject for the afternoon, "Prayer and Praise," scripture verses selected from the book of Psalms were read by Mrs. Sutcliffe, Miss Cochrane, Mrs. Rome and Mrs. D. Loomis. A pleasant highlight of the meeting was the gift of a life membership to Mrs. Cottingham from one of the absent members, Mrs. T. H. Duncan, presented by Miss Cochrane and Mrs. P. S. White.

Rev. R. D. Wright of Gilmour Memorial church addressed the meeting on the subject of "Prayer," and a brief picture of the religious conference being held in Madras, India, with nine representatives attending from Canada, was given by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe. Mrs. A. R. Kennedy closed the meeting with the Benediction.

Reports Show Fine Year For W.A.

The first meeting of George Street United church Women's Association for 1939 was held on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. M. E. Elliott, president presided, and opened the meeting with a poem, followed by prayer and the hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers.' The devotional part of the program was taken by Mrs. H. W. Ballard, who gave an inspiring talk on "Happiness for the New Year.' Scripture was read by Mrs. W. H. Cunningham, and Mrs. C. Renaud led in prayer.

Very fine annual reports were given by the conveners of the various committees, showing great activity. The Look-out committee reported 254 calls and 18 new members; the sick and visiting, 673 calls; flower committee, 150 boquets and plants sent to the sick, and at Christmas time many plants and greeting cards were sent to shut-ins; the welfare committee reported 217 pieces of new and used clothing given out, and three cartons sent out West during the fall.

Mrs. T. Mark read the conveners and committees for the new year, and Mrs. James Spencer was appointed press secretary.

A donation was voted to the missionary and maintenance fund. The incoming officers were then installed in a beautiful installation service by the pastor, Rev. M. C. Parr. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Vick—Carr

St. John's Anglican Church, Port Hope, was the setting for an interesting wedding on Saturday, December 31, when Miss Jean Audrey Carr, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carr, was united in marriage to Mr. Walford C. Vick of Port Hope, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Vick of Napanee. Rev. J. M. Crisall officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a period mulberry velvet dress with matching hat and accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. Miss Muriel Carr attended her sister, gowned in midnight blue with corsage of red roses. Mr. Eric W. Carr, brother of the bride, was groomsman.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Greenwood Tower for about thirty guests. After a wedding trip to Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Vick will reside in Port Hope.

VISIT FROM 60 COUNTRIES

Over 90,000 visitors from 60 countries visited Sweden in the first eight months of 1938, an increase of 5,376 over the corresponding period of the preceding year.

DOROTHY DIX

Do You Detest The Wet-Blankets, The Arguers, Whiners, Wisecrackers Or Boasters Most? All Of Them Are Pests That Need To Be Eradicated

DON'T people make you tired who have no ENTHUSIASM? Who haven't a thrill in their entire systems? Whose dead pans never light up with a smile. Whose conversation is as pepless as a bowl of bread and milk. Who never love, nor hate, nor get into a rage, but merely like, or don't care for some one, or are displeased.

They never laugh at a comedy, or weep at a tragedy, or are stirred by a bit of fine writing. Even God Almighty hasn't made anything that rouses their emotions, for they can look at a storm at sea, or a snow-clad mountain and merely comment that they are "nice." And no matter what you can show them, or what you do for them, the most you get is a mumbled word that you suppose indicates that they were not bored to death.

Don't the people who are WET-BLANKETS make you weary? The ones who consider it their sacred duty to take all of the joy out of life and to douse you with cold water until they have melted down all of your hope and faith and pleasure and taken the kick out of whatever it was that you were planning to do. If you are in love with the prettiest girl in the world, or the finest man, they say that she looks tubercular to them and they doubt, anyway, if she knows how to cook and pinch pennies. Or they wonder if the boy friend doesn't drink, or philander like his Great-Uncle Abner did.

If you are going into business, they prophesy bankruptcy and have statistics to show how many new enterprises fail. If you are starting off for a pleasant afternoon, they cheer you on your way by warning you against going up in airplanes, or riding in an automobile, or eating in strange places.

Don't the ARGUERS give you a pain in the neck? Those who can't let any statement pass unchallenged and who feel divinely appointed to set everybody right upon every subject from politics to pie. If you say it is a pretty day, they contradict you and point out that the humidity is a little greater than it should be and that it was foggy at dawn. If you say something happened at 4 o'clock, they say "no" it was 3.57. They dispute your politics, debunk your heroes, fight with you over religion, criticize your taste in literature and art and clothes, and leave you with murder in your heart and a dark brown taste in your mouth.

Don't the WHINERS get on your nerves? The poor, weak, spineless creatures who get a morbid joy out of weeping on our shoulders and telling us their troubles. The down-and-out men who lay their failures to lack of luck instead of lack of work. The mournful women who boast they have never got over a sorrow. The hordes of neurotics who enjoy poor health and force you to listen to all of their symptoms.

The men who count the cost of the baby's certified milk, but not what they spend on liquor, and who grouch about the expense of a family. The women who wail about being tied down by a home and children. All of the weak-kneed brothers and sisters who haven't been able to stand up and take life on the chin and come up smiling. What a pest they are!

Don't you loathe the WISECRACKERS? Those who sharpen their tongues on the weaknesses and peculiarities of their fellow creatures and who think they are being witty when they are merely being insulting. Those who take a sadistic joy in deflating everybody's little pink balloon and making them feel flat and silly. Those who make merry jests about an unmarried woman being an old maid, and turn a fat woman into a figure of fun by calling attention to her weight. Who ruin the evening for better men than themselves by their quips about bald heads.

And especially don't you loaths the wisecracking husband who makes his wife his stooge and sets the table in a roar while he holds her up to ridicule by telling stories about her that make her seem a fool? And, most of all, doesn't the BOASTER wear you down? The man who swells out his chest and monologues about how great and wonderful he is, and how he has written to the President and told him just how to settle all of his problems, and what a wonderful car he has and how much better it is than all other cars of that same make, and how he is always being importuned to be Mayor, or Governor, or something. And so on and so on. And the woman who brags about herself, her children, her house, her servants.

Don't they simply take all the joy out of life and make you wonder why Providence allows them to exist?

Annual Banquet Observed In Holiday Spirit

Another delightful affair inspired by the holiday season took place Tuesday evening, when the annual banquet and New Year's party of St. John's Bobys' Bible Clas swas held. Yuletide colors added a festive air to the Parish Hall, where banquet tables were in charge of members of the Women's Friendly Bible Class.

Percy Suddard's orchestra supplied merry music, and spot dances were won by Miss Bink Shadgett, Mr. Walter Howell; novelty dances by Miss Ruth Kingshott, Mr. Henry Mathias.

Among those present were: Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson, Rev. R. T. F. Brain, Mr. D. G. H. Melton, Mr. Gordon Clegg, Miss Nora Smith, Miss Dorothy Ridyard, Miss Eleanor Bacon, Miss Helen Fee, Miss Vivien Carter, Mrs. H. New Year's Dance In Masonic Temple

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 4.—The Masonic Temple formed the setting for the first dance of the New Year in Campbellford on Monday evening, when one hundred couples danced to the delightful music of Jack Grant's Aces, who were augmented by several vocal selections from Miss Monica DeCarrol. During the early part of the evening bridge was played in the lounge and Mrs. H. O. Richardson and Mr. W. S. Wiggins were announced the prize winners. Paper hats and noise makers were given the guests before the supper waltz. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. Howard Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Home and School Association News

At the first meeting for the new year of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association, held Tuesday evening, Miss Rachel M. Young, Superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, addressed the members. Miss Young traced welfare work among children since its beginning, explaining its growth and development. She outlined her own work through the Shelter, giving her hearers a very clear idea of the scope and character of the work being attempted through her department, and spoke of the part the Home and School Association might play in helping and educating mothers to be better homemakers.

A talk on parents responsibilities toward children who showed an apathy in their work was given by Mrs. C. McBride, who stressed the importance of giving children purpose, and making them self-sufficient. Proper emphasis should be placed on education and work, she said, education adds responsibility and direction to work.

The president of the Association, Mrs. V. R. Henry, was in the chair, and the meeting opened with "O Canada" and the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison. New Year's greetings were extended by the president in a fine reading entitled "Away to a Happy New Year." After routine business, the audience enjoyed a piano duet by Douglas Morrow and Jack Franks, and two violin solos by Lester Davis, accompanied by Mrs. W. Purdy. The meeting was closed with God Save the King. Mrs. E. Wellwood at the piano.

IS YOUR BABY GETTING A TOOTH?

YOUR BABY must "get a tooth". But he need not get a fever with it—if baby's mother is wise he won't.

Here is what one wise mother, Mrs. Archie Begbie, of Consecon, has to say: "We have not lost one night's rest through teething as I always use my old standby, Baby's Own Tablets. They are worth their weight in gold."

And Mrs. B. A. Sebine, of Galt, Ont., says: "I have given Baby's Own Tablets to my baby girl since she was three weeks old and, although she cut her teeth rapidly (all four molars at once) she has never yet wakened us at night. I would not be without these tablets."

Give these safe, sweet-tasting tablets at the first sign of teething fever. Easy to take, prompt in action, yet safe. Analyst's certificate in every package.

For Bad Winter Coughs, Mix This Remedy at Home

Quick Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This well known recipe is used by many thousands of housewives, because they have found that it gives them a much more dependable remedy for distressing winter coughs. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its effect on throat membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed.

Put the Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of cough remedy, unusually quick-acting and dependable, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be surprised by the way it takes hold of severe coughs, giving quick, satisfying relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please in every way.

Changing Sunday Laws

Hon. Gordon Conant, Attorney-General of Ontario, has made it plain enough that he intends to change some of our legislation governing what people can and cannot do on Sunday. He is of the opinion that the present situation favors the wealthy man and bears down on the one who has less. The more favored man can go to his golf club for recreation, to the trout streams, he can go yachting and skiing and he can drive away to lakes and rivers. So Mr. Conant believes the law should be changed so the man of more humble financial standing can have sport or recreation.

He may bring in legislation to permit games to be played on Sunday and so on. We have a feeling that Mr. Conant should do a good deal of serious thinking before he goes far with this question. There are always those who will see in the loosening of our Sunday regulations the opportunity to secure another day's trade in the week. If they see a crowd they immediately will think in terms of how they can capitalize on the presence of such a number of people.

Those who have had occasion to witness the rather wide-open Sunday in many of the cities to the south of us cannot but wonder if the change has brought them anything worth while or if the people are actually any happier or more contented. When there are demands made for changes in our laws—and there have been—then the public is entitled to know who is making the demands and for what reasons. Mr. Conant should make certain that he and the members of the Legislature take time out to give this business a thorough spell of hard thinking. Our Sunday in Ontario is a different day to others in the week. We have managed to maintain to a large degree the idea of a rest day and that was the original intention.

Three-Fifths Vote

Voters of the United townships of Burleigh and Anstruther decided they did not want beverage rooms to continue in their boundaries. The Examiner has received a rather pointed letter saying it was a foolish thing to do as it will drive trade to other places. But when the people themselves who live in the district have spoken there is as a rule little reason to find fault with their decision.

There are three licensed places in the district, Burleigh Falls and Viamede operating on the six months' basis and at Apsley there is yearly operation. There were 198 voting against the beverage rooms and 122 for them. In such a contest it is necessary to secure a three-fifths vote in order to change the existing condition, and the dry forces secured six more than the required number.

There is a good enough reason for requiring that three-fifth vote, and it works one way just as well as another. If it is desired in any future date to try and open the beverage rooms again then it will take a three-fifths vote to do it. It has the advantage of making certain that a reasonable majority of people have spoken and enforcement of law is always more readily secured as a result.

It is announced that the townships will become dry on the first of March, 1940, and there appears to be some confusion as to why that date is named, but it was frequently mentioned during the campaign and has not since been changed.

They Just "Disappear"

The Soviet officials have an unpleasant method of dealing with those who displease them. Such people disappear.

Mirkhail Kolstoff was sent to the scene of the war in Spain to report for the Soviet press, and he was a thoroughly good war correspondent. Those familiar with his work say he would work all manner of hours and take all possible chances near the front in order to get his facts as nearly as possible authentic. He had no desire to write propaganda, but merely to report events as he found them. He was recalled to Russia recently and the latest word is that "he has not been seen recently." He had been writing things exactly as they appeared to him but not as the Soviet masters wished them to appear to the Russian people.

The Russian cartoonist Efimoff, regarded as the leading satirical draftsman of his nation, was unfortunate enough to have published a bit of his sketching which did not appeal to the inner circle at Moscow, and we read that "Efimoff's work has not been seen recently, and is not likely to appear again."

In their own field these two, writer and cartoonist, were about the best the country produced, but in that land where we are so often informed they have a new and a better way of doing things these two talented individuals were probably taken out and shot. If there was a trial then the results would be known before the case commenced. All of which causes one to continue adhering to a strong preference for the order of rule and of life which we follow in Canada.

The Profit System

A Regina correspondent whose letter appears elsewhere on this page cannot agree with an article which recently appeared in these columns dealing with the case of a young man who had been offered $8 per week to learn a trade, something about which he knew nothing at all. Our correspondent is certain the offer of $8 per week is the outcropping of the capitalist system by which those who are possessed of money manage to live off the work of other people. In conclusion he says:

> "A business concern which cannot pay a living wage and still carry on is economically unsound at some other point and deserves to—yes, and must fail."

The Examiner is moved to doubt whether that claim is sound or whether it could be proved. There is a good deal said about the profit system, and it is one which lends itself to attack a good many times. But we are always brought back to face the stubborn fact that the profit system is the one under which business is carried on today and has been carried on for centuries. Actually we have no other means of doing business.

When a man or a company enters the business field there are two things which can happen (1) the income can be greater than the outlay, and then there are profits and the business can keep on going; or, (2) the expenses can be greater than the income in which case the business runs at a loss and it will fail. It also marks the difference between employment and unemployment.

Apart entirely from theories of how things ought to be done and might be done it is a plain fact that a business today must make a profit in order to remain, and it is also a fact that those people employed by an individual or a company help to bring that profit into existence. There is no secret about that. The copy which goes to make up the pages of this paper daily is largely produced on typewriters. A good many people are no doubt employed in making and assembling all the parts which go into one of these machines; then there are others who have places of business to sell them. There is no doubt that the price paid for a typewriter when it reaches this office is more than the machine actually cost and that is the reason why the company is enabled to keep on making them. It is not difficult to attack the profit system, but it is more difficult to show exactly how we can carry on business in a different or a better way.

When The Pump Froze

Reading about a fire in a farm house which was not serious, a correspondent wrote: "There was some delay getting water which had to be brought from a well at the barn as the pump just outside the house was frozen."

With all the improvements which are taking place today the wonder is that no bright mind has brought forth something which will keep a pump from freezing. It is an old habit and it was in existence even on Lot 4, Concession Ten.

The first chore in the morning there was to put on the fire in the kitchen range. Generally the kindling wood had been put in the oven the night before to dry out, and after it looked as though the fire had decided to burn the next thing was to put on the tea kettle. That meant going out to get water from the pump. That pump was not more than fifteen feet from the door after you stepped off the side porch, but on a cold morning it wouldn't budge and it would have to be thawed out. That meant getting hot water to pour in at the top and if the water pail was empty then how was one to thaw the pump to get more water?

It was a mean job at best. The pump was sensitive to cold; it would freeze when there wasn't any good reason for freezing. Moreover it always took the tea kettle an uncommonly long time to steam or boil on the morning the pump was waiting for a thawing out treatment. There were times during the dry season in summer when it had to be primed but priming wasn't a patch on thawing in winter. We have a sort of kindred and sympathetic feeling for the people who found their pump frozen when they wanted some water to douse a fire which had broken out in the kitchen and had to romp off to the pump at the barn to get it. Admittedly there were days when the same thing could have happened on Lot 4 Concession Ten.

The Deer's Lean Season

A worker in the bush north of Peterborough informed the Examiner that deer appeared to have a rather hard time just now. The snow is getting deeper in the district and that makes it harder going and also more difficult for the deer to eat. There are places where a fair growth of swamp hay has been left uncut, and there is some feed in such places, but when it gets covered deep with snow it is difficult to get at and the depth of the snow also makes it harder for deer to move.

The deer has no home and not very often do several of them travel together. Twigs from trees such as poplar are the favorite winter diet, but there is not a great deal of nourishment in that. Marks are often enough found showing where a buck or doe has been going down through the snow in an effort to get at moss, but admittedly there is little food value in moss.

We doubt whether bushmen or hunters would agree as to the amount of country which deer cover. One man who knows the country well was sure if pursued by a dog a deer would run in circles and do all manner of tricks to throw the dog off the trail, while another was just as certain that when a dog trailed a deer the deer would lose its head "and would probably run right clean out of the country."

Our informant from the bush said now and then he came across a place where a deer had put in the night. There would be a place where snow would have been somewhat scooped out with the feet and there the animal would rest for the night. Generally it is on rather high ground, and one settler says the deer generally stops for the night on the southern exposure of a hill where it would probably be less exposed to attack.

"From now until spring the deer will find it hard enough to keep going. Some of them will visit the farmer's hay stack if they get a chance," said our informant. "They eat a good deal of snow when drinking places near them become frozen, and at this season particularly the bucks get so thin that even a poacher would not consider it worth while taking one. They may lead a pleasant life at other times but the winter season is hard on them," he concluded.

NOTE AND COMMENT

What is described as a rare hot star is speeding away from the earth at the rate of 124 miles per second. Perhaps one good look at our foolish old world was enough for the celestial body.

We had 45 inches of snow in this city in 1938, while in 1936 the fall was 103.8 inches. Perhaps we should refer to the 1936 performance as a copious precipitation.

Butcher in Windsor was taking $100 receipts home from his store just as the New Year came in. A robber took it from him, so the gains of '38 became the losses of '39.

Lord Tweedsmuir shook hands with 790 men at a New Year's reception and one can only hope that the Ottawa handshake is not of the knuckle cracking variety.

A plaintiff in magistrate's court in Peterborough stated his case briefly and to the point: "He hauled off and pasted me." Grammarians may not agree, but we are certain the court knew exactly what was meant.

George Robey, English comedian, suffered three cracked ribs in an accident, and reports say he will be off the stage for three weeks. We rather admire that simple and direct method of calculation whereby one cracked rib equals one week off.

In Perth county two candidates for municipal honors were prevented by snow drifts from getting out to qualify for voting day. So now they are in the happy position of being able to think of what majorities they could have rolled up.

The mayor-elect of Powassan on the road to North Bay is 23 years old and he based his campaign on the claim he intended to get more of the tourist traffic to stop in his town. People going through there are on the way to see the quints, but perhaps they might be induced to stop over and have a look at a 23-year-old mayor.

READING

(By A.R.K.)

¶ My learned neighbor came to me, annoyed as any man could be, his talk was loud and rash; he spoke to me of literature, it should be kept quite sweet and pure, and free of modern trash.

¶ He took his grappling line and hooks, and punctured all detective books, they were not fit to read; they put bad notions in the head, caused sleep to leave when going to bed, and planted noxious seed.

¶ The folk should read the heavy stuff, of that he scarce could get enough, he always longed for more; he liked to stow it in his head, the things the greatest men had said, he always longer for more.

¶ I did not argue with my friend, but let him talk right to the end, just nodded now and then; he said he liked to talk with me, he felt before that I'd agree, and he would call again.

¶ And when he left I found my chair, likewise a book just waiting there, I wasn't half way through; detectives scaled up walls at night, prepared to shoot it out or fight, of murders there were two.

¶ Perhaps my friend was right enough, I should not bother with such stuff, I'll have to make amends; but I can't stop right where I am, I'll see if they can find their man—and learn just how it ends.

LOUIS BRAILLE, who devised the system of raised dots which enables blind persons to read, was himself blinded at the age of three. He published his famed system at the age of twenty.

◇ ◇ ◇

There are 114,000 blind individuals in this country. Three-fourths of them are unable to read by the touch system, many because they become sightless too late in life to learn.

◇ ◇ ◇

Beggars of Khartum, on the Nile river, sometimes make themselves blind in order to arouse the pity of the public and thereby increase the alms given them.

◇ ◇ ◇

The death rate among the blind in the United States and Canada is more than twice that of persons of normal vision.

◇ ◇ ◇

According to California's white cane law, blind pedestrians when carrying white canes, white canes tipped with red, have the right-of-way on all streets and public thoroughfares.

◇ ◇ ◇

The city council of Seattle, Washington, has passed an ordinance giving blind persons free rides on city street cars.

◇ ◇ ◇

There are 300 children in one institution for the blind—according to a circular issued by the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers—who will never see again because their eyes were put out by toy guns.

◇ ◇ ◇

Contrary to popular belief, the blind are not compensated by an increased sense of hearing and touch. Blind persons frequently make better use of their senses of touch and hearing than normal persons because they exercise greater attention.

◇ ◇ ◇

The notion, that in order to enjoy tobacco one must see the smoke, is exploded by the fact that many blind men are constant smokers and derive great enjoyment from it.

◇ ◇ ◇

In Germany people who are blind or deaf are required to wear conspicuous yellow bands on their arms on which are black dots resembling the road sign for forbidden thoroughfare. Drivers recognize the armlet and are especially careful when they see a person wearing one.

BUILDING SUBWAYS.

THE first New York subway was built and operated in 1904. When John MacDonald first proposed building the great subways of New York, engineers and financiers ridiculed him, they were unable to see how he could dig a tunnel the length of the island of Manhattan, under houses and skyscrappers, pipe lines and sewers, cables and gas and water mains. MacDonald's simple words convinced them. He said, "You have a cellar under your house, haven't you? And the people on either side of you have cellars, haven't they? It wasn't much trouble to dig them, was it? Well, I'm not figuring on digging any tunnel the length of Manhattan Island; I'm just figuring on digging a lot of cellars—and then connecting them."

◇ ◇ ◇

The tunnelling of the Moscow subway presented terrific obstacles. Much of the city's subsoil is quicksand, and in places there are rock beds. Rivers that once divided the city flow under the streets. On one occasion the subway diggers cut into a forgotten system of waterworks built in the 16th century by the mother of Ivan the Terrible.

◇ ◇ ◇

The Moscow subway, though it transports nearly half a million passengers a day, is as spotless as the day on which it was opened to the public. The no-smoking signs are so well obeyed that a case of smoking in the subway is front-page news. Discarded newspapers and rubbish scraps are never seen.

◇ ◇ ◇

London's subways display across the top of every subway car, on a board at the center, a complete list of stations on the line—in lettering large enough to be plainly read by passengers at each end of the car. Strangers in London who ride but one station on a subway know at a glance what stations are ahead of them and how many stops are yet to be made before their destination is reached.

◇ ◇ ◇

Russel Sage, famed financier exclaimed when the first subway was advocated, "New York people will never go into a hole to ride.... Preposterous!" Today, however, approximately 5,400,000 denizens of New York go down into "holes" to ride under the city's streets.

2,000-WORD SENTENCE.

—We read the other day a statement by E. P. Whipple that a sentence written or spoken by Rufus Choate is the longest in English literature. We believe that it was over two thousand words long.

The father of the present writer once told him that, after one of Mr. Choate's greatest flights of oratory, a group met to listen to the speech, but that the reader, for the life of him, could not read his sentences properly. Yet the speech itself, as delivered by Choate, roused a great audience into the highest pitch of enthusiasm.

This simply means that it takes a great orator to deliver effectively his own thought in his own way. More than one speaker who has employed a ghost writer has found difficulty in reading to an audience his sentences.

• Driving Britain and U.S. Together

THE latest Fortune poll hasn't received the attention it deserves. In answer to the question:

Should the Democratic Powers, including the United States, now stand firm together at any cost to prevent Hilter or Mussolini from taking any more territory at the expense of other nations?

The answers were: Yes, 56.3 per cent; no, 31 per cent; don't know, 12.7 per cent. In other words, the majority of the American people judged from this straw ballot, now believe in international co-operation.

As I write these last two words, says H. B. Elliston in Christian Science Monitor, my thought goes back to a few years ago, when the words condemned the user to the charge that he was an impractical idealist. Times have certainly changed! Fortune does not poll only idealist. It asks its questions of a cross-section of the general public. And, together with the Gallup organization, it has hitherto had a remarkable success in assaying thereby the drift of public opinion. Accordingly, we are justified in regarding this latest poll as a true reflection of what idealist and realist alike are thinking on external questions. It is the people themselves who have turned internationalists—for the time being, at any rate.

The turn is dramatic in its suddenness as well as in its expression. For years Fortune has been asking this or a similar question, and the consensus of the replies has hitherto been consistently isolationist. Through these surveys the American people have declared time after time their indifference or neutrality toward all foreign countries. Only in the last three months has the shift been registered. And it has been decided enough to be called "profound" by the Fortune editors.

Whence this switch of American sentiment about external affairs? Personally this writer always has contended that basically American public opinion has never been hardened in its isolationism. It was, I felt, at the mercy of events. And the obvious explanation of the switch is the event known as the peace of Munich. Two conclusions, I think, are tenable:

First, the American people feel that the Peace of Munich witnessed the resignation of Great Britain as the balancer of power in Europe; and that, therefore, the outer bulwark of America's external security had been breached.

Secondly, the American people feel that the manner in which Nazi doctrine is being pushed constitutes a threat to America's own internal unity.

Till Munich little thought had been devoted to the relations between the British and the American Commonwealths. The one has hitherto taken the other for granted. Among Americans the British Empire lately has seemed to be depending upon the United States to keep it going. "Pulling their chestnuts out of the fire," and "England expects every American to do his duty"—these were typical phrases in American a year ago. They were spoken by Americans as if America were on a planet apart.

Since Munich, however, Americans have realized that it was partly by grace of the British Commonwealth that the United States could feel like a planet apart. And suddenly there burgeoned a recognition of the true inwardness of the relations between the two Commonwealths. It was as if a bulwark had been breached visibly. The sight brought with it the realization that America from then on would either have to lead a new coalition or fend for itself. I do not see any other interpretation of the pell-mell reactions to Munich which have been expressed in the United States up to this final reaction of the Fortune poll.

• Does Not Believe In Profit Plan

EDITOR, Examiner: Sir: Many of your readers will hope that your recent editorial entitled, "A Young Man's Problem," does not represent your considered opinion. It may apply to an individual case but surely not in any general sanse.

One very general and equally false principle seems to be implied in your editorial; namely, that an employer is entitled to make a profit upon the labor contribution of his employees. This is typical of capitalist economy at its worst. The belief that only money is real wealth is general. I may have willing hands or a good mind but no money. In such a case my moneyed friends make bold to suggest that I enter a partnership with their money. Out of this partnership I am to get as little as the company can persuade me to accept so that the money invested may bring as large a return as possible. Put the shoe on the other foot and see how it fits. Suppose labor were better organized than capital. Then the labor could, and I fear would, (human nature being what it is) say, "Look here, Mr. Investor, you have $100, looking for work. We'll be glad to use it and pay it at the rate of 2 per cent. for the first year. Really we cannot give you more than this nominal rate because the chief mechanic doesn't know if he can use it profitably. (He does, in fact, but won't admit it.) After a year or so if things get better we'll be glad to let you have 2 1-2 per cent". (N. B. Things rarely get better.) To the investor this is not a serious matter. Under our present system that $100, possibly represents surplus income over and above what he requires for a comfortable living. Thus it is of no real consequence whether he gets a return for his surplus or not. With the laborer and average office employee it is different. Such a person offers to invest his labor in the hope that he may be able to gain a comfortable living and possibly provide for a family.

I know there are employers who deal justly with their men. There are many who strugg'e to pay a decent wage at great personal sacrifice. But over against these there is a vast horde of men who are living off the work of their fellow men. Such men live exceptionally well while our cities are scarred with slums and the hovels of the unemployed and the wage-slaves. These are the same men who contrive to dismiss their employees just before an increase in pay or superannuation is due.

The situation will continue just as long as men accept mere token payments for wages and while such things go on there will continue to be those spunky souls who protest in the name of humanity and often at cost to themselves. The day of the "RED SCARE" is over; "Red" is the color of the economic and political life of the future, the near future, unless fair play makes a belated appearance. It is time that employers ceased to hide behind the skirts of depression and such sentiments as those of your editorial. A business concern which cannot pay a living wage and still carry on is economically unsound at some other point and deserves; yes, and must fail.

Sincerely yours,
Churchman

NOT FAR BEHIND.

ONE of the best tokens of the New Year is the stiffened attitude of the United States toward the dictatorship states of Europe. This must be particularly pleasing to the many residents in our midst, those who hold United States citizenship papers. It might be appropriate for The Standard to say that while they have no voting powers, United States citizens holding forth in this community have given their best to all public endeavor. Certain names might be mentioned; that would be invidious. But United States citizens in this city are a great asset. The best of all, they like Canadians once they get to know them and their ways.

Should John Bull ever have to engage in a big war, well, Uncle Sam will not be far behind.

—St. Catharines Standard.

WHAT THEN?

A half-dozen Stratford motorists who surrendered to the storm at Peterabura, on No. 7 Highway, got in touch with C. N. R. officials and arranged to board a passenger train. Stratford Beacon-Herald reports that the C. N. R. operator at Petersburg station flagged the train but it did not stop. The travellers got out eventually on a freight, but failure of any train crew to stop when flagged is something that ought to be investigated. What if the signal had been on account of a stalled train or a bridge out?—Woodstock Sentinel.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men. Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid. Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house. Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven. . . .

And it came to pass, when Jesus had ended these sayings, the people were astonished at his doctrine: for he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes. . . .

When he was come down from the mountain, great multitudes followed him. And, behold, there came a leper and worsipped him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. And Jesus put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will; be thou clean. And immediately his leprosy was cleansed.—Matt. v, 13-16; vii, 26, 29; viii, 1-3.

LORDS WOULD GAIN.

IF R. B. Bennett, ex-Prime Minister of Canada, takes a peerage when he comes to live in his new Surrey home the House of Lords will gain a debater of great force and fluency. He is impressive in appearance, pugnacious by temperament, is a tectotaller, non smoker, and a bachelor. The law is his profession.

The fact that he is a very wealthy man is due first to the fact that 40 years ago he was offered a partnership by Sir James Lougheed, solicitor to the Canadian Pacific Railway; second, to a large legacy left him by a brother, and sister, Joseph and Jennie Shirreff, with whom he had established a devoted friendship in his youth.—News of the World.

FROM YEAR TO YEAR . . .

Many persons feel it wise to review their Wills once a year; for like everything else, Wills grow out-of-date. ¶ A Will that does not deal with circumstances as they are, at the least may be inconvenient, at the worst may be costly and cause hardship to the beneficiaries. ¶ We invite you to review your Will this new year with our officers. This Corporation has had a wide experience of the way in which Wills work out in practice. A consultation would enable you to see your own arrangements against the background of common experience and put you in the best position to take up the drafting of any necessary revisions with your solicitor. You will incur no obligation. In the interests of your family and estate put reviewing your Will first among the duties of the new year.

Girl Skiier Has Wild 90 Mile Ride After Accident Near Denbigh

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 4. — Suffering a broken ankle bone while skiing at Thirty Island Lake, west of Denbigh, 90 miles north of Belleville, Miss Mary Roberts of that city was rushed by sleigh and ambulance to the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday night, through one of the worst blizzards of the winter.

Miss Roberts fractured her ankle late Sunday afternoon. Martin's ambulance was sent to Denbigh through the storm after authorities failed to secure the services of an aeroplane due to lack of sufficient ice to provide a take off surface.

As it was impossible to drive the last three miles to the camp Miss Roberts was brought out on a sleigh. On the return trip the snow was so blinding that it was necessary to travel thirty-five miles in second gear. It took nearly six hours to make the ninety mile trip reaching the hospital on Monday morning at about 2.30 a.m.

Miss Roberts was spending the holiday on a skiing trip with other belleville members, who went to Thirty Island Lake on Saturday afternoon.

Bakeshop Burns

Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the bakeshop and equipment of the Madoc Bakery, property of Mr. Harry Govier, at an early hour Tuesday morning, the loss being estimated at $4,000.

The fire occurred at about 1.30 or two o'clock Tuesday morning, and spread with such rapidity, that it was impossible to save the building, which is situated some distance from the Govier home. A car was in the building and Jack Govier saved it by pushing it out, and was badly cut in the act.

Foot of Snow

Over a foot of snow covers Bancroft district at the present time, and traffic is being carried on with difficulty in the northern townships.

In the Tweed district a good foot of snow covers the district, and during the last twenty-four hours, an additional five inches of snow and sleet has made travelling difficult. The maximum temperature on Tuesday was zero, and at an early hour in the evening was 2 below, with the possibility of the lowest temperature of the winter being recorded Tuesday evening.

Week Of Prayer

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 4. — A small attendance marked the initial service in the week of prayer being conducted in Campbellford churches. On Tuesday evening inclement weather kept a large number from attending the service held at Christ Church where Rev. T. S. Gault addressed the gathering using as his text "Be Still and Know." Rev. Harold B. Neal of St. John's United Curch assisted in the service.

For Smart Slim Lines Eat Low-Calory Meals

Lose 10 Pounds in 5 Weeks

No, Mrs. Buxom, not even a whalebone corset can squeeze you into the new slim-waisted dresses.

But you could slip into them easily if you'd substitute delicious low-calory foods for the fattening ones you've been indulging in.

You'll never get slim on lunches like this one: Cream of tomato soup, 269 calories. Corn bread, 100 calories. Apple pie and cheese, 400 calories. Add to that your mid-afternoon cup of hot chocolate, 300 calories, and you have a total of 1,069 calories.

But you can really get slim on tasty low-calory meals like this one: Vegetable soup, 100 calories. Slice of rye bread, 38 calories. Delicious apple snow, 132 calories. Tea with a lump of sugar, 25 calories. Total only 295 calories.

You won't be tempted by second helpings, either, if you know such tricks as cutting down on salt—which whets the appetite.

You can easily slip off 10 pounds in 5 weeks on a satisfying 3-meals-a-day diet. Our 32-page booklet gives reducing menus for a 14-day period, 3-day liquid diet. Calory chart. Weight-building program too.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

I don't suppose you care for spiders very much. Most people don't. nid, the shadow-children, knew was nid, the shadow-children, knew was a famous spider.

Spider's house was pretty snug, even though it seemed quite airy when you looked at it from the outside. You see, it was really made up of two parts—an outside porch, which was formed of silken cords stretching from one side of the window to the other, and the spider's "parlor," which was a sort of tunnel also made of silken cords, but so closely woven together that they were like heavy cloth.

Invites Flies.

"Yes," it said to the two shadow-children who had made themselves small and had climbed up to the spider's porch and were sitting on one of the silken threads. "I always invite flies into my parlor. But very few of them like to come in."

Knarf and Hanid could easily

"Don't you ever take a walk?"

guess why the flies didn't care very much about coming into the spider's parlor.

Then Knarf said: "Don't you ever leave your web and take a walk?"

"I once did. I met a little girl. She didn't seem to like me at all."

"Oh! what was her name?" Hanid asked eagerly.

Pretty Little Girl.

"I didn't want to get her name. She was a pretty little girl. She was sitting on a little tuft of moss, under a shady tree, eating something white and creamy out of a little bowl. I guess it must have been her picnic lunch."

"And what happened? Did you go right up to her?"

"She looked like such a nice little girl—and so friendly—that I decided to sit down right beside her. So I came up very quietly until I reached the tuft of moss. Then I sat down beside her. And the next moment she spied me. Do you know what she did?"

"What did she do?" the shadows wanted to know.

"She screamed O-oh! Then she sprang up and ran away as fast as her legs would carry her. I didn't mean to frighten her. I just wanted to be friendly. And I do wish she hadn't run away before telling me her name."

The two shadows smiled. "But we know her name," they said. "It's little Miss Muffet!"

I'm quite sure that they were right, aren't you?"

ROMANCE INC.

BY OREN ARNOLD

CHAPTER 14.

SARA SUE DAVIS told herself that never in all her 23 years had she attended any social function as lovely as this. Not even when Larry had been courting her. For that matter, not many dances of this magnitude had ever been given in Houston.

"I am so happy, T.J!" she told him, squeezing his arm a little as they danced.

And he, poor fellow, misunderstood.

When she said that, a grand something welled within him. T.J. Sanders was inherently a gentleman, for all his noisy talk and banter at times. He was not noisy now. His rather pretty eyes were misty as he gazed down at his girl.

"Sara Sue!" he murmured. "Sara Sue."

It was all he could say, then. He held her a little closer and danced on. What he really wanted to say shouldn't be shouted, and he would have almost to shout to make her hear above the music and gaiety around them. "You're so sweet!" he whispered in her ear. She made no response. She was content just to dance on, happy in the companionship of youth.

She noted many of her own cottage customers present; boys and girls whom she had introduced and big-sistered along this fall. She knew that four or five fine romances had bloomed among them. Some of them had required spiritual nursing, but Sara Sue felt that she had brought happiness to most of them.

Bob Towne cut in then, and promptly announced, "I've got something important to tell you, when we get a minute, Sara Sue."

She just smiled. Bob was always full of "important" ideas. Good old Bob. She treasured his friendship. She wished he wouldn't make love to her. She had noticed how all the other girls seemed thrilled when Bob danced with them. Bob Towne, hero of the day. He who had grabbed a fast pass in the second quarter and fought his way for the game's only touchdown. "The best end man in the United States, law me!" Calulus Jones had declared exuberantly. People were saying exaggeration. People were saying Bob would surely make all-American.

The football team had ridden in cars to the big pep parade downtown, then had (under Coach Britt's orders) sprawled on their beds for an hour of rest, so that they could enjoy the dance. They had been individually introduced (as if they needed introduction!) when they came into the ballroom, the master of ceremonies making just the right little speech about each man. Similar courtesy was shown the Mexican players, who really had earned everybody's respect. Nobody could feel badly about losing a game, 6-0, against a team of Rice's calibre. The captain, Don Romero Celledor, had congratulated the winners, smilingly paid high tribute to their sportsmanishly, invited them to Mexico City another year. The applause had been prolonged.

"They are such courteous boys, the Mexicans, aren't they, T.J.?" Sara Sue was saying. "They bow and speak like knights or something when they ask for a dance."

Early she had noted Thornton Holgate dancing, and apparently enjoying himself. "High jinks, Thorny?" she called, in passing him. He smiled his happiness. She hadn't seen him lately, though. Sara Sue wondered where Peaches Pomeroy was. Peaches also had disappeared after the first long intermission. "I hope she doesn't manage to spoil Thorny's evening," Sara Sue mused.

She saw Marcia Gurley beaming like somebody's little sister, in the arms of a Mexican fullback twice her size. The big fellow had to bend away over to hold the dainty Rice girl. It was almost comical. "Twist him around your finger, Marcia, honey!" Sara Sue called. Marcia winked back. The music was fast now, and two couples could not stay near each other for long.

Sara Sue hadn't seen Worthington Gurley since he checked in her coat—she had teased him good-naturedly for being a slime—until this moment on the dance floor.

By chance now she saw him dart out of a hallway, pause a moment, then run toward the door. She thought that his expression was peculiarly strained. Oh, well, probably just the sophomores up to more devilment.

That was the moment when Worthington had just seen Peaches Pomeroy slip the bracelet in the lining of Sara Sue's coat.

He had watched Peaches in utter astonishment. And he had concluded, rightly, that this was no hazing stunt, not devilment, but Deviltry. He knew Peaches hated Sara Sue. He didn't know exactly what her plan was, but he knew that Peaches was working some diabolical scheme to discredit Sara Sue. When he discovered that, and when he had seen Peaches leave the checking room, young Worthington had hastened out in a sort of daze.

He really didn't give any thought to where he was going. Wrapped in a sense of great alarm, he just started running, kid like. In emergency a child runs almost anywhere, just runs.

He knew that he must do something; find somebody. He surveyed the dancers for a brief moment, then plunged on toward the stairway, not even waiting for the elevator. The University club is only one floor up from the street, anyway. In a few seconds he was on the sidewalk, but was confused. He had some vague idea of going for police. Police. Everybody thinks automatically of police, in moments of danger.

"Ahnn-n-h!" he suddenly groaned, though.

He had remembered his uniform! His monkey suit. His "buttons" — the bell hop suit in which sophomores had dressed him. Quite involuntarily he let embarrassment at that control him, so that he blushingly darted back up the stairs to the clubroom again. Some recess of his mind had reminded him that he was now a married man, who could not be seen on the street in bell hop uniform! His mind, and his body seemed to be whirling around in circles, not very logically. But Mister Worthington Gurley, married man, still was very young.

A swarm of dancers engulfed him then, so that he was swept dazedly into the gaiety. He elbowed his way through to a window on the opposite side. Peering down, he still saw no policeman. By this time he wasn't sure that he wanted a policeman, anyway. In fact, he didn't know what he wanted. His legs were impatient. He started running again, somewhere. Anywhere. A scared kid, with a tremendous secret. Very confused.

His wife Marcia saw him as she danced by. "Worthington — darling!" she called out. She sensed that he was in trouble. But he couldn't talk to Marcia now! He couldn't spoil her evening. He waved hastily to her, and darted away, pushing through the dancers again rather than going around. Several couples bumped into him, but he didn't notice. He could think of nothing but a diamond bracelet in Sara Sue's coat, and of the terrible look in Peaches' face.

Unconsciously, now, he pushed himself toward the men's lounge.

This traditional sanctum of privacy was around an L in the larger hall. An electric sign announced it. First there was a large luxurious smoking-loafing room. Then two or three smaler and semi - private rooms, where a man could snatch a 10-minute rest if need be, sprawled on a divan. Beyond this was the larger white-tiled washroom, with several rather large private compartments inside. The University club was indeed an elaborately outfitted place.

Worthington noted that even the front lounge was empty—hilarity had been too great outside for men to miss any of the fun by loafing—but he moved on past the smaller lounges into the tiled room. There —for want of something, anything, to calm his nerves—he paused at a fountain and swigged a long drink of ice water. This big room seemed deserted, too.

Should he telephone police? Or should he first go accost Peaches and tell her what he had discovered, threatening to expose her if she ever tried anything else sneaking on Sara Sue? Or should he go to Sara Sue and tell her? Or maybe to Bob Towne. Or T. J. Saunders, Sara Sue's escort. Gosh!

He drank some more ice water. He noted then that his heart was pounding.

During the few seconds he had stood there, a clicking noise had been coming from somewhere. An irregular click and slide, faint but noticeable. Except for the music now muted by doors and distance, this was the only sound in the big white washroom.

Click.

Unthinking, still confused and agitated by his other discovery, he moved to the private room door and opened it. He gazed down at a man.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, January 5.

The planetary configurations for this day are indicative of great advancement, progress and prosperity. Much personal preferment and esteem, as well as substantial gain, may be won by enterprise, initiative, resourcefulness, and ambition. New propositions of worth and importance are assured of the endorsement of those in high places, who may prove generous with capital. Originality, invention, and scientific developments may bring reward.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of great progress and prosperity. It is a time for pushing to nigh goals with the assurance of substantial support from capital or those in prestige and power. New projects, inventions, and scientific developments should flourish, bringing personal recognition and gratification. It should be a happy year, despite hard work and some obstructions.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, energetic, and have fine creative talents and much originality. It should be thoroughly practical and dependable.

"Believe mustard helped to save my little girl's life"

SAYS MONTREAL MOTHER

Little Lena Gluck lives with her parents at 4507 St. Urbain Street, Montreal. She is a pretty picture of happy health and her mother, Mrs. I. Gluck, says: "It's hard to realize that only two years ago, the child was seriously ill with acute congestion in the chest. I nursed her all through her sickness and the doctor's orders were to 'apply mustard poultices, three times a day'! I firmly believe this mustard treatment helped greatly in saving Lena's life!"

Lena's Father Swears by Mustard

While on a trip to the United States a while ago, Mr. Gluck developed a terrific pain near the small of the back. He tried various remedies, but the pain continued and he reached home, still suffering. Mrs. Gluck immediately clapped on a strong mustard plaster which, she declared, to his great relief, dispersed the pain at once. You can imagine what unshakable faith Mr. and Mrs. Gluck have in mustard after these convincing demonstrations. Let their success with this age-old remedy prompt you to have mustard on hand for relief if anyone in your household should develop winter ailments such as chills, epidemic colds, or catarrhal conditions.

Mustard is also useful as a relieving agent of neuritis, neuralgia, pains of rheumatism, arthritis, indigestion and lumbago. It is understood, of course, that your doctor should be consulted and particularly whenever there is a serious disorder or unusually severe pain.

133 Requested Free Service School Dentist

Percentage of public school pupils needing dental attention continued to be high when Dr. J. C. Green, dental officer, made his report to the board of education last night, this time on Prince of Wales school.

His report revealed that 80.9 per cent of all pupils examined needed dental attention of one kind or another. In 571 examined, he found 414 cavities in temporary teeth and 331 extractions necessary. In permanent teeth he found 1,092 cavities, nearly two for every pupil in the school, but only 89 cavities necessary. Of the 571 examined, only 109 needed no care.

Inspector K. S. Wightman, reporting on King George school, whose pupils had been examined previously by Dr. Green, revealed that most of the 306 pupils needing attention (out of 410 examined) have now been attended to.

His check-up revealed that of the 306 pupils, 133 had requested free care by the school dentist. Of this number 106 were approved, only 27 rejected. Thirty-eight brought reports from dentists that the work had been completed; two brought notes from parents to the same effect; 129 brought notes that the work will be done; three refused to take any action, and one had left the city.

Ex-King Is a Spaniard Again

From his Italian exile comes this most recent photograph of ex-King Alfonso of Spain; his son, Don Juan is with him. This is the first picture of the ex-king since General Francisco Franco of the Spanish insurgent forces gave him back his Spanish citizenship and private estates. Experts think if the throne is ever restored in Spain young Don Juan will become the new Spanish king.

Dr. Lumb Returned As Bancroft Reeve

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BANCROFT, Jan. 4.— Dr. S. S. Lumb was re-elected Reeve of Bancroft by a majority of one hundred and four votes over his opponet, W. E. Wiggins.

The councillors elected were George Brown, FGrank Towle, Norman Hawley and Theodore Tryon. This was one of the most keenly contested elections held in the village for some time.

Another Bad Night Could Get No Rest

To the thousands who toss, night after night, on sleepless beds and to whose eyes slumber will not come.

To those who sleep in a kind of way, but whose rest is broken by bad dreams and nightmares.

To those who wake up in the morning as tired as on going to bed, we offer in Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills a remedy to help soothe and calm the nerves and bring them back to a perfect condition, and when this is done there should be no more sleepless nights due to shattered nerves.

Two Ennismore Schools Stage Lively Christmas Concerts

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ENNISMORE, Jan. 4.—The pupils of S.S. No. 2 reflected great credit upon themselves and their teacher, Mr. M. J. Cavanagh, by the excellent manner in which they carried out the program of their Christmas school concert. The opening number was a chorus by all the pupils. Recitations were given by Romeo Sullivan, Billie Young, Joseph Murphy, Bobbie Young, Stephen Morrissey, Theresa Sullivan and Bobbie Cadigan. Patsy Gannon delighted those present with a song, "I've Got a Pocketful of Dreams.

A somewhat novel number was a mouth-organ solo by Jack Flood. Two comic dialogues, "The Census Man" and "Deaf as a Post," were attractive numbers, as was also a playlet by Grade V children. Ten boys took part in "Rhythmical Exercises. "Silent Night' 'was chosen as the closing chorus.

S.S. No. 4 Concert

Supervised by their teacher, Miss Nell Conway, the pupils of S.S. No. 4 delighted their parents and friends with the production of their annual Christmas school concert. The program opened with a chorus, "See Amid the Winter Snow"; a reading, "The Story of Christmas" was contributed by Norma Crough; other readings were "The First Christmas," Rita Murray; "The Little Town of Bethlehem, Marie Flynn; recitations given were "A Short Speech" by Lenore Murray; "High Diddle-Diddle," Dorothy Crough; "Christmas Troubles," Alma Twomey; "Christmas Eve," Mary Costello; "If You're Good," Rita Murray; "The Cause of Tears," Theresa Crough; "Christmas Folk Song," Florine Killen; "Not So Easy," Jim Ayotte. Ethel Cavanagh and Florine Killen enlivened the program by the dancing of "The Highland Fling. "Two dialogues, "Cousin Imogene's Dinner" and "The Minister's Mistake" were much applauded numbers.

Olive and Alma Murray, twin sisters, sang, "Memories of My Little Grey-Haired Mother in the West"; Chorus numbers were "Jolly Old Fellow"; "Fairy Snowflakes" and the closing chorus, "The Christmas Bells." Harold Killen and Earl Twomey sang "Old Zip Coons."

away. The probability is the Quints will not see their King and Queen as Dr. Allan R. Dafoe, their physician, said at Callander last night he could not expose the children to the dangers of travel.

Since announcement of the royal tour was made on October 8 it has been reported frequently but never officially announced that the Royal Couple would visit the Quints.

May Need 3 Trains.

Two and possibly three royal trains will carry the King and Queen, their retinue, officials and newspapermen across the Dominion.

After their arrival at Quebec, May 15 they will spend a day there and, after a short stop at Three Rivers, will spend almost nine hours in Montreal, May 16. They will arrive in Ottawa on the morning of May 17 and spend 3½ days there, including May 20 when the King's birthday will be celebrated. The visit in Ottawa will be the longest of their tour.

Leaving May. 20, their majesties will spend 8½ hours in Kingston on the next day and follow with an 8½-hour visit to Toronto May 22. They visit Port Arthur and Fort William on May 23 and arrive in Winnipeg the next day.

They will touch Regina, Moose Jaw, Medicine Hat and Calgary on their way across the prairies, spend May 28 at Banff, make a short stop at Kamloops and reach Vancouver, May 29.

After a day and a half in Victoria they will start back across the continent, visiting Edmonton, Saskatoon, Sudbury, Guelph, Kitchener, Stratford, London, Ingersoll, Woodstock, Brantford and Hamilton on their way to Niagara Falls where they enter the United States June 7.

They will re-enter Canada on June 12 to visit Sherbrooke, Lewis and Riviere du Loup in Quebec on their way to the maritimes where they will visit Moncton, Fredericton, Saint John, Charletown, Pictou, New Glasgow and Halifax.

OBITUARY

ANSON DELINE.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 4.—The death occurred at his home in Marmora village on Monday evening of Anson Deline, who in a week's time would have attained his seventy-eighth birthday. He passed away after an illness of only a week's duration.

Mr. Deline was born in Belmont township, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Deline. For most of his life his occupation was farming, but on moving to Marmora village about seventeen years ago, took up gardening. He was of a quiet yet pleasant disposition and will be missed in the village of his adoption.

He is survived by his widow, three sons, Carl and Clifford Malone and Warden at home, and one daughter, Mrs. Emma McGowan, Havelock. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. J. Davidson, Havelock, and Mrs. W. King, Blairton.

The funeral service will be held in the Free Methodist church, Marmora at 2 p.m. on Friday with interment following in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

JOHN DOWNARD.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, January 4.—After an illness extending over a year, John Downard, well-known farmer of Marmora Township passed away at his home about 6 a.m. on Tuesday.

Mr. Downard who was sixty-five years of age was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Downard and lived all his life in Marmora Township. He was of a bright and cheery disposition and was industrious in his habits. For a number of years he was a member of Marmora and Lake Township Council.

He was a member of Holy Trinity Anglican Church, North Marmora, and in politics was a Conservative.

He is survived by his widow, one brother, James, Marmora Township, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Walsh, St. Catherines, and Mrs. William Burns, Marmora.

Funeral service will be conducted by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell in St. Paul's church, 2 p.m. on Thursday. Interment will take place in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

Bancroft Youth Dies Of Injuries

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BANCROFT, Jan. 4.—Garl, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Parks of Prince's Lake, passed away in the Red Cross hospital here on Saturday morning following an accident two weeks ago in which his stomach was pierced with a sharpened sleigh stake.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon in Mount Pleasant cemetery. He is survived by his parents and ten brothers and sisters.

Program Short At Ottawa But Important

OTTAWA, Jan. 4 (CP)—Legislation having to do with relief and employment promises to feature the government's program for the session of parliament which opens Jan. 12. Drastic changes in the administration of relief and substantial works expenditures are expected.

A short but important program is believed likely. It will be brief as possible in view of the government's hope that prorogation may be reached before the royal visit in May and important in view of the likelihood that a general election will follow shortly after.

Trade and defence will also furnish plenty of material for debate. The new Canada-United States agreement requires ratification by parliament and some supplementary legislation will be necessary to carry out obligations entered upon in that pact and in connection with the Anglo-American trade agreement.

Speculation over defence estimates has placed the likely appropriation as high as $60,000,000. In the past two years this vote reached a new high at around $34,000,000 for each year. And the increase aroused bitter debate with much of the opposition coming from French-speaking Liberal members.

Whatever amount is decided upon it is believed certain it will be considerably above last year's vote but in view of critical events of the last year the opposition to this form of expenditure may have dwindled.

The government's legislative program is always a closely guarded official secret until the speech from the throne is read by the governor-general on opening day. Even then the entire government program is not always revealed.

Relief Measures

It is certain, however, there will be an unemployment relief measure, coupled with legislation for agriculture relief and farm rehabilitation, since these measures are always enacted from year to year.

A strong rumor has circulated that the government will propose to the provinces a new relief and employment system administered federally and linking up the government employment offices with relief disbursements so there may be a direct opportunity to ascertain the possibility of a relief recipient placing himself in gainful occupation.

In view of the desire for speedy prorogation the government may not proceed with employment insurance legislation proposed a year ago but balked by the refusal of Alberta, Quebec and New Brunswick to approve the necessary constitutional amendment. It is expected, however, an effort will be made in one form or another to further this project.

A new customs act has been promised and a committee has been working on it for a year. But it may be delayed since this would prove a huge task and require lengthy consideration in parliament. Legislation has also been promised to remove or control the profit motive in munitions manufacture.

There will be the usual amending act dealing with the criminal code, some changes possibly in the Canada Grain Act and clear indication has been given that parliament will be asked to consider some settlement scheme, possibly involving the entry of refugees from Europe.

A public works program on a larger scale than any in recent years, probably including further work on the trans-Canada highway and the Canadian National Railways terminal in Montreal, has been freely forecast.

Wake Up with ENO'S 'Fruit Salt'

Gale Sinks Ships

ISTANBUL, Jan. 4 — (CP). — Storms sweeping over the Black Sea drove 13 large cargo ships ashore today and smashed hundreds of smaller craft. Many seamen were missing in addition to 22 drowned yesterday.

A score of persons lost their lives when the steamship Milliet smashed up against a wrecked craft near the shore. Seriously damaged, the Milliet went to the bottom within a few minutes.

Fears of other shipping tragedies were increased when weather stations said the tempest did not show signs of abating.

Club At Ennismore Enjoys Social

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ENNISMORE, Jan. 3.—On Friday evening the club met at the home of Connie O'Rielly, when another very pleasant social evening was enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. O'Rielly in their usual good-natured manner, extended a most hearty welcome to the guests.

Card prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Brick and C. O'Rielly. Assisting the hostess and her daughters Margaret, Gloria and Helen to serve lunch were Mrs. James Harrington, Sr., and Mrs. J. Hoar.

To Explore Amazon

ABOVE, Bessie Owen, outstanding U.S. woman pilot, is pictured on her arrival in Los Angeles to make final adjustments on her plane before entering the Miami air races. Mis Owen stated that, following the races, she planned to fly to South America and up the seldom-explored Amazon river. She stated that the trip would be designed as a pleasure flight. Miss Owen expects to be accompanied by Elmer Jeffries, Santa Barbara flier.

Adult night classes are being organized in Panama.

Belmont Vote Is Unchanged

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 4.— Although returns from poll No. 7, at Lasswade, had not reached returning officer Grant Dafoe, the standing of the candidates in the Belmont-Methuen election cannot possibly be affected by the vote in that district, and the election of Reeve Isaac Anderson and Councillors Donald Plunkett, Carl Purdy, Floyd Steenburgh, and Joseph McNeely is definitely known.

Returns from polls at Oak Lake and South Lake which reached Havelock Tuesday gave the above candidates decided majorities. Heavy snow falls blocking side-roads in this district, and no other means of communication with Lasswade, situated in a remote part of Methuen township, has hindered the early election returns from that centre.

Total vote taken by the candidates with the exception of the Lasswade poll, is as follows:

For Reeve:

Isaac Anderson	333
W. E. Griffith	221

For Council—

D. Plunkett	302
C. Purdy	275
F. Steenburgh	271
J. McNeely	199
R. McArthur	188
F. Sophie	171
T. Bannon	164
E. McLaughlin	129

Finland entertained 62,580 foreign visitors in the first eight months of 1938, which is 4,000 more than in the corresponding period of 1937.

Ease CHEST COLD misery

Then, to make its long-continued poultice-and-vapor action last even longer, spread a thick layer of VapoRub on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. This also gives the skin extra protection against chilling.

Long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps on working—loosens phlegm—eases muscular soreness or tightness—clears air-passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion.

VICKS VAPORUB

WITH UNITS RANGING FROM ½-TON to 3-TONS

Big truck news for 1939 is the addition of a Three-Tonner to the Ford V-8 truck and commercial car family. Introduction of this new Truck enables the Ford line to meet more than 95% of all commercial requirements. Whether your jobs call for light-duty units of ½-ton or 1-ton rating, or heavy-duty haulers up to 3-ton rating, you can depend on getting the exact equipment you need with the economy and reliability for which Fords are noted. Ford equipment now gives you a choice of 61 different units, three clutches, three transmissions and six rear axle ratios, as well as various wheel and tire sizes.

You get more economy, longer engine life, greater reliability in the new Ford trucks. The 85-hp. V-8 engine in 1½-ton trucks, and the 95-hp. V-8 engine in 2-ton trucks have been improved. Incorporated in the new V-8 100-hp. 3-ton Truck engine are all the latest truck engine refinements. Crankshafts are larger and heavier, with increased main-bearing diameters. Tungsten steel valve-seat inserts are used on all valve-seats. New piston rings give even greater oil and all-round economy.

Big, powerful hydraulic brakes—precision built to Ford standards—are new. Clutches are improved. Add these advances to such regular Ford truck features as the deep rugged frame torque-tube drive, full-floating rear axle with straddle-mounted pinion and worm-and-roller steering, and you've got a real truck! Your Ford Dealer will arrange an "on-the-job" test for you. See him.

BOARD OF EDUCATION HAS A BALANCE OF $9,970.67

Main Street Topics

By Examiner Reporters

MOTORIST FINED.

On a written plea of driving without lights Jewell Windover, Burleigh was fined $2 and $2.50 in traffic court here this morning.

CASE ADJOURNED.

At the request of the defendant a charge against Robert Calvert of trapping without a license, laid by Fish and Game Overseer I. J. Lyons was enlarged until January 11.

A NEW COP.

An entry in the police blotter of Tuesday, January 3 officially recorded the arrival last night of a seven-pound baby boy to Traffic Officers and Mrs. Archie Menzies. The visit of the stork was set down in the police log book under the heading of "XA new cop".

NAMED TO LIBRARY BOARD

W. G. Morrow was re-appointed for a three-year term as the Board of Education's representative on the public library board, at the Board of Education meeting Tuesday night. W. A. Richardson moved the appointment, which carried unanimously.

A NEW YEAR'S BABY

Peterborough did have a New Year's baby after all. At 5 o'clock on New Year's morning a baby girl was born to Mrs. Charles Collins on King street. Not in hospital there was no way in which the Examiner could check for this birth. Both mother and daughter are doing well.

REQUIRED FOUR STITCHES

St. John's Ambulance Corps first-aid men had only one chore at Tuesday night's exhibition senior hockey game in the Brock Street rink. In the third period, Bill Roberts of the Toronto team was clipped accidentally over the head and the cut required four stitches by the club's surgeon to close.

WILL DRAW PRIZES.

J. J Duffus, M.P., has kindly consented to draw the prizes at tonight's benefit hockey game at Brock street rink between St. Michael's Buzzers and the Peterborough Colts, the proceeds of which are to go to the fund for German refugees. The game will start on time, as St. Mike's team left Toronto right after luncheon to-day.

TRIBUTE TO H. G. WALKER

Chairman Dr. G. R. Scott, singled out H. G. Walker for special praise at the Board of Education's meeting last night. Dr. Scott said that as chairman of the property committee during the past two years Mr Walker had worked more than any other member of the board, visiting each school countless times, improving conditions under which pupils study. He thanked the board members for their co-operation during his two-year term as chairman.

ANOTHER REMAND.

Ralph Solerow, charged with theft of merchandise from Pattenick's store was remanded until Thursday of next week when his case was called before Magistrate O. A. Langley in police court this morning. W. B. Gordon appeared on behalf of the accused who elected trial by the magistrate and the remand was arranged by agreement between Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. and Mr. Gordon. Bail was renewed at $1,000.

COAL SCATTERED.

As a delivery truck for a local coal firm sped up George street this morning two bags of coal dropped off the back and then as he turned a corner two more bags were dumped into the snow. Unconscious of the fact that he had lost 400 pounds off his load, the driver blithely continued on his way. Fortunately a good Samaritan who saw the coal on the road called up two or three coal companies and finally located the firm concerned and the fuel was salvaged.

REQUEST RETURN OF CUT.

Teachers in the city's schools made a move to have the remainder of their salary cut—now five per cent of their salaries—restored this year. A letter to the Board of Education was read at Tuesday night's meeting in which Dr. Kenner said his staff had requested him to make application for the return of the cut. They pointed out, he said, that city employees' pay cuts had been restored in full last year. Similar letters from secretaries of the public school teaching staff were read and the matter was referred to a committee.

NEW YEAR'S BRINGS NO JOBS

The new year has not brought jobs to many of Dan Douglas' regular callers at the Employment Service of Canada. "Things are very quiet," he said today. Complete new registration of all persons is being carried out by the Service at the present time, involving much clerical work. Each person registered must renew his card or his name will be taken from the roll. In such fashion is the roll kept up to date, for often persons registered will secure employment for themselves and will forget to cancel their registration at the Service.

ALLIOW TEAM TO USE "GYM"

The Board of Education came to the rescue of the C.G.E. girls' basketball team Tuesday night when they granted them permission to play two schedulled games at the P.C.I. gymnasium this month, providing satisfactory arrangements can be made with Principal Dr. Kenner, and on payment of $10 rental for each game. The games were to have been played in the Y.W.C.A. but the building has not yet been completed. A request by the Y.W.C.A. for use of the gym two or more nights a week for basketball practice was referred to a committee for further information.

Only Seven Of Forty Members Of 1938 Counties Council Will Not Sit With New Council

Only seven of the forty members of last year's council of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham will be missing when the roll is called for the January sessions which are expected to open on Monday the sixteenth. That high percentage of survival seems almost a record in itself, but more striking in the merging of the two administrations was the fact that only one of the 1938 reeves went down to defeat, and that was W. Arthur Wood of Cavan Township; who was "liquidated" municipally by his Deputy, Garnet Shield.

Actually, one other member of the old council suffered defeat, but that was Roy Dodge of Cobourg, deputy-reeve last year, who attempted to climb up another rung in the lake town's civic ladder, but encountered in Reeve Leslie H. Wilson ar opponent who has the confidence of Cobourg people to such an extent that he has not yet lost an engagement.

Warden Retired.

So, introductions will be few at the convocation of the new council. By way of a brief review of the changes, Warden J. F. George retired as reeve of Brighton Township, and has been succeeded by his Deputy, Percy Gooding. The new Deputy is Clayton Taylor, who was elected by acclamation.

In Percy Township Reeve Ray R. Mallory decided he had served long enough and made way for his Deputy, Alf. Merrill and the new Deputy, Thomas McMillan, who was elected by acclamation.

Reeve J. A. Devincy quit in Haldimand, advancing by acclamation Stanley McBride, the deputy-reeve of last year, whose place has been taken by Mackenzie Rutherford, who was promoted without a contest.

In Port Hope, Deputy-Reeve R. J. Edmunds tossed his hat into the mayoralty ring and was overwhelmed by Mayor Bennett. The Deputy-Reeve is H. R. S. Ryan, a young lawyer of the town, another of the acclamations.

Capt. H. Snider of Brighton village withdrew from council affairs and is succeeded by Frank T. Tougas, elected without opposition.

The acclamations summarized are: Thomas McMillan in Percy; W. W. Brown in Cavan; Mac Rutherford in Haldimand; F. T. Tougas in Brighton village; Clayton Taylor in Brighton Township; H. R. S. Ryan in Port Hope; and John Ewart elected Deputy-Reeve of Cobourg by acclamation to succeed Roy Dodge.

Challenges Rejected.

Seven reeves in the twin counties were challenged by ballot and six of them came through with victories. They were Wesley Pacey in Alnwick; Reeve Herman Morrow and Deputy-Reeve W. A. Smith in Murray Township; L. H. Wilson in Cobourg; Charles Quinn in Cramahe, and Reeve J. N. Greenaway in Port Hope.

Reeve Wilson was opposed by his Deputy, Mr. Dodge; Reeve Quinn by Gordon Honey, who had been Deputy several years ago; and Reeve W. A. Wood by his Deputy, T. G. Shield; and Mr. Shield was the only one who managed to push the Reeve off the peak of the municipal heap.

They say that Cavan didn't generally expect an election, although within a year or two some change was bound to take place. But, when W. W. Brown moved up from the council to battle for the Deputy's chair, apparently Mr. Shield decided he might as well go after the Reeve's job. And so, Arthur Wood disappears from the picture. He was a capable and friendly representative who made a lot of friends in the "Little Parliament."

Northumberland:

Alnwick—Reeve W. J. Pacey.

From several sources the Examiner has obtained the opinion that this year's council carries a Conservative majority.

The Rambling REPORTERS

PREPARED FOR THE JOB.

A boy who is prepared for anything, who is ready to overcome any obstacle in order to see that his customers receive their Examiner these nights when roads are piled high with snow, is Kenneth Rose.

Kenneth's paper route lies in part on streets back of Nicholls hospital, and apparently the sidewalks are in bad shape, for yesterday he turned up for his papers carrying a shovel, prepared to dig his way to his customers if necessary.—P.

COLD DAY, COLD EATS

A young girl who, by-standers thought, must have a sadistic turn about her somewhere, sent shivers down the collective spines of a group of grown men when she walked into Dick Raine's store on George street Tuesday afternoon.

A bitter wind was whistling down from the north-east and when she opened the store door she let in a blast of cold air that made patrons shiver and papers rattle on the shelves.

Slamming the door with a vehemence that sent all the cold air scurrying for every nook and cranny in the store, she turned about, her face red with cold, snow still clinging to her clothes, and she piped out: "One Eskimo pie, please."—P.

In the book Tom Sawyer, the author says, "They came to jeer me but remained to whitewash" but here is a story of man who willingly unloaded a transport, 400 cases of canned goods because he wanted some exercise. Last Monday the load arrived at a local warehouse but the employees were off duty. Don Ross, Don Kennedy and Jack Kirkwood proceeded to the building intending to check the load, but when Kirkwood saw the truck, he peeled off his coat, rolled up his sleeves and went to work. The husky ex-rugby player earns his daily bread selling insurance and evidently felt the need of strenuous exercise. Don Ross sat on a box and checked the cases as they passed him, while the third member of the trio Don Kennedy double checked the load from a sitting position on another box. Not content with moving 400 cases of canned goods which weighed 40 pounds apiece, Kirkwood that night took top honors in a jitter-bug contest at the Kawartha Club and was still dancing after all the other contestants had wilted. He is looking forward to a bumper week at his regular job insuring people's lives. —McG.

Omemee Minister Preaches In St. Paul's

The week of prayer service was held in St. Paul's Church Tuesday night. Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr conducting the service assisted by Ald. James Dutton and Revs. J. H. Sutcliffe and M. C. Parr.

The address was given by the Rev. J. M. Young of Omemee, who took as his subject, "The secularizing influence at work today relating to the Sabbath, the family bond, and the inequalities of wealth in society."

People, he said, are asking for organized games on the Sabbath in the interests of the poorer people. It is significant that these folk acquire an interest in the poor when it suits their own purpose. The working people are not clamouring for Sunday games, he said. They have Saturday afternoon and during the summer they have plenty of time in the evenings for play. The new movement will have a destructive effect upon religious worship and Sunday School work.

Speaking on the family Mr. Young quoted the words of Jesus in St. Mark's gospel: "What therefore God hath joined together let no man put asunder."

Dealing with the economic conditions in modern society he said that the prophets of the Old Testament, Isaiah, Hezekiah, Hosea, and Amos had spoken out against the oppression of the poor and the luxury of the rich.

The service tonight will be held in Knox United Church and the Rev. L. F. Kidd, B.A., of Toronto, editor of the Canadian Baptist, will give the address.

MONSTER STEEL BEAM.

Traffic was temporarily halted on George Street on Tuesday when workmen at the Royal Theatre were unloading a steel beam that stretched from one side of George Street to the other. The steel was supplied by Frankel Brothers of Toronto and will be used to support the gallery of the new theatre.

Over 200 Lost Keys Are Being Held At Police Station

WHEN folk lost their keys they go everywhere but the police station to look for them," remarked Police Inspector James F. Reid, to-day as he opened two large tins full of keys picked up on the streets and left by the finders at the police station.

A little counting revealed the fact that there were over 200 of all types of single keys in the assortment as well as nine key cases, the latter containing a variety of keys.

Car keys, house keys, office keys for Yale locks, they are all to be found in the collection at the police station and apparently the original owners have never taken the trouble to make an inquiry there. Some of the found keys have been kept at the station for years, others are of recent vintage. Possibly yours may be there.

Auto Travel Is Impossible On Many Roads

Rural mail delivery has been crippled by weather conditions since Sunday night and on Tuesday many rural mail carriers battled in vain to get the mail through.

On Monday morning the temperature dropped to four below zero and the snow which fell from Sunday night to Monday morning amounted to five and a half inches. On Tuesday more snow fell adding three and a quarter more to the total.

Strong winds piled the snow from fence top to fence top across many north and south roads making travel over them by auto impossible. The main roads, however, have all been plowed and the mail carrier was able to get through to Warsaw. The Lakehurst route was the most difficult and on Tuesday the driver did not get any further than Bridgenorth on the return trip. Few of the routes could be covered from start to finish but all rural carriers were on the job and it is expected with the aid of farmers the roads may be open before Thursday noon.

Ivan Fletcher, completely recovered from a charge of birdshot fired from a shotgun accidentally at a shooting match near Keene is making the trip every morning from the village to this city carrying pupils to the high school. He claims the roads are heavy but passable and it is understood he is driving north on the Sixth Line out of Keene and coming in No. 7 Highway.

Other bus lines operating out of the city are getting through regularly, some of the drivers being a little behind schedule but are doing well in view of the amount of snow.

Seven Below This Morning

Factory workers held their ears and covered most of their faces this morning as they hurried to the factories and shops and the mercury dipped to seven below, the lowest so far this year. This gives sub-zero weather fo rtwo consecutive days.

Peterboro' Lodge To Visit Madoc

A contingent of members from the Peterborough Lodge I.O.O.F. will visit Madoc Wednesday evening to present to the Madoc Lodge, a Travelling Pedestal as a memento of goodwill.

The pedestal was put in circulation by the Forest City lodge of London, Ontario in November of 1924 and has been travelling among the different lodges in Ontario ever since. The local lodge obtained the pedestal in November of 1933 and will now pass it along to the Madoc lodge.

The members will also confer the initiatory degree when they visit Madoc. It is expected at least 25 will make the trip.

TRUCKS DAMAGED.

A truck owned by Norman McConkey and driven by Jack Leahy, 471 Rogers Street, travelling west on Robinson Street collided with a Peterborough Fuel and Transfer truck at Mark Street on Tuesday, and both machines received considerable damage to fenders, headlights, and axles.

Man Sentenced To 15 Days On Assault Count

Fifteen days in jail was the penalty imposed upon Joseph Robertson by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in Tuesday afternoon's session of the Police Court, after His Worship had convicted Robertson on a charge of assaulting Fred Steinkrauss of Smith Township, occasioning actual bodily harm.

Robertson, addressing the court after the sentence had been announced, declared that he would enter on appeal.

When the afternoon session opened Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C., argued that the charge against Robertson had been amply proven and pointed out that the accused had been convicted previously on a charge of assault, and on that occasion had escaped with a fine.

In giving judgment Magistrate Langley said that he was satisfied that there had been no assault committed by Steinkrauss upon the accused. Even if there had been, however, he was convinced that Robertson had used far more force than would have been necessary in self-defence. When Steinkrauss had ordered the accused from his place it was Robertson's clear duty to have gone away.

"I am not guilty and I think you know it," said Robertson to the court when asked if he had anything to say before sentence was passed.

"What do you mean?" asked Magistrate Langley, and without waiting for an answer turned to Crown Attorney McElderry with the question: "Do you think this man should be tried for contempt of court?"

Robertson explained that he was not trying to show contempt of court.

"In spite of your attitude," said the Magistrate, "I am going to deal rather leniently with you. I am going to sentence you to fifteen days in jail."

"I am going to appeal. I'm not guilty," protested Robertson as he was escorted out of the court room.

Chemical Plant Will Re-open

LINDSAY, Jan. 4.— It is announced that the Standard Chemical Company plant at Donald, Haliburton county, which has been closed down for some time, will resume operations shortly. A number of men have arrived from outside points to work in the plant. It will be operated until spring.

E. W. Jennings, Inspector of Public Schools for West Victoria, has tendered his resignation to the Department of Education. This step has been taken because of ill health. He was a teacher of English and history in the local Collegiate for fourteen years.

Village Clerk Dead.

J. J. Ruan, clerk of the village of Woodville, dropepd dead on the village street. He was walking home from a store with a few friends when he dropped quietly to the ground. The deceased was in his sixty-fourth year and is survived by his wife and one son.

The death is announced in Aps township of Charles Henry Austin. The deceased was born in Verulam, where he conducted farming for some years. In 1916 he moved to Peterborough, later taking up residence in Lindsay. About a year and a half ago he moved to Ops. He is survived by his wife, two daughters and two sisters.

ABSENT-MINDED.

Window cleaners in this city are either very absent-minded or else they feel sure their equipment will never be stolen. On Tuesday one man was working above Hunter Street on George. His brush was setting in front of the Home Lunch. His pail was half a block further south and near Zeller's store, another piece of window washing equipment was standing against the wall. At several other periods when the equipment is seen strewn along the main street, there is no sign of the window washer, but he always gets his equipment.

Father Dies On Same Day That Daughter Is Re-Elected To St. Catharines Council

It is an ironic twist of fate that on the same day that a former Peterborough girl was re-elected to the aldermanic board of the city of St. Catharines with the second highest vote recorded, death should call away her father also a former resident of this city.

Miss Estelle Cuffe was on Monday re-elected to a position in the St. Catharines council and that morning her father, B. Tarleton Cuffe passed away.

Mr. Cuffe was born in Hastings but for a long period he was a resident of Peterborough, before leaving here ten years ago to make his home in St. Catharines. He was a member of St. John's Anglican Church there.

He was married in 1888 to Harriet Drope and they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last year.

The surviving relatives are his widow, and six daughters, Mrs. J. P. Nichol, Toronto, Mrs. Clair Stuart, Peterborough, Mrs John McVean, Dresden, Ont., Mrs. E. L. Vetter, Hampstead, Montreal and Miss Estelle and Miss Kathleen, St. Catharines. One brother E. P. Cuffe and one sister Miss Ena Cuffe, Norwood also survive.

The only son of the deceased enlisted in Peterborough with the 8th C.M.R.'s and was killed in action overseas in 1916 The funeral took place this afternoon in St. Catharines.

Two Scholarships In English Presented To Board In Memory Of Late Teacher

Peterborough Collegiate students will have two more scholarships to battle for in their senior years in future, as a result of the generosity of Mrs. J. H. Murphy, formerly of this city, now of Ottawa.

The Board of education last night accepted Mrs. Murphy's donation of $2,000 to endow two scholarships in English, one in the academic and one in the commerical department of the Collegiate. The scholarships are to be known as the Edith Alexandra Murphy Memorial Scholarships. They are in memory of Mrs. Murphy's daughter of that name, a teacher at P. C. I. for many years, who died in 1938.

"They will be the most valuable scholarships in the school at the present time," said Principal Dr. H. R. H. Kenner. "This is a most generous action on the part of Mrs. Murphy," commented Dr. G. R. Scott, chairman of the board. Dr. Kenner explained that Miss Murphy had been head of the English department in the commerical division of the school and later of the academic division.

Mrs. Murphy wished that the $2,000 be invested in Dominion of Canada bonds, one half of the accrude interest to be awarded annually to the student standing highest in English in the honour matriculation class in the academic department, the other half to the student standing highest in English in the senior class in the commerical department. The treasurer was instructed to purchase the bonds and the appreciative board will write to Mrs. Murphy.

Brown Trout Placed In New Hatchery

Snow drifts over the hills and dales of Dummer and Belmont suggest a background of contrasting highlights for the projection of a fish story. It comes from Alex L. Elliott, M.P.P., to the effect that 84,000 brown trout have recently been placed in one of the ponds at the new hatchery, three miles of Cordova, and are going on a diet of liver.

These trout were transported from a hatchery at Picton, and were introduced to Peterborough county waters a few days ago for the purpose of propagation and eventual distribution throughout the Kawartha district.

As a matter of exactitude Mr. Elliott told The Examiner to-day he could not personally vouch for their actual arrival, not having been down to the hatchery since a day or two after Christmas; but they were expected before the week was out, and they are probably beginning to feel at home by this time.

The placing of these 84,000 brown trout becomes an important little date fo rthe records of the Cordova hatchery, in the fact that it marks the beginning of the actual use of the ponds, one of which is finished.

In the meantime the big pond is also just about completed, the caretaker's residence is well under way, and the central building of the hatchery is ready for plumbing. The control of water from the lake is in effect, and the hatchery as a whole is now approaching the final stage of construction.

Mr. Elliott recently took a party of friends down to see the job before the snow came, and now with the roads blocked in some places his next trip is being indefinitely deferred.

Two Young Girls Held For Vagrancy

Two young girls, one eighteen, the other seventeen and both looking several years younger, pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., in police court Tuesday afternoon to a vagrancy charge.

Crown Attorney McElderry explained that the girls had run away from home a we kago, had hitch-hikto to Toronto and on their return had spent a night in Brock street rink, being arrested by the police Sunday morning.

The two were allowed to go on suspended sentence after they had promised to turn over a new leaf. One of the conditions of the bond on which they were released was that their friendship with each other must cease and they will have to report regularly to the police matron.

Customs Receipts Total $2,081,840

Customs receipts during the year just closed soared to a total of $2,081,840.34 the second highest in the history of the local port for a calendar year from January 1st to December 31st.

In 1937 customs receipts hit an all time record with the sum of $2,115,161.05 for the calendar year and last year the returns continued to climb, despite the fact that the Auburn Mills of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds was closed down in September.

During the month of December the returns were import duties, $23,915.01, excise tax, $101,891.83, and sundry collections, $108.25, for a total of $125,915.09.

CARS COLLIDE.

As Charles Kingan, 3 Dennistoun Avenue, was driving south on Water Street on Tuesday his car collided near the corner of Dublin Street with a north-bound automobile driven by Ernest Fairburn, R.R. 1, Peterborough. Both cars suffered from the collision, which Mr. Kingan stated was caused by a frosted windshield.

Hockey Fan Dies

Hockey fans in the district will miss Martin Gahagon as the games are played locally this Winter. He was a familiar figure at the Brock street rink and usually one of the first to arrive for a game. For years he was janitor at the C.G.E. office and was such an ardent fan and supporter of the Toronto Maple Leafs that the staff sent him to see one of the N.H.L. games at the expense of the staff. He died Tuesday after a short illness in his 58th year.

Dismiss Case Against Madill

"The crown must go further than probabilities. There must be a certainty and a definiteness in the evidence and I do not think we have that in this case," declared Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., in police court this morning in dismissing a charge against Thomas Madill of attempting to break and enter the Ashburnham store of Fitzpatrick and Geraghty with intent to commit theft.

In giving judgment Magistrate Langley pointed out that it was often more difficult to prove an attempt than to prove the completed offence. Reviewing the evidence he said that while it might appear probable to most people that Madill had been there for the purpose of breaking into the store and committing theft, yet it was necessary from a legal standpoint for the crown to go further than the field of probabilities and he did not think it had done so.

After pointing out that the young man who had caught Madill and Fontaine had rendered valuable assistance Magistrate Langley, however, expressed the opinion that if the police had been left to themselves they might have made a case against the accused. "You should feel thankful," remarked His Worship to Madill "I don't feel that you are innocent."

On a second charge of breaking and entering the shoe store of P. J. Hickey on Hunter Street, Magistrate Langley announced that he would defer judgment until Friday as he wished to consult a number of authorities.

Charge Dismissed.

Joseph Fontaine was then arraigned on a charge of attempting to break and enter the F. & G. store and the case was dismissed when the crown offered no evidence. The facts were the same as in the Madill case.

Madill was arraigned on a third charge of stealing an overcoat and hat from James Hickey and pleaded not guilty, after electing summary trial.

The crown was ready to proceed but at the request of accused's father who said the lawyer they had secured was busy in another court there was a remand until tomorrow, Magistrate Langley stating that the case must go on then.

"If your lawyer cannot be here, you had better get another one," he advised Madill.

Higher Grants Aided To Increase Funds

The Board of Education ended 1938 with a balance of $9,970.67 on the books, an increase of $4,564.46 over the credit balance at the end of 1937, the financial statement presented to the board last night by Secretary G. H. Thompson revealed.

While some percentage of the increase in revenue was attributed to fees from non-resident pupils, lower fixed costs than had been estimated, the greatest percentage of the gain came from increased government grants, Mr. Thompson reported. He said the appropriation this year was greater than had been estimated. While the board's estimates were made on departmental regulations, more money was distrtributed to the schools this year than last by the government.

Some idea of the gigantic cost of education in this country could be gleaned from the figures submitted. Total receipts, including last year's balance on hand, were $326,672.36, of which the municipal assessment for the Collegiate and Vocational school was $91,950, for public schools was $160,400.00. The government contributed $29,300.02. Peterborough county paid in $19,202.65; Victoria, $300.95; Hastings, $184.50; Northumberland - Durham, $1,596.49; School Section No. 3, Smith, tuition for pupils attending the public schools, $1,345.70; county of Peterborough, tuition for county pupils attending King Edward school, $324.00. The department of education paid $8,949.55, interest and sinking fund re debentures issued for the Vocational school. Rent for the P.C.I. auditorium totalled $605.00 for the year. Fees retained for night classes were $1,933.34.

Greatest percentage of the expenditures by far resulted from teachers' salaries which totalled $269,226.22, together with salaries of officers and janitors. Of that amount $115,297.50 went to the Collegiate Institute and Vocational school, $153,928.72 to public schools. Text books and supplies cost $3,867.81; fuel was $7,344.14. Insurance cost $3,511.24.

Roads Are All Open In Hastings Area

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 4.—All main roads are open for travel in this area, it was learned from motorists last night, but they report the going is heavy in some sections. Sideroads for the most part are blocked except for horse and sleigh. The county and provincial snow-plows are making regular visits through here.

Both the public and separate schools here permitted the pupils to leave about 3 p.m. Tuesday afternoon in order to give them adequate time to reach home in the storm.

"THE TRAVEL CLUB"

130 Spears Avenue, Toronto — Telephone Junction 9616

The Peterborough Examiner, Peterborough, Ontario. — January 1, 1939

Dear Sir:

I know of no better time than now to express my thoughts and wish the many friends I have made while taking Tourists into Peterborough and the Kawartha Lakes, A Prosperous and Peaceful New Year.

At the conclusion of 1938, my second year of taking tours to Peterborough and vicinity I feel it is only right to voice my appreciation of the enjoyment of both my parties and myself at the time spent there.

Of all the parties I have taken down at various times including the Daughters of England, members of the I.O.D.E. chapters, the Mothers of St. Mark's Church, the Cooperative Society and other organizations there has not been one dissenting voice in regard to the beauties of Peterborough, the many scenic beauties of the Kawartha Lakes chain, enfolding to the north, the silver ribbon of the Trent Valley Canal rising step by step on its way, the unparalleled magnificence of the mighty Lift Locks pointing its way to the stars—all encircling the treeshaded avenues and grassy parks of the city, nestling in their midst, are sights not soon forgotten.

Lastly and not in the least adding to our material enjoyment were the meals enjoyed at the Elite Restaurant. On each occasion we have looked forward with keen enjoyment to the luncheon and evening dinner provided by the genial proprietor, Louis Yeotes, and his smiling assistants. To be assured of the enjoyment of the inner man adds in no small degree to the pleasure of our trip and the comments of my patrons have shown their sincere appreciation of this item.

Peterborough should indeed be proud of this fine restaurant.

In concluding may I say that for future tours Peterborough stands out foremost in our itinerary.

Yours Very Truly,

GEO. T. CRIPPS.

COLTS OPEN JUNIOR SCHEDULE WITH 7-3 WIN IN PORT HOPE

Match Fixing Charges Causing Stir

LONDON, Jan. 4—(CP Cable).—Allegations that pre-arrangement of match results in the closing stages of the 1936-37 season figured in Stockport County's promotion to second division football has produced a first-class sensation in English soccer circles.

Following a recent investigation by a joint committee of the English football association and the English football league, it was announced today G. Worsley, a director of the Stockport club, has been suspended from further association with organized football and fined £50 ($235) and varying penalties imposed on 11 players.

Stockport won promotion to the intermediate league with a point total of 60, three more than Lincoln City, runner up in the third division's northern section that season. The county failed to maintain its improved status, finishing in last place last May and this year is again a member of the third division.

T. Leach, a former Stockport player who played with Carlisle United in the 1936-37 season, drew a month's suspension and together with players D. Galoway and H. O'Grady was fined £20 ($94). Players W. Adey, W. Cliffe, F. Higgs, J. C. Johnson, T. M. Kerr, H. Mills, N. E. Roberts and W. Smith were fined £15 ($70) each.

The Stockport county club was ordered to pay the costs of the inquiry. Players fined will be allowed to pay the money in installments.

In its report the commission states the following allegations were admitted or proved:

"That G. Worsley offered a sum of money to T. Leach, then a Carlisle United player for distribution among players of the Carlisle team at the conclusion of their match with Lincoln City, April 15, 1937.

"That Leach accepted the money and disbursed equal amounts among players Adey, Cliffe, Galloway, Higgs, Johnson, Kerr, Leach, Mills, O'Grady, Roberts and Smith."

The commission found there was no evidence to support the allegations made by Worsley that he acted upon instructions from E. Barlow, Stockport county chairman, or that F. Westgarth, former manager of the Stockport and Carlisle clubs, had any knowledge of Worsley's actions.

It also held there was no evidence to support a statement by Worsley that sums of money had been received by him from the secretary and chairman respectively of the Stockport club to make possible the illegal payments mentioned. It decided, however, a degree of responsibility rested with the Stockport club.

O'Grady and Galloway who appeared for Carlisle United against Lincoln City in two of the matches concerned in the inquiry, announced they would appeal against the commission's findings. They now play for Tunbridge Wells Rangers, a minor league club.

WARNER, Alta.—(CP)—Co-operation gave Warner a big, new curling rink. Farmers and townsmen banded together, contributed funds for lumber and built the rink themselves.

Softball On Skates

PARK CITY, Utah, Jan. 4—(AP)—Even the coming of winter—with its ice and snow—cannot halt the activity of softball players in this mountainous district. Addicts of the sport formed a winter league, flooded a field for freezing, dyed baselines in the ice, then buckled on skates for the fastest softball yet.

Whizzer White Finally Off To Oxford

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 — (AP). — It is a long jump from Wellington, Colo. (population 533) to ivied Oxford, but Byron (Whizzer) White, the beau ideal of football players, is making it.

The Whizzer sailed aboard the S.S. Europa at midnight for England and his Rhodes Scholarship "even Stephen" with football after a four-month detour through the playing fields of the National Professional Football League. He is, he says, through with big time football.

"I guess I finished all even with the game," said Colorado's all-America halfback of 1937 and the star rookie player of the pro game of 1938. "I had a lot of fun, but I did a lot of work. I got paid well. I have most of the $15,000 Pittsburgh Pirates gave me for the past season, but then I gave up certain things that I thought a lot for football. One of them was a start on this scholarship.

"It's been great though and I'll never be able to repay football for the things it has done for me. Now I have to get to work."

A year has not changed the Whizzer. He is as assured, as friendly, and as straightforward as he was when he came to New York last winter with his Colorado basketball team and country was going bug-eyed over his choice between football and a Rhodes Scholarship.

"They were nice about that at Oxford," said Whizzer.

Canucks Lose 1-0 To King Edward

King Edward School yanked out a 1-0 decision over Canucks in a midget Southend Hockey League scrap last night at the Sacred Heart rink to open the puck season there. It was a close, smart contest between the young outfits all the way, with the result just a tossup as both goalies kicked out dangerous threats. Campbell notched the lone marker of the fray in the middle chukker. This player, Batton, Woodgate, and Bill Jones, all turned in a fine effort, with the netters strong, also. The teams.

King Edward: Goal, Shea; defence, Patterson, Gillespie; centre, Batton; wings, Campbell, Woodgate; subs, Rhodes, Roberts, Cox.

Tonight's benefit game here for the German Refugee Fund ought to pack in the customers like a fire sale. 'Cause why? Because it's a nifty exhibition betwixt the classy St. Mike's Buzzers of Toronto and the powerful local junior Colts; on account of it's for a fine cause; and also not forgetting a dozen nifty prizes to be given away as gate prizes. Drawn for between periods, and no boost in the admission. These prizes are quite worth while, such as electric clock, motor rug, coal, wood, carpet and so on. The game itself promises to be a speedy, lively affair between a good gang from St. Mike's and the new edition of our Colts. We have no hesitation in plugging such an offering and trust that folks—recalling the deal thousands of unfortunates are getting in Nazi-crazed Germany today —will fill up the ice palace on Brock Street this eve.

The Peterborough pugilists are Bill Joiner, Maurice Codierre, Norm Hill and Harry Low. They've been training at the Y. M. C. A. and are in good shape now, Art says. Dunno what Toronto mitt-slingers the local larrupers meet. More on it again maybe.

Some Miami Mail.

Mick Magee writes us from Miama: "Here is a little dope on things down here; as you can see there is everything a good sport fan would want to see in the line of athletics. The hockey lplayers have passes to 90 per cent of the big doings. We just got back from the big high school football game, which Miami won 19-13. Pass these papers on to Lehane or Chute or some of the boys. Hope you don't get too cold on your coming hockey trips (I have to put in my little dig!) We don't do any travelling, but it still feels peculiar coming out of the ice palace after a game into the balmy winter air. Yours for a happy new year, Mick Magee." He sends us a couple of copies of the Miami Daily News and it's full of sports. Thank ya, Mick, and nuts to you on those cold trips—we l-l-l-love them!

Ellis and Magee have a soft time of it down in Florida, playing only about once a week, having a few practices and doing nothing but loaf the rest of the time. Both are playing good hockey, we gather, and will be tied up in their schedule till April 2nd. In three starts last month their team—the Miami Clippers, under Bullet Joe Simpson—won twice. They took a 6-1 decision over another Miami team on Sunday, Christmas Day, before a big crowd of fans. Prices range from 75 cents to two bucks.

At a Late Hour.

At a very late hour last night, the Petes skated off the ice at the Brock with the bulkier side of a 7-6 score, gained in an exhibition win over the Toronto Telegram team before about 250 fans. Would have been a fair crowd but the game didn't commence till after 10 o'clock—that's right Mr. Printer, we said 10 bells. While no blame can be attached to the local club or to the rink, and in fact not too much to the Tely, nevertheless we wonder why they left Toronto so late by bus when they knew the roads would be bad. Legal parlance puts incidents of nature, over which we have no control, down as "acts of God" and this undoubtedly held the visitors up, but they still couldn't have left Toronto in decent time. It was a bad start for the senior season here, and unfortunate as the game itself was a neat tussle. Speedy, clean till a bit of bumping started near the finish, and a close enough score.

* * * * * *

Seemed like a breeze for the Petes the first two frames, but the busworn newsies got their sea legs in shape and ganged up through the third heat to whittle the locals' lead down like Washington at the cherry tree. It was a nice comeback——and the Tely gang didn't bring several of their regulars, either. The Petes looked right promising in this first home showing, with Nicholls absent. Both Harding and McNabb went okay in the cage, as the defence gradually rounded into shape, Gray and McNulty, new players here, will do fine, we imagine. The Starr-Kingdon Tompkins line had it over the other forwards like a circus tent, but all snipers worked hard for so early in the season. Yeah, the Buckland boys will do oke this semester—and they're due to start the schedule Friday in Belleville with the Fliers.

Colts Come Through.

Elsewhere in tonight's paper should be the account of the Colts' contest in Port Hope last p.m., to knock the lid off in their O. H. A. junior schedule. We didn't get down the line for that joust but hear it was a fast open tilt with oodles of action, as the Jackson band got off to an early lead and kept hustling. Count was 3-1 in the first period and 6-2 as the final chapter began. These same Colts will be seen in action here tonight in the benefit game against St. Mike's and also here on Friday in a group game against the big Bowmanville bunch. Looks like the Colts will give all rivals a rousing fight this chilly season.

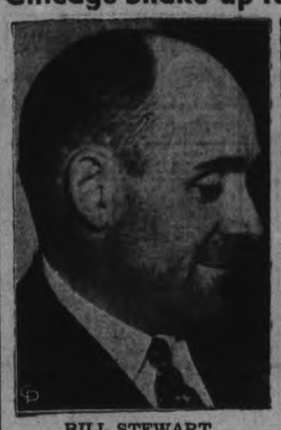
Chicago Shake-up Keeps N.H.L. Pot Boiling



BILL STEWART

PAUL THOMPSON

CARL VOSS

Deviating from the National League custom of this season that saw expulsion of the goalie when anything went wrong with the teams, a reversion to the old policy of firing the manager was instituted by Chicago Black Hawks with the announcement that Bill Stewart, "miracle man" of last spring when he guided the Hawks to the Stanley Cup had been deposed as boss. His place will be taken by Paul Thompson, veteran left wing star and assistant to Stewart this season, and Carl Voss, on the inactive list with injuries since the season began. Apparently Thompson and Voss are to act as dual leaders of the team in an attempt to halt its rapid fall in the league standings.

Budge Hammers Vines For 3 Straight

By Ted Farah
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (CP) — In spite of an easy first night triumph, J. Donald Budge, the red-headed young man with the blazingest backhand in tennis, is expecting trouble from his fellow Californian, Ellsworth Vines.

Budge, who won the four major amateur titles in 1938, took three straight sets from Vines, ruler of the professional roost for the last five years, in the opener of their tennis series at Madison Square Garden last night. Scores were 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

A crowd of 17,725, liberally sprinkled with ermine, mink and silk toppers, saw Budge whip back the famous Vines service, which experts say has a velocity of about 100 miles an hour, and the vaunted Vines flat forehand which zooms along at approximately 70 m.p.h.

But Vines, who has a way of building up to an awful letdown on matches where the chips are down, mixed his brilliant earned points with too large a percentage of errors. In the clutches, he was downright bad, invariably yielding to Budge on crucial points.

Vines Can Do Better

In the dressing room after the match both Budge and Vines declared Vines is capable of better tennis and undoubtedly will produce it before their tour is many nights old.

"Vines' backhand was a little unsteady, that's all," Budge said. "He was swingin' too soon. When he gets his backhand working, we'll have some terrific battles."

"I'm sorry I lost," Vines said rather stiffly to reporters. "I just feel that I can play better tennis than I did—I have played better tennis.

"I dont' feel that I'm beaten on a tour like this until—if we're playing say 35 games I lost 18 of them."

Vines lost to Fred Perry in the premiere of their professional tour a couple of seasons back but finished well in front on the series.

Benefit Game Here Tonight

Tonight at the Brock St. arena at 8.30 o'clock, St. Mike's Buzzers of Toronto tackle the local junior Colts in an exhibition benefit game, and it should pack in a huge crowd of fans. The young Gaels are noted for their flashy hockey tactics, being effective and colorful at all times. They play a fast-skating and tricky-passing style, with plenty of bumping on the defence, and it will hustle the husky Colts—extra heavy this season—to check them. The locals have a lot of class, too, and will be making their 1939 debut before a home crowd, so it will be a rousing struggle between two smart all-around junior puck outfits. With 10 good gate prizes being drawn for between periods, fans have an added incentive to witness this exhibition match, and a huge crowd is expected out tonight.

Funds raised at the game will go for a most worthy cause, being sent to the German Refugee Fund to assist in the work of settling refugees from the German "purge" in peaceful centres. With many countries contributing toward this—the Jews working especially hard to aid their unfortunate brethren in Germany—Canada is doing its share in the cause, and local folk have their chance to assist tonight, besides seeing an excellent hockey game at popular prices with the chance of winning door prizes, too.

Early Margin Gives Colts First Tussle

PORT HOPE, Jan. 4—Peterborough Colts stepped into Port Hope Tuesday evening for the opening game in the district hockey loop and defeated the homesters 7-3. A fair crowd was in attendance.

Petes secured an early lead when Craig scored at the 4.00 mark. Young Ontarios fought back but were unable to even the score. Colts defense proved too powerful and staved off a determined attack. Berwick tallied again while Bradley scored for the homesters at 9.30 to make it 2-1. Heavy body checking slowed the game somewhat. The period ended 3-1 when Wade added the third Colt tally.

The winners added three more in the second frame, Macdonald, Parnell and Craig beating Shaw. The latter played a nice net game. J. Hill scored for the losers.

Each Scores

In the final period each scored one goal. Williams tallying for the Colts and Demill for Port Hope. The game was clean despite heavy checking and only eight penalties were meted out by referee G. Rowden, Colts receiving five and Port Hope three.

The teams:

Colts: Goal, Cournyea; defence, Ward, King; centre, Parnell; wings, Williams, Macdonald; subs, Craig, Foster, Stewart, Lumsden, Wade, Baker, King and Stabler.

Port Hope: Goal, Shaw; defence, Edwardson, Edmunds; centre, Hills; wings, Bradley, Demill; subs, Anderson, Hill, Wainman, Young, Percey, Anderson, Tucker, and Snelgrove.

Referee, G. Rowden of Port Hope.

Summary:

First Period

Peterborough—Craig	4.00
Peterborough—Berwick	8.20
Peterborough—Wade	9.45
Port Hope—Bradley	9.30

Second Period

Peterborough—Mcdonald	8.25
Peterborough—Parnell	8.30

PETES COP A 7-6 NOD OVER TORONTO OUTFIT IN EXHIBITION

Tely Crew Start Off Slowly After Late Arrival But Make It Close Near End

The Petes pulled out a 7-6 victory over the Toronto Telegram squad here last night to inaugurate their home hockey season for 1939. Less than 300 fans witnessed the struggle, many leaving the rink long before the game started—nearly two hours late, owing to the visitors being held up on bad roads. They left Toronto late in a bus and ran into heavy snow all the way. Several of the Toronto regulars did not come down for the game.

It was a good exhibition tilt on a fast sheet of ice, with both outfits turning it on most of the way. The Petes looked quite a bit superior the first two frames but the Torontos ganged up most of the third and had a decided margin on plays as well as coming close to a tie after spotting the locals a comfortable early lead. The count was 3-1 in the first frame for the Buckland boys and 6-2 for them going into the hectic third. Play was rougher in the third but it was a clean scrap with but two penalties drawn.

The '39 edition of the Petes looked good for so early in their season. They had nice goaltending, a promising defence and some smart forwards. The first line of Honey Tompkins, Eddie Starr and Bun Kingdon were considerably better than the rest of the forwards and will be the chief scoring threat of the Petes this winter. Two of the newcomers, Gray and McNulty, showed a lot of promise in their puck actions and should aid the squad considerably during scheduled games. Nicholls was not on hand for the fray. Two goalies, Ray Harding and Earl McNabb, toiled in the nets and went well, only one of the goals scored against them being anything of the soft variety. The Petes need more practise but played a fair game of hockey.

Slow Starting

The visitors took a long time to get going but showed quite a punch in the third. They ganged up four and five men at various times the first two heats but really were dangerous with a five-man attack throughout the third. Fast-skating and with some fair checking, they might have well defeated the locals if the full squad had showed up. Coach "Shirt" Ewens and Anderson—Nos. 3 and 10—looked the most effective out there, while Hodgson, Newman and a few more shone in spots.

Play was barely half a minute old (at 10.20) when Tompkins tore in fast to score, aided inside the blue line by Starr and Kingdon. Tompkins got another a few minutes later when he skirted the net fast as the Petes held most of the play on the bus-weary visitors. McNulty made it 3-0 when he blasted one into the twine on assists from Grattan and McDougall going in. Toronto ganged up for a time to make things interesting for the slim crowd of fans, and finally Newman netted the disc going around defence on a snap pass from Hodgson. The Petes were having most of the play at the bell.

Tompkins Scores

Early in the middle chukker, Tompkins faked a pass to Kingdon and slapped the bootheel by the goalie in close. Four of the Tely crew swarmed up and it was even till halfway through when Starr rushed solo from centre to whistle the black cookie into the cord on a neat play. Gostlin got that back for Toronto on Lamport's pass a few minutes later, giving Goalie Harding no chance on the play as he zoomed in at close range. A minute before the end of the period, Starr's angle shot from outside defence beat the Tely netminder to make it 6-2, the Petes still having a margin on their rivals in a nice clean, fast contest.

Five of the Tely bunch ganged up most of the third and they had an edge, though the Petes nearly pulled several breakaways. Anderson got two early, one on Hodgson's passout, and again on his own close-in rebound. It slowed up for a time but they began bumping each other hard near the end. McNulty took Creighton's rebound to sink the rubber, and then Crowe and Ewens went off for roughing it at defence. Hodgson slapped in a fast pass at point-blank range from Newman and Jarrett tallied outside defense a half-minute later to end the scoring in this lively session.

The teams:

Tely: Goal, Corbett; defence, Ewens and Jarrett; centre, Gostlin; wings, Lamport and Simpson; alternates, Hodgson, Newman, Roberts and Anderson.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Gray and Crowe; centre, Kingdon; wings, Starr and Tompkins; alternates, McDougall, Coughlin, Gratton, Weir, McNulty, Creighton Gardner and McNabb.

Summary:

First Period

Petes—Tompkins (Kingdon, Starr) ..... :30
Petes—Tompkins 3.00
Petes—McNulty (Grattan, McDougall) 5.00
Tely—Newman (Hodgson) 14.00

Brights Defeat Sailors By 1-0 Score

(By the Canadian Press.)

Niagara Falls Brights made a poor start in the senior "A" division of the Ontario Hockey Association this season, but they seem to have found their skating legs and a backchecking tenacity that is producing results.

Buoyed by a moral victory over the undefeated Toronto Goodyears Friday, Brights stepped into Port Colborne last night and scored a goal in the final two minutes for a 1-0 win.

Combined with the scoreless overtime tie with Goodyears, the victory was the second shutout in succession for Johnny Mowers, brilliant Bright netminder. Critics hail Mowers as one of the season's sensations.

Over at St. Catharines, Goodyears outskated the home chiefs in the final period to win 3-2 and lengthen their league lead. Chiefs were playing their first game under Ivan Corrigan, who replaced coach Speedy Groh Monday, and outplayed the classy Goodyears in the first period.

Victory gave Toronto a total of 20 points, seven more than the second-place Oshawa club. St. Catharines and Port Colborne are tied for third place with 10 points and Niagara Falls is fourth with nine.

Swat Mason, former Guelph star, was the hero of the Falls' win. Mason picked up a rebound from Smack Allen to best old Hawse Marsh, who had made many brilliant saves to earn distinction as the pick of the losers. Sixteen penalties were issued including a misconduct to George Grigor, Falls winger.

Goodyears were worried in the first two periods of their battle. They couldn't evade the persistent backchecking of the plucky chiefs.

But the Toronto speedsters swept to the fore in the final frame to score three times while holding St. Kitts to one goal. Sound netminding of Harry McQuesten in the Toronto cage was equalled by St. Kitts' Hal Gordon.

Ossie Carnegie, flashy Negro forward, and Bobbie Pinder were the loser's marksmen. Hank Goldup, elongated Toronto winger, scored two goals with Punchy Imlach adding a goal and an assist. Rearguards Russ Bowman and Jack Draper completed the Toronto total.

Oshawa, flying high with four wins and a tie in their last five games, invades Toronto Friday in an attempt to upset the unconquered Goodyears. The team tied at their last meeting. In another Friday game, Port Colborne meet St. Kitts in the Garden City.

Canadiens Tie Leafs In 2-2 Battle While Bruins Boost Lead By Outlasting Americans 2-1

By Jack Calder
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Three National Hockey League teams have won more games than they have lost. The other four are threshing about in the lower strata with all the characteristic gestures of runners-up in other seasons.

The race for the moment involves Boston Bruins, New York Rangers, and New York Americans. The emergency measures of other clubs don't appear to be the moves of miracle-workers.

There was the bouncing of Bill Stewart as manager of Chicago Black Hawks yesterday. Major Frederick McLaughlin, the man with the say-so, just said Bill was fired despite the fact that he led the Hawks to an amazing triumph in last year's Stanley Cup series. It has happened in other lean years to men as good as Dick Irvin and Clem Loughlin.

Some Throat Cutting.

Then there was that 2-2 tie Montreal Canadiens and the Maple Leafs played at Toronto last night. Trailing teams have a habit of playing tie games with one another, indulging in a little throat-cutting that is all to the good of those higher up.

Toronto remained in fifth place, a point behind Chicago, while Canadiens were left two points down in the cellar behind Detroit.

Meanwhile the Bruins increased their league lead to four points by outlasting the Americans 2-1 on Roy Conacher's third-period goal. Americans missed a chance to tie the Rangers for second place, but they still are six points up on the Black Hawks.

Thompson Steps Up

Stewart was replaced by Paul Thompson, veteran high-scoring wingman who was assigned the coaching duties at the start of the season. Carl Voss, a forward recently released by the Hawks on sick leave, will aid Thompson, who is Chicago's 15th manager in 13 years.

Stewart commented: "I don't think I had this coming." But chubby little Bill, known to sports fans first for his National Baseball League umpiring, was fired. Life is like that with the Hawks.

Toronto and the Canadiens in turn played hot and cold hockey. The Leafs grabbed a lead twice, but the Habitants rallied each time, Bill Summerhill spoiling the night for the folks in his home town with the tying goal four minutes from the finish.

Doc Romnes bagged his first goal since his recent purchase from Chicago to give Toronto a second-period lead. In three minutes Babe Siebert parked before the Leaf goal to level the score on Herbie Cain's pass.

Wilf Cude, who returned to Canadiens' goal-tending job at Chicago on Sunday after a month's layoff, might have scored his second straight win. But Johnny Gagnon tipped the puck past his teammate at the start of the third period and Gordon Drillon was given credit for Toronto's second goal. Stew Evans supplied the pass for Summerhill's late counter and the teams played through a scoreless overtime session.

4 Americans Off.

Minus the services of four injured players, Americans battled the Bruins gamely before a Boston crowd of 10,000. After Bobby Bauer sent Bruins ahead, while Wilf Fields was serving a penalty in the first, Nels Stewart combined with Tommy Anderson and Joe Jerwa for the tying goal in the second.

Americans' missing players were Al Murray and Red Beattie, both out for long periods, and Art Chapman and Eddie Wiseman, with lesser hurts. Boston played again without Milt Schmidt and Bill Cowley, who will return to the lineup soon.

Clippers Win 6-1 From Brintons

China Clippers commenced their Southend Hockey League schedule for 1939 last evening in the Sacred rink with a 6-1 decision over Brintons in a fair tilt. It was speedy with some good checking shown, as the winners had a margin of play on the forward wall. Sparked by A. Heal and Todd, they tallied in every frame and showed an edge, though it was narrow the first two periods. The count was 2-1, then 3-1 and finally 6-1. L. Deadey got the only goal for the loser, but Art Heal notched three, R. Todd one, F. Todd one and C. Heal one for the Clippers. Henwood, A. Heal and F. Todd looked especially good in this game. The teams:

Clippers: Goal, Cournyea; defence, Hopkins, Callan; centre, A. Heal; wings, Ridley, F. Todd; subs, R. Todd, C. Heal, Sharpe.

She Did All Right

KEWANNE, Ill., Jan. 4 (AP). — The correspondence school lessons on nursing hadn't reached twins yet, but youthful Mrs. Robert Ernest wasn't daunted. At the hour for Mrs. Wilbur Hollars' accouchement at her nearby farm home the physician was delayed. Mrs. Ernest, 19, a student by correspondence of a Chicago nursing school, did the best she could. It was enough. The twins, Vivian Ann and Harold Dean, arrived safely. They were Nos. 4 and 5 for Mrs. Hollars, 35.

HOW TO SKI

By FRITZ LOOSLI
Instructor Toronto Ski Club

CHOOSING YOUR SKIS

SKIS. The increasing scarcity of good hickory has kept manufacturers busy trying to find a manufactured product as a substitute for hickory. A laminated Norwegian model has become quite popular; hickory base, lignite edges, top of maple and cherry wood.

A difficulty so far in laminated skis is to find a glueing process which will stand the severe changes of temperature and also be water resistant. Personally the only objection I find in lignite edges is that they are too soft for competition and general skiing on icy snow. This may be remedied by having the lignite edges removed, and replaced with steel edges, but this increases considerably the price of the laminated model which already is a high priced ski.

A Possible Solution.

A Swiss firm is trying this year to find a solution, and has steel edges screwed to the sides of the laminated ski, while the ski itself has a composition of lignite edges. The screws of the steel edges penetrates the lignite edge which give a better hold to the steel edge. The advantage of the double edge is to prevent the wood on the running surface from wearing away and leaving the metal protruding. This is really the first laminated model I know of, manufactured for downhill and slalom racing. However, it remains to be seen, how well the side screwed edges will stand our terrain. So far the racer has given preference to the first class flat grain solid hickory mounted with sharp steel edges, but there is no doubt that sooner or later the laminated model will replace the hickory ski. I think that a laminated ski with a complete fibre composition running surface and steel edges is the best solution, if the fibre can be made with sufficient elasticity to prevent cracking and breakage. A metal running surface is not satisfactory because it will not take wax, and is far slower than wood.

More Popular Priced Skis.

In the more popular priced skis, white ash, yellow birch and sugar maple is used. The Canadian ash cannot be compared with the mountain ash from the Alps. The European ash grows in the open and has therefore a grain far more resistant than our ash grown in the bush where the tree has not to compete with wind resistance. For this reason, the yellow birch is preferable to ash or sugar maple. For those interested in making their own skis, iron wood will make skis which may be compared to hickory, the main diffculty is to find a tree with a straight grain and no twist in it. When such a tree may be found, it should be cut as close to the ground as possible and the tip of the skis made at the butt of the log, because the grain right at the root is the most flexible and resistant. Only the sap wood should be used in either hickory or iron wood.

While in the hickory skis, flat grain is the most advisable to buy; in white ash, edge grain and angle grain ski should be given the preference. Personally I prefer the angle grain (quarter-cut) ash to edge grain because the latter has the disadvantage of splitting very easily. In birch or maple it is almost immaterial what grain is fixed, because of the smooth texture of the grain.

Tomorrow: Choosing your bindings.

B.C. Mermaid Takes Daily Icy Dip, "All In Getting Used To It"

VANCOUVER, Jan. 4 — (CP). — If your secret ambition is to be one of those hardy souls who swim outdoors daily winter and summer, ask 21-year-old Anne Mundigel for a few tips.

She has done it for several years and hopes it has fitted her to swim the English Channel next August and win the 20-mile Marathon at th 1939 New York World's Fair.

"It's all a matter of condition," says Anne, who has been taking her daily dip in English Bay as a member of the Vancouver Polar Bears—a club of eight members who are pledged to do the same thing.

She qualified for the Channel and World's Fair swims last summer when she swam 14 miles from here to Bowen Island in 7 hours and 14 minutes.

"Get lots of sleep, don't eat those fat, sweet sticky foods and do a lot of gym work on the side," is Anne's advice.

The business of long swims or dips in cold water is just a matter of getting your body used to the varying temperatures of air and sea, she says.

No Sudden Dives.

"The average person going into chilly water would probably get a cold because the pores of his body are unaccustomed to the sudden change."

And Mermaid Anne doesn't believe in sudden dives into cold water.

"I never do that because it's too much of a shock to the system. I always wade in from the shore, it's much safer."

And as for eating:

"Before I go in I have a bowl of soup or something light and after I come out a cup of coffee, not a big meal. I'll have the meal at the regular time.

She's really looking forward to the New York and Channel swims, but admits she has a lot of training ahead of her yet.

Maroons Victors Against Leafs

Maroons opened the intermediate section of the Southend Hockey League last night at the Sacred Heart rink with a 6-0 verdict over the Maple Leafs. It was a speedy interesting tussle with the Maroons showing a bit too much power in the first half of the fray for the other gang, but it was much tighter toward the end. Prete, Leggitt and Johnston all counted in the initial inning, with Adamson and Johnston scoring in the centre chapter, and Prete notching the lone counter of the third frame. Individual standouts in the struggle were Prete, Johnston, McNabb, Self and Ashmore. Teams:

Leafs: Goal, Flint; defence, J. Riel, Ashmore; centre, Baldwin; wings, Jobe, E. Riel; subs, Johnston, Shea, E. Jobe, Self.

Maroons: Goal, McNabb; defence, Spencely, Bailey; centre, Padgett; wings, Leggitt, Watkins; subs, Johnston, Abraham, Hobbins, Prete, Adamson.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

It all happened on Ice No. 5 last night, the opening night of the season's schedule. The game was being played between two teams skipped by D. Carlisle and George Green.

As the game progressed the following conversation took place between Dr. Clark and Wallace Harvey.

"Who's shot Dr.?"—"The blue."

"Who's the blue?'—"Green.'

"How can the blue be Green?"—"Well if Carlisle is red, Green must be blue."

"Well who's turning white, then?"

"Well by the score I would say Carlisle is white now"—"How can Carlisle be red and white and Green blue, it don't make sense, Dr., and you can't make me swallow that."

The schedule got off to a flying start last evening when every one of the games scheduled were played and with only two substitutes. The boys turning out in grand style.

We intend every schedule night to make special mention of some outstanding event that takes place during the evening, and for this one, the Thomas-Taylor game gets the call. Both teams at full strength and commenced playing exactly at the appointed time, 7.45 p.m.

Scores

G. W. Green 18, D. Carlisle 6.
G. Hall 11, G. Matthews, 4.
J. Mayneord 13, T. Mackay 12.
T. McArthur 10, W. Oke 7.
J. Sedgewick 16, A. W. Pratten 9.
E. Thomas 10, W. E. Taylor 8.

George St. Wins Over St. Paul's

George St. Bantams whitewashed St. Paul's, 7-0 to open their Church League hookey schedule at All Saints' rink last evening. The winners were husky and more experienced than the young Presbyterians, while the latter crew found a change in goalies worked better, the count being 5-0 at the switch for the last two periods when Board took over. Greatrix and Smith got two each in the first and Wellwood one goal. Smith notched a pair the rest of the route. Seels and McNaughton were best for the Saints. The teams:

St. Paul's: Goal, J. Forbes; defence, Seals, McNaughton; centre, D. Forbes; wings, Hendry, Carley; subs, Barrett, Board, Hill.

George St.: Goal, Quirt; defence, Kingdon, Greatrix; centre, Morrow; wings, Smith, Wellwood; subs, Burnham, McCurrach, Carter, Young. Referee, George Beauclerc.

St. John's Lose To All Saints

All Saints Juveniles opened their Church Hockey League schedule last night with a 10-0 smirk over St. John's at All Saints' rink. The victors were much too strong for their rivals and showed a potent lineup which kept clicking throughout in all departments. St. John's were weakened and could not match strides with All Saints. Mortimer led the way for the winners, while Frank and Marsden worked hard in a losing cause, their work standing out. The teams:

All Saints: Goal, Homewood, defence, Lacheur, Ackford; centre, Mortimer; wings, Reid, Robinson; subs, Morley, Maudsley.

St. John's: Goal, Moore; defence, Crowter, Frank; centre, W. Moore; wings, Coones, Marsden; sub, Patten.

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

In a recent duplicate tournament, after two passes East opened the bidding on this deal with a psychic 1-Diamond bid. South bid a vulnerable 2-No trump over it, North 3-Clubs and South 3-No trump. West led the heart 5.

Had it not been for the psychic bid, the declarer should have made sure of winning the first trick in the North hand by playing the ace, so that he could have tried a couple of finesses of the diamonds toward West while he still had hearts stopped. But the crazy opening bid gave him a clue to the probable location of the diamond K, very likely thoroughly guarded.

South therefore tried the heart J on the first trick and it held, thus producing one more trick for him than otherwise would have been possible. A first finesse of diamonds was followed by a lead to the spade Q for a second finesse, then an overtake of the heart K by the A for a third finesse. Three more spade tricks and the diamond A were then cashed, giving the declarer four-odd all told, as he had to pass up the last three. By drawing the simple natural inference from the psychic bid, he made one more trick than other declarers in the game.

With West leading the heart K in response to his partner's bid, how should South plan to make 3-No trump?

Congress Probe Blames Spy Rings And Propaganda Campaigns To Labor Department Laxity

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP). — The United States congressional committee on un-American activities placed responsibility on the labor department today for "a large part" of subversive espionage activities and propaganda.

Reporting to the house of representatives on a five-month inquiry of un-American activities, the committee accused the department of failure to enforce the deportation laws.

"Th laxity with which the department of labor deals with alien agitators would be unbelievable if we did not have before us the most convincing proof," the voluminous report said.

"We are convinced," the report said, "that a large part of espionage and un-American activities and propaganda carried on in this country can be directly traced to the failure of the labor department to enforce the deportation laws of the land."

The committee was headed by representatives Martin Dies (Dem.-Texas), as chairman.

The committee expressed a belief that the national labor relations board should be subjected to a thorough investigation to determine to what extent board members and employees "approve the communist views" expressed by David Saposs, board economist.

A Rap at Murphy

Without naming him, it criticized attorney general Frank Murphy, former Michigan governor, in connection with the so-called Lansing holiday when a throng assembled at the state capital, closing stores, and marched on the state college in 1937. The report said:

"It is believeo that a courageous stand on the part of all public officials involved would have prevented these disgraceful occurrences and would have avoided the loss of millions of dollars to both labor and capital, which resulted from the stoppage of work and the inability of thousands of employees to work."

The report, bristling with condemnation of Communism, Naziism and Fascism, recommended that the House continue the investigation for two years with an appropriation of at least $150,000. The committee, which expires today, had $25,000 originally.

"The Congress should also require the appropriate departments to cooperate with the committee," the report said, declaring the justice and labor departments had failed to do so.

The seven-man group, which attracted wide attention as well as criticism from President Roosevelt, Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, and Frances Perkins, Labor secretary, summarized testimony received at hearings in Washington, Detroit and New York.

It did not make specific legislative proposals to curb un-American activities but indirectly referred to the necessity for registration of alien groups, organizations and movements.

Her Name a Secret

TORONTO, Jan. 4 — (CP). — A woman, one of six persons charged with impersonation in connection with Toronto's civic election, refused to divulge her name when she appeared in court here to-day. She was remanded to January 10 on bail of $500.

The woman, alleged to have attempted to vote yesterday under the name of a voter who had been dead for seven years, was termed "Madame X" by police. After a whispered consultation in court the woman's counsel, Joseph Newman, announced he had withdrawn from the case "since my client will not divulge her name."

Oshawa Ousts Labor Mayor

OSHAWA, Ont., Jan. 4—(CP).—Alderman John A. Coleman was elected mayor of Oshawa by a 250 majority vote over Mayor A. S. McLeese at the municipal elections here Monday.

A record vote, with almost 70 per cent of the electorate turning out at the polls, swept the Labor majority from control when three of the seven Labor men were defeated as well as Alderman William Harmer, running as an Independent. The slate headed by Mayor-elect Coleman will rule with a 6-4 majority. Four of last year's labor group were re-elected.

Coleman polled a total of 4,599 votes compared with 4,349 votes by Mayor McLeese who sought re-election on a Labor ticket.

Ald. J. C. Anderson, running on the Coleman slate, headed the poll with 4,509 votes. In second place came Clifford Herman, Labor candidate, with 4,479 votes. The remaining three Labor candidates to be elected were: Ald. E. E. Bathe, Ald. James Haxton, and Ald. Finley Dafoe. Ald. William Walker, Labor member last year, was defeated. Dafoe just managed to squeeze in the tenth spot on council when he finally edged out George Finley.

German Propaganda Minister Branded As "Love Thief"

Two of the most prominent figures in the sensational "Goebbels whipping" story coming from Berlin, are Actor Gustav Froelich, and his beautiful wife, Actress Lida Baarova, who are shown as they appeared in a recent film. Goebbels was reportedly horsewhipped by a group of Froelich's friends for forcing his attentions on the actor's wife after having the actor thrown into a concentration camp when he challenged Goebbels to a duel for paying attention to the actress last October.

Chancellor Hitler, his Propaganda Minister Goebbels and Frau Goebbels who acts as Hitler's official hostess, were pictured here in happier days. Now Goebbels is reported lying in a hospital as a result of a horsewhipping given him by friends of Actor Gustav Froelich, who objected to him forcing his attention on Froelich's beautiful wife, Actress Lida Baarova. Hitler is reported to be so angered by the scandal that he may "purge" Goebbels from his high office. Frau Goebbels is reported to be leaving for Denmark where she may divorce the Nazi propaganda minister.

Saturday Hearing May Free Mooney

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Jan. 4.—(AP). — Tom Mooney, imprisoned nearly 22 years for conviction of the bloody San Francisco preparedness day bombing, may be a free man on Saturday through action of California's new governor, Culbert Olson.

The Governor, inaugurated yesterday as the first Democratic state chief executive in 40 years, set Saturday as the date for hearing Mooney's petition for a pardon.

Governor Olson's often expressed opinion that Mooney is innocent, led many observers to believe the greying prisoner would be granted a pardon at conclusion of the hearing.

No one is known to be preparing formal opposition to the petition in response to Governor Olson's request that they come forward at the hearing if any objections are planned.

Mooney, who always has contended he was "framed" by perjured testimony because of his activities as a labor organizer, is serving a life sentence for murder in the 1916 bombing, which killed 10 persons anr injured 40 on crowded Lower Market Street, San Francisco. An original sentence of death was commuted to life imprisonment by Governor William Stephens after intercession by President Wilson.

Bonarlaw Institute Exchanges Gifts

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Jan. 4.—The Rev. Canon W. G. Swayne gave a very interesting talk on the Christmas spirit at a meeting of the Springbrook Women's Institute held at the home of Mrs. Allen McComb on Wednesday with an attendance of thirty-four members and seven visitors. The meeting opened by singing O Canada, and the Institute Ode. The roll call, "Your Most Fascinating Christmas Card" was well responded to, and several beautiful cards were on exhibition.

The treasurer's report was then given, followed by the relief report. A letter was read of appreciation from a family who had received a basket at Christmas time.

Community singing of Christmas carols was then enjoyed, with Mrs. J. F. Baker at the organ. A paper on Health was read by Mrs. Baker and a short poem was given by Mrs. D. Wellman, which was composed by Mrs. W. G. Ray of Bridgenorth.

A contest was put on by Mrs. J. F. Baker. The meeting was closed by singing of the National Anthem, after which the gift exchange took place.

A very dainty lunch was served by the hostess and a social half hour spent. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. A. Bateman on January 25.

Power Over Liquor

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP).—The Supreme Court of the United States gave broad power to-day to States to prevent the sale of intoxicating liquor.

It sustained Michigan and Missouri statutes barring the importation of alcoholic beverages from other States which enact discriminatory legislation.

Justice Brandeis, who delivered the decisions, said that "the substantive power of the State to prevent the sale of intoxicating liquor is undoubted."

No dissent was announced.

His Pelvis Fractured Skiier Hikes 3 Miles To Camp

Ottawa, Jan. 4 (CP).

DUNCAN K. MacTAVISH, 38, well-known Ottawa barrister who amazed doctors by walking three miles yesterday with a broken pelvis suffered in a ski-ing accident, was recovering in hospital today.

MacTavish was hurt when he fell after striking a small stump concealed by the snow on the Camp Fortune Ski Trail in the Gatineau Hills, 20 miles north of here. The injury prevented him from ski-ing back and the walk back to camp took him nearly four hours.

Dr. J. P. Armstrong, who attended him said he was amazed MacTavish had been able to walk that distance with such an injury.

Grand Mistress Visits Janetville

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Jan. 3—Right Worshipful Grand Mistress Mistress of Ontario East, Sister Moore of Lindsay was a special guest at the December meeting of Silver Jubilee L.O.B.A. which was held in the Orange Hall on Wednesday evening.

The Worthy Mistress Mrs. E. A. Bradburn was in the chair and twenty members were present as well as several visitors.

During the evening final arrangements were made for the celebration of the 4th birthday anniversary on Monday evening, January 9th, when progressive euchre will be played for a couple of hours, followed by dancing and lunch.

R.W.G.M. Sister Moore of Lindsay presided for the election and installation of officers which are as follows: W.M., Mrs. E. A. Bradburn; D.M., Mrs. H. Wilson; chaplain, Miss M. Johnston; recording secretary, Mrs. W. Hanna; financial secretary, Mrs. M. Armstrong; treasurer, Mrs. S. E. Bradburn; D. of C., Mrs. B. Hyland; lecturers, Mrs. R. Jordan, Mrs. J. Speeches were given by the officers, also by Mrs. Moore and several other guests including Mrs. Burton, W.M., of Cambray Lodge; Mrs. Parsons, P.W.M., of Lindsay Lodge; and Mrs. E .W. Moore of Lindsay.,

At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a social hour enjoyed.

FEW WEEKS ON SYNTONA MADE BIG DIFFERENCE TO THIS LADY

Tells How It Brought Quick Relief From Two Years' Suffering With Stomach Misery, Backache, Headaches and Loss of Sleep. Pure Herbal Formula.

MRS. HARRY G. ELLIS

"When a medicine will help me the way Syntona did, I think it deserves the highest praise," said Mrs. Harry G. Ellis, 646 Concession St., Hamilton, in a report received only a few days ago:

"I will never forget how I sat up night after night, suffering with stomach gas, cramps, nausea, and heartburn. I was afraid to go to bed because when I would lie down the trouble got worse and I had difficulty keeping food in my stomach at all. I was subject to headaches, backache, and dizzy, billous spells.

"One night I had a very bad attack of this trouble, so I sent out for a bottle of Syntona, and as soon as I got it, I took a dose and went to bed. Well, that night I got the first decent night's sleep I had in ages. As I kept on taking Syntona, I soon got so I could eat anything I liked without any of the former trouble. I am free of those awful headaches and dizzy spells now, and the pains have gone out of my back and muscles. I am so pleased with the way Syntona has helped me that I will be glad to have others know about it."

Syntona produces these results without the aid of drugs or depressors. It is made only from pure herbal extracts that have long been known for their beneficial action on the organs of assimilation and elimination. It is pleasant to take and the results are quickly felt.

You, who suffer like Mrs. Ellis did, are cordially invited to call at Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, and find out for yourselves about Syntona. You, too, may receive these priceless benefits.

Milkman Finds Well Water Has Something, So Now He Runs A Double Route

Victoria, Jan. 4.

Most dairymen have milk routes, but John Seath of Saanich, Victoria's farming centre, has a milk and water route and his customers aren't suspicious.

Mr. Seath owns a 100-acre farm and has a herd of 32 cows. His water supply comes from two wells. Veterinarians wondered why his cows did not require mineral salts. Mr. Seath wondered why vegetables grown on land irrigated from one well were larger and better than those grown where irrigation was from the other well.

Samples sent to chemical laboratory revealed a slight content of alkaline, also sodium chloride.

Mr. Seath immediately expanded his business to include mineral water at 10 cents a quart as well as milk at 12½ cents a quart. His income from the water sales is rapidly overhauling receipts from the sale of milk.

Fifteen gallons of water is given away daily to poor and aged people.

Customers have written testimonials stating that beneficial results have been obtained in cases of rheumatism, sciatica, arthritis, backache, indigestion and even heart trouble.

APSLEY

Vernal Earnshaw, Clif. McColl, Arthur Earnshaw, Russell Lean have returned from Pittsburg, Penn., where they spent the holidays with the former's sister, Miss B. Earnshaw.

Miss Ruby Windsor, R.N., of Belleville, was a holiday guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Windsor.

Mr. Edwin Smith was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. Watson of Clanricarde for a few days last week.

Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Hazelwood of Ben Miller, were holiday guests of the latter's parents and returned to their home on Friday.

Rev. F. McMulken, who has been on a visit to his parents at Ingersoll, returned to his parish on Friday.

Mr. Stalman Peters and friend from St. Catharines, spent last week with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Peters.

Mrs. Elmer Johnson and baby daughter of Haliburton, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Tanner, Chandos.

Mr. Earl Trotter of Claricarde, spent a few days in Sarnia last week.

The men's club met on Thursday in the parish hall after an evening spent in games. A lunch was served by some of the members, consisting of crackers, cheese and tea. Chesel McColl, the president, was in charge.

States' Death Toll Drops For New Year's

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 — (AP). — Violent death toll in the United States over the New Year's week-end stood at 327 to-day as compared with more than 500 for the Christmas holidays a week ago.

At least 200 fatalities resulted from automobile collisions. There were numeorus suicides and deaths by drowning, homicide, asphyxiation, falls, and other causes. A score lost their lives in fires and several were killed in plane crashes.

New York led the States with 1 dead, of whom 26 died in a suicide wave in New York City. Thirty were dead in California, 26 in Illinois, and 25 in New Jersey.

Holland has raised over $500,000 for refugees.

To The Electors of Smith Township:

Kindly accept my sincere thanks for your support in my election as councillor for the year 1939.

Daring Briton Wins Wife From Soviet

Boldness Of Invasion Sways Stalin Where Diplomats Fail

MOSCOW, Jan. 5.—(A.P.)—Bryan Grover, British engineer, got his wife back today, proving again that faint heart never won fair lady.

What diplomatic experts had failed to achieve in four years of effort, the Englishman accomplished in a few weeks by daring to make a "one-man invasion" of Soviet Russia in a second-hand plane with only three weeks' flying instruction.

On top of that he carried his case to the doorstep of Joseph Stalin and offered to become a Soviet citizen if necessary to regain his wife.

Whether the 37-year-old engineer would be allowed to take his wife out of Russia was not certain, but he was with her tonight "somewhere in Moscow" after being released by Soviet authorities.

Optimists who knew anything about the case declared the Soviet Government surely would not spoil everything now by separating them again. Apparently Grover's willingness to dare anything for the sake of a Russian girl rather pleased the Kremlin.

Grover worked in Russia as an oil specialist, fell in love with Eleana Petrovna Golius and married her in 1933.

Broadcast Gets Priest Barred

OTTAWA, January 5. —(C.P.)— Rev. Charles Lanphie rof Toronto has been indefinitely suspended from broadcasting, Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation announced to-day.

The suspension follows the priest's Sunday night broadcast in which he is said to have attacked Communism and intervened in the Toronto Municipal Election campaign, contrary to the provisions of the law.

Mr. Murray issued the following statement: (275) in January, 1938, after a period of suspension from the air, Father Lanphier was restored in the religious series sponsored by the radio league of Saint Michael. Experience of the discord and complaints occasioned by broadcasts in which religon and politics had been mixed induced the Board of Governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to decide that in future religious periods should be devotional in character.

No Politics Pledged.

An understanding was reached with Archbishop McGuigan, and Father Lanphier that his broadcasting could be resumed on condition that he confined himself to items of a purely ecclesiastical nature, avoiding politics, national and international, and controversial theories in economics.

Last Sunday, January 1, Father Lanphier intervened actively in the municipal campaign in Toronto thereby infringing section 22, subsection 5, of the Canadian Broadcasting Act, 1936, which reads as follows: "Political Broadcasts on any Dominion, Provincial or Municipal Election Day and on the two days preceeding any such election day are prohibited. The election took place on the next day, Monday, January 2.

In view of the breach of the understanding and the violation of the Broadcasting Act, Father Lanphier has been indefinitely suspended from broadcasting. It has been made clear that this action is taken, not because of the nature of Father Lanphier's political partisanship, but because of the violation of the Broadcasting Act and of the flagrant breach of the conditions under which his broadcasting was resumed last year.

Even Cows, Sheep, Ponies Kneel In Prayer On January 5th, Christmas In Carolina

Rodanthe, N. C., Jan. 5. (A.P.)

THERE was a story here to-day that at the stroke of last midnight the cows and the sheep, even the wild ponies that roam this narrow island, knelt in prayer as did the shepherds at the birth of Christ. For this village of fishermen and the children it was the start of another Christmas.

Ever since English pioneers settled here more than 200 years ago, Christmas has been observed January 5. Apparently the custom is a holdover from "old Christmas" the twelfth night, or the Epiphany, which falls on January 6.

Christmas tree exercises will be held tonight, probably at the village school building. The tree was imported from Roanoke Island, scene of America's first Christmas observance 353 years ago, because there's only one tree in Rodanthe.

More gifts will be distributed about the tree and there'll be an effigy of "old buck"—methical ogre with hoofs and horns which comes at Christmas to punish bad boys and girls.

Only Inspectors' Eternal Vigilance Saves Canadian Livestock Scourge Of Foot, Mouth Disease

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP).—Foot and mouth disease, a sword of Damocles hanging over the worlds livestock industry, has never touched Canada due to the eagle eye of Dominion Department of Agriculture inspectors, who today presented a rough picture of just what such an epidemic would mean.

If in some manner the foot and mouth disease virus, so small it cannot be seen by the most powerful microscope, managed to elude the border guards and infected Canadian farm animals, it would mean sudden catastrophe to agricultural and associated industries. Within a few hours even, practically all export outlets for Canadian cattle, sheep and swine, also meat and meat products might be shut down and a trade that has required years to acquire might be wholly lost, for it woud take a long time to restore world confidence in Canadian livestock.

Creameries and dairy factories, packing plants and stockyards might have to close. Markets and expositions would be prohibited. A 20-mile cordon would be thrown about any infected farm and the animals on it would be slaughtered. Even cats and dogs, pigeons and poultry

First Mail For North Goes Out Again By Dog Train Route

Churchill, Man., Jan. 5. (C. P.).

Sigurdson will mush to Eskimo Point, 180 miles north, from where the mail will be taken over by a Royal Canadian Mounted Police patrol bound for Chesterfield Baker Lake, Wagner Inlet and Repulse Bay. Arctic Post 600 miles from here.

January's Thaw Starts Ice, Drifts Fading

(By the Canadian Press.)

A typical January thaw prevailed throughout Ontario to-day after a short spell of decidedly cold weather. Rain was falling in several centres with temperatures much higher than yesterday. Ottawa and some northern areas still enjoyed brisk, winter weather, however.

Peterborough a sub-zero spot yesterday, reported "much milder" weather with the temperature 35 at noon.

At Kitchener and Waterloo the thermometer went above the freezing mark for the first time in a long spell and the sudden change left roads in a slippery condition. The thermometer read 48 above at Chatham. At Brantford the snow was melting rapidly.

A light rain fell at Stratford and in St. Catharines area. At Stratford, telephone company officials reported a coating of ice covering the wires yesterday had pulled several lines down. There was no direct communication with London and north as far as Listowel.

Rain began falling this morning at Hamilton, giving promise of relief from weeks of icy highways and slippery streets.

The temperature at Windsor at 10 a.m. was 51 above zero. The sun was shining and most of the snow disappeared during the night. Colder weather to-night and Friday was forecast.

Despite the unusually mild weather, Windsor weather officials said no records had been broken.

Tornado Kills 3 In Tennessee

LURAY, Tenn., Jan. 5—(AP).—Homeless families picked over debris left in West Tennessee today by cyclonic winds that took at least three lives, injured some 20 persons and demolished homes and store buildings.

Striking last night after a period of unseasonably warm weather the storm cut a well defined quarter mile path in this area.

The dead were Mrs. Cecil Wilson, Bargerton, killed with her four-year-old daughter when her farm home was demolished, and Monroe Willis, 45, Silverton, killed when his home collapsed.

High winds and rain were reported in other parts of the south. Farm buildings were damaged near Farmington, Ark., yesterday.

Cook Freezes To Death After Heart Attack

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Jan. 5 (AP) —Roger Kingdon Nelson, 50-year-old mining camp cook and one-time Saskatchewan rancher frozen to death after a heart attack a week ago, has been identified as a member of a distinguished British family. He was buried yesterday.

U.S. Commissioner William Growden said papers showed Nelson's sister isthe wife of Hon. J. C. S. Reid, consul general for Scotland and member of parliament for Hillhead Division, Glasgow.

Nelson left Great Britain many years ago to take up cattle ranching in Saskatchewan. Later he went to the Klondike, then came here.

He was found dead after apparently collapsing from a heart attack while shaving.

War Scare Tops World News In Review Of 1938; Trade Pact Home Feature

Corrigan Flight Creates Mirth, Rates Fourth Jewish Persecution Runs Next, Roosevelt Speech, Hepburn Tiff Well Up

(By the Canadian Press.)

Threat of war and measures to stem its tide dominated front pages in 1938. Telegraph editors of newspapers across Canada unanimously placed at the top "the September crisis," or one of its many fast-breaking developments, in the Canadian Press' annual quest for opinion on the year's 10 greatest stories of world interest.

They found a quieter note nearer home, choosing as the best of five Canadian stories the new trade treaty between the Dominion and United States. Yet even in "domestic" news the threat echoed. President Roosevelt's declaration at Kingston — "The United States will not stand idly by if domination of Canadian soil is threatened"—was placed second in the Canadian list.

The selections:

World news: 1 and 2. The crisis and the Munich pact; 3. annexation of Austria; 4. Corrigan flight; 5. persecution of Jews; 6. Hughes' round-the-world flight; 7. U.K.-U.S. trade pact; 8. Eden resignation; 9. New England hurricanes; 10. troubles in Palestine.

Canadian news: 1. Canada-United States trade pact; 2. Roosevelt's Kingston speech; 3. King-Hepburn feud; 4. Bren gun inquiry; 5. Their Majesties' impending visit.

Corrigan Proves "Break."

Many editors chose the whole crisis, a fast developing day-to-day story, as their top; while others voted for the single occasion of the Munich pact. For that reason these were bracketed together. Not far behind in news-value was the march in Austria.

Right there a brave, homely, puckish note creeps into the selections for in the fourth spot is Douglas Corrigan's "wrong way" flight from New York to Dublin in a second-hand plane. This, the editors felt, outshone even the record-smashing, scientific, round-the-world jaunt of Howard Hughes and his companions.

Persecution of Jewry in Germany, culminating in drastic confiscatory decrees after the killing in Paris of a German embassy attache in November, found a place on nearly every list, as did signing of the United Kingdom-United States trade treaty and the resignation of Anthony Eden as foreign secretary nearly a year ago, an early sidelight in the long story climaxed at Munich.

September floods that took nearly 700 lives along the north-eastern United States seaboard caught the editors' eyes as a splash of sudden action against the granite background of power politics; Arab-Jew clashes in Palestine and British efforts at pacification took rank also as headline makers.

Fever Victim 8 Dislikes The Soup, Skips Hospital, Goes Home

TORONTO, Jan. 5 — (CP). — Because she didn't like the soup served at the Isolation Hospital, eight-year-old Mary Barry, a scarlet fever patient, walked out of that institution at 6.30 a.m. to-day

Clad in a flannel dressing gown over her night clothing, her feet shod in bedroom slippers, the girl walked seven blocks to her home.

When a nurse noticed that Mary was missing and a search of the hospital failed to find her, police were ordere dto search the district. One of the cars went to the Barry home and found Mary safe in bed, showing no ill-effects.

Mary entered the hospital on November 25 with scarlet fever. Two weeks later she contracted chickenpox, according to Mrs. Fred W. Barry, her mother. In addition, she had a nose infection. The child was convalescing and was to leave the hospital next Saturday or Sunday.

Mary's sister Elizabeth, aged 6, went to Withrow Public School as usual to-day. When she arrived there C. Clark Swain, the principal, notified the school nurse and the girl was taken to the nurse's office, to await a ruling from the Department of Health as to whether she should be admitted to her class under the circumstances.

Playing With Her Toys.

When a reported called at the Barry home, Mary was sitting in bed playing with her toys and talking to her brother Fred, five. Margaret Rose, 20 months old, and the youngest of the four Barry children, was in another room.

"I didn't like the soup," Mary explained to her mother when she arrived home.

She said there were no nurses in her ward when she decided to go. So she slipped on her dressing gown, stockings, and slippers and walked out a side door.

Dr. Gordon P. Jackson, M.O.H., is conducting an investigation into Mary's disappearance. He said it was up to her parents to say whether she would be brought back to the hospital. If she is she will be kept there until the last signs of scarlet fever have disappeared. If she remains at home the house will be quarantined.

Day Denies Planning To Seek Federal Seat Next Election

Toronto, Jan. 5. (C.P.).

"I certainly will not," declared Mayor Ralph Day today to a report that he would resign his office and run as a Conservative candidiate, should a Federal election be called this year. The report was based on speculation that whoever is vice-chairman of Board of Control would ultimately be Mayor due to his worship's anticipated jump into Federal politics.

"I was elected Mayor for this year and I certainly will serve this term out at least,' he added. "I have no intention whatsoever of seeking Federal nomination for any seat for any party this year."

See U.S. Playing Vital Role

LONDON, Jan. 5—(AP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain today greeted President Roosevelt's message to congress yesterday as "another indication of the vital role of the American democracy in world affairs and its devotion to the ideal of ordered human progress.

The prime minister in a statement to the press declared "nobody who is charged with the heavy responsibilities of government could fail to be impressed by the solemn words with which the president of the United States yesterday greeted the elected representatives of the American people."

The brief statement, issued at 10 Downing Street concluded:

"In these islands, where there is so clear a realization that only through freedom and peace can we hope to maintain and develop for ourselves and for those that come after us the benefits for which we have labored for generations, the sentiments expressed by the president will be welcomed as yet another indication of the vital role of the American democracy in world affairs and its devotion to the ideal of ordered human progress."

10 Children Flee Into Huntsville's Sub-Zero As Fire Ends Courthouse Landmark

Huntsville, Ont., Jan. 5. (C.P.).

A FAMILY of 12, including 10 young children, fled their home in sub-zero weather early today as fire razed the historic Huntsville court house building in which they lived. The escape was aided by neighbors and volunteer firemen.

The rescued are Silas Payne and his wife and children who lived on the lower floor of the building, the first Government building erected here, 50 years old and a local landmark. The children range in age from a baby of a few months to 15 years.

The family was asleep when the fire broke out in the upper story. Neighbors noticed the flames, awakened the family and summoned volunteer firemen. Smoke already was filling the building when Chief Pomright dashed inside and came out with a child under each arm. None of the family was injured and neighbors are giving shelter to them.

The courthouse was sold by the municipality to the Orange Lodge six years ago. Since then the lower part has been used as a dwelling and the upper storey as lodge quarters.

Huntsville is 140 miles north of Toronto.

Democracies Praise Roosevelt While Germany Charges Address Preaches "Hatred"

LONDON, Jan. 5 (AP)—The German press scorned President Roosevelt's defence address today, charging it preached "hatred," while the democracies gave praise.

European officials studied the speech as one of the most important declarations coming from Washington since the Great War.

The democracies hoped it was a prelude to major changes in American foreign policy, giving particular attention to the possibility of revision of neutrality legislation.

Both the German and Italian press accused the president of playing domestic politics and of deserting the isolation policy of George Washington.

Some Soviet Russian newspapers, in brief summaries, emphasized points on preparedness against aggression and the neutrality law but omitted passages about the democracies and religion. There was no editorial comment.

The Liberal Manchester Guardian contrasted Mr. Roosevelt's declaration against "dictatorships" with Prime Minister Chamberlain's "timid exercises in the same field."

"Most English men and women, when they listened to President Roosevelt, must have wished sadly that it was the head of their own government who was saying these things," the Guardian said.

A "Naive Confession"

It continued that the British people who heard Mr. Roosevelt praise the democratic system "must have recalled with shame" Prime Minister Chamberlain's "naive confession" that, although Fascism may or may not do for Great Britain, he "could not get up 'much excitement over different systems of government.'

"They must have regretted that it has been left to an American president to state the British (as it is also the American) way of life without apologizing for it. The contrast is painful and need not be pursued."

British foreign office officials approved the address but indicated that official enthusiasm might be "inconvenient" later in dealing with the dictatorships.

"I am convinced," said one spokesman, "and I think others here agree with me, that German influence has already penetrated to such an extent in South America that any general war here would be the signal for a series of uprisings in South America, the object of which would be to keep the United States occupied at home."

Passing Tip Along.

Britain rebroadcast in German and Italian pointed passages of the address.

The Daily Herald (Labor) observed editorially that "with a passionate faith that puts to shame some of our tired and ailing ministers, President Roosevelt proclaims the great principles of a Liberal civilization."

The Daily Express (Independent): "A strong United States exerting her immense moral and economic might on the side of peace is a reinforcement of every peaceful nation."

The Times (Independent): "XXX the authentic voice of the American people, and it will be heard with full sympathy" by those who share the American "political faith."

Tenement Blaze Costs Four Lives

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP). — Flames sweeping through a five-storey tenement house in Upper Manhattan early today burned four persons to death and drove between 150 and 200 survivors into the predawn streets amid a series of spectacular rescues.

Two cripples in the burning structure, including a 50-year-old man paralyzed from the hips down, waved frantically until they attracted the attention of firemen. They were reached by scaling ladders.

Authorities were investigating a report that the blaze started in a Christmas tree.

The dead, all occupied upper floors of the building, were listed as: Mrs. Georgette Daugnault, 65; Mrs. Anna Le Clare, 52; Harry Argess, 20, and his wife, Beckie, 18.

Crowds cheered the rescue of Cliff Blauvelt, who dragged his paralyzed legs to a window on the fourth floor, crawled down a fire-escape to the second floor where firemen reached him with a 20-foot ladder.

Bus Runs Into Delay As Stork Forces A Hurried Detour

Toronto, Jan. 5. (C.P.).

IF customers of the T. T. C.'s Forest Hill Village bus route were irked by a long delay in service early today perhaps they'll forgive the Commission this time.

At 6.45 a.m. a woman passenger, Mrs. Doris Abbott, 26, was taken ill in a bus at Spadina Avenue and St. Clair. Driver A. Hatton didn't waste a minute. He drove along St. Clair to the office of Dr. H. B. Coleman and hurried the doctor out of bed. Then driver, doctor and passenger headed post-haste for the Conway Private Hospital. They arrived just in time.

Mother and son are both doing well.

King's Itinerary Held Final And Irrevocable

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP).—The itinerary arranged for the visit to Canada next spring of King George and Queen Elizabeth is final and irrevocable and protests from districts not included will be useless, it was learned today.

Already a number of protests have been received from Ontario districts urging that a change be made so that they may be included in the royal tour.

All the government can do is to acknowledge these protests and explain the impossibility of more places being visited than those in the approved itinerary. Prime Minister Mackenzie King anticipated there would be a feeling in some quarters they had been slighted.

"I ask the people to appreciate the physical impossibility of Their Majesties visiting all parts of Canada in the short time they will be here," Mr. Mackenzie King said in announcing the itinerary last Tuesday.

The itinerary was prepared by the Inter-Departmental Committee appointed to handle details of the visit, and the Dominion Cabinet then submitted to the King and Queen for approval. It could not now be changed without royal approval, and the Prime Minister has stated definitely it must be regarded as final.

Originally the royal visit was planned for Ottawa alone, but the King expressed a desire to see as much of Canada as possible in the time at his disposal.

Because the time is so short and the country so vast, a spokesman said today, many large centres and districts must be overlooked. If those places now protesting were satisfied others would have to be left out.

As finally approved the itinerary represented the best efforts of those charged with responsibility for arranging it and, it was stated, those officials regretted as much as the protesters the fact that so many important centres would not be visited.

U.S. Defences Mean 44 Billion Debt

Staggering Budget Sends Taxes Up To Keep Nation Safe

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP).—President Roosevelt asked vast sums for national defence to-day in a multi-billion dollar budget that projected another deficit and an unprecedented public debt of $44,458,000,000 for the United States in 1940.

His annual report to Congress on the country's finances advised emphatically against a "violent contraction" in spending on "drastic new taxes." He opened the way, however, to "moderate tax increases" to meet expenditures of $422,000,000 for armament and farm relief costs.

He called for $8,995,663,200 of Federal spending in the fiscal year beginning next July 1 and estimated the deficit for that year at $3,326,343,200.

He asked $1,609,000,000 for national defence, including an extra $500,000,000 to speed up the armaments program. Of the latter sum, however, only $210,000,000 would be disbursed next year.

Reiterating the preparedness theme voiced in his annual message to Congress yesterday, the President said all are aware "of the grave and unsettling developments in the field of international relations during the past few years."

Can't Wait For War.

"Because of the conditions of modern warfare we must now perform in advance tasks that formerly could be postponed until war had become imminent."

The request for the extraordinary $500,000,000 appropriation is to be submitted formally early next week in another message. In it the President intends to detail his plans for vastly expanded air forces and other defence recommendations which already have been partially disclosed.

As the regular budget requirements of the army and navy, Mr. Roosevelt asked a total of $1,109,557,900, an increase of $99,351,000, for strictly military purposes.

He requested $667,498,800 for the navy, an increase of $92,589,250. He proposed that funds available for naval construction be increased by $115,113,150 to $270,000,000, and that $74,000,000 be supplied the navy's bureau of aeronautics, an increase of $25,925,000.

The construction increase, he explained, provides for continuing work on some 90 vessels already under way, and for beginning construction in 1940 of two battleships (expected to be the world's largest), two cruisers, eight destroyers, eight submarines, two seaplane tenders, and one repair ship.

93 More Planes.

The money also would provide for expanding the navy's air forces by 93 planes, toward the 3,000 goal already authorized.

Included was an estimate of $4,000,000 toward the cost of modernizing the aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga. Another provision of $3,545,000 would enable the navy to expedite its present accumulation of various minerals and other materials as a war reserve.

Mr. Roosevelt recommended 448 additional officers for the navy, 73 for the marine corps, and 456 for the army. The budget included provision for 5,500 more naval enlisted men, increasing the number of sailors to 113,050.

For the army's regular budget the President recommended $442,059,100, an increase of less than $7,000,000. Official sources said it was framed before he decided to propose a major expansion of the air force.

In line with the recent recommendation of War Secretary Woodring, that the Panama Canal be made "impregnable," Mr. Roosevelt recommended $2,575,497 for fortifications there, compared with the current $1,766,402.

Increases for seacoast defences, the ordnance department, and the military intelligence division also were recommended.

Nuisance Levies to Stay.

Mr. Roosevelt did not specify the

Baffling "Leak" In Secrets Of Nazis Records Causes Hitler To Order Ton Destroyed

London, Jan. 5. (C. P.-Havas).

THE DAILY HERALD (Labor) to-day reported German officials have "destroyed" many secret records and files of the Nazi party and the Government as a result of a mysterious "leak."

Henrich Himmler, chief of all German police, has failed to trace the source of the alleged "leak" despite an intensive search during the past few months, a 'special correspondent" of the newspaper wrote.

"The facts were brought to the knowledge of Chancellor Hitler who decided it was better to get rid of the 'dangerous' material," the correspondent said.

He added the Soviet Union was believed responsible for the leak and that German police officials charged that certain secret documents published in the foreign press—but not in the Soviet press—had been based on material furnished to foreign newspapermen by Soviet diplomats.

"Many military secrets, it has been found, are well-known in Soviet Russia," the correspondent wrote. "Particulars of submarine building have also leaked out and it is said that Berlin's move to modify the Anglo-German naval agreement follows a threat by the Soviet Union to disclose its information.

"Officials have been told that the shortage of paper is the reason for the collection of the records, a ton of which have been carried away to be destroyed."

New U.K. Scholarships Opened To Students

LONDON, Jan. 5 — (CP Cable).— The British Council, whose funds are derived from Government subsidy and private subscription, to-day announced it is offering annually four £300 ($1,400) one-year post-graduate scholarships in the United Kingdom to selected graduates from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa.

Effective in October the scholarships will be open to those conducting research in subjects of social, economic or political value, which may be regarded of Dominion, intra-Imperial or international importance.

The National Conference of Canadian Universities will recommend students from that Dominion annually in April. The Canadian names will then be pooled with those of the other Dominions for the British Council to make final selections in May.

It was pointed out the selectors will not necessarily pick a student from each Dominion. "It would be possible for Canada to win all four scholarships—or none," an official said.

The scholarships will also be opened to residents of Newfoundland attending Dominion universities.

Grim Battle Cruiser's Deck Turns Tea Nook For Royal Party's Trip To Canada

Portsmouth, Eng., Jan. 5 (C.P.)

THE broad decks of H. M. S. Repulse, British super battle cruiser, resounded today to the unfamiliar tread of Fleet Street landlubbers for the first time since the ship was nominated for honor of taking King George and his consort to Canada next May.

The admiralty relaxed its stringent regulations temporarily to give newspapermen a glimpse of what is being done to make the ship fit for its voyage to the senior Dominon of the Sovereign's Great Empire.

Starting from the peak of the forecastle ,these cabins are planned for the Royal party: The King's day cabin, the King's dining cabin, the King's sleeping cabin the King's bathroom, the Queen's sleeping cabin, the Queen's bathroom, the Queen's day cabin; cabins and bathrooms for the ladies in waiting, and cabins for servants.

The shelter deck will be converted into a tea deck, with steel canopy as a glass screen, aft of which will be the Royal galley, then cabins for maids of the ladies in waiting. Several extra cabins are being installed on the main deck for the ship's officers and the four-inch guns, which are obsolete anyway, have been removed to make room for them.

The vessel will carry amphibian aircraft and a 40-foot Royal barge. The alterations will not alter the ship's appearance except for the removal of the small guns.

New Jap Regime Swings Totalitarian

TOYKO, Jan. 5—(AP). — The Fascist-inclined, 73-year-old Kiichiro Hiranuma, formed a highly authoritarian government to-day with completion of a cabinet that included the resigning Premier, Prince Fumumargo Konoye.

Prince Konoye became minister without portfolio, a new post, and most of his cabinet officers remained in the new government, which is expected to impose increasingly strict control of economic life, seek to consolidate Japanese conquests in China and bring all political parties into a single, nationalist group.

The cabinet includes four new ministers, Sotaro Ishiwatari, finance; Yukio Sakurauchi, Minseito party advisor, agriculture; Yonezo Maeda, minister of railways; and Hisatada Hirose, as minister of welfare.

The resignation of Seihin Ikeda as minister of finance and commerce was the most notable change, indicating a main cause in the cabinet collapse was disagreement over the extent of government control of business. Ikeda opposed restrictions on corporation capital and munitions profits.

Remaining in the cabient are Hachiro Arita, foreign minister; Lieut. General Saishiro Itagaki, war; Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, navy; Marquis Koichi Kido, formerly welfare and now home; Suehiko Shiono, justice; General Baron Sadao Araki, education; and Yoshiaki Hatta, overseas.

Hatta also assumes the commerce ministry; Shiono assumes also the communications portfolio.

Those departing, besides Ikeda as finance and commerce minister, are Count Rainei Arima, minister of agriculture; Chikuehei Nakashima, railways; Ryutaro Nagai, communications; and Admiral Nobumasa Suyetsugu, home.

Poultry Prizes Cleaned Up By Seven Men

Seven exhibitors carried off practically every prize at the thirtieth annual Peterborough Poultry show, an almost completed prize list showed today. With only special prize awards and a few classes in the general competition to be heard from, birds of these seven men were winners in almost every field.

The men were J. M. Lowes of Otonabee, who walked off with close to 100 per cent of all awards for production birds; Harry Lush of Peterborough, prominent in many branches but particularly in the fancy classes where he won nearly every prize; H. E. Black of Peterborough, who made almost a clean sweep of the white leghorn divisions; R. M. Brown of Bridgenorth; and H. VanAllen of Peterborough, both of whose winnings were scattered through every class; W. W. Lord and Son of Campbellcroft, winners in the White Wyandotte class; E. Simmons of Peterborough, who made a clean sweep in Rhode Island Reds and who won other awards as well.

More than 600 birds were on exhibit this year, a larger number than last year, but less than half the number that used to be shown in the early years of the exhibition. Judge C. M. Wallace of Iroquois declared that the judging had been difficult because of the general run of first-class fowl.

In the Barred Rock division, R. M. Brown won the cock division while E. H. White was second and won first and second in hens and second in cockerel, first in pullets. H. M. Foster won first in cockerels. In White Rocks Mr. Brown won first in cocks, first in hens, first and second in cockerels, third in pullets. H. VanAllen was second in cocks and hens, first in pullets, while A. B. Mann was second in pullets. Mr. Brown carried off all honors in partridge rocks, both hen and cockerel.

H. Lush won chief awards in Silver Wyandottes, capturing all honors except second in cocks and hens, which went to Mr. VanAllen. In the Golden Wyandotte division Mr. Lush was first in cocks and hens, second in cockerels and first in pullets. H. M. Foster was second in cocks, hens and pullets, first in cockerels. In the White Wyandotte division W. W. Lord and Sons captured all honors except second in cocks and cockerels, which awards went to A. B. Mann.

R. M. Brown won first in Buff Wyandottes, and first in Partridge Wyandottes, in cock, hen and pullet classes, while H. M. Foster was first in cockerels, second in pullets. H. VanAllen and R. M. Brown shared honors in Columbian Wyandottes. VanAllen won first in cocks and hens, second in cocks, hens and pullets, while first in cockerels and pullets, seconds in hens, and cockerels, thirds in hens and pullets went to Mr. Brown.

E. Simmons won all honors in Rhode Island Reds except third place in cockerels, which went to E. H. White. R. M. Brown took all prizes in Jersey Black Giants except second in cockerels, which went to J. M. Lowes.

Mr. Lowes was chief winner in New Hampshires winning first and third in hens, second and third in cockerels, third in pullets. H. VanAllen captured second in hens and pullets, M. Chapman first in cockerels, A. B. Mann first in pullets. Mr. Brown stood highest in light Brahmas with first an dthird in pullets, second and third in cockerels, first in cocks, second in hens. H. VanAllen was second in hens, H. M. Foster was first in cockerels, second in pullets.

In Dark Brahmas H. Lush captured all honors and most in Partridge Cochins in which class he won first in cocks, first and third in hens, first in cockerels and pullets. R. M. Brown finished second in cocks, hens, cockerels and pullets. In cochins, H. VanAllen won first in cocks, second in hens, while R. M. Brown won first in hens. In Black Langshans Mr. Lush won all awards except third in hens, which went to Mr. Brown. H. E. Black captured first second and third in the cockerel class among single comb brown Leghorns (light) second and third in pullets, while H. VanAllen won first in hens and pullets. R. M. Brown second in hens. Among the dark birds of the same variety Mr. Black captured first, second, and third in both cockerels and pullets. R. M. Brown first and second in cocks, H. VanAllen first and second in hens. In the red combs Mr. Brown placed first in cocks, third in hens, second in pullets; Mr. VanAllen was first in hens and pullets; H. M. Foster was second in hens.

In single comb White Leghorns Mr. Black placed first in all divisions, second in cockerels and took all honors in pullets. Second in cocks and third in hens went to Mr. Mann, while Mr. Brown was third in cocks, and second in hens. Mr. Black took all honors in red combs except second in cockerels and third in pullets, both of which went to Mr. Brown.

In single comb Buff Leghorns Mr. VanAllen captured all prizes except first in cockerels, which went to Mr. Mann. Mr. Brown won all prizes for cocks and hens in single comb Black Leghorns, as well as second and third in cockerels. D. J. Hayes won first in cockerels and all awards in pullets went to D. J. Hayes. In single comb Black Minorcas R. D. Robson was chief winner, capturing first and second in hens, cockerels and pullets. Mr. Brown was first in cocks and Mr. Mann was second in hens and third in cockerels and pullets. Mr. Mann also won all prizes for Blue Andalusians. VanAllen and Brown split honours in Anconas, the former winning first and third in cocks, second in hens, first in pullets, with all other awards going to the latter. Similarly in Mediterraneans, Dorkings, Redcaps, they split honours. In Buff Orpingtons, Mr. Brown won the cock and hen division, with A. B. Mann taking firsts in cockerels and pullets. In other Orpington varieties Mr. Brown was first and second in hens, second in cockerels, while Mr. VanAllen was third in hens, first in cockerels.

In Cornish, VanAllen captured first in cocks, third in hens, while Mr. Brown was first and second in hens, second in cockerels, while Mr. VanAllen was third in hens, first in cockerels.

In Cornish, VanAllen captured first in cocks, third in hens, while Mr. Brown was first and second in hens, second in pullets, and A. B. Mann was first in cockerels. In Sussex variety, Mr. VanAllen took all honours. Mr. Lush was chief winner in Polish white crested blacks, Mr. Brown taking second in cocks, cockerels and pullets, third in hens, as his only competitor. Mr. Lush also won all awards in Silver Polish, Golden Polish, Buff Polish and White Polish classes.

In Spangled Hamburgs Mr. Brown placed first and second in hens, first in cockerels while D. J. Hayes was second in cockerels, first and second in pullets. In Pencilled Hamburgs Mr. Lush won all prizes but third in cocks, first in hens, both of which went to Mr. VanAllen. In Black Hamburgs he shared honours with Mr. Brown. In Houdans, Mr. Brown had the edge over Mr. Lush, taking second in cocks, second in hens, first and second in both cockerels and pullets. First in cocks and hens went to Mr. Lush.

In Silver Campines the only award made, for a hen, went to Mr. Mann. In game pit birds Mr. VanAllen took all prizes. In Silkies he took first and second in pullets while first in cocks and hens went to H. Bowler.

In production classes, including White Leghorns, Barred Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, J. M. Lowes took all honours except first in Barred Rock hens and first and second in cockerels, which went to E. H. White, and first in Rhode Island Red pullets, which went to E. Simmons.

In the Bantam division, with black or red game birds, J. M. Lowes was first and second in cocks and hens, second and third in pullets, while Mr. Lush won first and second in cockerels, and E. Simmons first in pullets.

New Find Foils Mustard Gas

By John Davis
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

GENEVA, N.Y., Jan. 5—(AP).—A new chemical compound for virtually complete protection for soldiers and civilians against one of war's worst horrors, the burns of mustard gas, was announced today by officials of Hobart College.

"Mustard," 20 years after the Great War, still rates as the most effective poison gas. The new chemical, sprayed on clothing, is announced as protecting for months against the burns.

The discoverer is Dr. Ralph Bullard, professor of chemistry, member of the American Chemical Society and several honorary science organizations, formerly an industrial chemist. The formula of the chemical is not made public.

Because of its ability to cause contact burns, mustard has been used to saturate the ground to render areas of military importance temporarily untenable. Although little has been said about this, the newer mustard gases are expected to make this burning threat last for days, and for weeks if there is no rain.

"Until today," the Hobart announcement states, "the only protection against mustard gas has included gas masks and rubberized clothing. Masks afford no protection against one of the most dangerous properties, ability to cause severe burns and blisters on parts not covered by the mask.

Trouble With Rubber

"To protect the body, rubberized clothing was developed but this protection is questionable at its best. Rubberized clothing is intolerable after relatively short periods because it prevents evaporation of body moisture.

"The new anti-mustard preparation, sprayed on clothing, will remain effective for several months. Neither water nor ordinary temperatures have any effect on the compound and clothing may be cleansed without destroying its effectiveness.

"Mustard gas coming in contact with treated clothing immediately is neutralized and becomes harmless as the air itself. The preparation is harmless to human beings and treated clothing can be worn without any discomfort whatever."

Research for an anti-mustard compound was started in the Hobart laboratories under Dr. Bullard's direction several years ago.

Dr. Bullard said much research remains to perfect the preparation for practical use.

The German Zeitung am Mittag charged the speech was based on "gross atrocity lies" and stated "Washington's new policy seems to be to preach blind hatred and unscrupulous estrangement between the two continents."

Preaching Unrest?

Asserting Germany knows "this orator speaks only for himself," the newspaper added "the American people want peace and not the unrest which Roosevelt so assiduously preaches."

"Mr. Roosevelt bears sole responsibility before the true interests of the American people if, for his own personal advantage and for the advantage of Jewish Wall street finance, he takes a high and mighty attitude and promotes hatred instead of appeasement between nations," it declared.

Field Marshal Hermann Goering's National Zeitung of Essen, asserting the severance of relations with Germany was being discussed in the United States, said "Herr Roosevelt's declaration could almost be regarded as a provocation to such a rupture.

"In a time which urgently calls for cool-headed and statesmanlike leaders in all nations, Herr Roosevelt, under the influence of his Jewish counsellors—deems it advisable in an important world situation to play clear party politics."

The Berliner Tageblatt, calling the President a "Don Quixote," said he was riding in for "attack against windmills.'" His message, it added, was "an appeal for war preparedness against the inmates of mars who recently set the United States in such unseemly excitement."

Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung titled its comment "loud words of an uncertain President."

The Hamburger Fremdenblatt said Mr. Roosevelt had "failed in everything" and "knows no other solution of his difficulties than incitement of his people against other nations from which America is separated by the ocean."

"U. S. Under Jew Dictatorship."

Chancellor Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter headed a front-page New York dispatch: "United States under Jewish dictatorship — 62,000 Jews in Federal and State administration."

Italian Fascists dismissed the speech as "needless alarm." President Roosevelt "is arousing fears of aggression that do not exist," Il Popolo Di Romo said. Il Messaggero said "Roosevelt is pessimistic over the fate of democracy."

The Paris press, both Right and Left in sympathies, reported the speech favorably with long excerpts, emphasizing the prospect of neutrality law revision.

Madame Tabouis in the Leftist Oeuvre said the "speech came at a time particularly critical for the dictators" and might be "a decisive influence on the Orientation of their policies.'

Colonel Francois De La Rocque's Rightist Petit Journal: "The United States finally has come into the international squabble and not only because it needs to save its markets but also because public opinion in the new world revolts against religious persecution, against the new tyranny under dictatorial regimes."

form of the suggested new taxes, he recommended continuance of a group of emergency "nuisance" levies scheduled to expire on June 30.

The budget included an estimate that at least $750,000,000 would be required to operate the Works Progress Administration until June 30. Present funds are expected to run out February 8. For the next year, the President asked $1,500,000,000 for the W.P.A. to provide work relief for the unemployed. He requested no new public works program, but estimated $366,000,000 would be necessary to carry out work already under way.

Next year's $8,995,663,200 expenditure estimates, which did not include $100,000,000 to be used for paying off debt, compared with a forecast of $9,492,329,000 for the current year. Receipts were set at $5,669,320,000, and $5,520,070,000 for the respective periods.

Mr. Roosevelt renewed his oftenrepeated suggestion that the best method of obtaining a balance budget is the promotion of economic recovery.

"We can not by a simple legislative act raise the level of national income but our experience in the last few years has amply demonstrated that through wise fiscal policies and other acts of government we can do much to stimulate it," he said.

"During the past nine years — a period which has seen the national income drop from a high of $81,000,000,000 in 1929 to around $40,000,000,000 in 1932 and rise again to about $70,000,000,000 in 1937 —Federal revenues, even though on a higher tax basis, have never completely covered expenditures."

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Jan. 5 — (C.P.). — Futures prices failed to regain early losses on Winnipeg wheat market to-day when trading turned dull towards the end of the session. At the finish quotations were one cent lower, with May at 62⅝, July 63¼ and October 63½ cents.

Both buyers and sellers displayed caution in later dealings as interest lagged. A large share of the selling encountered on the break was credited to Southern and Eastern houses and appeared to represent liquidation by recent buyers.

Export business in Canadian wheat was placed close to 200,000 bushels, worked chiefly from Vancouver. Exporters offered a little support to the slipping prices.

Stirling Couple Flee Fire Into Snow Drift

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 5. — An early morning blaze destroyed the dwelling-place and household effects of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Thompson of Stirling on Wednesday morning. The fire, which is believed to have been caused by overheated pipes, was not discovered until the lower part of the home was a mass of flames.

Awakened by flames and smoke, occupants of the residence found themselves trapped with the stairway ablaze. Mr. Thompson removed a second storey window, and with his wife, both scantily clad, jumped to safety into a deep snowdrift. With the exception of a few cuts and bruises, they sufefred no ill-effects. They were taken to the home of a nearby neighbor, while the Fire Brigade, under Chief Robert Williams, worked to confine the blaze to the burning building.

The home was a five-roomed stucco building. The loss estimated at $1,500, is partially covered by insurance.

Jap Trading Ends In New Zealand

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Jan. 5.—(C. P.-Reuters). —Considerable dissatisfaction was expressed today as traders surveyed the first applications of the Government's new import restrictions policy which appeared virtually to bar Japanese goods and to reduce drastically imports from other countries, including Canada.

Importers complained early results showed lack of system in application of the Government's powers. The experience of Auckland firms indicated a complete stoppage of imports from Japan and various reductions in United States Kingdom and Empire goods.

One Christchurch importer analyzed thus the results of application of the system of his imports of metal goods other than hardware and tools: United States goods cut 79 per cent., German 74 per cent., Australian 70 per cent, Canadian 58 per cent, and United Kingdom goods 23 per cent.

Manufacturers importing machinery and raw materials, particularly those importing from the United Kingdom, appeared satisfied but others said the present application of the policy made it impossible to plan buying programs.

Prime Minister Michael Savage defended the licence system with a declaration that "while we are exary industries, we are also expanding the production of secondpanding the production of primary industries, which means there will be more imports."

Answering Traders' criticisms, the Prime Minister said the Labor Government would do its best to correct anomalies but emphasied "the Government must carry out its policy of protection of New Zealand industry."

"What New Zealand is trying to do by control other people are trying to do by tariffs," he added. "But control of external trade does not mean that we are going to have less of it. We want to expand trade. We want the people of this country to help us."

The licence system, announced December 6, was designed to conserve exchange to ensure that funds will be available to meet commitments at the end of this year, according to an explanation by finance minister Walter Nash, who said that last year there had been over-importation.

Nearly 2,000 American electric refrigerators were received in Brazil in a recent month.

Remember the Old "Minnies"

Many a Canadian soldier has plenty of reason to remember the German Minerwerfers in the Great War. They called them "Minnies." Here's an adaption of the Minnie. It is a granatwerfer (grenade-thrower), which may be used in open or trench warfare. It is one of the little things to which Baby 1939 must look forward with fear and trembling and is the latest equipment for the German army.

Slide Wrecks Train Kills Engineer

NELSON, B.C., Jan. 5 (CP). — A small rockslide on the Kootenay Lake link of the Canadian Pacific Railway, 40 miles east of here, derailed the engine and four cars of a westbound freight yesterday. The engineer was killed and two trainmen injured.

Engineer Arthur Bolt, 47, was killed when his engine struck the slide, plunged from the rails and rolled down an embankment.

Charles McDonald, 44, fireman, was scalded and Carl Larson, 52, brakeman, was injured slightly. All are from Cranbrook, B.C.

The derailment occurred as the westbound freight rounded a curve near Drewry, B.C., and struck the small slide composed of a dozen or so bounders. Four freight cars were derailed.

700 Moguls, Smart Set Of Ottawa Attend French Legation Opening

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 — (CP).—More than 700 persons, including the Diplomatic Corps, Consular body, Cabinet ministers, and members of the Capital's smart set, attended the opening last night of the new $500,000 French Legation, first large social event of the Ottawa season.

The French Minister and the Countess Robert de Dampierre received the guests, including the Governor - General and Lady Tweedsmuir on a landing above the large central reception hall of the beautiful building which hugs a bluff on the Ottawa River about a mile north-east of the centre of the city.

Modern France is reflected in the new structure, a distinctive contribution to architecture in Canada. It was started in July, 1936, and since then architects, engravers, sculptors and artists from Paris have worked to carry out the plans of Eugene Beaudoin, chief architect of civil buildings in France, who designed the three-storey structure in collaboration with Antoine Monette and Marcel Parizeau of Montreal.

Guests passed along the reception line last night to a long corridor from which huge bronze doors opened into the ballroom with its windows facing on the Ottawa River and providing a view of the Quebec side.

The Countess de Dampierre wore a Lelong model of emerald green and gold lame with a shoulder bouquet of violet shade orchids. She wore an emerald necklace and a diamond tiara and carried a chiffon kerchief.

The Governor-General and Lady Tweedsmuir were escorted on their arrival through the ballroom to the "Petit Salon" off one end where bowls of lilies were used as decoration against the blue satin hangings. Lady Tweedsmuir wore a full-skirted chiffon gown in shades of fuchsia and a diamond tiara.

COE HILL

Owing to the road conditions through this North Hastings county the services in the different churches were not very well attended on New Year's Day.

Those receiving $1.00 each for attending 52 consecutive Sundays in the Anglican Sunday school were: Misses Norma Danford, Cozette Tivy, Messrs. Cecil Tivy, Edward McCormack. Those receiving the Scofield Reference Bible in the Gospel Tabernacle were Messrs. German Baragar, Keith and Hughie Belton.

One Way To Show Confidence

It is possible to estimate the substance and development of a community by noticing the number of homes which are being built. Home building tells quite a story if one will but stop to read or learn it. It is evidence that some individual has decided where he wants to settle down and remain; he has found employment or business conditions to his liking; he has confidence that the community where he builds is well enough assured of a future. In the case of a married man he considers the community a good one for his family. One could find a number of such things in the building of a new home.

Peterborough did well in 1938. Inside the city limits there were 541 permits issued for work of all kinds, and there were 57 new dwellings; the year before there were 32.

In North Monaghan there were 38 homes built and in Smith township at the north end of the city there were six new homes and a $12,000 school. For all practical purposes the homes in North Monaghan and those in Smith are Peterborough homes, so in all there were 101 of these new homes built here during the past year.

The largest expenditure was for the new Bell Telephone building on Hunter Street; others of major importance were Lillico Motors, Loblaw's, Braund's, Royal Theatre, addition to the Y.W.C.A., Cancy's Dairy, Williamson's Service Station and Foley and Wilson's new building. In all there has been spent in and around Peterborough well over half a million dollars.

So the year 1938 was good in that way because it gave to us over half a million dollars' worth of proof that people had confidence in our city; they were prepared to make a permanent investment here to that extent, and that is about the highest compliment which its own people can pay to any community.

We Can't "Plump" Here

Reports from Toronto which analyze the vote cast there in municipal elections say the 45,112 ballots secured by Tim Buck, unsuccessful Communist candidate for Board of Control, were secured largely by the old process of plumping. That is, those who voted for Tim Buck did not as a rule vote for any other candidate.

It is one way of running up a score for a favored candidate by the simple means of denying votes to other candidates. When it is necessary to elect four candidates as was the case in Toronto it is a poor way to vote. Nice enough for the favored candidate but weak and defenceless when looked upon from a citizen's duty to his community.

In Peterborough it is not possible to plump. In the elections we had here on New Year's day there were eleven candidates for five vacant positions on the city council; we elect one-half our council each year. The voter could vote for five and most voters did so, but it was necessary to vote for four otherwise the ballot would be rejected.

That provision was made when Peterborough finally did away with the ward system for electing aldermen in 1918. There had been several changes prior to that by way of reverting to and from the ward system and general vote, but since 1918 we have had the general vote. Plumping was forbidden by the simple expedient of having a private bill passed by the Ontario Legislature. If Toronto finds that plumping is poor business—and it is—that city could come into possession of the same kind of cure which was applied in Peterborough.

Hardly a Pleasure Trip

Their Majesties' tour of Canada has been arranged, and they will be in the Dominion from May 15 to June 15, with the exception of June 8 to 11, which will be spent in United States. On such a journey it is possibly imperative that they should visit the federal and also the nine provincial capitals, and to do that in less than a month hardly comes within the category of either pleasure or relaxation. At best it is a long East-to-West trip across Canada, and the return by way of Edmonton and Saskatoon will be even longer and making some fifty public appearances during such a journey is putting quite a strain on the royal couple.

If one were bent on pleasure only it would be possible to write down a number of methods by which a month could be better employed, but duty, stern as it is, takes precedence over the idea of pleasure and comfort. There are scores of communities all across our country which would gladly welcome a visit from our King and Queen, and they may feel a trifle disappointed when learning that the published itinerary takes the visitors elsewhere. Peterborough is in that position, but this city will wish Their Majesties just as hearty a welcome as though they were to have the high privilege of visiting this excellent city and its remarkable district.

So He Wrote a Letter

Telling people what they should or should not do is quite an industry and one which is marked by few periods of unemployment. For instance J. M. MacDonnell of Toronto wrote a letter to the editor of the London Times in which he grew critical of Anthony Eden because that gentleman visited United States without crossing the border and spending a few hours or days in Canada. The Toronto man made the claim that 20 years ago or so when the war was on Canada was considered quite an important place, but apparently it had lost that importance. And that of course was rather a dirty crack. And about as poor as could have been penned.

Ronald Tree, Mr. Eden's travelling companion, in United States, has taken the trouble to explain the situation. Mr. Eden had only a limited time to spend on this side of the Atlantic; he had more engagements booked than he could attend to. He had his parliamentary duties waiting and he also desired to get back to spend Christmas with his family. And what normal man would not?

Possibly the gentleman in Toronto was unaware of the fact that Anthony Eden had previously toured Canada from coast to coast, while he had not previously been in United States. It does seem that the Toronto letter writer was in particularly poor form and taste when he sent a letter to a London paper saying the Canadian people felt slighted because Mr. Eden did not come here. The Examiner does not for a moment believe any such feeling existed. Most of us were more interested in noticing that Anthony Eden was making a rather neat job of properly interpreting British feeling and sentiment to great audiences in United States where the people were unreservedly glad to have him as their guest.

Where Honor Is Due

When the King's honor list was announced at the beginning of the year the men who write headings in newspapers gave plain enough notice that they approved the granting of certain honors to men who seldom appear in such a list.

There was the medal of the Order of the British Empire for Tommy Rankin. Probably you never heard of him before, but he was foreman of the iron-workers who built the Queen Mary and the Queen Elizabeth. He had a big piece of work placed in front of him and he did it well.

Harry Dean received similar honors, and he is porter on the London, Scottish and Midland Railroad, and Charlie Fraser was also on the list and he is a policeman in Glasgow.

None of these men is a member of parliament; not one is in the diplomatic service. They are not men of estate or prominence. Just representatives of the great number of common people who do well what is before them; possibly men who consider it a pleasure to go home after doing their day's work. There is a good deal to be said for the inclusion of such folk in the honor list of their King, and recognition for them is eminently fitting as they represent the spinal column of the nation.

Something Like a Record

Those who hold that continuity in public service is a good thing and much to be desired will find something interesting in the way in which affairs went at election time in the united counties of Northumberland-Durham.

In the Counties Council there are 40 members, and there were but seven of them who had to go to the polls to ask for reinstatement, and six of these were returned. Showing that it is difficult enough to unhorse a reeve in his own bailiwick.

The only members who will be out of the twin-council in 1939 are those who for reasons of their own considered they were justified in dropping out of community service.

Whether the experience in Northumberland and Durham constitutes a record of some sort or other is difficult to say, but it is at least highly significant that of 40 members only one who sought re-election should have been defeated.

News Is Interesting

Aways there are interesting happenings recorded in the day's news. All the interest is not in the so-called big news of the day. Behind the news there are people and the news reveals in some way what they are doing. By way of illustration we take a few of the lesser items:

Mayor LaGuardia of New York made a political speech in which he referred to William Weidberg as a "bum," and William immediately sued for $100,000. He wasn't going to sit still and allow the mayor of New York to refer to him as a bum. The case went to court and the trial judge ruled there could be no penalty imposed as no damage had been done, but added "the word was merely abusive and ill-chosen." This is the second time the mayor has been sued for using the same word, and on each occasion he has been successful in defending his right to use it.

Joe Ott lives at Two Rivers in Wisconsin, and he has already told how the year 1939 will go for dampness and drought. On the stroke of midnight at the end of the year Joe goes to his cellar and cuts open an onion and then applies salt to the cut surface. After which he wrote down that January would be medium, February wet, March medium, May medium, June dry, July medium, August, September and October wet, November and December medium. Mr. Ott says his method is quite superior to placing faith in the wishbone of a turkey, the fur of any animal or the tilting of the moon. He avows the faithful onion always tells him the truth.

Charles Conroy was in court at Stratford on the charge he did not support his wife, but he told a story which would convince most people he was doing the best he could. He had found work in a lumber yard in Owen Sound where he earned $20 and from there he hitchhiked through one of the worst storms of the season and presented his wife with $19.70. On the face of it Charles is doing what he can and he can hardly be accused of having spent much for his own entertainment.

Those who attend the Smithfield Fat Stock Show in London, Eng., have been trying to guess or estimate the weight of a Shorthorn on exhibition there. The animal is six feet high, 12 feet six inches long and 11 feet around the girth. Giant of the show it is and claimed to be the largest Shorthorn in the world. Readers in the country would probably have a better idea than others regarding the weight. We would place the weight at 3,200 pounds, but admit that is a guess and not an estimate. Probably some of our farm readers could do much better.

NOTE AND COMMENT

During their visit to Canada Their Majesties will not see the Dionne children. Neither will they visit Peterborough. In spite of that we hope they have a good time.

Premier Hepburn had some trouble in sailing for Australia because of a strike at U.S. Pacific coast ports. And it would be just his luck to be bothered by a C.I.O. demonstration.

Some resident of Lambton county has already reported having seen the first robin of 1939. Get out—it was a 1938 bird which had not been able to afford a trip south.

Rockefeller Centre in New York has three miles of underground streets where shoppers can defy the weather. The thing would be perfection itself if they could also defy their bankers.

The British taxpayer knows no rest. Germany announced it would increase its strength in submarines, and then it was stated in London Britain would build more submarine chasers.

Premier Daladier of France is reported to have been pounding out defiance to Italy. There was such a stock of that stuff in 1938 that the Frenchman has to make use of what was left over in the business of 1939.

In Scranton, Pa., it is proposed to paint a yellow ring on a car when the driver is found guilty of reckless driving and it will stay on for 30 days. It is rather tough on the driver, but reckless driving is also tough on other people.

Dairyman near Victoria, B.C., has such unusually good water on his premises that he sells it for 10 cents per quart and milk for 12 1-2 cents. There are not many dairymen who would dare go in for the milk and water business.

There are 19,000 policemen in New York. And quite well we recall the village where one man was the police force and he also cared for the village hall, rang the bell, bought the gravel for the main street, cut the weeds, operated the weigh scales, put stray cows in the pound and maintained law and order.

COUSIN EZRA

(By A.R.K.)

¶ The overcoat that Ezra wore, had served eight seasons, even more, it was entirely through; so Ezra told me weeks ago, he really wanted me to know, he'd get one that was new.

¶ But Ezra would not shop at home, just mention that and he will groan, they don't give bargains here; they haven't got the cut and style, he's never noticed one worth while, and some of them are queer.

¶ So Ezra sent his cash away, some far-off name he'd seen one day, he named the style and price; and he would have a jacket then, the envy of all passing men, he'd greet the days of ice.

¶ But Ezra cannot wear his coat, he looks just like a billy goat, it has no swagger air; the sleeves aren't nearly long enough, and it is made of shoddy stuff, and fits just here and there.

¶ I'd rather buy my things right here, and if they look a trifle queer, it never worries me; if things are rather loose or tight, quite gladly they will make them right, just like they ought to be.

¶ But Ezra's stuck, he knows it too, and he is stubborn through and through, and all he does is wail; he cannot get his money back, his coat just stays there in his shack—it's hanging on a nail.

GERMANS, by official decree, wear 16 per cent wood fibre in their stockings and underwear. The order is part of the Nazi four-year campaign to make Germany independent of cotton and other raw materials which the country must secure from abroad.

✧ ✧ ✧

Felt is the oldest cloth known to man.

✧ ✧ ✧

During the 13th century the poorer classes in Denmark were not allowed to wear red clothing, nor was the color red to appear as part of their apparel; red was regarded as a royal color and was reserved only for the royalty and members of the nobility.

✧ ✧ ✧

The odor of cloth usually comes from sulphonated castor oil, which is generally used to soften and lubricate the fibres so they can endure the high speed of weaving machinery, as well as to make them feel softer to the touch.

✧ ✧ ✧

The Government of the United States gives six yards of cloth every year to over 4,600 Indians living on reservations in New York State. This is done to carry out the terms of the Treaty of Canandaigua, drawn up in 1794, whereby the government agreed to allow the Indians a cloth bounty if they would not make war upon the pioneers.

✧ ✧ ✧

While it is common knowledge that cloth is made from cotton, vegetable fibres and even wood, most people are not aware of the fact that there are two mills in Columbia, South Carolina that weave cloth from human hair. This strange cloth is manufactured for the purpose of straining oil from cottonseed.

FACTS ABOUT FLAGS.

THE first American flag ever raised as a sign of victory in battle was made of a blue coat, a white shirt, and red flannels.

✧ ✧ ✧

The American flag is popularly known as "the Red, White and Blue." The French flag contains the same colors but is known as "the Blue, White and Red."

✧ ✧ ✧

A rattlesnake was once the emblem used by the colonies during the American Revolution.

✧ ✧ ✧

The famous painting, "The Spirit of '76" shows the American flag floating in the back-ground. The flag, as it is shown in the painting was not however, adopted by Congress till 1777.

✧ ✧ ✧

Ohio is the only state having a pennant-shaped flag; flags of all the other states are rectangular.

✧ ✧ ✧

The flags which fly from the four staffs over the Capitol Building in Washington last for less than 30 days. Wind and weather accounts for their short life. The Government disposes of its worn flags by burning them.

✧ ✧ ✧

At the State Department, in Washington, is the flag which avenged the death of Abrahom Lincoln. It was draped over the box in Ford's theatre, in which Lincoln was sitting, when John Wilkes Booth slipped behind him and fired the fatal shot. When the murderer turned to leap from the box onto the stage his spur caught in the bunting, causing him to fall and injure himself so seriously as to lead to his eventual capture and death.

✧ ✧ ✧

British regiments no longer carry their colors into action. Flying emblems used to serve as rallying points in the din and smoke of battle, but as long-range weapons developed they became death-traps, particularly to those who carried them. In the Crimean War nearly every British color-bearer was killed That, incidentally, was the last European war into which English colors were carried.

✧ ✧ ✧

The President of the United States has his own flag—an emblem bearing white stars on a blue background. The Vice President's flag has blue stars, one in each corner, on a white field.

THE SAILOR'S LIFE.

BRITISH sailors in the 18th century were inhumanly treated. For a trivial offence a tar would frequently be flogged to the point of death. When he fell sick he was deprived of his pay. The ship's doctor was often drunk. The sailors' rations were insufficient and oftimes infested with vermin.

✧ ✧ ✧

The sailors' hornpipe is now required training for all men in Australia's naval reserve. It is considered an excellent form of exercise.

✧ ✧ ✧

Sailors are never "fired." Each trip is a separate job, and sailors sign on and off at the start and finish of each voyage. If a seaman's work is not satisfactory he is not asked to sign on for another voyage.

✧ ✧ ✧

Statistics indicate that sailors of the United States Navy are healthier than any other similar group in the world.

RELIEF IS COSTLY.

FIGURES prepared at the city hall on the cost of relief in the city of Lethbridge show what a tremendous burden it has been on a little city of 14,000 people.

Since relief became a factor in Canada in 1930, up to the end of 1938, it has cost the city of Lethbridge the sum of $678,328.41, which includes $50,084.56 for administration.

People Aren't Statistics

(From Editor and Publisher)

THAT news story about the decrease in traffic deaths which appeared in most newspapers the other day didn't tell the whole story. There was too much in it about statistics and not enough about people. We'd like to fill in some of the details here, because we don't like to think of ourselves in terms of a statistic.

"Nineteen per cent. drop in motor vehicle fatalities" the headline said.

It didn't say that the nineteen per cent. drop meant at least 7,500 persons alive and well today, getting ready to celebrate the New Year, who had the finger on them when this year began. It is even possible that our own number was up.

It didn't say anything about the years of disheartening labor put forth by engineers, educators and public officials in creating physical, mental and legal safeguards which would finally culminate in saving those 7,500 precious lives.

It didn't say anything about the editor in Hometown and a lot of other hometowns who, sick of the daily story of suffering and death, called his staff together and said: "We're going to check this slaughter in Hometown if the power of the press can do it."

It didn't record the fact that the editor's campaign succeeded and that as a result of it Jim Brown and Mary Jones and Bobby Smith are still useful citizens of Hometown instead of being statistics in the coroner's file.

And it didn't say anything, either, about what might happen in 1939 if any of us should decide to rest on our oars, believing that the race with Death is won.

• Voices That Cry Out For Peace

One of the living forces for peace in Europe, and one that will exert increasing pressure against the mad, unreckoning schemes of the Nazi dictators, is the growing peace sentiment among the German people. They have little opportunity of expressing themselves says the Financial Post, but that they share our own fear of the consequences of another European war has been evident to those who have visited that country in recent weeks.

This week a Christmas card reached the office from one of the most brilliant women in Germany a top-ranking leader of the German Women's Front. On the back she scribbled a personal message which includes these words:

"Thank Heaven, we have been able to keep peace in spite of all the crises—and, God willing, we will continue to do so next year. If only some of the understanding that links the human beings of different nationalities together could lead politics!"

Anyone who cannot read between the lines of that note something both daring and significant does not appreciate the iron rule of discipline and propaganda in Germany. It is a voice crying out in the great darkness.

Several letters from Germany have recently been received, all in similar vein.

Gradually it will sink into the depths of German understanding that Hitler is leading that nation onward to a destructive war.

If Mr. Chamberlain's policy of appeasement merely postpones the European war from day to day and from crisis to crisis, until the German people themselves oust their leaders or until Chancellor Hitler comes under the influence of some of his milder advisers, it will enable peace to be achieved in Europe without hazarding civilization itself in a death struggle.

• Could Thresh 66 Sheaves In A Day

A person entering the log barn of 1838, during the harvest peroid, would probably see the owner beating the heads of sheaves over a pole which was suspended about two feet above the floor. This was called "rushing" and was the first form of threshing known to Ontario. One pioneer boasted that he had been able to thresh as high as 66 sheaves in a day, in this manner, and usually obtained about one and a half bushels of wheat. Too bad he could not have lived to see the modern separator with a capacity of 400 bushels per hour.

Rushing was succeeded by flailing, the sheaves being layed on the barn floor and pounded with the beater which revolved in the hands of the operator. The grain, straw and chaff were separated by pouring them in the wind and the big home-made wooden forks and shovels were useful devices for this purpose. When some ingenious settler designed the "wecht" (ancestor of the bushel measure) it was regarded as the last word in equipment. They were made by attaching a piece of tanned sheepskin to a wooden rim.

The first separator was scarcely more than a cylinder. In making these machines the farmer was obliged to co-operate with the local blacksmith. The latter made the metal parts of the outfit while the former fashioned the wooden framework. Two feeders were required, one man to cut bands and the other to handle the sheaves. Grain, chaff and straw were dumped in a pile behind the thresher and the man who invented the "winnowing-machine" (primitive fanning-mill) won the gratitude of all concerned. It was a real help in getting the grain clean enough for disposal.

To The Editor

AFFAIRS IN DUMMER.

EDITOR Examiner: Sir: On Dec. 27 we read in your valuable paper an item, re. Dummer's Reeve, where Mr. McDonald resigned in favor of Mr. Martin. If your reporter was at the nomination in Warsaw I think he was dreaming, as his report was very misleading to the readers of the Examiner. Why did he got give the honest fact of the meeting? There were five men nominated for the reeve ship, three of those men withdrew their names, leaving Mr. Martin and Mr. Clysdale in the field, both men satisfied to stand an election. Now I like fair play. Why was Mr. Clysdale's name never mentioned in his report? I think the ratepayers also, Mr. Martin, will agree with me that Mr. Clysdale deserves the credit for giving Mr. Martin the honor of being our reeve and not Mr. McDonald as was stated in the paper.

I have an idea your reporter was a stranger. Why? because Dummer is chucked full of dandy men, then why pick specials? Since election day has passed and we have our council all up-to-date, I think a great many people have got their second sight. Had it not been that a very disagreeable scene which took place on the platform, I feel things would have been different. If three or four officers of the township can say, "you can speak," or "you are not going to speak at this meeting," and it a public meeting, pull it off, and get away with it, I think the ratepayers, myself included, were a darned bunch of 'dead heads,' to let such a thing go on. Britain don't allow dictators to rule. Why did we?

I believe an election this year with two good men in the field would have been best; the ratepayers would have had the say and not a few very anxious chaps, wanting it their way. Now I don't hesitate to say, Mr. Clysdale got it slipped over him. I always thought he was the kind of a man, a young fellow would do well to take pattern by, and that is one reason why I stand up for him, because Dummer has no better.

In case some might think I had a grudge at Mr. Martin I will say he is a gentleman and his word in his bond. 'Enough.' Thank you.

FRED GIRVEN.

Jan. 3, Dummer.

A Deal

"When the Queen of Sheba came and laid jewels and fine raiment before Solomon, what did he say?" asked the school teacher.

"'How much do you want for the lot?'" suggested a boy.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

AND Jesus walked in the temple in Solomon's porch. Then came the Jews round about him, and said unto him. How long dost thou make us to doubt? If thou be the Christ, tell us plainly.

Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believed not; the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witness of me.... My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me: and I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand. My father which gave them me, is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand.

I and my Father are one.—John x, 23-25, 27-30.

BEAVER TELLS HIM.

—— Bert Overland, well known Algoma trapper and guide, expects a late Spring.

And he deduces this from the fact that the beaver in his section of the country have been laying in unusually large stores of feed.

"Nature is Nature," says Bert, "and that is the best sign I know."

He recalls in that connection that he observed the same course of conduct by beaver previous to the late Spring and severe Winter of 1922. And this season, he adds, the conduct of the beaver is further supported by that of the red squirrels, who also were busy early and late during the Fall putting in a big store of supplies for the Winter.

"And", he adds, "when the trout spawn late, as they did this year, you can count on a long Fall with Winter slow in getting started."

SOME ENGLISH HUMOR.

Several bald-headed eagles have been seen in America recently. This somewhat shakes the theory that going without a hat makes the hair grow.

According to a psychologist, while the birch may electrify a schoolboy into bettering himself, it might easily have just the opposite effect. A make and break switch, as it were.

A business man who lives at the seaside has caught the same train for London at a few minutes past eleven every morning for twenty years. The 10.66 from Hastings?

According to a writer on health matters, a pint of cold water drunk every day soon does away with the tendency to have colds. Not only that: it very soon does away with the tendency to drink a pint of cold water every day. — London Humorist.

To the Electors of Otonabee:

I wish to thank all those who have assisted in any way during the election on Monday. I hope that the council may now have more good will and co-operation and that the year 1939 may be to all a year of great prosperity.

JAMES C. PETRIE.

To the Elctors of Smith Twp.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank all those who gave me their support in the recent municipal election in Smith township.

I assure you I will endeavour to merit the confidence placed in me by discharging all duties assigned to me faithfully and conscientiously.

Tweed District Highway In Bad Shape

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 5—"Little better than a snake track," bus drivers described sections of the Tweed to Belleville road on Wednesday.

Cars and buses have been forced to negtiate No. 37 highway in deep single ruts. On encountering other machines they have been forced to pull to the side of the road and halt. A constant threat of becoming snow bound is present.

Traffic for cars on lesser travelled roads through the county is also almost next to impossible. Medical men, mail couriers and others have been forced to depend completely on horses and sleighs for travel.

The lowest temperature of the current winter of eleven below zero occurred on Tuesday night, with a low maximum of only one above zero being recorded on Tuesday.

Approximately two feet of snow on the level covers the Tweed section.

Work of cleaning up the debris and wreckage of fifty thousand cans of canned goods, destroyed with a warehouse belonging to the Folkard Canning Company of Prince Edward County, in a disastrous fire that reduced the entire season's output to a pile of smoking, exploding ruins on Monday, commenced yesterday.

Destroyed with the warehouse and contents, was a large garage from which cars and trucks belonging to the company had been removed a few seconds after the blaze had been discovered.

Cause of the fire is now attributed to overheated pipes, and not to a stove explosion as was at first believed. The real cause, however, cannot be ascertained until debris has been cleaned up and the stove examined, reports state.

Owners of the company paid tribute to the work of the volunteer firefighters who braved clouds of strangling smoke in a successful effort to save the main factory building. Adding to their handicap as they fought intermittent blazes that broke out with exploding cans of tomatoes, peas, corn and fruits, hurled at them from all directions by the heat of the warehouse conflagration.

Jewish Leader Weeps As He Reaches U.S.

HOBOKEN, N.J., Jan. 5—(AP)—Dr. Henrich Weiss, chief rabbi of Lower Austria, arriving from Antwerp yesterday as a refugee, said he would assume leadership of refugee Jews from Germany in the United States.

As he disembarked from the S.S. Pennland with his wife, Julia, their two young children, and 66 other persons fleeing Nazi Germany, he asked tearfully, "Am I really in the United States? Can I now talk without fear?"

Then he bowed his head and offered a prayer of thanksgiving.

Dr. Weiss said he would urge Jewish leaders here to do all they could to get Jews out of Germany as quickly as possible.

Ex 'Lone Wolf' Explorer And Bride Wintering Well, Say Eskimos

CHURCHILL, Man., Jan. 5 (CP).—No longer the "Lone Wolf" of the Arctic, T. P. Manning, daring leader of the British-Canadian Arctic expedition, one of whose members perished when swept out to sea 1,000 miles north of Churchill last September, is "wintering well."

From the icy wastes of Baffin Island, Eskimos have brought word of Manning and his young wife, whom he married at the Arctic settlement of Cape Dorset six months ago, to Repulse Bay, 600 miles north of here.

A wireless message from Repulse Bay last night said the Eskimos reported Manning and his wife are making good progress in their explorations up the west coast of Baffin Island.

It will be many months before he returns to England with his bride, a Halifax girl, Ella Wallace Jackson, who went north last summer on the steamer Nascopie for her wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Manning expect to go overland to Clyde River on the east coast of Baffin Island to journey to Halifax on the Nascopie.

The Eskimos reported the exploring couple were about half way up the west coast of Baffin Island, approximately 300 miles north of Cape Dorset, which is at the southern tip of Foxe Peninsula, Hudson Bay.

Tragedy Of The Arctic.

Late last month word of the tragic death of R. J. O. Bray, young member of the expedition, was radioed out from Repulse Bay by his companion, Patrick Baird, English geologist, who trekked 250 miles from Igloolik to tell of the explorer's death.

Two hundred miles within the Arctic Circle, near Igloolik, Bray was swept to sea in an open boat last September.

Baird, accompanied by G. Rowley, another member of the expedition, left Repulse Bay for Igloolik, December 30, planning to join their leader and work with him across Baffin Island to Clyde River for the journey out next September.

For a year, in 1937, Manning carried on his exploration work alone, mushing with dog team across hundreds of miles of Arctic barrens without the aid of Eskimo guides. He first went into the Arctic in 1935, returning a year later to organize the British-Canadian expedition.

Play Presented At Roseneath

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Jan. 5. — A three-act play, "Christmas at the Stebbins," was a special feature on a fine program presented by the United Sunday School on Friday night. The play was a story revolving around a rich couple from the city marooned for Christmas Eve in a plain country home. A rich, fashionable member of society has her faith in Christmas restored, learns that happiness may be found in simple things and joy is the reward of service. George Dobson and Miss Ruby Blodgett played the city couple, Miss Hildred Taylor was the grandmother, and Fred Lewis and Mrs. L. Tucker the father and mother in the home. Other parts were played by Shirley and Perry Brisbin, Frank and Clark Mouncey, and Vivian Pringle.

The concert, the last Christmas program of the year, opened with the school singing "Silent Night." A dialogue, "Entertaining Sister's Beau," was played by Ray Bradshaw, Leila Taylor, Catherine Hugh, and Rex Crego, the latter three were junior pupils.

A pantomime, "Angels from the Realms of Glory," was acted by Misses Irene Brown and Hildred Taylor as Angels, Ray Bradshaw and Fred Lewis as Shepherds, Messrs. S. Bradshaw and Andrew Brown as the Wise Men, Fern Blodgett, Jean Carew, Vivian Pringle, Everett Adams, Oral George, and Elmer Mouncey as Earth's Weary Children, Mrs. L. W. Scott sang the hymn, portrayed by the actors.

The youngest actor on the program was three-year-old Betty Joyce who sang a song, "Alice Blue Gown" was portrayed in song and dance by eight little girls. The characters were: Eleanor Brown, Lois Dowler, Frances Crego, Joan McMillan, Audrey Scott, Lorna George, Doris Spiers ,and Mavis Thackeray.

There were recitations by Pauline Down, Rex Crego, Joan McMillan, Leila Taylor, and Frances Crego. A monologue, "Old Mother Hubbard," by C. W. Varcoe and piano instrumentals played by Mrs. C. W. Varcoe and Mrs. S. Thackeray. Oral George entertained with songs, with guitar accompaniment. A song, "Ring the Bells for Christmas," was sung by ten Primary girls. A drill, "Dance of the Flowers," was a pretty picture, acted by Catherine and Mary Hugh, Adelaine Mouncey, Noreen Adams, Jean Braithwaite, Olive Sherwin, Mavis Thackerey and Norma George.

"Shine On," a two-part song, was sung by Audrey Mouncey, Doris Roberts, Geraldine Hugh, and Shirley Brisbin. Two dialogues, "The Minister's Mistake" and "Uncle Hiram's Cold," were presented by Junior and Intermediate pupils, and well acted. The characters in "The Minister's Mistake" were Ivan Thackeray, the minister; Audrey Mouncey, the widow; Jean Braithwaite, the maid. In "Uncle Hiram's Cold," Everett Adams was Uncle Hiram, and Noreen Adams, his wife. Other characters were: Olive Sherwin, Adelaine Mouncey, Doris Roberts, Elmer Mouncey, and Oral George.

Rev. L. W. Scott presided, and the accompanists for the evening were Mrs. Ella Brown, Mrs. C. W. Varcoe, and Miss Irene Brown.

Stratoliner Ready For Her First Tests

Officially known as model-307, Boeing Aircraft Company's 33-passenger "stratoliner," is shown after being wheeled out into the open at Seattle, Wash., for the first time to be prepared for a series of engine tests. The silver four-engined craft is 74 feet long with a 107-foot wing spread, weighs 42,000 pounds and is designed to cruise at 300 miles per hour at a sub-stratosphere altitude of 20,000 feet. Two superchargers will maintain a cabin pressure greater than that of the rarified air outside at that altitude allowing the passengers perfect breathing comfort at all times. The dirigible-like fuselage is perfectly streamlined without a break even for the windows of the control compartment. This is the first of nine of these high-altitude land planes built for Pan-American Airways.

Bewildered Robin?

BRIGDEN, Ont., Jan. 5. —(C. P.)—Here winter hardly has started and already a robin—harbinger of spring—has been sighted. Frank Kilbreath, who saw the bird, isn't sure whether it means a mild winter and early spring or whether the robin is on a belated trip to warmer climes.

VINES DROPS ANOTHER TENNIS MATCH TO NEW PRO, DON BUDGE

But Experts See Trouble Ahead For Great Budge

BOSTON, Jan. 5—(AP).—Despite a decided overnight improvement, Ellsworth Vines today found himself two matches down to Don Budge, the former king of the world's amateur tennis shotmakers, when they took off for the first long jump in their 70-match transcontinental tour for cash.

Vines, who opened in jittery fashion against Budge in New York Tuesday, had his strokes almost razor-sharp here last night but he missed so many of them by the scantiest of margins that the court's latest professional recruit gained a 6-3, 8-6, 6-4 victory in a match that both agreed was much better than their initial effort.

It was apparent, however, that Vines needs a bit more stiff work to regain full control of all of his powerful shots. When he does, Budge, judging from his cautious performance here, will have a terrific task holding his own.

Schedule Is Drawn Trent Valley League

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 5.—Charlie Davidson, president of the Campbellford Hockey Club, is not at all pleased with the hockey schedule which has reached him from the secretary of the Trent Valley League. Of the six home games in the first half of the double schedule, only three are slated for Friday evenings which have always been the choice of fans here. Although there is some agitation to have it changed the following is the schedule:

Jan. 5—Trenton at Tweed; Campbellford at Madoc; Norwood at Stirling.

Jan. 9—Madoc at Norwood; Stirling at Tweed; Trenton at Campbellford.

Jan. 12—Tweed at Stirling; Campbellford at Trenton.

Jan. 13—Norwood at Madoc.

Jan. 16—Stirling at Madoc; Norwood at Trenton.

Jan. 16—Campbellford at Tweed.

Jan. 19—Madoc at Stirling; Trenton at Norwood.

Jan. 20—Tweed at Campbellford.

Jan. 23—Madoc at Tweed; Stirling at Trenton; Campbellford at Norwood.

Jan. 26 — Norwood at Tweed; Campbellford at Stirling.

Jan. 27—Trenton at Madoc.

Jan. 30 — Stirling at Norwood; Madoc at Campbellford; Tweed at Trenton.

Feb. 2—Trenton at Stirling.

Feb. 3—Norwood at Campbellford; Tweed at Madoc.

Feb. 6—Stirling at Campbellford; Tweed at Norwood; Madoc at Trenton.

Feb. 9—Madoc at Norwood; Stirling at Tweed.

Feb. 10—Trenton at Campbellford.

Feb. 13 — Trenton at Tweed; Campbellford at Madoc.

The games of Stirling at Campbellford and Tweed at Norwood slated for Jan. 2nd were postponed.

"The First Legion," the American play with a wholly masculine cast, has been presented in Paris.

Amerk Goal-Getter

It's no wonder that when the National League scoring statistics are issued each week there are usually a surplus of Red Dutton's Americans' surprise team of the league, clustered around the top. The players take turns going on scoring rampages, and in one of these, Johnny Sorrell, ABOVE, joined the growing ranks of players who have counted three times in a game this season, when he plunked three shots behind Turk Broda, of Toronto Maple Leafs, in one of their recent meetings.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

The first guns of the New Year league bowling were fired at Duffus alleys last night when eight teams of Automobile men, two teams of Bankers and one team of merchants trundlers were on hand to do their stuff. High living of the holiday season was apparently a big handicap as only six men showed any kind of form. J. Frost of the merchants' was high with 712, Morris O'Neill of the Motor league teed off for 679, Cliff Curtis 644, Alex Watson 640, M. J. Duffus 617 and Ken Shadgett 602.

The results in the Automobile saw the crack Auto No. 1 team get away to another good start when they took all 8 points from their buzzer Automotive No. 2 team. Nash and Chrysler tangled up for three close games, the former taking the works, 8-0. Buick took 6 from Hudson and Harry Dorsett's strike-out in his last frame was all that saved Chevrolet from a whitewashing at the hands of Ford.

The City League which refused to quit for holiday festivities will go into action again tonight. The big question as usual being, how to stop the K of C. entry who on their last appearance coasted in with over 3800 pins.

The following is the standing of the Automobile League for the first half:

Team	Pts.
Automotive No. 1	65
Buick	64
Hudson	63
Nash	56
Ford	46
Oldsmobile	46
Chrysler	41
Pontiac	34
Chevrolet	30
Automotive No. 2	26
Dodge	25
Graham	24

High Three—M. J. Duffus, 786
High single—Gray Copping, 380

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Noting an item in the Niagara Falls Review where they panned the refereeing recently of Dinty Moore, we recalled a smart crack pulled on the same Dinty by Pat Calladine of Peterborough. In that bitter O.H.A. semi-final game last winter in the Falls, the Petes crabbed at some of the decisions made by Referee Moore—who had played in goal for Canada when they lost out in hockey to England. Dinty came off the ice between periods and some of the Petes and their followers started to argue with him on some point or other. Dinty looked decidedly dignified and stated: "No use arguing, boys, I don't make mistakes on the ice." And quick as a shot, Pat replied: "Well, you did on that goal that beat you in England two years ago!" Moore flushed and strode off with the Petes' chuckles ringing in his ear.

Two of last year's local juniors, Al and Grant Clark, are doing okay in hockey now with Clarkson Tech in Potsdam, N'Yawk. They were in the starting lineup the other night when their squad held the strong Queen's gang to a 3-0 count, Al bumping 'em around on defence and Gee sparkling at centre. They have plenty of games this winter—and apparently the freshman rule isn't keeping them off the team—and will be going to New York City twice for games as well as playing Yale and Harvard. The University has a new rink with plans afoot for an artificial plant soon. Al Gratton of the Petes graduated from this college. We're glad to see the Clarks—good athletes in several lines—clicking okay in their new surroundings.

Boys Of Bowman Villa.

Our Colts open their home schedule in the O.H.A. here tomorrow in the twilight when they mix it with the Bowmanville juniors at 8.30 in the Brock St. opera house. Well, it's had its share of notes! This ought to be another typical junior affair, slambang and full of ginger. We told fans to look for a nifty fray when Lindsay and Monarchs met in a junior melee here a week back—and they saw a fine overtime tie tussle. And they can look for another smart scrap Friday with both teams packing lots of beef and puck ability. Some of the boys from Bowman Villa played football with that good team which knocked off P.C.I. last fall, and some of our P.C.I. lads—now with the Colts—will remember that. Ought to be a good game.

* * * * * *

Quite a crowd at the Brock last e'en saw the Colts drop an 8-4 exhibition decision to St. Mike's Buzzers of Toronto, the difference in condition accounting for the Gaels' margin. The Colts, in as good shape, would make it mighty tough for the Irish and might quite well knock their ears off. A strange sight was beheld at the arena, with the reserved seats practically filled and the rush side full of empty splotches. A thousand or more took in the fray, and over half of 'em were of the carriage trade. The rush gang let the German Refugee Fund down, whereas the reserves were sold out—even tho' some folks bought ducats and didn't attend the game. But it was a pretty fair turnout, and the prizes donated by local merchants and manufacturers were good. J. J. Duffus, M.P., did the drawing with Dick Lush announcing.

Turned On The Heat.

Both junior teams last night turned on the heat all the way and made it plenty hot, but the Colts tired a bit near the end of the second and third chukkers. Some pretty fair hockey shown, too, and our Colts will click well before the season finishes. That guy Wade can skate like a fool, while Foster flips his shots like he tosses forward passes on the grid. And Capt. Sid Craig looks okay, with Stewart another promising forward. As well as Parnell and Williams. While Cournyea looked oke in goal and Ward and King checked good on defence. Just to mention a few. The visitors had an edge on condition, being on the ice nearly two months, and expert coaching as well. Coach Bill Jackson hasn't had the same time so far as Jerry Laflamme.

* * * * * *

Two lively fights, if you're a pugilistic fan. Especially the last one, though Parnell received a nasty cut over the eye—either a skate or a stick. Several puckists on both side started swinging fists and they went to town for a coupla minutes, with both coaches and a cop having to step on the ice ere Referee Jack Sabatino could restore peace. They were travelling fast all the way, with plenty of burping bodychecks—and don't think the Buzzers weren't extended to cop the nod—so 'twas but natural that tempers were a trifle on the short side. But it was a nice exhibition junior joust to watch all the way. We really liked the speed the lads showed. Jack Jopling of St. Mike's Majors played for the Buzzers and looked good—better than when he played for our Colts a year ago.

Petes Play Redmen.

While the Petes will be meandering down the line to Belleville this Friday e'en, it will be to meet the Redmen and not the Fliers—seein' as how the Fliers slapped over Kingston Garrisons by a 6-3 belt last p.m. Thereby making the VanHorne Cup finals against Queen's, with games Friday, Monday and maybe Wednesday in playoffs. Sorta throws out our senior "B" schedule and gives us two in a row 'gainst the Redmen of Greater Belleville. So far as the Fliers are concerned the Petes could remain tucked coyly in back of the black ball, and living a lazy life in the dog-house—and why the O.H.A. yearly permits the independent Kingston setup to ball up a senior "B" schedule is one of those "ah, sweet mystery of life" lilts which the Petes whistle mournfully. However, the locals have a group game Friday, and that's something.

* * * * * *

Lots doing in a T.H.L. puck doubleheader in Toronto last night, when Posties beat the Indians and Royal Yorks licked the Tely—who played here the night before. Referee Ernie Wortley—no stranger to Peterborough puckists and fans—parked an uppercut on Ab McKeraghan of the Indians and flattened him like a flackjack. Ab drew a penalty and came dashing up to the official angrily. He said he wanted to know why he was penalized, but Ernie claimed the player had his fist drawn back and was ready to swing. "So I got my left in first," Mr. Wortley explained with delightful candor. And boxing savvy. An oldtime arbiter (somewhat of the Mike Rodden type), Ernie believes in acting fast in a pinch and doing the talking afterward. Too often are referees pushed around by belligerent players, and we can't help chuckling when the tables are so deftly turned. Zingo, and that's that!

Observation Platform: Oshawa's junior "B" complaint may be aired at an O.H.A. sub-committee meeting Friday, and Colts are liable to stage some "B" duels with the Motor Citizens....Or so they say in Oshawa, anyway....Bill Jackson of the local juniors lopped off several defencemen after last night's game and now knows his '39 lineup....Bert McLeod is coaching the Colts' defence to aid Bill with the team, but unofficially....Trent Valley Loop hockey schedule of the district is in tonight....Whitby took a 5-1 O.H.A. intermediate "B" win in Lindsay last twilight, Stew Williamson and Dude Brady of Peterborough playing on the Scugog defence....Local boxers who go to Toronto this Friday are going unattached, and not representing the "Y", though they train there—seems the policy of the Association is no competition of this nature outside....Congrats to Harold Nicholls, ex-baseballer here, on his recent wedding....Maybe an exhibition senior hockey tilt here early next week....C.G.E. pucksters open their circuit Sat'day aft in the Brock, and no admish charged....Struck us suddenly last eve in the middle of that fist fight in the junior game that we'd like to see Hitler out there on skates—just to see how he'd handle himself when on his own!

W.A.A.F. Blocks Ontario's Vote Demand

MONTREAL, Jan. 5—(CP).—Attempt of the Ontario branch to gain more voting power in the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada was blocked last night, temporarily at least, by a deadlock among the W.A.A.F.'s branches and allied bodies.

National secretary Irene Wall of Montreal, announcing the result of a poll of the six branches and two allied bodies, said today it showed 10 votes in favor of granting Ontario more voting power and 10 against. Each branch has three votes and the allied organizations one apiece.

Ontario's motion was submitted at the annual meeting in Winnipeg last December, and delegates were to present it to their branches for consideration. Notice of the motion, calling for a vote, was sent out Dec. 2.

Miss Wall explained the result was to have been announced Dec. 31 but illness forced her to delay the announcement.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Sorry to report Colonel Jake Ruppert, owner of New York Yankees who has long been ill, is not doing so well....Halfway through the Vines-Budge tennis match, Tony Galento demanded: "When does the fight start?"....Rooters for the Jacksonville High basketball team have a new yell which runs: "A tisket, a tasket, we want another basket"....Usually, they get it. . . Plans are afoot to enlarge the Orange Bowl...Best news the Giants have heard in a long time is that Burgess Whitehead is ready to go again.

Joe Louis is putting his dough into annuities and real estate....Joe drew more than $4,000,000 into the gate in six of his most important fights, the two with Schmeling and those with Braddock, Baer, Carnera and Levinsky .... The Christmas present Jimmy Kitts, Rice coach, appreciated most was the info that all his footballers—both varsity and frosh—passed their December exams ....There'll be denials, but Sixto Escobar is supposed to be all signed up to defend his bantamweight title against Little Dado of Oakland.

Col. Matt J. Winn has appointed Frank G. Menke to handle the Kentucky Derby publicity again which means the Colonel can forget all about the publicity....If you're going pheasant hunting next fall, don't buy a gun, just go to Corning, N.Y. ,and rent a house....During two weeks last fall five birds banged into windows, back porches and buildings there. Three of the five were killed by broken glass,...Bob Nestell who was stymied by Bob Pastor, is doing a comeback on the coast.

One of the reasons Paul Derringer was the first Red to sign a 1939 contract was that he was handed a $3,500 bonus....If the Orange Bowl promoters can get up a $50,000 guarantee, the Southeastern Conference may agree to send its football champion to Miami Beach Jan. 1. . . Max Carey, who soon will own a lime grove in Florida, is looking much better than when he managed Brooklyn Dodgers.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

N. Hamley, winner of group 2 last year, commenced this season's schedule exactly where he left off a year ago. Is it a case of a repeat? You never know.

We notice the two district cup rinks having a practise last night. Practise is good for one and all.

The ladies were out in full force yesterday morning as a preliminary to their schedule which commences Friday, 9.30 a.m.

The notice is on the blackboard re a bonspiel Saturday, 1.45 p.m.

Max Comstock's rink gets the little boost for today. This rink is made up of four young chaps, three of whom came up from the junior ranks; the other player is a new man this year. They were out in full force and on time. They were defeated by a rink of much more experience, but they'll improve.

Comeback Canzoneri Wins One

Treading the comeback trail that usually ends so unpleasantly, especially in the fight game, is Tony Canzoneri, once holder of world's titles in both the feather and lightweight ranks, seen in action here during his bout with Eddie Zivic in New York. When Tony started his comeback campaign not so long ago he lost a decision to Zivic, but evened the score in this battle as he earned a 10-round decision. That's Tony, of course pouring punches into his crouching opponent.

HOW TO SKI

By FRITZ LOOSLI

Instructor Toronto Ski Club

BINDINGS

While a good pair of skis are important for skiing, bindings and boots play still a greater part in improving ski technique.

Children's bindings should always have back straps. The only toe strap binding originally used in Finland for skiing on the level has been erroneously imported here as a safe binding for downhill running for our youngsters. With a good binding a child soon learns to control his skis, which is the primary safety principle in skiing. The children's bindings are not so stiff and stationary as to make a fall dangerous. Very substantial children's bindings may be found at a price which is almost as cheap as the old toe strap or the useless all leather harness which was sold for years as a child's binding.

Avoid Faulty Running Position

Skis equipped only with toe straps will give the child a faulty running position which will be hard to correct later on. The most suitable binding for children under eight years of age is a light toe iron and a double rubber band from an inner tube about half an inch wide. This enables the child to pull the strap over the heel with very little difficulty. Any adjustable topeet binding will be satisfactory for anyone wishing to ski for recreation, if the back heel strap is made of double stitched leather. For a skier interested in more advanced technique, or wishing to compete by all means a cable binding should be used, the downpull attachement should be used only when the skier has reached an advanced running technique. The downpull attachment is not meant to stabilize an unsteady balance, but to allow an extreme forward lean required in the tempo and high speed running. When placing the downpull hook on the side of the skis, the average skier should consider safety as well downpull should not be more than two inches behind the toe irons. Skiers sometimes, to improve the downpull hold, have their skis equipped with an Amstutz spring, or Eckel rubber, as well as their cable bindings. A skier can have as extreme diagonal pull. The full sufficient downpull without the use of either Eckel or Amstutz spring if the cable binding is properly mounted on the skis.

Heel Clamp

Of the two ways of tightening a heel spring, for the skier who prefers recreational skiing, I strongly recommend the heel clamp rather than the front lever system used mostly in competition. In a bad fall the heel clamp will eventually spring open, while the front lever will have to be released with the hand. This is the reason why the latter is preferred by racers. A competitor will chance an injury rather than lose a race.

A leather binding with downpull attachement is not advisable, because there is not the give in it such as in the spring cable, but this may be remedied by changing the back leather strap for a Bildstein heel spring.

Tomorrow—Ski Poles and Boots.

Empire Bisley Shoot July 10 To 22

LONDON, Jan. 5—(CP).—The annual meeting of the National Rifle Association, which brings into open competition leading marksmen of the British Empire, will be held at Bisley next year from July 10 to 22. Services week, to determine championships of the army, navy and marines, has been fixed for July 3.

No major changes in weapons, ammunition or targets are planned for the 1939 competition and only one new event has been announced to date. This will be a test to be shot concurrently with the first stage of the King's Prize, premier event of the meeting.

The purpose of the new competition is to raise an overseas team fund to make possible more regular visits of British rifle teams to the Dominions and colonies.

G. H. Charlton Wins Lakefield 'Spiel

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 5—The annual open bonspiel of the Lakefield Curling club was the opening event of this season's curling activities.

The club got off to a good start when fifty-six curlers signed up for the event, making a total of fourteen rinks in this opening contest. Each rink played two games and the score was figured on "plus" basis.

D. H. Charlton's rink carried off the honors with 2 wins plus 18, and P. H. Spence's foursome was in second place with 2 wins plus 6.

The winning rinks are: Eric Grier, Frank Payne, Bill Watson, D. H. Charlton skip; and Louis Sabatino, Wm. Fairbairn, Wes. Leonard, P. H. Spence, Skip.

Mr. Gordon Scriver's rink was the only other rink to win 2 games. They stood in third place with 2 wins plus 2.

Season Opens Friday In Lakefield Rink

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 5.—The Lakefield hockey season opens here on Friday, when the Lakefield Legionnaires, this village's entry in Intermediate O.H.A., will play the Lindsay team here.

The Lakefield High School has entered a team in the Campbellford-Norwood league this year, and these games, in addition to the usual local battles, should give local hockey fans a full season of the sport.

ST. MIKE'S BUZZERS GET 8-4 NOD OVER COLTS IN EXHIBITION

Locals Dish Up Neat Number In Benefit Puck Tilt Before Bowing To Visitors

St. Mike's Buzzers grabbed off an 8-4 decision over the Colts in a benefit exhibition puck scrap here last night before more than a thousand fans. The game was for the German Refugee Fund, and was a good lively tussle all the way. J. J. Duffus, M.P., drew for the gate prizes between the first and second periods with Dick Lush calling off the numbers. Local merchants and manufacturers put up a dozen good prizes.

Lack of condition proved the Colts' main trouble as they easily held their own except in the last half of the second and third frames when they tired. It was a real fast contest ,with both squads fairly flying most of the route, and it was featured by two fist fights, the last becoming a general melee for a minute. The score was 2-1 for the Toronto team in the first frame and 5-2 for them going into the third.

The rival netters looked good and kicked out a flock of tough tries, and there was plenty of bumping on defence, with lots of crude stuff shown, too. .The two outfits' forward lines kept a hot pace going and coming nearly all the way and made it an interesting fray to witness. Wade, Foster, Parnell and Craig loked especially effective for the Colts, but there were several others almost as good, and the whole team definitely showed promise. McAuley, McKenzie, and Jopling were about the most effective of the visitors' forwards, but the team showed up well. They were both fast, heavy outfits and played a lot of nice junior hockey.

Saints Score.

It was fast and even for a time in the first with St. Mike's getting the first goal, Reeves tallying in close on McAuley's pass. Reeves went off then for tripping and Colts ganged up hotly for a space. Lumsden drew a wave for hooking and Parnell scored in close to even it up. Five Gaels swept up but did no damage, and Stewart later was chased for tripping, with the Saints again pressing for a while, McAuley finally scoring on a neat effort in a close-in scramble.

McKenzie was gated for tripping to open the second chapter and the Colts ganged up hard. Williams and Crothers mixed it on the boards in a brie fexchange of fists, both being sent off. Foster scored on Stewart's pass with a blazing shot, and Williams was delegated again to the cooler for charging. Five of the Irish swarmed up and play was fast and furious, till McAuley scored in close, aided by Reeves and McKenzie. At full strength again the Colts held their own in the red-hot going for a while, but later slowed up. Brown got another for the Greenshirts on a pass from McKenzie who circled the net, poor covering up in front allowing the marker. McAuley scored one but was in the crease and it didn't count, and then Craig and McKenzie climbed the boards for roughing it as a fight threatened. Reeves blasted one into the twine on a lone sortie around defence and Steadman was waved away for slashing at the end.

Colts Gang Up.

Early in the third, Parnell tallied a neat one as the Colts ganged up dangerously to hold most of the play for a time. Parnell got another after the bell, the score not counting. Four Colts kept hammering away in Toronto territory in a neat display till Parnell was sent to the sin-box for slashing—though he was but trying to get his stick free from a holding rival. McAuley quickly notched one in close on a pass from Brown and then he drew the finger for tripping. Foster took Craig's passout to counter and it was followed shortly by a near free-for-all. Parnell went off with blood streaming from a cut over his eye and Cechanek also got the air. The Colts kept pressing till Jopling tallied a soft one on a breakaway, with Brislan getting another right after on Crothers' pass as the Colts slowed up near the finish.

The teams:

Buzzers — Goal, Cleary; defence, Crothers and W. Callahan; centre, McAuley; wings, Steadman and McKenzie; alternates, Jopling, M. Callahan, Brislan, Brown, Reeves, and Cechanek.

Colts — Goal, Cournyea; defence, Ward and W. King; centre, Parnell; wings, Williams and McDonald; alternates, Craig, Foster, Stewart, A King, Morrow, Lumsden, Wade, Cooper, Stabler, Hoffman and Baker.

Referee — Jack Sabatino, Lakefield.

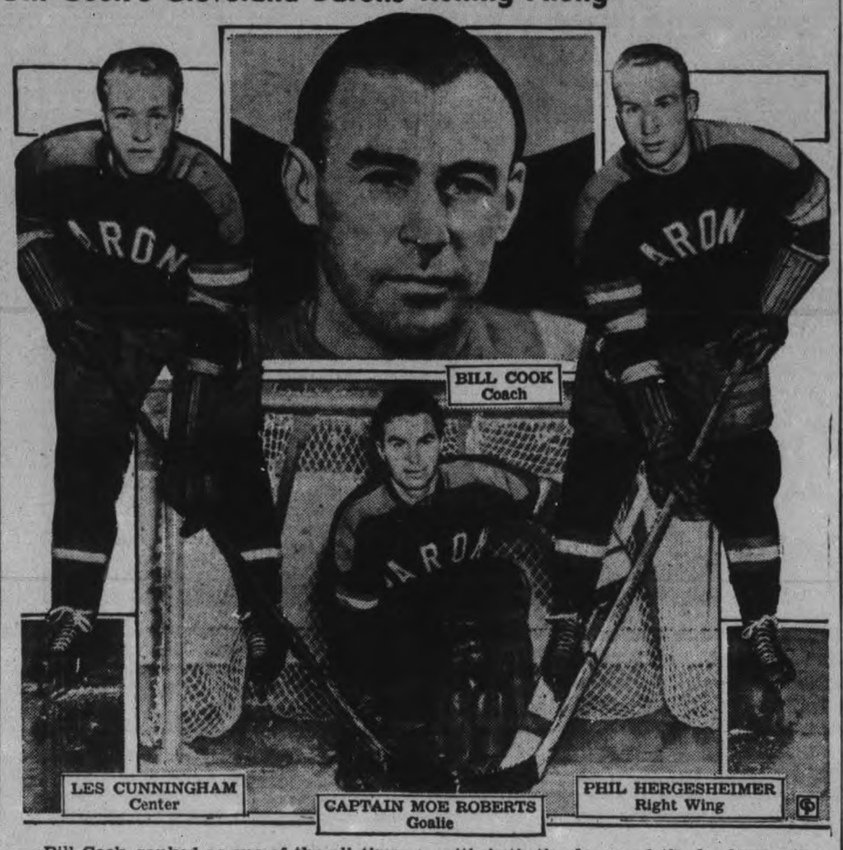
Bill Cook's Cleveland Barons Rolling Along



Bill Cook, ranked as one of the all-time greats in hockey, has his Cleveland Barons in the International-American League rolling along at a fine pace, and after a slow start his squad now heads the western section of the circuit. The former Ranger right wing is shown ABOVE with three of his stars. Bill has made a big hit in Cleveland with both the fans and the hockey scribes and while in some quarters his name is being mentioned as a possible successor to Lester Patrick, when the latter relinquishes the Ranger reins, Bill appears to be set in Cleveland, where Al Sutphin is laying the foundation for a National League team within the next few years.

Barons Humbled On Own Ice 5-2 By Bears

(By the Canadian Press.)

In the National Hockey League they talk about how hard it is to defeat the Bruins at home in Boston. In the International-American League the same things goes for Cleveland Barons.

The Bruins have suffered only one defeat—a 1-0 licking at the hands of the New York Rangers recently—at Boston since January 25 last year. The Barons went all last season with only one loss at home and so far this year have been beaten only three times on Cleveland ice.

One of those setbacks occurred ast night when the Barons fell 5-2 last night when the Barons fell 5-2 before Hershey Bears. At the same time New Haven Eagles trimmed Syracuse Stars 2-0 to go into a second place tie in their section with Providence Reds. Philadelphia Ramblers, pace-setters in the eastern division, trounced Pitts-Hornets 4-2.

The Bears gained victory on goals by Clarence Steele, Ded Klein, Harry Frost, Teddy Reardon and Kenny Kilrea. The Cleveland scorers were Lorne Duguid and Earl Bartholome.

Bobby Kirk, Babe Tapin, Bill Carse and Lude Wareing found the net for Ramblers, who held Hornets to tallies by Wally Kilrea and Phil Glesebrecht. Cliff Goupile and Don Wilson scored for New Haven while Jack Church, Syracuse defenceman, was in the penalty box.

Top Man With Detroit Red Wings

Two and three years ago when Detroit Red Wings were riding high in the National League and Jack Adams was really "Jovial Jawn," one of the best forward lines in the loop was made up of Herbie Lewis, Marty Barry and Larry Aurie. Barry (ABOVE), centre for the trio, is still a potent force in the league, his present job placing him between Charlie Conacher, ex-Leaf, and Dave Trottier, ex-Maroon. He is near the top in the N.H.L. scoring records and heads the rest of the Red Wing marksmen.

Second Match Ends In Draw

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 5—(CP Cable).—South African batsmen mastered England's attack in the final stage of the second cricket test match yesterday and the four-day struggle ended in a draw. The first test at Johannesburg had the same result.

The time limit was reached with the touring players in a dominating position. After England had declared its innings with nine wickets down for 559 runs, the Springboks made a first-innings total of 286 and following on had compiled 201 for two wickets when stumps were drawn.

Bowmanville Here To Tackle Colts

Bowmanville juniors meet the local Colts here tomorrow (Friday) evening at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink in a scheduled O. H. A. group game. It will be the first group joust at home for the Colts, and their second scheduled start of the season—having won handily in Port Hope on Tuesday night by a 7-3 score. Another good-sized Friday night crowd is expected to attend this fracas, as it promises to be a typical lively junior setto with the boys fairly flying throughout. A fine sheet of ice awaits the players, who are rounding into real shape now.

Not a great deal is known yet of the Bowmanville crew, but they are reported to be big and fast, with plenty of experience. A number of the good Rubbertown gridders —who ousted P. C. I. this fall—are in the puck lineup for Mo Breslin's bunch, and they'll be full of fight. Coach Bill Jackson of the Colts has a powerful band this season, speedy forwards and a big, bruising defence. He is featuring plenty of weight on the junior Colts in their 1939 campaign. The Colts hope to make it two in a row, and the fans can feel assured of a smart scrap here tomorrow night.

Baylor Varsity Star May Go To Detroit

DETROIT, Jan. 5—(CP).—Bill Patterson of Baylor University, whose forward passing highlighted the East-West all-star bowl game at San Francisco Jan. 2, may play for the Detroit Lions professional football club next year.

The Lions, whose showing in the national professional football league this year was unimpressive, are undergoing a thorough renovation and at least two stars, Ace Gutowsky and Vernon Huffman, likely will leave the club, Gutowsky has been an outstanding plunger in pro ranks for nine years, but he slipped badly last year, while Huffman, an all-American triple threat backfielder two years ago, never reached his top form in the pro circuit.

Remember When—

First game of the newly-organized National Hockey Association was played at Montreal 29 years ago today, Canadiens beating Cobalt Silver Kings 7-6. The N.H.A., operating in opposition to the Canadian Hockey Association, was enlarged 12 days later when the pick of C.H.A. teams merged under the National Hockey Association. The present National Hockey League was formed in 1917.

CAPE TOWN—(CP). — Sir Abe Bailey, famed South African sportsman, has announced he wil found a scholarship of £300 ($1,416) a year to commemorate the Voortrekker centenary.

Arm Okay Again Win 20 Games Says Diz Dean

By Tom Siler
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 5—(AP).—Dizzy Dean, never known as a master of understatement, told a breathless baseball world today that his expensive right arm, lame most of last season, was okay again and that he would win 20 games for the Chicago Cubs this season.

He didn't even wait for the report of doctor Sumner Koch, noted surgeon who X-rayed the wing for which the Cubs paid $185,000 in 1938.

"I know my arm is okay again," Dean said, "because I took a peek at those X-ray things yesterday before they were dry and ol' Diz has been X-rayed so often he's an expert."

Cub officials, a little less confident, hoped the star pitcher was right, but anxiously awaited what the X-ray shot revealed to Dr. Koch.

"If I feel as good when the bell rings as I do right now I'll be surprised if I don't win 20 or 25 games. I feel swell," Dean added. "I have been leading a real simple life and it sure agrees with me."

Dean was ordered last fall to give his arm complete rest during the winter and he declared he hadn't played even one round of golf. He explained most of his exercise had come from "caddying for the missus three or four times a week."

Goalie Finishes Game Makes No Complaint Although Gravely Ill

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Jan. 5—(CP).—George Dundas, Markdale, played a stellar game in goal for the Owen Sound Greys against the Barrie Colts at the arena here Tuesday night, in fact it is said that it was one of the best games in his career. No one knew that he was suffering great pain.

He made no complaint, but took seriously ill right after the game in the dressing room, and was rushed to the Owen Sound general and marine hospital, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. He was reported as doing well this morning.

Over Half World's Radium Supply Handled In Ottawa Laboratories

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 — (CP). — More than half the world's annual production of radium passes through the laboratories of the national research council here on its way to market—but no one gets very excited about it.

Measuring hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of the powerful mineral is just one of the many jobs accepted as casual routine by the council's experts. Each month 3,000 or 4,000 milligrams of radium (worth about $25 a milligram) are handled in a couple of unimpressive little rooms containing only a few small tables, electrometer and instruments.

More than half the world's annual production now comes from Eldorado mines on Great Slave Lake, developed since 1930. The rest comes from the Belgian Congo. The pitchblende mined at Eldorado is refined at Port Hope, Ont., to extract the radium which is sent here for testing and measuring.

The radium comes to the council laboratories in the form of a dark gray powder contained in tiny glass tubes. These are packed in heavy lead blocks for shipment. The council's job is to determine whether the blackish powder is really radium and how much of it.

Testing the Powder

To do that, a small tube of the powder is placed before an electrometer by which ionization of the air caused by rays from the radium is measured, indicating the quantity of radium present. This ionization is the breaking down of atoms in the air into positive and negative ions. The flow of these ions in an electric field indicates the strength of the rays which do the ionizing.

The amount of the unmeasured radium is determined by comparing the amount of the ionization produced by it and by a known quantity called "the standard." A certificate is then issued by the research council as to the amount of radium in the tube.

From the council laboratories, the radium goes to a platinum smith where it is put in small platinum tubes known as radium needles. These are pointed at one end and have an eye like a needle at the other, to facilitate handling by threading. These needles contain from one to 10 milligrams. Quantities as large as 25 milligrams are sealed in a small platinum tube, while occasional quantities larger than that are placed in a "radium bomb."

These are all measured again for the purchasers' protection, usually by the national research council laboratories and occasionally by the United States bureau of standards of national laboratories in other countries.

Fantastic Excuses Net $4,000 In 2 Years From Toronto Rector

Toronto, Jan. 5 (CP).

JOHN CAMERON, 28, pleaded guilty in police court here to-day to a charge of obtaining money by fraud from Canon C. E. Baynes-Reed, rector of St. John's Norway Anglican church and was remanded until Jan. 12 for sentence.

Cameron was arrested yesterday in the Parish Hall of the East End church. It was alleged that during 1936, 1937 and 1938 he obtained about $4,000 from the rector "on one pretext or another."

Police said the money was obtained by means of "all sorts of fantaistic excuses,' 'in sums varying from $2 to $20.

Europe Knows It

Europe has known what a scourge the disease can be. In one European country a few years ago foot and mouth disease attacked 150,000 farms in a few weeks and caused a loss estimated at $37,500,000.

Canada has a large investment in livestock, running to $711,000,000 in 1937. There are 16,143,700 cattle, sheep and swine valued at $347,741,000 on Canadian farms. Dairy production in 1937 was worth $228,400,000, with slaughtering and meat packing products valued at more than $133,370,000.

The United States is so keenly alive to the foot and mouth disease danger that a special train, fully equipped to combat an outbreak, is kept waiting on a siding at Chicago in instant readiness to dash to any part of the country when the call comes. Last United States outbreak was in 1932, and there have been 10 in the last 68 years, each resulting in slaughter of thousands of animals.

Canada keeps a rigid lookout abroad as well as at her own borders. Any country suffering from the disease finds Canada's doors resolutely locked against her animal products. Not even hides, wool, horns, hooves, bones, flesh or manure of animals from the infected country are allowed here.

Everything Is Checked.

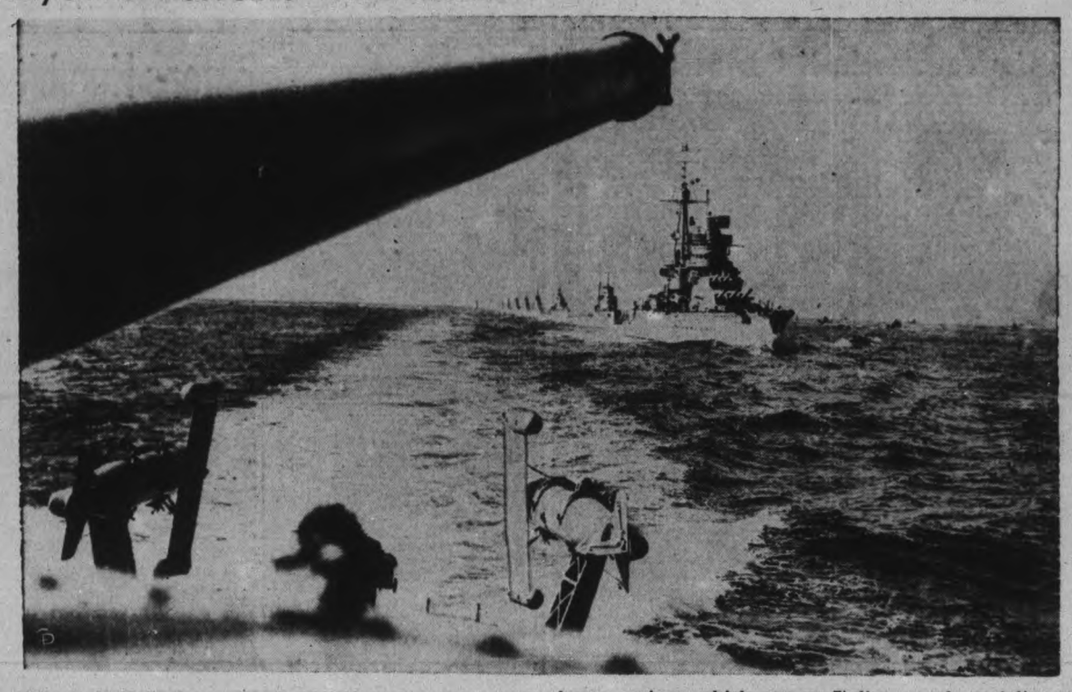
Merchandise from the quarantined country that comes packed in straw must bear a certificate it has been fumigated. If it hasn't the shipment is held up until the consignees agree to fumigation. Importation of used or second-hand bags from an infected country is absolutely prohibited, and bags from other countries must bear certification they are "home made."

The vigilance is eternal. Suspiciously old sacking and canvas on cotton bales from the Southern States are taken from trains and fumigated. Freight in transit through Canada from one United States point to another is sealed at the point of entry if it is of animal or other contaminable origin and the seal must be intact at the point of exit.

The blight of the livestock industry is described by veterinarians as an eruptive fever with blisters attacking the feet and mucous membrane of the mouth.

The animals lose appetite, are dopey, and soon begin to shiver nervously. From prime specimens they soon waste away to emaciated wrecks. The mortality rate may range from as low as there per cent to as high as 50 per cent.

Italy's First Fleet Sails "Mare Nostrum"



Timely in view of the current French-Italian tension is this fine photograph of the Italian fleet. Made from the deck of the recently refitted battleship Cavour, it shows the Cesare—also recently refitted—leading a line of the speedy heavy cruisers which are an Italian naval specialty, and which set a new style in naval design. This was during recent manoeuvres on the Mediterranean—the sea which Mussolini would like to see become—as it was to the old Romans—"Mare Nostrum" (our sea).

Eighteen Witnesses Give Evidence In Marmora Attack Case

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 5.—In the preliminary hearing of the charge of attempted murder laid against Isaac Neal of Marmora following his alleged attack upon Lem Lung, proprietor of the Glossy Cafe, Marmora on December 11 last, 18 witnesses were heard at Marmora Town Hall on Wednesday, in a session which lasted from 10.30 a.m. until 3 p.m. with an hour's adjournment for lunch.

The hearing, to have been held on Friday, was advanced two days to facilitate the hearing of evidence before the holding of the Assizes in Belleville on January 25. The hearing will be resumed in Belleville on Tuesday when Lem Lung and Dr. Frankish will be called upon to testify in completion of the Crown's evidence.

Witnesses were called by Provincial Officer Harry Thompson.

Pleads Not Guilty.

The defendant was unrepresented and entered a plea of "not guilty."

Among the first witnesses heard were Dr. H. Crawford, who told of attending the injured man, Mrs. L. Reeves who heard shouts and cries emanating from the rear of the cafe, Stanley Kerr who testified he saw Neal run from the rear of the cafe, and Constable P. Gray and Traffic Officer J. Hatch who investigated the crime.

Other witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Wannamaker and Harold Landon, occupants of the home where Neal boarded; Roy Ellis, Godfrey Scott, who photographed the scene of the attack; Chemical Engineer Mott; Everett Nobes; George Aunger; Keith Armstrong; Robert Gray; Pat O'Connor; Thomas McQuigge, and Mrs. Stanley Jackson.

The accused, accorded the right to question witnesses, made little use of it, displaying indifference on the whole.

Ernest Lam of Toronto, court interpreter and translator, attended the court, taking a seat next to Lem Lung.

Though short notice was given of the advanced hearing, the council chamber in which the hearing was held was filled to overflowing.

government were relegated from the Canadian selections. After the trade pact and the Roosevelt speech, editors attached most importance and reader interest to differences between Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Premier Hepburn, climaxed late in the year by the declaration of two Federal ministers that Mr. Hepburn had entered an alliance to oust the Federal Liberal member as party head, a declaration denied by the Ontario Premier. This story was a carry-over from last year, when the original break between the leaders was placed high.

Evidence before the Royal Commission investigating a contract for manufacture of Bren machine guns out-ranked the long-drawn Rowell commission deliberations on Dominion-Provincial relations, which did not win a place. The fifth spot went to the announcement of a Royal visit to Canada, marking the first time a king has visited his people in a dominion.

OBITUARY

DONALD B. STICKLE
(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 5.—After an illness of two weeks' duration with diabetes, Donald Bruce Stickle passed away at the family residence at Johnstown in the 2nd concession of Sidney township early Wednesday morning. His first illness with the ailment which caused his death was one year ago.

Donald, who was eleven years of age, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Stickle. He attended Harbers School in the township and was well liked by his associates. The family are members of the United Church, and Donald attended regularly the services and Sunday School.

Surviving to mourn his loss are his parents; three sisters, Doris, Greta and Fay, all at home. Much sympathy is entertained for the family in their bereavement.

Sponge Bed Scourge Blow To Bahamas

NASSAU, Bahamas, Jan. 5. —(C.P.). —A mysterious scourge that attacked sponge beds in various section of the Bahamas within the past few weeks today threatened to destroy the greatest peasant industry in the islands, vitally affecting directly or indirectly perhaps one-sixth of the Bahaman population.

The malady spread from the artificially cultivated sponge areas to the natural beds and scientists of the sponge fisheries department have abandoned their original theory that the disorder was caused by fresh water springs at the base of the artifical beds.

When 180,00 cultivated sponges on the Smith holdings at Water Bay withered it was assumed the occurrence was local attributable to conditions that accounted for the fact sponges did not grow naturally in the area before. Since that time, however, the scourge struck other points.

Natural sponges have died in Exuma Sound; 20,000 of the 50,000 growths under cultivation by the Harbour Island Sponge Association have been lost and the others are going rapidly; sponges are withering on the northern mud (about 30 miles from Water Cay) and it was learned sponges are dying in the vicinity of Nassau.

Heartburn Kept Him Awake

Afraid to Eat Square Meal

What a worry he must have been to his wife! No food agreed with him. Acid indigestion made him positively wretched. In this letter, his wife tells how he got welcome relief:—

"My husband developed a wretched form of gastric acidity," she writes. "Meals were a misery to him. He often could not sleep for heartburn. Business kept him from home a great deal, but when he did get a spell at home, I gave him Kruschen Salts. I was amazed at the results. That weary look left his face, and his indigestion gradually disappeared. It is a treat to hear him say, 'I'm hungry.' It seems too good to be true."—(Mrs.) K.M.E.

The numerous salts in Kruschen help to promote a natural flow of the digestive and other vital juices of the body. Soon after you start on Kruschen, you will find that you are able to enjoy your food without distressing after-effects. And as you persevere with the "little daily dose," you will see that Kruschen brings glorious relief.—advt.

Fur Farm Pelts 40 p.c. Of All Sales

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 — (CP).—Pelts sold from fur farms represented 40 per cent. of the total value of the raw fur production in Canada during the 12-month period ended June 30, 1937, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported to-day. The value at $17,526,365 compared with $15,464,883 in the previous season and $12,843,341 in the 1934-35 season.

Silver fox with a total value of $6,777,644 was the principal item of production, comprising 39 per cent. of the total for all kinds of furs. Fox farms produced practically the entire supply of silver fox pelts. The number recorded for the season was 230,030, the highest in the history of the industry.

South Sweden's hoof-and-mouth disease epidemic has cost the country over $1,750,000.

NO MORE PILES

Get Quick, Pleasant Relief

Probably not one person in ten knows the cause of piles is inside—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about piles and is the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give more than temporory relief — they do not remove the cause.

Your piles can not be relieved until you have corrected the condition which causes them. That is why an internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used.

HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who early in his professional life made many tests to relieve piles by correcting the cause. His medicine succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, eases the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel, and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

So if you have failed to get the relief you want from your sore, painful piles, and would like to give HEM-ROID a trial, you have our promise to return your money, if just one bottle of this prescription does not give pleasing results. McDermid & July and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist can supply you with the genuine HEM-ROID.—(Advt.)

TAKE THE LEAD OUT OF YOUR LEGS

Get Oxygen in Your Blood and You'll Get the Pep that Sends You Bounding Up the Stairs

People who smother to death die because oxygen has been completely cut off from them. Just as surely you are slowly smothering if your blood lacks red corpuscles. Red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers. They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen-carrying corpuscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, flabby, often pimply. Your nerves may become jittery — you tire quickly — feel depressed.

What you need is Dr. Williams Pink Pills. These world-famous pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood. Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today at your druggist. See for yourself how quickly this time-proven blood-builder will help give you back your pep. Copr. 1938 G-T Pelford Co. 120

The Peterborough Examiner

VOL. LXXXI, No. 3 — PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, JANUARY 5, 1939 — PRICE THREE CENTS

Jobless Up

LONDON—(CP). — Britain's unemployed increased by 46,876 in October and in the middle of November were 328,900 more than last year. The total of 1,828,103 comprised 1,455,868 wholly unemployed.

102 NEW HOMES BUILT IN PETERBOROUGH AND SUBURBS IN 1938

Owners of these four new homes are spending a comfortable and warm winter just now, the pride of ownership strong in them, the joy of achievement keen. And they are only four of one hundred and two families in Peterborough who are now residing in homes built during the past year.

They were chosen as being representative of the type of house now being erected, although they are perhaps better than the average. At LEFT is the large new home of Public School Inspector K. S. Wightman on Geraldine Avenue, just completed; LEFT CENTRE is Nathan Fine's new home on one that kept builders working at top speed through all the summer. So great was the demand for the type of skilled worker employed on such construction, that carpenters and plasterers and other skilled trades were short-handed.

(Examiner Staff Photos.)

Building Projects Estimated Exceed Half Million Mark In Peterboro, Smith, Monaghan

Building activity in the city during 1938 showed marked improvement and permit totals soared to the highest figure since the boom year of 1930. In the city alone building figures totalled $426,144, nearing the half-million mark for the first time since almost a decade ago when the total was $797,895.

Construction was steady throughout the year, each month contributing new projects right up to December when four new dwellings got under way and renovation of the old Royal Theatre was started. The total for the month of December, which included the above with one garage and three minor jobs, totalled $33,075.

102 New Homes

Within the city limits there were 57 dwellings built at a total estimated cost of $160,950. In North Monaghan there was an unprecedented building boom and 38 new homes were either zuilt or are now in the course of construction. All told in the township there were 64 permits taken out and the total estimated cost was $55,807.10 In Smith Township, just north of the northern boundary of the city, seven new dwellings were built and added to this was the Queen Elizabeth School which cost approximately $21,000. Taking into consideration the building in the suburban area the total estimated cost of all projects would be approximately $516,000.

Ashburnham led in house building with a new sub-division coming into existence on the east side of Armour Road paralleling Nicholls Oval, where five new homes are completed. South of Douro Street to the Little Lake, and particularly in the area bounded on the north by Douro Street and on the south by Sophia Street the most homes were built, the majority of the choicest lots being taken. Again in 1939 Ashburnham is taking the lead as Cyril Agnew has taken out a permit this month for a one and a half storey house on Mark Street, and work will commence at once.

Building was fairly evenly distributed throughout the rest of the city with the most expensive homes being built in the Normal School district and in the west-end. The southern part of the city is filling up fast and two streets in particular have shown great building progress, these being Prince and Princess, where there are only one or two building lots which are not built on.

The Bell Telephone building was the major building project, with the Y.W.C.A. and Charlotte Street stores running a close second, and there were about seven other fair-sized jobs.

1938	541 permits	$426,144
1937	427 permits	$199,686
1936	454 permits	$269,164
1935	431 permits	$195,588
1934	368 permits	$149,235

Fined For Abusing Dead

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 5—(CP)—Convicted of desecrating the body of a British soldier, killed in the Boer War (1899-1902), Abraham Nel, a young railway worker, was fined £30 ($143).

Nel pleaded his action was a practical joke and said he had not intended to be disrespectful.

Bull Starts a Fire

BARABOO, Wis., Jan. 5. —(A.P.) —Mrs. Lena Leucke's bull emulated Mrs. O'Leary's famous Chicago cow in one respect—his kicking, too, upset a lantern and started a fire. The bull broke his chain, attacked Mrs. Leucke's son, Henry, and kicked over a lantern. Leucke—and the rampant bull—managed to escape from the burning barn, but nine head of stanchioned cattle perished.

Peterborough Wins Honorable Mention

Peterborough won honorable mention among cities its own size, in the results of the recent continent-wide Fire Prevention Week campaign, according to a letter from Fire Marshal W. J. Scott.

Fire Marshal Scott extended heartiest congratulations to Fire Chief George Gimblett and his department "for your work, which resulted in your winning honorable mention among cities in Ontario with a population of 10,000 to 25,000. As you know, these awards are made on the basis of work done throughout the year, with special emphasis on the program for fire prevention week in October and your department deserves great credit for its splendid showing.

Reports were submitted from all sections of the United States and Canada, a far greater number than during any other year in the history of fire prevention. The province of Ontario stood fourth highest in all the United States and Canada in the number of reports filed. Two-thirds of all the homes in America were inspected and hazardous conditions removed.

Formal Send Off Is Planned For Bennett

Leading figures in the realm of politics and of the legal profession locally will probably attend the testimonial function to be held in Toronto on January 16th to pay farewell tribute to Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, P.C., K.C., LL.D., who will leave this month to take up residence in England.

The affair will be non-political and will be a formal sendoff from the province of Ontario to Canada's one time premier. A mammoth banquet is slated for the Royal York Hotel at which farewell speeches will be delivered by Sir William Mulock, P.C., K.C., M.G., and the Rt. Hon. Senator Arthur Meighan, P.C.

Killed By a Trolley

OTTAWA, Jan. 5.—(CP).—Mrs. Sarah Gimson, 60, was killed last night when she walked into the path of a street car near the Albert street barns. Operator of the car said he was travelling slowly to get over the switches leading into the barns when the woman suddenly dashed in front of the car.

Case Adjourned As Witness Ill

The enforced absence of Detective Sergeant W. E. Meagher through illness prevented the Crown from proceeding in police court this morning in the charge against Thomas Madill of stealing an overcoat and hat from James Hickey.

Madill had been arraigned on tihs count Wednesday, had elected summary trial and entered a plea of not guilty.

This morning Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C., informed the court that he would be forced to ask for a remand in view of the absence of a witness whose evidence was material to the case.

W. J. Arthur Fair, who appeared for Madill, remarked smilingly that he did not suppose there would be any use in his objecting to the delay.

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., set Tuesday next as the date for hearing the case.

Madill comes up in police court to-morrow for judgment in a charge against him of breaking and entering the shoe store of P. J. Hickey ,Hunter street, with intent to commit theft.

Car Driver Suffers Injuries To Legs

Jack White of Peterborough suffered injuries to his legs and $300 damage was done to two automobiles, in a collision Wednesday night on the Chemong road, near the Lindsay turnoff.

White was driving toward the city from Chemong and a car driven by Harry E. Goldberg of Toronto was proceeding toward Bridgenorth. As the cars approached each other it is said that Goldberg's machine was diverted from its course by hitting a snow drift. At all events the two automobiles collided and both received considerable damage.

White's injuries were not serious. The accident was investigated by Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon E. Broughton.

Steals From Bible

TORONTO, Jan. 5.—(C. P.). — Fred Lalonde, 17, was arrested early today charged with the theft of $450 from a bible in which the money had been placed for safekeeping by a relative, J. Mitchell. The theft allegedly occurred last October.

Eighty-Eight-Year-Old Chicken Pen Is On Exhibit At The Poultry Show

An ancient chicken pen fashioned by the hands of Robert Patterson, who died sixty-five years ago, is an interesting exhibit at the 29th annual poultry show now being held in the Market Hall. Alex. Patterson of 159 Aylmer Street, a son of the original owner, places the age of the show pen at 88 years.

He explained that his father built the frame of oak and had the wooden rungs turned at Colonel Poole's furniture shop on Charlotte Street. This shop went out of business more than half a century ago.

The elder Mr. Patterson owned a shoe shop at the corner of Water and Simcoe Streets, where the Bank of Montreal now stands. Peterborough at that time was little more than a cluster of houses with a few stores. He was an ardent chicken fancier and it is believed that he was the first man in Ontario to breed Toulouse geese and Rowen ducks.

He purchased the eggs in England 75 years ago, and they were hatched at his place in this city. He was one of the moving spirits in the first poultry show ever held in this district and for many years showed a large flock of birds at every show held in Eastern Ontario.

The old pen has lain idle in the loft of Mr. Patterson's barn for almost forty years until a year and a half ago, when it was given to Elric H. White, one of the leading poultry fanciers in the district. Mr. White placed it on display at the local show where it sits alongside the modern wire mesh show pens, which are a great deal smaller.

EXHIBITION ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the directors and members of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition will be held in the city council chamber on Thursday, January 12.

TO ADDRESS ROTARY

After no meetings for two weeks because of the holidays the Peterborough Rotary club will hold its first luncheon of the year on Monday and the speaker will be B. S. Sproule of the firm of Collett-Sprule, Toronto, who will address the Rotarians in a lighter vein.

A JUVENILE CASE

Tuesday next has been set down as the date for hearing in juvenile court of a charge of vagrancy against a fourteen-year-old local girl. She is said to have accompanied on their their hitch-hiking trip to Toronto the two older girls who pleaded guilty to a similar charge in police court Wednesday.

NO BIG RUSH

The story in the Examiner Wednesday evening about the number of lost keys that had been turned into the police station and never claimed has not so far produced a rush of folk to claim their missing keys. Only one man has had curiosity enough to see whether one of the 200 or more keys was the one he had lost.

TWO EXTREMES.

Pedestrians on Water Street today who breezed past the greenhouse of the Peterborough Floral near Brock holding their ears because of the cold, paused a moment to feast their eyes on the array of flowering begonias behind the glass walls. The flowers bring back pleasant memories of sunny days and flowering gardens, despite the near zero weather.

GET RID OF YOUR TREE.

Now that the festive season is with all haste, is the warning given with all ahste, is the warning given to-day by Fire Chief George Gimblett. "The trees are now dried out and are a great fire hazard," he said. "Don't store them away in cellars or sheds. Put them outside for the garbage collector to take away."

CHARGE WITHDRAWN

A charge of non-support against a local man which has been hanging fire for some time was finally disposed of in police court this morning when the wife asked Magistrate Langley to have the case withdrawn. She was willing, she said, to give her husband another chance and reported that conditions are better than when she laid the charge.

PAGE ANDY LAIDLAW.

An official report from a veteran member of the Hall of Wisdom that officers had been elected for the coming year has been held up pending further investigation by the office Sherlock. The man named as president claims he is not a full fledged member and the other person named as secretary-treasurer contends it is a frame-up to put him on a job that is all work and no pay. ....He refuses to act without a suitable stipend.

THREE BIRTHDAYS.

Three residents on Carlisle Avenue learned by chance that each had a birthday anniversary on the same day, January 3. George Boatman, one of the three, lives at 210 Carlisle Avenue. Mrs. Ed. Armstrong, who also had a birthday on the 3rd, lives next door to Boatman at 214 Carlisle Avenue, and the third celebrant was Mrs. D. Sullivan, who lives at 219 Carlisle Avenue. They are not saying which birthdays they observed.

NO INSTALMENTS THEN

City Clerk Armstrong recalled Wednesday night the practise of the ratepayers of Peterborough in requiring through their council that taxes be paid on or before December 14. That was the custom in the years before the instalment idea was conceived. Taxes were paid in one lump sum, and if any citizens failed to meet their obligation on that December date the collector of taxes was authorized to issue a warrant and apply the sanction of the court by distress or otherwise.

HAD TO BE KILLED

A spaniel was so badly injured by being hit by a passing automobile on Hunter street this morning that the animal had to be destroyed by Constable Leo Murphy.

CLEARINGS ARE DOWN.

A decided decrease in the total bank clearings for the past week ending today as compared with the same week one year ago was reported by the secretary of the clearing house. Clearings for the past week amounted to $618,745, and one year ago they were $706,017.

PLOW NOT DELIVERED.

County officials reported to-day the Frink road plow purchased last month has not been delivered yet. Official approval of the purchase has not been made by the Department of Highways. The plow is for use on suburban and county roads, and its addition will enable the county engineer to keep the roads in better condition than they have been during the past several winters.

CAUGHT UP ON THE SNOW.

With eleven trucks and two plows or graders in operation the Board of Works department had the weekend snowfall removed from most of the central streets this morning, and elsewhere throughout the city traffic conditions were back to normal. City Engineer Parsons remarked that apparently this winter is going to carry more snow and less than sleet and rain with consequent sanding than a year ago.

TESTING NEW SIGNS.

City Engineer Parsons has received two sample railway warning signs which he will test in use at the C.N.R. crossing on Water Street North. The design is a black "X" on a yellow background, with the letter "R" on each side of the "X." The sign is thirty inches in diameter and its feature is the use or tiny round particles of glass, noticeable only at close range, fitting closely together as if they had been put on by a spray. The glass gives the yellow color a high visibility even in daylight, with an effect that is exceptionally conspicuous.

Minister Approves Council's Motion

Another sign that the Attorney-General's department is favorably inclined to the abolition of grand juries is contained in a letter received by Miss Jennie Batten, county clerk, this week.

Following the last sitting of the county council the resolution urging reduction in number of grand jurors to seven was sent to the Attorney-General and the letter was in answer to this communication. The letter states in part: "The minister is entirely in sympathy with the views expressed by your council in this matter and is even willing to go so far as to completely abolish the Grand Juries. Your council's recommendation however, will be given serious consideration before the Minister makes his final decision."

Joseph Richardson Dies In Port Hope

PORT HOPE, Jan. 5. — Resident of Port Hope for fifty-two years, Joseph Richardson died here on Wednesday. He would have been 99 years of age on February 9. Born at Haleby, Lincolnshire, England, he came to Canada and Port Hope when 47 years old and served as coachman for several prominent families here. He suffered a fall on New Year's Eve. Surviving are a stepdaughter, Mrs. Fred Allen of Peterborough, and two sons, Gordon and William, both of Chicago.

BULL IN BEDROOM

When a woman awoke from an after-luncheon nap in Fielding, N.Z., to find a bull in her bedroom she belabored it with a broom, but the animal would not budge until the drover arrived.

Earlier Payment Of Taxes Recommended

The three instalments of the 1939 taxes will become due a month earlier than last year if the council puts into effect a recommendation Wednesday night from a special committee which was appointed to consider any questions relating to the new tax rates.

It is altogether likely that the council will accept the idea which involves an earlier preparation of the budget to enable the several departments at the City Hall to distribute tax bills probably some time in May.

The municipal budget has been adopted at the regular March meeting of the council, or at a special meeting during the month, at least since the new dispensation has been an influence; % tax rate is struck on the basis of the estimated expenditure, and the first instalment of taxes has usually been due around the fifth to the ninth of July, the second payment in September, and the final in the first week of November.

Advanced To June.

It is now proposed to make the first instalment due on June 9th, the second on August 9th, and the third on October 9; and to increase the penalty for tax arrears from the present rates of 3 per cent. on the first instalment, 2 per cent. on the second, and 1 per cent. on the third, to the corresponding schedule of 4-3-2 per cent.

To assist the finance committee in directing the course of the budget according to the new time table, it was suggested last night that all spending bodies, depending on the council for their finances, be requested to submit their estimates at least by January 28, leaving about ten days for the final stage of considering the budget prior to the regular meeting in February.

Morley E. Shaver, city treasurer, remarked that the present instalment penalties of 3, 2 and 1 per cent. on their respective periods last year levelled off at 2 per cent., and at that rate became merely an interest rate instead of a penalty. Municipalities generally were following the new course of stiffening penalties because they had found that on the lenient basis many citizens took advantage of them, letting arrears accumulate.

Alderman Cotton presided at the meeting of the sub-committee, and those present with him were Mayor Hamilton, Aldermen Dutton and Bradburn.

He Backs Out

OTTAWA, Jan. 5. —(C. P.). — Veteran representative of Ottawa ward and Dean of City Council, Alderman Aristide Belanger withdrew from the inaugural meeting of the civic industrial and publicity committee last night, declaring "there seems to be no room for Catholics as chairman of civic committees." Alderman Belanger and George S. Sloan were defeated on the fourth ballot by Alderman Wilbert Hamilton for the chairmanship of committee.

Late Celebration

EDINBURGH, Jan. 5.—(AP).) — The remote Shetland Islanders north of Scotland celebrated Christmas to-day.

The Islanders have clung sturdily to the old Julian calendar, refusing to accept that of Pope Gregory which most of the rest of the world has used for nearly two centuries.

The New Year starts Jan. 12 for these descendants of the Vikings.

Judge Endorses Settlement Of Jack's Lake Case

The action of Read Bros. of Bobcaygeon against Mrs. Helen G. Robbins of Jack's Lake, Peterborough County, to compel performance by her of an agreement alleged to have been made for the sale by Mrs. Robbins of a number of islands and some other lands at Jack's Lake was disposed of by Mr. Justice Godfrey, the trial judge, at the adjourned Supreme Court sittings on Tuesday afternoon.

When the case was called counsel for all parties announced that a settlement had been arrived at and the trial judge endorsed the record as follows:

"If on or before the 4th February, 1939, Mrs. Robbins pays to the plaintiffs' solicitors $1,500, at the same time there will be handed to the plaintiffs' solicitors a cheque now deposited by Mr. Gordon for $200, this cheque to be cancelled, then the action is to be dismissed without costs.

"If the said payment of $1,500 is not made on or before the 4th February, 1939, the $200 cheque will be handed by Mr. Harstone to Mr. Gordon, the defendant's solicitor, and there shall be judgment for the specific performance claimed in the statement of claim as amended at trial with costs of action.

"Proof of default in the payment of the $1,500 shall be made by an affidavit filed by any member of the plaintiffs' firm of solicitors with the registrar of this court at Peterborough. Any differences between the parties as to the terms of the judgment shall be settled by the trial judge."

F. D. Kerr, K.C., and E. F. Borbridge appeared on behalf of the plaintiffs, the Read Bros., and the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., for the defendant, Mrs. Robbins.

An action Hayes versus McClelland was laid over to the next sitting of the court, and an action over ownership of a farm instituted by W. H. Chase of Havelock against Charles Cowell was settled on order of the presiding judge, W. J. A. Fair appeared for Chase and G. N. Gordon, K.C., for Cowell.

Work For 150

WINNIPEG, Jan. 5.—(CP).—Canadian Pacific Railway officials yesterday announced 150 men would return to work this week in the Weston shops here. It is expected the men will be given five months' employment reconditioning cars and coaches.

90.5 Per Cent. Of 1938 Taxes Have Been Paid

The percentage of payment of taxes in Peetrborough last year was the highest since 1933, City Treasurer M. E. Shaver told the Examiner to-day.

The amount of taxes paid in 1938 was 90.5 p.c. of the total amount due for the year as shown on the tax roll. The steady gain in payments during the last six years is reflected in the following comparative statement: In 1933 the payments were 83.33 p.c. of the amount of taxes due; in 1934 it was 83.98 p.c.; then 85 p.c. in 1935; 86.89 p.c. in 1936; 89.42 p.c. in 1937 and 90.5 p.c. last year.

Mr. Shaver remarked that the city was still considerably under previous records for the last thirty-two years, the highest percentage of tax payments having been 96.48 in 1907 and 96.44 in 1920.

Fourteen Win Prizes At Benefit Game

J. J. Duffus, M.P., drew the fourteen prize-winning tickets at the benefit game held last night at the Brock Street Rink, when St. Mike's Buzers of Toronto defeated the Peterborough Colts 8 to 4. The proceeds of the game will go toward the re-establishing of Jewish refugees from Germany.

The prize-winners are:

Family With Income of $176 in December Seek Aid When Father Laid Off Two Weeks

A family whose income during December amounted to $175 applied yesterday to Relief Officer for financial help in some recent emergency they were unable to meet in their stride. Actually they didn't ask for relief, but they had heard there was some special fund available for personal crises such as they regarded the problem facing them. The head of the family and his son were both working, and the wife had an income of about $12 a month. Within the last few days the father went on two weeks' holidays, then comes the jam, and a hurry-up call to the Relief Office.

"It just shows how far some people will go," said Alderman Dutton at last night's meeting at the City Hall. "The tendency seems to be broadening out instead of improving, and I am afraid we shall not have a pleasant report of conditions at the Relief Committee meeting on Friday night. I think you will find that we are almost back to one of the worst periods of the depression, partly as a result of the closing of the Auburn Mill last fall.

"This case I have told you about reminds us that the Mayor's Welfare Fund was never intended for such cases as this, or anything like it; and the discouraging thing about it is the readiness of the people to run to the city for relief. That phase of it seems to be getting worse."

Good Dividends

During 1939 everyone looks forward to receiving adequate returns from all investments. This is only fair and logical. It is also logical that everyone should consider health as an important part of his capital investment, for without good health, success is hard to attain.

Any effort expended to build better health through natural methods will return good dividends in strength and productive energy. Our treatments merit your investigation.

CHAPTER 42

THE UNIVERSITY CLUB in Houston is a very large place. When it is full of milling, laughing, dancing couples, it is difficult to find anyone for whom you are looking, unless you are lucky.

Peaches Pomeroy had thought she could go right to the elevator entrance and wait for her bell hop, the boy whom she had sent for a box of aspirin. She had not waited by the checking room counter, as promised, for a definite reason; she did not want to be seen there. Anybody might drift by and see her, and so put two and two together—later.

Her plan was to wait for the boy, take the aspirin and thank him, and watch then for the opportune time to scream that her diamond bracelet had been stolen. She thought it best to wait until later in the evening, toward the end of the dance. But—while she waited at the elevator, she saw her bell hop run up the stairs and dart by without seeing her.

She tried to call to him, to follow, but could not see him again. He had disappeared in the throng. Two other costumed servants, spotted at a distance, turned out not to be hers. She went back and peered down the hall toward the checkroom, but her boy was not there.

After a few minutes of searching she gave up. It didn't matter anyway. And besides, someone came to claim a dance with her. One of her old crowd. She glanced around looking for Thornton Holgate, but he was not in sight. Well, it was best that she be seen on the floor constantly now. It was best for her plan. She would dance and laugh and be as gay as possible—until the right moment to sound her plotted alarm. She saw no more of the bell hop.

◇ ◇ ◇

The man, dressed in tuxedo, was kneeling on the white tile floor alone. Alone, too, he was shaking dice, and throwing them, as if in solitaire, or in practice. Click-click, slide. Click. And—a quart of whiskey, unmistakable in color and odor, stood on the floor nearby, open but apparently still full. The cork was near. A lone man, throwing dice, preparing to get drunk.

His motions stopped the second after Worthington opened the door, and he looked up, quizzically, owl-eyed, his expression strained. Worthington's jaw dropped.

"Why, D-D-Dr. Holgate!" the lad exclaimed. "You—you—gos-s-sh!"

Dr. Thornton Holgate had danced only one dance with his date. Early in the festivities, Peaches had disappeared, and he hadn't been able to find her. He danced once or twice with other girls. But then, he had a very definite course of action mapped out for this evening, and being a man of his word he meant to carry it through. He had given his word to himself.

Therefore, about 10:30 o'clock he slipped downstairs alone and made his way to a drug store.

"I wish to consider some—ah—dice," he told the clerk.

"How's that?" The clerk hadn't understood.

"Do—do you have—dice? For sale? You know—dice?"

"Oh! sure, sure! Let's see—here's some for 10 cents. And these much better ones, genuine ivory, perfect balance, for 49 cents. And these—"

He had a little tray of them and Thornton selected some white ones. It never occurred to him that he didn't know how to handle them at all. Didn't know the game. Never in all his life had Thornton Holgate shot craps. But he didn't think of that detail now. He had a more difficult mission.

Now, Thornton Holgate had maintained an academic interest in the American liquor situation. He had studied prohibition as one studies naval armaments, or conservation of natural resources, or socialized medicine. He knew that liquor was a problem. He knew the ill effects of drunkenness. He could quote statistics about alcohol, and its effects on the human body and brain. In short, he was quite familiar with liquor—but he had never drunk any, certainly never purchased any, ever.

Moreover, he despised the thought of drunkenness, as a personal consideration. He held drunks in utter contempt. Or sometimes pity. Liquor was repulsive in every sense, to him.

Nevertheless, Dr. Thornton Holgate was thoroughly determined to get some first-hand information about liquor tonight. He had worked himself up to this determination over a perold of weeks. He had debated it pro and con with himself. He had decided that he should not be a prude, that conceivably Peaches Pomeroy and her drinking crowd were right, that he must at least learn their side of the question by actual experience.

He had observed before that Peaches liked to drink — nay, to get drunk—at public dances. So he would drink at this one with her, at the risk of reputation, even if it killed him! He also had observed at an earlier dance that she liked to play dice, and that was why he bought the little cubes of ivory. If he was going in for wildness this night, he was determined to do a good job of it.

He had no trouble finding a saloon. It wasn't called a saloon, but it was exactly that. He saw the bottled array on the wall behind the counter.

"I—ah—want a quart of the best." He tried to be nonchalant.

"Best what?" The bartender eyed him.

"I beg pardon?"

"Best what? Gin? Whiskey? Wine? What?"

"Oh! Oh, dear me!" Thornton was pink with enbarrassment. Which was a mistake, because the barkeep promptly, if silently, raised his prices 50 per cent, having recognized a sucker.

When he finally got his quart of whiskey and walked out with it, Thornton had a sense of uneasiness. He glanced guiltily at everyone on the sidewalk. He felt like a burglar must feel just after cracking a safe. But he stuck out his chin and went on, on up the University club elevator and into the men's lounge. Some oddment of knowledge told him that men did their initial drinking in the lounge. He would go there and proceed to start his evening of wildness, joining Peaches and others of the "gang" later.

However, it hadn't been easy to start. It had taken more will power than he had anticipated. He had knelt in the private washroom, smelled his open whiskey bottle, and almost had been nauseated! He had begun shaking and throwing his new dice, practicing the mannerisms he had chanced to see in times past. Then all at once his door had popped open, and there was one of his students in bell boy uniform.

"Why—Dr. Holgate!" Worthington Gurley had stammered in utter amazement.

It was as if the freshman had pointed an accusing finger of judgment at him. He, Thornton Holgate, was caught! He who had prided himself on moral stamina, caught by a nice lad at gambling and drinking (he hadn't actually drunk any of the whiskey, but the evidence was there.) The freshman stared, incredulous, before he could speak again. Things had been moving fast for young Gurley, but he tried bravely to ignore what he saw.

"Come with me, "the freshman ordered then. Hurry! You must come at once!"

"No! No, no, Gurley. I—I didn't mean—I'm sorry. You see—I—" Dr. Holgate had to swallow. Profound shame had suffused him. Shame and anger.

"She's put her bracelet in her coat. In the lining—gnawed a hole—down in the lining—I saw her—such a mean look in her eyes—hurry, can't you—valuable bracelet—come on—come on, Dr. Holgate!"

Of course the professor couldn't understand such babbling. Excited now, Worthington felt only his own deep sense of guilt. He felt that he had been caught at something terrible, and that his sin was about to be exposed. His sin and shame.

"Oh, my goodness—dam!" Dr. Holgate was standing. "Let me explain, Mr. Gurley. You must not be too hasty in judging—"

"HURRY, Dr. Holgate!" The boy wasn't listening, he was talking, and moving around excitedly.

As a matter of fact, he was also trying tactfully if excitedly to ignore what he saw on the floor—the whiskey and dice—he who had idealized Dr. Holgate as a gentleman since the adventurous episode at Galveston a few weeks ago. People everywhere then had declared that Thornton Holgate was clean and fine, a man of high character. To be found like this—Worthington tried to ignore what he saw.

"I must call the police," he declared then, starting to leave.

"NO! Oh, no! Wait!"

Call the police! Dr. Holgate was terrified for an instant. Surely his crime didn't warrant that! He must stop the freshman, and explain somehow. It would never do for him, Thornton Holgate, to have a police record. What would his mother say? And his colleagues? Not to mention his own self-respect and pride.

It did not occur to Thornton in his bewilderment that he had violated no law whatever. Indeed, that he had done absolutely nothing wrong. The mere fact of playing alone with two dice, and of buying and opening a bottle of whiskey, can hardly be called disgraceful. But then, one's intentions—

"My Lord!" he breathed, wishing he had never heard of Peaches Pomeroy. It was for her that he had done these things.

He suddenly hated her. Suddenly knew that he didn't want to marry her, didn't love her, never had loved her, wished he had never seen or, heard of her. These thoughts burned through his mind in the moment that he and the young freshman stared at each other, misunderstanding each other's words.

The Examiner Home Service

Clever Sue! Called into the board meeting to give a report, she speaks up clearly—with poise. The secret of Sue's success? She studied public speaking at home.

When you try to talk on your feet, does your voice quaver, your knees shake? You, too, can learn to speak up confidently in business, before an audience.

Try this easy training. Choose a subject and jot down your ideas in logical order. Talk them in front of a mirror. To hear yourself, cup hands behind your ears.

Is every syllable clear? If not, practise such tongue-loosenders as "The sea ceaseth and it sufficeth us."

Your voice seems thin, lacks resonance? In a low tone pronounce "dawn", "wrong", holding sounds as long as you can.

Soon you sell yourself effectively when you ask for a job. On that club committee, you present your plans confidently, persuasively.

Our 32-page booklet tells how to train your voice, overcome voice defects, win interest of your audience. Helps you prepare speeches for platform speaking; radio; introductions, presentations, what to say as toastmaster.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—Can a man be in love with two different women at the same time? That is the state my husband claims to be in. We have been very happily married for three years, but now he has fallen in love with a girl 17 years old. He says this love in no way affects his love for me; that he still loves me as much as the day we were married, but that he loves her every bit as much as he loves me, although he realizes that I am superior to her. This affair with the girl has been going on for more than a year and he still hasn't been able to make up his mind which of us he cares the most for. If I thought that the girl really loved him and that he preferred her, I would not stand in their way, but I cannot be sure. I think a girl as young as she doesn't know the real meaning of love. In spite of it all, I still love my husband and am willing to do all I can to further his happiness. Am I a fool or not? A READER.

ANSWER:

It certainly betrays no lack of intelligence for you not to be able to gauge your husband's ability to love. Even the Bible sets down the way of a man with a maid as one of the insoluble mysteries of life. Probably no son of Adam understands it himself, or has any idea about why, or for what reason, a woman captures his fancy, or how many he can love at the same time.

Of course, there are some men who are one-woman men. They give all the affection that they have to one individual woman. She satisfies their every need and desire and they wish for no other. Their hearts may be likened to a one-room apartment. But the hearts of the great majority of men are like a hotel for transients, with always room for a newcomer.

They have many fleeting fancies. They desire many diverse charms and virtues in a woman. And so no one woman can completely satisfy them. No doubt it is out of this characteristic of men that polygamy grew, for it gave a husband the opportunity to gratify his many tastes in wives. He could love a young wife for her youth and spirited ways and an older one for her age and tolerance. Another for her beauty. Another for her wit. Another for her music. Another for her skill in cooking.

Evidently the modern man still retains his polygamous taste, but the trouble comes in when he expects one wife to pinch-hit for twenty and to have all the conflicting attributes that twenty women possess. It can't be done. But what sets most men roaming is the search for some charm that their wives lack. It isn't that the husbands have fallen out of love with their wives, or that they don't admire them and respect them. It is just that some woman with a different line of attractions has come along and caught their roving eyes.

Of course, the man of many loves loves lightly. He is incapable of a deep, passionate attachment, but he is as he was made and his wife has to take him that way, or leave him. And if she has the patience and the grit and thinks he is worth while waiting for, in the end he always comes back to her.

So if you really love your husband, just play the waiting game. Quit arguing with your husband about which he loves best, for that forces him to think up reasons why he should prefer the girl. Just let the matter lie. He will get tired of playing around with a girl who is little more than a child, or she will weary of him and see the folly of wasting herself on a married man, and the affair will just peter out.

In every contest between the wife and the 'other woman' the odds are in the wife's favor because she has law and society and property consideration on her side, as well as the habit of affection and the something about a wife that makes her superior to other women in a man's mind just because she is his wife.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Before we were married I insisted on a long engagement to be sure that my fiance and I would be well matched. He seemed to like all the things that I did and vice versa, but now he likes just the opposite. I am fond of good literature. He reads only the sports page and cartoons. I like peace and he likes to argue. I intend to stand to my contract, but would like to have things more congenial between us. Can you give me any advice on the subject? DISAPPOINTED.

ANSWER:

None that will be palatable, or that you will be likely to take. It is a bitter pill for a wife to have to swallow to be told that the leopard is just as likely to change its spots as a husband is his ways. If there is any adapting done, it is she who must do it.

So I am afraid that if you wish to carry on a conversation with your husband about what's in the paper, you will have to study up on baseball and football and know who's who in them. You will never get him to bone up on the best sellers so as to be an entertaining companion to you. If you want to laugh with him, you will have to develop a taste for the comic strips. Believe me, they are an adhesive plaster that hold many a family together.

It is too bad that men always put their best foot foremost when they go a-courting and that thereby they deprive a girl of any chance of guessing what sort of husbands they will make when they get their good clothes and their good manners off and settle down to everyday life. But it is a rule of nature. Even the birds shed their fine feathers once they have selected a mate.

DEAR MISS DIX—My fiance and I are very much in love and anxious to be married, but he has a widowed mother and an invalid sister dependent on him. He has a salary of $50 a week. Could we maintain a separate establishment and still support them on that amount of money? I have a job, but he insists that I give it up when we marry.

MODERN PORTIA.

ANSWER:

I do not see how it would be possible to maintain two homes and feed and clothe four people on $50 a week. You will have to keep on with your job if you marry. And why not? It is better than breaking your heart in hopeless waiting.

Your little darling will be fashion first in classroom in this precious high-waisted dress or navy blue percale. White bias accents the high-waistline of the blue and white print bodice. A white Peter Pan collar finishes the neck. Of course she'll want a clan plaid dress of gingham or of challis and rayon mixture that tubs so perfectly. Either red or blue plaid is attractive with white pique collar. Repeat the white in bias binds at the edge of the bodice. Velveteen or a printed rayon taffeta is smart for Sunday school in the demure square-necked version. It takes just the minimum time and material to sew it.

Style No. 2131 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1⅞ yards of 39-inch material with ¼ yard of 35-inch contrasting and 2½ yards of binding.

Looking Back
On This Date

Ninety years ago today (Jan. 5, 1849), a boy was born at Purbrook, Simcoe county, Upper Canada, who was destined to do much to spread abroad the fame of the North West Mounted police. He was Samuel Banfield Steele, son of Commander Elmes Steele, R.N., who after a most gallant career at sea taking part in many engagements, had located in the wilds of Upper Canada, determined to build up a home and a family which would add to the reputation of Canada. He did both; he was one of the fathers of Simcoe county, and he was the progenitor of a family which has done honor to his name in many walks of life.

Sam Steele—as we who knew him still call him, despite the fact that he became Sir Sam and a major-general—was only 17 when, in 1866, he turned out to do his bit in repelling the Fenian invaders. He was one of the Ontario Rifles who went to Fort Garry with Colonel Wolseley in 1870; and in 1873 he was one of the originals of the red-coated riders of the plains.

Promotion followed promotion, but it was not until 1885 that Sam Steele's name came before Canadian newspaper readers. Then he commanded the police scouts in Alberta under General Strange when they rounded up Big Bear. With a reputation thus gained, we were not surprised, 40 years ago, when we were told that Sam Steele had been given command of the N.W.M.P. at the summit of the White and Chilkoot passes, during the rush to the Yukon of '98. Nor were we surprised when we were told that there was little disorder and crime on the trail, or later in Dawson, because we knew how Sam would, and could, handle "bad men" from the south.

That Yukon service made Sam Steele "news" whenever he came out, and when Lord Strathcona offered to raise his mounted force for service in South Africa Sam became, as a matter of course, the first commandant of the regiment which was known as the "Strathcona Horse", and made high fame for Canadian mounties in the South African War.

Sam Steel was "over age" when the call came for a second Strathcona Horse in 1914, but he gave his advice and later, when in charge at Shorncliffe, he was proud to know that some of his old boys and some of their sons were maintaining the honor of the Strathcona Horse.

Venezuela's housing shortage is becoming serious.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

For two days it had snowed. On the third morning the sun came out and the sunbeams sparkled on the white carpet that stretched as far as the eye could see.

Knarf and Hanid, the shadows with the turned-about names, were walking behind the two children to the little hill at the end of the road. All at once Hanid said in a whisper to Knarf: "Look! There's Jack Frost!"

Sure enough, there was Jack walking across a field with a large white bag slung over his shoulder. The children didn't notice him — they were too busy pulling their sled But the two shadows instantly shouted: "Jack! Jack!"

Jack Frost looked around and waved to Knarf and Hanid. Then he went right on walking across the field. Every now and then he stopped to pick up something and put it in the bag.

"I wonder what he's doing?" Knarf said to Hanid.

"Just see what has happened!"

"Let's go and see."

So the two shadows slipped away from the children and hurried across the field until finally they reached Jack Frost's side.

Something Wrong.

"What are you doing, Jack Frost?" they asked after they had greeted him. They saw that he didn't seem to be very cheerful. "Is something the matter?"

"Indeed there is," he answered. He pointed to the snow which lay all over the ground. "Just see what has happened! All my snowflakes have blown away."

"Blown away! What do you mean?"

"Well," said Jack, "I was saving all these snowflakes for a fine big snowstorm in March. March is a wonderful month for snowstorms and you have to have a lot of flakes—millions and millions of them—before you can make a snowstorm worth talking about."

"And what happened?"

In Snowflake Factory.

"I had them all in a great big bin in my snowflake factory under the hill. I had a big lock on the door of the bin. I didn't think anyone could open it and let the snowflakes out. Two nights ago I went out to freeze over the top of the pond. While I was gone the North Wind came along. He whistled and roared around the hill, 'I want a snowstorm! I want a snowstorm!' Then he blew off the lock on the bin, and blew open the door and scattered all my precious snowflakes far and wide. And now I'm so disappointed. I know that no one wanted a snowstorm now.

"But they did!" two shadows cried. "The children are as happy as can be! Just look at them sliding down that hill on their sleds!"

And when Jack Frost saw how happy the snowstorm was making the children, he felt happy, too.

Loyalists Lose Artesa In Bitter Fight

HENDAYE, France Jan. 5. —(C. P.). —Spanish Government forces which have held firm against the 14-day insurgent assault on the centre of Catalonia were cut off from their military bases today except for one secondary highway.

An Insurgent ccommunique from Salamanca said General Franco's field columns had whipped around the northern and southern ends of the Government's first line of defence in the Balaguer sector cutting two important roads.

One of these was the road to Artesa De Serge, "key to Catalonia" and important communications centre, and the other was the road from Lerida to Tarragona, east coast supply centre.

The only highway remaining untouched for Government use, according to the Insurgent communique was the road between Lerida and Cervera, hitting the front about midway between Tremp, at the northern end, and Falset, at the southend.

Artesa Defense Broken.

In the north, the communique said, Artesa, 65 miles northwest of Barcelona, had fallen before a concentrated attack of tanks, artillery and troops.

A copyright Havas news agency dispatch said occupation of Artesa followed a 24-hour seige.

Insurgent troops entered Artesa at 1 p.m. behind a tank, artillery and aerial attack. Machine-gun nests hidden in houses opened severe fire. Several tanks fell into deep traps dug in the streets and lightly covered over.

Insurgents declared they took more than 2,600 prisoners and seized five tractor-drawn heavy guns, a battery of trench mortars, an armoured car and large supplies of shells and other munitions.

In the south, the insurgents reported new advances which threatened Borjas Blancas, southern end of the strongly fortified line extending across the Urgel tableland from Balaguer.

2,000 Italians Slain

Government commanders said more than 2,000 Italian soldiers were slain near Borjas Blancas.

A defence ministry communique admitted the insurgents made slight gains in the Borjas Blancas sector, but declared government troops in the Pobla De Granadella area, 15 miles to the southwest, smashed three insurgent drives.

Squadrons of 40 planes each dumped tons of explosives over government trenches, villages back of the lines and supply roads, carrying out the raids in relays.

The new southward thrust followed the occupation late last night of Castelldans, about seven miles west of Borjas Blancas, by Italian and Spanish troops who battled their way through the Sierra Conaseca mountains.

Government bulletins refused to acknowledge insurgent claims. They said government troops still clung to their positions in battered Artesa, despite intense artillery bombardments and attacks by double columns of 50 insurgent tanks.

In the Castelldans sector government advance guards, just southeast of Lerida, were reported by the insurgents to be virtually encircled.

Open Verdict

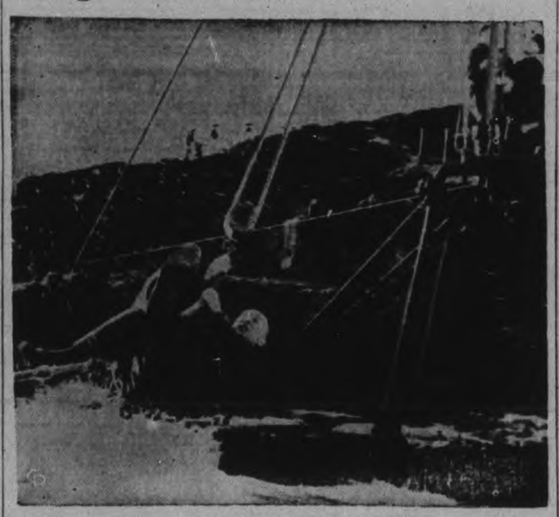
OLDS, Alta., Jan. 5 — (CP). — An open verdict was returned by a coroner's jury here last night following inquiry into the death of three baby boys in a nursing home on December 15.

The jury, under Coroner Dr. E. A. Braithwaite of Edmonton, found the babies died from asphyxiation. What caused asphyxiation was not determined.

News Veteran Dies

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Jan. 5—(CP) —Albert M. Belding, veteran Saint John newspaperman, former edtior of The Saint John Star, later editor of The Evening Times and still later editor-in-chief of of The Telegraph-Journal and Evening Times-Globe, died to-day after a lengthy illnes. He would have marked his 80th birthday next May.

Going Home For Christmas



Keeper Begg, of the Dhubheartach lighthouse at Dhubheartach, Scotland, is being slung ashore, via a derrick, through the salt spray, for his annual Christmas holiday relief. The steamer Hesperus from Oban, Scotland, of the Northern Lighthouses Commissioners, during the Christmas week, made successful reliefs of the lighthouses of Hyskeir, Dhubheartach and Skerrycore, in the Atlantic Ocean off Scotland's west coast. The ship also landed many Christmas gifts from home to the keepers who celebrated Christmas and New Year's on the sea girt rocks.

Assaulting Man Costs Youth $46

LINDSAY, January 5.—"It's about time the young men of this district took hold of themselves when they visit dance halls, or by their rowdyism they will place their hails back into disrepute, where they were twenty five years ago, when respectable people hesitated to patronize them," said Crown Attorney Anderson in police court, Wednesday. A young man of Emily Township, pleaded guilty to the charge of assaulting the door-keeper at the Parish Hall at Downeyville, breaking his nose.

"I am told," remarked the Crown Attorney, "this young man said he had a ticket, but refused to produce it. Then while his friends held the door-keeper's arms, the accused struck him three times in the nose. Magistratae Gee, in imposing a fine of $10.00 and costs, $46.00 in all, said:—"In my time we went to dances for the purpose of enjoying the dance, and we did not have to resort to the modern way of taking liquor to pep us up for the fun."

Harvey Jewell, 23 of Lindsay, faced a charge of reckless driving and was fined $10.00 and costs amounting to $25.00 or in default of payment, fifteen days in jail. His driving permit was also cancelled for two months. An additional charge of drunk driving was withdrawn. The accused crashed into another car near the Ross Memorial Hospital early New Year's morning. There was no liquor in the car, but accused admitted having several glasses of beer during the night.

David Belch, a pioneer resident of Manvers township, and who for the past several years, resided in Omemee, passed away in the Ross Memorial Hospital this week. He was in his seventy-third year, and was a member of the Presbyterian church.

On a charge of contempt of court, Arnold Brown, of Canton, came before Magistrate Gee yesterday and was fined $10.00 and costs. He failed to answer a summons in a case under the Children's Protection Act.

Final Postponement

RACINE, Wis., Jan. 5 — (AP). — Country Judge J. Allan Simpson today granted what he termed the "final postponement" of the contest over the will of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, the late malted milk heiress, who died at the home of W. Perkins Bull, K.C., in Toronto last fall.

The trial originally was scheduled January 11. He will set the final date in a few days.

Society Is Thanked For Bale Of Clothing

A letter from Elmhurst, Saskatchewan, thanking a Woman's Missionary Society for a bale of clothing has been received here by the secretary of the Peterborough W. M.S., who wishes it to be forwarded to the proper branch.

The letter acknowledges the clothing which "we have distributed among eighteen families and they all send you their thanks. Clothing is needed in our district very badly and it was surely appreciated. Please thank that fine old lady of 94. Tell her I hope she beats my grandmother who died several years ago and who is lying in St. Peter's cemetery, Burys Green, near Fenelon Falls, my old home. She was 98 all but 14 days."

The letter is signed "A. S. Brooks." Peterborough W. M. S. officials did not send clothing to the area named, but believe it may have been sent from this district.

Broke But Happy Toronto Newsie Off For His Free Seat At The "Met"

TORONTO, Jan. 5—(CP).—It will be top hat and tails and a free seat at the "Met" in New York tonight for a "broke but happy" George Malaiko, Toronto's opera-loving news vendor.

When the curtain goes up it will be one of the happiest moments in the life of the 54-year-old "newsboy" who spends his earnings on works of the masters. He will hear "Don Giovanni," his favorite opera, an opera he once pawned his watch to hear in Berlin.

Malaiko, crippled since a prospecting accident in Northern Ontario same years ago owes it all to Edward Johnson, Canadian-born manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Richard Crooks, tenor of "Don Giovanni."

They heard the rough-featured "newsie" wanted to hear "Don Giovanni" so they provided return railway transportation and promised a good seat at the "Met." Malaiko doesn't know how he will repay them.

"What can I do?" he asked, tossing on a chair in his simple, nyat room the tattered clothes he wears at his stand. "I would do anything in the world for them if I could, but I only can thank them."

Malaiko had offered to provide a newspaper every day for life for the person who would lend him the money to go to New York.. But he won't have to do that now and he was unable to describe his feelings when he learned Johnson and Crooks had volunteered to help him.

Music As He Dresses

"It is a great thrill," he said, dressing hurriedly to catch the night train for New York.

He paused only to change the records as he played Beethoven's concerto No. 5 on an expensive phonograph in the corner of his small room, bare except for a few pictures on the walls and a bed and bureau.

"I was so excited, so puzzled, I didn't know what to think. I am broke but so happy. Thanks to God I will be able to see it."

"You know," he confided, "if you had a cent for every dollar I have spent for music you would not have to work. I have spent every cent I ever made on music."

His love for opera he described as similar to the love of a man for a maiden. It had grown on him since childhood from an unknown source. The parents he left many years ago in Rumania were simple farm folk and were not particularly fond of music.

Malaiko is a musician himself and has played the violin for many years. He has been to all the operas in Toronto and on each occasion doffs his worn working clothes for the top hat and tails he keeps carefully packed away between operas.

His love is for classical music alone. Jazz and swing are not for him.

"I wouldn't waste my time listening to them. But the masters..."

Ireland's Little Theatre movement is growing.

Japan is increasing its production of aluminum.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, January 6

Much high-tension activity is presaged for this day, according to aspects of the forward-looking planets, which wield powerful influence on the inventive and creative faculties. All sorts of innovations, novelties, and bold experiments of a practical nature should receive splendid impetus. For furthering such progressive efforts there should be capital and substantial support from large institutions and "big business," and strangers or fresh contacts may stand ready with encouragement. In social, domestic and cultural directions there is much pleasant and profitable association. It is a most auspicious time for moving forward, even though the personal finances are low.

Those whose birthday it is are stepping into a year of unusual opportunity for putting into execution their ambitions and long cherished plans for doing something unique or original "in a big way." Methods and objectives may be audacious, entirely new and out-of-the-routine, thus enlisting the solid support of big capital. Personal and social prestige also partake of this extraordinary stimuli, with hints of romance and adventure.

A child born on this day may be extremely talented, original, creative, and productive. Not only will it be progressive in a practical and industrial, inventive or scientific manner, but in artistic and cultural expression as well.

Red Pepper In Shoes And Stomach Cold Weather Cure

Toronto, Jan. 5. (C. P.). COLD weather had no terrors for a North Toronto furnace man who rambles about his duties on th coldest days without even overcoat or mitts. And he says he doesn't need them.

His secret of keeping warm is to put red pepper in his shoes. That looks after the warmth of his feet. For internal comfort he swallows home-made pellets of red pepper rubbed into bread crumbs.

'Quake Rocks Manila

MANILLA, Jan. 5.—(A. P.). — A fairly heavy earthquake of 10 seconds duration shook Manila at 11:25 a.m. today (10:25 p.m. Wednesday, est). There were no reports of damage or casualties.

Seismologists placed the epicentre approximately 100 miles to the North in the China Sea.

Ice Bridge Begins

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Jan. 5—(CP).—First signs of the Niagara River ice bridge are being noted. Large ice floes are collecting on the Canadian side and veteran river men expect the jam will occur earlier this year because of the sudden appearance of ice in the upper river near Buffalo.

Millbrook Places 5th In Its Class For Fire Prevention Week

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 5.—According to announcement received by Fire Chief J. J. Clarke, from the Provincial Fire Marshal, Millbrook has been awarded honorable mention, and fifth place in Ontario for towns with a population of 5,000 and under, for its program during Fire Prevention week in 1938, and the efficiency with which it was carried through.

The contest covers the United States and Canada, and the week in question was October 9-15, 1938, fire prevention and the clean-up of premises generally for the removal of fire hazards being required; and a congratulatory letter from the Chief Fire Marshal accompanied the announcement of the standing locally attained.

Young People's Meeting.

An address on "Time," by the past president of the Young People's Union, Mr. B. B. Dawson, featured the New Year's gathering, the early part of the evening being spent in games and contests under the leadership of the retiring recreational convenor, Ken Kidd.

After refreshments had been served, the worship service followed, Earl Edworthy reading the lesson, Leitha Edworthy the worship poem, and Esther Might offering prayer.

The address by Mr. Dawson emphasized the fleeting character, and the value of time, and immediately preceded the closing of the meeting, with silent, and then audible prayer.

Grace Sunday School

The annual meeting of Grace Presbyterian Sunday school was held on Tuesday evening, with a good attendance ,and satisfactory reports from all teachers, covering the year's activities. Evidently the year 1938 had been one of marked progress, and there is a substantial balance in the treasury with which to begin the New Year.

The election resulted in the following being chosen to fill the various offices during 1939:

Superintendent, Harold Hubbeard; assistant, Joseph Burns; secretary, William Kerr; treasurer, Miss Mary Eakins; pianist, Miss Muriel Ball; assistant, Mrs. S. E. Eakins.

Superintendent Primary Department, Mrs. H. R. Williams; following the removal of Mrs. Williams to the new pastorate at Avondale which her husband is assuming within a comparatively short time, Mrs. Alex Miller, the present assistant, will become superintendent, with Miss Mary Eakins as her assistant.

Teacher, Junior boys' class, Miss Muriel Ball; junior girls' class, Miss Margaret Armstrong; senior girls' class, Mrs. S. E. Eakins; young men's Bible class, Douglas Carveth. The adult Bible class is an organization by itself, and will elect its own teacher and officers in the near future.

Superintendent of Cradle Roll: Mrs. R. J. McMahon.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Burke and sons, Ralph, Robert, Gordon and Douglas of Reaboro, were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sarrie, Water Street.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mrs. George Weir, 612 Union Street is observing a birthday today.

We Noticed

....That hoops came into their own in Peterborough during the holiday parties—and nothing lovelier or more romantic could be imagined than the frock of turquoise taffeta, its bouffant skirt tacked up by wine velvet bows to reveal a frothy lace petticoat —at the Kawartha Party New Year's Eve.

✧ ✧ ✧

....Looking like a Dresden china doll as she welcomed the New Year at the same delightful affair was a dainty blonde who seemed almost to float about in filmy material as airy as tulle—bands of rosy pink velvet accented the slender waistline.

✧ ✧ ✧

....Though angora jackets may be fashion favorite for topping evening frocks, we are a bit doubtful as to their popularity with the opposite sex—after all, what man wants to arrive at a party with his carefully brushed suit peppered with nose-tickling bits of white wool? Solving the problem of being smart and popular all at once was the clever young lady who had her jacket fashioned of BRUSHED wool. Non-shedding it looked very chic over a simply made frock of white satin.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Wright spent the holiday week-end with Mr. Wright's parents, Havelock.

The many friends of Mrs. J. G. Livingstone will regret to hear that she is ill at her home, 199 Hunter street.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wiggins and Miss V. Scott were in Havelock for the New Year holiday, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Isaacs.

✧ ✧ ✧

A sports night was held Wednesday evening by the Y.W.C.A. '38 Club, when skating, skiing and bridge were enjoyed by the members, who returned later to the 'Y' for coffee and a social hour around the fireplace.

✧ ✧ ✧

Master Ralph Townsley, of 52 Aylmer street, celebrated his 7th birthday on Tuesday by entertaining a number of his small friends at a jolly birthday party. White, green and pink trimmings decked the birthday cake which centred the table and was topped by seven lighted candles. Entertainment included games, songs and tap-dancing. Those present included Joyce Langton, Marian Brown, Esther Brown, Shirley Storey, Jackie Stevenson, Bryan Robinson and Garry Robinson.

✧ ✧ ✧

At the New Year's party in Rye's Pavilion, the following artists entertained during the floor show before a large crowd. Lenore Gordon, clever little tap-dancer, wearing a glittering costume of gold sequins, who sang and tapped to two popular hits of the season; Orville Wainman of Millbrook, wel-known to Peterborough audiences, who was heard in several delightful songs, and Audrey Patterson and Jimmie Goselin, who appeared on Ken Soble's amateur hour last Sunday, made a smart appearance in top hat, white tie and tails. Lenore and Orville have both been winners at these amateur contests. Jack Kennedy and his "Kay Kaiser" orchestra supplied music for dancing and floor show.

Slate Of Officers Presented At W.A. Meeting

The St. Andrew's Womens' Association monthly meeting was held in the Ladies' Parlour on Tuesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. H. Paige Rowell, in charge of the devotional period.

Encouraging annual reports were given by the secretary, the treasurer and the corresponding secretary. Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, convener of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers for 1939, and Dr. E. W. Young presided for the election of officers.

The executive for 1939 is as follows: Hon. Pres., Mrs. M. Kerr; Immediate Past Pres., Mrs. G. H. Roper; Pres., Mrs. H. Paige Rowell; 1st Vice-Pres., Mrs. H. Tremaine; 2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. J. K. Hughes; 3rd Vice-Pres., Mrs. H. Wightman; Sec., Mrs. F E. Johnston; Corres. Sec., Mrs. B. F. McNeely; Treas., Mrs V Hamilton; Assistant Treas., Mrs. R. S. Cotton; Convener of Flower Committee, Mrs. J. K. Hughes; Visiting, Mrs. A. Moir; Buying, Mrs. F. L. Robinson; Property, Mrs. J. R. Marshall; Pianist, Miss Elizabeth Scott; Assistant Pianist, Mrs. L. M. Brooks; Tea Hostess, Mrs. M. T. Breckenridge.

Linen Shower Honors Bride-Elect

Mrs. Percy Adamson and Mrs. M. McAuliffe were joint hostesses on Tuesday evening at a nicely-arranged linen shower at Mrs. Adamson's home, 150 Albertus Street, given in honor of Miss Velma Dennie, Reg. N., whose marriage to Mr. Michael Maloney of Kingston takes place on Monday, January 9. Jackie and Velma Adamson, small niece and nephew of the bride-elect, drew the gifts in to Miss Dennie in a wagon prettily decorated in white and pink. Tea was poured by the hostesses at a table arranged with pink and white flowers and pink tapers in silver holders.

Guests included Mrs. J. Collins, Mrs. George Robertson, Mrs. Harry Connelly, Mrs. Edna Condon, Mrs. Frank Goselin, Mrs. J. Jones, Mrs. Charles McCoy, Mrs. Wm. Barrigan, Mrs. W. Firth, Mrs. V. Hickey, Mrs. F. Kennedy.

Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E.

The January meeting of the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. was held on Wednesday evening in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. with the regent, Mrs. H. Keefer, presiding.

Miss D. Burgess, welfare secretary, reported some clothing supplied to needy children and five Christmas baskets distributed. Miss M. Hicks, educational secretary, gave a report of a box of gifts including a variety of handicraft supplies, which had been forwarded to the chapter's northern school at Christmas time.

Business included the voting of the continuance of a monthly donation to assist a collegiate pupil. Mrs. W. B. Gordon was welcomed into the Chapter, and two new members were proposed. Mrs. V. Selkirk, Miss J. Deyell and Miss E. Young were appointed to act as a nominating committee. Mrs. T. J. Carley gave an interesting talk on current events dealing with the colonial ambitions of Italy and Germany.

Mrs. Keefer expressed the thanks of the members to Miss A. Milburn, the hostess for the evening, and the meeting closed with refreshments served by Mrs. Roy White and her group.

B.Y.S. Crew Ship Docks To Celebrate Re-union

Members of the crew of the B.Y.S. Club re-united once again at their annual banquet and dance during the holiday. After a "ship-shape" banquet, business for the year was discussed, and the following election of officers conducted:

Grand admiral, Rev. M. C. Parr; admiral, Homer Borland; captain, Fraser Bradshaw; first mate, Lloyd Wells; second mate, Joe Weir, third mate, Joe Barnard; purser, Jack Telford; boatswain, Ray Parnall; cook, Reg. Kingdon; first rear admiral, Lloyd Parnell; second rear admiral, Aubrey Morrison; third rear admiral, Ken McKee; coxswain, Bert Munroe; pilot, Ron Burns; steward, Jack Mark; crew, Basil Stevens, Elmer Tretheway, Lou Andrews, Barton Campbell, Eldon Bonter.

An enjoyable dance followed when the officers and crew entertained their friends aboard ship. Spot dances were won by admiral and Mrs. Borland. Miss Dot Lipsett and Simpson Gledhill. Prizes for birthday dances were won by third admiral and Mrs. McKee ano by Miss Jean Cowling and pilot R. Burns.

Pearson—McInroy

Knox United Church was the setting for a quiet Yuletide wedding on Saturday, December 31, when Miss Helen McInroy, daughter of Mr. Isaac McInroy and the late Mrs. McInroy of Bonarlaw became the bride of Mr. Jack Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Pearson, 618 Chamberlain Street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, and wedding music was played by Mr. W. R. Potter.

Charles McCoy, Mrs. Wm. Barrin in a frock of blue chiffon velvet trimmed with white lace, and wore a blue velvet hat with shoulder veil, matching accessories, and corsage of Talisman roses, Maiden Hair fern and Valley Lillies. Miss Henrietta Pearson, sister of the groom, wearing wine chiffon velvet with trimmings of white lace and matching velvet turban with shoulder veil, attended the bride. The groom was attended by Mr. Clifford McInroy, brother of the bride.

Immediately after the wedding, a reception was held at the DeLuxe Cafe. Later Mr and Mrs. Pearson left on a wedding trip to Toronto, the bride travelling in a wine ensemble. On their return they will reside at 194 Hunter, East.

Roseneath Bridal Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Curtis Bowen are pictured here after a Yuletide wedding ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Mouncey of Roseneath. Mrs. Curtis was the former Blanche Marie Mouncey, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bowen of Castleton. Mr. and Mrs. Bowen will reside in Wooler, where Mr. Bowen is public school principal.

Miss V. Dennie Honored By Nursing Staff

The Nursing Staff of the Ontario Hospital, Kingston, entertained at a delightful tea during the holiday week in honor of Miss Velma Dennie, Reg.N., who has been a member of the nursing staff of the hospital for the past year. Miss Dennie is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dennie, Peterborough, and her marriage to Mr. Michael J. Maloney of Kingston takes place in this city on Monday, January 9.

The large drawing room of Leahurst, the nurses' residence, was nicely decorated, and the tea table attractively arranged with a lace cloth, cut flowers, and tall pink tapers in silver holders. The tea was well attended by officials, supervisors, graduates, and a large number of the student body.

The presentation of a beautiful satin bedspread and pillow cases was made to Miss Dennie before her departure as a token of remembrance from her many associates.

Other entertainments given in Miss Dennie's honor included a miscellaneous shower at which Miss Mary Murphy, Reg.N., was hostess at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. Murphy, 225 Wellington street, Kingston. Gifts were presented to the bride-elect in a basket of pink and white crepe paper decorated with a huge pink bow. The evening was spent in bridge, and tea was served from a prettily decorated table centred by a bouquet of cut flowers flanked by pink and white candles in silver holders. Mrs. (Dr.) Basil Koster and Mrs. M. Murphy assisted the hostess in serving.

Those present were members of the nursing staff of the Mowat Annex, a branch of the Ontario Hospital, where Miss Dennie was engaged before resigning from the staff. They included Miss J. Chalmers, Miss Kay Dunlop, Miss Drana Murray, Miss Kay Alexander, Miss Audrey Black, Miss Dorothy Macdonald, Miss Margaret LeFrange, Miss Edith Corkery, Miss Margaret Cuddy, Miss Frances Johnston, Miss Olive Cochrane, Miss Mary Murphy, Miss Betty Rogers, Miss Betty O'Brien.

DINNERS OF THE WEEK

By MARY MOORE

Sunday.

Chilled Tomato and Sauerkraut Juice
Stuffed Shoulder of Veal Apple Jelly
Pan Browned Potatoes
Shoestring Carrots
Head Lettuce Salad with Russian Dressing
Mincemeat Tarts with Whipped Cream Coffee.

Monday (Top of Stove Meal).

Sliced Roast Veal Heated in Mushroom Gravy
Mashed Parsnips (see note)
Canned Green Peas
Date Blanc Mange Coffee.

Note.— Mashed parsnips have become quite a favorite with me — because we have taken particular pains to mash them very thoroughly— and recently just to prove that they could be made delightful to even those who profess to dislike them— I added whipped cream (unsweetened, of course) to parsnips after I had beaten them well—then added butter and pepper and salt, and sprinkled them with paprika. They were quite a success. They are good if peeled, sliced, parboiled, drained, dipped in flour and fried in butter, too.

Tuesday (Economical).

Macaroni and Cheese
Boiled Celery (chopped, buttered)
Stewed Tomatoes with Crumbs and Onion
Jellied Prune Pudding (see note)
Hot Tea.

Note.—The following method of treating prunes may be used for apricots in Lemon Jelly, too.

Jellied Prune Pudding. — One and one-half cups stewed prunes, ¾ cup prune juice, drained from prunes, 1½ packages orange flavor jelly, 1¾ cups hot or boiling water, dash of salt, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons broken nut meats. Pit and chop prunes, add juice. Dissolve gelatin in hot water followniq directions on package. Add prunes and seasonings and chill until slightly thickened. Turn into individual moulds and chill. Serve garnished with nut meats.

Wednesday (Hasty).

Baby Beef Liver with Bacon
Mashed Potatoes and Cream Gravy
Shredded Lettuce and Tomato Salad
Sliced Bananas (or Canned Peaches)
Coffee.

Thursday (Vegetarian).

Baked Succotash
Scalloped Tomatoes
Shredded Green Beans in Cream Sauce
Baked Apples Stuffed with Raisins
Coffee.

Friday.

Baked Salmon with Parsley Sauce
Baked Sweet Potatoes
Chopped Spinach Celery Hearts
Peach Cobbler Coffee.

Saturday.

Potatoes Scalloped with Ground Ham
Waldorf Salad
One-crust Apple Pie and Cheese
Coffee.

Do You Know?

If you like a slightly sharp flavor, add a little vinegar to the melted butter and seasoning to pour over boiled white onions.

✧ ✧ ✧

Stains on table linen, frocks, etc., should be removed before the article is washed? Boiling water sets the stain and makes it permanet.

Silver threads in embroidery that have become tarnished before the rest looks soiled may be cleaned by brushing with a small tooth brush powdered with cream of tartar?

Suggestions For A Happy New Year

Here's a jolly good suggestion from a correspondent who says: "Come on girls let's resolve to give our husbands a Happy New Year. For instance, let's improve his disposition by—Getting up and cooking his breakfast every morning; looking our best around the house; cutting money discussions to a minimum; keeping household problems to ourselves; staying away from his possessions, and seeing that he shines socially by entertaining his friends, whether we like them or not—even pretending that we do.

Getting him to share the responsibility of entertaining, even if we have to resort to 'You see that Mrs. Nitz has a good time. She will if you pay attention to her.'

Cutting our 'Dears' and Darlings' to a minimum, when there are others —especially attractive women— within earshot. Let's see that he stops worrying day and night by realizing that our children can be healthy and happy without having everything the neighbors' children have.

Taking enough of the financial responsibility to realize that we aren't putting something over when we end up with a more expensive coat than we should have bought. Being good 'managers.'

Not talking all the time about the things we need or wish we had, or the beautiful new car Bob Brown gave his wife for Christmas.

Let's make a good companion of him by being gay ourselves; not ignoring him on the way to and from a party, as though we couldn't be bothered trying to entertain just him; not trying to get our own way all the time; having an answer to his inevitable 'What do you want to do?'"

It won't be easy. But we can improve him—if we work hard enough on ourselves. It's not such a bad idea at that, is it?

Christmas in the Holy Land

Christmas is probably more religiously and solemnly observed here in Bethlehem than in any other part of the world. The birthplace of Christ is the scene of many religious services and processions throughout the Yuletide. Pictured are a few devout natives of the Holy City entering the main door of the Church of the Nativity which was built so small that it could not have been rushed in time of seige.

Haven't Really Kept House Unless You've Made Soap

Our rich diets over the Year's end and during the cold months leaves some of us with surplus fat from roast and fowls that is valuable for we have paid high prices for it—but now can it be utilized?

Did you ever have a hankering to make soap? I did—so I indulged it last week.

In the fall I had bought a gallon of cocoanut oil (it being only 10 cents per lb.), with the idea of using it for deep fat frying—it was good for frying crumbed egg plant during the fall season—but I bought far too much. I could not find any good use for it except for massaging Marianne's arm when she fell front first off her trike!

But since the idea of making soap struck so forcibly there's no telling where we can store it all.

Emem's Cocoanut Oil Toilet Soap.

(Doesn't that name sound impressive—I bet I couldn't say it fast 10 times.)

One lb. best caustic soda (lye), 4½ lbs. water (72 oz. or two quarts LESS 1 measuring cup), 7½ lbs. cocoanut oil (or other oil), 1 tablespoon oil of Bergamot.

Place the caustic soda in a container large enough to hold 2 quarts water or more. Pour the exact amount of water (cold) over it—stir it once or twice when it will dissolve immediately and become quite hot. Let it stand until the lye thus made is cold. Weigh out your 7½ lbs. cocoanut oil (if other oil is used no essential difference is made in the soap—but do not use mineral oil. (Part cocoanut oil and part other fats—such as chicken or turkey or beef fat may be used—but it must be melted and added to the oil).

When lye and oil are ready begin to pour the lye in a thin stream into the oil, at the same time stirring with a broad flat stirrer—about 3 inches wide—a large enamel dish pan or small galvanized iron pail or tub make ideal containers for mixing. Continue gently stirring until the lye and grease are thoroughly mixed—but do not stir longer than 20 minutes or they may begin to separate again. Stir in oil of bergamot last. When well mixed and of appearance of honey pour into a well made wooden box lined with wet wax paper. Wrap well with old blankets or better still put in warm place until following day when it can be cut with strong wire, and then wrapped in wax paper like cakes of toilet soap are. Store to harden.

Fat containing salt must not be used. To free fat of salt put it on to boil with an equal quantity of water, then chill and fat which rises to top is clean.

If the above directions are followed exactly a good batch of soap will be the result—other perfume beside bergamot may be used of course—your druggist will tell you the least costly ones.

Good Soap From Leftover Fat.

The above formula may be used for making a good plain soap from leftover drippings—but the danger with using them is that they nearly always contain some salt—which must be removed as directed above.

Caution. — Most soap is made by boiling it at one stage of the process—but the above method is highly successful if directions are followed carefully — the proportions have been worked out in detail and must not be increased or decreased.

Make Your Children Stronger and Healthier with

Haliborange

Vitamins A, D and C

Babies and growing children thrive and grow stronger on "Haliborange", the splendid body-building, bone-forming tonic which contains vitamins A, D and C. A steady treatment with "Haliborange" will surely aid them to resist winter's colds and chills.

"Haliborange" is a concentration of Halibut Liver Oil (vitamins A and D) and fresh orange juice (vitamin C). "Haliborange" has double the vitamins A and D strength of Cod Liver Oil. It has no fishy taste or odour whatsoever, but is perfectly delicious. Children like it. "Haliborange" can be given to young babies and to children of all ages with excellent results. It is also an excellent tonic for adults who are rundown, especially those with a tendency to anaemia.

Try Haliborange Free

Buy a 5-oz. bottle of Haliborange with the free sample attached. Taste the sample. Then, if you are not absolutely satisfied with its taste, return the bottle to your druggist and he will refund the full purchase price of 75c. The 5-oz. bottle contains two weeks' treatment for children averaging 10 years of age. The dose varies with the age of the child. Haliborange is particularly beneficial to women who are "run down" or at all anaemic.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by Mrs. MARY MOORE

Question: Just like a bad penny to turn up at a busy time. You have heard all about the Greeks bearing gifts, so I'll just get on with what I want to know and tell you about the enclosed letter.

For a long time I have wondered if there is not some smart thing a person could do about the really lovely cherries we get at Chirstmas time. We get them in pails here (the grocer has the pails and we buy them by the pound), but all the rest of the year they are very expensive and not easily come by except in fancy groceries. What do you think of putting them down in some sort of syrup? They are called glace or maraschino cherries and have quite a little syrup of their own. I have tried them just in jars and they dry up and get sort of dark and rather strong in taste.

While on the subject, how does one cook figs (packaged in Turkey and wrapped in 10c lots) without their getting tough? Our four-year-old (Peter, too by the way) is on strike against them just now.

Then there is the subject of light cake. Why is it that our chocolate and white cakes are invariably full of holes? I used to be able to make cake, but now neither the maid nor I can turn out anything like a good job. We have gone back to the hand method of beating and are letting the electric beater strictly alone until we understand it better. Thanks for the good tips in the page off and on regarding this subject.

Anyway if you can tell me a pitfall or two about cakes having one or two eggs, some, butter, white sugar, ordinary cake flour, I will be everlastingly grateful. We seem to do all the books say but we just can't seem to make a good cake any more.

How about the enclosed. It explains itself, and is really the best mincemeat I have every tasted among the cooked kinds. I hope you like it should you have time to try it.

You won't want to put half this scred on your page—I shall quite understand if you have not time until after Chirstmas. With every good wish for a very happy Christmas season and continued success with your invaluable page.—M. M. Fan.

Answer.—No one could help enjoying such a cheerful letter. The Chololade Platschen recipes I sent back immediately with my notes on them.

See elsewhere on the page your Apple Mincemeat—it is our tested favorite this week.

I have given your cherry problem some thought and can see no reason why adding boiling hot syrup to the cherries in sterile jars, sealing and boiling for ½ hour, would not keep them. Make a syrup of 1 cup water to every cup of sugar, bring to boiling point and pour over the cherries in jars, to overflowing. Seal (to within a quarter turn of tight), and stand in boiling water to within 2 inches of tops of jars, cover and boil taking time after boiling point is reached, for 30 minutes. Seal when done and keep in dark place. This can't help but work—I think the sugar quantity could be reduced if you would like to—then this excess syrup could be soaked off the cherries when you want to use them.

Cooked Figs.

Steam figs for at least one-half hour, then make a syrup of ½ cup sugar, 1 cup water and grated rind ½ lemon, drop figs in while syrup is boiling—boil 3 minutes, then chill before using.

Notes on Fine Textured White Cake

Make a special point of creaming the butter, then adding the sifted sugar (we think berry sugar is ideal for a fine textured white cake) — then cream the butter and sugar very well—your electric beater would be ideal for this—the only catch in using an electric beater for butter cake is that it does the job too well—all ingredients must be measured and sifted and the beater run at low speed, so that at no stage does the cake stand (or become overbeaten) while you walk off to prepare the next ingredient.

The butter and sugar mixture should be light and fluffy before you start adding flour.

Add about one-fourth of the flour at a time (sifted with the baking powder and salt). The flour must be added before the milk or they will separate. If this separation occurs the cake is very apt to be coarse grained.

Beat mixture after each addition of flour and milk.

Eggs should be about 3 days old. Do not beat the whites until ready to add them and do not beat them until they are dry—when you test them to see if they will stand in peaks the peak should fall over (like the tassel on a dunce's cap). Egg yolks should be thoroughly beaten, they should be the consistency of half beaten whipped cream.

Test your oven with another thermometer to make sure it is registering right. Layer cakes should bake in 25 to 30 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. Or if cake is baked in pan 8 x 8 x 2 it needs one hour at 350 deg. Fahr. Try to maintain the exact temperature throughout.

I believe you will have success if you watch all these precautions carefully—if not write again telling me the brand of ingredients you use, and maybe we will have to go into it more thoroughly.

Write again whenever you need help—or when you don't.

Smart Swiss Adaptations

Shiny silver metal buttons trim the princesse frock, right. For the beach, tie a map of Switzerland under your chin, or a bandana printed with miniature cows.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

Add to the peasant invasion a new collection by M. Picard, of Switzerland. The junior dresses sketched today are typical of styles embroidered in mountain flower design. Equally picturesque skating and skiing costumes, not to mention dinner and evening gowns and wraps, bring the Alps right to our doorway.

The monk's dress on the seated figure is not only embroidered, but is given a dairy touch with tiny butter molds on the neck and pockets.

Tested Favorite Recipes

(By MARY MOORE)

APPLE MINCEMEAT.

(Recommended by Mrs. R. G. H.)

Four to five apples (Bishop Pippins), 1 to 2 pounds suet. Put the above through the food chopper and add 4 pounds brown sugar, 1 pound raisins (any preferred kind), cinnamon, nutmeg, ground cloves to taste.

METHOD: Cook all together on back of stove or over a slow fire until the mixture turns dark. Store in a crock. Will keep splendidly. This is enough for 7 to 9 pies. Use an asbestos mat under the pan while cooking as the mixture burns very easily.

Notes by Mrs. R. G. H.

This is an excellent recipe, having a fine flavor. For a rich mincemeat use the 2 pounds of suet, but Mrs. McD. recommends one pound of suet to four pounds of the apples —of course the recipe won't work unless you use Nova Scotia apples!

Seriously though, this recipe sounds very simple, it really is tops. I forgot to tell you that the fat rising to the top of the crock forms a seal.

How to Wash Good China

Many housewives remember that glass breaks if hot water is poured on it, but they do not realize that fine chinaware is subject to the same hazard. It is safer to pour the rinse water into a pan and roll fine china dishes in it to rinse them, and never to pour boiling hot gravies or other liquids into a fine china dish. It must be tempered gradually or the sudden expansion will make it crack, as glass does.

Strong soaps or powders should not be used on china decorated with gilt, as these may contain chlorine which is injurious to gilt. Alkalis may harm hand-painted dishes. Even careful washing may, in time, wear off colored decorations. For very fine china, it is best not to soak it, to rub it very hard, nor to use strong cleaning agents.

In buying dishes, consider that plain insides made dishwashing easier and more thorough. Crevices, seams or holes where the handles are fastened on to pitchers make these difficult to clean and so unsanitary. Residue of milk or other food will cake and spoil in such spots and harbor bacteria.

St. Peter's Win Opening Tussle

St. Peter's opened their southend Hockey League juvenile schedule last night at the Sacred Heart rink with a 9-3 decision over the Y's Men's squad. It was 2-2 in the first frame but the Saints swept on to pile up the count the rest of the route in an interesting struggle which showed flashes of neat hockey. Corkery, Henwood and Lawson got two goals each, with Eason, Hallihan, Scriver, Mortimer, Horton and Robinson tallying one apiece. Game stars included, O'Toole, Henwood, Eason and O'Hern. The game was fast and quite clean, but two penalties drawn. Teams:

St. Peter's: Goal, O'Toole; defence, Scriver, Eason; centre, Corkery; wings, O'Hern, Vitarelli; subs, Lawson, Henwood, Garvey, Hallihan.

Y's Men's: Goal, R. O'Toole; defence, Lands, Plumpton; centre, Mortimer; wings, Robinson, Horton; subs., Martin, Fowler, Jordan, DeLong.

Referee, C. Rivard.

King Edward Wins Bantam Fixture

In a lively bantam Southend Hockey League fray last night at the Sacred Heart rink, King Edward took a 4-1 triumph over the Canucks. The winners had the bulge in the second period with a three-goal splurge which Canucks could not overhaul. Dayman got the first for the K. E. kids with Wade tallying two, and Batley the other one. Connelly notched the lone counter for Canucks. Dayman, Wade, A. Giardino and Connelly all looked good in this contest. The teams:

Canucks: Goal, Daley; defence, J. Giardino, LeGrose; centre, Connelly; wings, Fontaine, H. Rogers; subs, A. Giardino, LaPlante, B. Rogers.

King Edward: Goal, Woodcock; defence, Tarkington, Harris; centre, Ellis; wings, Wade, Chambers; subs, Dayman, Post, Kidd, Batley.

Referee, S. Henwood.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

A SERIES OF SAFETIES

ONE SAFETY play after another is called for in the effort to make some contracts. As many as three or more may be required by thoroughly sound considerations. Several of them may prove not to have been necessary or even of any importance whatsoever. But some one or two of them may prove the deciding factor, meaning the difference between success of the entire enterprise or dismal overwhelming failure.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Playing in an inter-Club Contract League championship tournament game in New York, Edgar F. Bloom of the Metropolitan Club gave on this deal an example of the kind of clear thinking which has caused him to become president of the great Western Electric Company. After bidding 1-Spade in the South, his partner's 2-Diamonds, followed by East's 2-Hearts, enabled him to call 2-No trump, which North raised to three.

West led the heart K in answer to his partner's bid. With this same lead at another table, South went down two. He took the first trick with the A, led to the diamond A, led the spade J, covered by the Q and A, took the spade 10 and K, led the diamond J, covered by the Q and K, led a club to the A, and East knocked out the heart Q. The club 10 finesse lost to West, who cashed the spade 8, led to East's diamond 10, and two hearts set the contract two.

Mr. Bloom, however, started playing safe by ducking the heart K lead, taking the next. The spade J, covered by the Q and A, was followed by a club to the K and A. The heart A was knocked out, spade 10 cashed, then a safe shift made to the club 10 finesse, which lost. West, with no spade yet set up, returned one to the A, whereupon Mr. Bloom ran two clubs and two diamonds for game, giving up a diamond at the

Applied Precedent

Because of Nazi restrictions which would not permit the transfer of legacies to American heirs of German estates, Judge Raymond MacNeille, of the Philadelphia Common Pleas Court, refused to allow part of a $91,258 trust fund to go to claimants in Germany. As a result of his action, Washington officials have been notified by the German government that the ban against American heirs removing legacies from Germany had been lifted.

Painful Boils
Bad Blood the Cause

When boils start to break out on different parts of the body it is an evidence that the blood is loaded up with impurities.

Just when you think you are rid of one, another crops up to take its place and prolong your misery.

All the lancing and poulticing you may do will not stop more coming.

Why not give that old, reliable, blood purifying medicine Burdock Blood Bitters a chance to banish the boils? Thousands have used it for this purpose during the past 60 years.

Take B.B.B. and get rid of the bad blood and the boils too.

Man Who Toted King Pick-A-Back Hopes To See Him On His Tour

MONTREAL, Jan. 5—(CP).—The little fellow Richard Howard used to carry picka-back 40 years ago is coming to Montreal soon, and Howard will be down to the train to see him. It will be the Royal train, because the little fellow has grown up to be King George VI.

Richard Howard lives now with his dog Towser at the little Sisters of the Poor hostel, but back in the last century he was a Royal servant at Marlborough House. The Duke of York—later to become King George V—lived there, and the future king of to-day was one of the children who liked to romp across the garden with Howard.

The old servant remembers the present king as a quiet but charming youngster who loved to play games and liked most to be carried around the garden on the servant's back. So did young Edward, who preceded the present King to the throne.

"If you carried him on your back once, he wanted to do it again," Howard said yesterday of the abdicated monarch as a boy.

When his one-time charge arrives in Montreal on the Royal tour, Howard said, he does not plan to try to meet him again. He will be down to see the monarch and his queen, but that is all. For Howard is a shy and modest man.

He was employed at a hotel here in the 1920's when the present Duke of Windsor came to Canada as Prince of Wales. But Howard made no attempt to speak to him, even though the Prince entered the hotel where he worked.

He left the Royal service to enter the Boer war, and then came out to Canada. Now his only association with the days at Marlborough House is a medal presented to him at Buckingham Palace by Queen Victoria when she celebrated her diamond jubilee.

Single Shot At a Rabbit Kills 10 Partridge Pays $100 Or 100 Days

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 5 (CP).

ALBERT SMITH told a skeptical court here today how he shot at a rabbit and killed 10 partridges, "Imagine my surprise," he said.

Nevertheless, Smith was convicted of a charge of violation of game laws—to wit, shooting partridge out of season—and was fined $100 or 100 days in jail. His gun was confiscated.

15 Store Managers To Be Given Trip

J. E. Bottrell, A. E. Doxsee and R. J. Woods, local Dominion Store managers have been informed by J. W. Horsey, president of Dominion Stores Limited, that fifteen store managers and their wives will visit the New York world's fair at the company's expense. Besides these grand prizes, there are cash awards for the staff of each of the 15 winning stores, and for the entire staff (manager included) of 50 other stores. No "rule of thumb" or mechanical method of adjudging contestants will be followed, but a human, sympathetic and intelligent consideration of "people" and "performances" will be the criterion."

The first 15 prizes of trips to the New York World's Fair available to the Company's store managers, have caused much favorable comment among the retail trade as well as among employees of Dominion Stores since the first prizes, offering as they do free trips with all expenses paid to the winning managers' wives as well, represent a great departure from the usual procedure of prize distribution.

All their expenses will be paid, luxury trains and fine hotel accommodations will add to their pleasures. In addition to paid expenses and the extra week's holidays, the 15 winners will receive extra spending money.

Coogan, Pocket Empty, Minus Wife Ignores Mother's Plea Come Home

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4—(AP). — Jackie Coogan, separated from Actress Betty Grable by an empty pocketbook, got an offer today from his mother to "come home"—and turned it down.

Informed "The Kid" of silent screen days and his blonde wife were living apart because of "financial conditions," Mrs. Arthur Bernstein nearly cried as she announced she wanted to have her son back and forget the past—which includes Jackie's $4,000,000 accounting suit against her and Bernstein, his stepfather.

"He'll be more than welcome," she said, her voice quivering. "I feel awfully bad about the separation—but I can't believe it is caused by 'financial conditions,' as they say. There must be more to it."

Young Coogan, once a ragamuffin star of silent pictures, had moved his things to the residence of his uncle, George Coogan, and showed no interest in going back to mother.

"Under existing conditions, it is impossible to contemplate a reconciliation," he said.

He and Betty, married since 1937, moved out of their Westwood house last Sunday, apparently in a friendly break, for he took her ice skating the following night. She is with her parents in Santa Monica.

Wife Gets $500.

Miss Grable, who earns $500 a week as a streamlined glamour girl of the screen, was positive they hadn't discussed divorce. "Jackie wanted me to have a nice place to live until his financial condition is better and he can provide for us."

Jackie said:

"I certainly hope Betty and I can resume our marriage where we left off. I sincerely believe that I'll win the suit. Otherwise—well, I'll get a job somewhere and maybe everything will be all right, anyway."

Coogan's attorney, William Rains, estimated mare than $300,000 of The Kid's film fortune was left. He said they are ready to go to trial Feb. 6, seeking to recover the money and property from the Bersteins.

Jackie's earnings have been hit or miss in recent years, dependent on personal appearances in theatres and "bits" in pictures.

Norman Berlin Bound To Stop Trade War

LONDON, Jan. 5—(AP).—Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England, left for Berlin today in an effort to prevent an Anglo-German trade war. Attempting to depart secretly the banker cancelled his reservations on the continental express and left from a suburban station.

Mr. Norman is to be the guest of Hjalmar Schachat, president of the Reichsbank, and is expected to put before German officials new proposals for getting Jews out of Germany. He will spend little more than 24 hours in Berlin where he will attend the christening of Dr. Schacht's gandson. Both bankers plan to leave for Basle Friday for a meeting of the bank for international settlements.

It was said Dr. Schacht is particularly worried about Germany's adverse trade balance, which amounted last year to about 200,000,000 marks ($80,000,000). Prospects of British financial support for Germany will be discussed at the meeting.

A mission of British industrialists is expected to go to Berlin later this month to see if they can reach some agreement with German commercial interests about southeastern European trade.

New York Taxi Strike Keeps 19,000 Police On Duty

New York, an. 5 (AP).

FEARING repetition of violence that marked the last major strike here in 1934, Mayor Fiorello Laguardia moved today for an immediate settlement of a strike of 11,000 taxi drivers called by the Transport Workers Union, a Congress of Industrial Organizations affiliate.

The city's 19,000 police were on full emergency duty—for the first time since demonstrations attending the Sacco-Vanzetti executions in Massachusetts in 1927—as the Mayor arranged for the Conference in his city hall office.

Union spokesmen insisted at least 7,400 cabs were stalled in garages.

Farm Wife Writes Another New Play

MARSHALL, Sask., Jan. 5—(CP).—Mrs. Minnie Evans Bickness, farm-wife of this little village of 75 inhabitants, 170 miles northwest of Saskatoon, whose play won honorable mention at the Dominion Drama Festival in 1937, plans to continue her play-writing and already has another play in the making.

Mrs. Bicknell's play "Relief" which represented Saskatchewan in the drama finals at Ottawa two years ago, dramatized struggles of a farm family in the drought-ridden plains of Southern Saskatchewan. Herself author, director and member of the cast, Mrs. Bicknell was aided by four of the 10 members of the Marshall Dramatic Society.

"I have plans for future work in play-writing and also the production of my work within our own local dramatic group as a test of its merits before presenting it to a large public," said the rural writer.

"One play, 'Back to Civilization,' is now ready for a 'try out.' My work so far is purely of a local character, depicting the life and problems of my own people—farmers of Saskatchewan.

"It may or may not be worthy of further notice. That remains to be seen."

Trio Held In States For Bogus Bill Plot

CHICAGO, Jan. 5—(AP) — Capt. Thomas Callaghan of the United States Secret Service announced today the arrest of a Canadian and two Danville, Ill., printers in connection with a plot to manufacture and distribute counterfeit Canadian bank notes.

The Canadian, Callaghan said, was Alphonse Sopchuk, arrested on December 30 in Windsor, Ont., and turned over to the Detroit office of the Secret Service, where he is held.

He said James L. Clendening and Edward F. Thede, who run a print shop in Danville, were arrested there last night, charged with possession and manufacture of the spurious notes.

Capt. Callaghan said a Danville engraver also was involved but appeared to be an innocent victim and declined to give his name. He said the engraver was not under formal arrest but was being questioned.

Callaghan said Sopchuk had the engraver make plates for printing the Bank of Canada $10 bills, representing himself as from a Chicago coin book publishing company that didn't exist.

The Danville printers, Callaghan said, then printed $22,000 worth of the notes at Sopchuk's behest and Sopchuk took $6,000 worth to Windsor. Sopchuk was arrested after attempting to pass a $10 note on a Windsor taxicab driver, Callaghan said, and a large quantity of the bogus notes was found in a locker in the Detroit-Windsor tunnel.

9-Cent Gas Tax For Ontario Is Proposed To End Mounting Highway Debt

Commission Urges 3-Man "Problem" Board, Schedule Of Hours For Drivers With Medical Exams, New Safety Devices

TORONTO, Jan. 6 (CP).—Ontario today faced the problem of altering its highways financing program to raise more revenue annually, or, in the long-considered opinion of a government appointed commission, or running its estimated net debt on highways to $318,000,000 by 1979 under present policies.

Foremost among recommendations to increase revenue by $9,000,000 annually and eliminate the net debt on highways, estimated to have accumulated since 1903 to $249,230,617, was a three-cent boost in the gasoline tax to nine cents a gallon.

The Chevrier commission on transport, appointed by the Provincial government in 1937, handed down its report last night in two massive volumes. Attorney-General Gordon Conant called it a "document of interest to most people in the province."

It urged, relative to the transport industry, a three-man board to deal with problems; schedules of maximum hours and minimum wages for drivers; medical examinations for drivers; wider use of safety devices on trucks; annual statistical reports by operators; reclassification of vehicles; and establishment of tariff rates by the operators, to be subject to approval by the board.

Wipe Debt Out in 40 Years

To eliminate in 40 years the highways debt, estimated at one-third of the funded and unfunded debt of Ontario, the government was advised to effect, among other things, a reclassification of taxes on motor vehicles and an increase in the tax on gasoline from six to nine cents a gallon. Other fuel oils used as fuel by motor vehicles would be taxed 13 cents a gallon.

The commission, headed by Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier of the Ontario Supreme Court, and whose other members were Professor C. R. Young, head of the department of civil engineering at University of Toronto, and E. Roy Sayles, publisher of the Renfrew Mercury, heard 2,400,000 words of evidence in two months last spring. The report contained more than 100,000 words.

The commissioners declared: "It is not believed that an increase in the tax on motor fuel would produce any more adverse effect than a small and temporary dimunition in the rate of increase in fue consumption.

But W. G. Robertson, managing director of the Ontario Motor League, commented: "Such a tax would reduce drastically motor travel in the province and would have a serious effect on the tourist trade." Lewis Duncan, K.C., counsel for the Automotive Transportation Association, thought such a tax might "tend to reduce travel, trade and business."

Some Useful Suggestions.

Canada To Spend 50 Million On Arms In '39

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 (CP)—Canada's defence estimates this year will probably reach the $50,000,000 mark, the highest figure since the war. When due provision is made for ordinary maintenance, the bulk of the remainder will be applied to the Royal Canadian Air Force, according to information here. Defence department officials are reticent on the matter, but indications point that way.

The air force estimates will reflect the protracted negotiations that have been in progress since the close of the last parliamentary session between the Canadian and United Kingdom governments with regard to the training of fliers in Canada for the Royal Air Force. Agreement is believed to have been reached on practically all points.

This will mean an expansion of Canada's existing facilities, with a concentration of work in the new training command established within the last few months at Toronto. The principal flying school will be Camp Borden, where many new buildings in the way of living quarters, hangars, machine shops and the like will be erected. The estimates are expected to provide for these things.

The British trainees will be recruited into the R.C.A.F. in provisional units, and the whole scheme will be administered by the National Defence Department.

Coastal fortifications will continue to receive attention in the next estimates. Considerable work has been done on the Pacific, but the Atlantic has not received the same attention. Much of the coastal defence appropriations will be applied to the Maritime provinces this year.

Provision of equipment in the way of heavy guns and armored fighting vehicles is still a stumbling block, sources here indicated. For a long time efforts have been made to explore the Canadian industrial situation with a view to having these manufactured in this country. So far there has been little success.

The heavy industries in Canada are efficiently equipped for the production of standard commodities necessary in the general civilian activities of the nation. A great deal of added capital would be required to convert them to the production of armaments, and the problem gets bogged down on the point whether Canadian needs alone are sufficiently large to justify industrialists embarking on that outlay.

The industrialists believe that if arrangements could be made whereby Canada and the United Kingdom would co-operate in the placing of equipment orders in this country, the additional capital expenditures would be warranted. Canadian government policy has so far been in opposition to this, however.

It was elicited in the Bren gun enquiry that Canada will not manufacture armaments for the United Kingdom in government arsenals and the Canadian government will not act in the capacity of purchasing agent for the British government.

The policy, however, does not cut both ways, since the Canadian government is dependent upon and makes considerable purchases from the British government arsenals.

Loyalists Smash Through In Cordoba

With the Government Forces on the Estremaduran Front, Spain, Jan. 6 (CP-Havas)—Spanish government troops, in a major offensive in Estremadura, today stormed and captured the strategically important town of Valsequillo, in northwestern Cordoba province.

They took the town at noon and pushed onward, in the second day of a push designed to relieve Insurgent pressure in Catalonia.

Dupe For Wily Extortionist Boy 13, Shot Dead As He Flees From Pay-Off Spot

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Jan. 6. (AP).—A 13-year-old boy slain here in a trap set for an extortionist apparently was the unwitting dupe of the man sought, police said today.

The boy, David Kaempf, was son of a widowed housekeeper.

Detective Sergeant Clifford Flood reported firing the fatal blast from his riot gun as the boy fled from the porch of Miss Kathryn Walsh last night.

Miss Walsh, 25, earlier in the evening reported receiving a note threatening death unless $50 were placed in a milk bottle on her porch.

Flood and two patrolmen hid in the Walsh home after placing a dummy package in a milk bottle on the porch.

The detective said the boy walked up to the porch and bent over the bottles.

"Stop where you are," Flood said he shouted. The boy ran. The detective said he fired a warning shot over David's head, and another at his feet, the second charge striking the boy in the back.

Finding an otherwise unaccounted-for dime in the boy's pocket, police theorized the real extortionist had feared an ambush and bribed David to get him the milk bottle. They declared the note was the work of an adult.

Progress Of Cities Depends Upon System Of Assessment, Taxation, Service Club Is Told

Whether cities progress, stand still, or go back, is determined largely by their systems of assessment and taxation," was the significant statement made by H. B. Cowan, speaking before the Y"s Men's club last night. His statement was significant in view of his assertion that "we have only to look at some of the chief business sections of Peterborough to recognize that a dead blight of some kind rests upon them."

"It is possible, by an unwise system of taxation, to retard improvement, add to the cost of doing business, promote unemployment and increase the city relief rolls," he said. On the other hand, it is possible, by a wise system of taxation, to reduce the cost of doing business and thereby to promote the development of manufacturing interests, the creation of work especially the building trades, the erection of homes and the prosperity of all citizens of the community."

Peterborough is a city of which residents have many reasons to be proud, he said, and then enumerated a few of the things of which one cannot be proud. "I have lived in Peterborough for 30 years. At the time I came here almost all buildings on George and Water streets, from Brock to Charlotte, were old. Some of them, even then, had been there for 30 or 40 years. For the most part they are still there. Run your mind over that area and count the number of new buildings that have been remodelled in a worthwhile manner. Not over eight to ten new buildings of any size have been erected in all that period. Most of those new buildings were erected 10 to 15 years ago before taxes on buildings had reached their present high level."

Another central area of Peterborough of a different type that he

3 Washed Off Ship

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6 (AP).—Three members of the crew of the German motorship Elsa Essberger were reported washed overboard yesterday in heavy seas off Cape Mendocino on the Northern Californian coast. The captain of the German freighter notified the coast guard by radio.

The captain asked that all ships in the vicinity watch for the men's bodies. The men were not identified.

Lindbergh Tips U.S. On Nazi Air Strength

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP). — Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has given United States Government officials a confidential report on Germany's air strength, it was learned authoritatively today.

Army officers declined to confirm receipt of the document, but it was assumed here that Lindbergh submitted it voluntarily.

The famous aviator still retains his commission in the United States Army Air Corps Reserve despite his three-year residence in Europe.

Lindbergh has visited Germany—as well as other European nations—at various times to study aviation facilities. He left Berlin December 22 to spend the winter in Paris with his family.

He had gone to the German capital in October when he received from Field Marshal Goering the Order of the German Eagle, one of the country's highest decorations.

Earlier in the fall he had inspected air fields and equipment in Russia. Eleven Russian airmen afterward accused him in a statement of minimizing Soviet air strength and claimed the report influenced Prime Minister Chamberlain in negotiating the Munich pact.

The statement called Lindbergh "a stupid liar, a lackey and a flatterer of German Fascists." The flier's hosts on a subsequent London visit denied he had reported on Russian air forces.

Lindbergh is a member of the United States National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics and attended one of its meetings here about two years ago.

His report on German aviation arrived while the government has been drafting a vast program of plane construction. Upwards of 10,000 aircraft for the army are expected to be advocated by President Roosevelt in his defence message to Congress next week.

2nd Cold Spell Grips Britain

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(CP Cable)—Winter's second cold wave tightened its grip on Great Britain today as the temperature sank to two below zero in Scotland and choking fog mingled with frost in more southerly industrial cities.

At Dalwhinnie, Britain's coldest spot for the last three days, the mercury dropped to two below during the night while England's lowest temperature, recorded at Farnsborough, Hampshire, was 16 above.

Skiers flocked to the Scottish hills and there was moonlight skating in Yorkshire last night. Sport promoters sought to stage the Yorkshire skating championships outdoors.

The Carsebreck River in Scotland froze to a depth of 4½ inches and the Royal Caledonian Curling Club rushed preparations to hold its north-south match January 10.

Ice caked on highways and made travel in Wales, Northern England and many parts of Scotland almost as hazardous as during the Christmas freeze. Visibility was zero in some sections of Southeastern England.

The air ministry forecast rising temperatures during the next 24 hours, with rain and sleet in some districts. The forecast was welcomed by city dwellers, who drew small pieces of ice from water faucets and feared a recurrence of the epidemic of frozen pipes that made housekeeping a hardship a fortnight ago.

Hitler Tests Polish Attitude

Quizzes Beck's Stand On March East —And French Ties

By Melvin Whiteleather
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

BERLIN, Jan. 6—Chancellor Hitler was regarded by competent observers today as having taken another major step toward realization of German determination to dominate Europe east of the Rhine.

This was believed to have been the meaning of Hitler's three and a quarter hour meeting with Colonel Joseph Beck, Polish foreign minister, at the Chancellor's Obersalzberg home yesterday.

Information in reliable quarters indicated Hitler sounded out Beck on whether Poland was ready to co-operate in realizing Nazi dreams.

The Nazis consider France and Great Britain withdrew from continental affairs through the Munich Czecho-Slovak agreement and that all of north, central and southern Europe is their sphere of direct influence. Poland is perhaps the most likely objector.

Seek Rights of Rule

Nazis base their claims to this vast section of the continent on the contention that German minorities live in all its sections, and that these Germans must be given the right to recognize Hitler as their leader and live as do Germans within the Reich.

Behind this stands the frequently repeated Nazi desire to have access to raw materials of the rich Russian Ukraine.

Different plans for consummation of these desires are discussed here often. One, in which Poland would share—and Hitler was believed to have felt his way on the matter yesterday—would seek to give Poland direct and Germany indirect rule over an autonomius Ukraine, including that part of the Ukraine now in Poland and also the Russian Ukraine.

The theoretically autonomous Ukraine would be included in a Federal Polish-Ukrainian state under Nazi tutelage, much as Czechoslovakia to-day is linked economically and politically with Germany.

Inclusion of the autonomous Ukraine within Poland would be the latter's reward for helping Germany, even if it involved force to get the Russian Ukraine.

50-Shot Battle On New York Pier Nets 3 Men, $50,000 In Drugs

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP). — A blazing waterfront gun battle in which a policeman was wounded early today climaxed a 3½ months' undercover investigation and resulted in the capture of three men and confiscation of narcotics valued at $50,000.

More than 50 shots were fired in an exchange between two dozen police and the trio who opened fire when they were surprised on a Brooklyn pier.

Patrolman James Bute of the harbor squad was wounded in the hand.

A radio "net" had been spread for the trio, and police-laden automobiles formed the trap spring when the narcotics were landed from the Italian freighter Ida.

Three others were taken from the freighter when it docked at Hoboken, N.J., and were brought here for questioning by Paul Selderman, assistant district attorney, head of the Brooklyn district attorney's rackets bureau.

Selderman said the arrests followed an undercover drive in which a squad of harbor police had acted as delivery agents for narcotics.

The three captured after the pier fight were booked as Salvatore Luisi, 22, a waiter; Luigi Esposito, 42, bar and grill operator, and Frank Visciano, 49, longshoreman, all of Brooklyn. They were charged with smuggling and possession of opium.

Selderman said 250 pounds of opium were confiscated.

Bookie Gets 60 Days 45 Found-Ins Enrich London $905

London, Ont., Jan. 6 (CP) MAGISTRATE Donald Menzies in city court today imposed the heaviest penalty ever given a "bookie" in a London court when he sentenced Albert Lizmore, 44, to serve 60 days in jail and in addition pay a fine of $200 or serve another three months. Lizmore admitted running a betting place.

Forty-four men found in Lizmore's book in a basement were fined $20 each while one more "found in" was fined $25.

125,000 Jobless 40 p.c. Drop In Past 2 Years

OTTAWA, Jan. 6 — (C.P.). — Labor Minister Rogers told a delegation from the All-Canadian Congress of Labor to-day that the total number of employables on relief in Canada at present was 125,000.

Since the national registration of unemployed began two years ago, there had been a 40 per cent. drop in the total number on relief, he said.

While the situation was not solved and a complete solution was not even in sight, one should face the facts, he said, taking exception to a reference in the Congress submission to the Government to "hundreds of thousands of workers forced to eke out a bare existence on relief."

On behalf of the Dominion Government and the six Cabinet ministers attending the meeting, Mr. Rogers welcomed the delegation in the absence of Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

"The Prime Minister found it impossible to be here," Mr. Rogers explained. "He asked me to convey his regrets and best wishes. You need no assurance from me to know the Prime Minister's keen interest in labor problems and he has asked me to preside in his absence and welcome you on behalf of the Government."

The Labor Minister felt there must be general agreement with the Congress' suggestion that national unity in a Federal state and abolition of poverty must be the constant aim of the Government.

There was some reason to expect an improvement in general conditions next year, he said. The Trade Treaty recently completed with the United States should have useful

Tattered Troubadors Earn $1 a Day Enlivening Ottawa

Ottawa, Jan. 6 (CP)

THREE RAGGED young troubadors, all under five feet, brightened a dull, slushy day in downtown Ottawa today with a lively offering of swing numbers.

A battered guitar, a wheezy mouth organ and a clicking set of bones set feet tapping, and brought a trickle of coins into the plush lining of a guitar case on the curb.

They call themselves "The Three Ragamuffins." Hughie Cameron, 13, plucks a guitar, Kenny Bender, 11, wraps expert hands around a hot mouth organ, and Eddie Champagne, 12, provides the rhythm with a polished set of bone clappers.

They make about a dollar a day each when pickings are good, they reported.

Few Bad Crashes Despite Icy Roads

TORONTO, Jan. 6.—(CP).—Ontario slithered through its second day of slush to-day with little prospect of rising temperatures for at least 48 hours. In some Southern Ontario counties melting ice caused rivers to rise and flood conditions were threatened.

Though highway conditions in most districts are decidedly unfavorable there have been comparatively few serious accidents reported. Travel on some roads almost is impossible.

The mild spell brought relief to residents around Brantford, where the cold had left many wells almost empty. For a time a water shortage for livestock feeding was feared.

Rain was falling in some districts, notably in Kingston and Peterborough in Eastern Ontario. There was a light mist over Toronto.

At Stratford it was reported telephone lines to London still were "out" after lines had been coated with ice during the cold weather Wednesday. There was no trouble on other lines. Driving conditions in Kitchener and Galt were hazardous with slush covering icy surfaces.

Czechs Attack Ceded Town And Pitched Battle Follows With Hungarians

Hotel, Theatre Struck By Shells As Armies Skirmish In Outskirts; Budapest Wires Rome And Berlin

BUDAPEST, Jan. 6 (AP).—A battle between Czecho-Slovak and Hungarian troops involving the use of artillery and armored cars broke out today near Munkacs.

An official Hungarian report of the incident said a hotel, a picture theatre, and a municipal theatre at Munkacs, which is in the territory recently ceded to Hungary, were bombarded by Czecho-Slovak artillery.

Hungarians said the battle still was in progress in the afternoon and that four Hungarian officers and five soldiers had been killed.

Czecho-Slovak casualties were placed at five men. One Czecho-Slovak armored car was reported seized.

The Budapest version said hostilities were started at 3.40 a.m. (9.40 p.m. EST, Thursday) by Czecho-Slovak troops and irregulars at Oroszveg and by "Ukrainian Terrorsits."

The Hungarians announced that prompt counter-measures were taken.

(The region where the fighting occurred was formerly part of Ruthenia, now the Carpatho-Ukraine. There had been numerous border difficulties since the September crisis.)

Tank Gun Captured

Hungarian military authorities announced this afternoon that a Czecho-Slovak tank, a mine catapult and a heavy machine-gun had been seized on Tungarian territory near Munkacs. The Hungarians declared this equipment was identified as belonging to a unit of the regular Czecho-Slovak army.

The Hungarian foreign office announced a vigorous protest against violation of Hungary's borders had been made in Prague and that German and Italian legations in Budapest had been informed of the incident.

The foreign ministers of Italy and Germany drew up the Nov. 2 Vienna award by which Munkacs and other territory was ceded to Hungary.

Munkacs, a city of 30,000, is situated in a bit of territory which juts into Czecho-Slovakia. It has a large Jewish population.

Its military situation has been regarded as precarious because Czecho-Slovak and Ruthenian forces could approach within a few miles on three sides.

Hungarians have attributed several border clashes, including a Christmas season fight at Nagysurany in which two persons were killed, to a studied campaign on the Czecho-Slovak side for recovery of ceded territory.

Hungarian accounts said that Czecho-Slovak artillery began to fire on Munkacs after an invading force had entered the Hungarian village of Oroszpeg, a few hundred yards north of Hunkacs' city limits.

4 Gunmen Speed Past Police Stalled On Ice

BRANTFORD, Ont., Jan. 6—(CP). —Four armed and masked men who obtained $7 in a hold-up at Owen Roberts' general store in Townsend Centre last night were at liberty today and police had no further trace of them after they had raced away from a ditched car on the Six Nations reserve. Mounted police, unaware of the hold-up, narrowly missed capturing three of the men, but lost their trail after following it for miles through the snow.

Brantford police were notified soon after the hold-up had occurred, and word was passed along to provincial traffic officers Robert Dukes and Eugene Rose. Meanwhile on the Six Nations Reserve, Corporal P. V. Monahan and Constables J. H. Payzant and R. L. Crawford of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police were on an icy road near Medinas Corners, assisting a motorist whose smooth tires found it impossible to make progress.

When a speeding car apprached and careened wildly past, being almost ditched in getting around the two other cars on the road, the police officers immediately sensed that something was wrong, although they had not been notified of the hold-up. Corporal Monahan shouted to the driver as he passed and commanded him to halt, but the order was ignored. The officers could not give chase immediately, as the rutted condition of the road made it impossible for them to get their machine past that of the stranded motorist.

Nixon To Assist Drew Get Seat

TORONTO, Jan. 6 — (C.P.). — Lt.-Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative Leader, must soon make a choice of his seat in the Ontario Legislature if he expects to lead the Opposition at the session for which the opening day has tentatively been set at March 8.

Hon. Harry Nixon, Acting Premier, explained to-day that he had instructions from Premier Hepburn to facilitate in every possible way Col. Drew's entry into the House. But Mr. Nixon emphasized that especially if Col. Drew is contemplating running in a city riding, the time is getting short.

The minimum time which must expire between the issuance of writs for a by-election and election day is 32 days. Mr. Nixon said that in populous city ridings where the election laws require enumeration for the preparation of the voters' lists, arrangement of the election machinery would require at least 40 days. In a rural riding election officials could make all necessary preparation within the 32-day minimum.

Although Col. Drew has announced that he has arranged for a sitting Conservative member to resign in his favor, he has declined to disclose which constituency.

"As soon as we receive the resignation of a Conservative member we will immediately issue the writs for a by-election," Mr. Nixon said. "Furthermore, on the instructions of the Premier, we will advise the local Liberal organization in that constituency that it is the wish of the Government that Col. Drew should not be opposed."

Stoney Creek Hit By $40,000 Fire

STONEY CREEK, Ont., Jan. 6 (CP)—Fire of undetermined origin that started in the two-storey frame premises of the Lee Hardware Company, Limited, early today threatened a business block on King street.

An estimated loss of $40,000 was caused when the store and storage buildings at the rear were destroyed by flames which spread to the Stewart barber shop and residence to the east and James Twaddle's grocery store to the west.

The village volunteer brigade with the aid of a pumper compahy despatched by the Hamilton department, brought the fire under control within an hour.

Mrs. Matilda Stewart was wakened at 4.30 a.m. when the rooms of her home filled with smoke from the burning Lee building. She wakened her son, William, and a boarder, William Nattress and they fled to the street. By this time, the flames were threatening the Twaddle building to the west where Mrs. Stewart's daughter, Mrs. Eva Baker and her three children, Dolores, 11, George, 9, and Robert, 7, were asleep in a second-storey apartment.

Some delay was experienced in getting Hamilton firemen to the scene as the result of the first call for aid being cancelled unofficially

STRATFORD, Ont., Jan. 6 (CP)—A ripple of laughter ran through the assembled crowd as Magistrate J. A. Makins explained to Lester Bowman in police court today that unknown persons don't leave beer at his house. Bowman was charged with having beer not purchased according to the regulations of the Liquor Control Act. His defence was that some unknown person had left the beer at his house. He hadn't the least idea who the person was.

"Don't you ever have any beer left over yourself?" he asked the magistrate as he stood up for sentence.

"Unknown people don't leave beer at my house" the magistrate replied.

Bowman, whose home is at Topping, was fined $50 and costs with an alternative of spending 30 days in jail. His home was declared a public place, under the L.C.A. for one year.

First Line Of Barcelona Defences Crumples In 2 Sectors Before Franco Rebel Assault

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 6 (AP) — The Spanish government's strongly fortified line on the central Catalonia front was shattered in two places today at the end of a 24-hour Insurgent drive.

The defence line extending southward from Balaguer and known as "the first line of Barcelona defences," had held firm for two weeks before the Insurgent general offensive begun Dec. 23.

The town of Borjas Blancas, at the southern end of the string of forts making up the 20-mile line, was in the hands of General Franco's troops. About five miles to the north the village of Torregrosa also was reported captured by the Insurgents.

But it was asserted government forces won a victory in southwestern Spain, where militiamen were said to have broken through Insurgent lines between Cabeza Del Buey and Belmez in the sector directly west of Pozoblanco. The Insurgent command said government attacks in the area around Valsequillo, on the southwestern front, were repulsed.

70 Miles From Goal

Penetration of the Borjas Blancas—Balaguer line—which government considers the principal defence against the Insurgent drive on Barcelona—gave Franco's forces a firm foothold in the Urgel tableland about 70 miles west of the capital.

There still remained, however, a strong series of secondary fortified positions in the northeastern portion of the tableland. Into these rugged battlefields the withdrawing militiamen retired.

In the northern sectors, Franco's columns continued to move slowly down from the strategic town of Artesa, deploying in flank formations to clean out government stragglers. Artesa is about 15 miles northeast of Balaguer.

2,876 Reside In Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 6—Campbellford's population is 2,876, according to statistics available in the town offices. The 1937 population was placed at 2,923, and the drop of forty-seven is, according to town officials, due to the removal of several large families. Births are up considerably from last year's figure, with seventy-seven being registered as against 55 for the preceding year, and this reflects an increasing tendency towards hospitalization in confinement cases with a large number of patients being admitted from the township. The number of deaths for the year remains practically unchanged with 46 in 1938 and 45 in 1937.

'Lure' Woman Jailed

DETROIT, Jan. 6—(CP).—Mrs. Florence Shaw, 28, was held today, charged with being the "lure" in 25 robberies here. Two men and youth are held on similar charges. Mrs. Shaw denied implication in the robberies. Her husband, Stanley Shaw, left her several months ago when he refused to try to get "easy money."

Cash For 10 Refugees

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 6—(CP).—More than 400 Windsor Jews at a mass meeting here last night raised $3,600 to rescue 10 Jewish youths from Nazi persecution in Germany and establish them in Palestine.

Grim Reminder

VANCOUVER, Jan. 6—(CP).—A black flag bearing a skull and crossbones and a number will soon be a grim reminder to motorists from the staff of a Vancouver garage. The Vancouver automobile club decided on the plan to remind motorists to be careful in 1939. The number on the flag will correspond to the number of persons killed in traffic crashes.

To the Electors of Belmont and Methuen:

I desire to take this opportunity of expressing my thanks and appreciation to all those who assisted in any way in my election as Reeve. I trust that I may be worthy of your confidence.

With best wishes for happiness and prosperity during 1939, I am,

Yours truly,

ISAAC ANDERSON.

White Cat Blamed As Ship Hits Jinx

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Jan. 6.—(CP).—A little white cat aboard the British freighter Evagoras was regarded with suspicion by superstitious sailormen to-day as they recalled the vessel's bad luck since they befriended the feline at Port Alberni on the west coats of Vancouver Island.

The Evagoras, her aft ballast tank leaking, is held in port here with a 14-degree list.

Captain J. McDonald said the cat wandered aboard at Aberni and became the "ship's cat."

Shortly after the Evagoras suffered damage when she broke loose at Victoria's Ogden Point pier in a storm. Repaired in dry dock, she came here only to be delayed by a list that developed Wednesday shortly before sailing time.

Captain McDonald said he didn't know what to do about the cat. Everything had gone well with the vessel until she came aboard. "I hate to part with her—but still one never knows," the skipper declared.

Tunisian Italians Protest Outrages

ROME, Jan. 6 (AP).—The Fascist press today published a resolution by Italians in Tunisia denouncing "outrages of recent days" and pledging "full and absolute devotion" to King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Mussolini.

Il Popolo Di Roma said the resolution was signed by representatives of Italian associations and institutes of Tunisia, French African protectorate, in behalf of the Italian population. It was presented to the Consul-General at Tunis with the request that it be transmitted to Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Il Popolo Di Roma said the Italian Consul-General had delivered a "high protest" to the French Resident General at Tunis for "indignities" suffered by Italians during the visit of Premier Edouard Daladier.

The paper said an Italian flag had been burned, another flag had been torn down, windows of Italian homes and shops smashed and holiday distribution of toys to Italian children disturbed by a "subversive group."

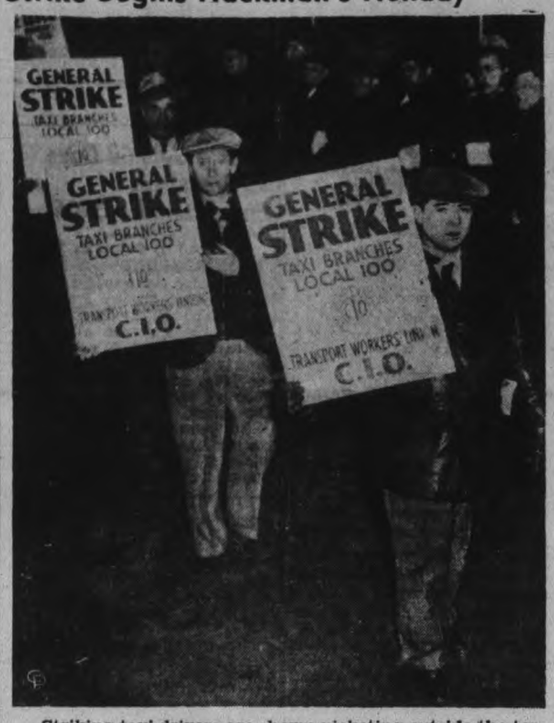
Strike Begins Hackman's Holiday



Striking taxi drivers are shown picketing outside the terminal garage between New York's 11th and 12th Avenues, shortly after the most extensive taxi strike since 1934 got underway. Union officials claim that 85 per cent. of the city's drivers are out. The strike was called because big taxi fleet owners refused to renew a contract that expired on December 31. All police leaves have been cancelled to forestall possible violence.

Working California For The Winter "Torso Killer" Writes Cleveland

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6—(AP).—A letter mailed in Los Angeles and addressed to police chief George Matowitz of Cleveland, O., identifying the sender as Ohio's notorious "torso slayer," spurred police today to search for a possible victim of the mad killer.

The message, telling Cleveland police they "can rest easy now as I have come out to Southern California for the winter," said the head of the writer's "latest victim" was buried in a gully beside a boulevard in south Los Angeles.

Heretofore, as far as is known, the "mad butcher of Kingsbury Run," has confined his activities to a shabby area, criss-crossed by railroad tracks at the backdoor of Cleveland's downtown district. The victims in Ohio number 12, seven males and five females. All were skillfully dissected.

"I felt bad operating on those people, but science must advance," read the letter, a copy of which was sent by chief Matowitz to Los Angeles police. "I shall astound the medical profession.

"What did their lives mean in comparison to hundreds of sick and diseased, twisted bodies? Just laboratory gulnea pigs found on any public street. No one missed them when I failed. My last case was successful. I know now the feeling of Pasteur, Thoreau and other pioneers. Right now I have a volunteer who will prove my theories. They call me mad and a butcher, but the truth will out.

"I feel it is my duty to dispose of the bodies as I do. It is God's will not to let them suffer."

The letter was signed "X."

Chief Matowitz said the only theory Cleveland police had been able to develop was that the crazed killer, with a flair for surgery, is at large.

The bodies, minus heads, have been found at various intervals during the past four years.

Separating in an effort to elude pursuit, one man raced northward and two southward, these two later separating. Each officer taking a separate trail, the men were followed but were never overtaken.

The tracking through the snow continued for many miles before the search was abandoned, each of the three fugitives having reached some road where the trail could no longer be followed. One of the men stumbled and fell as he raced away through the snow. The pursuing officers could make out in the snow the imprint of the rifle he had been carrying. Corporal Monahan said the men had a rifle, a shotgun and a revolver. The fourth member of the hold-up gang had evidently left his companions before the car came to the attention of the officers on the road.

One of the fugitives, realizing that his trail through the snow could be easily followed, walked along in a creek for a quarter of a mile in an effort to shake off his pursuers, but the trail was picked up again and followed until it was lost on a hard-packed road. Examining the contents of the car, Corporal Monahan found a flashlight, a mask, and some of the stolen articles, including two axe heads, two pairs of gloves, two pairs of gloves, two shirts, some chocolate bars and a quantity of tobacco.

Death Reaped a Harvest in 1938

Death, with his shouldered scythe, is pictured here as he paused momentarily to add up the list of his victims who perished in 1938 in automobile accidents, many of which were caused by nothing else than negligence and a complete disregard for human life. As he adds up his score for 1938, Death is undoubtedly looking forward to a prosperous New Year, which he will have unless YOU drive sanely and carefully.

Indian Races Mile Dying Of Burns

ESPANOLA, Ont., Jan. 6—(CP)—A northern Ontario doctor told today of an Indian's vain race with death through snow-heaped bush trails in sub-zero weather. The Indian, Alex Solomon, 24-year-old reserve, died in hospital last night. 24 Sagamock from the Spanish River hours after fire razed his little shack on the banks of Spanish River and left him a flaming torch.

Dr. H. H. Harvey of Massey, who treated Solomon in the small Red Cross Hospital at Espanola, said the youth was trapped in his cabin and escaped with his face and body a mass of burns. Suffering terrific pain, the Indian raced a mile to a neighboring cabin, broke the lock and stumbled into a warm bed.

Solomon was found Thursday morning by the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sharkey, who had been away visiting. He was moaning, his eyes were puffed and closed and the hair had been burned from his scalp.

Mailman Goes for Help.

When Harry Caldwell, a rural mailman, arrived at the Sharkey cabin he was sent to Massey, seven miles away, to obtain help. Leo St. Denis harnessed a team of horses and drove the dying Indian to hospital here, 35 miles southwest of Sudbury.

Solomon was brought here at 7 o'clock last night. Dr. Harvey worked over him for two hours before he died, after mumbling a brief story of what happened.

"I came home from a hockey game in Massey late Wednesday," Dr. Harvey said the Indian told him. "I went to bed about midnight. I was awakened an hour later with the cabin in flames. I was trapped and had to dash through the fire to escape. My clothes were burning."

That was all he could say.

St. Denis said the trip to the Sharkey cabin was a "nightmare." The roads were blocked and piled with drifts.

"I left Massey at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon and it was six in the evening before I returned," he said.

Would Let In Refugees

OTTAWA, Jan. 6—(CP).—Canada should open its doors to a limited number of European refugees in fulfillment of a moral obligation created by the Munich agreement, the all-Canadian congress of labor urged today in its annual submission to the Dominion government.

"Even if it were necessary to maintain these immigrants, the cost to the nation would be infinitesmal in comparison to what war would have cost," the congress memorandum stated.

They urged, accordingly, not only that immigration regulations should be amended appropriately at the forthcoming session of parliament but that the government should "assist in every possible way in the attempts which are being made to lessen the suffering of these unfortunate victims of inhuman and relentless persecution."

The congress added, however, that such efforts to aid refugees 'should not involve trade or financial concessions to government which hold refugees for ransom."

A. R. Mosher, president of the all-Canadian congress, introduced to the assembled members of the cabinet the delegation representing national unions throughout the country. Norman S. Dowd, congress secretary, presented the memorandum itself.

The congress re-stated its contention of a year ago that the two most important problems before the nation were national unity and the abolition of poverty.

"It is deeply to be regretted that the intervening year has seen little or no progess toward their solution and that in some respects they have become intensified," Mr. Dowd said. The growing evidence of misunderstanding and ill-will between the federal government and certain provincial governments was a source of deep concern to the workers represented by the all-Canadian congress.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Jan. 6 — (C.P.). — Futures rallied from early losses on Winnipeg Wheat Market to-day to come back strongly in quiet trading. At the close prices were ⅛ to ¼cent higher, with May at 62⅝b, Jnuly 63⅝ to ½, and October 63⅝ cents.

Scattered buying in later stages of the session together with absence of offerings checked the slipping value. Mill interest was lacking and bulk of operations was confined to routine spreading. Small purchases by Southern houses were reported intermittently.

Unconfirmed Canadian wheat export business was placed close to 100,000 bushels.

Church Failed Is Charge Of R. B. Bennett

CALGARY, Jan. 6—(CP).—The church has failed, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, former Conservative prime minister, told 450 persons attending a banquet in his honor last night at Central United church.

"Where has the church failed, and why?" he asked. "I can't answer that, but it has failed."

In practice, the philosophy of Christian faith had been little regarded, Mr. Bennett added.

"We have millions of men at each other's throats even today," he said citing Spain and China as examples.

He said he had talked with leaders of the Oxford Group, with the Archbishop of Canterbury, in England, and with leaders of the Roman Catholic church and he was convinced the only method for world peace was through churches operating on individual minds.

"I'm afraid we can't expect very much from the mass mind—from mass opinion. We must secure proper individual opinion."

"I still believe in the church." But the church has failed to live up to expectations of any Christians.

A Poor Example.

"Destruction of humans in wars is a sad, sad commentary on the Christian faith. If a man came down from Mars to-day, presuming there is life there, and inquired into all the religious faiths on the earth, he would find little reason to conclude that we are the best."

Changes could only come, as in love and politics, through "the expulsive power of a new effect." There was a new commandment "That ye love one another," and until that commandment had acted as a force to displace present tendencies, men would still be at each other's throats.

Mr. Bennett, former Baptist Church member, and now a member of the Central United Church, emphasized his lifelong desire to be a good example and a good influence on the rising generation and that was an important reason he had kept the Sabbath and had been a non-drinker, he said.

"Whatever else you may say, I want you to feel that my influence is cast on the side of righteousness."

An illuminated address, signed by church officials and all the present members of Central United Church, was presented to Mr. Bennett, who will become a resident of England next month.

Performances Chosen By Movie Critic

New York film critics have named James Cagney, LEFT, and Margaret Sullavan, RIGHT, as having given the best performance during the past year. Cagney for his work in "Angels With Dirty Faces," and Miss Sullavan for her work in "Three Comrades." Both stars will be presented with an inscribed scroll in recognition of their performances.

Norwood Couple Wed 35 Years

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Jan. 6. — On Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. L. Fife celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary and many of their relatives gathered with them to enjoy a happy time together. Dinner was served at 6.30, the table being exquisitely decorated in red and white, the centre being adorned with a delicious three-storey cake. The cake was cut and carried to the table by little Isabel Murphy.

Rev. J. MacIntosh proposed a toast to Mr. and Mrs. Fife, wishing them many years together. Mr. Fife responded, and the guests then adjourned to the living-room. Recitations were given by Isabel Murphy, Mrs. MacIntosh and Mrs. C. Murphy. A guitar duet was rendered by Mrs. Nixon and Mrs. McKay. Mr. and Mrs. Fife were then presented with a beautiful floor lamp by John McKay and family, also an electric toaster by Mr. and Mrs. H. Garnett and Edwin Fife. Flowers were presented by Mr. and Mrs. C. Fife and Stewart Stillman.

Games were then enjoyed. At the close of the evening Mr. and Mrs. Fife thanked their friends for the lovely gifts.

Havelock Institute Plans "At Home"

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 6.—Committees to make arrangements for the annual St. Valentine's Day "At Home" were appointed at the regular meeting of the Junior Women's Institute, Wednesday evening in the Albion Club rooms. There was a good attendance, and Miss Alma Hagerman vice-president conducted the meeting in the absence of the president Miss Irene McKay.

Miss Margaret Voyer was appointed convenor of the lunch committee for the dance, while Miss Bessie Thompson was selected to convene the entertainment committee.

An interesting talk on health was given by Mrs. S. Southward, her topics being the common cold and health habits for girls.

The history surrounding "Annie Laurie" and a vocal interpretation of this well-known song was exceptionally well presented by Mrs. C. Jamieson.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting, Miss Hazel McCutcheon being lunch convener for the evening.

Japanese Premier Resigns

BARON HIRANUMA PRINCE KONOYE

Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye has resigned as Premier of Japan under pressure of the extreme Nationalists who violently opposed the Premier's policies with regard to the war in China. Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, President of the Privy Council and head of the former Nationalist party, was named as the likely successor to the Premiership.

Slow City Hall Gang Of Shovellers Get City Fined $2

Halifax, Jan. 5 (CP).

THE law is the law, and the City was fined the regular $2 when City Solicitor Carl Bethune appeared before Magistrate J. L. Barnhill today and pleaded guilty for the city on a charge of violation of the snow removal ordinance.

The City Solicitor asked the same fine be imposed as if the the City's representatives had appeared before the court clerk and pleaded guilty out of court. The charge of failure to remove snow from the sidewalk and gutter bordering the City Hall was laid on information issued by Andrew Matthews, head of a Halifax coal firm.

Bethune was accompanied at the barristers' table by Mayor Walter Mitchell and City Engineer Johnson. The City Engineer read a prepared statement, declaring men had been on hand to clear the sidewalks in the vicinity of City Hall. They started at the south end, and had not finished the shovelling work on the north side of the building within the time limit of the inspection.

France will issue a stamp to raise funds for the blind.

Congregation Honors Mrs. Charles Lauder

Members of the Eden United Church joined last week in honoring Mrs. Charles Lauder, in appreciation of her services as secretary-treasurer of the church and for her many other church activities. They presented her with a purse of money and an address of appreciation.

The address read as follows: "It is with a feeling of pleasure and esteem that we, the members and adherents of Eden United Church, avail ourselves of this opportunity to acknowledge our appreciation of your efficient services in our behalf as secretary-treasurer; also as a faithful helper in church, Sunday School, and at all picnics, socials and entertainments. We also recognize the fact that in times of sickness, sorrow and trouble you have proved yourself to be a true, sympathetic friend. As friends and co-workers we take great pleasure in presenting to you this gift. We trust you will accept it in the spirit it is given, as a slight token of our past pleasant associations and our present personal esteem. We trust you may still enjoy health and happiness.

"Signed on behalf of the congregation,

"R. M. McMullin, W. T. Northy, Mrs. W. H. Bronson, Mrs. Crarey."

Industry And Relief

Ald. James Dutton, who has had his hand on the relief situation in this city for a long time, fears the tendency now is to ask for relief more readily and frequently than was formerly the case. His contention is that it does not require a serious or unsurmountable situation to cause people to think in terms of approaching the city relief office, and there are cases where this has been done which the people concerned could have worked out under their own power.

Being chairman of relief is not pleasant work, and we have noticed in several cities that the alderman occupying that position has gone down to defeat more readily than the chairman of any other committee. Ald. Dutton's position is dual; he has to think and act on behalf of those who actually need assistance, and he has to give just as much consideration to the problems of those who have to pay for it. It is not a position which would make a man popular either way.

The closing of the Auburn plant here undoubtedly aggravated the relief situation. While there had been labor trouble there it was at least a place where several hundred people found employment. It is when a city has to deal with and pay for the closing of an industrial plant that people begin to realize the importance of places of employment. It would be the best news we could hear that some other industry had been secured which would put life and activity into the Auburn plant. It would be pleasant indeed to see people going there to do a day's work.

That is why our industrial efforts are so closely related to our relief payments. That is why the 1939 committee which is empowered to deal with industrial development has so important a task before them. We should encourage their efforts and place no obstacles in their way.

If we secure a new industry we benefit in two ways. It will provide work for those who need it, and it will also decrease the size of our relief bill. We have heard plenty of criticism of concessions which have been made to industries, but today we have before us an example of what happens to the civic purse when an industry closes.

Admired The Man's Nerve

Bryan Grover, an English engineer, was working in Russia as an oil specialist in 1933, and when there he fell in love with a Russian girl, Eleana Petrovna Golius, and married her. Some time later he had to leave Russia but his wife was not allowed to accompany him. Grover has tried a good many times since to have his domestic affairs settled but the diplomats assured him there was nothing which could be done. Nor was it possible for Grover to get a permit to enter Russia.

There must be something of the bull dog breed in this man for he secured a second-hand plane and took lessons for three weeks learning how to make the thing go and then headed off toward Russia. He did not land out in the country but right square at one of the official landing fields, after which he shoved through and placed his case right on the doorstep of the one and great Stalin.

Today Grover and his wife are reunited and living in Moscow and his next move will be to ask permission to leave the country. It is admitted that the Kremlin admired the man's nerve and it is abundantly plain he had plenty of it.

A Long String Of Cars

When a taxi cab strike was called in New York city it was answered by 11,000 drivers thereby taking that number of cars off the streets.

A bulk number like that may seem large or small or perhaps it may not convey any particular idea of size or extent.

As an experiment we will have those cars drive along in a single line, and allow twelve feet of space for each car, and that is tight enough. It is fairly close to being what we call bumper-to-bumper.

That would make 132,000 feet for those 11,000 cars, and there are 5,280 feet in a mile, so the New York taxis which went off the streets when the strike was called would make a string 25 miles long.

And that in turn is just about the distance between Peterborough and the cut-off to No. 2 Highway just outside of Port Hope. Or turned in another direction it would stretch along No. 7 Highway from this city to Havelock.

Allowed To See His Son

Count Haugwitz-Reventlow, who married the American heiress, Barbara Hutton, is to be allowed to see his son. The lad is now on his way from London accompanied by two nurses and the father will meet him in St. Moritz, Switzerland.

Life hasn't meant much to that man since he became married. He has not as much privilege when it comes to seeing his own son, now nearly three years old, as the man who lives in a cottage. The average man can see his own son or his own daughter about when he likes.

He can see him in the middle of the night when he has some wind on his stomach; he can see him when he wants a ride on his father's back across the kitchen floor; can see him when he gets old enough to sit in a high chair and has to be tied in with a towel to keep from wiggling out. He can see his son when he leaves in the morning or again at noon and he is sure to see him when he returns at evening. He can laugh with him and at him and do what he can to soften periods of weeping. The titled gentleman who is permitted to see his son only at long intervals and then for only a short time is not to be envied. He's missing too much.

Putting Them In Jail

Magistrate Atkinson of Timmins sentenced seven young men to jail on the charge of vagrancy, and it is plain enough he was not at all satisfied he was doing the right thing. His comment was that it should be reported to the Attorney-General. It was the Attorney-General himself who instituted the custom of having vagrants committed to jail and by so doing he hoped to decrease the number of transients on the road.

Magistrate Atkinson asked one young chap if he wanted to go to jail and the response was "Not if I can help it." The fine in lieu of a jail term was a dollar and costs but these people had no money.

The police in Timmins admitted the only offence these seven young men had committed was that they could not find work. If there was work to do they would gladly take it, so it comes down to the rather narrow issue of putting people in jail because they cannot find anything to do. That is actually what we are doing in Ontario today, and at the same time a good many well-meaning folk are wringing their hands and wondering what can be done to keep young folk thinking straight and not be carried away by all the new fads and cure-alls which are being suggested.

Short Of Food

It is not possible to keep on disguising the plain fact that Germany is short of food. People who have visited there found that out and they also experienced the doubtful experiment of eating substitutes of lesser food value.

Germany can secure all the food supplies needed the same as any other nation buys that which is needed from the outside world. Germany is ready enough to buy anything needed for her army, her navy or air force, and the people in that land are being told continually to tighten their belts and eat less so that armament may have its way.

Latest reports say Germany is short of potatoes, eggs, butter and coal, and to that list coffee has been added. Brazil has so much surplus coffee that for years the coffee growers have been burning millions of sacks to keep it off the market. Germany needs what Brazil is burning and wasting and yet no trade has been established. There must be sensible people in Germany who realize the nonsense of it all, but at the moment they are voiceless through fear.

Has Earned Retirement

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, former Minister of Agriculture and member of the House of Commons for Melville, Sask., is going to retire and the suggestion has been made that Hon. J. G. Gardiner enter the Melville riding and regard it as his seat.

Mr. Motherwell is now in his 79th year and admits readily enough he is ready to step out. He has been at Ottawa for 18 years, and before that was in the Saskatchewan government for 13 years. When he first tried for a place in the provincial legislature he was twice defeated, but since then he has found the going rather easy around election times, and some of the majorities which he has rolled up in the Melville riding must have been adequate recompense for the contest in which he lost his deposit when running in Assiniboia. That was at a by-election in 1919. Since then he has been the cause of several opposing candidates doing the same thing.

Mr. Motherwell is a farmer and he has remained a farmer all through. He understood the entire problem of the man on the land in Western Canada and he always looked at business as a farmer. He came in as a Liberal and is still a Liberal, but during the last session of the House of Commons it was plain indeed that he was becoming a long way removed from acceptance of official Liberal policy as it applied to meeting conditions in the West. He was openly critical at times.

It is 45 years ago since he first tried for an Ottawa seat, and that would be when Hon. Sir J. Thompson was Prime Minister. We were having a number of Prime Ministers in short order at that period. Sir John A. Macdonald was through on June 6, 1891, and between then and 1896 we had Sir J. J. Abbott, Sir J. Thompson, Sir M. Bowell and Sir Charles Tupper. Hon. W. R. Motherwell has earned his retirement, and he can go back to live with his former constituents knowing that he always kept the case of the Western farmer to the front at Ottawa.

NOTE AND COMMENT

York township's reeve predicts a cut in the tax rate and what makes the prophecy really notable is that it was made after and not before the election.

Ottawa folk will be unable to conceal their pride in the fact that the King and Queen are to spend four days in the Capital and only a few hours in Toronto.

Ontario's fire loss increased by 12 per cent. during last year and that is not the kind of record that should make us feel like patting one another on the back.

Globe and Mail has an editorial on the advantages of outdoor life during Canadian winters. Those articles write easily in a steam-heated office.

H. G. Wells calls Hitler and Mussolini "freaks," and that prompts the thought that Mr. Wells has neither property nor relatives in either country.

The job of guarding the King and Queen during their Canadian visit is to be turned over to the R.C.M.P. The world knows that means they will be well guarded.

A new electric express train in Italy has a speed of 155 miles an hour. Italy has so little coal that her railways are electrified, and when at it she has turned out a rather complete job.

New microscope is said to be able to magnify things a million times, and one might feel better if able to borrow that apparatus when taking a squint at his assets.

Perhaps we should begin anew and try to think and talk in terms of millions of dollars. We just noticed where we pay a million a day as interest charges on our bonded debts.

James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President of U.S., has gone to work as vice-president of a moving picture company and admits he knows nothing at all about it. That is a good place to start if he does not stop right there.

It is proposed that the King while in Toronto might close the session of the Ontario Legislature. And that of course would be a more pleasant commission than trying to control it at times when it is in session.

Middle-aged Montreal man was allowed to go on suspended sentence after pleading guilty to stealing a small jar of peanuts. He might have put forward the defence that the evidence in the case was salted.

The mayor of Toronto considers that 81-2 hours is much too short for the visit of the King and Queen to that city. Toronto should be careful as for some time past most of us have not used the word Hogtown.

Toronto is having quite a spell trying to find the identity of a woman who tried to vote in the name of another person at the civic election. They could readily enough identify many hundreds who did not take the trouble to vote at all.

Public opinion is mercurial. A survey by the British Institute of Public Opinion showed that 79 per cent. of the people would welcome a return of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor if they decided to take up their residence in England. A year ago the same sort of test showed 60 per cent. in favor of a return. There is nothing unusual about it and there are few opinions which do not undergo a change.

NEIGHBORS

(By A.R.K.)

¶ My Neighbor A dislikes the cold, and if his business could be sold, he says he'd go away; he'd seek some place where it is warm, where he'd not shiver in the morn, and spoil another day.

¶ He talks about our drifts of snow, and groans because they don't all go, he shivers in the breeze; he says before each day gets through, he feels like ice cakes hard and new, and shakes around the knees.

¶ He sings all times a dreary song, the winter months are far too long, it drains his system so; he wishes that he lived elsewhere, so he could sniff the balmy air, but he can't up and go.

¶ My Neighbor B though strong in years, and rather grey above the ears, he chants no hymn of hate; he likes the summer or the fall, and doesn't mind the snow at all, he's such a cheerful mate.

¶ He sees the weeks that lie ahead, for him they hold no fear or dread, as gay as anything; he says in just a few weeks more, he'll some day open up the door, and find that it is spring.

¶ So when I hear from Neighbor A, it seems a very gloomy day, I'm dreary as can be; then Neighbor B drops in at night, and sees ahead so warm and bright—that things look fine to me.

Over 97 per cent of American auto drivers involved in fatal accidents are experienced—that is, have had the benefit of at least a year's experience in operating an automobile.

Crossing streets between intersections brings death to pedestrians in motor accidents more than any other one cause.

✧ ✧ ✧

Contrary to popular belief, more new cars are involved in accidents than old ones. Many are under the impression that it is dangerous to operate an old, worn-out car, while the new and latest model contains all the latest safety gadgets and is therefore the safest. A recent survey indicated that the latest models were found in disproportionately large numbers of accidents while the old models of 1925 were involved in but one-third of their expected share.

✧ ✧ ✧

The slaughter from auto accidents receives much editorial space in newspapers the nation over. However, death by automobile is only 5 per cent greater than fatalities caused by simple accidents in American homes, to which attention is rarely drawn and against which safety campaigns are almost never waged.

✧ ✧ ✧

Excepting drivers past sixty-five years of age, the motor accident record of those below eighteen years of age is worse than any other age classification.

Miss death by one second—that is what one-fifth of American drivers do when they pass cars on the open highway, according to a report delivered recently at a meeting of the American Psychological Association. The custom of many drivers on two-lane highways of permitting less than a second to clear an approaching car was revealed by motion pictures taken from a moving car by T. W. Forbes and T. M. Matson of Yale University.

✧ ✧ ✧

Seventy-five per cent of our highway accidents are not caused—as many may suppose—by intoxicated or defective drivers, but by the average and normal citizen. Dr. Ralph L. Lee of General Motors says the majority of accidents are caused by doing things we clearly know to be wrong.

MORE ABOUT BREAD

IT IS Believed by many that bread is more nourishing than cake; this is not strictly true. Cake contains more nutritious ingredients, for in addition to flour it contains sugar, eggs and other highly nourishing materials such as fruits and nuts.

Freezing bread with "dry ice" to keep it fresh is the latest trick of the baker's art, as reported in a German scientific magazine. A patent has been applied for on the process, and it is claimed that when thawed out bread is as fresh as when brought from the oven.

Members of caravans in the Sahara Desert frequently bury flat loaves of bread in marked places in the sand for hungry caravans that may follow. The loaves are marked with mystic signs which convey news of wide interest to other travellers of the desert.

✧ ✧ ✧

Americans are consuming far less bread than they did 35 years ago. The amount has decreased steadily since the early years of this century. The consumption per person was 230 pounds of flour in 1900; at the present time it is around 160 pounds.

HE JUST WONDERED.

A visitor from Saskatchewan brings the story of a farmer in that province who, seeing his neighbors go on relief one after another, consulted his bankers as to whether, if he also became a public charge, they would allow him to keep his accounts with them — between seven and eight thousand dollars at each of two banks.

He explained, when asked, that being the only self-supporting member of the community he saw no reason why he should continue to support all the others.

Wonder how many of us, on a smaller scale perhaps, have sometimes felt like that.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

HOW DEMOCRATIC ARE WE?

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir: We are Scotch with enough independence in our make-up that we must pay our way. There are thousands, Scotch and otherwise, just like us.

We are taking out a life insurance policy and have decided on the new pension policy which will allow us so much a month after we reach a certain age. Whew! that premium is pretty high and we must exert all our will power to do without this and that in order to meet those yearly payments. We pay the premiums in full ourselves.

We have found out that at some time a law was passed by which those in certain occupations or professions have a pension policy, of the same value or even greater than ours, and they do not pay the premiums in full. All the rest of us, even those without policies, are helping to pay their premiums. They call it superannuation, but it amounts to about the same thing. We were not consulted to see if we were willing to help them pay for future protection, in fact, there is so little said about it that many of those helping are not aware of it. We know that some of those mentioned, who are paying only half of the dues while the government pays the other half, receive larger salaries or wages than the average person.

I believe that many who are forced to pay these superannuation dues know that the system is unjust and would be willing to pay in full for their pensions. Public opinion is becoming stronger against the 'parasites.'

Then some business firms help pay pensions to employees and charge consumers extra.

Also, there are those who are receiving pensions toward which they contributed not even half, but nothing at all. Others are looking forward to the time they will receive the old pension.

The whole system, along with the continuing of relief, is causing such dissatisfaction that we wonder at the outcome. If our system of democracy calls for such unjust practices in order to gain votes, we had better try something else.

IN THESE TIMES

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—There was a letter in the Examiner last week from one who signed herself "Mother." With your permission I will answer her briefly—as so far no one has done so.

I agree with you heartily, Mother, about late hours for young folk. Even twelve o'clock seems too late for me—also I would say, these are hard days for parents for as you say we hardly dare tell them at what time we were expected in for with a look almost of pity they wonder if we really lived at all.

Well we did live; and smoking and drinking among young women was unknown. We had no young men take us out joy riding and land home in the early hours of morning and even at that we were not angels, but perhaps some of us had longings to be better than we were and to rise above the world, the flesh, and the dvil and so I think it must be pretty hard for young folk now to be virtuous but where there is the will to do right, power is given to overcome.

Those of us who have reached maturity and calm judgment sometimes feel helpless to behold the "vortex" into which our children are being drawn. Perhaps the best way to appeal to them is not to lecture, but to let them see how they grieve us and to pray in secret for them. They do not know that the image of them as little "innocents" has never been erased from our minds.

Some day perhaps I will venture to write on courtship and marriage as it is, and as it ought to be, for home life is the foundation of heaven, its institution older than the church but at this day all hell is in the effort to utterly destroy it.

Yours sincerely,

ANOTHER MOTHER.

• They Are Not Forced To Read It

We hold no brief for the Toronto Star and we have not, at the time of writing, seen any comments it may have made on the matter, but on the broad principle of the freedom of the press and the liberty of the subject, we regret that Rev. Father Charles B. Lanphier, well-known Toronto priest, and at one time a young reporter on that newspaper, threatened in a radio address "to personally lead a delegation to the leading ecclesiastical authorities of this province and request them to bar your paper from their homes." The reason for this action is that Father Lanphier is of the opinion the Star supports Bolshevist views.

Father Lanphier's church says the St. Thomas Times-Journal takes wide and strong measures to protect its members, issuing from time to time a list of literature which it forbids them to read, and in other ways it directs their thinking away from what it regards as deleterious channels. It is a form of censorship which has existed for centuries and, we believe, is invariably observed by those to whom it is directed. Newspapers, however, are on a different footing. The freedom to be fought for and won, and we in this country, knowing the situation in Germany and Italy, where no newspaper may publish anything the authorities do not like, should oppose any steps savoring of the same kind of domination. If the government or any body begins to dictate what shall, or shall not appear in a paper, under threat of boycott by a large number of readers, then the freedom of the press is destroyed.

After all, the remedy surely rests in the hands of the readers Father Lanphier refers to. The fact that they read the paper now is evidence that they are not greatly disturbed by its views because if there is one inalienable and simple right of the individual, it is stop buying the paper that he disagrees with and take one whose views are more pleasing to him. There is no compulsion on anyone to read the Star or any other paper, and many a man has "stopped his paper" and switched to another of his own volition without being told to do so by anyone. It is on that basis that the freedom of the press and the liberty of the subject rest, one being the complement of the other.

In saying this, we are not defending the Star's policy; merely defending the right of the press and the individual. Father Lanphier puts himself in the position of telling people not to buy a certain paper today because he does not like its political views, and perhaps urging them to buy it later because he does.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Remember the former things of old: for I am God, and there is none else; I am God, and there is none like me, declaring the end from the beginning, and from ancient times the things that are not yet done, saying, My counsel shall stand, and I will do all my pleasure.—Isa. xlvi, 9, 10.

Great is our Lord, and of great power: his understanding is infinite.—Ps. cxlvii, 5.

✧ ✧ ✧

For since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him.—Isa. lxiv, 4.

✧ ✧ ✧

For this cause I Paul, the prisoner of Jesus Christ for you Gentiles, if ye have heard of the dispensation of the grace of God which is given me to you-ward: how that by revelation he made known unto me the mystery . . . which in other ages was not made known unto the sons of men, as it is now revealed unto his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit. —Eph. iii, 1-3, 5.

THE SALES TAX.

. . . If the tax were reduced from eight to six percent.—a reduction of 25 percent. in the tax—the consumers would pay $42,000,000 less. Their purchasing power would be substantially increased and trade and industry would benefit. This is all assuming, of course, that the Government found it possible to reduce the tax.

Dr. A. T. Barr Uses 'Recovery' Idea

DR. A. T. BARR of St. Paul's Presbyterian church selected the title "Torch-Bearers of Recovery" for his second book. Of more importance than the title is the theme, one about which much is said—Recovery. The suggestion keeps on coming in front in all nine sections of this book, the recovery of Enthusiasm, the Sense of Duty, Fellowship, Generosity, Christian Culture, the Open Mind, the Simple Life, Industrial Peace and Church Loyalty.

Significant that the minister of St. Paul's church should have uncovered the material in the companions of St. Paul in each of whom he has found the embodiment of one of these Christian virtues. The book is dedicated to the memory of a departed official of his church "An elder of the Old School, my Friend, Richard Lees, M. A."

As one who showed a sense of duty Dr. Barr has selected Ananias, the young man who was commissioned to go to the house of Judas in the street called Straight in Damascus and there call upon and receive Saul, the man who had been busy persecuting members of the early Christian church. The writer finds it possible to understand the way in which Ananias argued before complying with the request. He was humanly weak because he had known Saul as a man to be feared, but in the end it is recorded: "The Lord said unto him, 'Go thy way' . . . he departed." Likewise when he entered the house and found the much-feared man he addressed him as "Brother Saul," thus exhibiting the true spirit of love and forgiveness, something which the church and the world sadly needs today.

This second book from the same author makes interesting and instructive reading. It is written in a style which holds interest while at the same time it establishes wholesome fact and sound reasoning.

R. M. Brown Is Winner Of Echardt Trophy

The Echardt trophy for the best four birds in the 30th annual Peterborough poultry show went to R. M. Brown of Bridgenorth, it was announced as the show closed Thursday afternoon. Mr. Brown, an extensive winner in all divisions, won the trophy, most valued prize offered, with four White Rocks, cock, hen, cockerel and pullet.

Competition for the cup commenced in 1929, and is restricted to birds of utility breeds and does not include turkeys, water fowl, bantams, pigeons or pet stock. The award is handled by the provincial government. The province is divided into twelve districts for competition, and each year one district show holds the Echardt competition. This year was Peterborough's first turn. The winner is barred from future contests and only birds shown by district exhibitors may be entered. The trophy consists of a 2-piece silver dessert set, lined with 24 carat gold.

Other special awards were made yesterday afternoon and presentations were made last night by Mayor James Hamilton. Seven cups were presented, two to E. Simmons for the best exhibition pen and the best single comb Rhode Island Reds in the show; two to H. Lush for the best male and female in the show; one to H. VanAllen for the best pullet shown by a local exhibitor; one to H. M. Foster for the best Barred Rock cockerel; and one to W. W. Lord and Son for the best White Wyandotte cock.

Specail prizes presented were to E. H. White for Barred Rocks, old and young Golden Seabright Bantams; R. M. Brown for White Rocks, Buff Rocks, Columbian Wyandottes (female), Jersey Black Giants, light Brahmas, any other variety Leghorns, Anconas, Houdans, Rouen ducks and geese; H. Lush for Silver Wyandottes, Golden Wyandottes, white crested Blask Polish, any other variety, Polish and Hamburgs; H. VanAllen for Columbian Wyandottes (male), Dorkings, Redcaps, Sussex; W. W. Lord and Son for White Wyandottes; E. Simmons for single comb Rhode Island Reds, and Production class; J. M. Lowes for New Hampshires; R. D. Robson for Black Minorcas; and H. E. Black for three varieties of Leghorns; H. M. Foster for Black Cochin Bantams;

The remainder of the prize list, first part of which was published on Thursday, showed that H. Lush made a clean sweep in Birchen Game, Duckwing, Pile Game. In old English Game Bantams he was first in cocks with W. W. Lord first in cockerels. H. M. Foster won all awards for any other variety Game; E. H. White took almost every prize for Golden Seabrights. In Rose Combs Messrs. Lush and Brown split honors, with a few awards going to W. W. Lord. Mr. Brown won cocks and hens in Buff Cochin class and split honours with Mr. Foster in Black Cochins. In any other variety Cochin, Mr. Lush was first in cocks and pullets; Mr. Brown in hens; H. Fowler in cockerels. In Brahmas Mr. Lush took nearly every award and similarly in Japanese. In all varieties of ducks, H. Brown was victor, with the exception of eight out of the 49 awards, four of which went to H. VanAllen, four to W. W. Lord and Son. Mr. Brown also captured every one of the 22 awards for geese.

In turkeys A. B. Mann won first in nearly every variety, Bronze, White Holland, and any other variety. In the last class Mr. Brown was first in pullets as his only competitor. In pigeons R. Bowler was first with a pair of Fantails, second with White Kings, second and third with any other variety, while Mr. Brown was second with Fantails, first with Homers, Tumblers, White Kings and any other variety. E. Simmons captured first in Belgian rabbits and first in exhibition pens, second going to H. Bowler. J. M. Lowes won first award for both white and brown eggs.

Tax For Relief

DETROIT, Jan. 6—(CP).—A Detroit sales tax was suggested today as a possible solution of the city's difficulty in financing relief costs here. The city emergency finance committee advanced the plan and it will be placed before the city council. Detroit's deficit likely will be $12,000,000 this year.

Had Franco Plans

Harold Goodman, British vice consul, shown at San Sebastian, Spain, was as much surprised as were Franco officials when plans for the Franco Spanish offensive were found in his diplomatic pouch during a trip from San Sebastian to St. Jean de Luz. Franco postponed the drive as he battled revolt within his own ranks, according to reports. Loyalist spies had obtained plans of drive.

Spanish Rebel Push Fails

The forces of General Franco suffered serious losses when they were foiled in their repeated and costly attempts to reach Borjas Blancas through Castelldans. The southern wing of the rebel army made progress, smashing toward Falset. This movement is indicated (1) In the CENTRE, east of Lerida (2), there was a deadlock in heavy fighting with neither side gaining or losing much territory. In the northern district, near Tremp (3), the rebel drive was held up by bad weather.

Hastings Institute Lays Concert Plans

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Ont., January 6. — The community school concert to be held on January 27 in the Hastings town hall, sponsored by the local branch of the Women's Institute was discussed on Tuesday afternoon at their regular meeting. Several numbers by each of the seven schools of the community will be presented by the pupils under the direction of the teachers, Miss Jessie Hay, Miss Kathleen Crosson, Miss Helen McGee, Miss Donna Nelson, Mr. Arnold Bates, Miss Jessie Lamb, Mr. G. Sine, Mr. Carrol and Miss M. Wilkins.

Because the local Institute is five years old on January 30, the Friday night nearest to the birthday was chosen as a suitable date. The best numbers presented at the annual Christmas concerts at each school were chosen as the numbers to be given at the community concert.

Mrs. J. A. Brown presided over the meeting which was not well attended on account of the stormy weather. The roll call was "One good quality my neighbor has."

Mrs. O. Phillips, the treasurer, reported on the Christmas cheer as follows: On the Tuesday before Christmas seven members met in the Council Chambers and packed ten family hampers, containing flour, shortening, butter, meat, canned goods, candies, oranges, etc. Members contributed toys, books, jams, cookies, vegetables, knitted goods, a warm quilt, money, etc. Ten packets were sent to invalids, motherless children and aged people. A member in the Hamilton Sanitarium was also sent a warm bed jacket. The members are grateful to the Hastings council and softball club for their donations of $10 each, and to Mr. P. S. Ewing, Percy Clerk, who sent a donation which enabled the members to send a hamper to a Percy family.

Four letters of appreciation for remembrances received at Christmas were read by the secretary.

Mrs. A. R. Bell of Toronto was guest speaker and told of experiences in France and England during a visit made at the time of the Armistice.

Mrs. O. Phillips read a poem entitled "Thoughts for the New Year." Mrs. T. A. Walsh gave an interesting poem, a clipping from a paper, telling of the proceedings of a branch Women's Institute. Mrs. C. Baker will extend the hospitality of her home for the February meeting, the feature will be "Musical Appreciation." Mrs. G. Sine will be convener.

Following the meeting a delightful luncheon was served. Mrs. F. Crate, Mrs. C. Dodd and Mrs. T. A. Walsh were hostesses.

Pheasant eggs are being flown from Europe to Rhodesia.

OBITUARY

GEORGE ALBERT FERGUSON

COOPER, Jan. 6—There passed to his eternal reward at his home in Cooper, George Albert Ferguson, a life-long resident of Madoc township, and a well known cheesemaker of the early days.

Born at Hazzard's Corners, he was a son of the late James Ferguson, and his wife, Elinor Jane Bailey.

As a young man he chose cheesemaking as his profession and engaged successfully in that calling for a period of forty years, the last ten of which were spent in the Allen Settlement factory at Cooper.

In 1920 he bought what was then known as the Vankleeck farm where he resided until the time of his death.

Always quiet and unassuming in manner he lived by deeds, not words.

His integrity of character and absolute sincerity of purpose made him respected by all who knew him.

In early life he identified himself with the church and was never absent from a service when health permitted. For many years he was an elder of Cooper United church, and for over twenty years teacher of the Bible Class there, occupying both positions until the time of his death.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing widow, the former Miss Jennie McNair, three sons, Lawrence of Port Lewis, Que.; Fred of Pontiac, Mich., and Earl of Cooper. Four daughters, Winnifred, of Hamilton; Minnie of Madoc; Mrs. J. Vowles, (Janet), of Peterborough, and Mrs. S. M. Thomson (Mabel) of Port Hope. One son, Hastwell, predeceased him in early life.

The service at Cooper United church was conducted by his pastor, the Rev. S. B. Smith, B.A. The hymns sung were "Rock of Ages," and "Abide With Me," both favorites of the deceased. The many floral offerings bore testimony to the esteem in which he was held in the community. He was laid to rest in Lakeview cemetery, Madoc.

Miss M. Sims Heads Choir At St. George's

The annual banquet of the choir of St. George's church was held in the banquet room of the Grand Hotel on Wednesday evening, thirty members and their friends sitting down to an enjoyable turkey dinner.

Rev. T. H. Floyd was chairman and urged continued support for the choir, remarking that after all the choir was the backbone of the church.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Hon. Pres.—Rev. T. H. Floyd.
President—Miss M. Sims.
Vice-President—Robert Harrison.
Secretary-treasurer—Mrs. Robert Pilling.
Librarian—W. Davies.
Social Convener — Miss Helen Crowe.
Robe Mistress—Mrs. W. G. Ray.
Sick and Visiting Committee — Mrs. J. M. McWilliams, Mrs. R. King.
Choir Leader—J. Branson.
Organist—Mrs. R. King.

Wardens Speak.

A. G. Knott, rector's warden, urged the choir to keep up their fine work and support the new rector. "St. George's choir," he said, "equals any in the deanery of Peterborough, for its size."

The people's warden, W. G. Ray, added his congratulations, stressing the fact that the choir was entirely self-supporting, financing its own music, the cost of robes and other expenses.

Mr. Siddall the retiring choir leader, expressed his thanks for the support given him and the new leader, J. Branson, paid a tribute to the manner in which Mr. Siddall had directed the choir during the past year. Concerts had been put on at Confederation School, May's School, and for St. David's Society, as well as the annual choir concert.

Mrs. King, organist, was thanked by Mr. Siddall for her splendid work. The oldest member, Mrs. Jack McWilliams, who has been connected with St. George's choir for twenty-four years and is still one of the most regular attendants, spoke briefly to tell of the pleasure she had experienced in her long association with the choir.

A vote of thanks was passed to Miss McMahon and her helpers for the excellent menu they had provided.

Watchnight Service Is Held In Apsley

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Jan. 5.—The Rev. F. McMulken held a midnight service on New Year's eve at the St. George Anglican church. In spite of the extremely cold night a good crowd turned out. A short service was enjoyed before the stroke of twelve, when a minute of silence was given for prayer for the New Year. The church bell which had always been rung at midnight was silent this year, as the frost and ice had stopped it ringing. This service has been carried on every year for over 20 years, being first started by the Rev. C. A. G. Spence at his first New Year in the parish.

Candle Lighting Service.

A pretty and impressive service was held after the usual evening service in the St. George Anglican church, when a candle lighting service was held and a religious play was given by the choir, "The New Year Spirits."

Personals.

Miss Margaret Hastings returned to Peterborough on Monday after spending the last ten days at her parents' home in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Skelcher and baby son spent the week-end at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Martin, in Lakefield.

Miss Lillian Smith was the guest of Miss Margaret Hastings for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tanner and sons Fred and Kenneth, and daughter Elsie were New Year guests of Mr. and Mrs. Trueman Vance, Chandos.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McColl were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Earnshaw on Sunday.

Miss Ethel Couch of Lakefield, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lean this week-end.

Because of the wheat shortage in Mexico in 1938 much cotton land in that country will be planted to wheat.

LOCAL ACES OPEN DISTRICT SCHEDULE WITH WIN OVER LINDSAY

Ease In Weather Cheers Soccer Fans

LONDON, Jan. 6 — (CP Cable).—Prospects of warmer weather to-day allayed fears that cancellation of some third-round English Football Cup matches scheduled for to-morrow might be found necessary. There were heavy snowfalls in some North of England and Scottish districts in mid-week.

Wintry conditions forced indoor training for the 64 teams that will battle for the famous trophy now held by Preston North-End.

British fans eagerly await the outcome of matches in which Runcorn, Chelmsford City, and Yeovil and Petters—possible giant-killers—are participating. In Runcorn, little Cheshire colliery town, excitement is at high pitch for the match against Preston even though the minor-leaguers have only an outside chance to draw.

The other junior clubs who shared the distinction of winning places in the third round which sees the entry of First and Second Division teams in the competition for the first time, also face tough opposition. Chelmsford is host to Southampton and Yeovil players travel from their West of England home to Yorkshire where they tackle Sheffield Wednesday.

McIntosh for McMahon.

Few managers have announced line-ups for the strenuous cup matches, but it is not likely that Douglas McMahon, Winnipeg-born player, will find a place in Wolverhampton's team against Bradford. Although the Canadian played a sound game at Blackpool a week ago it is thought Manager Buckley will call on the more experienced A. McIntosh who has recovered from tonsilitis.

Eric Brook, Manchester City's veteran left-winger and sharpshooter, has also recovered from a leg injury, and will play for the Mancunians at Norwich.

Biggest crowd of the day is expected at Stamford Bridge in London, where Chelsea opposes its neighbor and old rival, Arsenal. The high-priced Bryn Jones will play in the Gunners' attack after a week with the reserves, and present indications are that Chelsea's record "gate" of 82,905 will be passed.

Up in Scotland, they are beginning to look on Glasgow Rangers as a cinch for the league championship. Maximum points during the New Year's holidays gave the Light Blues a nine-point lead over Hearts at the top of the First Division.

Easy To Watch

Not the popular sport it was back in the hectic '20's, when it grabbed off a fair share of space on the sport pages, feminine speed skating is, nonetheless, still indulged in...and the competitors, among other things, maintain any high standards of beauty their predecessors may have set. As an example we give you Miss Helen Bahil, who hails from New York, seen as she participated in the winter's first big blade-flashing events, the middle Atlantic championships held at Newburgh, N.Y.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Mail man staggered in this morn with a particularly heavy mail for this department—two letters, both from across the line. A short note from Jimmy Ellis, local puckist now strutting his stuff with Mick Magee in a Florida loop, or citrus circuit. Jim says: "Just a line to say that Mick and myself have just returned from the Orange Bowl game. Of course you know that Tennessee won, 17 to 0. The game itself was only fair but the show put on by the bands, etc., was sure a sight that one will never forget. Am sending you a paper called Orange Bowl. Must rush as we have a game tonight. Remember us to all the boys. Jim." Okay, fellah, we'll pass along your regards to Little Harlem, the Ear, the Bowl and the others. We imagine Mick and Jim follow all local sports in The Examiner, which they get.

* * * * * *

Other missive came as a surprise from Frank Menke. Hadn't heard of him in over a year, Menke formerly having put out that valuable annual All-Sports Record Book. Gave it up as a financial flop. The N'Yawk writer, breezy as ever, says: "Hi, ya, Perdue—Col. Matt J. Winn has appointed me to handle publicity for the Kentucky Derby in its 65th running at Churchill Downs, Louisville, on May 6th. But it is not my intention to force you into buying more elaborate waste baskets by lathering you with a foam of rhetoric." He goes on to discuss the angles, instructions for attending the Darby, and hints at another hat contest like last year whereby the sports writer picking the winnah gets a new lid. No doubt we'll hear more of Menke.

Juniors Here Tonight

Don't forget that O.H.A. junior joust at 8.30 tonight in the Brock when our Colts open their home schedule 'gainst the bouncing boys of Bowmanville. Ought to be a sweet scrap with sustained speed and action. Bill Jackson has a powerful crew of youngsters and fans will soon get to know 'em by their class and actions on the ice. Likely lineup is: Goal, Cournyea; defence, Ward and King; centre, Parnell; wings, Williams and McDonald; subs, Wade, Baker, Craig, Stewart and Foster. Bowmanville lads are said to be strong, experienced puckists and they may drive the Colts out to pasture, but we like the locals' chances in this session. It rates a goodly gang of cash customers, and should be a worth-while battle.

School Hockey League has re-organized with six squads in, and they open their schedule tomorrow morning at All Saints' rink. Queen Mary plays Queen Alex at nine, Prince of Wales meets King George at 10, and King Edward tackles Central at 11 bells. Last-named team supplies the referee. Their schedule will wind up on Feb. 4th, with the top two teams then clashing in the playoff serial. Lots of good hockey training in this minor loop, and the kids take their tussles as seriously as N.H.L.-ers when it's money time.

And In Lakefield

Lindsay's O.H.A. intermediate "B" team, with Williamson and Brady of here aboard, plays tonight at 8.15 in Lakefield in a scheduled fray. Two bits and a dime for punks, and probably Jack Sabatino as referee. Lakefield Legionnaires, coached by Mucker Legros, will line up like this: Goal, Loyst or Junkin; defence, Whitton, L. Sabatino, Stabler and Mike O'Leary; forwards, Chittick, Jewell, Blewett, Deith, Burton, Chappel. In addition to O'Leary and Burton, another Peterborough player may be used. It wouldn't knock us out of the swivel chair in surprise if the larruping Lakefield lads made quite a dent in the hopes of rival outfits in their group, and puck fans here—who have seen all those gees in action on local ice at one time or another—will doubtless agree. They deserve support.

Local Aces lived up to their name last eve as they started their district schedule in Omemee with a 10-1 chortle over Lindsay. But let's be fair (as the brunette said to the hairdresser) and explain that the Scugog boys were minus three regulars and were in as poor condition for war as the Reichsbank. But they would have had to be tops to take the team Skipper Eddie Williams tossed over the Omemee boards before a fair crowd. Ice was heavy and the game just so-so, though the opener generally isn't anything to toss a rave over, anyway. Nice tidy first frame, and then the Aces began raking in the chips to the point of monotony. Supposed to be a tilt there Monday, Millbrook vs. Omemee, though it may be called off—owing to a counter attraction.

A Raft Of Contests

Church Puck Loop schedules are in tonight, and they have no less than 19 entries this winter, three seniors, four juniors, seven juveniles and five bantams. So they have to run off 10 games on four nights a week, or 58 tussles ere playoffs arrive. Last night's contests were rained out and will be staged on Monday evening. Quite a raft of our junior Colts, it has been pointed out, are graduates of this same Church Hockey League—a fine minor circuit here.

Basketball gets going officially here this week-end in two loops, but the Ladies' League at the Y.W. hasn't started yet, and the P.C.I. squads have another week to get ready. C.G.E. gals play an L.O.B.A. fracas tonight in Belleville, and the local Orfuns journey to Cobourg. Six Senior City Cage League outfits of bounce-'em boys open their schedule—which is listed in tonight's sheet—tomorrow eve at the Y.M.C.A. The C.G.E. gang plays Hecla at seven, Dominions meet St. Paul's at eight, and Quakers tackle St. John's at nine. By the way—though this isn't the cage game—the "Y" senior volleyball team is in a round-robin tourney in Toronto tomorrow, a return one being here Jan. 28th. These are the Peterborough players, coached by Doug Loomis, with Claude Elliott the manager: C. Cadd, D. Crawford, J. Gillespie, E. Vincent, A. Fitzgerald, P. King, K. Gadd, A. Rhodes, A. Dryland, S. Payne.

Outside Grouping Is Sought For Teams

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 6.—Juvenile, Bantam and Midget hockey teams although organized locally, have not yet joined any outside group for competition, according to Harold Dunk, local prompter of the sport among boys of public school age. It has already been suggested that the Juveniles should be grouped with Peterborough, Lakefield and Lindsay, but no schedule has yet been arranged. In the Bantam and Midget section a league with Stirling, Warkworth, Norwood and Havelock is being advocated since all of these places lie within a radius of 20 miles and will cut travel expenses to a minimum. Within the next week it is thought that some definite grouping will have been made.

When a train carrying cattle arrived at Pjedsted, Jutland, a car door was found open and a cow was missing, but the bossy ambled into the station unhurt hours later, having walked there without assistance.

64 Teams Meet In Third Round Of English Cup

LONDON, Jan. 6—(CP Cable) — Sixty-four teams battle in the third round of the English Cup Saturday. The round marks the entry in the famous soccer tournament of the 44 first and second division clubs, the remaining contestants being made up of 17 third division and three minor league survivors of earlier rounds.

Two matches stand out in the list of cup-ties. Derby County, league leader, meets Everton, its closest rival, for the third time this season, and Arsenal and Chelsea, famous London clubs, will oppose each other at Stamford Bridge.

There is an old saying that anything can happen in the cup and, although the County took three out of four points from Everton during the Christmas series in hard league games, there is no certainty the Midlanders will prove victorious at the week-end.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

Heavy hitting by Stan Adamson, Tom Cupoli, and Leonard Anthony featured last night's five-pin rolling at Duffus' Alleys. Adamson, spectacular C.G.E. pin spiller, walked out with the night's high three, 834, including a 345 single. Cupoli, bowling in the City League, picked an ideal spot to get in a 400 single, which is a new high for the season, his total of 808 was rolled for the Capitol Grill team against the K. of C., while Anthony had a big night when he knocked off 806. The Bankers had three heavy hitters—Parker of the Commerce with 660, Newby of the Bank of Montreal 626, Tugby of the Royal with 612. Weston's Bread had Moore with 601, while the C.G.E., besides Adamson's score, had McCrea with 611.

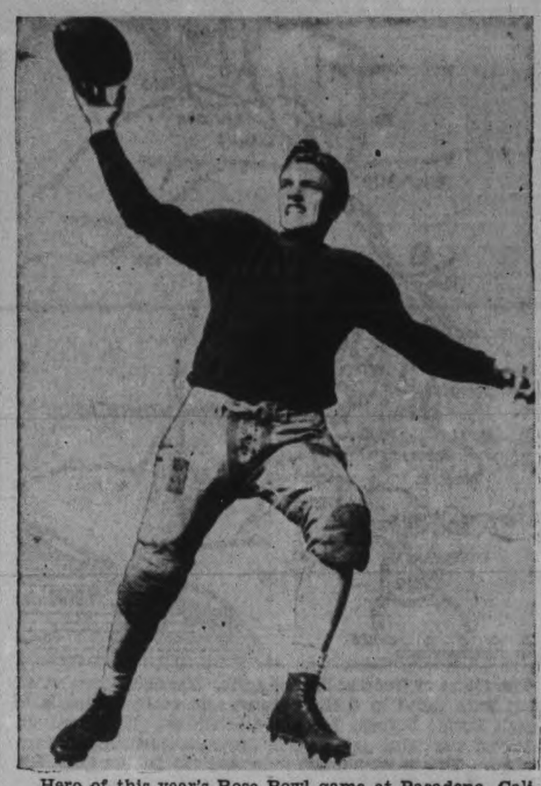
Renowned Harness Trio In Training

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 6.—(AP).—Three renowned champions are among the 125 or more horses being trained at the Seminole Driving Park, nine miles north of here, for the grand circuit harness racing season.

Greyhound came in last week from Indianapolis. He was accompanied by Sep Palin, noted trainer and driver who rode behind the big grey streak when the horse owned by E. J. Baker of St. Charles, Ill., broke his own mile trotting record last summer at Lexington, Ky.

The other two champions are Rosalind and Her Ladyship. Rosalind, 1936, Hambletonian winner, set a record for trotting mares at Lexington last summer, by clipping off a 1:56¾ mile. Her Ladyship came right along with a 1:56¾ effort to take the title of champion pacing mare.

Hero of Rose Bowl Game



Hero of this year's Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, California, where University of Southern California handed Duke its first defeat of the season, was Doyle Nave, ABOVE, substitute back, who went into the game in the last minute of play and fired four successive completed passes, the last one good for the touchdown that gave his team a 7-3 victory, and was the first score against the eastern representatives during the 1938 campaign that ended with the early 1939 game.

HOW TO SKI

By FRITZ LOOSLI
Instructor Toronto Ski Club

Ski Poles And Boots

Ski poles, considered years ago merely as a help for running on the level, have proven in the last few years to be a great asset in downhill running when used properly.

Often skiers are very particular when buying skis or bindings, but neglect entirely to choose a pole fitted for his type of skiing. For touring, a pole reaching halfway from the hip to the armpit will prove the best and most satisfactory. If you are mainly interested in downhill running, the poles should only be three or four inches higher than the hips; some downhill experts prefer their poles not higher than the hips.

Steel and Aluminum Used

When a ski pole is held in balance on the finger, the nearer the point of balance is to the snow ring, the more suited it will be for either touring or downhill running. To improve the balance of the pole, manufacturers are using steel and aluminum shafts rather than bamboo. Steel has the perference over aluminum because of its greater strength.

To bring the point of balance as low as possible, the steel pole has a tapered shape. Split bamboo, such as used in fishing rods, is preferred to steel by some experts, because of its greater flexibility.

Choose Boots Carefully

Ski boots are the most important part of the ski equipment. A boot should not only be well built to withstand the strain of the modern bindings, but it should also be warm and comfortable. These requirements make the ski boot almost the most expensive part of the equipment. For this reason good care should be given right at the start, even before being worn. When new, a boot should receive two or three applications of dubbin, until the upper feels soft. A shoe polish should be applied over the dubbin. Using shoe polish without the dubbin will harden the leather. If you have difficulty in applying the polish over the dubbin, rub the leather with beeswax after using the dubbin; the shoe polish will then readily adhere to the boot.

The majority of skiers are buying cable binding and will sooner or later use the downpull attachment which requires a ski boot with steel shank. There is nothing more disappointing for a skier than to have the boot buckle under the strain of a cable binding such as the Kandahar.

LowCut Boot Preferred

A low-cut boot is perferable, because it gives a greater freedom for forward lean. A boot too large will lose its shape and is difficult to handle in the bindings. A pair of ski boots should fit over one light and one heavy pair of socks and should lace close to the toe to hold the feet tightly. Some boots have the leather around the heel sloped forward so as to allow a forward lean and still holding the foot to the sole.

If boots have been worn in muddy weather, they may be washed with lukewarm water and soap and then rinsed with clear water; let dry for a few hours and apply dubbin when boot is still slightly damp.

The modern rage for speed has not left skiing behind, and more and more chances are taken by skiers to gain greater speed. This is well if you are properly equipped, but only a foolhardy skier will attempt to do the same with a poor equipment, not intented for such strain.

BURTON, England—(CP).—William Harrison, 23, football player for Burton Athletic, died in the dressing room after being injured on the field. The game was abandoned.

Gain 10-1 Nod At Omemee In First Fray

Peterborough Aces opened the District Hockey League in Omemee last night dwith a 10-1 decision over Lindsay, it being the first game of the schedule in this new circuit. Approximately a hundred fans witnessed a rather one-sided tussle on heavy ice.

Minus three of their regular players ,the Scugog squad proved no match for Eddie Williams' smart outfit and the last two frames saw the Aces rolling up the count. It was a nice scrap during the first period. Play was speedy in spots but slowed up in the heavy footing after a time, with plenty of bumping and 11 penalties drawn, the winners being guilty seven times. The weather tended to keep down the crowd.

Mark Is Good

Despite the count against him, Mark in the losers' cage turned in a good effort and robbed the Peterboroughs of several almost-sure goals. None of the other Lindsayites showed a great deal in this game, lack of condition as well as shortage of regulars being apparent in their work. Heal, Wright and Hill sparkled for the victors, with every one in the lineup looking good for so early in the schedule. Currie had little to do in the Aces' net. The winners flashed a lot of speed, fair passing sorties, hard shooting and some good checking efforts to earn the nod handily.

The teams:

Lindsay: Goal, Mark; defence, Begley and Balfour; centre, Growden; wings, Huston and Polito; alternates, R. Williams, P. Williams, C. Williams and Murtha.

Aces: Goal, Currie; defence, Vitarelli and O'Leary; centre, Cournyea; wings, Heal and Wright; alternates, Williams, Connelly, Hill and Mowry.

Referee, Lou LeBarr.

Summary:

First Period
Aces—Hill (Mowry) 6.30
Penalties—Vitarelli (2).
Second Period
Aces—Mowry (Connelly) ..... :15
Aces—Cournyea (Wright) 10.30
Acese Hill (Mowry) 14.00
Aces—Wright (Heal) 17.00
Penalties — Growden, O'Leary, Wright (2), P. Williams.
Third Period
Aces—Williams (Wright) 9.00
Aces—Hill 10.00
Lindsay—Huston 11.30

CANADIENS FAIL TO HOLD TWO GOAL MARGIN OVER RANGERS

Bruins Edge Out Black Hawks 2-1 While Rangers, Amerks Tie Canadiens And Red Wings

By Jack Calder
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

So long as Boston Bruins and the New York clubs, Rangers and Americans, go on exhibiting the ear-marks of great teams, it will be hard to convince hockey men they aren't the good things of the National League.

Running first, second and third in the league race, they gave further displays of what it takes last night. All three rallied to score with a few brief minutes to play, earning an extra point apiece and reducing the trailers' chances of catching up.

The first-place Bruins stepped into Chicago and defeated the Black Hawks 2-1 on Mel Hill's goal with 80 seconds to play in the third period. The second-place Rangers, trailing by two goals, came roaring up to earn a 2-2 overtime draw with the Canadiens at Montreal. The third-place Americans, after watching a long lead overcome, spurted to catch Detroit Red Wings 6-6 at New York. Tommy Anderson sent the game into overtime with five minutes to play.

Long Tough Grind

Each of the leaders had just come through a terrific stretch of work, in which games among themselves had left them reeling and injury-riddled.

Boston, still without Milt Schmidt and Bill Cowley, spoiled the debut of Paul Thompson and Carl Voss as co-coaches of the Black Hawks in succession to Bill Stewart, who got his walking papers this week from owner Major Frederic McLaughlin. The Hawks were primed for the encounter and battled back gamely to level the score with just seven minutes to play.

Porky Dumart, aided by a fellow-citizen from Kitchener, Ont., Bobby Bauer, gave the bruising Bruins their first-period lead. Then the big Boston defence built its usual wall around Goalie Frank Brimsek. It didn't yield until Joffre Desilets, the former Canadien who is having his best big-league season, converted a relay from Coach Thompson and Jack Shill. It was the first Hawk goal on Boston this year, in 173 minutes all-told.

Hill was unassisted in the winning goal, lifting his team five points ahead of Rangers as Hawks recorded their fourth loss in five starts.

Another Tight Battle

Canadiens, after dropping three straight games to Rangers, seemed to have the Blueshirts on the run at last on George Mantha's goal in the first period and Jimmy Ward's first of the season early in the third. But Rangers got to young Claude Bourque, in goal because of Wilf Cude's influenza, with five minutes of the period gone. Clint Smith was the marksman and another of Rangers' youngsters, Dutch Hiller, got the tying goal with nine minutes to play.

Muzz Patrick of Rangers and Stew Evans of the Habintants drew 10-minute misconduct penalties for fighting near the period's close. Babe Siebert averted a New York goal in overtime by sliding into the net when Cec Dillon had drawn Bourque out.

It was a field night at Madison Square Garden for Americans' contenders for the league scoring leadership. Sweeney Schriner drew to within two points of the top man, Johnny Gottselig of Chicago, by bagging four assists, including one on Anderson's game-saving goal.

Art Jackson, Lorne Carr, Leroy Goldsworthy and Joe Jerwa gave the home side a 4-0 lead early in the second and after Jack Keating scored for Detroit Johnny Sorrell made the margin 5-1.

The wings fought back to bag five straight goals, the first and last by Rookie Gus Giesbrecht and the others by Syd Howe, Charlie Conacher and Marty Barry. With four players out through injuries and two gruelling Boston games behind them, the Americans had something left—Schriner's goal and a stout defence in overtime.

Remember When—

Black-haired Fred Perry, three-times winner of the All-England tennis championship and backbone of the all-conquering British Davis Cup team the previous four years, made his professional debut at New York two years ago today. He whipped Ellsworth Vines, regarded as the best professional in the world, in four sets.

Ferrell Is Ready To Go Places With The Yanks

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 6.—(AP).—Wes Ferrell, temperamental right-hander, still a little peeved because of his unconditional release from Washington Senators last mid-season, let it be known to-day that 1939 will see him out in front for New York Yankees, who took him on.

Ferrell joined this baseball players' winter colony last night. He said a recent operation to an ailing elbow was entirely successful, and predicted he will be a regular starting moundsman with the world champions this summer.

"For the first time in six years I can use my normal wind-up by swinging my arms over my head," said Wes. "For the past couple of years I've been obliged to wind up by pulling my arm in front of my chest. Naturally that cramped my style."

Although he admitted he didn't do so bad financially last year, he is still bitter at Clark Griffith for releasing him from the Senators. Wes got a cut out of the world series cash when he joined the Yanks.

"If Grffith had told me he wanted to get rid of me," Ferrell said, "I'd have been glad to pay him the waiver price of $7,500 for my release. Instead he gave me an unconditional release and made it appear I was washed up. I'm only 30 years old and I know I'm not through. Last year I won 15 games and lost 10, spending most of the season with a sixth place club."

German trade is reported to be decreasing in Guatemala.

Veteran Champ

Junior Contest Here Tonight

Faced by their first O.H.A. junior scheduled home game here tonight (Friday), the local Colts have been shaken down into the probable 1939 lineup to meet Bowmanville at 8.30 in the Brock St. rink Following their 8-4 reverse in a benefit exhibition at the hands of St. Mike's here on Wednesday, several of the big squad of local juniors were dropped and the rest drilled hard for the Friday scrap. Coach Bill Jacksn has a husky, promising outfit and the big Bowmanville boys will have to hustle plenty to slip the Colts a defeat. However, it promises to be a redhot, lively fixture with the usual junior continuous dash and bumping ferocity in spots. The game rates a good-sized turnout of fans.

Jackson expects to use just three defencemen in this tussle, but may ring in another in time for hostilities. He has two goalies, Cournyea and Baker, the latter a sub-goalie from Norwood. Ward, King and Wade will be on defence, the latter being a nifty rushing defender. The first forward line will have Parnell flanked by Williams and McDonald; while the second line will see Craig between Stewart and Foster. This team should go places in junior "B" hockey this winter, and fans can bank on plenty of action when they collide with the bouncing Bowmanville boys.

Tweed Whipped By Trenton In 8-2 Tangle

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 6.— Tweed Blues suffered their second defeat of the season on Thursday night at the loca larea when they were downed by the Trenton Couriers by the score of 8 to 2.

The first period opened with Tweed counting the first goal, with Meraw sinking a pass from Meraw, when the Couriers were short handed, Kerr having received a penalty for dumping Tummon. However the Couriers came back to tie the score when Lemorre sunk the puck behind Thompson.

In the second period the Couriers added two more counters with Kerr sinking the first of the period on a solo play through the whole lineup, and Lemorre tallying the third Trenton counter of the game.

In the last frame Trenton opened up and tallied five counters for one for the home forces. Johnson tallied the first counter of the period, with Lott scoring twice, and Hood, Kerr and Lamorre added the other counters. Tweed scored their second goal of the game when Courneyea took Tummon's pass to beat Steenburg.

The game was well played with both teams showing good combination, but the heavier Couriers were too much for the light Blue team. Both goalies put up a good display of net minding, especially Steenburg as the Tweed players were in on him on several occasions and threatened to increase the score.

Courneyea was taken out in the first period when he received a gashed knee, but returned to the game in the last frame. Lamorre and Lott with two goals for Trenton were the standouts for the visitors, with Thompson in the Tweed nets and Provost and Baldy Leal the best for the home forces.

Teams:

Trenton — Goal, Steenburg; defence, Kerr, Lemoire; right wing, Johnson; centre, Hood; left wing, Lott; subs, Anderson, Ellis, Sager, Wannamaker, Lamorre.

Sumarym:

1st Period—
1. Tweed .....Meraw, W. Leal
2. Trenton ..... Lamorre
Penalties—Kerr.

2nd Period—
3. Trenton ..... Kerr
4. Trenton ..... Lamorre
Penalties—Nil.

3rd Period—
5. Trenton ..... Johnson
6. Trenton ..... Hood, Johnson
7. Trenton ..... Kerr
8. Trenton ..... Lott
9. Tweed .... Courneyea, Tummon
10. Trenton ..... Lamorre
Penalties—Tummon, H. Leal.
Referees—G. Geraldi, O'Mally.

Vines Cuts Loose To Smash Budge

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Back in the form that made him one of the game's outstanding amateurs a few years back, Ellsworth Vines smashed through to a convincing straight set victory over Don Budge in the third match of their professional tennis tour.

Unable to win a set from the lanky California redhead in matches at New York and Boston, Vines dazzled a crowd of 7,000 at Convention Hall last night as he won, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

Mr. Perry Golfs

The pro tennis game seems to have some kind of tie-up with golf the way the stars take to both at the same time. Ellsworth Vines, leading pro, is merely waiting for the time he finds himself on the down grade on the courts to devote his time to the links, and above, we have Fred Perry, former mainstay of the English Davis Cup team, and during the past two years sidekick of Vines on the touring pro organization, seen as he warmed up for one of the mid-winter tourneys in the south.

Brimsek Slides Out To Foil Rangers' Clint Smith

It what practically amounted to a slump for him, Frankie Brimsek, sensational rookie goalie with Boston Bruins, let all of two goals past him in the game in which this bit of action was snapped, and as his teammates could get but a single counter, Lester Patrick's Rangers defeated the league-leading Bruins, 2-1. However when the shutter clicked here Fearless Frankie was pulling off a great stop from the stick of Ranger centre Clint Smith, as he slid out of his goal to smother the scoring effort after Clint had broken through into the clear.

Mic-Macs Paste Campbellford In 7-3 Victory

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Jan. 6.—The Madoc-Marmora Mic-Macs stepped into first place in the Trent Valley League by defeating Campbellford by a score of 7-3. The first game resulted in a victory over Tweed on Monday night.

Due to the condition of the ice, the game at times developed into shinny and tempers were running high throughout.

Campbellford drew blood in the first few minutes of the game, scoring from a scramble. About a minute later Blake took a pass at the Madoc defence and coasted in without interference to chalk up the second count for Campbellford. Leonard scored on a pass from Lawless, bringing Madoc onto the score sheet.

Two penalties went to Campbellford in succession both for tripping —D. Free and F. Free. On a shot from the Madoc blue line, Campbellford again counted, the goal being disputed, but allowed, the claim being the goalie's feet were behind the goal line when he stopped it.

D. Couch of Campbellford was penalized from tripping and given a ten-minute misconduct penalty for abusive language to Referee Hogan. Period ended 3-1 for Campbellford.

For the first part of the second period the play was fast and open. Akey picked up a loose puck from the Campbellford defence and drove in to count for Madoc. Alexander tied the score on a pass from Heyworth. Penalties went to Hailstone and Phillips for mixing it. Play slowed up as the going became tough. Heyworth was chased for tripping. O'Neill and F. Free came out of a scramble and squared off but were sent to the cooler before any damage was done.

At the close of the period Loveless put Madoc one up, assisted by Reynolds and Leonard on a beautiful combination play. Period ended 4-3 for Madoc.

In the third period Leonard counted on a passout from behind the Campbellford net.

O'Neill scored on Akey's rebound. A penalty went to Blake for tripping. In the closing moments of the game, with both teams tired out from the heavy work, Alexander counted on a pass from O'Neill.

Final score.—Madoc 7, Campbellford 3.

Marmora's classy contribution to the team, the front line of Loveless, Leonard and Reynolds, worked beautifully throughout the game. Phillips and Aitkins went best for the visitors.

Referees.—Hogan, Campbellford; Watson, Madoc.

Line-up:

Campbellford. — Turner, goal; Wilkes, D. Couch, defence; Phillips, centre; Blake, Aitkins, wings. Alternates: C. Couch, D. Free, F. Free.

Mic-Macs.—Hollingsworth, goal; C. O'Neill, Hailstone, defence; Alexander, centre; Heyworth, Akey, wings. Alternates: Leonard, Loveles, Reynolds, Curry, Armstrong.

Calves Ease 50, Hogs 65 On Week's Sales

TORONTO, Jan. 6.—(CP)—Cows and bulls gained 15 to 25 cents on Toronto Livestock Market this week with other killing cattle steady, the Dominion Livestock Branch reported. Calves dropped 50 cents to $1 cwt. after a steady opening. Hogs lost 65 cents. Lambs were unevenly steady and sheep firm.

The cattle run was light at the opening but heavy truck deliveries swelled the total to around 5,500 head by the close. Weighty steers sold at $6-$7.25 with a few choice heavies at $7.50. Good butcher steers and heifers traded at $6.35-$6.65 with a few tops at $6.75. Common butchers ranged down to $5 cwt.

Butcher cows brought $3.25-$4.85 with some light cows at $5. Canners and cutters were mostly $2.50-$3. Good bulls made $4.50-$5.10, bolognas $4-$4.50. Good to choice fed calves moved at ..$8-$9.25 with mediums downward to $7 cwt.

The few stockers offered went from $4.50-$5.50 cwt. Milkers and springers had better action with prices stronger at around $80 for tested tops. Lowering of the tariff drew a good many Ontario cattle to Buffalo. Returns to the shippers were estimated to be somewhat higher than could have been obtained at the Toronto market.

No Export Orders.

Choice veal calves opened at $10-$10.75. But the market fell off as orders for export failed to appear. The close was weak at $9-$9.50. For choice with bulk of sales from $9 downward. A few grass calves were steady at $4.50 cwt.

Hogs opened steady at $10-$10.15 off trucks for bacons but took a sharp drop to a general $9.50. Sows were sold at $6.75-$7 cwt. off trucks. Due to the presence of many overfinished hogs in the supply, discounts on butchers were increased to $2 per head. The discount on heavy hogs was raised to $3 per head with extra heavies quoted at a discount of $2 cwt.

Lambs from Ontario points sold at $9-$9.25 for good quality with some at $9.50. Three cars of medium to good western lambs traded at $9-$9.40 cwt. Heavies and bucks brought $1 cwt. discount and culls ranged from $6-$7 cwt. Sheep were mostly $2-$4.50 cwt. with some good light western ewes at $5.

Want Danzig and Nemel.

Along the Baltic—and this also was reported to have been discussed yesterday—the Nazis want Danzig and Nemel returned immediately and their influence in Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia firmly recognized.

The possibility of tri-partite German, Polish and Lithuanian conversations in the near future possibly was discussed by Hitler and Beck.

Nazi quarters have expressed impatience that Lithuania has not already handed back Nemel, and the Lithuanian government recently made several concessions to German residents of Nemel.

Poland's concern is with Nazi intentions in the Baltic and the Ukraine. She is less interested in Southern Europe, where Nazi influence is being exerted through trade and political prestige.

Hitler was said in informed quarters to have asked Beck what Poland, as an ally of France, would do in case France and Italy became seriously involved in the Mediterranean area.

What Beck replied was not ascertained. That the question was put indicated to observers, however, that Hitler wanted to know how closely Poland felt herself allied to France in the new European set-up, either as a guide should Poland turn against him or to determine how far he would support Italian demands on France for an African colonial adjustment.

Officers Elected By Mission Band

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 4.—The annual meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Association was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Gordenier, the chief business being the election of officers.

The slate: President, Mrs. W. J. Pack; vice president, Mrs. H. R. Haacke; recording secretary, Mrs. H. W. Sabine; financial secretary, Mrs. F. Sweet; treasurer, Mrs. F. R. Wells; visiting and sick committee, Mesdames A. H. Connor, W. A. Sanderson, C. Hamilton, W. Grant, H. O. Loveless, G. O'Neill and Miss M. Brown; parsonage committee, Mesdames E. C. Prentice, E. Gray, E. J. Gale, H. O. Loveless; kitchen committee, Mesdames J. Gordenier, W. E. Gould and Miss M. Brown; auditors, Mesdames E. Gray and E. J. Gale.

Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth presided for the election. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Caught In The Act

GUELPH, Ont., Jan. 6—(CP). — Caught in the Guelph Tire Hospital, MacDonnell Street, one minute after a call was received at the police station, two Guelph youths pleaded guilty in police court today to charges of breaking and entering and were remanded one week for sentence.

Police officers, out on another call in the radio car, received word from th police station that windows had been heard breaking at the Tire Hospital. They drove immediately to the scene, entered the building, and found John Crawford, 19, and Blake Swift, 17, hiding under a bench.

9-Cent Gas Tax

declared the commission had attacked the problem of wages and hours "boldly" and had "given us some actual decision which the Legislature can consider at its next session."

The Commission reviewed extensively highway building since 1903, considering the relation of highway revenues to net expenditures in view of the fact Ontario's highway debt is not earmarked as such. In the more intensive building period from 1919 to now, the highways debt was estimated at $212,691,010. Total expenditure since 1903, including maintenance and administration, was set at $394,315,397.

The government was advised to assume, besides responsibility for King's highways and Provincial secondary roads, in proportion to the jurisdiction exercised, cost of construction and maintenance of connecting links through cities and separated towns, non-separated towns and villages. Subsidies still would be granted to townships and counties toward cost of road-building and maintenance, extending the principle to urban municipalities.

Trucks Boost Cost 7 Per Cent.

Setting out its extensive classification list for haulage vehicles, the report declared cost of construction and maintenance of highways was increased by approximately seven per cent by reason of the presence of vehicles heavier and wider than ordinary passenger cars and light trucks. It was suggested heavier vehicles be taxed accordingly.

In dealing with the transport industry directly, the commission declared itself convinced "supervision of the standards of equipment, service, hours, conditions of labor and details of operating methods has become a duty devolving upon the public authority "and therefore urged set-up of a three man commission under conditions such "that the members of it can act with independence and security."

The commission recommended that "the basic day for drivers be considered 10 hours with an allowable 12 hours on any one day, making allowance for peaks in the fruit and canning season and other possible exigencies "the commission believes that the usual prescribed working hours might be exceeded by 20 per cent for periods totalling not more than three weeks in any one year."

An eight-hour day in a spread of 12 hours was recommended for city drivers and warehousemen.

With allowance for a reduction of 10 per cent in the cases of drivers residing in low-cost areas, the report called for "an hourly rate such as to yield not less than $24 to highway drivers for a week of 60 hours, and not less than $20 to pick-up and delivery drivers."

40-Foot Motor Trains.

Establishment within three years of a limit of 40 feet, against the present 50 feet, on length of motor trains or assemblages, was urged along with the notation: "The operation of double hook-ups should not be permitted at times when the roads are known to be slippery." But reduction in the maximum width of vehicles now established would not be practicable, it was believed.

Nor would it be practicable, the commission said, "to debar motor transport vehicles from the use of highways on Saturday afternoons and evenings."

While the commission found general agreement on the subject of fixed rates among operators, "nevertheless the evidence definitely showed that the principal source of the drastic competition that has disorganized the motor transport business is the competition between the motor transport operators themselves," rather than competition with railways.

From long study and analysis of fares, it was found that motor bus fares "have been set to be equal to, or less than, rail fares between the same terminals, irrespective of distance or the rate per mile necessary to accomplish such."

When a cobra slipped over the threshold of a saloon in Dundee, South Africa, many customers thought they had had too much, and the bartender had to kill the reptile intruder to allay their fears.

Daladier Tours Tunisian Forts

SFAX, Tunisia, Jan. 6—(CP). — Premier Edouard Daladier today turned the spotlight on Tunisia's strong coastal fortifications against an attack by sea with a call at Sfax, a seaport on the edge of the Tunisian desert.

The premier and his party halted their rail journey north from the inland defence line to see how the French navy can guard Tunisia's flank against sea attack.

The Caid of Sfax, representing the Bey of Tunis, presented the French Premier with an olive branch as a symbol of Tunisia's desire for union and peace."

Daladier replied that "union with Tunisia" is a main part of French defence plans. Cries of "vive Daladier!" from thousands of natives almost drowned out his words.

The visit to Sfax followed Daladier's inspection of the eastern fortiifcation which he described as a journey "from blockhouse to blockhouse, along the fortified line that military genius has been able to erect for the defence of our Tunision frontiers."

"You have been able to judge the loyalty of all the people to France," the Premier said to newspapermen. "It is a stimulating impression I counted upon it but I did not expect so much enthusiasm"

Sfax is one of the best examples of French colonization in North Africa. Formerly a collection of mud huts surrounded by an 11th century wall and with a shallow harbor unsuited for navigation, it has been converted into one of the busiest ports in Eastern Tunisia and its desert soil has been changed into a tropical garden extending 40 miles inland.

Large quantities of phosphates from the Gafsa mines, olive oil, wool and grains now are shipped annually from the excellent harbor which has been dredged out of sandy wasteland and the palm-lined streets and modern homes form a striking contrast to the ancient wall and mosque.

Premier Ousted

Former Premier Wang Ching-Wei, pictured, who, according to reports was expelled from the Kuomintang and also dismissed from all his party and government positions at a special meeting of the central executive committee of the Kuomintang held at Chungking with General Chiang Kai-Shek presiding. Reasons for Wang's expulsion were given for "deserting his post and suing for peace with Japan in contradiction to national policy."

SKATING RUINED

Yesterday's mild spell turned the eight free rinks into miniature lakes with more than two inches of water on some of the surfaces. Pools of water were noticeable through the snow on the Trent Canal and on the lower stretches of the lake and behind Engleburn avenue on the Otonabee.

SIDEWALKS CLEANED.

With Sergt. John Thompson and Officer Leo Murphy acting as official "slave drivers" downtown sidewalks were carefully cleaned of slow and slush during the last two days. Police got after the property owners who had neglected the formality of cleaning the sidewalks in front of their property and as a result snow shovels have been busy.

YOUNGEST MEMBER

G. Wilson Craw, the only new member of the Board of Education on this year's slate was formally welcomed by the members last night. He is the youngest member on the present board and enjoys the distinction of serving on a Board of Education in the same school where he received his early education.

SHE WANTED TO SEE IT.

Chief Constable Newhall had an unusual visitor with an unusual request this morning when a winsome little miss of some five summers and winters strolled demurely into his office at the police station and asked "Can I see Archie's new baby?" The small visitor had evidently overheard her elders talking about the gift left by the stork with Traffic Officer and Mrs. Archie Menzies.

ONLY ONE COUNTY MEMBER.

G. H. Thompson, school board secretary advised the members of the board last night that a recent amendment had been made to the High School Act which permitted the county to name only one representative on the school board. George Patton was the county member present last night, and at the conclusion of the meeting expressed his thanks for the consideration he has received from the board members in the past five years.

AN INTERESTING SOUVENIR.

Bob Hendry produced an envelope this morning that contained a card inviting him to a Memorial Service in honor of the late Queen Victoria on Feb. 2nd, 1901 in the Royal Burgh of Ruthergien, Scotland. The souvenir has been with him since that time. Rutherglen, four miles from Glasgow, is his home town and on the day Queen Victoria was buried, memorial services were held throughout all parts of the British Isles.

HOMELESS PIGEONS

Roland Denne and Charles Schooley have been feeding the flock of pigeons which a year ago were the friends of the late "Mick" Hickey, who had a tailor shop on Water street. The pigeons have for years been roosting in the old Royal Theatre, entering through a ventilator, and now will be forced to find new quarters because the theatre is being renovated. They will probably join the 200 or more pigeons which winter in and around the old cereal mill.

SUNG CAROLS

Among the special treats enjoyed by the patients and nurses of Nicholls Hospital each year on Christmas Eve are the carols sung by Fred Mann and his Boys' Choir of St. John's Church, and on Christmas Day the music of the Salvation Army Band. The boys' voices through the hospital corridors and the music of the band on the frosty air seems to bring the spirit of Christmas, even to those most ill.

RELIEF COMMITTEE MEETING

The relief committee, one of the major liabilities of the city council and composed of all its members, is meeting tonight, partly for the purpose of surveying a report for 1938. Alderman Dutton, chairman, hinted the other night that a deficit is likely to be shown, largely resulting from the council's expectations a year ago that employment was increasing and that the relief requirements were declining. By spring, however, it was apparent that industry was slowing down, and subsequent conditions aggravated the local experience.

NO. 7 HIGHWAY MEETING

The first quarterly meeting of the Number 7 Highway Association will be held at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, on Wednesday, January 18, at 10 a.m. This association was formed during the latter part of 1938, and seemingly has some phases in conflict with the objectives of the Central Ontario Highway Association which was established in the Peterborough-Port Perry-Newmarket area. Mayor T. E. Henry of Stratford is president of the No. 7 association whose announcement mentions a publicity campaign to increase tourist business from the United States over the No. 7 route. It is unlikely that Peterborough will be represented at this meeting.

OFFICER IS ILL.

Provincial Constable David Silvester who had been confined to his home by illness all week is considerably improved to-day, but will be unable to attend to his official duties for some days yet.

CASES ADJOURNED.

Bad road conditions to-day compelled Magistrate O. A. Langley to postpone his usual Friday visit to Campbellford and as a result cases scheduled for police court there this afternoon had to be adjourned.

DONATED 6 THERMOS SETS

Among the gifts received by Nicholls Hospital during the Christmas season were six thermos sets, jug and tray. Thanks are again due to the Otonabee Chapter of the I.O.D.E. who last year donated fourteen of these very useful sets.

GET RID OF YOUR TREE.

Now that the festive season is above over, get rid of your tree with all haste, is the warning given today by Fire Chief George Gimblett. "The trees are now dried out and are a great fire hazard," he said. "Don't store them away in cellars or sheds. Put them outside for the garbage collector to take away."

A HAZARD.

On one of the buildings on the south side of Charlotte street a piece of rusted eave troughing was noticed this morning hanging suspended by a narrow strap of metal. The trough is about eight feet long and a strong gust of wind would probably send it hurtling to the street below and endanger persons passing by.

SLOPPY COLLARS.

Many of the main streeters who pride themselves on being well dressed were observed today with collars that were either crumpled or had the ears standing out at rakish angles. This condition can be readily corrected if the men will purchase what is known as a "spiffy", a cheap and simple little wire gadget that is a boon to men who pride themselves on looking neat.

Missions Is Theme Of Prayer Service

Following the theme of "Missions", the third evening service of the Week of Prayer Service was held Thursday night in Murray Street Baptist Church. The speaker for the evening, Rev. Roy Rickard of Colbourne was introduced to the audience by Rev. V. E. Zufelt. Mr. Rickard was probably well known to many of the congregation through his work with young people and camps, said Mr. Zufelt.

Taking his text from the 38th verse of the 18th Chapter of St. Matthew, "The field is the world", the speaker said. "These are perhaps some of the most daring and astonishing words uttered by Jesus, when we consider the amount of known land in those days, inferring also that the Gospel needed the world for its expansion, as well as the world's need for the gospel."

"We are a product of those who believed. We are a product of missionaries. Tracing through the history of the church, with its apparent world Christianization at times, it almost seemed that a new challenge was necessary for its survival. And even now, how similar Christian work is all over the world.

Recalling the work of his classmate Sir Frederick Banting, and his discovery of insulin. Insulin and its healing properties belongs to the world, religion by its very nature must be shared with the world. The story of the Good Samaritan and the Prodigal Son are designed with universal appeal. If our religion is to be worthy of uniting the world, then it cannot be done by secularization," concluded Mr. Rickard, paying tribute to the wonderful fellowship which is embodied in these services.

Assisting in the service were Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, Rev. J. Douglas Patterson and Rev. F. W. Craik.

John Marshall Elected Head School Board

John R. Marshall, member of the Board of Education for eight years was elected chairman for the 1939 term, at the inaugural meeting Thursday night, when the new members took the usual declaration of office.

The business agenda was light and the main item was the naming of the various committees. A committee consisting of Mrs. W. R. Morris, Dr. G. R. Scott, V. J. McElderry, K.C., D. G. Melton and W. A. Richardson was appointed to strike the standing committees and the personnel of the various groups is as follows:—

Finance committee—Dr. Chas. M. Scott, chairman; G. W. Craw, V. J. McElderry, K.C., and Dr. A. Moir.

Property committee—H. G. Walker, chairman; G. W. Craw, D. G. H. Melton, W. A. Richardson, Dr. C. M. Scott and the county representative.

Supervision committee—D. G. H. Melton, chairman; Dr. A. Moir, Dr. G. R. Scott, Mrs. W. R. Morris and V. J. McElderry.

Vocational and Advisory committee—J. R. Marshall, V. J. McElderry, Mrs. W. R. Morris, W. A. Richardson, Dr. G. R. Scott, from the board. G. A. Gillespie, Alderman James Dutton, George Hewitt, Ian McRae, Charles Westbrooke and George Carter. A chairman will be chosen at the first committee meeting.

Committee on appointments — The entire board.

Purchase Of Equipment

A letter from Dr. H. R. H. Kenner asking that the sum of $800 be included in the estimates this year to purchase science equipment, art supplies and for the library. This is $150 less than the amount asked in 1938. It was approved.

Another request which dealt with gymnasium equipment including new mats, backboards and hoops for the basketball court and bars was referred to the property committee for investigation.

The board decided that $125 would be set aside as a salary for Mrs. Evelyn Foster who plays the piano for both commercial and academic classes in the gymnasium during the physical training periods. Mr. Craw asked why such expenditure was necessary and was told that there were not sufficient pupils to be had in the school who could play. He expressed the hope that now with a music instructor soon pupils would be available to fill this position.

The board decided to allow the Orfuns basketball team, a C.G.E. team and another from the Y.W.C.A. the use of the P.C.I. gymnasium while alterations are being made to the Y.W.C.A. building. It was explained at the meeting that Miss Caroline Littlefield had given the Board her assurance that the games would be properly supervised, and it was also stated that a similar courtesy had been extended the school by the Y.W.C.A. official when the school was being built. The trustees in the agreement refused to allow the charging of an admission fee.

Mrs. W. R. Morris and D. H. G. Melton moved that the sum of $750 be included in the estimates to provide supplementary reading as required under the new curriculum.

OBITUARY

MRS. MATTHEW EMMERSON.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 6. — The funeral of Mrs. Matthew Emmerson took place from the family residence in the 8th Concession of the Township of Thurlow, on Wednesday afternoon. Service in the home and at the graveside in Victoria Cemetery, was conducted by the Rev. J. F. Everson.

The bearers were Messrs. Fred Gray, Frank Hudgins, Herman Hudgins, Clarence Marshall, William Sills, and Harry Tummon.

JOHN DOWNARD.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 6.—Amid manifestations of deepest respect the funeral of the late John Downard was held on Thursday afternoon, the cortege leaving his late residence for service in St. Paul's church at 2.0 p.m. Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell officiated, assisted by W. J. Cottrell, lay reader. The church was filled to overflowing with mourners and sympathizing friends.

Rural Dean Caldwell's comforting liscourse was based on 1 Cor., 15:58, "Your Labour is Not in Vain in the Lord."

The pallbearers were chiefly near neighbors of the late Mr. Downard, namely: James Jones, Charles Jones, James McAvoy, John Bell, John Finnegan and Wellington Billings.

The remains were laid to rest in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

GLASGOW—(CP).—A barrister stated in a case in Sheriff's Court here that in their efforts to imitate Scotch whiskey Japanese distillers went to the length of naming a Japanese town and its spirit product "Aberdeen."

Duce Studies Proposal Of Jews For Ethiopia

ROME, Jan. 6.—(AP).— Trustworthy sources said to-day that Premier Mussolini was studying a proposal advanced by the United States for settlement of some Jewish refugees in Ethiopia.

They indicated Jewish colonization of some regions of Italian East Africa was among proposals in a memorandum from President Roosevelt which Ambassador Wm. Phillips delivered to Premier Mussolini last Tuesday.

Mussolini, they said, showed an "encouraging attitude."

The Fascist Grand Council already has provided a way for this, having announced on Oct. 7 that anti-semitic restrictions "did not exclude the possibility of conceding controlled immigration of Jews into some zone of Ethiopia, even deflecting such emigrations from Palestine.

Foreign Jews in Italy, many of them refugees from Austria after the German annexation, have little more than two months to leave the country under the decree expelling them by March 12.

Dewan Favors Control Farm Products

PORT HOPE, Ont., Jan. 6.—(CP) —Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Agriculture Minister, today said that controlled production of certain farm commodities must be attained if marketing conditions are to be bettered

Speaking here before the Northumberland and Durham Apple Growers' Association at their annual convention luncheon Mr. Dewan said: "We will have to restrict production of commodities we cannot readily dispose of and increase production of articles for which we can find markets.

In the latter category he cited live stock and cheese.

"I am certainly not anxious to see this done by legislative control, but I believe it will have to be done," he said. "I feel it should be largely accomplished by educational methods.

"In these days of surpluses in farm production, there must be a relentless effort to maintain quality. Commodities must be honestly prepared and packed for market. Grades have to be relied on, or they have no value with the purchaser."

Mr. Dewan said he had learned with approval of plans to raise funds within the apple industry to promote and advertise apples. It was in accord with the principle he had always advocated that farmers should help themselves and not rely too much on government aid. Agriculture, he stated, was largely finding its own way while industry and labor had been bolstered by tariffs and legislation.

Mr. Dewan said there were 10,000 acres of bearing orchard in Northumberland, Durham and Prince Edward counties—half the entire acreage of British Columbia orchards. He said that 151,000 bushels of apples had been inspected at the Napanee highway inspection station from October 3 last, when it was opened, to December 24. In all some 1,062 truck loads had been examined. There had been 46 detentions.

The agriculture minister paid tribute to Morley Webster, fruit branch fliield man, for the work he was doing among district orchardists.

Officers Elected By Marmora W.A.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CENTRETON, Jan. 6.—The King's Own Mission Band held their monthly meeting in the hall on Saturday afternoon with a large attendance. Memory work was recited and the following officers were elected:

Superintendent, Mrs. F. Birney; president, Bessie Ivatt; vice-president, Merle Blogett; secretary, Mabel McKenzie; treasurer, Clarence Birney; World's Friend secretary, Clara Coffey.

Rev. H. W. W. Bromwich then took charge of the installation service. The program committee for February is Edward Walton, Vernon MacGregor and Clarence Birney.

Audry Prettie gave a reading, Clara Coffey and Elnora Hope sang a duet; Mainie Newton gave a reading and the lesson story was given by Mrs. Birney. It was decided to bring Christmas cards for the bale. A social time was then enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Abusing His Horse Gets Driver Fined

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 6. — In local Police Court held before Magistrate Lloyd of Northbrook, in the Township Hall, Tweed, on Thursday afternoon, two cases were disposed of.

John Martin of Thomasburg appeared, charged with causing a horse in his charge, to be worked in an unfit condition. The accused was found guilty, and fined $5.00, and costs of $20.40, with a month to pay, or 15 days in the County Gaol.

Driver Fined,

W. Thompson of Crookston appeared, charged with driving into the rear of a cake company truck, damaging the rear light and bumper. As a result of the charge, Thompson was assessed $27.75, with one mont hto pay the fine, or will face a sentence of 25 days. His driver's licence was suspended for five days.

Snowmobile Finds Going Good On Out Trip But Rain Starts And Highways Become Bare

King Winter had the last laugh yesterday when man with his modern inventions attempted to get the best of the old fellow.

In the morning the Duffus Snowmobile loaded with mail editions of the Examiner set out to buck the drifted side roads in the county and was successful in getting the papers through after the usual motor truck had failed.

The driver Cecil Fowler finished his rounds at Bewdley and started towards Peterborough late yesterday afternoon. During the afternoon it had rained and when he came to Bewdley the highway was bare of snow and the snow-mobile was behind the eight ball so to speak, and unable to travel on the bare highway.

The snow-mobile is an ordinary motor truck with dual wheels at the rear and a set of steel sleighs where the front wheels should be, and it is a splendid vehicle for travelling over unplowed country roads in the winter.

Instead of cutting back and swinging a wide detour over rural side roads, the driver of the snow-mobile telephoned to the garage as a safety measure and the wrecking truck drove down to Bewdley, hoisted the sleighs off the bare pavement and the truck was towed home.

The Rambling REPORTERS

COMFORT BEFORE STYLE

Holly McIlmoyle walked down to his brother-in-laws a few night's ago before going to a card party. He was dressed in his usual conservative manner but this time he had forgotten to put on a collar and tie. The little error of omission in dress was called to his attention by Frank Phillips and as they had not sufficient time to return to Holly's home, Phillips volunteered to loan his visitor a tie and collar. The sad part of the story is that Phillips takes a size 16½ shirt and McIlmoyle wears a 15, and to add to Holly's discomfort, the kindly Mr. Phillips insisted on him wearing a bright jitter-bug tie. Holly was all for it however and enjoyed the card party even though his collar was a little large and his tie attracted every eye.—McG.

A SCOTCH TRICK

Twenty years ago Christmas Day Bob Hendry was stationed at Wahn near Cologne in Germany with the army of occupation. At that time he mailed a card to Webber Turner in Peterborough. Two years ago Turner found the card as he rummaged through his desk so handed it back to Hendry thinking Bob might want to keep it as a souvenir, but last Christmas back came the same card to Turner and as a footnote to the greeting was the statement "Twenty years and the world is no nearer universal peace than it it was two decades ago."—McG.

SOME CALENDAR

Friends of a well-known Peterborough business man are chuckling these days, wondering what action his wife will take this year in regard to his calendars.

Last year they portrayed an exquisite bit of femininity lying on an ocean wave 'en deshabille' —that is, they did until his wife got hold of most of them and assigned them to the furnace. So this year he decided that his lady of the calendar must be properly clothed but he determined she should be, nevertheless, an alluring thing, a woman who was capable of tempting men to indiscretion not to mention infidelity.

She is all that Shakespeare ever wrote of Cleopatra, all that Conrad wrote in the Arrow of Gold She has everything: Dressed in sheer silk, holding a dog on leash, she is woman personified. Now what will his wife do?—P.

Reeve Joseph Guiry Entertains Friends

(Examiner Correspondence.)

DOWNEYVILLE, Jan. 6.—A very enjoyable time was had at the home of Reeve Joseph Guiry when a number of his friends and neighbors gathered at his home, on the occasion of his victory over his opponent, Harry Endicott, for the Reeveship of Emily township. Cards were played during the night and dancing was enjoyed by all with music furnished by Frank Fitch, Joseph, John and Garner Hunter, with Mrs. Perdue and Mrs. Guiry at the piano. A lunch was served at midnight by Mrs. Guiry and her assistants, and after lunch there was step and clog dancing by William Patrick and John Winn, songs were sung by Joseph Winn and Alvin Perdue, also an old veteran, W. J. McGahey, well over the three score and ten year mark sang two songs. also.

Small Boy Runs Into Side Of Car

Five-year-old Donald Lavis, 205 Brock street, was lucky enough to escape with a few bruises when he ran out into Aylmer street Thursday and collided with the side of a passing automobile.

A car driven by Mrs. Alice Leach, 398 Avenue Road, Toronto, was passing at the time and the youngster struck the side of the moving vehicle and fell. He was picked up and taken to a doctor's office where an examination showed that he had suffered only slight bruises from his contact with the car.

Prisoner Killed

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 6.—(CP). —Kigston penitentiary officials disclosed yesterday Daniel Thauvette, serving a 15-year term for the slaying of Alex Leriviere of Cornwall, was killed Monday when he jumped from the third tier of cells in the cell block.

Prison officials said Thauvette, sentenced two months ago, suddenly leaped over the guard rail and landed on his head on the concrete floor.

Officials said they were waiting until the inquest, probably on Monday, before disclosing further details.

BEQUEST FOR PEACE

Grateful for the preservation of peace, Dutch bulb growers presented 10,000 tulips to Britain, and the bulbs will be planted in Victoria Tower Gardens adjoining the Houses of Parliament in London.

Travies Let Off Rangers To Lend Hand

The case of Ernest Travies which has given the authorities here so much concern since the boy pleaded guilty in police court on December 2 to the theft of a motor car from Thomas Hughes of North Monaghan, was finally disposed of this morning when the accused was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

When he was first arraigned the circumstances of the case aroused the pity of everybody in court, including Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry. The magistrate, pointing out that he had no option but to sentence Travies to a year's imprisonment since he could not suspend sentence, suggested a remand in the case until the Attorney-General could be communicated with.

This was done and finally the Attorney-General's department pointed out that with the consent of the crown attorney acting in the case sentence could be suspended.

That paved the way for the release of the boy but another obstacle remained. It was still necessary to get some substantial citizen to go on the prisoner's bond. Here Lieut.-Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, commanding officer of the Prince of Wales Rangers came to the rescue. Travies had been a member of the Rangers and the officer commanding consented not only to go on his bond but assured authorities that he and other officers would take an interest in the boy's welfare and help to find him employment.

This morning when the case was called Magistrate Langley formally asked Crown Attorney McElderry if he would consent to suspended sentence.

"I do so consent," replied the Crown Attorney.

Magistrate Langley then suspended sentence for two years and the accused was freed after he and Lieut.-Col. Hicks-Lyne had signed the bond, one of the conditions of which is that the boy must report at least once a month to his company commander Major Allan MacNab.

"I hope you will do everything possible to justify the confidence that has been shown in you," the Magistrate remarked, pointing out that Col. Hicks-Lyne and Major MacNab had taken a great interest in the case and that he himself and the Crown Attorney had assumed considerable responsibility in the matter.

Judgment Laid Over

For the fourth day in succession Thomas Madill occupied a place in the prisoner's dock in police court this morning.

Today Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., was to have delivered judgment in a charge against Madill of breaking and entering the shoe store of P. J. Hickey but this morning the magistrate announced that as Madill was on remand anyway on another charge and as he himself wished to check the shorthand evidence with his own notes, he would defer judgment until next Tuesday.

Madill was acquitted on Wednesday on a charge of attempting to break and enter an F. and G. store and still faces trial on a third charge of stealing an overcoat and hat.

CHAPTER 43

"I guess I've GOT to get the police," Worthington declared, turning to rush away. The young fellow was doubly hurt and scared now.

"Wait!" commanded Dr. Holgate, running to halt him. "Wait, I tell you. I must make all of this clear!"

YOUNG GURLEY turned to run from the washroom as excitedly as he had run into it. He had announced his intention of getting the police because of the planted bracelet, this still being the only course he could think of. And he had been hurt by finding Holgate in such a surprising situation, practising gambling with whiskey at hand.

"Stop, I tell you!" the older man commanded. He darted after Gurley and caught his arm. "Wait! Come back here and let me explain! You must not have me arrested. You musn't do this!"

Holgate was stronger, and older. And a professor as well. He could command obedience. Moreover, Worthington was relieved to have someone actually direct him, for he himself had been terribly confused.

"Now sit down here, Gurley, and listen to me." Dr. Holgate's chin was firmly set now. "I want you to know I have been a fool. I apologize deeply. I am not—not like that at all, Gurley. I want you to believe me!"

He looked intently at the lad.

"That whiskey—it was a mistake. I drank none of it. I tell you the truth—I did buy it, and planned to drink it, just to see what the effect would be. I wanted to learn—I wanted to be accepted by some of the young people who do drink, and I fancied this was the proper way to go about it. This and the gambling, too. I see now it was a mistake. I do not countenance such things! I am deeply shamed. In your presence, sir, I humbly apologize."

"Why, it's all right, Dr. Holgate." Young Gurley was astonished anew at this confession. "It's nothing, I mean—I wanted the police for—"

"Oh, but it was! It was disgraceful. But any man will make a fool of himself at times, I fancy. I am genuinely ashamed of myself, Gurley. You brought me to my senses. You—you frightened me, I suppose; shocked me. I am glad that you did. I owe you a debt of gratitude."

"No, sir. I wasn't intending to butt in on you anyway. I was trying to tell you about Sara Sue!"

"Eh! What?"

"Yes, sir, Peaches and Sara Sue. Peaches is trying to frame her, I tell you!"

"Frame? You mean—?"

"Absolutely!! She's a devil, that Pomeroy girl is, Dr. Holgate! She is. I admit I did get a surprise finding you here like this, but it's all right. I know people can make mistakes. If you didn't want the liquor, what were you doing with it?"

It wasn't a very coherent speech. But then, Worthington was still excited.

"I—I changed my mind, after you caught me. I am grateful for that. Never again will I so ignore my own pride and self-respect, Gurley! But what are you saying? About the girls—?"

"Don't mention it, sir. Any man can make a mistake. Everybody knows you are swell ,Dr. Holgate. I do myself. I—I won't mention it. You see, I—"

"Tell me, Gurley! What about Sara Sue?"

Sara Sue!

Thornton Holgate had just vowed to himself that he despised Peaches Pomeroy. Now when a lad mentioned Sara Sue Davis, something stirred profoundly in him.

"She's in danger, I tell you, sir! That's what I was doing—I mean—I was trying to find somebody, trying to do something. You see, I was hid in the palms, and this Pomeroy woman got Sara Sue's coat and tore open a hole and then put her diamond bracelet—you know that expensive one—in the lining and—"

He talked fast, but he told the whole story. He had to be probed several times. But Dr. Holgate got every detail. His own mental fog had been cleared. Facts were assembling themselves in his brain, significant facts. Somebody had been plotting a mean, sneaking trick. Sara Sue Davis was in danger!!

"Yes, sir, every bit of it! It was no joke. Peaches looked like a shedevil, I tell you. Gosh, I'd hate to have that girl down on me. And she hates Sara Sue. You maybe didn't know it, but Bob Towne used to run around with Peaches all the time. People said they were engaged. I guess he got wise to her, too. Anyhow, he dropped her this year, and he's going to marry Sara Sue."

Dr. Holgate's mouth popped open in fresh surprise.

"Marry Sara Sue?"

"Yes, sir. I know all about it. I was close to them, until my Marcia and I got married. Sara Sue helped us. Bob is crazy about her. He's out of training now, and he'll be making love hard. We've got to help them, don't you see, Dr. Holgate? Sara Sue helps everybody else with their love affairs. She helped Marcia and me. I'd do anything to help her. Don't you see?"

Indeed he did see!

He, Thornton Holgate, understood far better than the young student realized. Nobody knew how close to Sara Sue the professor had been, how he, to, had been receiving her guidance, had been coming more and more to admire the lovely widow.

And now—Bob Towne was to marry Sara Sue! The freshman had declared it.

No! No, no! The thought appalled Thornton.

Why—he—he loved Sara Sue himself! Oh, he did! He had not realized it until lately, had never quite admitted it fully in his own heart before. He had felt duty bound to go on with wooing Peaches Pomeroy. Obligated. Promised. A matter of pride and principle But now—Oh, my Lord!

"You say that Towne—Towne is—courting her?"

Sure! He's crazy about Sara Sue, and I don't blame him. You ought to know her, Dr. Holgate. I'll introduce you. Or I guess maybe you have met her already, but I mean she's swell and all. If she wants Bob she ought to have him. She ought to have whatever she wants. She ought to—"

Dr. Holgate almost groaned. Introduce him! Why, he knew Sara Sue intimately. Knew her and loved her—and hadn't told her so. He could and should have been paying court to her all these weeks. All the fine days since school opened. He who had been so damnably blind!

Of course she would like Towne. Towne was a hero, a football hero. And about her own age. He, Holgate, was almost five years older than Sara Sue. That dawned on him now as another terrifying fact, as if it were a sudden high wall between him and the girl he loved—and with Bob Towne on her side of the wall. She at 23, and he at 28. It was heart rending, he felt.

"T. J Sanders is crazy about her, too" the excited freshman was babbling on "He brought her tonight—Bob was still under football rules. I guess I could go tell T. J. and Howie Ladd likes her, and Al Taylor, and Fred Randolph. They all—"

Dr. Holgate grabbed the boy's arm.

"You mean that these others have been courting her, too? Calling on her "

"Sure. Everybody's crazy about Sara Sue, Dr. Holgate. Why, I even dated her myself before I met my Marcia. That's why I can't let Peaches—"

The significance of that struck Thornton forcefully. If other men, apparently several other men, were making love to Sara Sue Davis, it must be that she was not yet committed to one man. Conceivably Bob Towne wasn't yet the victor!

"What about her?" he suddenly demanded of Worthington. "Is she favoring just one? Has she chosen one of them? Towne, maybe?"

"No, I don't think so. But say, I can't sit here and talk! I've got to do something about that trick, haven't I? About the bracelet!"

"Yes! I should say so, Gurley. Come on."

They departed at once.

An hour later a colored janitor, drifting through the washroom with brush and dustpan picking up cigaret butts, found two dice and a full bottle of whiskey—to his combined delight and surprise. He never knew how they came here.

The professor and the freshman found the checking room still deserted. They had come around the dancing crowd without attracting attention. Worthington ducked back of the counter and got Sara Sue's coat at once.

"See? See? Feel it—it's still here!" He was squeezing the bottom of the garment.

Dr. Holgate took it and felt the bracelet within. His alarm mounted as he began to verify what he felt might have been a hoax, or an error on the boys part.

It was quite a job to remove the bracelet without tearing the coat. It had to be worked up the lining to the small hole that Peaches had made, a rip almost invisible. But when he finally had the piece, Thornton knew it was of great value.

"Amazing!" muttered he. "Something knavish was afoot here!"

"I told you so, didn't I?" Worthington whispered "We gotta DO something!"

DOROTHY DIX

Husbands Know They Are Easy Prey For The Wiles Of Women And Do Little About It, So It Is Up To Wives To Be Smarter Than Sirens

WHEN a married man forsakes his legal spouse for a younger and fairer lady with more umph to her, his wife invariably claims that he was stolen from her. Thus does she save her face and prepare an airtight alibi for him in case he discovers that forbidden sweets have become dust and ashes in his teeth and he desires to return to home and Mother.

In this way are the amenities preserved, for who can blame a poor, little, helpless boy, who is only six feet high and 45 years old, for being kidnapped by a nasty, bad, old flapper, with big eyes and golden curls, and long red fingernails, who lured him into her den by singing a song about how handsome and wonderful he was? The poor innocent just didn't know any better than to follow her.

Now without doubt the wives are in the right of it in many cases, for there are enough authenticated instances of women who have had their husbands snitched from under their very eyes when they happened to be looking another way for a moment to lend color to the love-thief legend. Nor can any one deny that many wives have found that it was just about as safe to leave their husbands alone with their best friends as it was to leave their pearl necklace in an unlocked drawer. For to many women to see a thing is to want it, and the mere fact that it belongs to some one else does not restrain them from taking it.

Still and all, the love thief who rates more than an amateur standing and who gets beyond a mild flirtation with another woman's husband is comparatively rare. It is seldom that one has the skill and knowledge of how to jimmy a way into a man's heart or carries enough TNT in her personality to blow up his conscience and his fear of Mrs. Grundy and make away with him if he puts up any sort of a fight, or tries to protect himself against her. So we are led to the conclusion that when a husband is stolen it is generally an inside job and that he was, at least, accessory before the crime.

Of course, there are exceptions to this rule. All of us know staid, domestic, unromantic, middle-aged married men who have been stolen from their wives are ruthlessly as a stick of candy is taken from a baby. Left alone, these men would have been faithful husbands and gone contentedly on to their golden wedding days believing in the sanctity of the home and that their Marias were their hearts' desires.

But a predatory lady happened along and marked one of these Darbys for a good thing. By tricks that are dark and ways that are vain she proceeded to purloin him from his rightful owner. If she was young and good looking, she turned all her batteries of sex attraction on him. If she was older and not so pulchritudinous, she "understood" him and made him believe that the wife who had known him for twenty-five years didn't. In either case she doped him up on overdoses of flattery, and before he knew it he, who had always walked the strait and narrow way, found himself swinging down the primrose path. He never knew how it happened, but the woman who tolled him away from his home and wife and children knew.

It must be admitted that the great majority of stolen husbands appear to make little effort to protect themselves. They know that the feminine bandits are abroad in the land and that at any moment they are liable to be held up by a pair of blue eyes, that are every whit as dangerous as a blue-nosed revolver, and captured. But instead of fleeing from danger they run into it.

Do married men, aware that the flesh is weak, fill their offices with aging and homely spinsters who would make their wives look like Miss Americas by comparison? Not at all. They surround themselves with youth and beauty and let the devil take the consequences. Even when a married man begins to suspect that a woman has designs upon him, does he lock himself in his home and tie himself to his wife's apron string? Not much. He steps out with her. All of which leads us to believe that generally when a husband is stolen, Barkis was willin'.

And, of course, when a husband is stolen it is very often due to the negligence of the wife. She thought she had something she couldn't lose, so she didn't keep it under lock and key or bother about its safety. She let herself get slouchy, and there were other women who were easy on the eyes waiting to grab him. She let home life get dull and she nagged and fretted him, and there were gay places to go to and gay ladies waiting for him.

And so she lost him because she didn't take the trouble to keep him. There are always thieves waiting for pick-ups.

This smart new "wrap-me-up" will give you a marvellously slender appearance. It's so easy to slip in and out of....only one belt fastening.. ..you're ready for kitchen chores or to prepare afternoon or evening refreshments. The two huge pockets will be found very useful besides decorative. Ric rac braid makes an attractive trim on the shoulder straps, belt, pockets and around the top of the snug surplice closing bodice. If you are partial to monotone cottons, a touch of colorful embroidery makes a very gay trim. It cuts in one-piece from top to hem....is quickly run up on the sewing machine....will be easy on your pocket book. The pattern includes a diagrammed sewing instruction chart, that enables even a child to make it.

Style No. 2144 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. The medium size requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material with 4 yards of braid.

Treasurer To Pay

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 6—(CP). —Judge J. J. Coughlin awarded Union School, Section 18, Gosfield North a $687 judgment today against Forest W. Wales, former treasurer of the school section.

The school section sued Wales for $800 alleging he failed to account properly for the money during the period he was treasurer from 1921 to 1933. Coughlin held Wales had failed to account for $687 discrepency between the annual receipts and the money he had accounted for in the annual reports.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

Father was teaching the two children how to play checkers. Knarf and Hanid, the shadows of the two children, watched. Or, I should say, Hanid watched. Knarf was much too curious just to watch. He wanted to play.

"I understand all the rules," I cried eagerly, trying to reach up to the table and help push the little red and black counters round.

But no one paid the slightest bit of attention to him. No one ever pays any attention to shadows.

However, when the game finally began between the little boy who was Knarf's master, and the little girl who was Hanid's, Knarf said to Hanid: "I've got a wonderful idea!"

Hanid shook her head. She didn't think much of Knarf's "wonderful" ideas. She told him so.

"But this idea is wonderful."

"What is it?"

Knarf [illegible] o na black one.

"Well! [illegible] make ourselves small. Then we can sit on top of the counters while they're being moved around. You can sit on a red counter because that's your mistress' side. I'll sit on a black counter because that's my master's side. We can watch the game and see everything that happens. And we'll get a good ride, too. It will be fun."

Hanid thought about this idea for a moment or two. Finally, she said: "All right. I don't think it will do any harm. The children won't mind."

So the two shadows made themselves small as peas and sprang lightly on the counters, Knarf on a black one and Hanid on a red one just opposite her.

Oh! it was fine fun — while it lasted. The counters on which the two shadows were sitting, with their knees pulled up to their chins, were moved from one square to the other. How Knarf shouted with glee when the counter on which he was sitting was lifted over the red counter on which Hanid was sitting, and Hanid and her counter were put out of the game!

"You've been jumped!" he cried. "You can't play any more!"

But Knarf had a surprise. For suddenly Hanid's mistress got one of her counters in the last line, and she reached over and set Hanid's counter back in the game, with the shadow-girl now sitting high on a double counter. She was a queen!

And did Knarf become a "Queen," too?

Yes—but instead of riding on top of the two counters, he suddenly found himself squeezed between both of them. And that's how poor Knarf finished the game of checkers—riding between two counters, with his arms and legs and head sticking out, like a very uncomfortable turtle.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, January 7

This may prove to be a day in which to "cash in" on much previous effort or meritorious performance, judging by the lunar transits. It is propitious for reaping after much diligent and efficient work, although there may be sudden change of plans or even environs or backers. It would be well to defer these rearrangements and to pursue objectives on lines already proving sound and practical.

Those whose birthday it is are to have the opportunity for making good or profiting from past performances of merit and practicality. Industry, fidelity, and steadfastness, as well as ability, are to enlist ready support for promotion of worthwhile projects. However, there may be lures to change one's place or plans. Hasty decisions in this connection are hazardous.

A child born on this day may be steady, persistent, industrious and dependable, although at times it may exhibit traits seemingly changeable and erratic. These may be attributable to the "eccentricities of genius." However, its worthy ambitions should be fulfilled.

Fish Cast Ashore

HENDERSON HARBOR, N. Y., Jan. 6—(AP).—Residents of Ontario are having fresh fish dinners without having to catch them. Last week's heavy windstorm dashed waves and spray far ashore, bearing whitefish, bass, ciscoes and other lake fish which froze almost immediately and were picked up by shore dwellers.

Children's Coughs Quickly Relieved

It is hard to keep the children from taking cold; they will run out of doors not properly clad; have on too much clothing and get overheated and cool off too suddenly; they get their feet wet; kick off the bed clothes at night. The mother cannot watch them all the time, so what is she going to do?

Mothers should never neglect the child's cough or cold, but on its inception should procure a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is so pleasant to the taste the youngsters take it without any fuss.

THE editor of the Women's Page is anxious to make the page as interesting to its readers as possible. Will you please call the Social Department at 1600 or drop a note, in care of the Women's Page, if you know of any social events, personal news or interesting items? As the page is closed at 1 o'clock, it is well to send news in as early in the morning as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith, Walton Street, are celebrating a fifth wedding aniversary to-day.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. and Mrs. E. Trethewey were holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Graham, Westwood.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. A. Brault, Jr., of George Street, is to-day celebrating a birthday anniversary.

✧ ✧ ✧

✧ ✧ ✧

Miss Mabel Roseborough, who was a guest during the holiday of Mrs. William Chamberlain, Norwood, has returned to the city.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. John McLachlan has returned from Seagrave, where he spent the holidays with his parents, Rev. J. and Mrs. McLachlan.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. Gordon Bennet has returned to Saskatchewan following several weeks' visit in Reaboro with Mr. and Mrs. H. Thurston.

✧ ✧ ✧

The many friends of "Roberta" will be sorry to hear of her illness, and that she is confined to her home on Hunter Street.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. Roy Elmhirst of Asphodel, graduate of Norwood High School, has left for Australia with Premier Hepburn, and will act as the Premier's confidential secretary.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Budden of 140 Morrow street will entertain at a small informal party tonight in honor of their niece, Miss Marion Elizabeth Smith of Ottawa, who is spending a week with them.

✧ ✧ ✧

A daughter (Marylou Pansy) was born on New Year's Day, January 1, to Mr. and Mrs. George S. Wheatley, Jr., of Port Hope. Mrs. Wheatley was the former Marian Collison Neals of Peterborough.

✧ ✧ ✧

Among the guests were Doris Davies, Doris Withers, Jean Crummie, Emily Ladell, Hilda Hayes, Marjorie Pratten, Ruth Pratten, Edna Revoy.

✧ ✧ ✧

The residents of Anson House enjoyed an interesting evening of moving pictures of the unveiling of the Monument at Vimy Ridge, through the courtesy of Mrs. J. K. Hughes. The pictures were shown by Mr. Ross Hood. Movies of the re-union of veterans in Toronto last August were also included in the evening's entertainment.

✧ ✧ ✧

The marriage was solemnized at Evanston, Illinois, during the month of December of Alice Judson Curtiss, daughter of Professor and Mrs. David Raymond Curtiss of Evanston, to Albert William Tucker, son of Rev. W. B. and Mrs. Tucker of Toronto. Rev. Mr. Tucker, father of the bridegroom, was a minister of the former Norwood Methodist Church.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. J. Branson was elected president, and Rev. T. H. Floyd Honorary President of the Men's Club, St. George's Church, at a meeting and election of officers held this week. Mr. J. Cooper was chosen as vice-president; Mr. G. Martin, secretary; Mr. A. Sima, treasurer; Mr. H. Bradley, Mr. Watkiss, Mr. F. Hopgood (past president), Social Committee members.

We Noticed

....Now that the excitement of the holiday season has died down, and there is time to think of something besides teas, entertaining or balls, don't you begin to feel that your entire wardrobe looks like a two-year-old Christmas card—rumpled, and out of date, and very tired?

✧ ✧ ✧

....If you find that your Winter frocks look positively dusty and the "first robin" Spring things have not yet arrived, why not break into print? Prints are really making headline news in fashion stories this year—and for a good reason—they're lovelier than ever.

✧ ✧ ✧

....We've noticed several bright little numbers that made their appearance in local shops a couple of days ago—one, in stunning colors, has that sharp, striking type of design that is so chic—and, usually, so hard to find. It is in white and navy with royal blue, with a sash that crosses under the bust and ties in back, and unpressed pleats that are released below the hips to give front fullness to the skirt.

✧ ✧ ✧

....Another frock is the sort of print that is becoming to everybody, and in excellent taste for all informal occasions. The colors you'll be wearing next Spring are featured in its small, all-over flower design in multi-colors with rose, fuchsia and blue predominating. Its silhouette is an advance Spring fashion—the neckline high and collarless, the shoulders shirred, and stitched-down pleats in the bodice to give bustline fullness.

The first meeting of the "Happy Hour Club," organized during the holiday week, was held in the Y.W.C.A. on the evening of January 4th. An interesting program of games and music was enjoyed, with Miss Teressa Heffernan at the piano. Officers will be elected at the next meeting, Wednesday, January 11. Miss Eva Coombs, Miss Teressa Herfernan and Miss Jean McMahon will be social conveners.

✧ ✧ ✧

Give Joint Birthday Party

Donald and Shirley Fitzsimmons, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Fitzsimmons, 492 Bonaccord street, entertained at a joint birthday party on Thursday for twenty of their young friends.

Place cards and table arrangements were delightfully carried out in pink and blue, and ribbons reached to each child's plate from a lucky basket in the centre of the table. Two birthday cakes decorated with green candles were at each end, and colored balloons floating from the walls and ceiling were used as novelties. Mrs. James Howe assisted Mrs. Fitzsimmons in serving.

Games, music, and a Major Bowes program provided a happy evening for the young guests, among whom were Barbara Hall, Helen and Doreen Goodfellow, Joan Jackson, Dorothy Murphy, Lenore Edwards, Dorothy MacKay, Beverly Nicholls, Helen Murphy, Florence Kearney, May Lindsay, Vedra Wilson, Margaret Peel, Peter Goodfellow, Donald McDonald, Thomas Taylor, Donald Frize, Fred Hall, James Swanston, Stanley Murphy.

George Street W.M.S. Plans Hostess Tea

Mrs. S. Wildman, 514 Aylmer street, was hostess to members of Group E of George Street Church W.M.S. Thursday afternoon, when the first 1939 meeting was held.

The compliments of the New Year were extended by the president, Mrs. E. Wand. Arrangements were made for a Hostess Tea to be held in George Street Church on February 3, and a committee was appointed to complete arrangements. Thoughts on the New Year were given by each member in response to the roll call. A committee was appointed to take care of arrangements for the Presbyterial supper to be held on January 24.

Mrs. M. Dormer reported two books read during the month of December. Scripture reading was given by Mrs. White, and followed by sentence prayers. A solo, "Happy in the Service of the King" by Miss Gladys Mills; and an address by Mrs. Powers on the new year, in which she stressed the importance of forgetting the past, and urged the members to look forward to the future with courage and a trust in God, concluded the meeting. After the Mizpah benediction, lunch was served by the hostess and her committee.

Fur Coat Should Be Taken Care Of

DO . . .

. . . hang it up every time you come in (fur coats were never meant to throw down in a heap).

. . . attend to any little splits that appear.

. . . hang you coat in a wardrobe where it is cool yet airy.

. . . have your furs cleaned and "glazed" by an expert once a year.

. . . buy a fur brush or comb and keep your fur "well groomed."

. . . shake your coat before putting it on.

. . . have that button altered if it is quarrelling with those extra pounds you've put on lately. A strain means a torn skin later.

. . . have your furs kept in cold storage during the "close" season.

DON'T . . .

. . . put heavy perfume on your fur coat. Far better to stick little pieces of cotton wool scented with citronella oil or lavender under the bottom of the lining (you can easily stitch up again). The moths dislike this smell.

. . . if your coat needs repairing never take it to just any tailor. Only an expert furrier is qualified to do the work properly.

. . . put your coat away wet. Hang it to dry somewhere away from direct heat.

. . . leave your coat exposed to hot sun for any length of time. The fur coat will lose that silky look.

. . . fall for a "bargain," whether the coaver is hard-up friend or an attractive salesman. The best furs are always what they represent—the best.

FUR BUDGET BALANCER

By PRUNELLA WOOD

If you have a mink coat, you'll want it, anyway; if you haven't, chinchillette is a stunning, inexpensive until-then.

It's made up in the model sketched in an almost full-length wrap that you'll feel comfortable wearing day and night. Generously swagger, the back falls softly in folds to contrast with the flat front. The upright collar stands by itself, and the shoplifter sleeves are muff-wide when you hold your own hands.

The mottled gray markings of the fur, chinchilla-dyed coney, are beautiful, even if they didn't grow that way. It would be lovely with black or your brightest dresses.

With The Girl Guides

Guide meetings start again this week with S.A.G.'s meeting tonight; 1st Company Monday, and St. Peter's Thursday, usual time. Brownies meet Brown Owl on Saturday at old meeting room, and she will take you to new rooms. Will 3rd St. George please bring in draw tickets next meeting without fail.

The Mothers Auxiliary of St. Georges held their monthly meeting on Tuesday, with Mrs. Carter in the chair, Mrs. T. H. Floyd, wife of the new minister, was introduced to the members, and very graciously offered her support to the Girl Guides. At the conclusion of the business refreshments were served by Miss Hilda Houghton, Lieut. and Guide Edna Simmond. Mrs. Whalon poured tea. Will guiders please let Mrs. Whalon have $1.00 fee to headquarters next week. There will be a Guiders' meeting on Thursday at eight o'clock at the home of Mrs. Whalon.

"THE SCRIBE"

Christmas Cards Decorative As Match Box Covers

Don't you hate to dump those holiday greeting cards of yours into the waste-basket, even though you realize that saving them will only add to the clutter of the family desk? Then don't do it. Conventional Christmas cards have a practical year 'round use in the home for those who wish to preserve the attractive designs and sentimental value of Yule greetings. The average greeting card can be usefully employed to remove the unsightly appearance of those match boxes which seem always to find a way to the polished tops of favorite end tables.

Cut-out "L's"

First step in converting the Christmas cards into match boxes is to cut two large "L's" out of cardboard. A convenient size is four and one-half inches on each leg of the "L," and a half inch wide.

The second step is to place the "L's" on the card design until a pleasing composition is seen through the frame thus formed. When the desired composition is obtained the Christmas cards may be marked lightly with pencil around the inside of the framer. This outlined section is then cut out along the penciled lines with scissors or razor blade. After the design has been cut out, it is ready for putting on the box. Rubber cement is the neatest medium to use for sticking the picture to the match box. Rubber cement will easily rub off the surface without smudging should it run over the edges of the cut out design, while glue, paste and other cements may stain.

To Be Permanent

For permanent work, rubber cement must be applied to both surfaces. Place a thin coating of cement on the reverse side of the section from the Christmas card and another on the surface of the box to which the picture is to be attached. When the cement has dried on both card and box, the two may be united. Do not worry about the rubber cement becoming too dry after it has been applied to card and box top for, unlike paste, the drier it is, the tighter it sticks.

The cementing process may complete the operation, but a more finished appearance will result if the box is shellacked after the pictures have been affixed. White shellac will preserve the original color of the scene or design, while orange shellac will give it that mellow, antique appearance.

Do You Know?

That salad dressing will not stick to the side of the jar into which it is poured if the container is first rinsed well with cold water?

✧ ✧ ✧

Cranberry jelly made in individual molds is more attractive than when served in a large mold?

✧ ✧ ✧

If the water bag is oiled with glycerine occasionally, the rubber will be preserved and the water bag will wear much longer?

✧ ✧ ✧

Tweezers are very convenient for removing pin feathers? Or you can "singe" them off by holding the fowl over a flame, turning it quickly to avoid scorching.

✧ ✧ ✧

The odor which strongly flavored foods sometimes leave on silverware even after a thorough washing may be eliminated by boiling in vater to which a generous amount of soda has been added?

BORN

PULKINGHORN—To Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Pulkinghorn (nee Margaret Sullivan), on Thursday, January 5, at St. Joseph's Hospital, a daughter, Barbara Diane.

DIED

SPENCER, George.—At his home, Lot 21, Con. 8, Manvers, one mile west of Bethany, on Thursday, January 5, 1939, George Spencer, beloved husband of Mary Margaret Lampkin, in his 82nd year. The funeral will be held from family residence, Saturday, January 7, 1939, at 2 p.m., proceed to Yelverton cemetery for interment.

IN MEMORIAM

McDOUGALL.—In loving memory of Alexander McDougall, who passed away January 6, 1938.

Brave was the heart of him; kindness a part of him.
True to his faith and his fellows he stayed;
None can recall of him traits that were small of him;
None had been hurt by the blunders he made.
—Lovingly remembered by his Wife and Family.

QUINLAN.—In loving memory of Patrick Quinlan, who passed to his rest two years ago, January 6, 1937.

From our happy home and circle
God has taken one we loved.
He is borne away from sin and sorrow
To a nobler rest above.
No one knows how much we miss him,
None but aching hearts can tell;
Lost on earth, but found in Heaven—
Jesus doeth all things well.
—Ever remembered by Wife and Family.

FERGUSON.—In loving memory of Mary Eva Medd, beloved wife of the late Alexander G. Ferguson, who died January 6, 1936.

We know that she is happy
In our Saviour's home above;
Growing fairer as she lingers
In the sunshine of His love.
—Ever remembered by son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ferguson and Family.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Mrs. William Hamilton wish to express their sincere thanks to their many friends and acquaintances for their kind expressions of sympathy extended during their recent sad bereavement, and to those who sent floral offerings and kindly loaned cars.

U. S. Naval Board Recommends Establishment Of 41 New Bases

Forty-one new air, submarine and destroyer bases are urgently needed, the United States Congress was told by the special U.S. naval board which was appointed to survey the coastlines of the United States and its possessions. The special board recommended the establishment of bases at points shown on the ABOVE map. Of the 25 air bases recommended, 15, in the opinion of the board, should be established immediately. Eleven of these would be in the Pacific, the others in the Atlantic.

Smokies Blank Russer Lee 8-0

MUNICH, Germany, Jan. 6. (CP-Havas)—Trail Smoke Eaters overpowered the Riesser See hockey team here last night 8 to 0.

Six thousand spectators at Prince Regent stadium saw the Canadian skaters sweep aside their opponents with spectacular ease.

The score by periods was 2-0, 3-0 3-0. Left wing Dick Kowcinak starred for the Canadians with three goals. Right wing Joe Benoit and Centre Ben Hayes scored two each, while wingman Ab Cronie got the other.

Last night the same Munich team held the Canadians to a 4-2 score. Tonight's game was the ninth for the British Columbia players on their current tour. They have won them all.

SPORT SPICE

By DREW MIDDLETON

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Those promoters who are so glibly talking about matching Patrick Edward Comiskey, the Jersey heavyweight hope, with Max Baer or Lou Nova, forget the kid is only 18 and therefore not eligible to fight main bouts in this state... There is a big alumni move on the coast to get football coach Howard Jones a long term contract at Southern California... Van Mungo was the only Dodger to have his salary slashed... Well, anyway Jimmy Foxx (don't forget that extra x) who wants $40,000 per, ain't bashful, is he?

That Dizzy Dean pop-off had the old familiar ring—arm O.K., can't wait for the bell to ring, etc. Cub officials hope it's so... Kay Stammers, the British tennis star, begins her third consecutive year in this book as the No. 1 glammer girl of sports... Dick Bartell and old Ty Cobb are neighbors in California and go golfing almost daily... Who is the gorgeous blond Hank Greenberg is squiring around the night spots?

Tom Yawkey can count what is left of his million dollar baseball investment on one hand—Joe Cronin, Bob Grove, Jimmy Foxx and Roger Cramer... Walter Hagen, still minus two of the three chins he used to feature, is calling on the trade in the interest of a line of golf equipment.

Havelock Trustees Get Organized

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 6.—The Havelock Public School Board assembled for their first meeting of the new year, with the recently elected members, Mrs. K. M. Price, Mrs. V. Brisbin, H. W. Roche, and Bernard Smith duly presenting their declarations of office and taking their seats on the Board. Also present were Trustees Mrs. W. Nobes and George Iles.

Bernard Smith was unanimously chosen as chairman of the Board for 1939. Committees appointed were Finance, Trustees Roche, Nobes and the chairman; property, Trustees Brisbin, Price and Iles.

On motion of Trustees Nobes and Price the secretary was asked to write the insurance company concerning the rates on an accident policy covering all in attendance at the school, either in the school building or on the school property during school hours.

Principal W. D. Duncan reported that the enrollment was now 199, with an average attendance of 183.79. He presented a letter from the inspecto rsuggesting that the principal be allowed to expend a small amount each month on books. Mr. Duncan suggested that a school paper under the caption "School" and book entitled "Isms" for social studies be purchased. He also drew the board's attention to the lack of certain mathematical instruments now required, and said that three more modern maps were needed.

Principal Duncan was authorized to purchase the equipment required on motion of Trustees Roche and Brisbin.

A letter from Inspector Copp to the Board advised them that the Department of Education was considering basing the share of public school grants in urban centres on the expenditures made for accommodations and equipment.

Mr. John Evans was appointed attendance officer for the ensuing year at a salary of $30 per annum, on motion of Trustees Roche and Iles.

On motion of Trustees Nobes and Price the regular meetings of the Board will be held on the first Wednesday of each month.

Newsie Opera-Addict Shocks Press Revealing It's His 18th Trip

By Ted Farah
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 6. — (CP)— Canada's opera-addict news vendor, 54-year-old George Malaiko, who got a trip to Manhattan and a $7 seat for "Don Giovanni" at the Metropolitan Opera House all free of charge, has a headline to yell today, but it isn't news.

"That Mozart can sure write music," George said at the conclusion of last night's performance at the "Met."

If he had his way, he'd like to stand right in the middle of Times Square and yell out that sentence just to show his appreciation of what Richard Crooks, the tenor, and Edward Johnson, the former Guelph, Ont., choir singer, did for him.

It was Mr. Crooks and Mr. Johnson, general manager of the Metropolitan, who brought Malaiko to New York and the opera when they learned of his offer to give a newspaper free for life to anyone who would pay his expenses to see "Don Giovanni."

"Anyone who loves the opera that much deserves to see it," said Mr. Johnson, who provided the ticket, while Mr. Crooks sent the train fare.

Last night, before the curtain rose on the opera, Malaiko, wearing his 15-year-old opera hat and full dress suit, was taken backstage and introduced to his two benefactors. About all he could do was mutter over and over: "I can't ever thank you enough. How can I thank you?"

Not Bluffing

Then he sat with reporters for a while and some of them quizzed him on his knowledge of music. George hummed and whistled operatic arias, themes from the symphonies of Beethoven and Brahms, generally convinced his inquisitors that he has a sound knowledge and a genuine love of good music.

In 1934 when he won $600 on the daily double at a Toronto racetrack, he used the money to go to Europe and listen to music. Once in Berlin he pawned his watch to hear a performance of "Don Giovanni." He played the violin until he was caught in a blizzard while prospecting in 1912 and was frozen so that one leg had to be amputated and his right arm was partly paralyzed.

George was unshaken by the circumstance that he proved a disappointment to the metropolitan press, who somehow got the impression that he was a ragged urchin with starry eyes and a mysterious spiritual hunger that could be satisfied only by music.

He bowled the boys over by telling them this is his 18th trip to New York to hear opera and the reason he couldn't finance the Safari himself was that his penny gold stocks on the Toronto Exchange had been acting up and he lost $125.

"Holy smoke," said one reporter, "he's better dressed than I am and I bet he paid for his clothes."

George took it all in and hinted that maybe he wasn't what the doctor ordered for the New York newspaper boys, but Mr. Mozart was just what the doctor ordered for him.

A $500 Donation

EDMONTON, Jan. 6—(CP).—Announcement of donation of $500 by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, former prime minister, for the maintenance of the Banff school of fine arts, operated by the University of Alberta, was made today by Dr. W. A. R. Kerr, president of the University.

A cheque for the amount was received from Mr. Bennett. It will be used to cover operation expenses of the school during the coming term.

Russia now has 42,000 women doctors.

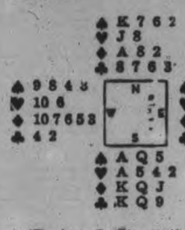
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

YOU HAVE A PARTNER

IT WILL PAY you to remember that the lady, or gentleman, sitting opposite you is your partner. We are all prone to have too much confidence in our own ability, and not enough in that of our associates, but there are times when we should pass the buck to them. One of these is when defending against a No trump contract. If our own hand is worthless we should play in such a way as to help our mate to make the best possible use of his or her resources.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

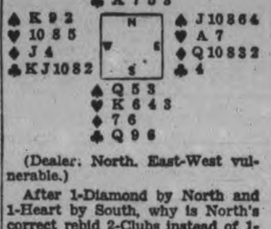
After South bid 2-No trump on his tremendous holding here, his partner took him to 3-No trump. West made the old-fashioned conventional lead of the fourth-best of his longest and strongest suit, the diamond 5. As soon as he did, the safety of the contract was assured for the declarer.

South could count three tricks in spades, one in hearts, three in diamonds and a possible two in clubs which he went for. He won the first trick in dummy, led a club, covered by the J and Q, reached dummy again with the spade K and led another club to East's A. His contract was now sure.

Had West realized that the defense depended on his partner's hand, he should have led his heart 10, as that was most likely to be his partner's suit, rather than clubs, because holders of majors usually like to bid them and the enemy had not. Had he done this, declarer's lone stopper would have been knocked out pronto. South could have taken only seven tricks before trying clubs. When he finally did, East could have run enough hearts to set the contract.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

After 1-Diamond by North and 1-Heart by South, why is North's correct rebid 2-Clubs instead of 1- or 2-No trump?

MILLBROOK

Sunday School Concert Held On New Year's

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 6. — An appreciative audience gathered in the basement of St. Andrew's Church on Monday evening for the annual concert by the pupils of the Sunday School, this custom of using New Year's night for the entertainment having been followed for over half a century.

The superintendent, W. Fred Fallis, extended a warm welcome to those who had braved roads and weather for the annual occasion. A group of action songs by the little folk of the Primary Department, under their teachers, Misses Jean L. Burnham and Phyllis Kidd, opened the program: "The Toy Shop Drill" by the combined members of Mrs. L. W. Smith's and Della Mae Sisco's classes was a very pretty number, Teddy Sisco acting as the proprietor of the shop, Marjorie McDowell singing in the wings, the dolls including Leona Charlebois, Edith Elson, and Lois Wainman; the toy soldiers were Joey Lunn, Connie Stinson, Ralph Richards, and Jim Elson. Jessie Dawson in costume, recited "The Crippled Dolly," and Garry Charlebois, "Poor Santa Claus." Two tableaux were cleverly presented by the boys of Mrs. J. H. McKnight's class, the first showing the shepherds seated on the ground and talking of the expected coming of the Chirst Child, Brenton Dawson, Kenneth Foottit, Evans Hatherly, Donald Edmunds, Douglas Sanderson, Teddy Sisco, and Jack Kinsman. The angel (Francis Tickner) appeared with the message, "Fear not, for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy," and the second scene showed the arrival at the stable, Dorothy Sisco filling the role of Mary, and David Hatherly that of Joseph, as the shepherds worshipped at the lighted manger-cradle.

"Dear Little Stranger" was sung by Bobby Bigelow, Tedy Sicso, and Connie Stinson, and Esther Might plawed one of Chopin's Nocturnes as a piano solo, receiving warm applause and demands for an encore; Mrs. Percy Stinson's class gave a play without words, entitled "The Terrible Catastrophe," the scene showing the interior of a rsetaurant with Jack Kidd as a waiter, Freddie Ridge, Teddy Stinson, and George Sisco being the customers. A large sign announced pies of all kinds on order, and the customers made choice of "mince"; later all were ill, as they discovered that "cat pie" was actually what they had eaten, and Dr. Killemg (Donald McKnight) was called in. Behind the curtain the sound of sawing was heard, and finally a big cat was produced, the outcome of the doctor's "operation" on one of the patrons of the eating house.

Clever Stunt.

A clever stunt was produced by Ken Kidd and Earl Edworthy, two members of the Young Men's Bible Caiss, W. A. O'Brian, teacher. Standing immediately behind Earl, while the latter gave a description, couched in vivid terms, of his extensive travels, Ken made all the necessary gestures, using his own arms, but making it appear that the speaker was actually doing the motions. This was a highlight in a well-produced program, and was followed by Fred Ridge singing "I Ain't Afraid of No Indians," with "Old Black Joe" as an encore, the darkey makeup being most effective.

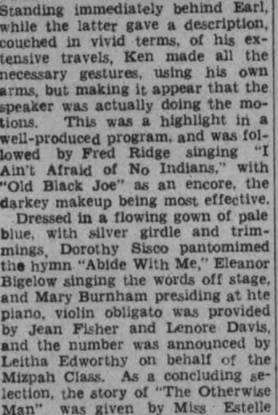
Dressed in a flowing gown of pale blue, with silver girdle and trimmings, Dorothy Sisco pantomimed the hymn "Abide With Me," Eleanor Bigelow singing the words off stage, and Mary Burnham presiding at hte piano, violin obligato was provided by Jean Fisher and Lenore Davis, and the number was announced by Leitha Edworthy on behalf of the Mizpah Class. As a concluding selection, the story of "The Otherwise Man" was given by Miss Estelle Hetherington, F. W. Edworthy singing "Star of the East" midway in the recital.

Struck By a Train

HAMILTON, Jan. 5. — (CP). — James Spittal, 21, of Dunnville, was seriously injured to-day when his car was struck by a C.N.R. eastbound mixed train at a railway crossing near Onondaga.

Spittal was removed to the Dunnville Memorial Hospital where it was found he was suffering from injuries to his legs, head and pelvis.

Pilot Killed



A plane piloted by Jack A. Johnson, personal pilot of General Chiang Kai Shek, missing several days, was found 20 miles from Kunming, China, with Johnson and his three companions dead. Johnson was an American flyer from LaFayette, Ind. It was believed the craft was forced down in mountainous country by ice, and made a crash landing.

Delivering The Examiner

Those who deliver the Examiner in rural districts over snow-blocked roads in the middle of winter don't know the meaning of the word impossible. The snowmobile shown here is their answer to snow drifts that force ordinary cars to a halt. Regardless of weather or roads this machine, which the Examiner has at its service by arrangement with J. J. Duffus Company, ploughs its way through and brings the Examiner each night to hundreds of subscribers. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Progress Of Cities

pointed to was that part of George street, on both sides, from Charlotte street to the C.P.R. station. "That section adjoins the very centre of the city. It is on a main street. Yet a considerable part of it is notable for its idle land or for buildings that are small and unsuited for what should be an important part of the business section of a city like this."

Caused By System.

The chief business section of Peterborough lacks the fine buildings, and the general air of prosperity and business enterprise that so characterized Austrlia and New Zealand, he said. "There they do not punish their progressive citizens by heaping municipal taxes upon them when they improve their properties. Instead, they offer them inducements to do so, in the form of freedom from taxation on improvements. In addition, they make it possible for business men to obtain sites for business purposes on more reasonable terms than such sites can be obtained in Peterborough, considering the relative size and population, through the higher tax they impose on land values. The effect of such a tax is to squeeze the speculator well out of the picture by depriving him of unearned profits."

The present system of taxation has, in addition, greatly retarded the building trades in Peterborough, and "these trades affect a wider range of labor and business than any other branch of industry. When the building trades stop our relief rolls grow and our taxes increase. As soon as the construction of buildings commences, business is promoted in many directions."

Strikes Cruel Blow.

Any system of taxation, he said, which prevents or restricts building operations, hits a cruel blow to industry at its very source, and just such a system is preventing proper development in Peterborough.

Such a system forces merchants to do business in old and antiquated buildings, for which they pay high rents, and forces them to charge these high costs, as far as they are able, back to the public in the cost of the goods they sell. Far too many merchants in Peterborough during the past 40 years have found the returns upon their investment and for their work have not justified them in continuing to operate, he claimed.

"I would not want anyone to think that what has been said about the lack of modern buildings in our business centres constitutes a reflection upon any class of our citizens," Mr. Cowan said. "They, like the rest of us, are the victims of our inequitable system of taxation. That system encourages the holding of valuable land out of use, or in only partial use, while it penalizes anyone who might put such land to full use, through the erection of suitable buildings thereon. This we do by piling municipal taxes upon them."

He cited as an example of his point the "justifiable pride the whole city took in the fine improvements which Mr. Johnson made in his property at the corner of George and McDonnel streets." But how, he asked, does Peterborough propose to reward Mr. Johnson? "When I asked him about this recently he said that he had not received any notification as yet of an increase in his assessment but he fully expected that one would come along in due course and that he would have to pay increased taxes that it would involve. Surely our common sense should tell us that such a system of municipal taxation is fundamentally wrong."

Manufacturing Industries

In thirty years, he said, he had seen many new manufacturing industries start up in Peterborough, industries of which every person is proud, and many more established firms have made extensions to their buildings. This work has been possible in a considerable number of cases only because the citizens agreed to exempt these firms, to a large degree, from taxation, he said. And that action has proved "that we recognize that heavy taxation upon buildings prevents their erection, imposes a heavy burden on our manufacturing industries, and interferes with the general prosperity of the community."

"Can we imagine how many more industries we might have secured for Peterborough had we been able to carry this principle to its logical conclusion?" he asked.

Such a system of taxation as is in force in Australia and New Zealand, under which all municipal taxation is removed from buildings and improvements and placed on land values, were it in force in this country, would, he asserted, have lifted a heavy load from the business enterprises of the community. Building sites would have been available on more reasonable terms, and firms would have been much more tempted to come to this city had they known that when they had erected buildings they would not have had to pay a heavy annual charge on them. All construction, from big plants to small homes, would have benefited he claimed.

A Tried System

"The Australian and New Zealand system of taxation is not some new, hair-brained, visionary and impractical method of municipal taxation," Mr. Cowan said, pointing out that it has been in force in hundreds of municipalities in those countries for as many as thirty years. It has been tried out in country districts, towns and cities. It has made good. In New Zealand, 57 per cent of the people live under this form of municipal taxation. They have tried our system, as well as theirs, and they prefer theirs. Why, then, should we hesitate to try it? It is one reason why the cities in these two Dominions came through the depression better than our Canadian cities and why they have had less experience with unemployment and unemployment relief."

The financial statement of Wellington, capital of New Zealand, shows, he said, that improvements are exempt from taxation and that a simple, municipal tax on land values provides the city with all the funds it requires.

Not only in those far countries, but in our own British Columbia, in two cities and seven districts, do citizens raise their budgets by a tax on land values only, and they have been following this method for more than twenty years, Mr. Cowan said. One of them is West Vancouver, where British capitalists are now developing one of the finest, exclusive residential areas on the continent. It has been referred to as a "tax haven" and those financiers were attracted to West Vancouver because of the advantages offered by its simple and efficient method of taxation, he said.

"Since my address on this subject before the Kiwanis club; people representing many different walks of life have spoken to me and to friends of mine about it.

They include small householders, some of our leading manufacturers, George street merchants and others. Even farmers, who read the report of my address in the Examiner, have said that they believe such a change as I have proposed would serve to work wonders in business conditions.

"It is not sufficient to just wish for a change. If we really want it, it is necessary that we shall do something about it. Fortunately we do not have to jump at it in the dark. The practicability of the system can be investigated thoroughly before any change in existing conditions is undertaken. In the meantime, the more organizations, which discuss it, the better. Private citizens could help by doing the same. Thus an interest in the subject would be aroused. We all desire to see Peterborough made a better place in which to live and bring up our families. There is no way in which we could do this with as great advantage as by revolutionizing our system of municipal taxation."

FELT NERVOUS, RUNDOWN COULDN'T SLEEP AND WAS FULL OF ACHES AND PAINS

Describes How Syntona Medicine Brought Him Grand Relief.

Often Common Results of Faulty Assimilation and Elimination.

MR. WILLIAM H. ALMAS

"For years I was troubled with stomach gas and indigestion," said Mr. William Almas, 28 Barton Street East, Hamilton, recently.

"After eating I would get a burning feeling in my stomach and hot, sour liquids would rise in my throat. I would fill up with gas and get awful dizzy feelings. Little spots floated before my eyes and my tongue was always coated. Frequently I used to get sharp pains in my shoulders and back. I felt very nervous, rundown and couldn't sleep well.

A friend told me about how Syntona had helped him, so I decided to try it, and it has given me great relief. Now I can eat well without all that stomach distress, the pains in my back and shoulders are relieved, my nerves are more relaxed and I sleep better. Syntona has been a wonderful medicine for me, and I am glad to recommend it to any person who suffers as I did."

Syntona produces these results without the aid of harmful drugs. It is made only from pure herbal juices that have long been known for their medicinal value. Many who have taken it say that in only a few days their whole systems take on a feeling of new energy and vigour.

Local men and women can get Syntona in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Ask about the special introductory offer.

Marmora's Laymen's Association Hears Fine Talk On Astronomy

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 6.—Principal E. I. Gale, M.A., of Marmora High School, gave an interesting and instructive address to the members of St. Paul's Laymen's Association at their regular meeting on Wednesday.

His subject which was of an astronomical nature was illustrated with slides and the use of models. He also gave a description of the workings of his own telescope which was an exhibit of the evening.

At the next meeting of the association which is being held on Wednesday, January 18, Rev. W. R. Tristam of West Huntingdon who before ordination spent three years in the Congo and made the acquaintance of cannibal tribes will be the guest speaker.

Reception And Dance

A large number of relatives and friends acepted the invitation to attend a reception and dance given in the town hall Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Jones whose marriage took place last Saturday.

At the luncheon hour Mr. and Mrs. Jones were presented with a substantial purse of money in token of the good wishes attending them. The following played host and hostess roles for the occasion: Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Potts, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kellar, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Jones, Mr. and Mrs Casha Boyd, Misses Mary Sheridan, Ruth Jones and Flossie Boyd.

Fear 3 Drowned

MISSION, B.C., Jan. 6 — (CP). — Provincial and Municipal Police left here to-day for Upper Slave Lake, several miles north of Mission, where loggers expressed belief three Japanese lumbermen had drowned after their flat-bottomd boat was found overturned.

Names of the victims or details of the accident were not available here. The accident was said to have occurred yesterday.

Letter Sent By Tin Can Mail Arrives Safely In Peterborough

A letter that was posted in New South Wales, Australia June 25, and came to Peterborough by way of Tin Can Mail from the island of Niuafoou in the Tonga group 1500 miles east of Australia arrived at the Post Office on January 3rd.

Letters going to Niuafoou aer tossed off steamers about a mile offshore enclosed in a water tight tin can. Natives swim out and recover the tin cans containing the mail. The islands are rugged coral formations and reefs prevent steamers from docking there. The letters leave the island via the tin can mail but are usually carried by outrigger canoe to the steamers.

The letter was addressed to Kenneth King, 403 Water street, an amateur short wave radio fan. He made contact with Arthur Milham in Australia and told the latter he was a stamp collector, and wished to obtain a letter from the Tonga islands by way of Tin Can Mail. Steamers only call at the island about three times a year hence the delay.

Letters from Niuafoou are much sought after by stamp collectors because the envelope has unusual markings on it. On the envelope was "Dispatched by Tin Can Mail," Niufoou, Tonga." In the upper left hand corner of the envelope was stamped "This letetr enclosed in a watertight tin was put into the sea from the cruise steamer Maunganui off Niufoou or Tin Can Island in the Tonga Group Lat. 15 degrees 33 minutes, South Long. 195 degrees 39 minutes, on the 11th of August, 1938. Signed G. B. Morgan, D.S.C., Commander."

There are seven different postal stampings on the reverse side of the envelope, and the letter explains that it is rathr costly to mail a letter by way of Tin Can Island, as the revenueobtained from the mail is used for missionary work and a portion is paid the natives who swim out and pick up the cans.

Brazil recently shipped 230,000 bags of coffee to Germany.

Jury Decides Jap Girl Murdered

Claim Furnace Victim Unable To Light Fire By Own Hand

VANCOUVER, Jan. 7—(CP).—Verdict of a coroner's jury contradicts a police theory that Emiko Yamada, 17-year-old Japanese girl whose scorched body was found last Dec. 17 in the furnace in her home here, was a suicide.

The six-man jury decided at the inquest last night the girl died by suffocation, "the same having been brought about by violence committed by some person or persons unknown."

Inspector A. S. Nann and detective A. R. Gibb of Vancouver police testified at the inquest that they believed the girl took her own life.

Dr. A. W. Hunter, who performed an autopsy, told the jury carbon monoxide, generated in the flames of oil-soaked paper and rags, caused the girl to suffocate before her body was partly destroyed by the fire.

Dr. Hunter estimated it "might take 20 to 30 minutes of intense heat to produce the appearance that was seen on this body." He said most of the front of her body was charred, but her back and hair on her head, some 18 inches long, had not been touched.

Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance, science expert of the Vancouver police department, said the oil in which her clothing and paper and rags used as fuel had been soaked, was made from rape seed. This type of oil, he said, burned with a slow, steady flame and emitted intense heat.

Living in the house with Emiko were her father, mother, 18-year-old brother and child-sister, a 20-year-old male cousin and two adults who occupied the upper floor of the house.

Find Girl Missing

The five Yamadas all slept in the same room. Grey-headed Jimzaemon Yamada, the father, described without emotion how the family awakened to find Emiko missing. They looked for her inside and outside the house until his young son, Eiichi, discovered her in the furnace, the fire stil burning.

Detective Gibb testified police made their preliminary investigations on the assumption the girl was murdered. Later he said, they inclined to the suicide theory because they were unable to discover any motive for murder.

Inspector Hann suggested she might have become despondent and committed suiced for that reason.

Testimony of her family and friends during the inquest failed to back up his theory. They said the girl was "cheerful" when she went to bed.

Inspector Vance contended the fire could have been lit only after the girl had been placed in the furnace because her back and hair were not touched by the flames. He added that it was only possible to have set the fire from inside the firebox since ashes covering the grate prevented access to the fuel from below.

Japan On Threshold Of 100 Years' War To Renovate World

Tokyo, Jan. 7 (CP-Havas)

JAPAN is standing on the threshold of a 10 years' war "for renovation of the world in accordance with Japan's imperial way," Lieut. Col. Tatsuhiko Takashima of the army general staff proclaimed today in an article appearing in the Nichi Nichi Shimbun Chain of newspapers. The article was entitled "Japan's declaration of a 100 year's war."

Lieut. Col. Takshima said the "China incident" has entered the stage of long-term warfare "as was expected." It must be remembered, he added, the reconstruction of east Asia and the rebirth of Asia as a whole means the creation of a new world, in accordance with the Japanese imperial way.

Mooney's Dream Of Pardon Almost True

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Thomas J. Mooney left San Quentin prison early today in a fast automobile for Sacramento, where he expects to receive a pardon from Governor Culbert L. Olson after a brief hearing.

"My day has come!" Mooney exclaimed, as tearful relatives and many friends greeted him when he emerged from the captain of the guard's office.

The sun burst over the grey prison walls and scarcely a cloud marked the sky as Mooney left the prison, probably for the last time.

A few minutes later a fast state highway patrol car, with its red searchlight stabbing the disappearing darkness, roared through the prison gate.

Mooney, 56, sat beside Warden Court Smith.

Dream Came True.

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Jan. 7. —(AP).—Thomas J. Mooney's long-fought-for hour of freedom was at hand to-day.

The stubbornly-fought dream of "liberty with honour"—kept alive by the former iron moulder—during 22 years of imprisonment was expected to be brought to realization before noon by a pardon.

Culbert L. Olson, California's first Democratic governor in 44 years, chose the day after his inaugural ball to fulfill in the State capitol here what amounted to a virtual promise to gran tMooney's petition for a full pardon if no reasonable opposition developed.

As Mooney prepared at San Quentin prison to leave with the Warden before dawn for the hearing before the Governor, no formal opposition to his petition had been reported.

The pardon would in effect exonerate Mooney of the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing, of which he was convicted and sentenced to death—the death penalty subsequently being commuted to life imprisonment on the urgent request of President Woodrow Wilson.

Interest in Mooney.

Though Governor Olson's political followers were gathering for a barbecue and celebration of his victory at the polls, interest centred on the State Assembly Chamber where Mooney was to appear.

Governor Olson was expected to grant the pardon immediately after the hearing, enabling Mooney, accompanied by his wife, to walk from the Assembly Chamber, a free man.

Mooney has indicated one of his first acts would be to go to Folsom prison to visit Warren K. Billings, who was convicted with him on the Preparedness Day bombing. Mooney, who claimed both he and Billings were convicted on perjured testimony, has said he would fight for Billings' freedom. Because of a previous felony conviction, Billings cannot be pardoned unless the State Supreme Court so recommends.

1938 Relief Cost City $68,367.76

Deficit Of $8,923.02 Is Reported By The Committee

The total of relief disbursements in Peterborough last year was $134,949.99 of which the city paid $56,423.02, leaving a deficit of $8,923.02 providing the grants from the government for the last three months of the year comes through as expected, Alderman Dutton, chairman, told the relief committee of the council last night.

The government's rebate, including an approximate amount for November and December was $66,582.23, leaving a balance of $68,367.76 to be borne by the city. As only $47,500 was appropriated by the council for its relief expenditure in 1938 the deficit, on that basis, would be $20,867.76, but Alderman Dutton said that the receipts from the government for the last quarter of the year would probably be amplified to the extent that the actual deficit chargeable to the city treasury would be reduced to $8,923.02.

Four Years Compared

The course of relief costs here during the last four years was read by Alderman Dutton as follows:

1935—total $189,115.54, of which the city paid $69,534.18.

1936—total $165,628.05, and the city's part $50,940.20.

The aggregate relief bill for those four years was $595,272.53 of which the city paid $215,874.65.

"Last year was one of the worst we've had," Alderman Dutton said, and directed the discussion of the committee to the attraction Peterborough holds out for people living in other municipalities in which the relief rates are lower than here. By one means or another they establish domicile, and promptly apply for relief.

"Our problem would be reduced fifty per cent. if we didn't have those people who have come from outside places," Alderman Glover remarked, and the committee wound up the relief business of the old year with a broad proposal to interview the Ontario government, requesting that some measure be adopted to make some effective change in the regulations so as to discourage the movement of people from one community to another for the purpose of obtaining increased relief allowance.

Letters will also be sent to all the real estate men in the city "to check up" on new families moving into Peterborough whose circumstances may indicate that they are likely to become public charges. Similar letters will also be sent to the lawyers and doctors asking for their cooperation, and all charitable organ-

Wife Locks Liquor Up, He Tries Hair Dye Skin Turns Purple

Kansas City, Jan. 7 (AP)

A MAN whose skin had turned a deep purple was admitted to General Hospital for treatment. His sister explained he had been drinking heavily and his wife had locked him in the house and taken away his supply of whisky. But he drank anyway—bay rum, shampoo liquid, witch hazel, perfume, spirits of ammonia, rubbing alcohol, hair oil and then ate 10 aspirin tablets. Still thirsty, he toped it all off with a bottle of black hair dye. After a long session with the stomach pump, his skin tones faded to pale purple. Physicians said he would recover.

Britain Pledges France 'No Mediation'

By Pierre Maullud
(Copyright, 1939, by Havas News Agency.)

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(CP-Havas)—Formal assurances have been given France that Prime Minister Chamberlain will refuse to discuss any French territorial concessions to Italy during his visit to Rome next week, it was reported in trustworthy sources today.

The assurance was said to have been given yesterday when French Ambassador Charles Corbin visited Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent under-secertary for foreign affairs. It was understood M. Corbin was told Mr. Chamberlain would not enter detailed discussion of Italian demands, if any were brought forth.

The ambassador visited Sir Alexander after a cabinet meeting at which the Italo-French question was reported to have been studied, as well as the situation in the far east.

It was understood Sir Alexander told the French envoy that if Premier Mussolini brought up the the Italo-French tension, Mr. Chamberlain would only advise him to adopt a conciliatory attitude toward France and renounce any attempt at intimidation.

Reary For War.

ROME, Jan. 7. — (CP-Havas).—Use of arms to force satisfaction of Italian aspirations if negotiations should fail was advocated by the diplomatic Review Relazioni Internazionali to-day in an article attacking France.

Saying Italians are morally and completely prepared for war, the article added that in case of an armed outbreak, the Rome-Berlin axis would function immediately, "because the axis cannot admit, even less conceive, a division of tasks, functions and risks.

"In case of war there would not only be an armed bloc, but a spiritual bloc capable of wiping out no matter what resistance, and of surmounting difficulties with a decisivenes unprecedented in the history of the peoples."

Czech Big Guns Still Cover Disputed Border City Despite An Armed Truce

Crowds Demand Revenge After Shelling; Poles Reported Massing Men Along Slovak Border To Aid Budapest

By Alvin Steinkopf (Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

BUDAPEST, Jan. 7 (AP).—Hungarians engaged in cleaning up after the one-day armed engagement on the nation's post-Munich border announced today 40 Czecho-Slovaks and seven Hungarians had been killed.

The Hungarian dead included one officer hit by a shell fragment at the Hotel Osillag in Munkacs, the town ceded to Hungary by Czecho-Slovak under the November 2 Vienna arbitration award of Italy and Germany.

The official Hungarian report added that 200 houses in Munkacs, centre of yesterday's fight, were damaged by Czecho-Slovak shellfire.

When the Czecho-Slovak forces retreated, Hungarians declared, they took hostages with them from the Hungarian village of Oroszveg which they occupied for a few hours.

Thousands of Hungarian troops, meanwhile, were moved up to the zone of yesterday's sporadic hostilities.

Czecho-Slovak artillery, however, still covered Munkacs, a city of 30,000, which was ceded to Hungary recently in the terirtorial revision resulting from the Munich agreement.

(The Prague newspaper Narodni Osvobozeni reported Polish troops were massing along the northern border of Czecho-Slovakia. Several infantry regiments, a cavalry regiment and a machine-gun detachment already had occupied border posts, the paper said, and additional forces were expected this week).

Residents of Munkacs, which Hungarians said was shelled by Czecho-Slovak artillery yesterday, were apprehensive the bombardment might be resumed.

Crowds demanding revenge were dispersed in several Hungarian towns.

Officers of the Czecho-Slovak general staff opened an investigation while Budapest and Prague sought to arrange the appointment of a mixed commission to fix responsibility for the incident.

Demand Compensation.

(Officials in Prague said they knew of only one death. They predicted quick settlement. The Hungarian charge d'affaires there demanded compensation for damage to Munkacs and for the lives of slain Hungarian troops.)

In a written protest, the Hungarian government said:

"It must be pointed out that the unprovoked attack on Munkacs was preceded by deliberate preparations on the part of Czechoslovakia which were supported by a section of the foreign press.

"The Hungarian government holds the Czechoslovak government responsible for loss of life and property damage incurred. And Hungary is obliged to take steps to assure prevention of a repetition of such surprises."

Great Gold Shift Bolsters Ailing Pound

LONDON, Jan. 7 — (AP). — The Treasury was encouraged to-day by the first results of its move to bulwark the ailing pound sterling by the biggest gold transaction in the history of London.

The pound strengthened against the United States dollar for the second successive day. It opened today at $4.67⅞, one cent above yesterday's closing, and soon rose to $4.68⅛.

The pound shot upward yesterday immediately after the unexpected announcement that the Bank of England had transferred £200,000,000 (approximately $934,000,000) to the Exchange Equalization Fund.

This will give the fund, which is used to support the pound sterling in the foreign exchange market, powerful new "ammunition."

The pound had been slipping for months, due in part to the demand for United States dollars growing out of Europe's uneasy political situation.

Actually the gold bars transferred to the fund are worth £350,000,000 ($1,635,000,000) instead of £200,000,000. On the Bank of England's books they are valued at the old gold standard rate of about four pounds five shillings (about $20) a fine ounce, but gold is now selling at 149 shillings and sixpence (about $35).

Not Inflation

In connection with the gold transfer, the treasury—at the request of the Bank of England—increased its fiduciary note issue from £200,000,000 to £400,000,000. The fiduciary issue is that part of the Bank of England's note issue not covered by gold.

Financial authorities were quick to point out that the increase was not inflation and did not necessarily mean that the total issue would be increased, but merely that fewer notes would be issued against gold and more against government securities.

The move was expected to halt, for the time being at least, the widespread speculation against sterling. Some speculators were "caught" when the pound jumped 2½ cents to $4.66⅝ after announcement of the transfer.

Financial quarters said the wisdom of the move depends on whether sterling now is over-valued or undervalued. If it is over-valued—as some think—millions of pounds may be lost as in 1931 when a fruitless attempt was made to remain on the gold standard.

The transfer brings the total estimated resources at the command of the equalization fund to more than £400,000,000. Persistent withdrawal of sterling accounts during the September war scare caused a heavy drain on the fund's gold holdings which on March 1, 1938, were valued at £298,000,000. It was believed that prior to yesterday's move the fund had only about £80,000,000 on hand.

Political War Chest Control Bill Lively Debating Issue For Coming Liberal Caucus

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—(CP)—Liberal members of parliament likely will be asked at a caucus early in the session starting January 12 whether they desire the government to go ahead at this time with the bill designed to regulate campaign funds and political expenditures.

Doubt has been expressed whether the members want so drastic and far-reaching a measure to become law or whether the electors, accustomed to going slowly in the matter of changes in election practices, would be prepared for so great a step.

It is certain that even if the bill became law this session, there would not be sufficient time for it to function in the approaching general election whether held this fall or early in 1940. Those best informed as to the provisions of the legislation estimate it should be in force two years before it is called upon to regulate campaign funds and expenditures in a general election.

The measure was introduced by Pensions Minister Power last session along with a bill which revised the Election Act. The latter occupied the committee on privileges and elections most of last session and it had no time left to consider the bill on political expenditures. So if it is dealt with this session it will have to be re-introduced.

It is possible that under the circumstances the supporters of the government will conclude there is more pressing legislation before the House and leave this bill over for another parliament to wrestle with after the election.

Old Timers In Favor.

The bill is said to have strong support, however, not only among person who seek radical changes but also among old line party men who have fought many political battles and feel something must be done to counteract the existing trend of campaign funds and election expenses.

Although a great deal of secrecy surrounds campaign funds, usual-

Millionaire Jails Son Upon Charge Of Theft From Him

New York, Jan. 7 (AP)

A MILLIONAIRE who accused his 24-year-old son of stealing from him allowed the boy, possessor of a $200-a-month income, to be sent to prison today to ponder a grand larency charge.

The father, Edward G. Acheson, 52, said his son, Richard, had "been losing money on horses, spending more than he can afford on women, and finally he took some valuable pawn tickets from my safe."

After he had Richard arrested last night, Acheson relented today, but a conference with Magistrate Harry G. Andrews resulted in the youth being sent to the Tombs in lieu of $1,500 bail to await trial Wednesday.

French Railway Under Boycott

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, Jan. 7—(AP).—Travellers reaching Djibouti from Ethiopia today reported Italian authorities have ordered a strict boycott of the French-controlled railway connecting Addis Ababa with this gulf of Aden port.

The boycott has resulted, these sources said, in heavy reductions in both passenger and freight business.

Normal daily freight loadings were said to have declined from an average of 400 tons to 30. Italian-controlled truck routes have absorbed the difference.

Simultaneously with this report came another telling of a destructive raid on the railway station at Diredawa in Ethiopia by a band of alleged Italian Fascists.

The attack, which occurred Thursday, was said to have damaged the station and resulted in mistreatment of railway employees.

Reliable informants said the boycott and raid probably were a sign of renewed efforts by Italian authorities to gain control of the railway, an apparent aim of the Italian colonial campaign which has threatened France.

They declared the boycott was an attempt to lessen the importance of the french port of Djibouti toward which two detachments of French colonial troops are now on their way.

Even French residents of Addis Ababa, they said, are refused permission to use the railway to reach French territory east of Ethiopia.

Such permission was said to be granted only those showing a medical certificate that transportation by truck would endanger the bearer's health.

The trucks are being routed through Eritrea, Italian territory north of French Somaliland.

Off The Royal Route Sault To Run Special To See King

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Jan. 7.

IF KING GEORGE cannot visit the Sault, the Sault will endeavor to visit King George. As the itinerary does not include this city, Mayor McMeeken has announced plans to run a special train over the Algoma Central Railway to Franz, on the main line of the C.P.R., 196 miles north of Sault, in order to give people here a chance to see the royal party. P. S. Hamilton, Liberal member of parliament for Algoma West, will leave tomorrow for Ottawa to endeavor to arrange for stopover at Franz.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 7. —(CP).—One of Canada's oldest hotels, the Prospect House here, is going strong after figuring in Canadian history for more than 112 years. The old edifice was built in 1827 by Harmanus Chrysler, and during its century of existence has been everything from a jail to a parliament building.

During the revolution of 1837, when Alexander Mackenzie and Louis Papineau were asserting their opinions despite leaden arguments to the contrary, the hotel was used as a barracks. Still evident are its detention cells, heavily barred and strengthened with stout walnut beams.

Later in the 19th century, after the parliament buildings of United Upper and Lower Canada at Montreal were burned, the venerable half-way house was used as a meeting place where several cabinet sessions were held.

To-day the hotel, still in operation, houses a collection of Canadiana collected by its proprietor, John Ward. The present owner, a former member of the city council, has spent many years collecting the Canadian relics now on display there.

Food Low On Ferry

ST. IGNACE, Mich., Jan. 7. — (AP). — Unless the grounded ferry Chief Wawatam can be pulled off North Graham Shoals to-day it will be necessary to supply the crew of 33 men with fuel and food.

Potatoes, bread and flour needed by the crew can be transported by United States coastguardsmen without particular difficulty, but the task of refuelling a ship that uses 25 tons of coal a day would be a major problem. Plans were made to put the coal aboard in baskets, 30 baskets to the ton.

The 352-foot ferry went aground last Tuesday morning about a mile from shore after losing its bearings in a blizzard on the Straits of Mackinac.

Taxi Rocks Engine, Bounces Off Like Ball In 60 m.p.h. Crash, Injuring 2 Seriously

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 7.—(CP). —To men were injured seriously to-day when the taxicab in which they were driving crashed into the side of an Essex Terminal Railway locomotive. The injured men are Clifford Thomas and Fred Finch, both of Windsor.

Both men were removed to hospital where authorities said they suffered multiple injuries. Train crew members said the taxi was travelling about 60 miles an hour when it crashed into the locomotive. Heavy white frost covering the street made the taxi brakes almost useless.

Train members said the force of the collision was so great, they feared the engine and tender were about to topple over. The automobile bounced back six feet after the collision and the engine rocked for a moment.

"I would say he was doing at least 60 miles an hour," Fireman Garnet Craig of the engine crew said. "I saw him first when we were approaching the crossing and he didn't appear to slow down at all.

"When he hit us I thought for a minute that the engine was going to turn over. The car bounced back like a rubber ball."

Police found the men still jammed in the wrecked car when they arrived.

Drunk's Capers Among Web Of Lofty Girders Steals Show From Groaning Wrestlers

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—(AP)— The wrestlers grunted and groaned. The crowd in the Boston Garden roared its delight. Then—"look" exclaimed a spectator, gazing at a catwalk 150 feet above the ring.

Other faces twisted upward. Dozens, scores, hundreds, stared aloft at a man on the catwalk. Cutting capers with Simian-like care, he swung himself from the girders and leaped from pipe to pipe.

Police and firemen gesticulated and shouted themselves hoarse. Finally Sergeant Michael Carr inched his way along the narrow walk. He got his man.

Booked on a drunkenness charge last night James Sullivan, a steel worker, mildly explained he helped build the Garden a decade ago and just wanted to "renew acquaintance" with the spider-web of lofty steel.

Hore-Belisha Replies To His Critics

DEVONPORT, Eng., Jan. 7.—(CP-Havas)—Leslie Hore-Belisha, secretary of state for war, has struck back at criticism of his conduct in office. He told an audience here Friday that the charges against him were neither open nor precise.

"It appears to be suggested," he declared, "that the war office, under my domination, has been inactive.

"Results of the work done at the war office could not have been attained by masterly inactivity or amateurish superficiality or faltering courage. Some of the measures that have been taken have had to be drastic and decisive.

"It is not palatable, for instance, to make comprehensive changes in the army council and in the higher command.

"The path of the reformer has never been easy. I was not unconscious of the risks I ran."

Paying tribute to Prime Minister Chamberlain, he added: "My knowledge that the premier was equally well acquainted with the character of the task and of the repercussions which must follow from the forthright measures to be taken has throughout sustained me."

"In these times cooperation and understanding are greatly needed, and loyalty is required to those with whom one works," he declared in what what regarded as a reference to the so-called "revolt" of junior ministers who are represented as having told Mr. Chamberlain they are dissatisfied with speed and scope of rearmament. Among those who names have been mentioned in this connection are Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, under-secretary in the war office, R. S. Hudson, secretary of the overseas trade department, and Lord Dufferin, Colonel Undersecretary.

"There are still things to be done if the nation is to have the army which it merits," Mr. Hore-Belisha declared, adding he was alarmed at the effect abroad of "exaggerated descriptions of shortcomings."

Ontario In The Dark On King's Visit Except For Press

Toronto, Jan. 7 (CP).

EXCEPT for information obtained through the newspapers the Ontario Government is in ignorance about the coming visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to Canada.

"We don't even know that Their Majesties are coming unless we believe what we read in the newspapers," Hon. Harry Nixon, acting premier, said today as he complained of the failure of the Ottawa government to provide Ontario with any official notification.

Mr. Nixon instructed the deputy provincial secretary to wire the state department at Ottawa asking for official instructions. He explained that he had consulted with Lieut.-Governor Matthews several times but hesitated to call in Col. George A. Drew, Conservative leader, until official word was received from Ottawa.

Janetville Couple Honored By Friends

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Jan . 7—Around fifty friends of Mr. and Mrs. James Porter gathered at their home in the village on Tuesday evening to honor them on the occasion of their fortieth wedding anniversary.

The evening, though extremely cold and stormy outside, was warm within with the hearty manifestation of love and good fellowship which exists among these friends and neighbors.

Dancing and cards were enjoyed throughout the evening and at midnight lunch was served.

Following lunch Mr. and Mrs. Porter were given central seats while Mrs. Roy Armstrong read a well-worded address paying tribute to this worthy couple and expressing the congratulations and best wishes of all represented.

Mr. Donald Fisher made the presentation of an Alladin lamp and Miss Doreen Dunn sang, "Forty Years Ago," which was composed for the occasion by Mrs. Roy Armstrong.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter each made suitable reply and later dancing was resumed till the wee sma' hours.

Windsor Is Disappointed

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 7—(CP).—Mayor David Croll said to-day Windsor citizens were "highly incensed" because King George and Queen Elizabeth are not scheduled to visit Windsor next spring. He said the two Members of Parliament from Windsor, Norman McLarty and Paul Martin were remiss in their duty to Windsor in not stressing the adequate transportation facilities here.

Mr. Croll said 500,000 persons from Western Ontario and Michigan would have come here if Their Majesties had made a Windsor visit.

Feast Of Epiphany

MONTREAL, Jan. 7. — (CP). — Quebec province, predominantly French and Roman Catholic, observed the feast of Epiphany Friday with traditional family gatherings, special church services and business inactivity befitting cycle's end in the season of "les fetes."

Known familiarly as little Christmas, or day of the kings, Epiphany commemorates adoration of Christ by the magii and is the last event in the Roman Catholic church's series of December-January feasts which begin Dec. 8 with the Immaculate Conception.

1938 Relief

izations in the city will receive a similar letter appealing to them to direct applicants for relief to the city's relief department.

Gravitate To Peterborough

Quite a number of instances were cited to the committee by Alderman Dutton and Relief Office A. G. Metheral indicating the extent of the arrivals here, during the last year or two, of people who have gravitated to Peterborough's relief rolls, with a consequent increase in the financial burden that has to be borne by the taxpayers of this city.

Ald. Dutton said the regulations of the Department of Public Welfare required that a person had to be a resident of a community twelve months before they could qualify for relief, and also had to be gainfully employed for a year. An amendment adopted last August changed that rule completely, so that now there is no present minimum of residence as a qualification for receiving local relief.

A man coming here might obtain work for a few months and then could apply for relief which would be chargeable to the municipality from which he came. After he had worked here twelve months altogether, and not necessarily in steady employment for that period, he became eligible for the local schedule of relief in the event of again becoming unemployed.

A landlord kept one family six months without collecting rent, and then as soon as the family had been here the twelve months an application was made to the relief office for rent.

"Somehow they manage to get along for the first year, and if they can do that why can't they support themselves for another year?" Alderman Dutton suggested.

A New Applicant

Mr. Metheral said he had an application yesterday from a family that has been three weeks over their year in Peterborough. The head of the house worked for $9 a week. He had been out of work for several weeks, and immediately checked in at the relief office down at the corner of Simcoe and Queen streets.

"That man may average about nine dollars a week in relief, and the question is whether he will be willing to return to work if he can get it, or will he prefer to let the city keep him," Mr. Metheral said.

Alderman McCannan suggested that the real estate men of the city could assist the council, and his motion to write and ask them for their co-operation was extended by Alderman Gordon to include an appeal to the doctors and lawyers.

"Why can't we get a ruling from the Deputy Minister of Public Welfare that these people are evading the regulation regarding the establishment of domicile, and give the cities like Peterborough some protection?" Alderman Gordon proposed. "They head for the cities because the schedules of relief are higher than in the smaller places."

Helped By Churches

Alderman Dutton said some of the newcomers are sustained by charitable organizations, principally departments of local churches, and then after being here a year they apply to the city for relief. Alderman Bradburn said that these organizations should also be informed of the council's effort, and requested to co-operate with the relief department.

"They could direct to the relief office all enquiries for relief," Ald. McIntyre said.

"The churches have their own ideas about charity," Alderman Dutton remarked. "Perhaps they give "And there has always been conmore than other organizations."

siderable talk about what the churches should do." Alderman Glover added, probably implying that church organizations are unlikely to reject appeals for help that are made to them.

The proposal to the government is likely to be made by personal interview. Alderman Bradburn said that if the chairman while in Toronto could take up this question with the Deputy Minister it would have more effect than correspondence.

To Buy Wood

Purchase of 50 cords of maple cordwood from R. H. Knox of Indian River at the price of $6.75 delivered in the city was recommended in a motion by Alderman Glover seconded by Alderman McIntyre, and tenders will be called for the supply of 1,000 cords of hardwood.

Millbrook W.A. Out For Mile Of Coppers

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 7—Mrs. F. J. Smith extended the hospitality of her home for the initial meeting of the New Year of the Women's Association of St. Andrew's church, twenty members and visitors being in attendance, and the chair being taken by the president, Mrs. P. I. Bentley.

One new member, Mrs. Clara Walkinshaw, was enrolled and welcomed, and the devotional period was featured by a new year's message, based on the thought of the unchanging character of God, and the verse found in Isaiah 47:13. Mrs. P. Stinson closed this section with prayer, and the business was proceeded with, including the payment of $4.95 for repairs at the parsonage. A number of letters of thanks from recipients of baskets of Christmas cheer were read, including one from the senior member of the congregation, Mrs. L. S. Clarry, mentioning progress toward recovery, and the fact of her individual prayers for the society as the meeting was going on.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. McKnight, reported a total raised last year of $631.77, expenditures of $520.98, leaving a balance on hand of $110.79. Total receipts from the bazaar in December were $75.00, a few articles being still to be seen at Bentley's store.

It was decided to try for a "mile of coppers" during 1939, members to bring in some each month; of the small variety, fifteen make a foot, and of the larger kind, twelve. Over three feet of coppers were placed on the table at Wednesday's meeting. It was also decided to again hold pot luck suppers this month, the membership of 57 being divided into six groups, with 9 to a group; $29.00 was cleared in this way in 1938.

Any member having pieces for a quilt was asked to leave same at the Bentley store, and following the closing prayer, Mrs. Smith served candy, while a social hour was enjoyed.

MARMORA

Mrs. W. J. Huntingford of Wainwright, Alta., is visiting relatives here.

Miss Peggy Sweet who is attending Business College at Peterborough, spent the weekend at her home here.

Miss Grace Taft of Kingston is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. W. J. Taft.

Chirping Mouse

SIMCOE, Ont., Jan. 7.—(CP).—Perhaps this little fellow is a cousin of Mickey Mouse. Anyway Jack Wisson says the story is true. For several nights Wisson had been hearing a queer noice coming from the attic in his home. It sounded like a bird. He set a trap and the next morning it contained a mouse. Wisson says the little animal chirps like a bird.

Daladier Concludes Triumphal Tour

TOULON, France, Jan. 7.—(CP-Havas)—Returning from a triumphal tour of Corsica and French North African territory, Premier Daladier embarked from the cruiser Foch here today and left for Paris by automobile.

New important tasks faced the Premier following his Mediterranean tour, undertaken to stress French empire solidarity and serve as a warning to Italy in its campaign for cession of French territory.

It was announced yesterday that Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Halifax of Great Britain will make a brief stopover in Paris next Tuesday on their way to Rome for conferences with Premier Mussolini.

KEENE

Mr. Kenneth Joyce of Sarnia visited friends in the village on New Year's Day.

Misses Mildred Snowden, Helen Monaghan, Stan Murduff and James Slattery, all of Peterborough, were New eYar's visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. McCarthy.

Miss Maeme Renwick, nurse intraining at Nicholls Hospital, spent a few days with her parents last week.

Mr. Robert McKercher of Dublin, Ont., and Mr. Donald Bell of Barrie have resumed their teaching duties at the short course here.

Labor Boycott

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—(CP).—Boycott against German goods and service as advocated in a letter from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, was given unanimous approval at a meeting of the Trades and Labor Association here last night. Delegates of the various trades were urged to ask their local unions to back the boycott to the limit.

WEEKLY GRAIN REVIEW.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 7 — (C.P.). — Moderate rallies on the Winnipeg wheat futures market during the last week lost their buoyancy in late sessions as long expected selling pressure from the Argentine showed signs of materializing.

Friday's close found values only ⅛-⅜ cent higher, with May at 62¾ and July 63⅜-½ cents. December wheat went off the board at 60¾ cents on New Year's Eve and the October future came on after the holiday week-end at 64¾ cents. The new option finished its first week of trading with a loss of 1⅛ cents at 63⅝ cents.

Reliable reports indicated British millers had received offers of Argentine wheat at prices nearly 14 cents below Canada's No. 3 Northern. No distressed selling developed, however, and observers regarded this as indicating the Argentine Government would follow a more orderly selling policy than it has in recent years.

Major bullish factor during the past week was the unsatisfactory situation prevailing in the United States winter wheat belt where no important moisture has been reported. Government and private surveys continued to stress the dry conditions in this area, particularly in Kansas, chief wheat producing state.

Trading at Winnipeg assumed a much broader character, although export business in Canadian wheat was moderately estimated at around 1,250,000 bushels, worked chiefly from the Pacific Coast. Improved speculative interest appeared, with the boarding of October future permitting more expansive spreading operations and contributing to the liquidity of the market.

Shaft To Cunard

HALIFAX, Jan. 7—(CP).—A proposal to erect a memorial to Sir Samuel Cunard, marking the centenary of trans-Atlanic steamship service, was endorsed last night by the Nova Scotia Historical Society.

The society urged the project be undertaken soon so the monument, to the Nova Scotian, would be ready by July 17, 1940, the 100th anniversary of the arrival of the steamship Britannia to Halifax, beginning the first regular service between the United Kingdom and North America. Sir Samuel was the founder of the service.

Biblical Thoughts For the Shut-Ins

By Rev. E. R. James Toronto

A NEW YEAR OFFERING

The Wise Men presented unto Him gifts—Gold, Frankincense and Myrrh.—St. Matt. 2:11.

An ancient story you heard as a child. Have you put it away as a childish thing, or have you grown wiser with the years and seen its inward meaning?

GOLD. What do you think of money? It has its moral value for money means energy, life, blood—"for the blood is the life thereof." You have earned a wage, a salary because you have the energy, the life, the blood. Have you given good value for the money? Then only will you offer a wise portion of your money to God for God's work and God's poor. He has given you the power to get that money; your skill of hand, your intellectual ability has been given you by God. Moreover, your spiritual stature will depend upon the place money has in your thoughts. But if you worship money then remember that the worshipper becomes like his god. Gold is hard.

FRANKINCENSE. Incense to the oriental imagination symbolises prayers offered to God. "Let my prayer be set forth before Thee as incense." Ps. 141:2. A modern saint says it is the perfect symbol of selfless and confident prayer.

Have you put away prayer as a childish thing? If so, you are poor indeed, for when the trials and the tribulations of life sweep down upon you you will have no refuge, you will have no place of shelter. The modern study of comparative religion has proved that man is essentially religious. It is strange how the cultured man, who has given up God and prayer, thinks he is superior to his cave ancestor, who saw God in everything. He feared the supernatural; he had a deep sense of the numinous, the awe of God's presence. You are truly a wise man if you offer your prayers and worship to God and you are not ashamed to go to church and to present the offering of a pure heart. Truly you are one of the quiet ones in the land.

MYRRH. Myrrh is the gum which oozes out of the bark of a tree. To the oriental imagination the oozing gum spells suffering, pain to the tree. It is wounded, it is suffering. The myrrh is bitter to the taste, but sweet to smell. As he ponders upon it he discovers that pain and suffering is bitter but afterward it bringeth forth sweetness and "the house is filled with the odour of the ointment."

You will have your share of pain and suffering. Then like the wise men you will offer it to Him Who suffered and was made perfect through suffering. He understands; He sympathises. The mystery and wonder of our Christian religion is that God suffers. He will comfort you that you in your turn may comfort others.

Perhaps as you look back upon the blessings of the past year you may be moved to offer God this ancient gem, "a golden bowl full of incense, which are the prayers of the saints." Rev. 5:8.

WE HUMBLY beesech Thee, O Father, mercifully to look upon our infirmities; and for the glory of Thy Name turn from us all those evils that we most righteously have deserved; and grant that in all our troubles we may put our whole trust and confidence in Thy mercy, and evermore serve Thee in holiness and pureness of living, to Thy honour and glory; through our only Mediator and Advocate, Jesus Christ our Lord.

Anniversary Preacher

The Right Reverend John W. Woodside, M.A., D.D. of Ottawa, Moderator of United Church of Canada, who will be the special preacher at the anniversary services in Trinity United Church on Sunday

United Church Moderator To Preach Here

Peterborough is to be honored this weekend by a visit from the moderator of the United Church of Canada. The Right Reverend John W. Woodside, M.A., D.D., who is also minister of Chalmers United church, Ottawa. Dr. Woodside will be the special preacher at the anniversary services of Trinity United church on Sunday.

Born at St. Sylvester West, Quebec, and educated at the University of Manitoba, McGill University and the Presbyterian College, Montreal, he received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Manitoba, and his D.D. degree from both the Presbyterial College, Montreal, and Victoria University, Toronto. He has occupied important pulpits with outstanding success in Vancouver, Toronto and Ottawa. Since church union he has been the convener of the Missionary and Maintenance Committee for the Montreal-Ottawa Conference and in 1928 was president of the Montreal-Ottawa conference. One of the earliest advocates of church union, Dr. Woodside has been a member of the general council of the United Church for several years and is a member of the senate of the United Theological College, Montreal. Although a very busy man, he finds time for recreation in fishing, curling and golf.

Dr. Woodside, known as a virile and forceful personality with fine qualities of leadership which was recognized by the eighth general council of the United Church which elected him to the highest office in the church, that of Moderator of the United Church of Canada.

Dr. Woodside, outstanding preacher and leader who commands an important place in the religious life of the Dominion of Canada, will be the special preacher at the anniversary services in Trinity United church on Sunday. On Monday he will meet the chairmen and secretaries of the seven Presbyteries of the Bay of Quinte Conference along with the conference officers, in Trinity United church. The congregation of St. Andrew's United church are withdrawing their evening service and uniting with Trinity to hear the Moderator's evening message.

The Golden Text

"Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God"—Matthew 16:16.

Noted Negro Singer Is Coming To City

Connecticut's noted Negro tenor, Curtis M. Saulsbury, will visit the city for the first time next Sunday. A voice dedicated to Christian service, he makes use of an unusually sweet and winsome tenor voice to lead his congregations in "Ministry in Song" to appreciate more and more the message of the Gospel. His message to the churches will be most helpful and edifying. He does not aim to entertain but to reach the heart and inspire the life.

He will be heard at St. James United church next Sunday morning and George Sreet United church in the evening.

His nine selections will include: "Go Tell It on the Mountains," "He's the Lily of the Valley," "The Earth is the Lord's," "It's Me O Lord," "In My Heart," "Nothing Between," "Were You There?" "Calvary," and "Rock of Ages."

Has Christianity No Real Value Today To Be Discussed In Series Of Sermons

Has Christianity really no value for our present time? It is ineffective in meeting the problems of the average man? There are many pessimists around who have come to such conclusions, and who believe that Christianity has had its day, and the work of the church is over. Nevertheless, such an attitude is far from the truth, because Christianity has not been truly understood, and its value is only partially known. That Chirst can do for men more than they dream is the central thought in a new series of sermons by the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, which he will commence Sunday morning at St. Paul's church.

The title of the series is "The Blessings of Christianity," and the subjects are as follows: 1, Salvation for the sinner; 2, Healing for the bruised; 3, Courage for the suffering; 4, Security for the defenceless; and 5, Renewal for the wearied.

Next Sunday evening he will also deal with the barriers being raised between race, nation, and class in our modern world by the false ideologies abroad in the world today. The theme will be "Our False Ideologies."

A National Message

A LOST DOCUMENT FOUND—5

"Where is the Bill of your mother's divorcement?"

We now proceed to ask—What is there so vital about the possession of this "Bill of Divorcement?" What are the provisions contained therein?"

First of all the divorced wife, who is in possession of the "Bill of Divorcement," is in possession of credentials showing her to have been formerly exalted to the privilege of being the Royal Spouse of the Lord.

Surely this is a great honor. It was advertised every time the "Israel" name was named, for the meaning of the name, as translated in Young's Analytical Concordance, is "Ruling with God."

Even when this name was laid aside and the name "House of Isaac" was substituted (see Amos VII) the glory of this once-possessed honor remained attached to the people. They became knows as Goths; people of God. It was said of them, according to the prophecy, "these are the people of the Lord and are gone forth out of His land."

But the possession of the Bill of Divorcemnt carried with it the assurance of restoration to more than the fulness of the former glory of the relationship. For the redemption was provided, and should come in due time, after which Israel should be restored to be the bride of the Lord in greater glory than had ever been in the past ages of her married life.

ONLY THE NATION POSSESSED OF THE BILL OF DIVORCEMENT CAN LAY CLAIM TO, OR HOPE FOR, THIS HONOR.

Therefore the possession of the Bill of Divorcement is of the most vital importance, first to Israel, and secondly to the world. It is essential that the "Court" of the King of kings shall be again set up in the world, and this must be through the restoration of Israel.

How vividly the scriptures tell this phase of the Gospel of the Kingdom.

Let us now proceed to ask: What are the provisions of the Bill—(a) as to Israel, the divorced wife; and (b) as to her daughter nations?

Let it be noted that the time of separation from Her Husband and the calamities which should fall upon the Divorced wife during that period have passed away.

Except as a matter of instruction in history, it is not theerfore necessary for us now to go into the clauses of separation. They have had their fulfilment to the full.

It is important to enquire what privileges remain to Israel and her children, how they have been fulfilled and which of them remain to be fulfilled at the present time.

Great as have been the changes which have come to the world since the coming in of this century, the changes which the restoration under the clauses of the Bill of Divorcement will bring in are greater still. It will be well for us to be able to foresee them and so get into line with the Divine purpose as set forth therein.

Cathedral Musings

As a subject of meditation this little prayer contains much food for thought.

A PRAYER

Supernal Being, Radiant Light
Descending from above,
Oh, let me merge and blend with Thee
In ecstasy of love.
Let me lay down this mortal self
And lose myself in Thee
In wondrous unity of all
As rivers find the sea.

Oft on Thy brow I've set the thorns,
Oft nailed Thee to the Cross.
Forgive, forgive, my Light, my Life
And cleanse from me the dross.
For in my turn I've crucified
Self on Thy Holy Rood,
In tasting of the mystic fruit
Of evil and of good.

Lo, Thou hast sealed me with Thy Cross
And marked me for Thine own,
And set my feet upon Thy Path
That leads unto Thy Throne.
Arise, Thou then, Eternal Flame,
Within this house of clay,
Change this dark night of sorrowing
Into Thy Golden Day.

Lactantius III.

TOO MANY ELKS

STOCKHOLM—(CP). — During the Swedish elk-hunting season last fall 8,469 were shot, a record number. One reason for the record kill was that many of the animals had conceived a taste for oats and were found feeding in the fields.

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 8 is Mathew 16: 13-25, the Golden Text being Matthew 16:16, "Thou are the Christ, the Son of the Living God.")

BY NEWMAN CAMPBELL

IT IS NOW a year after Simon Peter left his boat and fishing activities and followed Jesus. Jesus and His disciples came to Caesarea Phillippi, about 25 miles north of the Sea of Galilee.

Jesus was curious, as any of us might have been, as to what people said of Him, and asked His disciples, "Whom do men say that I, the Son of Man, am?"

"Some say Thou art John the Baptist; some, Elias, and others Jeremiah, or one of the other prophets," they answered.

"But whom say ye that I am?" He asked. And Simon Peter answered for them: "Thou are the Christ, the Son of the Living God."

This answer pleased Jesus. "Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona," he answered. Barjona means son of Jonah, or John. He also told him that He would give him (Peter) the keys of heaven. You know Peter is called the gate-keeper of heaven.

Then Jesus told His disciples that they should not tell anyone whom they thought He was. He told them that He must go to Jerusalem and "suffer many things." At that Peter rebuked the Lord, saying that such things could not happen to Him.

But Jesus reproved Peter, telling him to "get thee behind me, Satan." Maybe even His heart failed when He thought of all the pain and suffering He was to endure—the accusations, the trials, the cross, and felt He would escape them if He could.

"Then," said Jesus unto His disciples, "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it."

Meaning that the good life is not easy, and it takes a person who is not afraid to take a firm stand, even if it means that he will lose his life.

The impression that Jesus made on his hearers is illustrated by the story of the centurion. A centurion was a captain of an hundred men. He came to Jesus and said his servant was sick with the palsy—very sick. He wanted Jesus to heal him, but when Jesus said he would come to his home the centurion said he was not worthy to have the Master visit him, but that if He would only speak a word his servant would be saved.

And Jesus marveled at the man's faith, and said to him, "Go thy way; and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee." And his servant was healed in that same hour.

All through the accounts of Jesus' life you see how strong He was in His character. He gave praise where it was due. But He also told his followers and everyone just what He thought, and rebuked them when they were wrong, whether they were humble folk or "those in high places."

Real praise and appreciation are helpful, and so is just criticism. When you are scolded, try to ask yourself, "Do I deserve that?" If you can truthfully say the rebuke is unjust, try to forget it; but if you know in your heart that it is true, mend your ways. That is what Peter did. He, too, was a strong man, a real leader, one that other men followed. Although later he was to show himself weak in many ways, yet he was the one Jesus loved and who was truly a rock, as Jesus called him, "and upon this rock will I build my church," He said.

For 20 years Peter was the outstanding leader of the early Christian church, and although he was only an ignorant fisherman, he was looked up to by all who worked with him and is known as Jesus' best loved disciple.

Peter Commended and Rebuked — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buessher

Scripture—Matthew 16:13-25.

"Whom do you say that I am?" Jesus asked His disciples. Simon Peter answered: "Thou art the Christ," and received the Lord's praise.

Jesus hinted that He was to suffer many things in the near future, but Peter rebuked Him, and was in turn reproved.

A centurion had such faith in Jesus' healing power that he asked that He just speak and his servant owuld be cured.

The Samaritans of a certain village would not receive Jesus, which made the disciples very angry.

Two Ways Are Open

The Chevrier Commission on Highways in Ontario has handed in a report which recommends something which people will not like. That is a gasoline tax of nine cents per gallon instead of the present rate of six cents. The net debt on our highways which has accumulated since 1903 amounts to $249,230,617, and the Commission believes that with the increased tax it would be possible to wipe it off in 40 years.

Last year our provincial treasury gathered in $24,000,000 from the tax on gasoline, and it is not possible to estimate what it might get under the increased rate of taxation. Some of the trouble has come from the custom of not applying all the revenue secured from motor licenses and gas tax to the paying of the highways bill. Money has been needed for other purposes and the large revenue from the gas tax was a handy place to go and get it.

There is such a thing possible as the increased size of the tax resulting in a decreased amount of traffic. That is the old law of diminishing returns through greater levies. This paper is not prepared for instant and open denouncement of the proposal. Apparently we can take one of two courses, (1) we can go along as at present and allow the debt to increase, or we can face the issue and start paying a tax which will be sufficient to rid our province of highway debt in 40 years.

The Examiner believes we have paid too little attention to debt reduction in our province. There were some attempts made a few years ago but they were feeble gestures which were non-effective. The report of the Chevrier Commission has at least given us something to think about. Its recommendations regarding trucks and wages are exhaustive. For the moment we consider it right enough to mention only that increased gas tax. We know it will not be popular; we know the number of drivers who will complain will be large and the number who will pay it cheerfully will be small. But the question as we see it comes down to this: Are we going to go along piling up greater debts or are we ready to face the issue and start paying off our debts?

Agreeing About History

W. J. Stewart, M.L.A.-elect for Parkdale, does not approve of a history textbook, "Britain's Story." Mr. Stewart in a banquet speech, said he had looked through this particular publication and found pictures of Stalin, Lenin, Mussolini and Hitler, together with short descriptive stories of these men telling of the work they had done in their respective countries. He added: "And yet there is nothing of the hate they have let loose on the world and their ever-present threat to peace." The speaker said it would be better to teach history to Canadian youth by holding up men like Baldwin, Anthony Eden and Sir John A. Macdonald as examples rather than the war-mongers of Europe.

The book referred to "Britain's Story" is not an official text-book, but stands near the top on the list of supplementary reading recommended by the Department of Education.

We doubt if it would be possible to publish the perfect text-book in history, particularly when the history of foreign countries is the issue. If one were to follow the sentiment and the feeling of the times it would be out of the question to produce a book on which people would agree. On that account contemporary history is apt to be a more stormy petrel than the perusal of ancient history where facts are stationary and where none can arise from the years long past to either deny or confirm the truth of the printed page.

The trouble seems to be that many of us want to record German, Italian or Russian history as we see it and as we believe it to be, rather than from the plain statement of fact as it has actually taken place. There is something about the events or the personalities in these countries which we do not like and we want to make sure that our dislike is reflected in the construction of our history books. What we should have in our histories is truth, and it is not always acceptable because so many of us want our history books to say what we think they should say regardless of how much we know or do not know about what has actually taken place.

Must Remain Silent

Premier King has made some additional announcements regarding the visit of the King and Queen to Canada. Their Majesties are not expected to accept any degrees from schools or universities; they are not going to visit any industrial plants; there can be not more than one official meal-time gathering in any one day.

But the full weight of official restriction falls when our Prime Minister announces that Their Majesties are not to be expected to listen to addresses of welcome excepting at Ottawa and the various provincial capitals. They will thus be officially addressed ten times in about 26 days and probably Mr. King is right enough in concluding that is sufficient.

But there are some 50 points where they are going to visit, and that means 40 places where there will be no opportunity for the mayor to read an illuminated address, hand-lettered and bound with royal ribbons and then hand the document to His Majesty. And no opportunity for his worship to draw on his own powers of impromptu delivery to cover a few points which the official speech writer may have omitted. And that of course is tough and might well cause one to wonder what is the use of being mayor in the year of this important visit if he is to remain dumb. But our Prime Minister has concluded the visit will be more enjoyable without the perpetual feast of oratory and flow of soul. And probably he's right enough. Even so it's a little rough on the mayor to be told in advance to remain silent in the presence of distinguished guests.

A Real Attraction

A score of newsboys from New York state were taken to Ottawa by the publishers of their papers as a reward for faithful service. Ottawa, being the capital of the country to the north, was a good place to select for a visit. There are many notable buildings to see there and even when the House is not in session it is possible to see cabinet members and even the Prime Minister.

The boys agreed they had a great time, but the real place to them was out at the headquarters of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. They had a meal there and were served with regular fare; it was arranged that each boy sat between the Mounted men. They saw the Mounties training their dogs, saw them give exhibitions of horsemanship, and they were completely taken into camp by the natty uniforms they wore. When they go home the rest of Ottawa will probably be forgotten but the memory of the Mounties will remain.

This paper has suggested previously that we are losing a good bet in this country in not having some of these Mounted men in their brilliant uniforms at points where they will be in evidence during the tourist season. We'd like a dozen or a score of them moving through the Kawartha district. The American tourist has heard a great deal about our Mounted Police, but seldom do they appear at many points where they can be seen. The newsboys from New York state are not at all different to thousands of other people in the States. We have a big drawing card there but we are not yet using it for that purpose. It could well be done without in the least cheapening the Mounties.

When There Is Slush

A good many car drivers do not seem to realize it, but when the roads are filled with slush it is the time when they show whether or not they have good manners. The pedestrian will regret to report that many of them have not.

It is not necessary to spend much time doing observation work to see where the car drivers are doing a good many miserable things. When they are driving near the curb it is not necessary that they should insist on making use of the full sped limit of the law.

It is also a plain violation of law and of the rights of people to cause slush to be pitched at them by the wheels of a car. Nor is there any need for it, not even with a delivery truck.

Yet one can see a plain demonstration of it on the streets on a day of slush—of the small regard which some people have for the rights and comfort of other people. There was an old slogan about courtesy which was once used by the Highways Department, and there is splendid opportunity to apply it when slush lies deep on our streets.

We Depend On The Farmer

W. R. Reek, Deputy Minister of Agriculture in Ontario, made a statement to a Toronto paper about the relative condition of the average farmer and the man in the city on relief or working for low wages. He is reported this way:

> "The majority of farmers always have enough to eat, and can generally get something to wear. As there is a much smaller percentage of farmers needing help than city folk, the neighbors can usually be depended upon to share their goods if real need develops."

Mr. Reek believed that the farmer was in a better position than the class to which he referred in the cities. The farmer is engaged in what we call a basic industry, one which produces the new wealth of this or any other nation. By that we mean he puts a bushel of oats in the ground as seed and takes from it perhaps 50 bushels at the time of harvest, and that is new wealth because it did not previously exist.

The farmer is also a business man with an investment greater than that of a good many people who carry on business in towns and cities. If there is any man who should anticipate being able to live at least comfortably and decently it is the farmer. His position according to tradition and theory should be fairly secure, and if it is not then it is bound to have an undesirable influence on other people.

With no reflection at all upon those who find it necessary to secure relief or those who are forced to work for low wages in urban communities, we submit the position and circumstances of the farmer ought to be such that they could not be fairly called into comparison.

The fact that the comparison has been made is sufficient to call attention to the situation. Our whole business structure depends on how the man on the land is getting along. Instead of comparing him to the individual who is on relief we ought actually to be looking to him as the one who has the buying power to sustain business in the community. There is a closer connection than we may care to admit between the farmer on the land and the man on relief in the city. If the farmer is not succeeding then the man in the city may not be working as a result. We are getting away out on a limb when we find it possible to compare the position of the farmer with that of the individual on relief because the basis for such comparison ought not to exist.

The Cost Of Killing People

When there is a war those who deal in statistics generally come along with the results of their labors and tell us exactly what it cost to kill a man or blow him to pieces. That of course is the business of war and no good purpose is served by trying to disguise that ugly fact.

During the time of the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 it was necessary to fire 80 bullets to accomplish the task of killing a soldier. The equipment used then would be considered hopelessly out-of-date today and one might suspect that with machine guns and rifles equipped for rapid fire that the killing process would be accomplished with greater speed.

But that is not the case. In the World War the statistician tells us it was necessary to fire 28,000 bullets and 860 shells to bring about the death of a soldier. Hard to believe, but that is claimed to be exactly how it worked out.

It is profitable for those who make bullets and shells to have it that way. A bullet costs but the fraction of a penny to manufacture but sells for three cents or more.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Everything seems to be speeded up now and the Niagara ice jam is expected earlier than last year.

One Toronto man who is out a good deal in cold weather says he keeps his feet warm by putting red pepper in his shoes. That goes in the catalogue as the 179th suggestion on the question of cold feet.

World wheat conference will open in London, and the problem is to find out what to do with all the wheat which has resulted from a series of bumper crops. It is not a pleasant suggestion, but seven lean years will cure the trouble.

Radio officials say that the New Year's speech of the acting German consul, about which there has been complaint, was not censored because the discretion of the consul was relied upon. The radio authorities will know what to do next time.

Hon. Norman Rogers does not intend to reply to the latest letter from Premier Hepburn until the latter returns from Australia, which will be in about two months. And then he might send only a postcard saying: "Glad you're home; hope you had a good time."

President Roosevelt says he has not lost faith in the policy of farm control to avoid alternating periods of glutted markets and scarcity. Before going too far he might have a word with the grasshoppers, high winds, drought and frost and perhaps reach an understanding with hail.

RATHER TOUGH

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Farewell to little Christmas trees, we've really seen the last of these, a heartless sort of plan; I saw you riding off today, looked dismal as you rode away, 'twas with the garbage man.

¶ 'Twas quiet out where you used to grow, you faced hot sun and winter snow, the wind would bend you too; the wind that blew made you quite strong, and though your living days weren't long, but happy ones for you.

¶ Perhaps you were just eight years old, when you were whittled off and sold, I don't know what you thought; perhaps you had preferred to stay, and do some growing every day, like good trees ought to do.

¶ But when you came to town 'twas gay, you may have lost your head I'd say, the pace was rather fast; perhaps you thought those days and nights, when you were decked with fancy lights, were really going to last.

¶ You were the centre spot I know, you saw the presents come and go, saw more than any man; but when the Christmas time was through, they really had no use for you, so comes the garbage man.

¶ A tough old world my little tree, perhaps not like it ought to be, it glitters now and then; but when they've no more use for you, and when your giddy days are through in comes the garbage men.

The Ashburnham Vote

BY P. McGILLEN

A survey of the total number of votes in the six Ashburnham polls reveals that it is practically an impossibility for an Ashburnham candidate for the City Council to be elected even if he were to get every vote east of the river.

In the six polls there are 1663 votes and deducting three per cent to take care of non-residents would reduce the figure to 1613. In the last municipal election the candidate running in last place polled 1779 votes.

A further check-up of voting results in Ashburnham shows that the residents in that section have never taken their duties very seriously in the matter of electing a candidate, and this condition has led many to believe that the majority of residents east of the bridge do not care whether Ashburnham has a representative on the City Council or not.

The History of It.

In 1935 the late Dan Holland who sat on the council for several years was defeated. He polled 2676 votes getting only 480 in Ashburnham. Malcolm McIntyre who headed the polls that year with 3767 took 525 votes out of the east ward.

On New Year's Day in 1936 Jim Ellis went to bat as an Ashburnham candidate. He polled a total vote of 2824, getting 635 votes east of the river and was defeated by the slim margin of 11 votes by Fred Tuggey. Alderman R. M. Glover headed the polls that year with 4717 votes and 641 were polled in the six east side booths.

On election day in 1937 Martin Roche, another Ashburnham resident and well known business man made his debut in the municipal arena. He received 1797 votes with 378 from his neighbors. Alderman G. N. Gordon headed the polls with 2564 taking 387 from the east ward.

Three Candidates.

Last year Ashburnham had three representatives to choose from. Joe Vinette, William Johnson and Wilfrid Huycke, K. C. Vinette polled 1102 altogether, 267 from the east side; Johnson got 992 and 208 from the east while Huycke running on a one year ticket was elected when he gathered in 2239 votes and 452 from the Ashburnham supporters. The same day Alderman Glover obtained 455 east of the river and Alderman G. N. Gordon 410, both being returned for two-year terms.

This year another Ashburnham man ventured into the battle at the request of many residents north of Hunter Street who felt that after the London Street dam had been fenced it was advisable to have a member to look after the east side ratepayers. The result was the same, their candidate met defeat and received just one-quarter of the total vote in the ward. He polled 423 votes in East City and a grand total of 1223. William Johnson who was a candidate again polled 829 and 201 from Ashburnham.

Thus it would appear that unless a candidate from Ashburnham was sufficiently well known and popular enough to obtain an average of 25 votes from the 33 polls outside of Ashburnham and two-thirds of the total vote east of the river which could be got out by a live-wire organization, he has little chance of being elected to the City Council.

• The Minister of Propaganda

To the struggling Nazi party, Goebbels brought a genius for the organization of propaganda. Supporting himself by running a cheap Berlin journal, Die Voelkische Freiheit, he wormed his way upward, slipperly as Satan. None of his colleagues trusted him —"he is the Mephistopheles of the party," they said—but all respected his ability.

From the beginning Goebbels was bound to Hitler by hate and love He envied the Fuehrer's leadership. At the same time he admired Hitler and divined that the best way to further his own ambition would be to promote Hitler's.

Because he is the best-educated Hermann Goering, and Goebbels — is often called Hitler's one-man brain trust." Hitler, Field Marshall Hermann Goering, and Goebbels Nazis One, Two, and Three— are referred to respectively as "the Mouth, the Muscle, and the Mind." This is an over-simplification of their true role. Goering butchered and Goebbels scribbled the Nazi party to success, but the idea man behind both has always been Hitler. It was Hitler who, plumbing the deepest currents of German opinion, brought to the surface the idea that Jews and Socialists "sapping the front line" had turned German's shining World War victory into shameful defeat. Goebbels took the idea and soaked it into the German mass mind with his newspaper, Der Angriff.

Press-agent extraordinary, Goebbels is the creator of the Hitler legend. He is also the whitewasher of the Nazi reputation. In the 1920s the party had an unsavory name because its ranks included a clique of homosexuals. As early as 1922 a Nazi meeting at Munich voted that no woman should ever hold political office. Goebbels twisted the party's abnormal dislike of women into something "respectable" — the doctrine that woman's place is in the kitchen and the maternity ward. In 1934 he had the brilliant idea of attributing the blood purge to moral reasons. Ernst Roehm, leader of the secret opposition to Hitler, happened to be a homosexual. Goebbels managed to convey to the German people the belief that Roehm was murdered because of his morals.

Goebbels himself married young and happily. Magda Goebbels, blonde and lovely, was a German refugee who fled from Belgium to Berlin during the war, and was brought up by a Jewish family. Goebbels is her second husband. Once, he set up his wife as fashion dictator for all Germany but after three months the position was quietly eliminated from the Nazi scheme of things.

Under Goebbels' direction German newspapers have become dull but, for foreign state departments, required reading. The Nazi press onslaught on Czechoslovakia was plotted as carefully as a military campaign. Headlines which snarled, "Germany Has Waited Long Enough," played no little part in scaring Britain and France into awarding Sudetenland to the Reich.

Last week the German press was blossoming with a campaign to persuade Britain that she should accept aerial inferiority to Germany as Germany has accepted naval inferiority to Britain. "I can play upon public opinion," boasts Dr. Goebbels, "as upon the stops of a mighty organ."

As an orator he is second only to Hitler. Millions heard his high, rather piping voice introduce the Fuehrer at the September 12 party congress at Nuremberg. On that occasion Goebbels said, "Germany is behind Hitler as one man." He said it over and over again, varying the words but not the thought. Repetition is the secret of his technique. "Hate the Jews!" "Value a common prostitute above a married Jewess!" —his slogans bombard the German intelligence.

With only one segment of the population is Goebbels popular. Economic radical and son of the Ruhr, he knows phrases that charm the proletariat. "Stand up, you young aristocrats of a new working class! You are the aristocrats of the Third Reich!" he shouted to Berlin workmen in the 1920s. Whatever following Hitler has mong factory workers —the class which profited least from the Nazi revolution—is due to Goebbels. Other Germans are suspicious of the little lame man with the glittering, un-Aryan eyes and swart skin. "The dwarf is born of the devil," they grumble. "No honest German could be so clever."

ALBERTA BONDS.

SINCE Alberta started issuing bonds in 1908, it has sold $128,000,000 worth, bearing an average rate of 4.89 percent. Through action of the Social Credit Government the average yield has been reduced to 2.5 percent.

However, the investor who purchases Alberta bonds at the present time will get a much higher yield on his money than 2.5 per cent. because he can buy the bonds at a heavy discount. Take an issue of $6,000,000, sold in 1929 bearing five percent., to mature in 1959. The rate now paid by the province on these bonds is 2.5 percent. per $100. But the bonds can be bought at around $60 at the present time.

This means a yield for the purchaser of slightly more than four percent., not counting the speculative chance of political changes in Alberta increasing the market value of the bonds.—Regina Leader-Post.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Come ye children, hearken unto me: I will teach you the fear of the Lord.—Ps. xxxiv, 11.

Judas saith unto him, not Iscariot, Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest thyself unto us, and not unto the world? Jesus answered and said unto him, If a man love me he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him. He that loveth me not keepeth not my sayings: and the word which ye hear is not mine, but the Father's which hath sent me.

These things have I spoken unto you being yet present with you. But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you.—John xiv, 22-26.

FRILLS NEEDED?

ONE of the first things Vancouver's mayor-designate, Dr. Telford, did after his election was to make it known that there will be no frills at the city hall. He says there is too much business to be done, so there is no time for ceremonial.

Perhaps Dr. Telford is mistaken when he dismisses the frills and furbelows of public affairs with a snap of his fingers. But we shall not enter here into metaphysical conjecture of their value, except to wonder whether parliament's work really would be done as well without an initial clap of artillery and a gitter of scarlet and gold.

The fact remains that people like a spectacle. The republic on this continent which tries most to get along with a minimum of ceremonial in its public life happens to be the most overrun with imitation orders of chivalry and pseudo-knighthood, parading about in gaudy uniforms that would make any ordinary sensitive citizen feel silly.—Calgary Albertan.

TOPIC FOR SERMON.

Hardly a day passes without the news of some refinement in the art of killing men by wholesale, and there seems to be no creation of man that is not ultimately put to some destructive and barbarous use. But nature, if our readers will pardon the moralizing mood, seems to be secretly beneficent even when most horrible.

The cobra is a dreadful creature but Dr. David I. Macht and his son, Moses B. Macht, of Baltimore, have discovered that its venom when diluted will ease pain in many serious diseases, and do so without the bad mental after-effects that follow morphine and similar drugs.

The venom of the cobra can bring blessed relief to pain sacked bodied but the mind of man distinguishes itself chiefly for ingenious wickedness. We pass the theme on to some minister in search of a sermon, and hope he can find the answer.

FARMER'S DOLLAR.

THERE IS NO DOUBT that, unless the farm dollar can be brought to a parity with the dollar in secondary industries and services, Canada cannot have permanent prosperity. High wage levels in secondary industries are fine. The higher the wages the better we can carry the tax burden, and the greater power we have to buy consumption goods. But when farmers cannot earn enough dollars to buy enough of these goods to give them a decent standard of living, then something is wrong. If the farmer's dollar can't be brought up to the level of the city dollar, then the latter must get down to the level of the former. This, of course, will not be popular argument with the C.C.F. elements which are now trying to lure the farmers into the Labor camp, but farmers are beginning to learn that they may have to exert pressure if they are to get a square deal.—Lethbridge Herald.

Rebels To Shell Tarragona From The Sea

HENDAYE, France, (At the Spanish frontier), Jan 7. —(AP)— The Spanish insurgents today disclosed their fleet is steaming north to shell Tarragona, principal seaport of Southern Catalonia, as part of a coordinated land and sea drive designed to deliver a decisive blow to the Spanish government.

General Franco's forces turned their main offensive in the direction of Tarragona, on the Mediterranean coast 50 miles southwest of Barcelona, by advancing on Ulldemolins, a strategic town on the main Tarragona road.

The insurgent fleet was reported earlier this week to be moving up from Gibraltar in the vicinity of Valencia. Its present whereabouts and date of expected arrival off Tarragona remained military secrets.

Leaders of the People's Front parties in Tarragona were reported by the insurgents to be leaving for Barcelona.

The government's southwestern offensive, which started as a local engagement two days ago, widened today into a general attack over a 20-mile front in the mining territory of Cordoba province.

The drive apparently was aimed to divert insurgent pressure from the Catalonian front in Northeast Spain where insurgent gains have been marked up in the past two weeks.

Barcelona headquarters reported the counter-offensive which resulted in the fall of Valsequillo and La Granjuela now menaces the communications centre of Fuente Ovejuna.

Deny Victory Reports

The Insurgent command, however, denied flatly government claims of wide victories on the southwest front.

"We attach no importance to the Red (government) attacks in Andalusia," an official statement said, "for our reserve and garrison troops are repulsing all enemy assaults. The Reds' intention was to paralyze the rapid offensive in Catalonia, but it is all useless."

The government asserted its militiamen in two days not only have broken the Insurgent front line at Cabeza dl Buey and Belmez, but have routed General Franco's forces from at least six villages and many more important fortified positions.

The government estimated recaptured territory at 250 square kilometres—96 square miles.

Robust Health For Young People

What a common sight it is to see a young person whose bloodless face and feeble frame are evidence of poor circulation and weakness where bounding health and rosy cheeks should reign.

Young people in such a condition are generally of an anaemic nature and require a preparation containing iron to help improve the blood content.

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills meet this requirement, as they contain three concentrated forms of iron of an easily assimilated nature together with other valuable ingredients indicated for building up the system strengthening the nerves, and adding to your physical attraction.

Failure Of League Blamed On States

EDMONTON, Jan. 7—(CP).—Decay of the League of Nations since its establishment 20 years ago was due primarily to failure of the United States to join it, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett said here last night in a banquet address.

"You remember that Colonel House of the United States wrote the document which became the covenant (of the League of Nations)," said the former prime Minister who soon will take up residence in England.

"Lord Cecil and General Smuts contributed to it too, but essentially it was the covenant prepared by our American cousins that became the constitution of the League of Nations. It was a document of collective security.

"But unfortunately the United States rejected it, and eventually the League was destroyed by failure of that great western republic to accept it. The United States extended to the League a dead hand instead of living tissue; it was the dead hand of Washington—of isolationism."

Of his retirement, Mr. Bennett said:

"I do not seek a new home in another land because I want to do so, but because I must. I am 68 years old now. And I have a heart condition which I hoped and believed temporary but which stays with me. It is not a dangerous condition; but when I see a pretty girl my heart beats faster, and it beats faster very frequently in this country."

Make These Smart Curtains at Home

The living room looking a little dingy these wintry days? Give it fresh draperies, inexpensive, easy to make.

Here is something new, combining plain-colored side draperies with striped valance. Beige with rust-red stripes, or apple green with bottle-green stripes, or any color scheme that ties up with your room.

If rayon moire is chosen for draperies, striped rayon taffeta is correct for the valance. Heavy cotton crash or rep draperies call for a cotton valance—perhaps one of the delightful striped tickings shown in warm soft colorings.

Line draperies and valance with sateen. Drape valance; tack it to valance board screwed shelfwise to top of window trim.

Our 32-page booklet gives diagramed directions for valances and draperies. Easy-to-follow instructions for draping, lining, pleating. Hints on selecting appropriate materials and styles for all types of rooms.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of NEW IDEAS IN MAKING CURTAINS AND DRAPERIES to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

"Well," said Mr. Punch the puppet, to Knarf and Hanid, "I wish I were on the Equator to-day instead of being here where it's so cold."

"The Equator?" Knarf repeated. "What's that like?" The shadow-boy thought perhaps the Equator was something like a nice warm oven.

"Oh I know what the Equator is!" Hanid suddenly exclaimed. "I heard the teacher explaining it to my mistress the other morning in school. It's a line that goes around the middle of the earth. But it isn't a real line. It's imaginary."

Teacher Was Right.

Mr. Punch smiled. "The teacher was quite right. The Equator is an imaginary line that goes around the middle of the earth, just as the North Pole and the South Pole are imaginary poles that stick up out of the top and bottom of the earth. But the difference is this: The North and South Poles are at the coldest parts of the earth, while the Equator goes around the warmest part."

"Oh! I didn't know that. It must be very pleasant down there even in the winter time," said Knarf.

"I wish I were a bird."

"It's quite pleasant," agreed Mr. Punch smiling. "I know what I'm saying. I've spent lots of time walking around the Equator."

"You have?"

"Well—not exactly walking, for a good deal of the Equator goes over the ocean waves. What I meant was that I've been on the Equator. It never really gets cold down there. It rains a bit now and then. In fact, it sometimes pours quite heavily. But soon the sun comes out. Then the birds sing and the flowers bloom. Talking of birds," he added after a moment's pause, "the last time I was down to the Equator I met most of our bird-friends that we always see flying around the garden in the spring and summer."

Birds Are Smart.

"Really, Mr. Punch?" the two shadows asked in surprise.

"Oh! yes, indeed. Birds are pretty smart. They don't like the idea much of spending a cold winter up here when it's so easy for them to fly dow nto the Equator. It's quite a long flight, of course, but it's worth it. That's where they go —most of them — when they fly south."

"I wish I were a bird," said Knarf, gazing out of the window at the snow-covered garden.

"So do I," added Hanid.

Mr. Punch nodded. "And so do I."

"Prison Cell" Blaze Burns Three Boys

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Jan. 7. —(AP).—Three young boys, tightly trapped in a "prison cell," narrowly escaped death when a sudden fire brought terrifying drama to a game of "cops and robbers."

Prompt rescue by the "cops" alone prevented a catastrophe.

As it was all three captive "robbers" were burned painfully when the scrap paper roof of the narrow four-foot prison—a discarded galvanized tank—flamed above their heads. So closely wedged together were the victims they were unable to help themselves.

Albert Simac, 10, suffered second degree burns about the face and arms; Frank Ferbezer, 14, was burned on face and arms, and Joseph Kovac, nine, was burned on one arm. Simac has been in bed since Monday whe nthe near-tragedy occurred.

Police, who opened an investigation to-day, said they had not determined how the blaze began.

ROMANCE INC.

BY OREN ARNOLD

CHAPTER 44

DEEP DOWN somewhere even in the best of us is a lingering disciplinarian which keeps us just a little ashamed and helps guide our steps. Usually it is the memory of some ugly deed months or years ago, or of some planned meanness which we didn't quite do.

In the latter classification came Thornton Holgate's adventure in alcoholism. The young college professor had grown up with high ideals, then had clung to them through his adult career. The one lapse, engendered by what he thought was love, really was nothing; he merely purchased a bottle of liquor with the vague intention of drinking it, and never touched a drop. But the memory of that one lapse clung to him ever after, a latent shame. He felt that he had been disgraced in a younger man's eyes, had set a bad precedent to a youth who admired him. Actually, young Worthington Gurley had paid only fleeting attention, thinking the professor was conducting some form of scholarly research at a dance. Worthington was too distraught by the frameup on Sara Sue, the planting of a diamond bracelet by her enemy, Peaches Pomeroy.

"It is a beautiful piece of jewelry," Dr. Holgate was saying, holding the piece and the coat, too.

"Sure. Gosh! It cost plenty, Dr. Holgate, didn't it? Don't you see—I'll bet a dollar that Peaches was going to accuse Sara Sue of stealing it."

"Um." The professor was definitely at a loss. He could prove nothing against Peaches, in one sense. And yet the evidence was damning. She would never have risked so valuable an object in a mere schoolgirl joke, a hoax of some kind. "Doubtless you are right, Gurley. It was—fortunate—that you discovered the matter in time. But—"

"What'll we do, Dr. Holgate?"

"Um. Let me see—this is indeed most regrettable, Gurley! Quite disturbing."

"Yes, sir, but what'll we DO?" Worthington believed in action, not meditation.

"We must not move too hastily, lest we do an injustice. Are you sure that this is Sara Sue's coat, and not Miss Pomeroy's own? Perhaps Peaches just made an error, and thought she was putting it in her own coat."

"Aw, naw hell naw, Dr. Holgate! How could she?" The lad's contempt and anger were profound. "She didn't put it in a pocket, did she?"

"No. But then she might make a practice of concealing it in this lining. It might be safer there, you see?"

"Naw! That's Sara Sue's coat, I tell you. I checked it in. I was having to be check boy; the sophs made me. I helped Sara Sue take it off. I've been with Sara Sue when she wore this coat. That one yonder is Peaches'—that one, see? Anyhow, I saw Peaches tear the hole in the coat, with her fingers and teeth. She looked wild as a bat while she was doing it. Crazy wild, and mean."

That, of course, was sufficient. Gurley could not be mistaken.

Dr. Holgate had been hoping to find some way out of the difficulty. Some graceful way. His interest now was more than personal, it was professional, too. It would be a sad thing to have the grand ball disrupted by a public scandal, he realized. Inevitably the police would get news of it, then the newspapers. And he knew from direct experience how the press was headlining Rice news of late.

As a professor, he felt it his duty to weight the matter carefully. Even if Peaches were no longer the object of his affections, it might be that she had just acted impulsively and would soon be genuinely sorry for her mistake. Jealously sometimes does strange things. He would not like to see any student persecuted needlessly for one mistake, he told Worthington.

"Nerts, Dr. Holgate!" Gurley was less lenient. "That Pomeroy girl has two horns and a forked tail. Didn't you ever hear what she did to the May queen last year, when she lost out on the voting herself? You oughta get some of the gang to tell you. She—"

"She is just a young person," Dr. Holgate countered. "Irresponsible."

"She irresponsible, all right. But she's a senior. She's as old as Sara Sue. She's nearly as old as you, I guess. You don't look old enough to be a professor."

"It is not a matter of age, Gurley. Being an instructor, mean."

"No, and it's not when you are being mean, either. That girl is no baby chicken. She's been around. What do you think Bob Towne dropped her for? I mean, besides Sara Sue coming along? Say, if she doesn't get by with this, she'll pull some other rank deal on Sara Sue, just to get even."

"Gossip is not to be trusted, Gurley."

"No, not all of it. But if you divided the gossip about Peaches in half, you'd still have a mountain of it. Just happens she's pretty and rich, is all. And so she gets by with murder. She'd buy her way out of this diamond mess if she had to. Or her old man would. What are we going to do?"

"You think, then, that Miss Pomeroy would not be ashamed? Perhaps she would be grateful if we went quitely to her, returned the bracelet, promised to keep our counsel and—"

"Never! Not me. I know about women, Dr. Holgate. I'm a married man, and—"

His claim could have been funny, if the situation at hand had not been sa serious. Worthington Gurley, bridegroom of three weeks, giving sage advice to a bachelor 10 years older. But then, such is the confidence of youth.

Thornton Holgate was between two fires. He wanted to do the correct thing professionally, as a Rice faculty man, as well as be fair to all concerned. And yet he was so furious at the thought of anyone's endangering Sara Sue's happiness that he wanted to do violence. It strengthened his decision immensely to have Gurley condemn Peaches. He felt that he could not have reached an unbiased decision alone. He now blamed Peaches for his own mental stress.

"Justice must be done, of course," he ruled. "It is all very confusing."

"Hey-hey, I'm for justice, too, Hi'ya, Dr. Holgate? What's this about justice? Mathematical or political? Come on and dance. Gimme my coat a minute, will you slime? Say, what's that you're holding—whew!"

This vocal outburst startled both the professor and the freshman.

Big Bob Towne himself had come down the hallway, unheard on the carpet. He was alone. He wanted a clean handkerchief from his overcoat pocket. But he saw the diamond bracelet in Holgate's hand.

"Oh! Bob!" Gurley spoke first, in answer. "Say—gosh!"

"Um. Mr. Towne. Ah—yes! Yes, we were discussing justice. That is, we—well, to be more accurate, we were discussing this bracelet, ha ha!" Thornton was upset anew.

"That's Peaches' bracelet. You keeping it for her?" Bob asked. He recognized the piece of jewelry, unmistakably.

"Oh! Oh, is it?" Thornton Holgate swallowed. "We-ah—Mr. Gurley and I were passing, and found it on the floor here. Then we—well, we were at a loss—" He wasn't very good at manufacturing stories, but Bob wasn't watching his face. He was already holding the bracelet, admiring it.

"On the floor, eh? Well, I'll be damned! Peaches ought to lose it for being that careless. This thing's worth a fortune, in case you didn't know. It's rather famous locally. Lucky for her you found it, and not some theif."

"Oh! Yes. Yes, I'm sure she was careless." The professor and the freshman exchanged strained looks.

Bob had fumbled in his own coat pocket for his handkerchief, without bothering to remove the coat from its hanger. He turned to go back to the ballroom now.

"I just saw Peaches sitting over near the orchestra," he said. "I'll take her bracelet to her, and put her on the pan for losing it. Great fun."

Jauntily he walked away with the piece of jewelry and neither Thornton nor Worthington Gurley raised a hand to protest it. Neither knew how, as a matter of fact; they could only stare at him, then at themselves, open mouthed, as Bob turned the corner and yodeled, "Hey, Peaches Pomeroy!"

Of one accord the two followed Bob, and paused where they could see him approach Peaches. The big football man ambled Jauntily up to her, smiling, and said something—they couldn't hear what. He held his right hand in his pocket. He and the girl talked back and forth for a moment as if bantering each other, then all at once Bob produced the bracelet and held it out to her.

"Gos-s-sh! See what I told you, Dr. Holgate?" Worthington murmured.

The terrified expression that had suddenly come over Peaches' face was a sight to behold.

GUARD MISSED TRAIN

LONDON—(CP).—As a train was leaving Queen's Park Station, Kilburn, a guard slipped on the platform and was left. The train went to Willesden Junction without a guard.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, January 8.

Sunday's horoscope holds excellent promise for advancement and definite progress in all affairs pertaining to intellectual, cultural and spiritual programs and aspirations. It is a time to concentrate on these with force and resolution, although not with over-strenuous or too zealous methods. Impetuosity, rashness, disputes and tumult may nullify sound efforts. Travel is gainful.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of much liveliness and enterprise in business, especially that concerned with writings, publishing, promotions, and advertising. However, such application, if carried to excess by overstrenuous or agitated measures, may prove a handicap. Beware of turbulence, strife, contention and any sort of overindulgence. Travel may be profitable. Use tact rather than force issues.

A child born on this day may be extremely versatile and clever, possibly to the point of spectacular brilliance, particularly with tongue or pen. Its ardor and enthusiasm may carry it to rather perilous or inharmonious expression, or to exaggerated dramatic heights.

For Monday, January 9.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of sudden and surprising events of a rather radical nature. There might be drastic upheavals which, while having the semblance of devastation, really may develop as implements of progress and achievement in unusual lines of effort. This may bring new surroundings, fresh contacts and revamped objectives. These may not be put over without some strenuous upsets or obstacles, but eventually tact, shrewdness and good friends may assist to high adventure and thrilling romance.

Those whose birthday it is may suddenly find themselves precipitated into a situation of upheaval or distintegration, at first doubtful and difficult, but really with ultimate benefits of a high order. This may come in new fields of experience and expression. Adventure, romance and fine social and emotional comradeship may figure conspicuously. Pursue the new with stimulated genius and attack.

A child born on this day may be original, inventive, adventurous and audacious in pursuit of the new, strange and novel. It may travel far in research or scientific invention, and may achieve a spectacular place for itself by its creative genius or romantic experiences. Its life may be quite dramatic or unique.

Jap 'Water God' Fails To Aid In Body Search

MISSION, B.C., Jan. 7.—(CP).—British Columbia and municipal police abandoned search last night for bodies of three Japanese drowned in the Stave river a few miles from here when their skiff capsized.

Provincial Constable C. A. Thomas and Municipal Constable J. G. Vosburgh said they held little hope for the recovery of the bodies of Genga Shinohara, 50-year-old shingle bolt contractor and his two employees, Takumitsu Yamamoto, 35 and Kikizo Kunimira, 55.

Japanese friends of the victims patrolled the lake in rowboats, beseeching the Japanese "water-god" to help them locate the bodies.

Roosters were taken in each Japanese search boat. The water-god is supposed to make the roosters crow when a boat rows over the body.

Mrs. Thompson Chosen President Of Millbrook Ladies Aid

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 7. — Grace Church Ladies' Aid held its annual meeting on Wednesday at 3 p.m. at the home of Mrs. H. A. Kerr, with the retiring president, Mrs. J. Thompson in the chair. The lesson was read by Miss Ruth Thorndyke, and the president offered prayer.

At the beginning of 1938 Mrs. Thompson offered a box of chocolates to the group that had the largest attendance during the year, at the monthly meetings, and Mrs. R. J. McKnight won the award for her group, Number 2, with a total of 40; Miss Mina Gibson came next (3) with 37; Mrs. H. Seaton (5) 34, Mrs. Suttle Pritchard (1) 32, Mrs. N Belch (4) 12.

At the next meeting the award will be presented, and is offered again for another year. Mrs. R. C. McMahon had the individual honors, having been at ten meetings. Mrs. Thompson having the same record, Mrs. S. E. Eakins was at nine.

The treasurer reported $42.26 from the December bazaar, and $100 voted to the church Board of Managers. The secretary, Mrs. M. Kinsman, reported the society re-organized in January, 1938, at the Ladies' Aid. 11 regular and one special meeting, with the president missing only November; 8 meetings had been in individual homes, and at five afternoon tea had been served. Money had been raised by teas, a garden party, the fair day dinner, sales, etc. and by donations. Fourteen members gave 25 cents each used to replenish the supply of salt and peppers in the church pantry, and 10 others gave tea towels (in a shower) used for the same purpose.

Officers Chosen.

Every group was asked to be ready to report at the church congregational meeting this month, and for the election of officers Rev. H. R. Williams took the chair, the slate including: Honorary president, Mrs. J. H. Paul; president, Mrs. J. H. Thompson; vice-presidents, Mrs. H. A. Kerr, Mrs. T. C. Ingram, Mrs. R. J. McKnight, Mrs. James Kennedy; secretary, Ruth Thorndyke; treasurer, Jean Syer; group leaders for 1939 will be chosen at the next meeting.

It was decided that for this year there would be a program at each meeting, Mrs. Kinsman and Mrs. Seaton being appointed for the next gathering. The Society will serve tea at the congregational meeting.

The hostess served a dainty lunch at the close, and the minister voiced his appreciation of the harmony and happy spirit of co-operation which had prevailed during the year just closed.

What will you be doing—ONE YEAR FROM TODAY

THREE hundred and sixty-five days from now—what?

Will you still be struggling along in the same old job at the same old salary—worried about the future—never able to make both ends meet?

One year from today will you still be putting off your start toward success—thrilled with ambition one moment and stone cold the next—delaying, hoping, fiddling away the precious hours that will never come again? Don't do it, man—don't do it.

There is no greater tragedy in the world than that of a man who stays in a rut all his life, when with just a little effort he could advance.

Make up your mind today that you're going to train yourself to do some one thing well. Choose your occupation from the list below, and get the full story of what I.C.S. can do for you.

LACKING ESSENTIAL VITAMINS & MINERALS THE HUMAN RACE MUST PERISH

VITAMIN B-1 BRINGS NEW HOPE AND NEW HEALTH

If you have read up on vitamins you know that it is lack of certain vitamins that causes weakness and disease.

For example the new vitamin B1 is found to be responsible for the condition of the blood and the nervous system. When you fail to get enough of vitamin B1 from the food you eat, the result is loss of appetite, indigestion, constipation and nervous disorders.

When the blood becomes weak, the nerves are starved and you find yourself subject to such symptoms as

Worry
Lack of energy
Sleeplessness
Irritability
Constipation
General weakness
Nervous Headache
Neuritis and rheumatism

Since lack of Vitamin B1 has been the cause of your trouble it is necessary to use such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which contains Vitamin B1 and the essential minerals which are required to make the blood rich and restore the wasted nerve tissue.

This accessory food treatment is the natural way of restoring nutritional value to the blood and vigor to the nerves. As appetite and digestion improve you may expect to find yourself sleeping and resting better, and with the regular and persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you should be satisfied that you are following an effective method of restoring the nervous system to health and vigor.

FOR NEW PEP AND ENERGY USE

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

CONTAINS VITAMIN B-1 AND ESSENTIAL MINERALS

Hundreds Make Merry At Liberal Party

A crowd of over 700, gay and merry as they make 'em, from the city, the district, and all the townships was in attendance at the Third Annual Complimentary Liberal Workers' Reunion last night in the Legion Hall, and everyone had a shake of the hand and was wished a glad New Year by the Liberal member, J. J. Duffus, M.P., who stood at the landing of the dance hall to welcome the guests as they came in.

Streamers of red, white and blue decked the hall, where light feet danced to the gay music of Red Moncrief and his orchestra, and Mr. M. Nurse and Mr. Bert Jones were "callers-off." The affair was held under the joint auspices of the Peterborough West Liberal Association, of which Mr. H. A. Quinn is president; the Liberal Women's Association, of which Mrs. C. R. Banks is president, and the Young People's Liberal Association, of which Miss Dorothy Whatley is president.

Upstairs games of euchre and bridge were played, with Dr. M. Crough and Dr. R. C. Honey in charge of arrangements. The bridge prize was won by Miss Nora Shevlin, and the euchre prize by Mrs. P. Meagher. Mr. Thomas Allston of Peterborough was awarded the honors for being the oldest Liberal there—at the age of eighty-four.

Mr. James Lundy, general convener of supper arrangements, was assisted by Mrs. H. Webster, Mrs. E. Redmond, Miss Dorothy Whatley, Mrs. J. Dinsdale, Mrs. P. J. Carroll, Mrs. W. Metheral, Mrs. S Elliott, Mrs Armstrong, Miss D. McDonald, Mrs. N. Nicholls, Mrs. F. O'Connor, Mrs. F. Whatley, Mrs. R. Lynch, Mrs. Clarence Lang

Mr H. A. Quinn, president of Peterborough West Liberal Association, was the able chairman when brief speeches were made by Mr. W. Frank Rickard, M.P., and Mr. Cecil Mercer, M.P.P., of Durham; Mr. Alex Elliott, M.L.A.; and Mr. Charlie Tanner, Lakefield.

A hearty welcome to the speakers was extended by Mr J. J. Duffus, M.P., who also expressed his appreciation to all those who had assisted in carrying out details which led to the definite success of the evening; Mrs. C. R. Banks, president of the Liberal Women's Association; members of the executive of the Men's Association; Miss Dorothy Whatley, president of the Young People's Liberal Association; the orchestra, and the host of others who had joined forces with him in such an enthusiastic manner.

Reynolds—Franks

FAIRVIEW, Jan. 7—A lovely wedding of local interest was solemnized at the home of the bride, Centre Line, Smith township, on Saturday afternoon, January 7, at 1.30 o'clock when Mary Anne Franks, only daughter of Mrs. Mary Franks and the late Arthur Franks, was united in marriage to Lorne Archibald, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reynolds, also of Smith township.

Rev. Harry Wilkinson of Bridgenorth officiated and Mrs. Herbert Reynolds of Peterborough played the wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. William Franks, and wore a beautiful gown of gold lace over satin with puffed sleeves and matching muff. She had a corsage bouquet of rapture roses and lily-of-the-valley and wore orange blossoms in her hair.

The bridesmaid was Miss Greta Reynolds, sister of the bridegroom. She wore an exquisite gown of old rose brocaded moire with matching muff, a stevia diamond tiara and a corsage bouquet of talisman roses. Mr. Harry Franks, brother of the bride, was groomsman.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. Waitresses assisting were Mrs. Alex Thomson, Mrs. Clarence Mann, Ferne Armstrong and Opal Rosborough.

Mr. Reynolds and his bride left later on a short wedding trip. For travelling the bride wore an Atlantic blue dress of magic hour crepe with matching accessories and a muskrat coat. On their return they will live on the Lindsay Highway.

A Girl's Honor Is The Most Precious Thing She Has And Under No Circumstances Should She Ever Allow It To Become Tarnished

DEAR MISS DIX—Do you think that a boy who really loves a girl would want her to become his mistress? I have been brought up with high standards of morality, yet when I definitely refused to lower myself this boy reprimanded me, called me old-fashioned, and now I have lost his attentions. Was I right in refusing to give him what he called "a proof of my love?" E.

ANSWER:

I do not believe that any man who really loves a girl would ask her to do a thing that would degrade her in her own eyes, and in his eyes, if he intended to marry her.

No matter what liberal ideas as to conduct a man has about other women, he wants the one he marries and who is to be the mother of his children to be above reproach. He doesn't want damaged goods. He doesn't want a wife whose reputation has been dragged through the gutter and over whom men laugh and snicker and make coarse jokes when he goes out with her. As one man said to me not long ago: "I don't want to have to say our wife with half the men in the club."

Men seldom marry their mistresses, and there are several reasons for this. One is that love and romance rarely survive a liaison, which puts a greater strain upon them than even marriage does. After these are worn out and a man's passion is dulled there is nothing to hold him to the woman of whom he has grown tired. Another reason is because a wife with a past is a great handicap to her husband in business or the professions. So many promotions, so many big deals are the result of social contacts that it hampers a man's chances of success for him to be married to a woman from whom other women draw away their skirts.

When a man does marry his mistress, the marriage is seldom happy because he never trusts her. He always thinks that if she was weak enough to yield to him, she would yield to any other man. So you see how wise you are, even from a practical standpoint, to refuse to become the plaything of this selfish boy. Morally you are wise beyond all telling, for the one thing that is of most value to every woman is her own self-respect and the knowledge of her own integrity.

Stand by your colors and you will never regret it. When any boy asks you to give yourself to him as a proof of love, consider the proof of his love that he is giving you in asking you to debase yourself, to tarnish your honor and make yourself the target for gossiping tongues, to please him.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am married to a man who has several children, all over 10 years of age. Their mother divorced my husband for another man and is of questionable character. The children all live with my husband and me. He supports them well, and our home is very pleasant except for the influence their mother has over them. They visit her often and seem to think her the most wonderful mother in the world, even though she does not do one thing for them. Isn't their first duty to their father and me? Should I give in to them and spoil them in order to try to win their love? Or should I try to correct them in the things they need to be corrected in so badly? What I want is peace and happiness in the home. H. M. J.

ANSWER:

I don't think that the prospect of your having any peace and happiness in a home in which there are several adolescent stepchildren is very good, especially if you have to combat the influence of their mother. Even one's own children are hard to deal with at that age, when youngsters are drunk on their first taste of freedom and cocksure that they are incarnate wisdom and that their parents are fossils with outmoded opinions that are not worth considering. Stepchildren offer an even greater problem. They are nearly always antagonistic to a stepmother, suspicious of her motives and resentful of her authority, no matter how kind she is to them nor how hard she tries to do her duty.

Furthermore, in your case there is the added complication of their own mother, who probably is jealous of you and does all she can to alienate her children from you.

For you to try to correct these children will simply be love's labor lost. They will not take either advice or criticism from you, and you will only antagonize them and they will gang up against you and make your life miserable in all the ways in which the devilish ingenuity of children can suggest.

So my advice to you is to meet the situation with whatever patience you can. Bear with the children with fortitude. Handle them with tact and assert no authority over them. That will do more than anything else to promote peace in the household, and you can sustain yourself with the comforting thought that it will not be long before they are grown and gone about the business of life for themselves.

The lot of the stepmother is so often a martyrdom that I wonder that any woman ever has the courage to enter it.

• • • • • • •

DEAR MISS DIX—I have worked all my life since I was quite a young girl. Now I am getting on in years and am retired on a small pension. My home life is so miserable that I am on the verge of a nervous breakdown, and I am wondering if I would not be justified in breaking away from my family and living in cheerful surroundings. Don't you think I am entitled to a little peace and happiness after working so many years and helping other people all I possibly could? I am an old maid and looked upon as rather a joke on that account in the family. DESPERATE.

ANSWER:

We always talk about the breaking up of a home as if it were a tragedy, but in the great majority of cases it is a godsend. For it separates brothers and sisters who are always at each other's throats and parents who are always in a row with their children. And, as Oliver Wendell Holmes once said, keeps the Browns from being Browned out of existence and the Joneses from being Jonesed into the lunatic asylum. So pack your troubles and your clothes in your old kit bag and start out on your own, and be happy.

FREDERICKSBURG, Virginia, Jan. 7 — (Special). — Miss Marjorie Lois Ellis, 332 Rubidge street, Peterborough, Ontario, and Mr. Bates Raney, 70 Park Avenue, New York City, were married here Tuesday at the historic Fredericksburg Presbyterian church. The Reverend R. V. Lancaster, pastor, officiated.

Mrs. Raney is a graduate of the Madoc High School and is a former Presbyterian Church Sunday School teacher. She has matriculated at Columbia University, New York city, and will continue her education there this fall. She spent the recent Christmas holidays with her family in Peterborough.

Mr. Raney is a graduate of Subiaco College, a preparatory school located in the Ozark mountains of Arkansas, and the University of Oklahoma. He is employed on the public relations staff of the Johns Manville Corporation in New York City.

He spent six years in Europe as a foreign correspondent for the Associated Press before joining the Johns Manville organization. His duties took him to England, France, Spain, Bulgaria, Turkey and Egypt. Mr. Raney is well known as a newspaper writer throughout the United States and Canada. Among the newspaper stories he covered abroad for various newspapers and press associations were the general strike in England in 1926, Wimbledon tennis tournaments, the Henley regatta, the British Foreign Office, Parliament, and the crash of the R-101.

In the United States he covered the Lindbergh kidnapping for the United Press, the last days and death of Thomas A. Edison and the execution of Gerald Chapman, notorious mail robber and murderer.

He is the author of a number of syndicated works including a biography of George Bernard Shaw, a biography if Mahatma Gandhi, a book on water power entitled: "Water Power—From Joncaire's Ditch to the St. Lawrence Waterway" and one on labor called "British Labor's Rise to Power, 1887-1930."

Mr. and Mrs. Raney will make their home at 70 Park Avenue, New York City.

Brazil is shipping more products to the United States than to any other country, with Germany second.

Fashions

Lively red applique embroidery on the sleeves and a matching colored sash, lend enchanting color combination to this simple afternoon dress of black crepe. Two colors are doubly smart this season and offer a pleasing change to all black. The crushed tied sash makes you look almost concave in the middle. This versatile dress may be worn with or without the jacket....the jacket may be worn over other dresses. Bright woollens adapt themselves perfectly to this model....an especially lovely scheme is teal blue with the jacket in rose shade....or the dress in pastel grey. You'll want to make extra jackets of metal cloth to "dress-up" your last year's evening dress. The easy to follow pattern includes a step-by-step sewing instruction chart.

Style No. 3038 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40-inches bust. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 39-inch material for dress; ⅞ yard of 39-inch material for bolero jacket; and ⅝ yard of 35-inch material for sash.

Branch Notes

ST. LUKE'S BRANCH.

The first meeting of the New Year was held on Thursday evening and took the form of the monthly business session. The treasurer reported a very substantial balance on hand. The president gave an outline of the program for the month. The branch is supplying the program for the Sunday school entertainment on Thursday evening next. After the business part was closed, all those taking part in the program assembled in their different groups for rehearsal.

There will be no meeting next week and the following week will be a sleigh drive, with Art Sayers in charge.

Bowling resumes Saturday night at 7 p.m.

ST. JOHN'S BRANCH.

The business meeting on Wednesday night opened with a devotional period. Fred Ford, newly elected president, was in the chair.

The secretary's minutes were presented by Eileen Gynane and confirmed. Walter Howell gave a report on the play presented early in December, which netted a comfortable balance. The treasurer, Fred Hooper, reported a favorable note on our finances. It was decided to continue the system of a team in charge for each evening's program. Accordingly four new team captains were named: Grace Marshal, Kay Chivas, Len Phillips and Nelson Hewitt. A report on the recent provincial conference was given by the delegate, Walter Howell, followed by a short discussion. The branch will assume the expense in connection with tuning the piano in the primarily department. Quite a lively argument ensued in connection with sponsoring a skating carnival at Brock street rink, but the suggestion was voted down.

The branch intends to present a musical show after Easter, details to be left to the dramatic convener, Ena Morley. A corporate communion and breakfast is scheduled for Sunday, January 29. The following programs were drawn up: Jan. 1, surprise night; Jan. 18, sleigh drive; Jan. 25, admission of new members; Feb. 1, edification; Feb. 8, Valentine party.

We take this opportunity of wishing you every success in the coming year.

Shower Honors Monday's Bride

In compliment to Miss Velma Dennie, Reg.N., whose marriage to Mr. Michael J. Maloney of Kingston takes place on Monday, January 9, Miss Helen Connelly of 199 Rink street was hostess at a nicely-arranged towel shower Thursday evening.

A white wedding bell hung in the archway between the dining room and living room contained numbers which corresponded with numbered parcels hidden about the room, and had to be discovered in a delightful "treasure hunt."

Mrs. E. Foley presided at the tea table, which was effectively arranged with white Narcissus and lighted red tapers in silver holders. Mrs. E. Donoghue and Mrs. H. Connelly assisted in serving.

Fraserville Y.P.S. Starts New Year

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FRASERVILLE, Jan. 7.—Despite the bad roads and rainy night, a large number of young people gathered at the home of Mrs. W. Waterman, Thursday night, to hold the first meeting of the New Year. The new president called the meeting to order by the singing of a hymn. It was decided to hold next weeks meeting at the home of Mrs. Horton. Three new members were added to the roll.

Mary Atchison, Christian fellowship convenor took charge of the remainder of the meeting. Dorothy Moffatt and Hajg Bothwell read the scripture lessons. Mary Lawrence explained the scripture reading, Mary Atchison led in prayer, Jean Holden read a poem "Because You Prayed", Mrs. L. Hewitt gave a very inspiring topic on prayer. The meeting closed with the benediction and the singing one verse of "An Evening Prayer". Mary Atchison had charge of a contest and the singing of old time hymns was much enjoyed.

Miss Mary Lawrence was a visitor this week at the home of her aunt, Mrs. S. Todd.

The W. A. will hold their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Horton on Wednesday.

The congregational meeting of the church which was postponed from Wednesday night last will be held at the parsonage Wednesday.

Miss Ruth Snelgrove has returned to Toronto after spending a couple of days at the home of her parents here.

Miss Bernice Moore is spending a few days at the home of her brother, Mr. Ernest Moore, Bailieboro.

Centreville Friends Honor Bride-elect

CENTERVILLE, Jan. 7.—Miss Kathleen Josephine Anderson, a popular and esteemed bride-elect was honored on Thursday night in South Monaghan Municipal Hall, when a large gathering of friends and neighbors presented her with a miscellaneous shower of beautiful gifts. An interesting and an enjoyable program was given, the Rev. D. A. McKenzie presiding.

The first number, "O Canada" was heartily sung by the gathering, after which the chairman welcomed all present; Mr. Allan Brown gave two violin solos and responded with an encore for each, Miss Grace Johnson accompanying him on the piano; Miss Mary Larmer and Miss Marian Earle gave two interesting readings and were followed by a delightful solo by Miss Vera Bradshaw.

The chairman called the bride-elect to the platform and Miss Muriel Whittington read an address and presented the gifts. Miss Anderson replied and thanked her friends for their kindness and invited them to visit her in her new home. The last number was a fine piano duet and encore by Misses Grace Johnson and Gwen Hutchison. Following the National Anthem refreshments were served and then dancing.

We Noticed

....In reading the account of a Spring fashion show for college and career girls the other day, we were surprised at the number of suits that were shown. Each separate wardrobe featured several suits—two at the very least. And all the chosen with a view to their intersuits in the same wardrobe were changeability, or the possibility of wearing the skirt of one with the jacket of another, and so forth.

✧ ✧ ✧

....The suits were, of course, tailored. But, and this is a great BUT, the tailoring was of the feminine sort. Shoulders were upped. Jackets were buttoned high. Pockets had novel interpretations. Skirts had suggestions of swing to them. Collars were wrought on somewhat girlish lines. Edges were bound in grosgrain.

✧ ✧ ✧

....Something new in the fashion picture, too, were dresses with attached hem-ruffles of rustling taffeta and deliberately uneven hem lines. Believe it or not—dresses are being made shorter so that a fancy petticoat may show beneath all the way around.

For Quick Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Splendid Results. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

You'll never know how quickly and easily you can overcome a bad winter cough, until you try this well known recipe. It gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money and you'll find it very pleasant and dependable, for real relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a 16 oz. bottle. Add your syrup and you have 16 ounces of medicine that will surprise you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

This home mixture takes right hold of a severe cough. For real results, you'll say it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its soothing effect on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you perfectly.

NO POLICE COURT

There was a complete blank at police court this morning; not even a breach of a city bylaw to take up the time of Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

NO ICE HARVEST YET

Reports from the northern lakes in the county indicate that there has been no ice-cutting yet. The lakes are all frozen over but there is a good deal of snow ice and it will be some time before the annual filling of ice houses for the benefit of summer visitors will get under way.

HIGHWAY BARE.

Motorists arriving from Toronto in the city today report that the highway by way of 28 and 2 to the Queen City is completely bare of snow and ice. It is also reliably reported that all other paved roads leading out of this city are in excellent conditions but many country roads are still icy in spots.

LIKE SPRING

Today's mild weather was strongly suggestive of mid-March and the illusion was strengthened by the fact that a gang of Board of Works employees was busy on George street this morning, clearing out the gutters, a job that is usually not commenced until much later on in the season.

NEW CLASSES

W.E.A. classes for the unemployed and part time workers will start in the Public Library on Monday at 4.45 in the afternoon. This is an extension of the W.E.A. facilities and whether or not it becomes permanent will depend to a great extent on the response. There is no charge made to those who attend.

A BUSY SESSION

St. John Ambulance men on duty at Brock street rink during Friday night's hockey game had a busy session. Their services were called in first when Johnny Lynch, Colts' trainer, got glass in his eye, and then they had to patch up Witheridge, Bowmanville defence man who sustained a broken rib and Crawford, the visiting goal keeper who received a crack over his nose.

VEHICLES STOLEN

A cursory examination of the police station records show that no fewer than 169 bicycles were stolen in Peterborough in 1938 and that eventually some 122 were recovered. In the matter of stolen automobiles there was complete success so far as recovery was concerned. Some 39 machines were stolen and all of them eventually got back to their owners, although some of the machines were in a badly damaged condition.

A VETERAN SOLDIER

Prominent at the birthday party tendered by the Queen's Own Regiment of Toronto to Sir Henry Pellatt, Friday night, was a veteran soldier, well known to Peterborough militiamen of former years. He was A. E. Brittain, at one time drill instructor of the 57th Regiment, who occupied the residence at the front of the old wooden drill hall. Mr. Brittain was sergeant-major of the Queen's Own at the time of their trip to England in 1910. His last official connection with Peterborough was in the later days of the great war when he was on the staff of the 247th Battalion here after serving overseas with the Princess Pats.

Abuse Is Given Freely Alderman Says

One of the men who did not vote for Alderman Dutton called at his office Friday and told him about it, told him forcefully, too. That is one of the rewards or penalties of taking on the job of chairman of the council's relief committee. And it is a frequent occurrence, that phase of aldermanic duty.

"I said to him that the fact he didn't vote for me didn't worry me one bit," Alderman Dutton said, and the whole story was pieced together by him and Mayor Hamilton and Relief Officer Metheral. And it wasn't the whole story either, because it skipped the background, including the transfer of a farm by the man's father and some other incidental details.

It seems that Alderman Dutton's Friday visitor has been living in Peterborough about two years. He applied for relief last summer. Some work developed laying new ties on the C.N.R. spur to Lakefield, and this young man was detailed to report on the job. Apparently railway work didn't appeal to him, at any rate "he didn't show up." Previously there was a hospital bill in Toronto for $84 which was paid out of the moneys paid into Peterboro's treasury by the taxpayers. Recently the young father said he didn't know who paid that bill.

Came a second maternity case in the family, and when the young man was told by a girl clerk that the office had nothing to do with paying that bill he said: "What the hell are you here for." Just a little pleasantry in relief matters. Another incident that was mentioned was to the effect that this man surrendered several insurance policies to buy a car which was eventually smashed up in an accident.

Mayor Hamilton said that when the man told him the story his answer was there would be no relief for him, but Mr. Metheral put him on the relief list, penalizing him one dollar a week off the relief allowance for the car deal.

"I can't see why a man on relief should be allowed to have a car," Mr. Metheral observed. "If he has to go on relief why shouldn't he sell the car first. That is what is done with indigent patients in the hospitals."

At any rate Alderman Dutton got quite a razzing from his visitor, who had a vote and wasn't marking it for the chairman of the relief committee. One of the aldermen enquired how men on relief could pay for gasoline and oil to operate cars, and the answer was that they pick up odd jobs that provide the money for their automobiling.

That is only one of a sheaf of incidents recalled from the experience of A. G. Metheral. Possibly it suggests to the average taxpayer just what he or she would do as a member of the relief committee when confronted with such cases in which sympathy is strained by bad manners and effrontery and other circumstances off the general record of relief appeals.

CHANGE OF 49 DEGREES.

This January thaw has sent the thermometer in Peterborough soaring through a phenomenal change of 49 degrees, A. O. Phillips said today. From seven degrees below zero on Wednesday morning to 42 degrees above zero on Thursday night at 9 o'clock was the startling change. At six o'clock this morning the official reading was 36 degrees above.

Kiwanians Hear Musical Vagabond

Kiwanians and their friends were astounded when, at their installation of officers' meeting at the Kawartha club Friday night, a rough-looking tramp pounded on a door adjoining the banquet hall and demanded admittance to the feast in the name of the great god Orpheus. Though he was carrying no lyre, his instruments were so numerous that among them somewhere must have been one capable of entrancing wild animals and moving inanimate objects.

He came in to a chorus of "Throw him out" and he left a couple of hours later to a choir of "Keep him here." For no ordinary tramp was this, but Clair Rouse, "Musical Vagabond," long time vaudeville entertainer extraordinary. The Kiwanis executive had brought him from Toronto to entertain, and he more than filled the bill.

Rouse made three appearances in different roles before the evening was out and he played more than twenty instruments, the like of some of which Peterborough audiences had ne'er seen. He came as a tramp, he became an admiral, and later a Scotsman, and he letf in full evening dress, after from multitudinous pockets he had produced instruments big and small, standard and freakish.

He played the brass family, the woodwinds, and the string sections of an orchestra at various times and the music he brought to the club ranged from the widest swing and the hottest jazz to the classical.

Clair Rouse is an old time vaudeville actor, who played the big houses in the days when vaudeville stars shone bright in the entertainment world. He was on the R.K.O. circuit most of the time, once was with Lowe's. He can play thirty different instruments, many of which are of his own make and are patented by him to insure him of exclusive right to them. No amateur with a flair for a few minutes' entertainment is he, but a master of his profession, a man who is able to amuse and keep the attention of audiences for more than an hour, without repeating himself during any of that time.

Friday night he played, among many others, a saxarousaphone, which he claimed is the only one in this country. Only two are in existence, he said. The other one belongs to a famed United States band. Another unique instrument was his strofiddle, fashioned something like a violin but with an attached horn. A musical cane, in which a single string was ingeniously fashioned and on which a silk-hat was screwed to form an amplifier, was another of his inventions. A metal harp, home-made, played perhaps the greatest surprise. Looking somewhat like an upright xylophone, it was played by drawing the hands down the bars. He played the oboe, the violin, the musical saw, a half dozen cornets, saxophones of various types, even a jewsharp.

OBITUARY

MRS. H. M. VANDERVOORT

TWEED, Jan. 7.—After a lengthy illness, Mrs. Hannah Maria Vandervoort, widow of Lorenzo Miller Vandervoort, passed away in the Township of Thurlow, early Friday morning.

The late Mrs. Vandervoort, had reached an advanced age, being in her 98th year. She was of United Empire Loyalist descent and was born in the County of Prince Edward, her parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel S. Mikel. For the past 20 years, she made her home in Thurlow Township, prior to which time she resided in Sidney Township. During her long and useful life, she was held in high esteem by all who knew her. In religion, she was a member of the United church.

Surviving her are two sons, Mr. Sanford Vandervoort of Sidney Township, and Mr. William Ryerson Vandervoort of Thurlow Township; one brother, Mr. George Mikel of Butte City, Montana.

Members Of Bar Re-elect A. L. Elliott Head

Alex L. Elliott, K.C., M.L.A., was elected for a second term as president of the County of Peterborough Law Association at the annual meeting held Friday night in the Court House.

The complete slate of officers is as follows: Hon. presidents, His Honor Judge Sheldon Smoke, K.C., His Worship Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.; president, Alex L. Elliott, K.C., M.L.A.; vice president, Thomas J. Carley, K.C.; treasurer, John R. Corkery; secretary, Wilmot B. Gordon; librarian, Mabel E. Moore. John A. Harstone is auditor for the year.

Revise Tariff Of Fees

A committee composed of the entire executive and also J. O. Weldon was named to revise the solicitor's tariff of fees chargeable in the County of Peterborough. It is the first revision of the list since 1918, more than 20 years ago.

Another committee was named to make a report on certain suggestions if any to F. H. Barlow, K.C., Master of the Supreme Court of Ontario, Osgoode Hall. He has been named by the Attorney-General, to hear any suggestions which might tend to the simplification of legal procedure in Ontario and will be sitting at Osgoode Hall. Written submissions if any are to be made by the different law associations throughout the province. The committee consists of Judge Sheldon Smoke, K.C., Alex Elliott, K.C., M.L.A., B. D. Hall, V. J. McElderry, K.C. and W. J. A. Fair. Trustees of the County Law Library for the year are Judge Sheldon Smoke, K.C., E. A. Peck, K.C. and T. J. Carley, K.C.

Three Anniversaries Observed One Night

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 7. — Mr. and Mrs. George Van Volkenburg have returned from visiting relatives and friends at Wooler. One evening during their visit they were guests at the home of Mrs. Van Volkenburg's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. McColl, and were taken by surprise by their respective families as the occasion marked the 42nd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. McColl, the 43rd of Mr. and Mrs. George Van Volkenburg, and the 38th of Mrs. McColl's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dorland, also guests.

Mr. and Mrs. McColl were presented with a casserole set in silver by their son Henry; Mr. and Mrs. Van Volkenburg a relish dish set in silver, presented by the latter's sister, Mrs. Elgin McMaster; Mr. and Mrs. Dorland, a relish dish set in silver, presented by their son Elmor.

After the presentations lunch was served. Mrs. Nesbitt Haggerty acted as pianist for community singing during the evening. A vocal duet was sung by Margaret and Keith Stacey of Bloomfield, grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. McColl. Rev. and Mrs. Poulter of Wooler United Church called before the guests departed and spoke a few appropriate words to all, wishing them many more years of happy wedded life.

Fairview Honors Lorne Reynolds

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FAIRVIEW, Jan. 7.—The Young Men's Class of Fairview Sunday school paid a surprise visit at the home of one of their members, Mr. Lorne Reynolds, of the Lindsay Highway, and presented him with a Yardley's shaving set in honor of his approaching marriage to Miss Anne Franks, of Fairview.

NEEDED WADING SHOES

Kiwanis dining at the Kawartha club Friday night thought they had earned their dinners by the time they reached the banquet hall. Dropping their ladies at the club entrance, they parked their cars a hundred feet or so away, then puzzled over whether they should wade or swim back. Mild weather had turned the grounds into a veritable pool, in many places deeper than the tops of men's overshoes.

U.S. Never To See Her Olympic Victory Film-Movie Heads Nazi Enemies, Says Actress

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—(AP).—Leni Riefenstahl, German actress and producer, said to-day that although the United States won the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin, the American public will not see the pictures of this victory.

"The pictures of the sports events will not be shown here," said Miss Riefenstahl, who was appointed by Adolf Hitler to make them, "as the motion picture industry is controlled, both in production and distribution, by men who are opposed to Germany's political activities."

Miss Riefenstahl, often called "Hitler's girl friend," was given a chilly greeting by the motion picture colony when she arrived five weeks ago.

A trade paper advertisement, sponsored by the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League proclaimed "there is no room in Hollywood for Leni Riefenstahl."

To-day she packed her bags for the return trip to Berlin.

Canadian Legion Notes

A number of the members (mostly the older ones) were the guests of the manageemnt of the Capitol Theatre on Friday afternoon and viewed the presentation of 'Drums.' The courtesy was very much appreciated by the men.

It is our unpleasant duty to announce that the one and only Dan Douglas will be leaving the city very shortly, having been promoted to another position in the service in Toronto. He is going to be very greatly missed, not only by the Canadian Legion, but also the Red Patch Club. However, the Legion's loss in Peterborough, will be the Legion's gain in Toronto. No more will the cry of the Douglas be heard at a carpet ball game.

The various activities of the branch are generally booming with the exception of the cribbage tournament which seems to hang fire just now. Will the contestants please come along and get the matter finished. Our teams in the carpet ball league are not setting the Thames on fire, No. 11 and No. 12 are comfortably roosted on the bottom perch and trying to push each other off and if it wasn't for No. 10 the poor old legion rooster would be in a parlous state, but his crest is still erect and his wings trailing.

Don Markle Is Discharged From Hospital

Don Markle, 17-year-old Cobourg youth, who was seriously injured while playing basketball in Peterborough six weeks ago, was discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital this morning and is well on the road to recovery, although his injuries were so unusual that at the beginning little hope was held for his life.

During the game Markle is said to have fallen on the floor and another player tripped and fell on him, the latter's knee digging into Markle's stomach. Markle felt alright except for slight nausea and the seriousness of his injury was not determined until the following day. He was taken to the hospital, where it was definitely established that he had received a ruptured pancreas and was also suffering from intra-abdominal hemorrhage.

Local doctors agree that it is most unusual for a person with a ruptured pancreas to recover, as this gland is one which cannot be removed nor sewn up. During the week he has been out of bed several times and his strength is returning fast. He intends to spend the next two weeks with his uncle, Harry Wheeler, on McFarlane Avenue, and by that time it is believed he will be completely recovered.

Police Are Unable To Find Injured Man

Police are somewhat mystified over an occurrence on the Lakefield Road early this morning when a Peterborough man motoring into the city was stopped near Nassau by some one waving a flashlight and when he pulled up his car saw a man stretched out on the side of the road.

The man who had stopped the motorist explained that he had not run down the other prostrate individual but that help should be secured and the motorist hurried into town and notified the police. Provincial Constable Gordon Broughton and Constable W. A. Clark investigated the report and were unable to find any sign of an accident at the point where the motorist had seen the two men. The latter had disappeared and there were no blood stains or any other indications of any one being hurt.

Inquiry at the hospitals revealed that no one had been admitted suffering from the effects of an accident during the night.

CARE NOT FOR WEATHER

Skiiers in this city seemingly have learned to pay no attention to weather conditions when they are in pursuit of their favorite pastime. Despite melting weather members of the Peterborough Ski Club are going on with their weekly jaunt to the hills at Bethany on Sunday. Many of the more enthusiastic were out on Friday night, got soaked every time they fell.

1939 Executive Of Kiwanis Assumes Office

President W. A. Richardson and his 1939 Kiwanis club executive were installed in office by District Governor Ivan Moore of Lindsay, at a dinner at the Kawartha club last night. One of the liveliest meetings of its kind in the history of the club, it was graced with the presence of the wives of members and their guests, had fun in it from beginning to its midnight end.

In his last address as retiring president, L. J. Pettit paid tribute to the men who had worked with him during the past year to accomplish major projects: the Kiwanis Dream House, the Carnival, the Summer Camp, and the Spelling Bee. He singled out H. R. Scott, Al Sharpe, John Allen and Fred Johnston for special praise in these activities, and referred to others who had no particular large task to perform but "who did everything I asked them to do." Prominent among those men, he said, was Lawrie Mitchell and Milt Hardill.

H. R. Scott introduced Ivan Moore, who expressed pleasure in his task of installing officers in Peterborough club "the daddy club of the district." He praised as the club's greatest work its summer camp at Jackson Park and he paid tribute to the work of the men behind it, said it was most efficiently operated and an example for many another club to follow, and he urged members on to even greater accomplishments in the future. He congratulated the club on the men chosen for 1939 officers and reminded members that no one person can operate such an organization, urged co-operation.

Officers Installed

Newly elected directors of the club were presented to the Governor by D. J. Fitzgerald and installed by him in office. They were Bill Derry, Jacob Low, Lawrie Mitchell, Jack Lewis and Bill Ovens. Jack McKone, long time secretary of the club and one time president, was re-installed in office by W. Allerley of Lindsay, district secretary, after presentation by Charles Saunders.

"The Peterborough club has a record of being a well-run organization and a great deal of that record is due to the work of Jack McKone," said Mr. Allerley, in the course of enthusiastic praise for the Peterborough secretary's work. "He has kept his enthusiasm through years of work at a post that can easily become a bore, and the Peterborough club is indeed fortunate in having him at its service." Governor Moore also spoke in glowing terms of Mr. McKone's record, hinted that a high Kiwanian honor may be waiting for him this year.

Newly-elected vice-presidents of the club, Bill English and Vern Morphet were presented to the Governor by H. R. Scott and installed in office. Dr. J. J. Craig, presenting the incoming president spoke of the high esteem in which Mr. Richardson is held throughout the city, of the various civic positions he has held, of his successful business career, ended by citing him as a man who "has served his city admirably."

Before Mr. Richardson was installed in office, Governor Moore installed L. J. Pettit as past president and member ex-officio of the 1939 executive, and then he congratulated Mr. Richardson on the high honor that had come to him, handed him the gavel to start officially his duties as president.

Richardson Takes Over

"I am not afraid of tackling this job because I have a good group of men to work with," said Mr. Richardson. "I look forward to the coming year's work with a great deal of pleasure." He said the Kiwanis club stands high in the esteem of Peterborough citizens largely because of the men who have been its presidents in the past, and among the best of them was his predecessor, Mr. Pettit. Last year was probably one of the best in the club's history, he said.

Chairmen of committees named at the meeting were Leo Copp, agriculture; John Troke, attendance; Major Neil Warrander, boys' and girls' work; H. Cranford, business standards and public affairs; J. I. Allen, classification and membership; E. Vernon Morphet, finance; W. English, house and reception; W. Ovens, inter-club relations; Dr. F. Neal, Kiwanis education; Jacob Low, laws and regulations; Carl S. Browne, music; W. Derry, programs; Gordon Miller, publicity; Dr. C. M. Scott, underprivileged children; Fred Johnston, vocational guidance; M. Hardill, sports; J. I. Allen, summer camp; Jack Lewis, sunshine, sick and visiting; Martin Chenhall, accompanist; V. Morphet, committee chairmen's chairman; W. English, executive chairman; John Troke, secretary of committee chairmen.

Guest artists of the evening were Clair Rouse of Toronto, "Musical Vagabond," and Adam Hawley. Mr. Hawley sang two selections that were enthusiastically received. Mr. Rouse appeared on three different occasions in various characterizations, played more than twenty musical instruments.

IS BETTER TODAY

Detective Sergeant W. E. Meagher of the local police department who has confined to his home with a severe cold for the last few days is reported as better today but still in bed. Provincial Constable David Silvester will also be off duty for a few more days.

Cordova Residence Damaged By Fire

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CORDOVA MINES, Jan. 7.—What might have proven a very disastrous fire occurred on Wednesday when flames broke out around the chimney on the newly built house tenanted by Mr. John Yzereef on the Minahan property three miles out of Cordova.

The flames had gained considerable headway on the roof before it was noticed by a neighbor, Tom Quinlan, who with John Johnson ran over and succeeded in getting it under control.

A large hole was burnt in the house, however. Mr. Yzereef and his son were away at the time.

Two cars swerved into each other on Saturday, two and one-half miles east of Cordova, when heavy roads made driving hazardous. The drivers, Mr. John Bell, employee of the Consolidated and Smelting Company, and Mr. William Smith, Trenton, both claim they were driving at a moderate rate of speed. The Smith car was badly damaged and had to be towed in by the Marmora wrecker. No one was hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Barrons, daughters Barbara and Betty, spent the Yuletide holiday in Oshawa at the latter's parents, C. Wannamaker.

Miss Graham, Toronto, new junior room teacher, has taken over her duties and is staying at Mr. Jim Barron's.

Mr. and Mrs. German Grey spent Christmas at Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hamilton's.

Millbrook Resident Is Given 30 Days

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 7. — Albert Milton Barnard, who was arrested on Saturday night by Constable E. C. Richards, on a charge of assault preferred by his brother, Dickson Barnard, with whom he lived, came up for trial before Magistrate Campbell at Cobourg on Thursday and was sentenced to a fine of $5 and costs, or 30 days, for assaulting the housekeeper, Mrs. Hunter; and $2 or 30 days, for the assault against his brother. He took the 30 days.

Snow Shovellers Are Injured When Car Skids

Two men were injured and several others had narrow escapes when a skidding motorcar slewed into a gang of city employees on Hunter Street East Friday as they were shovelling snow into a truck. The two who were hurt were William Steele, 335 Woodbine Avenue, who had his back, knees and hands injured, and David Fenn, 226 Edinburgh Street, who suffered bruises.

The accident happened when James P. Chalmers, 172½ Hunter Street West, attempted to drive his car past a bus which had stopped for passengers at the intersection of Hunter Street East and Driscoll Terrace. The bus was travelling west, and Chalmers going in the same direction, was following three other automobiles. As his machine drew up the bus started to pull out from the north side of the street and Chalmers says he swerved toward the centre to avoid sideswiping the bigger vehicle. There was a pile of snow in the middle of the road and on the south side a city truck into which snow was being piled.

The Chalmers car skidded in the snow and the rear end slewed into the city employees. H. Gardiner, 188 Lake Street, managed to jump out of the way but Steele was hit and knocked down, and Fenn who tried to stop the car by bracing his shovel against the ground, and at the same time made a plucky effort to save Steele from injury, was also hit and bruised.

Trainer Of Colts Suffers Eye Injury

Johnnie Lynch, trainer of the Colts, Peterborough's junior B hockey squad, had a narrow escape from losing the sight of his left eye Friday night during the progress of the Bowmanville-Peterborough game at the Brock street rink, as the result of an unusual accident.

Lynch was sitting in the penalty box and one of the players there suddenly jumped up and his stick struck Lynch's spectacles, breaking the glass and several pieces entered the trainer's eye. He was given first aid by "Doc" Ralph Clarke and St. John Ambulance men and then taken to a doctor and the fragments removed. It is not thought there will be any permanent injury to the eye.

COLTS COME FROM BEHIND TO DEFEAT BOWMANVILLE BY 5-3

Gruelling Battle On Soft Ice With Individual Play Only Thing That Was Possible

The Colts, Peterborough's junior "B" entry, came from behind in Friday night's game with Bowmanville here to garner their second victory of the week, outscoring the visitors 5 goals to 3, after trailing two counters at the end of the first period.

It was a gruelling battle on soft and rough ice, the kind of surface that makes good hockey impossible, and with the puck bouncing and rolling around erratically hit-and-run tactics proved the best strategy. The Colts tried to work in close and use combination during the first period but found themselves two goals down at the end of the twenty minutes so from that point on they abandoned technique and adopted an every-man-up, rushing style that finally won for them.

It would have been an interesting tussle on fast ice for the rinkless Bowmanville team, who play their home games in Whitby, and are really a combined Whitby and Bowmanville team, with a few other players thrown in, had some fast youngsters on the lineup, while there are a number of the Colts who can really dangle, too.

The Colts earned their win by their aggressiveness and the determination they displayed from end to end. They were outscored but not outplayed in the first period and for the balance of the battle they had a distinct edge despite the fact that they were short-handed on nine different occasions. Every one of the squad turned in a good card and Stewart, McDonald, Wade and Foster were especially dangerous, proving the greatest scoring threats of the night.

For Bowmanville Wiseman and Bird looked the most effective of the attacking division and Crawford earned brackets for a fine display in the nets. He turned the Colts' ganging plays back time after time and although he got a crack over the nose with a stick and had to retire for repairs he came back and was still kicking them out at the bell.

The visitors got the only two goals of the first period, although the Colts had the most close-in chances. Depew put Bowmanville in front five minutes after the start when he cut loose with a shot from outside the blue line that blazed under Courneya's arm into the net. Four minutes before the period ended the Bowmanville gang found themselves two goals in front when Wiseman drifted one from well out that took a crazy hop on the rough ice and eluded Courneya. A fight between Foster and Witheridge was a first period feature.

The Colts moved up on the attack, throwing science to the winds in the second period and soon got results. McDonald slamming the rubber past Crawford for the first Peterborough goal, Wade drawing an assist on the play. The Petes kept battling and four minutes later evened the score when Wade drilled a beauty into the net after picking up a loose puck. The home talent might have taken the lead at that stage but ran into a flock of penalties that slowed them up.

However, they did flash in front soon after the third session got under way when Stewart registered in a ganging attack, Foster being credited with an assist. Crawford the Bowmanville goalie, was hurt in this play and the game was held up until he recovered. With the Petes in front 3 to 2 Nels Foster drew a penalty and Bowmanville took advantage of the break to tie the score again, Wiseman scoring neatly from close-in on a pass from Bird. The Colts came storming in again but had no success for some time. Finally however, McDonald tore off the best individual play of the night, stick-handling in close to flip the rubber past Crawford.

Soon after the Colts cinched the argument when King and Foster broke away and the latter took King's perfect pass and back-handed a bullet shot that had the Bowmanville goalie beat all the way.

The teams and summary:

Bowmanville: Goal, Crawford; defence, W. Ward, Witheridge; centre, Bird; wings, McMullen, Wiseman; subs, Nicholls, Depew, Ashton, Dilling, Morgan.

Inside Sportin' Dope

by A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, old timer, since my last we got a chance to see all 3 of our O.H.A. teams in action and the general verdict seems to be we ought to get a lot of colorful hockey before the robins is back in any numbers.

Our srs. tangled with a team representing the Tely here Tues. nite and while the visitors was shy some of their regulars they brung enough down to provide tough opposition, particularly as they had a big edge on the local talent in the matter of condition. Our lads got a early lead and managed to hang on long enough to win the nod 7 to 6 with the visitors coming strong on end.

They're Good

Our No 1 line with Mister Tompkins, Mister Starr and Mister Kingdon, looks like the berries. Them lads is fast, good stickhandlers and work well together and they will make a lotta trouble for opposition goalies and defenees this season. The second line looked a bit disorganized the other nite but they is plenty of hockey ability there and if the right combination can be selected and the boys start to click, the attacking division shouldn't oughta give Mister Buckland many headaches.

On the defence was a coupla newcomers, Mister Joe McNutly of football fame and Mister Lorne Gray who hails originally from Saskatchewan and has played some hockey in Germany where most of the stickwork is now being done by the Storm troopers. The 2 newcomers shaped up pretty fair and Mister McNulty besides checking well helped himself to a useful pair of goals and that aint bad going.

The Colts In Action

Here Wed. night the St. Mike's Buzzers and our Colts played a benefit game for the Jewish refugees and at 1 stage in the battle it looked like somebody might hafta start another fund to take care of the wounded. It was a lively argument. St. Mike's were playing for keeps and some of them was none to clean in their methods and by the same token the young Petes was not backward in handing it out either. As Mister Johnnie Sabatino seemed to be too interested in the rough stuff to do much about it, the boys had a lotta fun but the excitement finally culminated in a knock-em-down-and-drag-em-out.

The Toronto kids had too much condition for the Petes who faded on end but Mister Jackson's hopefuls, many of them in their first season in O.H.A. circles give a good account of theirselves over the most of the journey. About the best looking boy with the Buzzers was a graduate from the Petes, Jack Jopling, who is with St. Mike's Majors this season.

Of the home talent we liked the speed and aggressiveness of Mister Parnell and Mister Craig, the foot and stickhandling of Mister Wade and the way Mister Nels Foster drilled that old rubber back hand or otherwise.

Last Fri. Mister Pete Vitarelli's Monarchs, the "C" entry, done a good job in holding the Lindsay Midgets to a 4-4 tie. Mister Vitarelli has a bunch of fast boys lined up and the kids is most promising.

Well that will give you a rough idea of how the 3 teams look, and so I'll be leaving you now.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

Local Fighters Box In Toronto

Three Peterborough pugilists made a good showing on a Toronto card last evening ,though all lost their decisions. A big crowd at the Old Pals' boxing show at Benny Sockley's gym in Toronto gave the local scrappers a big hand. Art Hunter took the three up, Bill Joiner, Harry Low and Maurice Coderre. They were invited back to another Toronto program, though in their bouts last night they were far overmatched. Art Hunter local instructor, said: "They picked some of the best fighters in Toronto and put them in against the Peterborough boys—a case of anything to win!"

Bill Joiner gave a great display of gameness in a furious five-round bout before dropping the decision to Simeon Waithe of Central "Y." Harry Low fought furiously but suffered a technical knockout late in the second round to Max Scott, a top-ranking mitt-slinger in Toronto. And Maurice Coderre had a good margin on points for three rounds over Harry Dodds of Central "Y" when he had his eye closed in a collision with the other—and Referee H. Osborne and the club doctor decided he had better not continue. The bout was thus warded to Dodds, though the referee admitted Coderre was ahead on points. He got a big hand from the fans.

Should any skip not be able to attend the meeting on Wednesday he would be well advised to see that a representative member is on hand to place any complaints before the executive, also any team having fees that are now way past due should endeavour to have same with them at that time. The time is called for 7.15 so that any team scheduled to play that night can get away by 8 o'clock. Your prompt attendance will be appreciated.

We are starting into the second half of the schedude and I am pleased to report that no complaints have been sent in to date although there is a little difference of opinion regarding the 12-end game. Some still seem to cling to the 10-end whilst some others would like to see three 8-end games.

It seems to be a nip and tuck race between the Scots-Tinkers and Decorators for first place yet the second half may bring up some team from behind to trim all three. Time will tell. A supply of score cards will be on hand for Wednesday.

Skips are asked to see that the date and place of game is entered on the card as several have been received of late without same. Also the prompt turn in of score cards will assist the secretary in his work. One card received this week was of a game played three weeks ago. Your cooperation in these matters go a long way in the success of the league.

20 Rinks Entered

TORONTO, Jan. 7 — (C.P.). — Although official announcement of the 12th annual Ontario bonspiel on February 13-17 was made less than a week ago, 20 entries have already been received of the maximum 124.

Among rinks entered are those skipped by A. Austin and W. Card, Chapleau; W. Drysdale and R. Trayers, Kingston; Hon. Colin Campbell, Sault Ste. Marie; Dr. J. Wright, London; Charles Barber, Seaforth; A. E. Dunker, Kitchener; P. Gilbert, Chatham; Nate Cornwall, Detroit; C. Pickering, Ottawa.

Beaches, Sarnia, Nationals Likely To Stay With Peterborough's Entry In O.R.F.U.

TORONTO, Jan. 7—(CP)—Toronto football officials said last night it was the first they had heard of a contempited change at Montreal whereby the Cubs of the Big Four and Nationals of the O.R.F.U. would amalgamate. Harold Bailey, secretary of the O.R.F.U. was inclined to discredit the Montreal report. Floyd Muirhead, sponsor of the Toronto Balmy Beach team said: "It's news to me." Regarding the formation of a Big Six, Bailey said Beaches, Sarnia and Nationals would not likely desert the new Peterborough entry in the O.R.F.U.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

It is time to view with alarm. Worry, worry, worry. Next Friday is a Friday the 13th, the gas tax is going up, people on icy sidewalks are going down, wars are budding, bills collecting and what not. So we'll hop to next summer and worry about our senior ball club. We got no league and we may have no team. Unless action is taken before spring. Of last year's good team, Lefty McNally is gonna play for Knotty Lee's crew next semester, Bob Doll is doubtful of being back, Bill Calladine is likely to line up with the Oshawa GM-men, and Eddie Starr and Les Burton say they won't be playing ball here next summer. Maybe a few other absentees, too. Podden pliss while we go out by ourself and have a quiet sob in a swamp. Near a still.

* * * * * * *

So what? So we'll hop to next fall and grouse a space. Ferraro and Westman won't come here to play for our Orfuns, and what six or seven aces can we get to locate in this town? Loucks is liable to wind up back of a desk at Queen's, Magee may mosey elsewhere for lacrosse and rugby, Marsh hath retired on his laurels, Crowe is apt to get a bid elsewhere, and so it goes. Why couldn't we ha' gone after Annis Stukus like Ottawa did? Oh, well, let's quit crying so far in advance—it'll all come out in the wash. Provided wash day isn't postponed too long!

* * * * * * *

Ya Gotta Earn 'Em

With an eye to padding home players' accounts and a grand disregard for accuracy, some puck scorers—the writers—are giving everyone but the goalie an assist on most counters. We might warn local players that we plan to bear down like a clam's upper lip, and drift back more toward the old rule of no more than one assist to a goal. Unless two guys are in on the work of assisting through or past the defence. Certainly no one down past centre ice can expect an assist, even if a guy's long forward figured directly in the goal. Otherwise ya can say that every guy on the team rates an assist—since they all touched the puck some time previous to the goal and figured that way in an assist. The gee who flips the cookie into the cage and the player near him who helps will get the points—with two at the most, and seldom that, open for assists. There is no bonus in this loop for scoring, and you can't fool the coach or fans long—so don't try it on ye scorer, please!

* * * * * * *

Toronto Stockyards tangle with the Petes at 8.30 in the Brock on Monday e'en in a tussle ala exhibish, and they've sworn by all that's pretty holy to be here on time and bring a full squad. They lead the Mercantile loop in West Toronto now and should be real opposition for the Buckland boys. And, if the ice is okay, it ought to be a slambang fray as the Mercantilers are as gentle as war tanks in their tilts; and the Messrs. McNulty, Crough, Grrrray, O'Weir, M'Tompkins, O'Starr, etc., aren't the laddybucks to go around avoiding ice arguments, either—and yez can turn that in your scut and smoke it, so yez can!

* * * * * * *

Dropped The First

Though they had most of the play the last two periods last p.m. in Belleville, the Petes got nothing better than the worst of it—losing by a 3-2 count in their senior "B" schedule opener. Only a fair crowd and the ice was as sticky as a pot of jam. Naturally the hockey dished up was pretty spotty but always interesting. Count should have been 2-1 as the Thomasites earned two markers, the third being scored on a breakaway with one of the Jackson twins really earning an assist the way he ran interference all the way down the ice on Red Creighton. Still Belleville earned it and next Friday's fray here will be another tight one, we imagine. The Redmen had six VanHorne Cup games under their belts before last evening's contest, so they were considerably ahead of the Petes on conditioning.

* * * * * * *

No alibis to offer. The Petes ganged up practically all through the second and third stanzas and did everything but score—Goalie Watt being unbeatable and wearing a necklace of horse-shoes! Till he got hurt in the third, and then Sub-Goalie Hinton borrowed his necklace. The teams look well-matched and were willing to smack each other around plenty, Bentley and St. Louis bumping like railway workers on the back fence, and Crowe knocking a few of the Redmen high, wide and almost handsome. Harding went well in our net, too, but the Quinte attack just clicked a trifle better. Give the Petes fast ice and another week's work, and they'll trim the Thomas team.

* * * * * * *

But Our Colts Won

Guess the ice must have been downright mushy here, too, as reports of the Colts' 5-3 win over Bowmanville have it that the juniors played shinny all the way. Bang the puck into the enemy zone and go galloping after it pell-mell and how are ya anyway! The boys of Bowman Villa weren't so dusty at all, but the Colts had a bit of an edge on 'em the last coupla chukkers. Not a bad crowd of fans, considering the sloppy evening it was. Wade, Foster, McDonald and Stewart looked best for the locals, but the homesters were guilty of spending too much time in the sin box, leaving their buddies to bear the brunt of their mistakes. Probably the next clash of the Colts will be with the local Monarchs next Wednesday e'en.

* * * * * * *

A number of folk from Peterborough motored up to Lakefield last eve and saw a rousing intermediate "B" squabble, with the Legionnaires licking Lindsay by an 8-6 score. Ice was heavy but the boys turned in a fair effort and mixed it up with plenty of feuding and body bangs that bore no resemblance to pats with a powder puff! Nicholls and Buster Whitton toted a grudge all eve like a coupla Kaintuck mountaineers and each spent some time in the cooler. Joe Blewett's sniping was as deadly as ever, and Lakefield looks to have a good squad this semester, according to fans who saw 'em. Local angle was lent the tilt with Stew Williamson and Dude Brady on the Lindsay lineup, whilst Les Burton and Mike O'Leary were with Lakefield. The latter team is at Oakwood on Monday.

* * * * * * *

Grab-bag: More worry—a Montreal story says the two Mo'real grid squads will join together next fall and make a six-team loop, adding Sarnia and Beaches; the latter and O.R.F.U. ossifers say it's news to 'em.... The Montreal writer seems to know his stuff; he winds up his tale thusly: "What would happen to Peterborough is not known. The Petes did well last season particularly in registering the upset of upsets, the defeat of Sarnia"....The Millbrook-Omemee puck fray Monday has been postponed; Lindsay and Omemee tangle next Thursday....Trenton Fliers beat Queen's 4-3 in the first of the VanHorne Cup finals....Belleville gal cagers defeated C.G.E. by a 20-13 count in a game that saw 28 fouls called, 11 'gainst the Electrics....Fred Porter of the Nats in the O.R.F.U. dug into his own jeans and bought his players wrist watches recently....Local boxers made a good showing against Toronto topnotchers last eve in Toronto; dope in elsewhere....Petes played seven forwards and three defencemen yester gloaming and may continue that system for a time.... And soda bed.

Wreckers Trim Norwood For Cup Honors

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 7. — The Kawartha Junior League hockey champs of season 1937-38 were finally declared last evening at the Norwood Arena, when the Havelock Wreckers, popular local junior club coached and managed by Robert McCutcheon, took their second straight from the Norwood club to clinch the series. The playoffs were postponed last spring due to lack of playing surface, and were late getting started now for the same reason.

The Wreckers again proved themselves strong both defensively and offensively, winning by the decisive score of 6-2. Despite very slow ice the teams played a good brand of hockey. Four fifteen-minute periods were played instead of the usual twenties, in order to have the playing surface cleaned more often.

Norwood again were lacking in player strength. "Mickey" Puffer, their star defenceman, was on the sidelines with an injured shoulder, received in the previous game, but the team was bolstered by the addition of two starry performers, "Pepper" Rogers and Gordie Puffer.

Havelock also were one player short of full strength during the first two stanzas, and were doubly handicapped after that when Aboud, their hard-hitting defenceman, was banished for the rest of the game for charging G. Innis and arguing with Referee E. Ennis. A free-for-all threatened at this point in the game when fans and players alike poured over the boards on to the ice. Aboud, although the bad man of the evening, drawing three minors in addition to being suspended for the balance of the match, was a bulwark on the Havelock defence and was missed by his team-mates.

The Wreckers started the first period with a bang, Pollock drawing first blood a minute and a half after the play began, scoring on a passing play from McCutcheon. Pollock was johnny-on-the-spot a minute later to notch the second goal of the evening for the locals, when McMullen cleared to him, camped right before the Norwood net. Haggerty got Havelock's third counter, with Aboud assisting, and Brunton closed the scoring for the initial period securing the Wreckers' fourth goal, on a passing play with Haggerty and Jamieson. Brunton's goal was the prettiest of the evening, drawing McMaster carefully to one side and then flipping the puck into the opposite corner. "Joe" Peters, local netminder, was called upon to make some sensational stops several times during this stanza, with Rogers and Puffer both coming awfully close.

Lively Second Period.

There was no scoring in the second period, but the fans were treated to some heavy body-checking on all sides, and tempers rose during the latter part of the session, culminating in Aboud's suspension for the balance of the game.

Despite their loss the locals went into the third period full of fight and shortly after the play opened McMullen scored on a passout from Pollock. Puffer and Pollock started shoving about, but nothing serious resulted, and Norwood then broke away for the first goal of the night, Bedore scoring on a long shot from the blue line. Their second came four minutes later when Puffer scored on a combination play with Rogers. McMaster made some marvellous stops during this period, drawing a nice hand from the spectators.

End to end rushes were resorted to in the last stanza, but sticky ice spoiled many scoring chances on both sides. The final counter of the game came within the last minute of play, Pollock securing Havelock's sixth tally following a face-off in Norwood territory.

Webb, McMaster, Puffer, and Rogers proved the most effective in the Norwood line-up. The Havelock crew all played good hockey, with perhaps Pollock and Haggerty grabbing a bigger share of the limelight, the former especially with three goals and an assist to his credit.

The teams:

Norwood — Goal, McMaster; defence, Puffer, Rogers; centre, Webb; wings, Gill, Bedore; alternates, Baskin, Innis, Thompson.

Havelock — Goal, Peters; defence, Aboud, Whitney; centre, Pollock; wings, McCutcheon, McMullen; alternates, Haggerty, Jamieson, Brunton.

Score by periods:

First Period—
Havelock—Pollock (McCutcheon) 8.45
Havelock—Pollock, McMullen, 8.46
Havelock—Haggerty (Aboud), 8.48
Havelock—Brunton (Haggerty, Jamieson) 8.56
Penalties—Aboud.

Second Period—
No score.
Penalties—Aboud 2 (suspended for balance of game).

Third Period—
Havelock—McMullen (Pollock) 9.40
Norwood—Bedore 9.45
Norwood—Puffer (Rogers) 9.47
Penalties—Innis.

Fourth Period—
Havelock—Pollock 10.22
Penalties—Webb.
Referee—R. Ennis, Norwood.

Remember When—

The New York State Athletic Commission dethroned heavyweight Champion Max Schmeling eight years ago today when he refused to sign for a return bout with Jack Sharkey. The black-browed German remained in the fistic limelight until last June when Champion Joe Louis flattened him in one round at New York. Schmeling had beaten Louis previously in 1936.

HOW TO SKI

By FRITZ LOOSLI
Instructor Toronto Ski Club

SKIING FOR CHILDREN

In Norway and Switzerland skiing starts with childhood. Children from the age of two years are equipped with skis and allowed to mingle with the elder children, and though it may appear dangerous, accidents are practically unknown. A child when falling does not stiffen his muscles, but completely relaxes and thus the fall is made part of the play; it is best to let the child get acquainted with his new toy in his own individual fashion.

Fritz Loosli

Children are born imitators; give them scant advice and though at first they may use the skis as a toboggan, they soon find more fun in trying to ride the skis standing up and will quickly copy the technique of their elders. Not until the child has learned to make a good downhill run is he given a pair of poles which greatly increases his pleasure in skiing.

Toe straps are not used as in Canada, but nevertheless the child's foot is fastened fairly firmly. In Norway and Switzerland, peasant children, not fortunate enough to have skis and harness, use barrel staves to which they nail solidly an old pair of boots, into these they slip their own shoes and lace them firmly, with laundry soap for wax, they enjoy this most exhilarating and healthful sport of skiing.

Warm, Light Clothing Essential.

Warm woollen underwear and light cotton or wood gabardine slacks and windbreaker to which the snow does not cling, will keep the youngster warm and dry and exempt him from carrying pounds of excess blanket cloth.

Long hikes are monotonous and too strenuous for children and should by all means be avoided.

The sooner a child is taken to a steeper slope, the sooner his running technique will improve, obliging him to have a marked forward lean to avoid falling. After straight running, the first thing the youngster should be taught is to skate with his skis rather than to turn. This will greatly improve his sense of balance obliging the child to ride for a second or so on one ski. Next he may be taught to take small jumps just enough to take the skis off the snow, repeating the same thing three or four times in one downhill run. After these elementary exercises, beginning with the snow plow, the other turns may be slowly demonstrated.

Quinte Cagers Defeat C.G.E.

Belleville "Y" girls' concerted attack in the initial half left their Peterborough C.G.E. rivals sufficiently far in the lurch to have Coach Jack Dickens' local lassies coast home to a 20 to 13 victory over the C.G.E. girls in the opening game of the Lake Shore group of the L.O.B.A. at the Belleville Y.M.C.A. on Thursday.

The pastime was not without its moments of excitement, the officials meting out 28 penalties during the piece, 17 going to the homesters and eleven to the Liftlock City lassies. The visitors moved out to score the first field goal, their only major count in the first half, but the Belleville girls played steady combination to drop seven consecutive baskets, and were leading 14 to 5 at the halfway mark. The visitors outscored the local female cagers eight to six during the second stanza, but Coach Dickens' quintette set up a sturdy defence in the dying moments to protect their lead, despite the fact they were deprived of the services of their ace forward, Artimese Cruji, who was banished from the pastime in the initial half following four personal fouls being called by some exceptionally strict officiating.

McLean High Scorer.

Captain Marion McLean of the local squad, led the scoring of the night with seven points, Marj. Hitchon following with four and Betty Shorey and M. Miller counting three each. H. Craig and M. Wood were the principal marksmen for the C. G. E. crowd with two baskets each. The game was marked with exceptionally torrid checking throughout which mitigated the scoring and added to the mounted penalties imposed. The Belleville "quints" held their checks well in charge once they assumed a commanding lead, however. Ruth Thompson, diminutive guard, stood out as a star of the game, with Coach Dickens' starting lineup bearing the brunt of the locals' play, assisted by M. Sharpe and M. Miller. The return league game will be played in Peterborough next Thursday night.

Oshawa Holds Goodyears Scoreless Draw

TORONTO, Jan. 7 — (C.P.), — The invincible tag that accompanies Toronto Goodyears on their swings around the Senior A circuit of the Ontario Hockey Association remained intact to-day and for that blessing Coach Joe Primeau heaved a sigh of relief.

Highest-scoring club in the six-team league, Goodyears staggered through to a scoreless overtime draw with Oshawa in Toronto last night. Seven days ago they played a 0-0 overtime tie with Niagara Falls at the Falls.

"It's not that we're getting any worse," said Primeau, former National League great. "The opposition is getting better."

Over at St. Catharines, Port Colborne Sailors edged out the home team 3-1 to break a tie for third place. The win gave the Sailors a total of 12 points to 10 for St. Kitts. Goodyears, undefeated in 12 games this season, stayed in front of the race with 12 points, five more than the second-slot Oshawans.

Beaten in Atlantic City.

Down at Atlantic City, N.J., Brantford Red Birds, who have won but one game in Senior A competition this season, absorbed a 15-4 drubbing from Atlantic City Seagulls of the Eastern United States Amateur Hockey League.

Although it is an exhibition tour for the Brants, the points count for their opponents in the Eastern League standing. Hershey, Pa., Cubs whipped the Birds 12-2 on Thursday and Baltimore Orioles tied them on Wednesday.

Wiry Doug Runions, a veteran of the ice lanes, counted twice for Port Colborne. Another ancient, Goney McGowan, made up the Port total. Jack Boyd scored the Sainte' singleton midway through the first period. The Sailors were never headed after, taking a lead of 2-1 at the end of the first period.

Goals Called Back.

In the Toronto game, both teams had a goal called back. Early in the game Hank Goldup put the puck past Netminder Peg Hrust, but the play was called back for offside.

In the overtime session, Russ Bowman, Toronto rearguard, and Carl Maundrell, Oshawa wing, engaged in fisticuffs. At the same instant, Winkie Smith, Maundrell's mate, batted the puck in the Toronto net, but Referee Johnny Mitchell had blown his whistle to impose major penalties on the combatants and the goal did not count.

In the second period, Toronto's Johnny Inglis attempted to battle half the Oshawa team. Bobby Laurent of Toronto and Lex Chisholm swung a few roundhouses at the close of the period, Herbie Mortimer, Toronto goalie, and Hurst, were the standouts of the struggle.

Wants Chair Back

RALEIGH, N.C., Jan. 7.—(AP).—The 1935 North Carolina Legislature supplanted the electric chair with the gas chamber as a means of capital punishment. Governor Clyde R. Hoey in his biennial message to the Solons this week recommended a return to the electric chair, which he thinks is quicker and more humane. Now, with the session but four days old, a bill has been introduced in each House proposing reinstallation of the chair.

BELLEVILLE REDMEN DEFEAT PETES 3-1 IN SENIOR "B" OPENER

Locals Hampered By Poor Ice As Season Commences And Drop Initial Encounter

The Petes lost a 3-1 decision last night in Belleville to the Redmen in the first game of the 1939 O.H.A. senior "B" series. About 500 fans witnessed a fair scrap on heavy ice with the locals outplaying the homeers all the way through the second and third heats but dropping the decision. It was a clean, fairly fast game—shinny at times—on watery ice.

The homesters scored a goal in the first frame and added one in the second. The Petes got one back early in the third but the Quinte crew broke away from a ganging attack just before the finish to make the final count 3-1. The Bellevilles forced the issue for a time in the first till they got a slim lead and then waited for the breaks, the Petes having a big edge all hrough the last two heats with continued power plays that clicked but once for a count. On the poor ice, it was about even-stephen between the squads.

Despite three goals, Ray Harding went well in the losers' net, having no chance on any that beat him and kicking out plenty of hot tries the first half of the game. The defence went fair, with Crowe doing some nice bumping in spots. The first front line of Tompkins, Starr and Kingdon had an edge on the other Petes' forwards but went only fair, owing to heavy ice—these speedsters requiring a fast sheet to show their stuff. Watt in goal for Belleville starred—till he was hurt in the third. His defence used potent bodychecks to aid him and the forwards worked well. The two Jacksons and St. Louis looked most effective over most of the route.

Lively and Even

It was lively and even through the first. McNulty and St. Louis collided early at the Quinte defence and both went down, but resumed play shortly. W. Jackson scored on C. Jackson's rebound early in close. The puck was rolling or sticking on wet ice to interfere with speed skating and good passing. McDougall shoved a neat forward pass through defence to Gardner at the goal-mouth but it was blocked. The home defence were smearing all invaders for a time and, when Crowe went off for charging, five Redmen swarmed up to press Harding hard. Tompkins and Starr later came close to a tally and Goyer almost got one for the Thomas men near the finish, but Harding was booting them out.

It was slower and fairly even for a while in the middle canto, with a Gray-Coughlin rush nearly denting the hemp once. Then Belleville came back to make it 2-0 when McElrath scored on a pass in close from Robinson. Kingdon and Tompkins tramped in neatly but Watt had horse-shoes in the net, and he was also most effective as the Petes began ganging up and blazing rubber at him from all sides. They held a big edge the rest of the period, with play practically all in the Belleville area—but they couldn't sink the disc. Occasionally the Redmen threatened on a breakaway and the fans were kept yelling most of this period as the Petes, though outscored, vastly outplayed the homesters.

Petes Score

Right at the start of the third heat, Kingdon batted in Starr's rebound as the goalie went sprawling to put the Petes bac kin the fray. They kept ganging up hotly and driving the boot heel at Watt, who finally had his nose cut as he persisted in diving flat in front of incoming forwards. The game was held up 15 minutes, and Hinton finally replaced him in the net. Four and five of the visitors kept boring in but got few hard shots right on the cage, as Belleville kept shooting down the ice. Barriage finally breaking away and scoring, though Jackson interfered with Creighton, who pursued him, just before the final gong.

The teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Gray and Crowe; centre, Kingdon; wings, Starr and Tompkins; alternates, McNulty, McDougall, Coughlin, Gardner and Creighton.

Belleville: Goal, Watt; defence, Bentley and St. Louis; centre, C. Jackson; wings, Barriage and W. Jackson; alternates, McCreary, McElrath, Goyer, Robinson and Hinton.

Referee, Joe Smith of Kingston.

Summary:

First Period

Belleville—W. Jackson (C. Jackson) 6.30
Penalties—Crowe, Tompkins.

Second Period

Belleville—McElrath (Robinson) 8.00
No penalties.

Third Period

Petes—Kingdon (Starr) 1.00
Belleville—Barriage 19.45
No penalties.

Old and New In Pro Ranks Shake

Here's a scene that takes place only every few years—the outstanding pro and the erstwhile amateur tennis champion shake hands after the match that sees a new pro star launched on the sea of continent-wide tours. It happened when Bill Tilden, when Ellsworth Vines, when Fred Perry and now when Don Budge made the jump from honor-and-glory to monied ranks. Vines, LEFT, a pro for five years now, congratulates Budge after their opening match in Madison Square Garden, N.Y., a match won without a great deal of difficulty by Budge in straight sets.

Lakefield Win Tough Game Over Lindsay

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 7.—Lakefield Legionnaires defeated Lindsay Royals 8 to 6 here last night in a rough and tumble hockey duel that sparkled with brilliant team work and clever net minding despite sticky ice. Three hundred fans from Lakefield, Lindsay and Peterborough cheered themselves hoarse as the two teams set a fast pace throughout and the issue was in doubt right up to the final gong.

It was the curtain raiser in the Intermediate B group and the home team gave promise of being a threat for the district honors as they flashed a polished style of play and matched their heavier opponents in every department. Alfred Hudson presented Louis Sabatino, captain of the Lakefield squad with a large team blanket before the game as a gift from the Canadian Legion, Lakefield branch, which is sponsoring the team, and Reeve Gordon Scriver gave the opening ceremony the official touch when he faced off the puck.

Play was fast in the initial period on a good sheet of ice and the first goal came after five minutes when I. Nicholls of Lindsay whistled the puck past Loyst from close in. O'Leary, Chittick and Jewell tallied for the homesters before the period ended and Campbell notched another for the visitors on a waist-high shot from the blue line. In this period Whitton of Lakefield and Gordon of Lindsay tangled and were banished but on returning to the ice continued their feud throughout the entire game with each drawing three penalties before the final bell.

Spotty In Second

Play was spotty in the second as the ice softened but both teams kept up the pressure and Junkin who had taken over the net minding duties from Loyst at the start of the period had several fine saves. Lakefield again outscored their opponents with Whitton, Burton and Blewett counting while Dude Brady scored the lone Lindsay marker on a passout from Campbell.

Nicholls kept Lindsay in the battle with a neat goal early in the third only to have Blewett team up with Chittick to get this one back and a few minutes later Blewett beat McIntosh again with Jewell assisting. Junkin was kept on his toes as the Lindsay forwards swarmed in on him time and again but he weathered a veritable barrage of shots when the pressure was at its highest. Before the period ended however Nicholls scored twice unassisted. His teammates continued the torrid pace but the smart defensive work of Whitton, Sabatino and Burton blocked the thrusts and most of the attacks petered out at the Lakefield blueline.

Joe Blewett was the pick of the winning team with C. Nicholls standing out for the visitors. Play was rough in the dying moments of the game and when the bell went to end the game, both teams were shy two players.

The teams:

Lindsay Royals—Goal McIntosh; defence, Williamson and Campbell; centre, I. Nicholls; wings, Charles Gerster and Nicholls; alternates, Braden, Gordon, Wakelin, Brandon, Cy Gerster, Eberts.

Lakefield Legionnaires — Goal, Loyst and Junkin; defence, Whitton and L. Sabatino; centre, Chittick; wings, Jewell and Blewett; alternates, Deeth, Burton, Chappel, O'Leary and Stabler.

Referee—John Sabatino.

Stockyards Here For Senior Tilt

An exhibition senior hockey game has been lined up for here Monday night when Toronto Stockyards play the Petes at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink. Stockyards are on top of the Western Mercantile League in Toronto and should dish up a rousing struggle for the local O.H.A. outfit. The Stockyard officers have promised to send their regular team down for this game, and to leave Toronto no later than five o'clock in the evening—so there should be no delay in starting the contest this time, as was the case when Tely squad was so late early the past week.

The Petes were due to play in Belleville last night, and will not have another scheduled match till next Friday, so they arranged this exhibition tilt to keep them in shape. And it will not only do this, but ought also to provide senior puck fans here with plenty of action, as the Mercantile Leaguers play a blood-and-thunder style of hockey, much after the fashion of the rough scrap dished up here by the Falls in the playoffs last season. The Petes will have their full team on hand, and it promises to be a neat number.

Billy Conn, 21-Year-Old Fighting Irishman Scores Unanimous Decision Over Apostoli

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP).—Billy Conn, a 21-year-old Irisher from Pittsburgh and a fine piece of fighting machinery, ranked to-day among the leaders of the United States' fistic prospects.

Making his first appearance in Madison Square Garden, the tall boy from the west scored a unanimous decision over Fred Apostoli, who is recognized by the New York and California Commissions as middleweight champion, before 11,000 fans last night.

The result did nothing toward clearing up the muddled middleweight situation, for Conn probably weighed 170 pounds when he entered the ring as compared to Apostoli's legitimate 160. But it established Conn as a man to be reckoned with in heavyweight circles within another year.

Conn's greater height and reach and a deadly left hook that Apostoli never managed to avoid, gave the bout to the newcomer.

There have been few better fights hereabouts. The boys went at it like Longshoremen for all of the 10 rounds, with Apostoli boring in and swinging and his cool opponent blazing back with his left. There were no knockdowns, but both were battered and bleeding at the finish.

BORN

COLLINS.—To Mr. and Mrs. Blake Collins (nee Vera Valois), 181 Murray street, on Saturday, December 31, 1938, a daughter, Ruth.

COLWILL. — On January 3, to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Colwill (nee Viola Emery), a daughter, at St. Joseph's Hospital.

MENZIES. — In Peterborough, on Tuesday, January 3, 1939, to Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Menzies, 588 Chamberlain street, a son, Gary Bruce.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Clarke, Fraserville, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Bonna Bell Patricia, to Arnold Bonner, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bonner, Millbrook. The wedding will take place Wednesday, January 11.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital, and all those who helped in any way in our recent sad bereavement.—Mrs. Cahagan and Family.

IN MEMORIAM

NORTHEY.—In loving memory of William J. Northey, who passed away January 6, 1938.

He had a cheery smile, a pleasant way, a more helping hand to all he knew;
He was kind, generous and true.
On earth he nobly did his best,
He now has passed to heavenly rest,
—Ever remembered by Wife and Family.

TRENT RIVER

Newlyweds Are Tendered Shower

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 7.—Upwards of one hundred and fifty attended the miscellaneous shower given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Orval Watts, formerly Fern Clements of Norwood, wednesday night at Cedar Isle. Friends and relatives were present from Warsaw, Dummer, Norwood, Havelock and the immediate vicinity. Delightful music with violins and piano played for the old time square and popular fox trot and favorite waltzes. Messrs Joseph McNeely, W. G. McLaughlin and James Cook, violinists; Miss B. French and Mr. Frank McLaughlin were pianists. Floor managers were the newly-elected reeve of Belmont, Isaac Anderson, Archie McMillan, James Cook and Lyle Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Watts were the recipients of many lovely and useful gifts for which the groom on behalf of his bride expressed his appreciation. The bride looked charming in her wedding gown of full length figured white silk with silver flower corsage and silver shoes. Tables were placed in the living room for cards. Supper was served at midnight after which dancing was resumed for a couple of hours bringing to a close a most enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Watts, daughter Jean, sons Ivan and Alvin, Mrs. Gordon Payne of Warsaw attended the shower given for the former's son, Mr. Orval Watts and Mrs. Watts.

Miscellaneous shower was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Orval Watts at Warsaw Thursday night.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

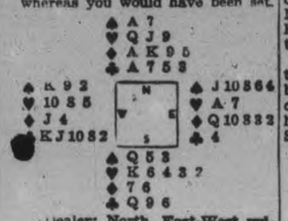
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

SEEK ANOTHER BID

WHEN YOUR only stopper in some suit happens to be an ace plus a guard or two, try to avoid bidding no trump if you can. Seek some other bid. This is not because your ace is not a secure stopper, but that it is much more valuable in the dummy if your partner holds some secondary or tertiary honor in the suit. Then your side may have the suit doubly stopped, whereas you might have only one stop if the lead comes up to the ace. Bidding some suit at such a time may result in your partner calling no trump and making the game, whereas you would have been set.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North came to grief on this deal because after his opening diamond and South's heart, he thought his black aces were good stoppers for the other suits. He went to 2-No trump and South took it to game. Even if South had made his correct second bid of 3-Hearts, the side would not have made a game, for North would have raised that to 4-Hearts, at which game is impossible against perfect defense.

East led the spade J against North's 3-No trump, setting up the suit with celerity and despatch. When he shortly won a trick with his heart A, he ran the setting tricks.

Suppose after North's 1-Diamond and South's 1-Heart, North had chosen to bid 2-Clubs. That would have given South one chance to call No trump. But if he rebid at 2-Hearts, North could have called 3-Hearts, at which South could safely have shown his doubtful stoppers in the black suits, with 3-No trump, confident that a good man in the North would take this out to 4-Hearts unless holding something in the black suits.

North would have left it at 3-No trump, and the game would have been sure against a lead of either of the unbid suits, which would have been doubly stopped with South declarer.

Seymour Farmer Fatally Hurt When Colt Kicks

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 7—Kicked by a young colt at his Seymour township farm Thursday Thomas Hooper succumbed late Friday. The deceased had for some years been suffering from a heart condition and it was thought by the attending physician that this had been aggravated thus causing death. His wife who predeceased him three years ago died a somewhat similar death, having been hurled from a buggy when it was hit by a car. One daughter, Mrs. Edgar Stollery of Seymour township survives. The funeral service will be conducted from Burnbrae church by the Rev. B. Simpson Black of St. Andrew's church, Campbellford, on Sunday afternoon and interment will take place in Burnbrae cemetery.

Neither side told the full story of what happened.

Bitter neighbors since the Vienna convention gave Hungary a slice of Czechoslovakia, the countries have charged each other with responsibility for a succession of raids which have disturbed the frontier territory.

Prague has maintained Hungarian irregulars (so-called free corps men) were crossing the border to create disturbances with the object of convincing the world the Carpatho-Ukraine (Ruthenian) section of Czechoslovakia is incapable of self-government.

After the Ukraine

Hungary in the face of German opposition—wants a common frontier with Poland. Prague circles said, and therefore sought to build up a case for the annexation of Carpatho-Ukraine.

Hungarians, on the other hand, have charged that Czechs and Slokas employed disorderly bands to cause border trouble and that both Czechoslovakia and Germany were making constant attempts to stir up resentment against Hungary in the regions already annexed.

Munkacs and Ungvar were awarded to Hungary at the insistence of Italy.

In some German quarters there was evidence of displeasure at this concession to Rome. It was said in diplomatic quarters that Germany wished Czechoslovakia to retain these cities as centres of a proposed highway to the Rumanian border.

OBITUARY

MRS. THOMAS JACKSON, SR.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

COE HILL, Jan. 7.—The death occurred on Tuesday evening, after a lingering illness of over two years, of Mrs. Thomas Jackson, Sr., in her 71st year. She was a staunch Methodist and took great interest both in the Sunday school and church services when able to attend.

She was a daughter of the late Robert Ferguson of Queensboro, and married Thomas Jackson, who survives.

MRS. EUNICE LOYST

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 7.—The residents of the village of Arden mourn the loss of one of its oldest residents, Mrs. Eunice Loyst, who passed away January 2. She was in her 86th year and had resided all her life in that village.

The late Mrs. Loyst was born in the township of Sheffield, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Boonhower and married Mr. Simeon Loyst 65 years ago. She was a member of the United Church.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband; six daughters and three sons; Mrs. Alice Rikley, Ottawa, Ont.; Mrs. Fred Simmons, Belleville, Ont.; Mrs. Grove Bacon and Mrs. Janet Streeter, Rochester, N.Y.; Mrs. Hattie Whalen and Mrs. Eva Jackson of Toronto, Ont.; Robert, William and Stanley of Arden, also a number of grandchildren.

The funeral service was conducted on Thursday by Rev. Mr. Fletcher, with interment in the Hillside Cemetery, Arden.

WILLIAM HANNAH

TWEED, Jan. 7—On Thursday evening the death occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wm. Andrew, Roslin, of an aged and respected resident in the person of William Hannah.

Mr. Hannah was born in Ireland and came to Canada when about 15 years of age. He spent practically all his life in Camden East, where he was a successful farmer. His wife, Rachel Doyle, predeceased him a little over two years ago and since then he has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Wm. Andrew, who until two months ago resided at Eldorado, Ont.

The late Mr. Hannah had been in failing health for some time. Left to mourn are two daughters and a son, Mrs. Andrew, (Edna), Mrs. George Holland (Ada) of Niagara Falls, and Clifford of Deseronto, also eleven grandchildren. Two brothers, Edward, and Henry predeceased him.

Political War Chest

ly termed war chests, they are divided into three classes. There is the fund raised in each constituency by contributions from party supporters in the constituency, provincial funds collected by provincial organizations and the national fund collected by the national organizations.

In a Federal general election the big war chest is the national fund and the tendency, it is said, has been for it to grow bigger each election and the demands on it greater. Generally, the funds raised in the constituencies have tended to shrink. The practice of apportioning slices from the national fund to help out constituencies where there is a close fight is generally blamed for local contributions drying up. "Why should I make a big contribution," asks the local supporter, "when you can get the money from the national fund?"

Want No Reaction.

The national fund is contributed to presumably by larger corporations and wealthy men. One of the objects of the new bill is to so regulate contributions to the national fund so that they would not affect the action of a government should the party receiving the contribution win the election.

To regulate the national fund, all contributions would be made to a national corporation provided for in the bill and the corporation would make returns to an inspector general for which the bill also makes provision. The inspector general annually would report these contributions to parliament.

Supporters of the bill contend the fact the names of the contributors would be known to the public would tend to discourage contributions other than for disinterested purposes and the national fund would shrink to such proportions that it would all be devoted to purely national election expenses. The campaign funds in each constituency would have to be raised for the most part within the constituency or not be available at all.

There would be political corporations for the provinces and political corporations in the electoral districts. The bill provides that all contributions to a party would go through political corporations and all election expenses be paid by these organizations. All would report to the inspector general.

The measure also seeks to limit the amount of money any party might spend in a general election. The bill provides that the amount a political party might spend in any constituency would be based on the number of electors in that constituency. The amount per elector was left blank so that parliament could decide what it should be. The expenditure in each constituency would include its per capital share of the amount spent by the national and provincial corporations.

Supporters of the bill contend it would stop the steady increase in election expenses by parties. All expenses would be paid through a political corporation and there would be heavy penalties if anyone paid or received money for election purposes in any other way.

To be successful the legislation would have to be in effect some years before a general election because it would have to cover contributions made long before an election and also the workers in a party organization would have to be given time to absorb the new conditions.

Eventually, it is contended, it would build up a House of Commons largely independent of national funds. It might make it more difficult always to keep the members in line when the House came to vote.

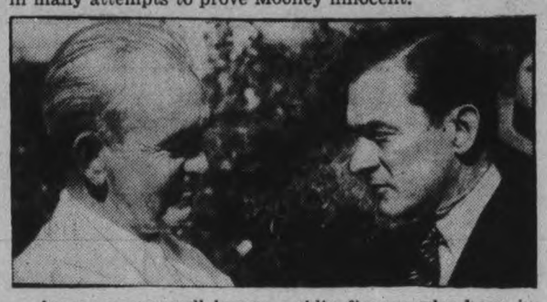
Mixed Relations

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Jan. 7 —AP).—Giacomo Santord is about to become his brother's father-in-law and step-father to his daughter-in-law. The future Mrs. Santoro will become her daughter's sister-in-law and her son-in-law's step-mother. Santoro, 40, obtained a license to marry Lois Albright, 47, and his brother, John, 27, was licensed to marry Mrs. Albright's daughter, Almira Albright, 23. So John's mother-in-law will be his sister-in-law.

Freedom Near For Tom Mooney

At the trial in 1916 in San Francisco. Mooney sits in court, proclaiming innocence, with his wife, Rena, at his side. Mooney was convicted and sentenced to death, but his sentence was later commuted to life imprisonment.

At the time of the San Francisco Preparedness Day parade bombing in 1916, it is claimed, Mooney and his wife were on a roof, as indicated by arrows. This photo was used in many attempts to prove Mooney innocent.



Among many well-known public figures who have interested themselves in Mooney's case was former Mayor James J. Walker of New York, seen with Mooney at San Quentin prison in 1931.

California's newly-elected governor, Culbert L. Olson, declares he will pardon Mooney after a brief hearing.

What will become of Warren K. Billings, convicted with Mooney in the bombing, and serving a life sentence in Folsom prison?

Adam Humphries, Veteran Hunter Is Out Daily After Foxes

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 7—Local hunters and farmers in Percy and Asphodel townships are waging war on foxes which are said to have stolen large quantities of poultry throughout the farming districts surrounding here. Part time must be spent in hunting foxes each winter or the farmers would not be able to raise fowl, Adam Humphries, 82-year-old Asphodel hunter declared.

He has been a hunter for more than fifty years and is probably the oldest active marksman in this district today. Mr. Humphries, with his sons, Max, Roy and James, are out on the shoot several mornings each week, weather permitting, which takes them over a large portion of the township. They are most active in the hunt among farmers of the district.

The veteran hunter is exceptionally smart on his feet. He manages to compete with his sons in bringing down foxes, indicating he is steady of hand and possesses keen eyesight.

The hunt has a sporting side as well as its practical angle, Mr. Humphries claims.

"It is one of the finest sports one may indulge in and along with muskrat trapping, they are my main hobbies. I don't know how I would fill in the time if it were not for these pastimes," he remarked.

The average fox hunter of today, who owns a car, is not to be confused with the hunter of a few years ago, he warns. Since foxes may cover many concessions when pursued by dogs, the hunter drives to a desired location and awaits his quarry to cross a runway while he sits in the shelter of his auto. A pair of good fox hunds are the first essential for successful hunting, he believes.

The cunning ways of foxes are illustrated in one example. Mr. Humphries gave and admitted the trick irked him. When the dogs are in pursuit, the quarry sometimes crosses the frozen river when a hunter dare not cross the uncertain ice, and of course the fox gains temporary safety.

Foxes are fatter this year indicating they have had many fine meals at the farmers expense, local hunters report. They are also more plentiful.

Reports from Roseneath are that one Percy township man has shot more than fifteen foxes in the past month.

Daladier Warns Against Pressure

ALGIERS, Jan. 7—(CP)—Premier Daladier sailed for home today after an implied warning to Italy that France will not yield to force or any other form of pressure to cede territory it holds.

Daladier and officials accompanying him on the tour which took him to Corsica, Tunisia and Algiers left here aboard the cruisers Foch and Colbert.

The French premier spoke at a luncheon given in his honor. In categoric terms he warned that when he said previously France would maintain the intergrity of its empire "I did not mean only that I would not yield an acre of the territory of this empire, but I wished to say that I will not be led astray by juridical procedures which certain persons wished to invoke."

"I would like also to say that not only in the hours but in the days to come I will observe the same attitude regarding the ambitions pretentions and more-or-less underhand methods to which, it appears, they would like to have recourse."

This was taken as a direct warning to Italy not to attempt to obtain the intervention of prime minister Chamberlain in the Franco-Italian dispute when the British leader visits Rome next week.

"We have but one desire," Daladier said, "and that is to live in peace with all countries. To maintain peace we have made heavy sacrifices. But if we have consented to these sacrifices it must be known that against any attempt, whether it be direct or indirect, whether it resorts to force or to trickery, we will oppose with a determination and will which nothing in the world can ever bend."

MOUNT PLEASANT

Leader Describes Silks And Cottons

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MOUNT PLEASANT, Jan. 7. — One of the highlights featured at the January meeting of the Mount Pleasant Women's Institute, held at the home of Mrs. E. Lawson on Wednesday afternoon was the second lesson on "Buymanship," given by the local leader, Mrs. H. Gardiner.

The meeting opened with the president, Mrs. Shield, presiding. Mrs. I. Lowe acted as secretary.

"New Year's Resolutions," roll-call topic was responded to with several worth while resolutions—after which several items of business were discussed and acting committees reported their activities during the month.

Mrs. Gardiner, in a very interesting manner, discussed the different grades of silks and cottons. She declared eight-eight per cent of the silk sold is rayon. In her display of samples she showed the difference btween the silk from the silk worm and the silk composed of wood fibre and chemicals, called rayon. Samples of ginghams, prints, and dimitys were shown as to quality, closeness of weaves, etc. The real cotton grown in Southern States was shown in comparison to the manufactured cotton, sold in disguise.

Different qualities of sheeting was shown and the specifications required of a good sheet were described as: 1, long fibres and strong; 2, Well-twisted yarns; 3, a close, firm, well-balanced weave; 4, strong, durable selvege; 5, Well-finished hems; 6, ample length and width.

A vote of thanks moved by Mrs. I. Lowe and Mrs. Lauson, was extended to Mrs. Gardiner, by the president, followed by a hearty applause. A social half hour was spent during the service of refreshments when Mrs. Gardiner and Mrs. Shield assisted the hostess.

Miss Mary Pickens, Reg.N., of Peterborough, was a New Year's Eve guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pickens.

Mr. Philip Ford returned to Port Dover on Saturday after a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. D. Beamish.

Mrs. S. McGee, Misses Helen, Doris and Marguerite and Mr. Darcy McGee, were New Year's guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. Elmhirst.

Friends of Mr. John Taylor will regret to hear he was again removed to Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, on Tuesday and is seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Johnston and family were Monday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Cook.

Mrs. Arthur Fleming received the sad news on Tuesday morning of the sudden death of her nephew, Clifford Hopkins of Warkworth. Clifford the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hopkins, took ill on Saturday and passed away on Monday evening en route to Belleville Hospital. He is well known by friends near Hastings and spent Christmas with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fleming.

Wolf Pack Active Near White Lake

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 7—A wolf-pack that is held responsible for the destruction of a number of sheep, 24 of the property of George Palmateer, farmer, near White Lake in the vicinity of the northern boundary of Huntingdon Township, is still at large despite efforts of farmers to trap and destroy them, according to Palmateer who claimed the government bounty of $15.00 for recently killing a five foot speciman of the marauding pack a few weeks ago.

Although the ravages of the pack have decreased to a large extent, they are still in the vicinity, Palmateer stated, who added that a particularly large specimen was seen in the vicinity of his buildings a few days ago.

Heavy Rain Fall.

One of the heaviest winter rainfalls occurred on Thursday, when a total rainfall of .67 inches was recorded, which with the approximate two feet of snow in this district, turned the district into a mass of slush, and increased the hazard of automobile driving.

However, the streets of the village are fast becoming passable, as relief workers are being put on the job of cleaning the heavy snow fall from the main street. This is the first time in many years, that the village snow removal gangs have been put into service, being part of the new reeve's program of making relief recipients work.

Young Man Attacks Two Women

Degenerate Believed To Have Attacked Both Young Women

Two young women were attacked by a young degenerate within two hours of each other early Saturday night, the attacks being both committed on Park street.

Shortly before 6 o'clock, a young woman teacher was walking along Park street near the Clancy dairy when a young man approached from the opposite direction and as he passed grabbed her with one hand by the side and continued on his way for a short distance and then as the young woman moved off in the direction of her home turned and followed her for some blocks.

The police were notified but the assailant had disappeared before they reached the scene. The impression the young woman had obtained from the occurrence was that the assailant who was described as a youth in years, had tried to jab her with a hypodermic needle and then had followed to watch the effect.

Second Alarm

Between 7 and 8 o'clock there was a second alarm and this time the assault was more serious. A young woman walking along the west side of Park street in front of the C.G.E. plant suddenly found herself seized by a man who tried to disarrange her clothing and then attempted to throw her to the ground. She prevented this attempt by seizing the C.G.E. fence and then screaming loudly so that help arrived from the C.G.E. gatehouse and the assailant, seeing rescuers on the way, fled. The description given of the attacker tallied closely with that given by the young woman who had figured in the earlier assault.

To Start Work Buckhorn Road

It was announced this afternoon by A. L. Elliott, M.P.P., for Peterborough county that work would start immediately on the Buckhorn-Bobcaygeon road. Some weeks ago the Dominion Government set aside money to be used in building roads to provide employment during the winter. A like amount was set aside by the province of Ontario. Application was made to have some of the money spent on the Buckhorn-Bobcaygeon road. The application was passed by the provincial authorities onto the Dominion and word was received today that it had been approved and work would commence immediately.

Toronto Shop Held Up Second Time Within a Month

Toronto, Jan. 9 (CP)

A GUNMAN today held up Miss Marjorie Lester in an Ellis hosiery shop on Yonge street and walked out with $10 in cash.

"This is what you'll get," is what Miss Lester said the man told her as he pulled a gun out of his coat.

The hold-up was one of a series in which shops of this particular chain have been robbed.

The same store was held up by an armed robber on Dec. 19 when $20 in cash was taken.

U.S. Bars Planes And Bombs To Japanese

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(AP).—The United States was disclosed today to have blacklisted Japan from further purchase of either airplanes or bombs in America because of Japan's army bombings of civilian populations in China.

The ban, which went into effect last July 1, did not prevent Japan from buying $9,000,000 worth of American goods earlier in 1938.

All countries whose armed forces bomb civilians are included in the ban, but thus far Japan and Spain are the only two countries found engaged in such practices. Spain is prevented from purchasing any munitions in the United States by a special embargo act passed in 1937.

This information was contained in the annual report of the National Munitions Control Board submitted to the United States' Senate today. State Secretary Cordell Hull is chairman of the Board.

One shipment of 40 airplanes, however, reached the Barcelona government by a tran-shipment through Canada and France. This now is under investigation by the Justice Department.

The planes are assembled from parts for which licenses had been obtained by the Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corporation and Brewster Aeronautical Corporation for export to the Canadian Car and Foundry Company of Fort William, Ont.

After reaching Canada export licenses were obtained to ship these planes to Turkey for the Turkish government. An inquiry disclosed Turkey had not ordered the planes.

"It later developed that documents submitted were forgeries and that the persons responsible for them were either agents of, or acting on behalf of agents of, the Spanish government," the Board reported.

Czech-Hungarian Tension Still High

BUDAPEST, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Hungary delayed the return of its minister to Prague today in a strong hint that recent border clashes of armed forces had endangered diplomatic relations with Czecho-Slovakia.

The minister, Johann Wettstein von Westerhain, is in Budapest. He explained he will stay here until relations between the two countries are "clarified."

The border was quiet this morning, but Hungarian press printed a foreign office statement that another incident would have far-reaching consequences.

Both countries were reported to be quietly expelling citizens of the other. The Hungarian Revisionist League, meanwhile, charged that "German influences" encouraged last week's trouble on the frontier, which brought light artillery into play and resulted in new troop concentrations.

Hungary strengthened her forces near Munkacs, which was shelled Friday, and Ungvar, 25 miles northeast. Both were formerly in Czecho-Slovak territory.

Fresh fighting broke out for a time yesterday. Czecho - Slovak troops were declared to have bombarded the Hungarian village of Nagygejoce, near Nngvar, with incendiary shells. No loss of life was reported.

City Council Holds Its Inaugural

Only Two Changes Made In Heads Of Civic Committees

Goodwill, good wishes and a prayer fod God's guidance accompanied the city council at its inaugural meeting this morning as it set out upon the administration of Peterborough's municipal affairs for 1939 with the membership of last years unchanged by the aldermanic elections.

The council itself provided an auspicious atmosphere of goodwill. Rev. M. C. Parr of George Street United church expressed the good wishes of the ratepayers, and Adjutant Neil Warrander invoked the Divine blessing on the efforts and works of the new council.

In his address Mayor Hamilton intimated that a further reduction might be effected in the tax rate this year if the council receives the co-operation in economy of the city's other spending bodies. Only two changes were made in the committee chairmanships, Alderman McIntyre heading the Fire, Water and Light Committee in the place of Alderman Juby who had not recovered sufficiently to attend today's organization meeting, and Alderman Bradburn becoming chairman of the Legal Committee, succeeding Alderman Gordon who proposed the change, promising to give the younger alderman every assistance in continuing the broader scope of work the committee undertook last year.

Standing Committees

The committees and their chair men for the new year were appointed as follows:

Board of Works—Alderman Wilson, chairman, with all the other members of the council.

Fire Water and Light—Alderman McIntyre, chairman, with Aldermen Cotton, Juby, Wilson, Glover and McCannan.

Manufacturers—Alderman Glover, chairman, and Aldermen Wilson, Juby, McCannan and Bradburn.

Property—Alderman McCannan, chairman, and Aldermen Stocker, Wilson, Bradburn and Dutton.

Legal—Alderman Bradburn, chairman, and Aldermen Gordon, Dutton, Cotton, McIntyre and Stocker.

Parks—Alderman Stocker, chairman, and Aldermen Cotton, Juby, Gordon, Dutton and McIntyre.

Relief—Alderman Dutton, chairman, and all the other members of the council.

Board of Health. — Aldemen Stocker, McCannan and Dutton

At the banquet tendered in honor of Col. George A. 58 Of 100 Motorists Out Late, Been Inbibing Surprise Breath Tests Reveal

MINEOLA, N.Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Surprise breath tests—made with toy balloons—showed that 58 out of 100 late night and early morning motorists here had been drinking.

None was drunk but 35 had consumed enough alcoholic beverage to be described by officials as a potential menace behind the wheel.

Tests were made by state police co-operating with Nassau county authorities.

All but one—a woman—of 101 motorists agreed to give police samples of their breath by blowing up a toy balloon.

Using a method perfected by Dr. Rollo Harger of the Indiana University Medical School, experimenters passed the air in each of the balloons through a solution of potassium permanganate and sulphuric acid. Color changes—from pink to yellow—registered the presence and approximate quantity of alcohol.

Boy Friend Sends For Welsh Lass After 11 Years' Correspondence

MONTREAL, Jan. 9 — (CP). — Eleven years' steady correspondence with the man who had been her "boy friend" for three years before he left Wales in 1927 with his parents to settle on an Alberta farm, brought Miss Sarah Tomlinson, 31, to Montreal today from her native Wales to marry Joseph Jones, 33, of Viking district, Alta.

There will be no immediate wedding, said Mis Tomlinson, who added they would wait two or three months until she found whether she would like living on a Western Canada farm. "It is better to find that out first than be heart-broken afterwards," she said.

But Miss Tomlinson expects to like Canada. She has found Canadians "so kind" to her and on the liner Antonia which brought her to Canada she met several English-born residents of Canada who had no desire to return to their native land again.

Already Miss Tomlinson doesn't want to return to Britain if it means such a rough crossing as she had coming from Glasgow. "It was terrible," she said. "Chairs would go out from under you, tables slide away, and everything seemed to be upside down. During one day and night I thought I'd never see land again. I thought I'd never be able to go through another day and night like that.

Miss Tomlinson might have accompanied the Jones family to Canada in 1927 except that her mother was ill. "I met Joseph when I was 17 and he was my boy friend for three years until he left with his family to come out here," she said.

"I could no have come out with them then. I wouldn't leave my mother. She died a year later. Joseph and I have corresponded ever since he left and he was going to send for me sooner, but the crops sometimes didn't turn out well.

Conant Upholds Appeals To Privy Council

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (CP).—Appeals to the Privy Council should be maintained in some measure at least, Hon. Gordon Conant, Ontario Attorney-General, said today in a statement at Osgoode Hall on the occasion of Chief Justice Robertson and Mr. Justice McTague ascending the Appeal Court bench.

In the first formal declaration of the Ontario Government on this contentious issue, Mr. Conant said that he might have been moved to some extent by sentiment but nevertheless he declared his firm conviction that there was a distinct advantage to continuing the right of Canadians to appeal to the highest court of the Empire.

Mr. Conant's statement also included an intimation that he is considering the appointment of a "committee on law revision" similar to that appointed by the Lord High Chancellor in Britain but composed in the case of Ontario, only of members of the judiciary.

As the Attorney-General discussed the question of appeals to the Privy Council he said:

"On the broad basis of our status as a nation within the Empire, I feel that appeals to the Privy Council should be maintained to some extent at any rate. The statute of Westminster made us an autonomous nation within the British Commonwealth of Nations. We have severed so many of the ties that today our connection is reduced almost entirely to silken strands of sentiment.

$2,000 Reward Is Offered By Toronto, Ontario For Bookie's Murderer

Police Get First Clue In Recovery Of Fast Car Stolen Near Scene Of Crime Deny Detroit Gunmen Involved In Deal

TORONTO, Jan. 9 (CP).—Police today intensified their search for the four slayers of Jimmy Windsor, leader of a Toronto book-making ring, when the recovery of a car stolen only a few blocks from where the slaying occurred, gave them what is thought to be their first tangible clue.

The auto, a powerful sedan, was stolen in Cedarvale. It was recovered on Osler Avenue, York Township, early today. The license plates had been removed. Oliver Borland, police fingerprint expert, was dispatched to the scene, but officials have refused to divulge whether or not his search for prints was successful.

Yesterday police were informed that four men had been seen in the vicinity of Windsor's home at 247 Briar Hill Avenue on Saturday night in a car.

Police are holding in custody two men who were brought into headquarters over the weekend during one of the most complete round-ups in criminal haunts ever carried out by the local department. The men, charged as vagrants, are held for questioning in connection with the shooting. A third man, one of Toronto's best known professional boxers, was released last night after having been under surveillance for more than 24 hours.

Despite strenuous objections by their counsel, W. B. Horkins, Magistrate Prentice refused to grant bail to Frank Pallante, alias "Dago" Kelly, and Albert V. Adams, alias "Patsy" Adams, when they appeared in early court on vagrancy charges. They were picked up by police Saturday night and questioned.

Both were charged with vagrancy under different sections.

Pallante was collarless and appeared sleepy when his name was called. Adams was dressed neatly.

Inspector Nat Guthrie, acting for the Crown, said he would ask that no bail be allowed.

Deny Detroit Mob Involved.

Chief Inspector Chisholm to-day said: "There is nothing in the story that Detroit gunmen had anything to do with the Windsor murder."

A man with decayed teeth was sought as the slayer of Windsor as a police search for the murderer was spurred by announcement of rewards totalling $2,000.

Witnesses to the shooting of the 46-year-old barbeque dance hall proprietor reported to authorities that the man, who fired a .45-calibre revolver bullet into the body of the victim had bad teeth. They said the man was seen in Windsor's place of business a week ago.

Attorney-General G. D. Conant announced the Ontario government has posted a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer. The Toronto Police Commission posted $500 and the City of Toronto a similar amount.

Police here, who have probed into one murder in each of the last three years, faced perhaps their hardest assignment in the killing of the 46-year-old Windsor, a man with few known enemies. Windsor visited Saturday at the North Yonge Street barbecue stand he bought recently for his son, Jack, and apparently feared nothing then.

That night supper was just ending in the kitchen of his Briar Hill Avenue home when someone knocked on the door. Windsor's sister-in-law, Mrs. John McDermott, answered and admitted a sallow-complexioned man with decayed teeth who asked: "Is Jimmy Windsor in?"

Leader Carries Gun.

"He's in the kitchen," she replied, and as the stranger entered, followed by three companions, Mrs. McDermott noticed for the first time that he carried a big revolver. Windsor was sitting at the table and gave no sign of recognition, according to relatives with him.

"Come out to the car, Jimmy, we want to talk to you," the leader ordered.

"All right," Windsor agreed. "You don't have to get tough about it."

Oil Blast Is Fatal To Mother Two Children

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—(CP).—Authorities probed to-day Ontario's first slaying of 1939 as the province counted a week-end toll of nine violent deaths, including those of a mother and her two children in a fire that razed their home.

The murder was that of James Windsor, 46-year-old barbeque-stand owner, slain in cold blood by one of four men Saturday night in his Toronto home. The men walked into Windsor's home and shot and killed him as he rose from the dinner table. His body was stripped of cash and about $3,000 worth of jewellery.

A fire in a farm home at Strathroy claimed the lives of Mrs. Ila Paulson and her small daughters, five-year-old Carmel and Shirtly, three. They died in hospital Saturday after the fire, believed to have started when Mrs. Paulson poured oil on the kitchen stove, razed the dwelling.

Mrs. Paulson ran, screaming from the house, and a neighbor, Arnold Linton, extinguished her flaming garments. He dashed into the flaming building and carried out the two children, suffering terrible burns. All three were rushed to hospital and the children died a little while before their mother. The funeral is being held to-day.

2 Die in Truck.

George MacDonald, 20, and Wesley Tennant, 21, of Chalk River, were killed Sunday when their truck skidded on an icy bridge in Pembroke, crashed through an iron railing and plunged 23 feet to the ice of Muskrat river. Loses His Tail

MITCHELL, Ont., Jan. 9—(CP).—Mickey, Mill Heath's dog, can wag only two inches of his once fine 11-inch tail now. The dog, frightened by an approaching train, huddled beside the tracks, its tail lying over the rails. The train ran over the tail.

Last Minute News Flashes

LINDSAY.—Bruce McNevin, Liberal member of Parliament for Victoria and Haliburton, said today the Dominion Arsenal here would reopen March 31. Work would be started in the foundry and rolling mill. Work on preparing the plant for production was started several months ago. It had been closed since the Great War.

TORONTO.—Political circles here forecast today that Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, would contest Simcoe East. A meeting of Simcoe East Conservative Association executives was scheduled for this afternoon at Midland. It was reported the sitting member, William L. Finlayson, former Minister of Lands and Forests in the Henry government, would resign.

"Text Of Mayor Hamilton's Inaugural Address To City Council

Gentlemen:—

The citizens of Peterborough have expressed their confidence in this Council by returning us to our seats in this chamber. I am confident for my part that the trust so shown by the electors will be fulfilled by each member of this council giving of his best efforts to assure a successful administration to the city's affairs.

Last year I stated that if sincerity of purpose were to be the measurement then I knew that this council would be successful. After working a year with you I know this to be emphatically true today. You men are serving your city as aldermen at some considerable sacrifice. Some of you offered your services, having become appreciative of the work and time involved, only after a good deal of thought. I appreciate your desire to be of service to your city and to make your contribution to aid its progress.

Do His Best.

I am deeply appreciative of the opportunity afforded me to serve a second term as Mayor. I have been a member of this council for more years than I sometimes care to remember. I assure you and the citizens that I will do my best to fulfill the responsibilities of the office.

In welcoming back to the circle the five aldermen re-elected, Aldermen McCannan, Bradburn, McIntyre, Wilson and Dutton, I have a personal pleasure. I must confess I also have a feeling of confidence. Each of you contributed much to last year's council, and I am glad that you are back to assist us this year. One of you in a particularly difficult role has done such service that only those close to the problem can fully appreciate it.

There is no need for me to advise you of your duties. However, I must point out that we as a council enter upon our duties this year with greater problems facing us then a year ago. These problems concern themselves chiefly with unemployment relief. The number of unemployed has increased, the cost has mounted, and the whole problem has taken on many ramifications.

As Mayor I am appealing at this time for the co-operation of every thoughtful citizen in meeting this problem. A large measure of co-operation can be given by seeing to it that persons who are not properly residents of Peterborough do not become charges upon our relief rolls. It has been stated that 50 per cent of those now on relief in our city have moved here in recent years, and I believe this is true. All larger centres are faced with this problem of families who have given up the struggle in rural sections and the villages moving in, many with the intention of securing relief in the near future. Some changes have been made in relief regulations to prevent this, but methods have been adopted to circumvent them. Let us not be infringed upon in this way. With the co-operation of every citizen we can prevent it.

Increased Unemployment.

Unfortunately last year one of our industrial plants was closed down and this increased unemployment. May I assure the citizens that your council did everything possible to have this plant continue in operation.

I hope this year that industrial activity here will improve, and that our efforts to secure new industries will be successful. We will not stint our work in this direction, and also to maintain co-operative relations with our existing industries.

I believe that despite the increased relief costs that a further reduction in our tax rate can be made this year. To accomplish this will require the co-operation of other spending bodies, since your council only controls the expenditure of one-third of the taxes, and a large percentage of this third is directed to fixed charges. I believe we will have the continued co-operation of these other bodies.

Already the machinery has been set in motion in order that our tax rate may be struck earlier. This will not only make for smoother office efficiency in the City Hall, but will also permit us to advance the dates of tax payments which means a saving in interest charges to the city. This saving will be passed on directly to the taxpayers.

Build Foot-bridge.

This council is pledged to construct a foot-bridge over the London street dam. The co-operation of the Quaker Oats Co. to this project has been assured, and as soon as weather permits the foot-bridge will be built.

Last year the council began the work of improving Ashburnham Memorial Park, which is on Armour's Hill. I hope that this work will be continued this year, and the second roadway to the top of the hill built.

For some time this council has been conferring with Dominion officials at Ottawa regarding a permanent road surface for the road just east of the Canal running south of the Liftlocks. This road has been repaired from time to time by the Board of Works but is in poor condition. I hope that suitable arrangements with Ottawa will be made this year in order that this work of permanently re-surfacing this road may be done with the Dominion Government bearing its share of the cost.

Last year equipment was purchased which improved our methods of re-surfacing roadways and in keeping pavements clean. I am confident that this council will continue its policy of laying more hard-surfaced roads. I believe that the purchase of a small power roller for rolling these surfaces will improve our roads. The purchase of such a roller should be made this year.

There is also the question of the purchase by the city of a small plant for laying asphalt. Some of our main asphalt roads need repair and others from time to time will require it. This repair work can only be done by putting the asphalt down hot. We cannot do this without such a plant. With an asphalt plant we could surface more roads. However, this purchase would mean an expenditure of $5,000, and it must be fully considered.

Need for New Building.

The council with the aid of its local member must continue to impress upon the Dominion Government the need of a new building to house its public services in the city.

The Dominion Government has extended its work of rip-rapping the shore of Little Lake, and more of this work will be done in the spring. This is a permanent improvement in the city. With the plans that the chairman of the Parks Committee has in mind for improving the Crescent street driveway, it should soon prove another beauty spot at small cost, and be a source of enjoyment and pride to our own citizens and another attraction for visitors.

I have touched on only some of the matters which will come before this council for attention during the year. I am confident that working in harmony and in sincerity of purpose, we shall perform our duties to the satisfaction and benefit of all citizens.

'Plate Passing In Reverse' Nets Pastor $477 As 127 Church Members Invest $1 Each

WALTON, N.Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Rev. Grant Robinson today counted a profit of $477 from his 'plate-passing in reverse" experiment and commented "My faith in human nature has been fully justified."

Pastor of the Walton First Methodist Episcopal Church, he had the collection plate passed last Oct. 30 to each member of the congregation and urged each to take a dollar bill, invest it and return it and the profits to the church treasury.

The members took $127 and yesterday they returned this sum plus $477, which Mr. Robinson said, will pay for the winter's coal at the church.

The members employed a varied program in which to invest their dollars. Some made candy and pillow slips, others sauer kraut and cake. Some used the money in their businesses and on their farms.

Coffee Low In Germany, Even Rome Runs Out As Brazil Balks At Barter System

BERLIN, Jan. 9 (CP-Havas)—The German press admitted today for the first time that there is a serious coffee shortage in the Reich.

The Berliner Zeitungam Mittag said coffee consumption had increased 50 per cent since 1933 "because of the extension of the purchasing power of the German masses."

The paper said exchange difficulties with Brazil were the chief cause of the shortage.

"We wish to increase our orders if the producing countries allow us to pay for their deliveries in German goods," the paper said. "It is hoped to overcome present difficulties rapidly and increase imports so as to eliminate need for restrictions."

ROME, Jan. 9 (CP-Havas)—A survey of Rome stores today disclosed an acute shortage of coffee. A recent government order restricted sales to a maximum of 500 grams (about 18 ounces) to each purchaser but today there was practically none available.

DucePrepares To Grab His 'Reward'

Experts See Failure For Chamberlain In His Rome Visit

ROME, Jan. 9 — (AP).—Premier Mussolini has called a meeting of the Fascist Grand Council, the highest Italian executive body, for February 4, possibly to study Italy's future course of action.

Fascist leaders by that time will have been able to judge the attitude of Prime Minister Chamberlain, scheduled to arrive in Rome in two days, toward Italian territorial claims aaginst France and the insurgent campaign in Spain, augmented by Italian fighters.

They also will be able to assess how far Count Galeazzo Ciano, the Italian Foreign Minister, in talks with Hungarian and Yugoslav and Polish statesmen, has been able to re-assert Italian influence in the Danube Basin to offset German trade efforts in South-eastern Europe.

Many observers felt Italy is attempting to strengthen her position in Central and Eastern Europe to impress Chancellor Hitler with the need to achieve some outstanding success as compensation for fulfilling a role as a partner of the Rome-Berlin axis at the four-power conference on Czechoslovakia's fate in Munich on September 29.

Italy, some observers said, might be willing that this "reward" be located in the Mediterranean area and would like to grasp it soon.

Uncertain Mission.

LONDON, Jan. 9 — (AP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain leaves for Rome to-morrow for what many believe will be his final effort to push through his policy of appeasing the dictatorships.

The outlook is anything but bright as the Prime Minister confers with his key ministers. The Civil War in Spain, now 2½ years old, is the great obstacle. Although under the Anglo-Italian agreement signed last April and accepted by Parliament on November 2, Italy agreed to withdraw her troops from Spain, her newspapers openly admit Italians are fighting there now for the insurgents.

It will be the first time in history that a British Prime Minister has gone to Rome on a diplomatic mission. Many in Europe believe the trip may mark the most decisive week since Munich, with both dictatorships and democracies anxious for peace, but each at its own price.

Mr. Chamberlain will pass through Paris and halt there long enough for a meeting with Premier Edouard Daladier to give a symbolic demonstration of his sympathy with France against Italian agitation for French territory. Over this agitation the talks in Rome may come a cropper. Italy, backed by Germany, has raised a clamor for concessions.

Car Is Ditched

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 9.—A car driven by a Toronto visitor here, left the road late on Saturday night, went down a steep embankment near the Cobourg Road corner, and came to rest against a telephone pole. The driver of the car alleged he was forced to take the ditch when a motorist approaching from the opposite direction was on the wrong side of the road. No damage was done to car or driver.

Martin Is Forced On Defensive

DETROIT, Jan. 9—(AP). — The youthful but militant president of the United Automobile Workers appeared to be on the defensive today as one of his adversaries called the big union's international executive board into session.

The latest development was, in part, an echo of last year's row over charges and counter-charges of Communism, and an informed source predicted the U.A.W. was on the verge of a final showdown in the spasmodic internal friction.

George Addes, secretary-treasurer, said he had polled the 24 board members and received 18 affirmative and no negative votes on reconvening the board this week.

"The board," Addes said, "will deal with the Ford negotiations, which President Martin has kept a complete secret from the board, and such other matters as may be brought before it."

The other matters, another informant said, will included questioning Martin on his suspension of the officers of Plymouth Local 51 Saturday night.

The secretary-treasurer was one of five international officers suspended last year and subsequently reinstated when the Congress of Industrial Organizations intervened. The five were leaders of the anti-Martin faction.

TORONTO CHEESE

TORONTO, Jan. 9 — (CP). — Wholesale cheese prices were steady to-day with dealers buying large, colored, paraffined and government grades at 11 cents.

Wholesalers offered cheese to retailers at the following unchanged prices: New, large, 13c; twins, 13¼c; triplets, 13½c. Old, large, 21c; medium, 20c.

Freed, Mooney To Organize All Laborers

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9 — (A. P.)—Fifty-six-year-old Tom Mooney a free man after 22 years in prison, vowed to-day to spend the rest of his life in a campaign for labor unity and a drive to organize "every man, woman and child who works for a living."

"There is only one thing in this country that stands between the people and slavery," said Mooney. "That is a militant, aggressive labor movement."

Crowds that labor leaders estimated at more than 100,000 cheered Mooney when he reached San Francisco yesterday from Sacramento, where he was given an unconditional pardon on Saturday by Governor Culbert Olson, Liberal Democrat.

The Governor, suffering from nervous exhaustion, was sent to hospital after pardoning Mooney.

Mooney, flanked by labor leaders of the American Federation of Labor, the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and the Railroad Brotherhoods, spoke yesterday to massed thousands in the San Francisco Civic Plaza. He told in detail the story of his fight to freedom after being convicted with Warren Billings of participating in the bombing of a 1916 San Francisco preparedness day parade in which 10 persons were killed and 40 wounded.

Mooney said he and Billings were framed because they were labor agitators.

Wants Billings Freed.

A campaign to obtain a pardon for Billings was announced by Mooney, who visited Billings at Folsom Prison on Saturday. Billings is ineligible to ask for a pardon from the Governor without the concurrence of the California Supreme Court because he had a prior conviction before he was accused of the bombing.

Mooney, who spent much time reading and studying while he was in prison, alluded several times to Fascism.

"Life in San Quentin to-day is actually more comfortable than the average man has in Germany and Italy," he said.

Faint boos came from the edge of the crowd.

"We must not forget that the trade union was the first thing that was liquidated in Germany," said Mooney, "then the Jews; and after that it will be the Catholics and Protestants; and then the international gangsters, the John Dillingers and Al Capones will start fighting among themselves.

"My friends, do not think that picture is 3,000 or 7,000 miles away from you—the reactionary faction in California have a tremendous control."

Thieves Are Busy

HASTINGS, Jan. 9. — Two instances of petty thieving were reported to police here over the week-end. Bond's service station pumps were broken into and relieved of eight gallons of gasoline. A lock was removed from a car shed used by Milton Beavis, but apparently nothing was taken.

Fine Home Life Talk Given Trent Y.P.L.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 9 — The young people's meeting was held Friday night and owing to the absence of the president, Miss Alice Hay cupplied. Mrs. Kinnaird of Havelock led in prayer.

Responsive reading was taken from Psalm 23. The secretary, Rena Chaplin read a letter from the secretary of the Norwood Young People's society with an invitation for Trent River society for Monday night to meet the members of the presbytery executive. No discussion was made as to the acceptance.

Miss Florence Shearer took charge of the program and after singing an opening hymn called upon Mrs. Kinaird of Havelock to give an address. Mrs. Kinaird chose as her subject, "Home Life and Education" with a special appeal to the boys and girls. Mrs. Kinaird has conducted gospel meetings for fifty years and her earnest appeals are listened to with deep interest. The mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

Mrs. Robert Carnite was called to Toronto to see her husband, who is ill. Her son Don arrived home Friday night an dacocmpanied his mother to the city Saturday morning.

The hockey game with Havelock was cancelled Friday night owing to weather conditions but is called for Tuesday night.

County Takes Over New Douro Stretch

COTTESLOE, Jan. 9.—While in Toronto recently on county business, E. N. McDonald interviewed officials of the department of municipal roads and was given assurance that the road from McFee's Corners, westerly to the Third Concession of Douro, has been assumed as a county road.

This road will be convenient for a great many people in this district and on the east side of Douro.

JEWS MOVE TO SMALL HOMES

Many Jewish families in Italy are forced to move into smaller quarters because of the prohibition against employing Aryan servants.

Loyalists Win In West, Rebels In East

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 9 — (A. P.) — Communiques from the Spanish armies to-day reported victory for the insurgents in the east and for government forces in the west.

Troops under General Jose Miaja, said the government despatch, smashed through General Franco's insurgent lines on the south-western front, moving toward the Portuguese border and taking Granja de Torrehermosa.

The insurgents reported their war machine rumbling eastward toward Barcelona captured a series of small villages in the Artesa sector, bringing two competing columns together for a new drive on the Catalan capital.

Each communique minimized claims of the other.

The Barcelona communique, however, acknowledged heavy fighting was in progress east of Balaguer.

The insurgents hailed as a major field operation the junction of two columns operating in the northern and southern sectors of the Catalan battlefield.

Military observers at the border declared closing of the front lines at Bellvis, between Lerida and Balaguer, meant the insurgent offensive was pointing toward Barcelona and Tarragona on the coast—78 to 80 miles away.

During the eastern fighting, government forces were pushing toward Portugal in the Penarroya mining zone with the intention of splitting insurgent Spain in the same way the insurgents have divided government terrtiory—the Catalan segment and the Valencia-Madrid sector—by driving through to the Mediterranean.

Both sides claimed to have inflicted heavy losses during Sunday fighting.

Certain Cases.

"Whether the right of appeal is continued in all respects as at present or not and with greatest respect for this and all other Canadian courts, I incline to the view that in matters and cases involving constitutional questions, particularly in issues between the Dominion and a province or between provinces, the right of appeal to the Privy-Council should be continued.

"Perhaps I am partly influenced by sentiment in this view, but there is in addition, in my humble opinion, a very distinct advantage in having such matters finally adjudicated by a tribunal entirely detached and removed from local considerations and loca latmosphere."

In his observations with respect to the appointment of a law revision committee, Mr. Conant said that "there must never be any interference with the courts from any source whatsoever, nor should the judiciary ever endeavor to impose its will upon the legislature or the executive.

A Valuable Service.

"But," Mr. Conant said, "I believe the judiciary could with perfect propriety, perform a very valuable service in assisting in law revision."

The committee established in England in 1934, ws chosen by the Lord Chancellor from among eminent members of the judiciary and of the bar "to consider how far, having regard to the statute law and to judicial decisions, such legal maxims and doctrines as the Lord Chancellor may from time to time refer to the committee require revision in modern conditions."

"It will be observed that it does not consider what might be termed controversial matters which, obviously, must at all times be the function of the government and of the legislature," Mr. Conant continued.

"From my experience at the bar and in my present office I am inclined to think that such a committee in this province might perform a very valuable service, but I am also of the opinion that, for the present at any rate, it would be necessary to constitute it entirely from the judiciary, for substantial reasons.

"I hope that this suggestion, or possibility may receive the sympathetic consideration of the Ontario judiciary and that if, in due course, such a committee is formed the members of the judiciary appointed to act on it from time to time will give to the work of the committee the necessary attention to the attorney general constructive suggestions resulting from mature study and deliberation."

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Top grade egg prices eased more than five cents a dozen on open produce markets here last week, according to Dominion Department of Agriculture reports. Butter, cheese and potatoes held steady.

Creamery butter prints to retailers were 23½ to 24 cents a pound and solids 23 to 23½ cents. Western butter delivered in Montreal was offered at 23 cents for regraded. Quebec No. 1 pasteurized regraded was 23c. Receipts: 1,911 boxes.

Ontario white and colored cheese sold for 12c a pound. Receipts, 472 boxes.

Graded egg shipments in used free cases were offered at 26c a dozen for A-large, 25c for A-medium, 24c for A-pullets, 23c for B-large and B-medium, and 11c for C. Receipts, 4,718 cases.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Jan. 9 — (C.P.). — Reports of week-end rains in the United States Winter wheat belt gave futures an easier tone on Winnipeg Wheat Market to-day. Closing quotations were ¼ to ½ cent lower, with May at 62¼, July 62⅝ and October 62⅞ cents.

Trading was dull throughout, with only a small mill demand in evidence. Export business in Canadian wheat was less than 100,000 bushels.

The moisture reports from the United States Winter wheat belt also had a depressing effect on Liverpool values, and they closed ¾d lower to unchanged. Rain advices from India helped the slipping English market.

Saturday's Quotations.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Jan. 9 — (CP). — Cattle trade was dull on Toronto Livestock Market to-day, and the price trend was unsettled by early afternoon. Calves, sheep and lambs traded around former price levels. No hog price was set by mid-session.

Receipts reported by Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 4,400; calves, 420; hogs, 1,980; sheep and lambs, 1,320.

Bids were generally lower on all grades of cattle. Early sales on cows and bulls were steady, good cows brought $4.50 to $5. Good bulls were strong at $5 to $5.25, with bolognas at $4.25 to $4.85. A few lots of butcher steers and heifers moved at $5 to $6.50. There were no sales on weighty steers.

Fed calves ranged from $6.50 to $9.50. A few lots of light stockers made $5 to $5.50.

Choice veal calves were priced at $9 to $9.50, with a few tops at $10. Common light calves ranged down to $6, with grassers at $4.50.

Previous close on off-truck bacon hogs was $9.50. Indications were the market would close lower.

A few Ontario lambs sold at $9, but most offerings were from the West and were not sold by early afternoon. Sheep ranged from $2 to $5 cwt.

MORE ABOUT—

U.S. Bars Planes

One Plant Refuses.

After his condemnation of governments whose armies bomb civilian populations, Secretary Hull last year asked all United States' manufacturers and exporters of airplanes to cooperate in preventing American aircraft or aerial munitions from being sold to those countries.

The Board reported that all manufacturers "with only one outstanding exception" had conformed to this policy and that the flow of planes and munitions to such countries had virtually ceased. The lone exception was not named.

The report disclosed that the sale of American munitions abroad more than doubled in 1938, amounting to $94,209,532.23, compared with $45,076,316 in 1937. Military or commercial aircraft represented more than half the total.

Okura and Company, and Mutsui and Company, both Japanese firms, bought more than $6,000,000 worth of military aircraft and airplane parts.

The Board operates under provisions of the United States' Neutrality Act which requires all exporters of munitions to obtain licenses from the State Department for everything sold abroad.

It reported no American arms had reached insurgent Spain since the embargo went into effect, and that it had frustrated numerous attempts to ship arms to government forces in Spain through third countries.

The leading countries purchasing armament and munitions in the United States last year, with the amount of their purchases, follow:

Great Britain, $29,611,797; Netherlands Indies $10,053,357; Japan $9,241,262; China $9,180,800; Argentina, $7,219,883; France, $6,446,849; and Canada, $3,171,559.

$50,000,000

Canadian National Railway Company Bonds

Guaranteed unconditionally by the Government of the Dominion of Canada

as to both Principal and Interest

The Bank of Canada is authorized by the Minister of Finance to receive, on behalf of the Canadian National Railway Company, subscriptions for the following bonds:

Seven-Year 2¼% Bonds, due January 15, 1946

Issue Price: 99.00% and accrued interest, yielding approximately 2.40% to maturity

AND

Twenty-Year 3% Bonds, due January 15, 1959

Callable on or after January 15, 1954

Issue Price: 97.25% and accrued interest, yielding approximately 3.19% to maturity.

These Bonds will be dated and bear interest from January 15, 1939. Principal and interest will be payable in lawful money of Canada. The Bonds will be a direct obligation of the Canadian National Railway Company, the capital stock of which is owned by the Dominion of Canada. Payment of principal and interest on these bonds will, under authority of the Parliament of Canada, be guaranteed unconditionally by the Government of the Dominion of Canada. A copy of the guarantee will be endorsed on each bond.

The proceeds of this issue will be used to the extent of $40,600,000 for the repayment of temporary loans obtained by the Company from the Government, in the amount of $32,400,000 for the redemption of funded debt, $5,000,000 for capital expenditures and $3,200,000 for acquisition of the Capital Stock of Trans-Canada Air Lines. The remainder of the proceeds will be applied to the retirement of funded debt maturing in the near future.

Payment is to be made in full, with accrued interest, against delivery of interim certificates on or about January 18, 1939.

Denominations of Bearer Bonds: 2¼% Bonds, $1,000; 3% Bonds, $500 and $1,000

Bonds in registered form will be supplied, if desired, in the denominations described in the official prospectus.

Subscriptions may be made to the Head Office of the Bank of Canada, Ottawa, through any branch in Canada of any chartered bank or through any authorized dealer, from whom copies of the official prospectus containing complete details of the issue may be obtained. The Minister of Finance reserves the right to allot subscriptions in full or in part.

The subscription lists will open at nine a.m. Eastern Standard Time on January 11, 1939, and will close as to either maturity or both, with or without notice, at the discretion of the Minister of Finance.

OTTAWA, January 9, 1939.

We Noticed

. . . There are lots of interesting little "fashion tricks" in accessories, and the addition of costume jewelry, a colorful flower or scarf will often provide the necessary touch of pep and personality In the following paragraphs are a few bright suggestions gleaned from the style news of the month.

✧ ✧ ✧

. . . Red camellias are a new feature in flower favors; wide, colorful bracelets are featured with daytime clothes; big, bulky rings are interesting items for day wear; tiny velvet ribbon beauty bands are tied tight around the throat; prints with red are being used under black coats.

✧ ✧ ✧

. . . The "contrast coat" will be part of a colorful spring program, low hats out-number high ones in Paris; hipbone jacket costumes are perfect under fur coats; all shades of blue, including Wedgwood, are favorites of Queen Elizabeth; evening sweaters use embroidery, sequins, or metal forms to acquire greater formality.

✧ ✧ ✧

. . . Printed surah is smart in old-fashioned paisley designs; honeycomb dots are very new in prints; crisp sheers allied with taffeta are good for resort evening frocks; twin flowers on your dress to match those on your hat are a new idea; colored gloves match hats, scarfs, bags; housecoats and lounging pyjamas are shown with matching slippers; there is a revival of the fichu and also of the capelet.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Riley of Cleveland, Ohio, who have been guests since Christmas of Mr. Riley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Riley, 287 Stewart Street, returned to their home on Saturday. Miss Jerry Riley, accompanied by her friend, Miss Marion Storey of Toronto, returned with her brother, and will spend a short time as his guest in Cleveland.

Ladies' Aid Supper Meeting Opens New Year

Taking the form of a supper meeting, and with about fifty members present, the opening meeting for this year of St. Paul's Ladies' Aid was held Friday afternoon at six o'clock in the Sunday School Hall. A very enjoyable supper was served by a number of Muriel Davis Guild girls. Miss L. Eakins and Mrs. W. Steinkrauss were conveners.

The business meeting was opened with a Scripture reading by Mrs. M. Chenhall, a hymn, and prayer by Miss E. Walker. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Lyburn, the secretary's report by Mrs. D. S. Clarke. A very satisfactory report was presented by Mrs. R. Ross, who convened the sending of about forty-five baskets for Christmas cheer.

Mrs. W. B. Gordon of Brock Street kindly offered her home for a tea to be held during the third week of this month. The rearranging of groups was left in the hands of a committee convened by Mrs. W. Steinkrauss.

Copp—Graham

The marriage took place in Lindsay at the home of the bride's aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. McKay, on Thursday, December 1, of Miss Ena Marie, only daughter of Mrs. E. Copp and the late Samuel Copp to Leslie Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Graham, with Rev. J. J. Black officiating.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Henry Copp, the bride was becomingly gowned in royal blue chiffon velvet with matching hat. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Miss Amy Graham, sister of the groom, attended the bride, wearing wine crepe with matching hat, and carrying carnations. Mr. Orville Copp, brother of the bride, assisted the groom.

✧ ✧ ✧

Horsley—Shaw

At a quiet wedding ceremony performed at the United church parsonage in Haliburton on New Year's Day, Miss Myrtle Irene Shaw, Donald, became the bride of Oscar Horsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Horsley, of West Guilford. Rev. R. Brown officiated.

The bride was gowned in blue with gold accessories, and was attended by Miss Alice Horsley of West Guilford. Mr. Harry Voicey attended the groom.

Brown—Anderson

CENTREVILLE, Jan. 9 — Miss Kathleen Josephine Anderson eldest daughter of Mr. E. E. Anderson and the late Mrs. Anderson, was united in marriage to Mr. Kyle Brown of Roseneath at the manse, Millbrook, by Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., on Saturday afternoon.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Willan.

The bride looked handsome in a dress of green crepe with matching hat and accessories.

Following the ceremony refreshments were served at the home of the bride's father. Later Mr. and Mrs. Brown left on a wedding trip to Toronto and Clinton, the bride travelling in a rust ensemble.

On their return they will reside at Roseneath and carry with them the best wishes of many friends for happiness on their life's journey.

Parents Should Not Continually Preach About What Models They Were In Their Childhood Days—They Lived Much The Same As Do Children Of Today

ONE of the strangest things in the world is how completely most people forget their own youth and what emotions and desires and thoughts motivated them when they were crossing the dangerous, treacherous 'teen age. Some mysterious power seems not only to wipe out from their minds all memory of the real kind of boy and girl they were, but also to enable them to see themselves transfigured into adolescent saints.

The middle-aged man was never a lazy, loafing lad who dodged every task and whose sole ambition was to have a jalopy with callow witticisms painted all over it. He never loathed study and thought school was something left over from the Inquisition. He was never girl-crazy and hung around some little curly haired nitwit until her mother had to sweep him out of the front door. He was never a rubber stamp who would rather have died than not to have gone without a hat, and worn sloppy socks, and risked pneumonia by going without an overcoat in cold weather, and talked and ate in a strange, uncouth manner just because all the other boys did.

No, indeed. Every middle-aged man will tell you—and he is particularly forcible in telling his chidren about it—that he was always industrious and never had to be reminded twice of his household chores; that he was a model student whose reports were the pride of his parents; that he never wasted his time and his money upon silly little girls; that he was a free and independent soul who always did the sane and sensible thing, uninfluenced by his companions.

And the middle-aged woman has the same idealistic picture of herself as a girl. She was always Mother's little helper who doted on drying the dishes and taking the baby out in his pram. She always felt that Mother knew best and was satisfied with the practical clothes Mother bought for her, instead of weeping for the foolish finery that some other girl had. She preferred to go to the movies with Mother and Father rather than that freckle-faced Jones boy. She would have died before she would have let a boy kiss her. And when she went to parties she always got home by 11 o'clock.

This form of amnesia, which is virtually epidemic among parents and which wipes out all memory of their own youth, is most unfortunate because it prevents them from dealing with sympathy and understanding with their own children. They lack the wisdom that comes out of the memories of common experiences, the patience that comes of having found out that so many things are just phases of development and that will settle themselves if only given time.

It would save fathers and mothers lots of sleepless nights, worrying over what's to become of Ben and Sally, if they could recall that when they were Ben's and Sally's age they danced and kissed and made love and played around and did all of the things they think are so foolish and dangerous for their own children to do, yet they turned out pretty good citizens after all.

It would give the children a grand break if, in some flash of consciousness, Mom and Dad should happen to remember that their parents said exactly the same things to them about not knowing what the young people were coming to with their scandalous goings-on, round dances and all, and not getting home from parties until sometimes 12 o'clock, and girls getting so bold they actually wore bloomers when they rode their bicycles.

But the tragic thing about this inability of parents to remember their own youth is that it makes it impossible for them to help their children at the time when they most need help and guidance. It raises a bar between them that the youngsters cannot surmount. For how can Tom tell a father, who was always wise and strong and a model of conduct even in his youth, about the mess he has got into with some wild youths? How can Sadie tell Mother, who always sat across the room when boys came to see her and talked about Shakespeare and the musical classics, about letting a boy kiss her and how thrilled she was?

But far otherwise would it be if Father and Mother remembered their own youth in dealing with their children and Father could tell Tom how he, too, had stumbled and fallen and how to watch out for the pitfalls, and Mother could talk as girl to girl with Sadie and teach her how to walk discreetly and keep her skirts clean.

We talk about the new youth. There is none. Youth is eternally the same. Only some of us forget what it was like in our day.

Boy Scouts Receive Badges

St. George's Cubs held their first meeting of the New Year with only one absent member. Haymond Titterington passed and received his First Aid badge. This is the second badge of its kind given to a cub in St. George's Pack. Ken Hopkins received his Guide Badge; Adrian Langhorne his Collector's; Bob Siddall passed his Observer's Badge and is now ready for his Guide and Collector's Badge. There will be a Mother's Auxiliary meeting on Thursday, January 12, in St. George's Church, commencing at two-thirty.

Serve Ski-Balls After Long Hike

MONTREAL, Jan. 9.—The problems presented by ski parties are vastly different from those attendant upon the usual type of entertainment. Problem number one is that of appetite.

When a group of healthy adults comes in from a day of strenuous exercise on the hills it is obvious that dainty sandwiches and lady fingers won't go.

Montreal hostesses who entertain at their winter homes in the Laurentions have solved the problem simply—"Ski-Ball" are invaluable for guests just in from the biting winter air.

A favorite recipe for "Ski-Ball" is:

(1) Prepare a sufficient number of (one for each glass) full slices of lemon, about quarter-inch thick, by sticking 12 to 15 whole cloves into each one.

(2) Place a spoonful and a half of sugar in a half-pint glass and drop in the slices of lemon.

(3) Insert a cinnamon stick of sufficient length to be used as a "muddler."

(4) Fill the glass to within three-quarters of an inch of the top with steaming hot black tea which has been steeped at least 5 minutes.

(5) Muddle with cinnamon stick as the tea cools to bring out the flavour of the lemon and spices, and serve immediately.

Note.—The addition of one ounce of Jamaica rum can be made if desired. The tea should be made from water that has ben brought to a furious boil from cold.

Lakefield W.M.S. Re-elect Mrs. Yale

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 9—Mrs. W. W. Yale will again head the Women's Missionary Society of Lakefield United church. She was elected unanimously at the first meeting of the New Year which was held in the parsonage. Owing to stormy weather the attendance was much smaller than usual.

The slate of officers for 1939, as presented by the nominating committee, was accepted by the meeting. The officers elected are: Mrs. F. J. Burgess and Mrs. Alfred Payne, honorary presidents; Mrs. W. W. Yale, president; Mrs. Percy Darling, first vice-president; Mrs. D. H. Charlton, second vice-president; Mrs. (Rev.) G. Kelly, third vice-president; Miss Margaret Sanderson, treasurer; Mrs. (Dr.) G. E. Renwick, recording secretary; Mrs. Stanley Richardson, corresponding secertary; Mrs. W. W. Leonard and Mrs. W. J. Charlton, secretaries of Christian Stewardship; Mrs. Earl Orr and Mrs. James Hendren, associate helpers' secretaries; Miss Milburn and Mrs. C. S. Tanner, peace and temperance secretaries; Mrs. E. J. Millage, missionary monthly secretary; Mrs. E. Milburn, literature secretary; Mrs. J. A. Porter, press secretary; Mrs. J. McKerchar, Mrs. Hopkins, pianists; Mrs. W. W. Leonard, representative to the offical board; Mrs. George Spence, Mrs. (Dr.) C. W. Finnemore and Mrs. G. A. Welbourn, supply secretaries.

With the president in the chair, the annual reports from the different secretaries were read and favorably commented upon, most particularly the treasurer's report, which showed $472 raised during the year with the promise that the allocation of $485 would be reached.

It was decided to again knit blocks 10 inches square from odds and ends of yarn, to be fashioned into a warm quilt for the bale.

Four members of the society were appointed as visitors for January, their task being to call on the sick and others in the congregation during this month. Those appointed were Mesdames H. Kemp. John Hendren, A. Dunford, and Earl Orr.

Fashions

Here's a smart and young schoolgirl plaid woollen dress for mother or daughter. It has a naive Peter Pan collar of velvet and a leather belt. Roomy fullness below the attractively shaped bodice yoke makes your waistline seem ever so tiny.... Allows perfect freedom for casual daytime wear. It's the sort of dress that keeps you looking well-groomed at all times. The cardigan neckline version with short sleeves will be nice for a bright monotone woolen with dashing monogram in a contrasting color that matches the buttons and belt. Other popular and ideal fabrics to consider when you're making your selection are rayon crepe silk, velveteen, crepe silk print, spun rayon, challis print, etc.

Style No. 2880 is designed for sizes 12, 14 16, 18, 20 years, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40-inches bust. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards of 54-inch material with ¼ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Jitterbug Craze Is On Way Out

Just like every new thing that people go in for madly and with a lot of vim and vigour, the jitterbug dance is said to be on the way out. And when it comes down to the fine thing, who cares?

Miss Ernestine Badt, coordinator of social activities for the Chicago public school system, based her opinion on personal observation of adult dancers in Chicago and elsewhere, and on study of the terpsichorean attitude of some 7,500 high school boys and girls attending Friday night dances in 14 schools as part of a socialization program.

"When evening dancing was inaugurated a few months ago there was some demand for jitterbug dancing but now there is none," said Miss Badt." We neither offered nor encouraged the jitterbug. Like the Big Apple, it is merely a fad which catches the public fancy for a time and then dies of its own accord. Then, too, it requires an acrobat to become a successful jitterbug." But then all you have to do is take a gymnastic course and you're all set to become a jitterbug—surely that wouldn't stop anyone.

"We are, however, giving the boys and girls the modified version of the collegiate shag, of which 'jitterbugging' is an offshoot; the 'rhumba;' the 'tango', and other popular dances such as the Mayflower, fox trot, which sounds puritanical, but which in reality is modern. The trend, however, is back to straight fox trots and waltz combinations."

Although these mad skittish dances are a lot of fun and are a source of "loosening up" as it were in crowds which more formal dances are not, not a few of us will be glad that they are on the wane. Most of us have not seen the extremes of the jitterbug lances except on the screen, as in Caanda the craze did not make a great headway.

It's a pretty sight to see a ballroom full of dancers all gracefully waltzing or fox trotting....that is when everyone joins in doing the same step. But these days there is always a couple or two who do something different and spoil the effect... but we suppose it's not the onlooker who's supposed to be enjoying the affair.

But according to Miss Badt the jitterbug craze is apparently going out and as we said before....who cares?

Madoc Oddfellows Honored By Peterboro Lodge

Madoc Oddfellows were honored by the presentation to them of the Travelling Pedestal by Peterborough Lodge No. 111. The Travelling Pedestal was inaugurated on November 3, 1924, by Forest City Lodge No. 38 and presented to Dominion Lodge No. 48. The purpose of the Pedestal is to encourage intervisitation among the lodges and particularly between the districts. Just recently the Pedestal has commenced an eastward march, hitherto circulating in western Ontario where Oddfellows lodges are more numerous. On its arrival in Peterborough the members of that lodge thought that the Madoc Lodge No. 179 were entitled to the honor of receiving it for the efforts that they have made to promote Oddfellowship in the middle eastern part of Ontario.

During its life the Pedestal has visited such places as Strathroy, Aylmer, Port Stanley, St. Thomas, Millbrook, Lindsay, Bowmanville, Port Perry, Beaverton, Huntsville, Orillia, Meaford, Owen Sound, Durham, Walkerton, Teeswater, Goderich, and Peterborough, and many others. The presentation was made by Bro. Percy Edwards, Noble Grand of Peterborough Lodge and was accepted by Bro. Don Whytock, Noble Grand of Madoc Lodge.

In the regular lodge meeting the Peterborough Initiatory Degree team conferred that degree on two candidates. In the banquet hall a fine dinner was served the guests and members, Don Whytock acting as chairman called on Bro. Alex Sage, of Otonabee Lodge No. 13 and District Deputy Grand Master of District 44 and Bro. S. R. Beatty, of Madock Lodge No. 179 and District Deputy Grand Master of District 45. Both of these men gave very interesting addresses. Greetings were also tendered Madoc Lodge by Bro. McDougall of Tweed Lodge 290 and Bro. Thain of Stirling Lodge 239. Among the visitors present were Bro. Alex. Sage, D.D.G.M. 44; Bro. Constable, P.D.G.M. 44; Bro. Percy Edwards, N.G., of Peterborough; Bro. W. Wattress of Oakville Lodge 132; Bro. L. McDougall, S. McCarey, E. Gordon, S. McGhee of Tweed Lodge 239, Bro. B. M. Frederick of Campbellford 248, and Bro. C. D. Wxtitt of Oshawa Lodge 11.

Cannot Evade It

The Dominion government announces a new bond issue of $50,000,000 for the Canadian National Railways in two maturities running 2 1-2 and 3 per cent. interest.

It is officially explained that $40,600,000 is for the repayment of temporary loans secured by the C. N. R. from the government and the remainder will be applied to the retirement of funded debt of the company maturing in the near future.

No doubt these bonds will be sold. There is plenty of money in the country, but the buying will be done because the government is guaranteeing both the principal and interest. If they were put out as C.N.R. bonds without a government guarantee they would drag on the market with no takers.

It will cost something to issue and place $50,000,000 of bonds, but this may be more than offset by a saving of interest, although details of that are not given. But when it is all over we remain where we were. We pay off one set of creditors by creating another.

It is already stated from Ottawa that there is certain to be a debate about the Bren machine gun inquiry when the House opens, and there will be more debating on the recent trade agreement with United States, which is already in effect. It would be much better if the members would address themselves to a candid discussion of what we must do about our railways, and it would be advisable if members were to discard what is known as the fear of the railway vote when they approach the question. That fear, it should be explained, is that if unification were brought to pass it would create such a large vote it could elect or defeat a government. Plain truth is it could do no such thing.

As things stand at the moment, and as they have stood for a good many years, there is enough in the railway situation to defeat the country, and that is a greater menace than the defeat of a government.

The question is there waiting for parliament when it opens in a few days and it has been there before. Borrowing money and guaranteeing loans is not the answer; it is merely a gesture of expediency.

Keep On Looking For It

Peterborough like other places welcomes new residents, but it does not like them coming with the avowed though unspoken intention of finding a place on the city relief list.

That question was rather thoroughly discussed at the last meeting of the Relief Committee. In the last four years there has been paid out $595,272 in relief and the city's share has been $215,874.

Last year there was an increase over 1937 of nearly $30,000. Part of that was due to the lack of employment caused by the closing of the Auburn plant, and a good deal of it was accounted for by people who had moved in here from outside points and who had finally qualified for relief here.

The statement was made that our relief bill would be cut in two if it had not been for people from other places landing in Peterborough within recent years. It is charged they have come here because the relief allowance is higher than in some of the smaller communities. Also there is the tendency on the part of some who work at times for low wages to come to the conclusion that work is not worth while and they are better off on relief.

The point of having outsiders restrained from moving to the city was discussed at length. One is inclined to admit it would be a sound enough plan if such restriction were made, but the trouble comes in making it. We actually have no law in this country which prevents an individual or a family from moving from one place to another and we do not interfere with the freedom of movement. If a family living in Vancouver decided to go and take up residence in Halifax they could cross all the provinces in between and no one would stop them. So there is that broad and general principle of freedom of movement to contend with in trying to keep our relief list from growing by the addition of families from outside the city. It may be and probably is a fact that families have in the same period left Peterborough and gone on relief elsewhere.

If the council members can find a way to put a check on the movement they will have done a good service. Residence rules have not worked well in the past, and the general feeling "they won't let us starve" has had its way a good many times in ignoring all such regulations.

Our city has made a remarkably good record in paying for its share of relief each year out of the current tax rate and for that reason it is justifiably annoying to find people who have no claim on the city for support adding themselves to the number for whom provision has to be made. The city representatives who go to talk this over with officials at Queen's Park in Toronto may be assured of a good hearing. We would be pleased to believe there is some cure for the situation, but at the moment we doubt it. The search for the remedy has been urged by other municipalities for several years and so far it has not been found. But that is no reason for abandoning the search.

Where a Man Stands

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett was guest of honor at a banquet in Central United Church at Calgary at which 450 attended. It was part of the arrangements made for saying farewell to Mr. Bennett before he leaves to reside in England. He went to Calgary in 1897, and Calgary West is the riding he represents at Ottawa. Whether Calgary or Ottawa is more like home to him we do not know, but Calgary has been giving plenty of evidence of regard and kind feeling.

At this church function Mr. Bennett said plainly that after looking over the world as it existed today he could not but feel the church had failed. He did not look forward to the time when there would be mass religion because of acceptance of the message of the church must make its way to the individual mind.

Our former premier referred to himself. His desire had been always to be regarded as a good example to the rising generation. In concluding he used these words:

> "Whatever else you may say I want you to feel that my influence is cast on the side of righteousness.'

And that we consider was a good thing for the man to say. It is not to be classed as boasting but as evidence of moral courage in the saying of it. Mr. Bennett came out openly and declared where he stood and where he wanted people to know that he stood. Good plain speaking on a point which a good many people seem anxious enough to avoid. It is well that he spoke as he did before saying good-bye to his friends.

Rich—But In Trouble

There is a belief held too generally that riches bring happiness, but the proof is not easy to furnish. Edward G. Acheson of New York is a millionaire, and he has a son who is now under arrest charged with stealing from his father. We learn that it was only after a session with officials that the father allowed the charge to stand, and it is not difficult to understand that he might have trouble enough coming to a decision.

The son of 24 has an allowance of $200 a month from his father, but Acheson, Sr., says the boy has been losing money on horse races and has been spending too much entertaining women to suppers and a general good time. He needed more money and stole from his father's safe. Now he is in jail on a charge laid by the father.

No happiness there, and it looks as though the father had something to do with spoiling the son. There was nothing particular he had to do to earn the $200 per month which he received; it was an allowance; it would come at the first of the month whether the recipient turned a hand or not. Securing the money called for no effort, no planning, no use of muscle or brain and the young man of 24 would have not the least idea of what it meant to earn $200.

No — the money in that family is bringing no happiness. It is more like a nightmare to the father and it has put the son on the wrong set of rails.

Those Election Funds

The Canadian Press correspondent at Ottawa says the Liberals at their presession caucus are likely to discuss regulations having to do with raising campaign funds. Previous efforts have never advanced far. They have resembled a ball game where the contest was called off on account of darkness or because the ball was lost. And that is where it stands at the moment.

In a general way the average man does not worry much about the campaign fund. If he manages to secure a position at election time and gets paid for it he does not worry much either where the pay comes from. Time was when men used to be glad enough to do what they could on election day and were not paid for it, but that day has gone. Election work is pretty much on a cash basis now and it means the candidate or his committee has to find the money.

As a rule there is what is called the central fund, and there is also the riding fund, and the next rule is that the riding fund seeks to secure all it can from the central fund.

If people are not interested in election funds they ought to be. They ought to know who is putting up the money and if they knew that they could draw intelligent enough conclusions regarding the reasons for the contributions. They could tell whether the generous donation was for the purpose of upholding a long tradition or was regarded as an investment.

The presence of large election funds has not given us better political contests nor could such a thing happen. In United States if a corporation makes a political contribution it is published in the newspapers, telling the amount and the party to which it has been given, and we can think of no good reason why it should not be done that way.

"Stay Where You Are"

A few months ago it was made known that Germany wanted its skilled mechanics living in other nations to come home. It was stated there was work and bread and wages in the fatherland. Occasion was also taken to state there had been years under former regimes in Germany when it had been necessary for people to leave in order to make a living elsewhere, but that time had passed.

The latest report is that the "come home" appeal has been rubbed out, and the order now is "stay where you are." In sending out this second order Berlin makes no effort to disguise the reason for it. The Germans are to remain in whatever country they may be in order "to keep the German racial front intact in their new homelands," and any alteration or change in that rule will be considered equivalent to desertion.

Very pleasant for Germany if the scheme can be made to work, and very unpleasant for the nations in which plans will be made to cause the scheme to become operative. It cannot be claimed the idea is new because this form of Nazi activity has been in progress for some time. We have seen evidence of it in Canada and United States has spent plenty of money and time investigating precisely the same thing.

The Germany of today is taking much for granted if it expects foreign countries are going to sit back and be quiet while German nationals pledged to the support of the Nazi plan in Germany, go ahead with the business of keeping "the German racial front intact." When we accept German people in this new country we have a right to anticipate they will be with us and not against us. If they are not prepared to accept that basis of citizenship then they have no right to come or remain and we have no right to accept them.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Premier Daladier says he will not sacrifice to maintain peace. Brave words of course, but he would have to sacrifice if peace departed.

For the last quarter of 1938 United States railroads carried fewer passengers and secured less revenue from them. Naturally.
